PENITENTIARY TERM FOR VERNON ROBBERY

Harold Chisholm, of 160 Crawford street, Toronto, was sentenced to three years in Kingston penitentiary by County Magistrate Clayton on Friday last when he appeared for sentence after having previously been found guilty of burglarizing the W. J. Porteous store at Vernon. Goods valued at approximately $500 were stolen.

After considerable work on the part of the county police, Chisholm was located in Toronto and brought back a week ago.

In passing sentence Magistrate Clayton told the accused, "I do not like your record, and you have a lengthy one behind you. I feel that a reformatory term to a man like you would be of little use."

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

At an inquest into the death of Jonah Alguire, section man who was instantly killed a week ago when he was struck by a C. P. R. special passenger train just east of Finch as he and two companions attempted to lift a hand car from the rails, the jury returned a verdict of accidental death. A rider attached to the verdict, however, recommended that in the future four men be available to man hand cars while at work along the tracks.

If you haven't got anything to say, the best plan is not to say it.

Local High School Has Splendid Record

THERE ARE 149 STUDENTS ENROLLED—91 FROM OUT OF TOWN. MANY WHO GRADUATED WILL ATTEND UNIVERSITY

The Winchester High School opened on the Second of September with the same staff in charge as formerly, and with 137 students in attendance. Since that time the attendance has increased to 149 students, and some others are expected. Of these, there are 58 students from the Village and 91 from outside. The percentage of students from the Village is 38.9 and noticeably less than last year. This, of course, means that the amount of money that must be raised by the village for the maintenance of the school will be less than formerly. The large attendance from outside makes it evident that the good name of the school has been well maintained and that the neighbouring communities have confidence in the work that the school is doing. The staff of the school report that there is a greater realization of the value of education among the students and consequently less tendency to avoid classes.

In this year's graduating class there are a number of students who expect to go to University next year. Representatives will be found in the faculties of Engineering, Medicine and Theology. In order to meet the requirements of these students, it has been necessary to increase the list of subjects taught. Greek and Upper School Chemistry are now available as well as the other subjects formerly taught.

There has been a few applications for enrollment in a Commercial course, but, as yet, not sufficient to make it advisable to engage a teacher. If there are any others wishing a Commercial Course they should make application at once to the Principal.

The following is an analysis of the attendance:

	Village	Dundas	Carleton	Others
Form 1	11	27	5	1
Form 2	14	11	4
Form 3	16	12	4	1
Form 4	9	4	3
Form 5	8	9	10
Totals	58	63	29	2

The following is a scale of percentages showing the general results of the departmental examinations written in 1934 and 1935.

	1934	1935
Middle School	85 p. c.	86 p. c.
Upper School	75 p. c.	86 p. c.

The above scale is highly satisfactory to all concerned and requires no explanation.

It is felt that the local High School is entering another splendid year with the students generally entering into the academic work with keen interest.

United Church W. M. S. Entertains St. Paul's

MEMBERS OF MOREWOOD W.M.S ARE ALSO GUESTS AT MEETING HELD LAST THURSDAY

The September meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held in the church on Thursday afternoon and was well attended. After quiet music, the president opened the meeting by a call to worship and the singing of a hymn. The reading and adoption of the minutes of the August meeting followed.

The departmental secretaries gave very interesting reports of their branches of the Society's work. The president announced the Sectional meeting at Winchester Springs on October 3rd, and urged the ladies to attend, if at all possible.

A very pleasing feature of this meeting was the presence of the ladies of St. Paul's Women's Society and the ladies of Morewood United Women's Missionary Society. The visitors were cordially welcomed by the President.

In the absence of the organist, Miss Marion Turner kindly consented to preside at the organ throughout the meeting. The programme was as follows:

Scripture Lesson, Jno. 15:9-17, Mrs. E. Merkley.

Devotional Leaflet—"The Circle of Friendship," Mrs. Mabel Allison.

Prayer—Mrs. Oscar Wallace.

Hymn—"Lord of Light."

Greetings from St. Paul's W. M. S.—Mrs. Wm. Johnston.

Greeting from Morewood United W. M. S.—Mrs. Coulthart.

About one hundred ladies repaired to the dining hall of the church where refreshments were served by the September group, assisted by ladies of the W. M. S. executive.

Votes of thanks were tendered the United Church ladies by Mrs. Spinks of Winchester, and Mrs. Coulthart of Morewood.

Fine Cheese Exhibit South Mountain Fair

MANY VALUABLE PRIZES WERE OFFERED AND COMPETITION WAS KEEN

The exhibit of cheese at South Mountain Fair on Sept. 12th and 13th was outstanding in quantity and quality. Twenty-eight cheese were exhibited representing seventeen factories, all except four being located in Dundas County. Messrs. G. H. Barr and Freeman Brown placed the awards and experienced some difficulty owing to uniformity of quality. The nine highest scoring cheese in each white and colored was exhibited by the following makers in order of their score:

White Cheese—W. Partridge, Winchester; John Cameron, South Mountain; W. T. Coleman, Mountain; John Laird, Mountain; R. Grant, South Mountain; G. H. Summers, Winchester; B. Scarlett, Hallville; M. Barr, Cardinal; K. Weir, Winchester.

On Thursday p.m. Sept. 12th, a well attended meeting was held in Agricultural Hall under the auspices of Winchester Group Cheesemakers, when Messrs. G. H. Barr, Chief Dairy Instructor, Freeman Brown, Federal Cheese Grader, and Instructors G. I. Martin and James Mitchell spoke very complimentary of the quality of exhibits and the educational value of same. They also offered practical suggestions on continued improvement in quality and style of Canadian cheese. It was very evident that this exhibition was quite educational and admired by many of the visitors to Mountain Fair.

The usual practice in scoring cheese was somewhat different from usual as the basis of Federal Government Graders was adopted.

It is interesting to note that in the total exhibit eleven cheese scored maximum points in color, eight in closeness and seven in finish.

W. Partridge, Winchester, and J. Cameron, South Mountain, were outstanding winners at the special exhibit of cheese. Prize winners are as follows:

Society Prize, White Cheese—W. Partridge, Winchester; John Cameron, South Mountain.

SEVEN DAYS IN JAIL GIVEN DRUNKEN DRIVER

Before Magistrate McCormick of Winchester, in court at Kemptville on Saturday afternoon last, John Sophy, of Gowanda, N. Y., pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated while driving a car on the Prescott highway on Friday night last. Magistrate McCormick imposed a penalty of seven days in jail at Brockville and costs of $12.60. If Sophy does not pay the costs before the week has expired an additional seven days are to be served. Constable Perry Harkness, of Kemptville, laid the charge.

Winchester Will Be Honoured Oct. 8th

PRESENTATION WILL BE MADE BY DELEGATION FROM WINCHESTER, ENGLAND. COUNCIL MAKING PLANS.

The local Municipal Council is in receipt of a communication from Mr. J. M. Philip, secretary of the National Council of Education, Toronto, stating that twelve British Directors of Education are at present touring the Dominion. Among those enjoying the tour is Mr. J. A. Peart, who has been requested by the city authorities of Winchester, England, to present a flag to the corporation of the Village of Winchester, Ontario.

The comunication continued that the party of distinguished visitors would be leaving Toronto on October 8th for Ottawa, at which time it would be convenient for Mr. Peart to visit this place and make the presentation.

The members of the local Council met at a special meeting on Tuesday evening to discuss plans in connection with the event. Reeve T. O. Keyes presided over the meeting. It was decided to write Mr. Philips and ascertain whether it would be possible for Mr. Peart to remain in Winchester a sufficient length of time to attend a civic banquet in his honour.

Meanwhile plans are being made to have the afternoon of October 8th set aside as a civic holiday. A suitable program, in conjunction with the presentation, is also being arranged.

Winchester is honoured in receiving a flag from the historic city of Winchester, England, after which place this village was named. This mark of cordial friendship on the part of the civic authorities of the English city is a most gracious gesture and will be deeply appreciated by every citizen of this place. It is to be hoped that the representative of Winchester, England, Mr. Peart, will find it convenient to be the guest of this municipality at the banquet planned, at which time adequate means will, no doubt, be taken to indicate the gratefulness of the citizens to their English friends in Old Winchester.

3000 People Attend Metcalfe Exhibition

FINE PROGRAM PRESENTED BOTH DAYS. RECORD NUMBER OF EXHIBITS.

The 79th annual Exhibition of the Metcalfe Agricultural Society was held on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, and proved to be one of the finest ever presented by the Society. Through the efforts and splendid co-operation of the officers, directors and committees, visitors to the Fair were treated with a widely varied and interesting program of attractions.

An outstanding feature of the opening day was the political speeches, at which time the three candidates in the coming Federal election addressed the electors. The wide display of exhibits was also a main feature, it being estimated that 4,000 entries were made in the various classes. Competition was keen in the different classes of dairy cattle, horses, swine and poultry.

A crowd, estimated at 3,000 persons thronged the grounds on the second and final day, featured by excellent horse races, the North Gower band and final judging in the various events. Favourable comment was heard on all sides concerning the excellent display of produce, livestock and fancy work in the Main Hall.

The Women's Institute

There was a very fine attendance at the September meeting on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Neil Hutt, conducted the business meeting, during which the members named their favorite old song in answer to roll call. In reading the minutes of the Board of Directors, the Secretary reported that they had decided to cater for the 100 Club at 50c a plate. Further plans were made at this meeting for Friday night's luncheon.

Mrs. J. E. Singleton reported that the Oratorical Contests will be held here on Nov. 1st and 8th. She also reported that some relief work is being done.

Mrs. Robt. Suffel and Mrs. J. W. Ault were apointed Convenors for Grandmother's Day in November. For future months the convenors of standing committees will have charge of meetings.

The October meeting will be held the fourth Tuesday, the 22nd, with Mrs. J. E. Singleton, convenor. Mrs. R. Crowder was appointed delegate to the Eastern Ontario Institute Convention to be held in Ottawa on October 15th, 16th, and 17th. Mrs. W. J. Stewart was appointed to give the current events for October, November and December. An invitation was extended from the Matilda Institute to be their guests early in October and from Vernon for next Tuesday, the 24th.

Mrs. Albert Johnston presided during the program which was of a musical nature. Mrs. Lindsay contributed a very enjoyable solo: "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs," with Mrs. Wm. Lannin accompanying her on the piano. Mrs. Wesley Barclay assisted in a musical contest, which was won by Mrs. Rowat and Mrs. Neil Hutt.

The singing of God Save the King closed this enjoyable programme.

FENNELL FEED COMPANY

ONE WAY TO MAKE THE MOST OUT OF HOME-GROWN GRAINS

Mix It Into A Balanced Laying Mash!

Experienced poultry men say that a Balanced Laying Mash should be made up approximately like this—

75 per cent. Granular Grain Products
5 per cent. Alfalfa Meal
15 per cent. Animal Products
3 per cent. Mineral Ingredients
Up to 2 per cent. Cod Liver Oil.

GRAIN OR GRAIN PRODUCTS

Including Barley, Oats, Wheat, Buckwheat, Corn, Shorts, Middlings, Feed Flour, Wheat Germ, Oat Groats, Hominy, Gluten Feed, Oilcake Meal, Soy Bean Oil Meal and other grain products.

Grain should be sound, heavy quality and freshly ground.

ALFALFA MEAL

From only the very best second cut Alfalfa.

A manufacturer of Alfalfa Meal who has made a careful study of it says that the protein content is reduced 1½ to 2 per cent. every time Alfalfa Hay gets wet in the field.

ANIMAL PRODUCTS

Meat Scrap, Meat Meal, Fish Meal, Bone Meal, Cod Liver Oil, Buttermilk or Skim Milk Powder.

There are many grades of nearly all of these.

Meat Meal may have 50 per cent. protein or it may have 60 per cent. Then there is Meat Scrap. It is usually referred to as Meat Meal and although it is guaranteed only 60 per cent. protein it is made from pure beef cracklings and is a higher grade product than the 60 per cent. Meat Meal.

Fish Meal may have from 55 to 70 per cent. protein. It may be "Oily" or "White." "White" Fish Meal, besides being higher in protein, is lower in oil and dryer. It is made from a different kind of fish and by another process.

Buttermilk Powder may be dried from pure buttermilk or it may be what they call "cultured skim."

MINERAL SUPPLEMENTS

Salt that is fine and dry and not lumpy Calcium as in Ground Limestone and Ground Oyster Shells. Bone Meal should also be included in this list. Charcoal may also be included. It seems to aid digestion and have a general beneficial effect on the health of the flock.

COD LIVER OIL

One of the hardest things on the list to be sure of in regard to quality.

So far Cod Liver Oil is not under regular government inspection like other feeds. There are many guaranteed brands but the guarantee is not very valuable because the dealer or poultry man has no way of checking up to see if quality is equal to the guarantee. We find about the best way is to buy the highest grade offered by a company that we know to be reliable.

Following is a Laying Mash worked out according to the proportions as suggested above and including home grown grains as a base:—

500 lbs. Ground Barley and Oats
100 lbs. Ground Corn or Wheat
100 lbs. Wheat Shorts
50 lbs. Oilcake Meal
50 lbs. Alfalfa Meal
60 lbs. White Fish Meal
50 lbs. Meat Meal 50 per cent.
25 lbs. Bone Meal
15 lbs. Buttermilk Powder
3 lbs. Salt
5 lbs. Ground Limestone
25 lbs. Charcoal
1½ gals. Cod Liver Oil

This Mash figures out to contain over 13 per cent. protein and at present prices would cost $1.86 a hundred mixed. This includes home grown grain valued at $1.00 per hundred.

There are lots of other good mixtures with a base of home grown grain. Or, use a good Concentrate. X-L-O Concentrate added to Home Grown Grain will make an 18 per cent. Laying Mash at a cost of about $1.70 a hundred, mixed.

In any case, try and get the hens laying. Eggs are 6 or 7 cents higher than they were this time last year.

LIBERALS ACTIVE

Winchester Liberals are actively preparing for a large Liberal Rally to be held here shortly. Strong efforts are being made to secure outstanding figures in Canadian political life, to be here on that occasion as feature speakers, in the interests of Preston Elliott—Grenville- Dundas Liberal candidate.

WINTER TUNE-UP PREPARATION!

The change from Summer to Cold Weather is a critical period in the life of a motor car. There are certain essential steps necessary to assure the proper operation.

During the summer months the average car is continually in use, and as a result, the mileage accumulated is considerable. Do you owners realize that wear and loss of adjustment is bound to occur during the long hot miles of summer driving? Do you realize that this natural wear costs you real money in decreased gas mileage and that if the safety features which have been built into your cars are not functioning 100 per cent., they are apt to run into accidents which will cost far more than thorough inspection and adjustment.

A WINTER TUNE-UP WOULD COVER THE FOLLOWING MAJOR UNITS OF YOUR CAR:

1. Adjust Steering Gear Linkage—Includes front wheel alignment and lubrication of all steering units and bearings.
2. True Up and adjust Brakes—Includes complete Lubrication of Linkage and Centralization and Equalization of Brakes.
3. Flush Radiator and Cooling System using Reverse Flow Method—Includes adjustment of Water Pump Packing Nut, adjustment of Fan Belt and Hose Clamps.
4. Tune Engine—Includes clean and adjust Spark Plugs and Distributor Points, adjust Engine Timing, clean and tighten Battery Terminals. Test Battery on high rate discharge. Clean Fuel Pump Bowl and Screens. Check all gas line connections. Adjust Valves, Carbuerator Controls and Carbeurator. Clean General Commutator and set charging rate.
5. Lubricate car throughout using proper grade Winter Lubricants.
6. Flush Transmission, refill with proper Lubricant.
7. Flush Rear Axle. Refill with proper Lubricant.
8. Flush Crankcase. Refill with proper Engine Oil, or remove, clean and instal oil pan if necessary.
9. Tighten car throughout for squeaks and rattles.
10. Check all Lights and Re-focus Headlights.
11. Check Horn and Windshield Wiper operation.

Now is the time to condition your car for the cold weather now approaching us. Come in and let us assist you in maintaining satisfactory operation of your car.

When you accept an invitation, make the understanding clear by naming the hour of the appointment in your acceptance. That verifies it, and in the event that your host or hostess finds the invitation was incorrect, there is an opportunity to correct it and avoid embarrassment on both sides.

If you have an eye for color, look at some of the fruit and vegetable stands that are nicely arranged for fancy display. And when you realize how attractive foods can be, plan a meal some time so that color in your cooked foods will come somewhere near their beauty when they're raw.

Curiosity is early displayed in the infant as he pulls the wheel off his toy wagon. But a child of two can be taught to appreciate the difference between destroying his own wagon and that of his brother—laying the foundation for a proper respect of other people's property. . . . By the age of five, reason can be invoked. Before, it is usually a matter of reward and punishment.

Three points in which women most frequently show bad taste, are the use of mascara, nail grooming and the use of lip-stick properly. Figures are most frequently properly watched, but too dark eye shadow and mascara, too red lips and rather bad care of the nails are still points to be criticized.

The usual amount of fat in milk, according to authorities, is but 3½ per cent, which has little effect on the weight of the steady consumer. Protein, the largest constituent of milk, forms muscles and lean flesh. The rest consists of valuable minerals. All of which would indicate that milk is not fattening.

Frozen desserts made in an automatic refrigerator, though they are good, are not exactly like ice cream. Remember that it is the whipping and churning that makes smooth ice cream. Hence the mousses and parfaits — whipped cream, sometimes with beaten egg whites, and flavoring, are usually the most satisfactory frozen desserts.

PART OF THE BUSINESS OF LIFE

Making friends is a big part of the business of life. Making money would not amount to much if there was no one to spend it on except yourself. Making a distiguished name would be a hollow honor if there was no one who loved you to be proud and happy.

Some of you young people have an idea that one friend is enough. It is astonishing how many of you believe that the ideal friendship has a fence built around it, with only room for two inside. If you want to be a worth-while friend, be a friend to many. Make this friendship a part of the business of your life.

ALTAR RAILS PRESENTED TO KEMPTVILLE CHURCH

St. James' Memorial church, Kemptville, has been presened with two beautiful brass altar rails which have been installed in the church and give a touch of beauty to the entrance to the altar. The gift was made by James A. Evoy of Carp in memory of his mother and father. To each rail is attached a plate, the right hand one being engraved with the words, "In memory of Thomas Evoy, 1849-1932, presented by son, James A."; the left hand plate is engraved "In Memory of Eliza Evoy, 1846-1927, presented by son, James A." The rails will later be dedicated by the bishop on his visit here.

FAMILY QUARREL AIRED IN MORRISBURG COURT

Claiming that her brother slapped, struck and kicked her, and threw her to the floor in an effort to get money from her that did not belong to him, Mrs. Nettie Zeron of Morrisburg, laid a charge against George A. Casselman, also of Morrisburg, in court on Friday afternoon last before Magistrate John McCormick. The evidence given was very conflicting.

Mr. Casselman denied all his sister's charges. On the contrary, he claimed that she stole his money, and when he asked her for it, threw a rolling pin at his head, charged at him with a butcher's knife and cursed at him, then threw herself on the floor and screamed "You're going to murder me."

Floyd Casselman, 20-year-old son of the accused, supported his father's evidence in full, while Clifford Zeron, 11-year-old son of Mrs. Zeron, testified on his mother's behalf, absolutely supporting her testimony.

Magistrate McCormick reserved the decision for a week.

METCALFE W. I.

The Metcalfe branch of the Women's Institute met in the town hall on Tuesday evening last with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. F. R. Stanley, was in the chair. A committee to take charge of a booth at the school fair on Sept. 25 was appointed as follows: Mesdames F. Dowser, J. D. Cameron, R. A. F. Blair, A. York, A. R. Boland.

Ralph Derby, P. S principal, was present and asked for a donation of $10 from the institute to furnish equipment for manual training and domestic science in the school. This was granted.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the giving of a history of the various school sections represented in the Metcalfe branch. S. S. No. 7 was given by Mrs. W. Blair, No. 8 by Mrs. W. A. Cowan, Nos. 11 and 12 by Mrs. A. R. Boland, and No. 13 by Dorothy Loney.

A delightful vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. R. A. F. Blair, with Miss Ida McLaurin as accompanist. Mrs. G. E. Morris gave a demonstration on school lunches A spelling match conducted by Miss Mabel Bouck, was much enjoyed, the prize being awarded to Mrs. A. York.

MOREWOOD W. I.

A pleasant afternoon was spent when the members of the Morewood Women's Institute entertained the grandmothers of the community at the home of Mrs. Carlyle. With 42 ladies present, the meeting opened with the opening ode followed by the institute creed. Following the regular business routine, Mrs. James Andrews was appointed librarian for the month. Community singing was enjoyed with Miss Louva Allison at the piano. A vocal solo was sung by Mrs. James Parkins, accompanied by Mrs. T. S. Barrington, while Mrs. A. B. Allison contributed a reading.

A fashion parade was presented by a number of ladies depicting the old-fashioned and modern style in ladies' wearing apparel. A few words of welcome were extended to the guests by Mrs. Reaney.

The presentation of a life membership certificate and pin was made to the president, Mrs. J. V. Fetterly. The following prizes were awarded during the afternoon: Oldest grandmother, Mrs. A. W. Reveller; youngest grandmother, Mrs. N. Dillabough; grandmother, with most grandchildren, Mrs. A. W. Reveller; grandmother with least grandchildren, Mrs. Faulkner and Mrs. Jervis.

An active season has been laid out for the Morrisburg Canadian Club which held its first meeting last evening. Mr. Dalton C. Coleman, senior vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was the guest speaker. Among those who will address the Club during the early fall and early winter season are Sir Francis Floud, British High Commissioner, and Norman Armour, United States Minister to Canada.

RAMBLING 'ROUND NEW YORK with HUGH KENNY

At first thought it seems completely insane that October 1st should be the one day in all the year that the many thousands in the City of Seven Million should move from one apartment to another. Ask any real estate man, however, and he'll tell you that if leases expired at odd times, the apartment you want might not be vacated until two months after you want it. Meantime where do you and your furniture go? Selling costs would go sky high—and so would rents. They've tried it, and know.

Hundreds of brownstone houses in the more fashionable Manhattan neighborhoods have been converted or entirely remodeled into small apartments. One woman, born in New York City (you seldom meet such) inherited seventeen old brownstones, and now rents them. "I've lived in them all my life," she says, "and can't understand why people like them. They're just old houses to me, without any elevators!"

The class of people living in remodeled brownstones, according to one well educated rental agent, "at least in the East Fifties," is much better than those in the more modern apartment buildings in the same rental price class. . . . I wonder if that isn't a reproach to the architects of the box-like cubicles they call "modern apartments"? The old, high-ceilinged rooms have much more character.

But these old remodeled brownstones in the East Fifties and Sixties have their days numbered, probably, for when Rockefeller Center office buildings are all filled up, there'll be too great a demand for apartment space to make little three and four floor houses profitable in that area. They'll pile the apartments higher for Manhattan cliff dwellers.

"If I had anything to sell," says a friend, "and wanted to establish an office at a favorable address, I'd choose Rockefeller Center. It's the most publicized office space in the whole country," And perhaps he's right, though the Empire State Building ran a close second for a time.

ANDREW McIVOR

The remains of the late Andrew McIvor of Cardinal, were brought to Dixon's Corners on Thursday last for burial in the Catholic cemetery adjoining St. Anne's church, where the prayers at the grave were recited by Rev. Fr. A. L. O'Donnell of South Mountain. The pall bearers were Frank Milligan, Arthur McInnis, John McKee, John McGinn Wilfred Gibbons and Denver McGinn. Deceased, who was born in Matilda township where he had spent all his life, was well and favorably known, and his sudden death at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Roger Adams, of Cardinal, came as a great shock to a host of friends and relatives.

He is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Sweeney, of Iroquois, Mrs. Adams, of Cardinal, Mrs. Mattice, of Massena, N. Y. and Mrs. Armstrong, of Buffalo, N. Y.; and one son, Lawrence, of Syracuse, N. Y.; and three brothers, Arnold and William, of Spencerville; and Frank, of Edmonton, Alta. His wife, formerly Miss Emma McGinn, predeceased him several years ago.

CELEBRATE 40th ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McIntosh, citizens of Williamsburg, were the recipients of the congratulations from their friends and relatives recently when they celebrated quietly at their home their 40th wedding anniversary. Mr. McIntosh is a native of Williamsburg, a son of Mrs. J. A. McIntosh, and the late Mr. McIntosh, while Mrs. McIntosh, whose maiden name was Jessie Lee Strader, was born at Strader's Hill, Matilda township, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Strader.

Forty years ago Rev. H. Lidstone, of Dundela, performed the marriage ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The members of the family comprise two daughters, Mrs. J. C. Fetterly and Mrs. F. J. Donevan, both of Oshawa, Ont., and two sons, H. Strader McIntosh, Williamsburg, and Dr. John E. McIntosh, of the staff of the Memorial Hospital, Albany, N. Y. There are also nine grandchildren.

MISTOOK BOTTLE OF POISON FOR WATER

Mr. Edward Desjardin, Kemptville, suffered painful mouth burns recently when he mistook a bottle containing poison for a bottle of water. He was working at the time for L. Grue, who was threshing and did not realize his mistake until he had swallowed some of the liquid. He was quickly given an antidote and taken to Dr. P. A. McIntosh and given attention. Although suffering from burns in the mouth and throat Mr. Desjardin is now improving.

GOVERNMENT MAKING CHEESE AND MILK SURVEY

With a view to obtaining information with respect to the consumption of cheese and milk in Canada, a survey is being undertaken by the Economics Branch and the Dairy Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The survey is being conducted in Ontario, Quebec and the Prairie Provinces and information is obtained from homes in cities, towns and farms. The survey has already begun in Oshawa, which has been selected as a city representative of the industrial cities of Ontario.

The cheese industry of Canada is a very important one. Approximately 70,000,000 lbs of cheese will be produced in Canada this year which will have a value of about $6,825.000. Of the important countries of the world, Canada's consumption of cheese per capita is very low. It amounts to approximately three and one-third lbs. per person per year, about one-third as much as the consumption of cheese in the United Kingdom and more than one pound less the consumption of cheese per capita in the United States. It is felt that the consumption of milk in Canada should be much higher. With a per capita consumption of less than one pint per day many growing children are not getting sufficient calcium and phosphorus—the materials so necessary for the development of strong bones and teeth.

Enumerators, who are all university graduates, will visit representative homes and information will also be gathered from hotels and restaurants as to the amount of milk consumed by adults and children. This information will be tabulated and analyzed later and it is hoped it will reveal ways whereby the returns to the many cheese and milk producers in Canada may be increased and the supply of these dairy products maybe brought more in line with the demand of the consumers.

QUITE TRUE

"The machinery built for himself by that ingenious squirrel-like animal, man, is by this time so infernally complicated that he isn't sure whether it's a labor-saving device or a cage—and, if it's a cage, whether he's inside of it or out." So declares the writer of a magazine artile. In other words, we don't know what's the matter with the world or how we're going to get out of our troubles, but we do know it's a grand old mess.—Exchange.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT

(Oshawa Times)

Town councillors of Leaside received quite a shock, although a pleasant one, the other day, when a man who had been on relief, but who had returned to employment, sent the council a cheque for $151.59 in repayment of the relief he had received. He felt that with the return of better times for his family, it was his duty to re-imburse the municiality for the money it had spent on his maintenance during hard times.

That is the right spirit, but, unfortunately, there are few people who have it. It is indeed a rare occurrence for any municipality to receive payment of money spent on giving relief to families in need. The average family, once back on a self-supporting basis, does not figure that it owes anything to the municipality which provided the necessities of life during the period of unemployment.

A LESSON IN COURTESY AND POLITENESS

A great many young people are trying to earn a living in one way or another and a large percentage of these boys and girls are handicapped by never having been taught courteous manners, either at home or at school. Perhaps at school the teachers did endeavor to teach them to be polite, but the home influence was too strong. This is one of the breeches of good manners we noticed one day. A lad was getting orders for certain articles, and a lady, to help him along, told him that he might bring a similar article to the one she had bought and her sister might buy it. When he arrived and the housemaid having told her he was in the hall, she went down to see him, he greeted this very elderly lady as he might a boy of his own age. "Hello" he said. Now the lady bought his wares but we venture to say no one had ever said "Hello" to her before. She laughed about it, but the next person might say, "Until you have learned to speak properly, to say "Good morning,' I do not want to see you again." People who are earning their living by salesmanship, should be very careful in their speech and manner. We know of one shop which many women avoid because the wife of the man in charge, who helps him with his work, is so annoying in her manner. She calls you "dear" although you never saw her except in her shop, she touches your arm to explain the virtues for her goods and, while she is an obliging woman and means no harm, she drives people into the shop next door where the people are quiet and businesslike. Another annoying person is the man or woman who asks for you by name and when you go down to see them says that someone has told them that you would like a magazine and that because you are (with us a journalist) the president of a society or so on, they are going to give it to you for nothing—except the postage. You find that you have paid the regular price when all is said and done. One man was quite annoyed with us because we were in a hurry and came to the point at once asking how much we were supposed to pay for this gift he was offering us. There are some nice pleasant people who come to us from which we buy what we can afford. We try to help them by suggesting that some people we really think would like to buy from them might be called upon. We are sure they will not be troublesome and will not insist upon taking up their time against their will. These are hard times in which to make a living and we should all be willing to help those who are honestly trying, but it would be wise if those who have something to sell would cultivate a quiet courteous manner.

MERCHANTS TO HOLD THEIR OWN THANKSGIVING

Monday, October 21st, is going to be Thanksgiving Day as far as the Danforth district is concerned, say the merchants.

East Danforth and West Danforth Business Men's Association held a general meeting a short time ago and it was unanimously decided to petition Ottawa in an effort to have the Thursday, October 24, Thanksgiving Day, changed to a Monday. When no action was taken a second meeting was called and the associations decided to take the matter in their own hands.

A careful survey of the Danforth shopping district was made and it was found that almost 100 per cent. of the merchants preferred a Monday holiday. These merchants have decided to remain open on the date named by the Government but to close their shops on Monday, October 21.

It is said the members were of the opinion that the Monday date is far more satisfactory than a holiday in the middle of the week from the standpoint not only of a long week-end but also of business and religion.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

STAINS

Many common stains remain in garments and household linens through several washings just because the bit of kowledge required to take them out is not available at the right moment. These simple remedies for removing spots should be kept in some handy place for such emergencies.

Scorch

A good way to remove scorch from white goods is to wet the places and hang it up exposed to the sunshine to dry, or you could spread it thickly with paste made of common starch and cold water, and lay in sun. If badly discolored a second application may be necessary . Wash with soap and warm water.

Ink

To remove ink stains place the article over a bowl, and cover the stain with borax. Then wet the borax thoroughly with peroxide, using plenty of peroxide, and the stain will almost immediately disappear.

Some prefer to use a thin mustard paste to spread over an ink spot and leave it 24 hours. This takes out the ink and does not injure the most delicate fabric or color.

Mud

Mud stains can generally be removed by rubbing the spot with a mixture of equal parts of flour and common salt.

Grease

To remove auto grease or any dark, heavy grease from washable fabric apply a small piece of butter and rub in well, and then wash with soap and water and rinse.

Another way is to make a paste of Fuller's earth and turpentine, and rub it on the fabric until the turpentine has evaporated and a white powder produced. This can be brushed off and all grease will have disappeared.

SEASONABLE RECIPES

Mixed Mustard Pickles

1 quart of ripe cucumbers, 1 quart of small green cucumbers, 1 quart of green tomatoes, 1 quart of onions, 1 cauliflower, 5 green peppers, dressing.

Cut the vegetables in pieces. Put separately in weak salt and water for 24 hours. Scald each separately in the same water. Drain. Pour the hot dressing over the prepared vegetables. Bottle.

Dressing for Mixed Mustard Pickles

6 tablespoons of white mustard seed, 1 tablespoon of tumeric, 1 tablespoon of ground mustard, 4 tablespoons of celery seed, 2 cups of sugar, 1 cup flour, 2 quarts vinegar.

Scald vinegar. Mix together the mustard, tumeric, sugar and flour. Stir into the hot vinegar. Continue to stir until the mixture thickens. Set the dish of dressing in boiling water, cover and let cook for 15 minutes. Add the seeds and pour, hot, over the prepared vegetables.

Spiced Pickled Bartlett Pears

Wash 8 pounds of pears. Pare and cut in halves or quarters and core. Boil the pears for 10 minutes in water to cover. Continue by making the syrup as directed in the recipe for Spiced Pickled Fruit, using 2 cups of the water drained from the pears in place of the 2 cups water in the ingredients. Proceed as directed in Spiced Pickled Fruit. Yield: three quarts or thereabout.

Spiced Pickled Peaches

Pour boiling water over 8 pounds firm cling peaches. Let stand until skins can be removed easily. Dip in cold water and peel. Stick 3 whole cloves in each. Make syrup as directed for Spiced Pickled Fruit, then add peaches. Proceed as directed in Spiced Pickled Fruit. Yield: About 3 quarts.

Spiced Pickled Fruit

3 pounds of fruit, 4 pounds (8 1-2 cups) of granulated sugar, 2 cups of water, 8 pieces of cinnamon stick (3 inches long), 2 tablespoons of whole cloves, 2 tablespoons of whole allspice.

Wash fruit, remove skins and cores. Tie spices loosely in cheesecloth bag. Boil sugar, vinegar and water with spices for 5 minutes. Add the fruit and boil until tender. Allow the fruit to stand in the syrup over night. Drain and remove the spice bag. Pack the fruit in hot sterilized jars. Bring the syrup to the boiling point. Completely fill the jars. Seal. This method may be used for melon rinds of all sorts, apples, plums, pears and peaches.

Tomato Catsup

Half bushel tomatoes, 6 large onions, 2 cups granulated sugar, 1-2 cup salt, 1 1-2 quarts white wine vinegar, 4 red peppers, chopped fine, 3-4 teaspoon whole cloves, 2 teaspoons stick cinnamon, 1 teaspoon allspice, 1 nutmeg.

Slice tomatoes and onions. Add remaining ingredients. Let simmer until thick, stirring often. Strain. Pour into sterilized bottles, cork, covering corks with sealing wax.

Five Freit Sauce

20 tomatoes, 6 apples, 6 peaches, 1 pint pitted plums, 3 red peppers, 5 cups sugar, 2 sticks cinnamonn, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 tablespoon mixed spice, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 quart vinegar.

Boil two hours. Makes seven pint jars.

English Chutney Sauce

Half pound ripe tomatoes, 1 pound of tart apples, 2 cups granulated sugar, 12 small onions, half cup of chopped mint leaves, 1 1-3 cups seeded raisins, 3 cups vinegar, 2 teaspoons dry mustard, 2teaspoons salt, 3 large green peppers.

Chop tomatoes. Add salt and mix together. Chop apples, onions, raisins and seeded peppers. Add chopped mint. Then scald and cool the vinegar. Add sugar and mustard. Mix all together and allow to stand at least 10 minutes before using. This is delicious with lamb. This relish will keep indefinitely and is the better for standing several months. It may be put into pint preserve jars if you wish. Shake them occasionally. It has the advantage of requiring no cooking, and is entirely different from the usual chutney sauce.

Cucumber and Sweet Pepper Relish

4 cups chopped cucumber (fairly ripe), 3 green peppers, 2-3 cup white onions, 2 cups vinegar, cup sugar (brown or white) 2 tablespoons white mustard seed, cayenne pepper and salt.

Before chopping cucumbers, pare and remove seeds. The cucumbers, onions and peppers may be chopped in a wooden bowl or put through a food chopper. Add enough water to prevent mixture from sticking and boil gently until cucumbers are tender. Add sugar and seasonings to vinegar and heat. Add mixture and cook until it is thick and clear. Seal in hot sterilized jars.

Curried Tomatoes

6 medium-sized tomatoes, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 small onion, chopped, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon curry powder.

Melt fat in frying pan. Add onion and cook until brown. Skin tomatoes. Add tomatoes and seasoning. Cook slowly for five minutes and serve. Serves 6.

Mixed Pickles

2 quarts green tomatoes, 12 small cucumbers, 3 red peppers, 1 cauliflower, 2 bunches celery, 1 pint small onions, 2 quarts string beans, 1-4 pound mustard seed, 1-2 ounce allspice, 1-2 ounce cloves, 1 gallon vinegar, 2 cups sugar.

Prepare vegetables, cut in small pices, Cover with brine, made with 2 quarts boiling water to 1 1-2 cups salt. Allow to stand in brine overnight. Drain and wash carefully. Heat vinegar, sugar and spices to boiling point. Add vegetables, and cook until soft. Seal in sterilized bottles.

FACTS ARE FACTS

The reporter was sent to write up a charity ball. The next day the editor called him to his desk.

"Look here, what do you mean by this? 'Among the most beautiful girls was Horatio Lucian Dingley.' Why, you crazy idiot! Old Dingley isn't a girl—and besides he's one of the principal stockholders."

"I can't help that," returned the realistic reporter. "That's where he was."

A GOOD TIME TO RAISE A FOAL

According to the Dominion Animal Husbandman there is at present a definite scarcity of good, fresh, young horses for farm and city work and an increasing demand for them at fairly remunerative prices. Since it takes four or five years to breed, raise and develop a horse to marketable age, it will be some time before the demand can be satisfied, therefore present prices may be expected to hold or even improve for a number of years. It would seem, that it would be a profitable venture for any farmer who has a reasonably good draft brood mare, to breed her and raise a foal

CRUSHED ENTHUSIASM

Some young people need something startling to rouse their enthusiasm. They never have a wonderful time. The day is never better than fair. In their estimation a girl is never beautiful, nor a young man brilliant. The best they can say of either is "Not so bad."

This is more or less of a pose, of course. It is natural for youth to be enthusiastic. It takes quite an effort to crush this native enthusiasm and substitute for it calculated indifference. It can be done, but why do it?

The head of a business which has been increasingly successful through this period of depression, said recently: "We are more interested in a man who is highly enthusiastic about a small problem, than one who is mildly enthusiastic about a big problem." In business, enthusiasm is an asset. Socially it is an asset. Why stifle the quality which counts so much in your friendship, in your happiness, and in your success? Why substitute an attitude that makes you uninteresting to yourself and others, and unpopular with employers?

THOMAS SWAIN

The death took place at a Smiths Falls hospital on Wednesday morning last after a long illness, of Thomas Swain, a respected resident of Kemptville. He was born in the vicinity of Richmond and was a son of the late Patrick Swain and Essie Baxter. He had spent a part of his life in the United States and later resided in Kemptville. He is survived by one son, Earl, three sisters, Mrs. M. Sabourin, Miss Josephine and Miss Margaret, also two brothers, Frank, of Fairville, New Brunswick, and Michael, of Nashua, New Hampshire. He was a member of Holy Cross church, Kemptville, and was 63 years of age.

WHAT IS A HOME?

A home is where you live. It is the place where you eat and sleep. The roof is to keep out the rain and the walls for protection. There may be music, books, and games for amusement and the same can be said concerning a hotel or an orphan asylum.

But a real home is where personal love and affection is present, and that may be found in a thatched cabin, in a city flat, or in a magnificent mansion on the Avenue.

A real home is made out of happy, harmonious hearts that truly love one another. Any other "home" is but a house.

A THOUSAND SUCCESSFUL MEN

Some one has made a survey of a thousand successful men to learn how they got their start in life. These men are not mere money-makers, but they are men who have made the world better by their achievements in science, architecture, engineering, education and art. They are men who have influenced the moral as well as the physical side of our nation. It is interesting to note the beginnings of their life work:

Three hundred started as farmers' sons.

Two hundred started as messenger boys.

One hundred were newsboys.

One hundred were printers' apprentices.

One hundred were manufacturers' apprentices.

Fifty began at the bottom of railway work.

Fifty—only fifty—had wealthy parents to give them a start.

A lazy boy did not discover the telephone. A lazy boy did not learn how to control steam or invent the steam boiler. A lazy boy did not discover the power of gasoline nor learn how to harness the falls of Niagara. No. The men who have accomplished most in the world have been men who worked hard and long before their achieved success.—The Boys' Friend.

CLEANING THE HEN HOUSE

At this time of year hen houses should be thoroughly cleaned, disinfected, and whitewashed. At the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, the following whitewash mixture has been used with good results:

Slake 1-2 bushel of lime with boiling water, strain and add 1 peck of salt, dissolved in warm water. Put 3 lbs. of ground rice in boiling water and boil to a thin paste. Dissolve 1-2 pound of powdered Spanish whiting and 1 pound of clear glue in warm water. Mix all these well together and let stand for several days. Keep over a portable furnace and apply hot with brushes.

SOME TERRIBLE FIGURES

By courtesy of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association I am in receipt of some statistics with permission to hand a part to my readers for whatever they may be worth.

The cost of venereal diseases to one large city ranges from $2,071,000 to half a million more than that. Annual costs.

These diseases, two of them, are a causative factor in many more serious afflictions of mankind and womankind.

The cost of first-year treatment of syphilis is much in excess of sums available for health expenditures in the budgets of working men's families.

From these diseases come hundreds, yea thousands of cases of rheumatism, neuritis, heart disease, and congenital afflictions in the offspring. It is appalling.

All from just two so-called "major venereal diseases."

What a world of affliction and suffering. It is the penalty for vicious, lustful appetites. I dare not mention certain of the ultimate loathsome conditions suffered by careless victims of human lust! The picture would be too disgusting.

Isn't it enough to justify warnings, shouted from every housetop? Your physician knows. Ask him for information.

Millions of dollars are paid annually to drug stores for so-called "specifics." There is no way of finding out the actual sums spent. A volume could be written and yet the greater half would remain untold.

One would think a warning such as this would be sufficient.

THE INCREASING TOLL

There is little doubt but that the traffic regulations with respect to the public highways should be rigidly enforced, and offenders dealt with by the courts in no uncertain manner if the number of motor accidents is to be checked.

During the past few weeks a number of serious accidents have occurred on the highways in this district in which lives have been lost and others seriously injured. It has also been revealed that the greater share of such accidents have been caused by carelessness on the part of some driver.

There is no greater menace to public safety on the highways than a negligent or thoughtless driver, and every step should be taken to rid the highways of such individuals. The Gananoque Reporter, in commenting on the number of highway accidents, says:

"The mad race for speed, the careless and negligent driving, driving when intoxicated, and the non-observance of the rules and regulations of the road, are all responsible for the terrible accidents that are happening every day. There are many deaths reported and many more who escape that fate, but meet with distressing and painful conditions, that are almost equal to death, leaving many people maimed for the balance of their lives. Through the intervention of Providence, rather than from any other cause, many escape with cuts and wounds that are healed, perhaps leaving scars, and allowed to live for many years afterwards. What is to be done to stop or lower this long toll of dead and injured? The reduction in speed is one way, with the growing number of cars that are roaring along the highways, cutting in, climbing hills at tremendous rates of speed, shooting out from unexpected quarters onto the highways, etc. "Safety First" does not seem to be a motto that is observed very closely, nor emphasized as it was in days gone by. People are travelling too closely together, so that, when one car pulls up a dozen or more are following so closely that they cannot stop up within the distance that they have given themselves, and an accident takes place. This distance should be regulated in some way. It has been pointed out that it requires so many feet in which to stop when travelling at a certain rate of speed, and that should be known by every driver and observed. The law has lately been changed so that an intoxicated man driving a car receives a jail sentence and not a fine as formerly. The other regulations should be tightened up also, so that the importance of careful driving should be impressed more forcibly upon all drivers than is the case at present. If human life is to be safe-guarded properly, steps must be taken to see that every phase of motoring is strictly observed and enforced."

CANADA STANDS FIRM

During the past week, Canada has taken her place at the side of Britain and many other nations with respect to the Covenant of the League of Nations. Through the Canadian High Commissioner to England, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, the Dominion has pledged herself for peace and justice in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute—which is right and proper.

There is little doubt but Mussolini is determined to wage war upon the tiny independent kingdom of Ethiopia, regardless of the fact that practically every other nation in the world is opposed to such a move. It is almost certain that, should this gesture be made by the Italian dictator, the League of Nations will impose economic sanctions upon that country.

In this respect Canada plays a vital part, for this Dominion controls practically the entire world's supply of nickel, which is a vital necessity in war, as well as other essential raw materials.

The seriousness of the whole dispute can scarcely be realized, for a conflict between Italy and Ethiopia might easily develop into another world struggle—this time between the whites and the blacks. In that way, Canada might unwillingly be drawn into the fray, for it will be a war of extermination, relentless and terrible in its effects.

The situation is taxing the diplomatic powers of all the League members, and time alone will tell the results of present negotiations. Meanwhile, Il Duce comes forward with the threat that sanctions will mean war and the risk of remaking the map of Europe. It thus appears that the Italian dictator is confident of the strength of his forces, in which case he may suffer a rude jolt. The nations of Europe are almost unanimous in their declaration that sanctions will be applied, with unity and force by members of the League.

Canada, as one of those nations, is standing firmly at the side of the Mother Country and playing her part to the full. While the greater majority of Canadians are opposed to war as a means of settling disputes, the Dominion as a whole is capable and willing to carry her share of the responsibilities in whatever policy may be deemed necessary to maintain peace.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Under a recent ruling, all chief constables throughout the province were instructed to remove from the highways, all cars found to be unfit to be in traffic. It is about time that some of the old rattle-traps were relegated to the junk heap, for the sake of safety to others.

Mussolini, with the certainty that was characteristic of the ancient Caesars, asserts that sanctions will mean war and the risk of remaking the map of Europe. It might be well for Il Duce to entertain the thought that the map might easily—very easily be altered, with Italy counted among the missing powers.

There is no time like the present to inspect the heating equipment in your home, and make certain that all is in readiness for the coming fall and winter. Every year a large number of fires may be traced to the fact that stove-pipes, chimneys, and other parts of the heating system in the home have been allowed to get into a state of disrepair. Save yourself the distress of a bad fire by having all heating equipment checked now. It will be a wise move.

Our friend, Editor Hanna, of the Almonte Gazette, has apparently thrown his hat into the ring. It is alleged that a political speaker at a recent meeting in that riding referred to friend Hanna as "a contemptible scoundrel." This unsavoury remark at once brought the Irish to the surface in our cotem, and there is no question, as the boys say "Them is fightin' words!" Not satisfied, it appears, the politician attacked the editor's personal habits and morals, etc., with the result that a legal action is now impending.

In penning a reply through the columns of his newspaper, Brother Hanna engages in some powerful language—and was he mad? Phew!

THROUGH THE CLOUDS TO THE STARS

(By Dorothy Sproule)

To a contemplative mind, what a sublime spectacle does the sky present! There are alps upon alps of fleecy grandeur piling up their billowy masses against a dark blue background; then forming themselves into frowning castles, grey and spectral ruins, ever changing, always beautiful.

Now we see a darkness creeping over the panorama, all the delicate color deepens into an inky blackness; the murky, threatening masses roll onward with intense rapidity, and now and then we catch a glimpse of the pale moon as she ploughs through the gigantic cloud billows.

But, again, behold the transformation of this varying scene. The heaving, ominous surges all disperse and scatter, and the glittering stars shine forth from the dark panoply, scintillating with a magnificence betokening the skill of the Great Lapidary.

As one gazes with awe and admiration on these striking pictures drawn by the skilful hand of the Divine Artist, he cannot help perceiving the analogy that exists bbetween these scenes and those in his own life.

Those light, feathery forms recall the clouds of his youthful days; which although they may have checked the ecstatic buoyancy of youth, never completely obscured the radiant "star of hope."

But those dense, overwhelming clouds suggest the crushing sorrows of later life,

"When the days are covered o'er with grief
And sorrows neither few nor brief
Veil all in gloom."

But, as through the darkness he perceives those "myriads of golden islands, fast moored in God's infinite deep" appear, they seem to whisper the soul-cheering words:

"So, though dark clouds are overspread,
And hearts are rent and hot tears shed,
At evening time it shall be light."

The annals of our literature are thronged today with the illustrious names of men who have risen through the thick clouds of poverty, obscurity and unappreciated genius, to the clear, sparkling sunlight of fame and distinction.....

At the door of an unpretending cottage sits an aged man. His face, furrowed with deep lines of thought and anxiety, betokens suffering. With his trembling hands clasped upon his staff, his snowy head bowed upon them, he murmurs: "Seasons return, but not to me returns day or the sweet approach of morn or even. But cloud instead, and ever during dark surrounds me."

Gradually there steals over his face its wonted earnest hopeful expression, and as if in answer to his whispered prayer,

"Purge and disperse these mists,
Celestial light, that I may see and tell
Of things invisible to mortal sight!"

He mounts on loftiest wing to those starry realms, below which so many walk with folded pinions; and John Milton gave to the world the crown and glory of our English literature, "Paradise Lost" and ever as did our peerless Milton reach those sublime heights of literary greatness that enwrapped him, so also did the David of our English poetry, Cowper, emerge from the mental shades that hovered over him, and poured forth like the great Hebrew bard, the warmest feelings of his deeply sympathetic nature.

Had he never suffered, could he thus have written?

We might also mention the inimitable Napoleon, who rose through the clouds of poverty and obscurity to the highest pinnacle of military distinction.

There are innumerable instances of men who have so nobly fought their way to the very topmost round of the ladder of fame, in the face of apparently overwhelming difficulties, and who accept with kingly dignity the laurels and honors of these admiring countrymen.

POTATO SHORTAGE LIKELY

With potato quotations soaring to $1.25 per bag in most Ontario centres, and possibility the price might go higher, Ontario is facing a shortage which will last until the late crop is marketed, approximately three weeks from now, marketing authorities at Toronto said.

J. C. Cassin, member of the Potato Marketing Board, said dry weather in the Maritimes, Maine and Ontario had resulted in a diminished yield of the new crop, which is not sufficient to carry the consumer over until the fall crop is ready.

The result has been the rise of potato prices in Toronto and outside markets during the latter part of the week and particularly on Saturday, from around 65 cents a bag to $1.25 in some instances. They might go even higher this week and next, for the supply cannot be materially augmented until the fall crop is ready."

There is no fear of a scarcity of famine proportions, Mr. Cassin indicated. He believes the late crop, maturing now, will be adequate to meet the de-

CHESTERVILLE FAMILIES BEREAVED AS DEATHS FOLLOW CRASH

On Tuesday evening of last week when an automobile crash occurred on Highway No. 2 Highway seven miles west of Belleville, it resulted in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mills, of Wingham. The late Mrs. Mills was a sister of George, William and Wesley Hamilton, of Chesterville, and also a sister of Mrs. Wilcox, of Woodslee.

Mr. Mills and his wife, formerly Donalda Hamilton, of Wingham, accompanied by Mrs. Wilcox of Woodslee, after visiting relatives in Chesterville for a few days, started on the return journey to Western Ontario, having as their guest Mrs. Thos. Hamilton, of Ottawa. When on the other side of Belleville, the Mills car, driven by Mr. Mills, was crashed into from the rear by another car going in the same direction, and thrown into the eastbound lane of traffic where a third car, driven by Henry Walden, of Ottawa, crashed into it.

Mrs. Mills was fatally injured and passed away in a Belleville hospital. Mr. Mills was seriously injured and passed away as a result of his injuries last Tuesday in a Belleville hospital. Mrs. Wilcox and Mrs. Thos. Hamilton suffered considerably from shock. The funeral of Mrs. Mills was held at Wingham on Monday while that of her husband was held on Thursday last.

The injured in Mr. Walden's car were Henry Walden, who suffered a fracture of the right leg; Mrs. Walden, who suffered shock; and Mrs. Ross, who sustained a broken leg.

The late Mr .and Mrs. Mills leave one son, T. Harold Mills, of Ottawa, to survive their loss.

MAY TRY FOR HARMSWORTH TROPHY

Press despatches declare that Sir Malcolm Campbell is seriously considering the idea of entering a challenge for the Harmsworth Trophy, emblematic of the world's speed-boat championship. The cup has been ably defended for years by Mr. Gar Wood of the United States.

MAN KILLED NEAR FARRAN'S POINT

Joseph C. Bonneville, 21-year-old Cornwall truck driver, was instantly killed on Friday afternoon last when the truck he was driving, on Highway No. 2, near Farran's Point, left the highway and crashed headlong into a tree.

Witnesses stated that the truck ran along the shoulder of the road for 400 feet before hitting the tree. The impact was so great that a 100 pound bag of sugar was thrown 30 feet through the air from the back of the truck.

MRS. JOHN LAW

Attended by a large number of bereaved relatives and sorrowing neighbors, the funeral of Mrs. John Law, of Heckston, was held on Wednesday afternoon of last week, at 2 o'clock. Prayers were said in the house by Rev. Gordon R. Taylor, M.A., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, South Mountain, who also conducted the service in the Heckston United church, assisted by Rev. Lloyd Sommerville, B.A. B.D., pastor the Heckson Church. The choir of Heckston church, augmented by Mrs. R. Beggs and Miss E. Hunter, of South Mountain, was in attendance and offered very feelingly "There will be no tears in the Skies." Interment was made in the South Gower Cemetery. The pall bearers were, Messrs. W. W. Beggs, Hugh Gilmour, Edward Hunter, William Law, Herbert Wilson and Samuel Workman.

Born Jean MacCormack, daughter of John and Barbara MacCormack, Mrs. Law was the last member of a family of ten. The deceased was eighty-five years of age and thirty-two years ago was married to Mr. John Law of Chalk River, Ont., who survives with a foster son, Mr. Ralph Law, of Kitchener. Retiring from the lumbering industry some few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Law settled in Heckston Village, close to the childhood haunts of Mr. Law. Being of a very friendly and gentle disposition Mrs. Law soon won the affections of the whole neighbourhood and of the Congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Mountain, of which both were members. Beautiful floral offerings paid tribute to the esteem in which the deceased was widely held. Mourners from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. James Law and family of Chalk River, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Law and Baby Ronald, of Kitchener, and Mrs. Christine Callbeck of Pembroke. To the bereaved husband and relatives the sympathy of the entire community is extended.

CLOTHES STOLEN AT MORRISBURG

Friday night last robbers broke in through the front door of Fred Nash's tailor shop at Morriburg and stole $600 worth of clothing. The loss included 10 men's suits, several heavy overcoats and some ladies' apparel. All of the clothing that was stolen was left in the shop for cleaning and pressing.

Nash, who lives over his shop, heard a noise about midnight, investigated and found everything all right. This morning, however, when he arrived to open for business there was plenty of grief to greet him. Police are investigating.

INGRAM—HOWSE

The marriage was very quietly solemnized at Holy Trinity Anglican church, Metcalfe, recently, of Miss Edythe Grace Howse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Howse, to Mr. Henry Dean Ingram, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ingram, of Ottawa. Rev. Cecil Roach officiated.

The bride wore a charming costume of Marina blue triple sheer crepe, with a taffeta quilted jacket and hat to match. er corsage was of Johanna Hill roses and lily-of-the-valley. Miss Laura Hodgson, who attended as bridesmaid, was in sapphire blue crepe with navy blue accessories, and wore a corsage of Talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley. Mr. Kenneth Draper was best man.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ingram left for Montreal, New York and Atlantic City, the bride travelling in a two-piece ensemble of brown wool, with hat and shoes to match. Mr. and Mrs. Ingram will reside in Ottawa.

THE UNITED CHURCH

A large number were present for the Communion service on Sunday morning. An appropriate talk was given by Rev. W. S. Atchison, on "The White Sign of the Cross," the text being Mark 15: 21 & 22. The story of how Simon the Cyrenian came to carry the cross of Jesus, was briefly told. Many of us like Simon have the Cross thrust upon us and we are resentful. Others are like Hezekiah who said, because of this I shall walk softly all my days. In the development of character this seems to be a law we cannot evade that if any man would follow Christ, he must take up His Cross. Let us not fail to accept the hard tasks which are made easy by love.

The evening message was based upon the first chapter of Acts, where Jesus told His followers to tarry in Jerusalem until the power would come. They did and it came and they went forth and witnessed. The unconscious influence that goes out from us is the greatest power we possess.

"What are we standing for in the realm of religion?" asked the pastor and he went on to say: "Let us stand for Christ, preach Him, love Him, and serve Him, who said: 'ye are my witnesses." Special music was contributed by the choir at both services. Autumn flowers were artistically arranged in the front of the church.

EXPRESS RATES REDUCED

Striking reductions in rates on long-haul, heavy express shipments became effective over the lines of all railway express companies in Canada on September 2nd, according to an announcement by the Express Traffic Association of Canada. The new rates represent a reduction of more than 20 per cent. Some time ago express rates on packages of 15 pounds and under were considerably reduced, but in order to take advantage of these rates shippers frequently found it necessary to split large shipments into small packages. This entailed an increase in packaging costs which is now removed. The present reduced rates on packages 15 pounds and under will remain in effect.

ORIGIN OF TERM "STERLING SILVER"

The word "sterling" on silver means solid silver of a definite fineness. Pure silver is too soft for use, but by adding seven and one-half per cent. of copper a substantial and enduring sterling metal is made. These proportions were used long before 1350 and have never been changed. "Sterling" on a piece is restricted by law to silver which is 925-1000 pure; and it is a guarantee that metal used in the piece is genuine. Sterling is an ancient word. It is a contraction of "Easterling." In the twelfth century, there flourished in Germany the Hanseatic League comprising certain free towns. These towns issued their own money. The British soon learned that money from these Hensa towns was always the same, always dependable. Soon they came to insist on the coins of the Easterlings or those from the east of Britain. Later "sterling" was made the standard both of English money and for the manufacture of solid silver.

MAKING DREAMS COME TRUE

Daydreams are not aways selfish. As often as not they concern the happiness of other people. The girl who lets her mother wait on her as if she were an invalid or a princess, frequently had in the back of her head surprising plans for making her mother's later years care free and joyous. The trouble is that dreams do not come true of themselves. They must be worked out.

If you are going to realize your dreams for making people happy, you need to get an early start. The dreamer is one of the most necessary people on this planet, but he has fallen into disrepute because so many who dream fail to realize their responsibility in making their dreams come true.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY THE AUTHOR

by ETHEL HUESTON

FIFTH INSTALMENT

Rackruff Motors hire Rowena to accompany Peter on a nation-wide tour in their roadster as an advertising stunt. At the last minute Little Bobby is engaged to act as chaperon.

A few miles out Bobby becomes tearful at being parted from her sweetheart and Rowena insists on taking her place in the rumble so that she can ride with Peter and have him to talk to about Carter. Rowena gets Peter to consent to divide the expense money each week as soon as it arrives, and astonishes Peter by eating too economically.

The three tourists reach Denver, after passing through Buffalo, Chicago and St. Louis. Peter and Rowena have many tiffs on the way while Carter keeps wiring Bobby to return to New York. The morning after they reach Denver, Peter and Rowena discover Bobby has deserted them and returned to New York by train. They are faced with the impossible condition of continuing their trip without a chaperon.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Well, you're not chained there, are you? There's nothing to keep you from getting out, is there? I'm in bed, too, but I'm not going to let a mere being in bed interfere with my professional future, am I? I'll meet you down-stairs in ten minutes." And she hung up the receiver.

Now on the whole, no one could have been more practical about things connected solely with business than Rowena. Her clothes were smart, for all their increasing shabbiness, but they were extremely tailored and trim. Her very manners were crisp and businesslike. But something—she didn't know just what—prompted her to discard her chic sports costume that night. She dived to the bottom of her bag and pulled out a soft and shimmery little dinner gown of enticing line and beguiling color. She put on her highest-heeled silken slippers. She got out tinkling little blue bracelets and earrings and chains. And she accentuated her shimmery sweetness with the flattering lines of a chiffon velvet scarf, deep and wide and ruffled.

When Peter, waiting rather sulkily in the lobby of the hotel, first saw her floating toward him he could scarcely believe it was Rowena of the rumble seat. Her rouge-red lips smiled at his frank amazement and she took his hand in hers, powdery soft to the touch and faintly perfumed.

"Peter, darling," she said. "I have a gorgeous idea."

Peter's sulkiness took instant flight. "Gosh, Rowena, you—you're exquisite! You're just ravishing! You must let me paint you like that. You're simply unbelievable — you're not real!"

"Oh, but this is the real Rowena," she said with seductive sweetness. "You never saw me before. You know only a poor little working girl trying to earn her daily bread."

"I—I've just got to paint you like that!"

"You shall." she promised, smiling.

"I suppose it's too late to do it now——" he began.

"I'm afraid so." Rowena drew a deep, deep breath. Something about it—something about her—made Peter think vaguely of a swimmer standing cold and bold and bare, body poised motionless, for a distance plunge into icy water.—"Peter—you—you are very sure you are not in love?"

"I will be," he assured her gallantly, "if you look like this very often."

"I'm serious, Peter."

"No, I'm not in love."

"Absolutely?"

"Absolutely."

"Then Peter, how about this?" Another deep breath—another premonitory quiver of cold flesh anticipating an icy plunge. "You know, marriage isn't the sweetly sacred thing it used to be. It's only a sort of adventure these days, a matter of expediency, or convenience, or emotional experiment. And besides, business is far more important. Don't you think so?"

"I hadn't really thought of it in just that way," said Peter vaguely.

"Well, you think of it and you'll see I'm right. And as long as we're not in love with anybody else or anything, and nobody cares one way or the other—well, why don't we—why can't we—don't you see what I mean? Why not just go ahead with the trip the way we are, and do the work, and get the money and everything—and just get married? That's all."

Peter hadn't remotely suspected what she had in mind until she brought the word out, struck him full in the face with it, as it were. And it pulled him up short, shocked and resentful, like a struck man.

"Why, Rowena, that's—that's very nice of you—I suppose. But I really had never thought about—being married to you——"

"Well," she interrupted tartly, "if it comes to that I can't think of anything in the world I'd like less than being married to you, either." But she realized at once she was off on the wrong tack and quickly changed her method. "Of course, darling," she added kindly, "I know we don't get along very well together, and that we're anything but in love. But it isn't a real marriage I have in mind. Just to cover the proprieties and let us finish up the trip.—And just think how much more money we can save, not always having to buy manicures and souvenirs for Bobby!—I know a judge in New York and he'll annul us as soon as we get back. No harm done."

"Maybe he won't do it."

"Oh, yes, he will. He wants to marry me himself. He'll annul us like a shot out of a gun."

"But, Rowena—" he began wretchedly.

"And, Peter, dear Peter," said Rowena moving prettily in the transparent velvet scarf, "I'm really a terribly nice sort when I'm not working hard and worried about money. Ever and ever so many quite nice people are terribly anxious to be married to me. I dare say as a married couple we shall get along better than most. And we will be careful to get rooms on separate floors of the hotel and make the clerks give us a receipt making a note of it, so we can use it for evidence that we have never—uh—never been—anything but just—well, married, you know."

"That's enough, if you ask me," said Peter in a troubled voice.

"I'm terribly hungry," said Rowena. "Let's go down to that cunning little place the clerk told us about and have a sandwich or something. And you think it over. I had to think up some way out of it, Peter. We just couldn't chuck it—not here—not right at the very front door of the Rocky Mountains. I couldn't bear it."

So they took a taxicab and went down to the nice little place and Rowena didn't say a word about business, or money, or professions. She talked softly of lovely, lovable things, and smiled, and the beads shone blue on her throat, and stars shone in the blue of her eyes, until Peter declared it was a very good idea of hers and they would get it done first thing next morning.

After breakfast the next morning Peter insisted upon using a small portion of their dwindling expense money to buy a plain wedding ring.

They had no trouble procuring the license, hurried directly to the office of the nearest justice and by twelve o'clock they were married.

Back in the hotel they turned abruptly away from each other as soon as they had their keys from the desk and went up to their rooms by separate elevators. And at one o'clock they were drawing out of Denver, headed north, both a little hushed, a little excited and more than a little nervous.

It was very late that night when they reached Cheyenne. The last twenty miles Peter drove slowly, creeping along as one who dreaded the ultimate arrival and when no amount of slowing down could postpone the inevitable he was plainly on edge.

"It's going to be awkward as the devil," he said moodily.

"Not at all," said Rowena. "Just go right in and ask for two rooms on separate floors."

"You'd better come with me. It will look odd for me to go in alone and then come back for you."

Rowena got out. "J-just be offhand about it, Peter. Be casual."

"Yeh," he growled. "They're going to think it's very fishy."

Obviously, they did think so. Peter strolled up to the desk with a conspicuous assumption of nonchalance, Rowena tagging nervously at his heels.

"Got a couple of rooms?" he asked the clerk.

"Yes, sir," said the clerk briskly.

"On—er separate floors, I suppose," said Peter hopefully.

"No—connecting," said the clerk.

"Er—well——" began Peter, weakening.

But Rowena nudged him.

"We'd rather have them—er—on different floors, if you don't mind," he stammered and his face grew red.

The clerk looked up at them strangely. The telephone girl came around from her desk in the corner and lounged within good hearing distance. A large man in slouchy clothes sauntered over from the cigar stand. Two men sitting near dropped their papers in their laps and one began to rub up his glasses.

"Separate floors?" repeated the clerk.

"Y-yes, please," chimed Rowena helpfully. "So—so we won't wake each other up mornings. We—sleep late."

"Um, I see," said the clerk. "Traveling together?"

"Yes," said Peter firmly. "My wife and I are taking a motor trip up to Yellowstone."

Rowena looked adorable to Peter when she joined him in the lobby of the hotel.

The clerk swung the register toward him and handed him the pen.

"Will you register?"

"Peter Blande," wrote Peter firmly.

"Your—wife, too, please," said the clerk.

Peter hesitated. "Mrs.—Peter—" he wrote slowly.

Rowena leaned over. "I'd rather use my own name, Peter," she said. "For—for professional reasons."

Peter crossed out what he had written and wrote "Miss." Then he scratched that out and wrote "Rowena Rostand." But it did not look just right to him so he carefully inserted "Mrs." over the scratched-out "Miss."

The clerk studied the name, the telephone girl looking over his shoulder as he did so. The large man in the slouchy clothes studied Peter.

"New York, eh?" said the clerk.

"Yes," said Peter.

"Yes, indeed," chimed Rowena.

"Motor out together?"

"Yes," said Peter and Rowena in well-timed chorus.

The clerk frowned over the room chart. "I'm afraid we're full up," he said slowly. "Not a thing left."

Peter leaned over the desk and his mild face looked quite grim and ugly. "You said you had two rooms," he said in a low voice.

"We did then," said the clerk evenly. "But just now"—he shook his head—"I'm afraid not."

The telephone girl snickered a little and one of the men sitting near by rustled his paper. Rowena flushed and caught a sharp breath, cowering slightly, but Peter suddenly showed surly and efficient.

"Oh, yes, you have," he said. "Two rooms, and we'll take them. We've got a marriage certificate, if that's what's eating you!"

"Yeah?"

"Rowena, get the certificate!"

Rowena hurriedly took it out of the side pocket of her bag. The clerk read it slowly and handed it to the large man in the slouchy clothes who looked it over and nodded churlishly.

"Denver, eh?" inquired the clerk. "To-day, eh?"

"Yes," said Peter.

"Some other people drove out with us," Rowena hastened to explain. "And they were unexpectedly called back to New York—and so—the rest of us—Peter and I—just got married."

"We've got a very nice suite on the second floor," suggested the clerk.

"All right," said Peter grimly.

"No," cried Rowena, faint but firm. "Separate floors."

The clerk grinned, not unsympathetically. "All right, all right," he said. "Don't be nervous, lady. We'll put him on the top floor.—Congratulations, Mr. Blande. She's certainly a beauty. She'll get over that nervousness."

Peter muttered unspeakable things deep down in his throat, and the boy came in and took their bags and led them off to separate rooms on separate floors. A loud gust of laughter swept up the elevator shaft in their wake.

In the doorway of the room assigned her Rowena turned and held out an appealing hand.

"G-good night, Peter," she said sadly.

GOOD INTENTIONS

A story is told of a man who was thinking of buying a cow and had his eye on a nice-looking animal that belonged to a neighbour. He said to the owner, "How much milk does she give?"

The man replied: "Wal, I don't know exactly, but she's a good-natured critter and she'll give all she can."

The probability is that negotiations ended right there. Nobody will imagine that the prospective buyer would have been satisfied with such an answer. When you are buying a cow, you are not satisfied by the assurance that the animal will do its best. The fact that its good intentions are emphasized, instead of its performance, is in itself sufficient to arouse suspicion.

You young people who profess that you are doing your best, or doing all you can, are not recommending yourselves. In the business world good intentions that are not realized mean exactly nothing. An employer does not ask what a worker meant to do, but what he did. While in every organization a certain allowance must be made for blunders and incompetence, your success depends on your ability to "deliver the goods." While good intentions are necessary for good performance, unless you can do as well as you mean to do, modern bbusiness has no place for you.

"If the amount of energy and money that goes into war research were focussed onto peace-time purposes, the results would be spectacular."—Julian Huxley.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By JOHN HIX

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Strange as it seems, the Japanese eat their national flower, the chrysanthemum, in a variety of ways. For salad they take the flowers, wash and dry them, then mix them with potatoes, artichoke bottoms, shrimp and capers. The bowl is decorated with beetroot and hardboiled eggs.

Sometimes they serve chrysanthemum leaves and flowers boiled. The roots may also be boiled and served with sugar and soy. During the Kiku no Sekku, or festival of the crysanthemum, the flower petals are steeped in sake, or rice wine, before it is drunk. Centuries ago, during the reign of Emperor Kwammu in the middle eighth century, medicinal perparations were also made from the chrysanthemum.

Montreal, second largest seaport in North America, is 1,000 miles from the open sea—yet, strange as it seems, this port is closer by 300 miles to Liverpool, England, than New York, The Canadian city lies in approximately the same longitude as New York, ,but is about five degrees farther north. Liverpool, which is still farther north, is consequently closer to Montreal.

Voyages made from Montreal go first up the St. Lawrence and into the gulf before the open sea is reached. From Montreal to Liverpool by way of the Strait of Belle Isle, north of Newfoundland, it is 2,785 miles. From New York to Liverpool, it is just over 3,100 miles.

Scrap Book Items That You Should Keep

You're building each moment, in architect's role,
A character building, a home for the soul.
So while you are building, don't potter and slack;
Just build a fine mansion, not merely a shack.

DUTY

Of all the watchwords of life, duty is the highest and best. He who sincerely adopts it lives a true life; he is really the successful one. It pertains to all parts and relations of life. There is no moment, place or condition where its claims are not imperative. The poet states it well:

I slept and dreamed that life was beauty
I woke and found that life was duty.

Wm. M. Thayer.

SIMPLICITY

The dear simplicity of homely things
That make of daily life a quiet song;
The gallant, friendly, lovely, lifting things,
That snug within the walls of home belong.

And O, the sweet simplicity of faith
That keeps the courage high when days are drear,
That lifts the heart above the maze of earth,
And draws the sympathy of Heaven near.

A LIFE-LESSON

There! little girl, don't cry!
They have brken your doll, I know;
And your tea-set blue,
And your play-house, too,
Are the things of long-ago;
But childish troubles will soon pass by.
There! little girl, don't cry!

There! little girl, don't cry!
They have broken your slate, I know;
And the glad, wild ways
Of your school-girl days
Are things of the long ago;
But life and love will soon come by.
There! little girl, don't cry!

There! little girl, don't cry!
They have broken your heart, I know;
And the rainbow gleams
Of your youthful dreams
Are things of the long ago;
But Heaven holds all for which you sigh.
There! little girl, don't cry!

—James Whitcomb Riley

HE WHO TRIES

I used to think that I
Could never make a pie—
And so, I didn't try;
But now, I bake each day,
My pies are good, they say;
Trying does seem to pay.

When life is full of woe,
And your spirit has sunk low,
And the row is hard to hoe,
Just remember that the way
To chase defeat away
Is to try, again, to-day.

—Lillian Collier Gray.

INDIVIDUAL

But God has made no faces, two alike,
How lovely that He used no common mould;
Each face in some wise way is all its own,
And God, alone, the Potter's secret holds.

Likewise, our minds are ever different too,
Delightful freshness that we daily meet;
Ah, what a crushing tragedy to find
The self-same mind along life's every street.

Why, then, do some men say the spirit's growth
Must form and shape itself from the common mould?
The God who gave me face and mind my own
Will let my spirit grow from its own mould.

—Lillian Collier Gray

I WILL BE SILENT

I will be silent that the wise
May wisdom teach me, day by day.
'Tis only clattering fools despise
The tongue that doth no thoughts betray.

I will be silent. Nature speaks
Alone when human lips are mute.
The voices of the mountain peaks
Await the stillness absolute.

I will be silent, and the flower
Perchance its magic will disclose;
'Twere more than worth a quiet hour
To win the secret of a rose!

The hush of day, the calm of night
Will unveil mysteries of my soul,
Till heaven may open to my sight
Through nature's ever-changing scroll.

POTATOES AS STOCK FEED

When the true value of potatoes as feed for live stock and poultry is realized, much larger quantities than at present employed will be used. With high prices for stock and poultry feeds and surplus of potatoes in Eastern Canada, stock raisers near the plentiful supplies of potatoes have a good opportunity to reduce their feed bills by feeding potatoes. Other countries make much use of potatoes as stock-feed. In Germany, for instance, only 30 per cent. of the total crop is used for table purposes, and approximtely 40 per cent. for stock feeding. On the other hand, in Canada 64.5 per cent of the crop finds its way to the table and only about 11 per cent. for stock feeding. Stock raisers, would be well advised to inform themselves on the proper methods of feeding potatoes in the rations to ensure the best results. In brief, potatoes are in fact "watered" carbonhydrate concentrates. They may be used, therefore, as a substitute for barley and corn, as in the rations of pigs, in which case it is important to bear in mind that four pounds of potatoes are equal to one pound of cereal meal.

OPPORTUNITIES YOU MISS

Sometimes you hear people telling of opportunities they have missed to become wealthy. Perhaps they had a chance to go in with Ford in the days when he needed a few thousand dollars. or to buy at a ridiculously low price a stock that was destined to a spectacular advance. Doubtless it is distressing to recall such missed opportunities, but so few of you ever have had or ever will have a chance to become millionaires, that you are spared this particular pang.

Other opportunities, however, you are all the time missing. You miss the opportunity to cheer some one who is discouraged, to do a little kindness to some one who is unhappy, to show sympathy where it is needed, to rekindle the fires of hope in a fainting heart.

If the opportunity for you to make a fortune presents itself, it is to be hoped you will recognize and grasp it. It is even more important that you should seize the opportunities that are all the time coming your way, to be helpful to those who but for your aid and encouragement might miss their way in life.

THE BOOK

. . . . . the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures . . . . . .

by BRUCE BARTON

MONUMENTS TO BOOK ALL ABOUT US

PROFESSOR HUXLEY did not stand alone in his opinion. James Anthony Froude, never accused of prejudice in favor of orthodoxy, said:

> The Bible, thoroughly known, is a literature in itself—the rarest and richest in all departments of thought and imagination which exists.

Bruce Barton

Said Frederic Harrison, foremost exponent of the religion of Positivism:

> The English Bible is the true school of English literature. It possesses every quality of our language in its highest form. The book which begot English prose is still its supreme type.

Lord Macaulay wrote:

> The English Bible—a book which, if everything else in our language should perish, would alone show the whole extent of its power and beauty.

And Charles Dickens, writing to his son:

> I put a New Testament among your books for the very same reason and with the very same hopes that made me write an easy account of it when you were a little child—because it is the best book that ever was or ever will be in the world, and because it teaches you the best lessons by which any human creature who tries to be truthful and faithful can possibly be guided.

So we might discuss the Book in its influence on literature and on law; in its contribution to the spread of the English language; in its inspiration of philanthropies, for, as Lecky said in his History of European Morals, it has "covered the globe with countless institutions of mercy, absolutely unknown to the pagan world." Volumes have been written, and will be, on every phase of this subject, but we do not need them. The monuments to the Book are all about us; every department of modern civilized life bears the record of its influence.

Instead of rehearsing again these well-worn testimonies, let us close this series with a single dramatic story, a story so old that surely many readers will find it entirely new.

It starts with George III of England, in the year 1768. In that year the Royal Society of London appealed to the King to send a royal expedition to the South Seas to observe a transit of Venus across the disk of the sun, which event was to occur in 1769. A bark of three hundred and seventy tons was accordingly sent out, and the island chosen was for a time called King George's Island, but later it became and at present is known by its native name of Otaheite, or, in its abbreviated form, Tahiti. It is there the modern writers go to get local color for their South Sea stories.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER

PROTECTING POTATOES FROM INJURY

It has been demonstrated convincingly that potatoes produced on wet land develop a tender skin and are more subject to injury when dug. Potatoes produced under such conditions, therefore, should be handled very carefully. While potatoes grown in dry soil are less liable to injury, they are often injured through the fact that this type of soil is not carried over the digger. To compensate this disadvantage, when elevator diggers are used sufficient soil should be taken up to prevent the tubers from coming into direct contact with the moving parts of the machine.

CRATE FEEDING OF POULTRY

Crate feeding of poultry gives the highest quality of flesh, and feeding in clean sanitary pens makes the best substitute. Only healthy birds of any kind will pay. Before confiing the birds in crates or pens they should be given a laxative and freed of lice. Feed sparingly at first. Two to four weeks are required for finishing. At the Central Experimental Farm, it has been found that almost any good mixture of home-grown grains, finely ground and mixed with milk, will answer.

A satisfactory finishing ration may be composed of the following: one part finely ground whole wheat; one part finely ground whole oats.

AFTER HARVEST CULTIVATION

After harvest cultivation is one of the most practical and most effective methods which the farmer can adopt to control weeds. If possible, the work should be undertaken with a view to preventing the ripening of the current year's seed as well as fighting a weakened root.

Heat, sunlight and dry weather will assist greatly in the control of weeds at this time. Experiments have proven and it has been the experience of many farmers throughout the province that the roots even of our most persistent weeds cannot stand heat and dryness when brought to the surface.

For the control of annual, winter annual and biennial weeds thorough cultivation of the stubble is recommended immediately after the crop has been removed, using the disc or cultivator. By following this method, seeds are brought near the surface where they sprout and may be killed by further cultivation. When this plan is followed and the soil is stirred up at regular intervals, millions of young plants will be killed and those which sprout late in the fall will be destroyed by early frosts Many farmers skim plow immediately after the crop has been removed then harrow and cultivate at regular intervals until freeze up. By plowing shallow weed seeds are kept near the surface where they sprout and are killed by cultivation.

An abundance of moisture together with the methods outlined above will assist greatly in controlling such weeds as Wild Mustard, Stinkweed, Ragweed, Worm Seed Mustard, False Flax, Foxtail, Lambs' Quarters, Pigweed, Shepherds Purse, etc.

A COMMON NAME

Clergyman (to small boy): "Well, my boy, what is your name?"

Small boy: "Bill, sir."

Clergyman: "And how did you get that name?"

Small boy: "My father says 'I came on the first of the month with the rest of the bills, sir."

MAY CHANGE ELECTION SYSTEM

Providing the city fathers of Cornwall at their next meeting pass the necessary by-law, a plebiscite will be taken at the next municipal election in December to determine whether members of council shall be elected for a two-year term instead of one year as at present. Notice of amendment of the by-law covering election of council members has been made by Councillor J. A. Phillips, who points out that the amendment would call for either election for two years of all members of council including the mayor or for a system which is being followed in other municipalities whereby those leading the poll in each ward are automatically returned for a double term.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

James.
Lesson for September 22nd. James 1:1-17.
Golden Text: James 1:12.

One of the most helpful and practical books in the New Testament is the epistle of James, probably written by James, the brother of Jesus, who was the leading man in the Jerusalem Church. He was called "James the Just," and, according to tradition, died a martyr, even as did his brother the Saviour. It is clear from the picture we get of him in the book of Acts that he was a steadfast character, conservative and cautious. When we examine the letter bearing his name we are impressed by its author's sturdy common sense.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Now James' epistle is an earnest sermon preached not to one particular group but to all of Christendom. Furthermore it contains more echoes of the teaching of Jesus than any other New Testament book, save the gospels. It reminds us strongly of the Sermon on the Mount, that sublime expression of the Master's wisdom.

And because it is so close to Jesus it breathes the air of democracy, for our Lord, to whom the common folk listened gladly, was the greatest democrat who ever lived.

And how practical is its counsel! Such mysteries as the incarnation, the atonement, the trinity are not discussed at all. James is interested in right conduct. A lover of the law, he insists upon the importance of works. James wants his readers to be doers. Righteousness is his passion. And so he puts 54 commands into the 108 verses of his stirring letter. "Do not do this," he says. "Do not do that." There is thus a negative prohibitory tone in his epistle, but it is none the less useful for that.

One of the finest parts of this letter is the famous passage on the tongue in chapter 3. Here James shows how powerful and wicked is human speech. The tongue, he argues, cannot be domesticated. It is an untameable beast.

It is easier to pay money out than to earn it; it is easier to spend taxes than to collect them.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS WHEN VOTING

When you vote for your favorite candidate on October 14, be sure you use only the black pencil provided in the polling booths, otherwise you may unwittingly lose your vote, says the Barrie Examiner. The Election Act says that a cross, and nothing else, must be made with a black pencil opposite the candidate's name. In the 1930 election, 3,992,481 people voted, and of those 24,119 lost their votes through improper markings on the ballots, or about one out of every 160 voters. In the approaching election, it is likely that more than 25,000 people will lose their votes through improper marking the ballots, and the risk is much greater this year on account of the larger number of candidates. Markings in addition to the cross, use of a pen or colored pencil, instead of the black pencil provided, and signing of the ballot by the voter are the most frequent causes of spoiled ballots. Through habit many men use their fountain pens, and deputy returning officers throw out their ballots.

PENNY BANK DEPOSITS INCREASED

Reports from the Ontario Penny Bank indicate that the pupils of the Winchester Public School had on deposit at the end of June, 1935, a sum of $596.40 as compared with $488.52 a year ago. The habit of saving is one which should be cultivated among the school children and it is gratifying to note the increase in the local school deposits.

NEW POSTOFFICE OPENED

Located for many years previous in a tiny office unfitted for the business it carries on, the Williamsburg postoffice was opened Monday in a modern, recently constructed building where up-to-date equipment aids the staff in giving modern and efficient postal service. The building, especially erected as a postoffice, was built on his own land by the postmaster, Mr. Alfred Casselman, who is also Williamsburg theatre owner and manager, prominent property owner, restaurant proprietor and municipal official.

McINNIS—FRASER

An interesting marriage was quietly solemnized at the United Church parsonage, Iroquois, Saturday noon, when Miss Mabel L. Fraser, R.N., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fraser, was united in marriage to A. Charlton, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan McInnis, all of Iroquois.

The young couple were attended by their parents only, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas Knowles.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy young couple left for Boston, Mass., by way of Quebec City.

The bride is a graduate of Cornwall General Hospital. For a travelling costume she wore a French Model wine ensemble of silk tweed, with accessories, and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses. On their return they will take up residence at 232 Adolphus St., Cornwall, Ont.

HAMMOND—McINTOSH

An attractive home wedding ceremony took place recently at the residence of the bride's mother, in Ottawa, when Miss Jean Elizabeth McIntosh, only daughter of Mrs. McIntosh, and the late Mr. Asa McIntosh, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Charles Hammond, Phm. B., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Hammond, of Prescott.

The rooms were attractively adorned with palms and cut flowers in variety. Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Paul McIntosh, the bride was unattended. Rev. Mahlon Robinson, of Athens, formerly of Winchester Springs officiated, and the wedding music was pleasingly played by Miss Dorothy Webb, of Prescott, who presided at the piano. Following the ceremony, an informal reception was held when among the guests were the following from out-of-town: Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hammond, parents of the groom; Miss Doris Hammond, a sister, Newman Hammond, a brother, Prescott; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell and Miss Anna McIntosh, of Brinston, and Mr. Frank McIntosh, of Winchester Springs, all cousins of the bride. Later, Mr. Hammond and his bride left on a motor trip to the Gaspe Peninsula. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hammond will take up residence in Ottawa.

CELEBRATE 65th ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Streight, of Kemptville, celebrated the 65th anniversary of their marriage on Friday last. Both were formerly of East Oxford and resided for most of their lives on a farm near Oxford Mills, making their home in Kemptville 25 years ago. Mr. Streight is 95 years of age and Mrs. Streight is 87, and they are still active in spite of their advanced age. They attend St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

During the day the couple were happy recipients of numerous calls and messages of congratulations.

H. S. LITERARY ELECTIONS

During the past week members of the high school literary society have gone "political." A new system of electing officers for the Society is in vogue and keen interest has resulted. The Unionist and Progressive parties are working might and main to elect their candidates with a view to gaining control of the school government for the year.

Yesterday afternoon the final speeches were delivered in the short but stirring campaign and to-day the students go to the polls—come what may! The Unionists support the plank of getting a piano for the school; the Progressives are against such a move. No matter which party goes into power, good government will no doubt ensue. We await the outcome with real interest and a summary of the results will appear in the next issue of the Press.
