DENNEY'S MYSTERIOUS FRIEND

"Why are you crying little boy?" Denny glanced up at the rosy-cheeked old gentleman smiling down at him. It was the day before Christmas and Denny said, "A stupid little boy punched me right in the nose." Well, I think I can fix that tonight. I just won't give him a present," said the man. "Ddddo you mean you're Santa?" said Denny.

"Ho, Ho, Ho. Merry Christmas. Take this present. Bye", said Santa. "Thanks for the present," said Denny. No one believed Denny about the mysterious man who helped him with his problem.

CHRISTMAS

Christmas is a time of year
When Santa comes with his eight reindeer.
And laughter fills the air
Cuz Santa came to their house this year.
And lights fill the air cuz they know that Christmas is here.

SANTA GOT STUCK

Things were going great for Santa until he got stuck in the chimney. His reindeer tried to get him out but couldn't until one reindeer got an idea. "I know what to do," said the reindeer. I'll go get Mrs. Santa." "Oh dear! What shall we do?" said Mrs. Santa Claus. "Oh, I can get him out. I will lift him out with my antlers".

"I am glad you are safe," said Mrs. Santa Claus. And they all had a good Christmas

Christmas Eve
As I settled down for bed,
I looked high in the sky,
I saw old Santa's big head,
As I looked he waved bye.
When I woke up in the night,
There were presents under my bed,
So I switched on my nightlight,
And found my bear named Ted.

THE JOY OF CHRISTMAS

Let me tell you a little bit about last night. Last night was Christmas Eve. All was merry. Every thing was just like normal, choirs were singing and families were getting together. All the kids were going to bed trying to go to sleep. Their mothers and fathers told them that if they didn't go to sleep Santa wouldn't come. Well, now all the parents were going to sleep when I heard a noise. I wondered what had happened. I walked into the den and there was Prancer and Santa was feeding Prancer some cookies. You see every house that has some cookies Santa would take in one deer and feed the cookies to them. Well I got to go.

Christmastime is here,
It's my favourite time of year,
Lights are glowing,
Outside it's snowing.
Presents are wrapped with ribbons and bows,
It's Christmastime, everybody knows,
People are singing,
Bells are ringing.
Everyone is glad and gay,
Because it's almost Christmas Day,
Children are playing,
People are praying.
Our stocking's are hung with lots of care,
In hopes that Saint Nicholas soon will be there,
Songs are sung,
Tinsel is hung.

AN OLD FASHIONED CHRISTMAS

Every Christmas morning at our house back then, Pop would be sitting in his old suede chair waiting for breakfast to be served. Ma would be guarding the gifts from Sally and Sammy and my dog, Barkley, would be whimpering to be let outside, to see if Santa had been in his dog house. You could smell the fat from the bacon and hear the sizzling of the eggs cooking on the old woodstove all through the house. After we had all had breakfast, we would all gather around the fireplace and sing Christmas carols as we opened our gifts. Christmas was so wonderful.

It was the time to give, receive, share and care.

TRUE VALUE OF CHRISTMAS

by Fr. Jim Esper
St. Mary's Church

If we are in tune with world happenings, then the feast of Christmas, for which we are now preparing, will be of tremendous value, provided we are aware of it. The giftedness of Almighty God to ALL the world of his only begotten Son, Jesus, is celebrated by believers under several aspects. This year, I would warmly suggest that we meditate on the coming of the "Prince of Peace".

Peace is the goal of all people of good will, independent of race, colour or creed. Thus we who are Christians should be ready to shape our lives by the peace that comes at His birth. Let that gentle peace of the Christ-Child be in your hearts and in your home. With such a display of gentleness and love in every home, community and country throughout the world, no one could remain unloving and unyielding.

Come Prince of Peace. Help us to be "reflectors" of your Love and Peace. May the Christ-Child, Prince of Peace, make you joyful and loving at His birth and always!

IT'S A BOY!

by Rev. Bert de Bruijn
Presbyterian Church

When was the last time you were close to a baby? Were you able to touch it? Hold it? You were not afraid of it, were you? There's something very attractive about a baby. Maybe it's because it is so defenceless, so dependent on our care that we become secure and strong in comparison. Or is it that a baby is so easy to please; a light touch, a gentle stroke, some cooing sounds and, bingo! The baby responds with delighting, dancing eyes and a happy cry. Perhaps it is the innocence that attracts us; there is no hint yet that this infant would hurt us in any way. We are certainly 100% safe. If we can be alone for a few minutes we can share with the young child our deepest needs and longings. These are safe too. The young mother will be able to tell you best how much joy she receives from her baby. And then there are our dreams for this young life, just begun. What potential! This beautiful little person will grow up to make my life a better and richer experience. This baby will one day have a wonderful impact for the good of the world.

When the Creator of the Universe wanted us to get to know Him better, isn't it amazing that He chose to come to us in the form of a newborn baby?

TIPS TO IMPROVE CHRISTMAS

by Rev. Roy Harwood
Trinity United Church

Christmas just doesn't happen. It is a combination of God and man working together. Not only angels and the Christ-child, but also shepherds and wise men, Mary and Joseph, an innkeeper and pilgrims make the story live. So often to-day Christmas dies before it even gets here. The following are a few suggestions to keep Christmas alive in your home.

1. Don't overspend. Remember those gifts have to be paid for someday. How many people lose the joy of Christmas by worrying about the bills they must face in the New Year. Buy what you can afford, not ALL you would like.

2. Be thankful for what you have rather than coveting what you see. Being thankful for everyday things such as life, health, family and friends will make us feel richer and more content throughout the whole year. This is far better than the short-lived thrill that many expensive gifts offer.

3. Go to church. Remember Christmas is the birthday of a King - Christ, the Saviour of the World. We need to rekindle the wonder of the shepherds and the adoration of the wise men.

Putting Christ back into Christmas can only be realized when we make Him Lord of our lives. Maybe then we will truly know the meaning of the angels' song "Peace on Earth and Goodwill to All Men"

Have a Blessed Christmas and a Happy New Year!

GIFTS: HOW TO GIVE, HOW TO RECEIVE

by Elmer Chen
Nationside Pentecostal Church

Sitting in the basement of my current host, I am 2,400 kms. from home. The Christmas tree is up, with ornaments glowing and lights flashing; Christmas music is playing; the children are dancing and playing. I can feel the warm fuzzy feelings of Christmas welling up again. It's a time of reunion with family and relatives, rest and relaxation (after the shopping and cooking is done), feasting on turkey (how do I get stuffed without looking like a turkey next month), opening the presents, and of course, spending money to make it all possible.

In today's consumeristic society, it seems that the season of giving has become a season of shopping, spending and indulging, or what advertizers call "saving". It doesn't seem fair that already busy men and women should be subjected to the pressures of "what should I get so and so" fifteen times over and "how do I do it without breaking my budget". Don't get me wrong; I'm all for giving gifts to loved ones. But why is it that every year, I find myself rushing in and out of every store in the city and being confronted by thousands of possibilities, all screaming out for attention, until I finally come home, whether successful or not, with my head spinning, my eyes seeing double, and a world in which nothing will stand still anymore? "They" (the advertizers) would have us believe that their products not only are affordable, but will actually save money. "They" would also have us believe that by buying and giving their products, we can make someone happy. How many of us would value a new sweater more than a good friend or family member? When shopping becomes the primary concern at Christmas, there is something amiss.

Perhaps we need to re-think the tradition of giving Christmas presents. Are not the gifts only one of the ways to express our love for someone? Why not make an effort to speak more kind words and perform more acts of service? I have always found these more meaningful than gifts. Gifts, however, should be given as one of many ways of expressing love.

As we reflect on the original Christ mas gift, a baby in a manger, it was entirely an expression of love. "For God so LOVED the world that he GAVE his one and only Son..." (John 3:16a). And this baby grew up to be a man and dies on the cross to take the punishment for our sin. Again, it was out of love for us that he gave his life.

And now, 1990 years later, the gift is still available to all who would receive it." ...that WHOSOEVER BELIEVES in him (Jesus Christ) should not perish, but have eternal life." (John 3:16b)

Elmer Chen is a fourth year Bachelor of Theology student serving as a pastoral intern at Nationside Pentecostal Church with Rev. Larry Armstrong.

CHRISTMAS REFLECTIONS

by Rev. George Bruce
Holy Trinity Church

For reasons too many to list here, Isaiah is my favourite Prophet. Is is not strange then that the thought of Christmas approaching should bring to mind the verse from Isaiah Chapter 9, which is used as one of the Christmas anthems: "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given." When I take some time to reflect upon those words, they are important to me for two reasons; Firstly, because the passage refers to the birth of a child, which in and of itself is a cause for celebration, but more importantly, it refers to the child as a gift. We cannot remind ourselves too often of that fact. Christ was given to the world as a free and unsolicited offering from God our creator. What a gift! It puts Nintendo and any other purchased gift far into the background. My wife, a number of years ago picked up a button which she wears in the weeks before Christmas. It boldly proclaims that "Jesus is the reason for the Season". When you exchange Season's Greetings with someone, think what it is you are exchanging. Not an excuse for time off in the cold days of winter, or time to party and spend money that you haven't got. No, Jesus is the reason for your exchanged greetings.

A child in a parish in which I once lived, solemnly announced one day that the reason we give each other gifts at Christmas is because it is Jesus' Birthday and since we can't see him we give the gifts we might give to him,to each other. I think that in a very real sense that child was on the right track. We can, in response to God's gift to us, give back to Him through our lives, and through our dealings with others, the gifts of humility, compassion, obedience and love. All of these gifts can be given freely but they are purchased at a cost -- the cost is faith. This Christmas there will be many in our community and the surrounding area who, through no fault of their own, will not have sufficient resources to celebrate the Christmas season without help from others. You may know of someone, if so call one of the clergy, or the Rotary to make sure that their name is on the list of those to whom assistance in the form of a Christmas hamper may be given. Why not also donate something yourself?

This year, we are witnessing a major build-up of armies in the Persian Gulf. As I write this the signs for a peaceful solution are becoming more encouraging, nevertheless, we must all pray for a peaceful outcome to this crisis. Jesus is, after all, the Prince of Peace.

So I would ask each one of you, as we all begin the frenetic rush that the world of commerce pushes at us, to step back, pause and reflect for a few moments on the greatest gift ever received. Christ Jesus. I assure you it will be well worth your effort.

NOEL!
Peace be with you as we celebrate the miracle of His birth.

SANTA'S NEW DEER

One year Santa decided to get new reindeer. He went to the deer dealer and got five used deer -- John Deer, Ford, Case, Massey, and Deutz.

At once Santa hooked up the deer and yelled, "GO!" Massey and Ford just stood there. Case zoomed off at one-hundred miles an hour. Deutz and John Deer took off at an easy pace.

Santa mumbled a few words that needed some cleaning. Then Santa said, "I'm getting my old deer back." He got them back and they were even better than before, and Santa still has them today.

THE UNWANTED TREE

Once upon a time in Tree Town on a lot, Little Johnny was out with his father looking for a Christmas tree. As he was admiring a tree he asked if they could take it. His father said, "NO. It's too short." They left with another tree. The tree was there the whole day and that night was Christmas Eve. "I guess nobody wants me because I'm short and bent at the top," cried the little tree. Late Christmas Eve the man in charge was closing up when a lady walked in. She asked for a tree. The man took her to the little tree. She stared for a while, said "No thanks" and drove off. That night the tree sat there pouting. All of a sudden he heard a bell and something landed beside him. "Ho, Ho, Ho, what's this?, the man said. And on the count of three the tree was on the sled flying across the country. Santa took the tree back to his elves. They decorated it up. The lonely little tree became an all year round Christmas tree.

CHRISTMAS

Once upon a time there was a family of mice. The mice LOVED Christmas.

[24, Dec. 1990]

"Oh..." said momma mouse "What shall we put in the children's stockings?"

"Oh...I never thought of that. I've got an idea! Let's let Santa take care of it!" "You mean Santa is going to come" said Billy. He was over hearing their talk. "Billy go to bed," Billy stared at his parents. "Billy go to bed before I smack your tail," "I'll tell Santa." "Look Dad! What's that bright light? It's a bird. It's a plane. It's...SANTA! What's he saying?"

CHRISTMAS NIGHT
I was out for a walk on Christmas night. When I saw a flashing light. I turned and peered and saw a fat man with a beard. I heard a clammer and then I saw he had a hammer. I asked him what he was doing and then I found out why he was stewing. His hands were all black, his face all red and this is what he said. My sleigh has broken down for repairs. So I helped him fix his sleigh. And I thought, That man really cares. The End.

A CHRISTMAS STORY
It is the night before Christmas and the Stevens family is busy putting up decorations. The fire is going, the turkey is in the oven and the cookies are made for Santa. "It's getting close to bedtime kids," said mother. Mother and father tucked Billy and Janice in their beds and went down stairs, hung the stockings up and went to bed. Santa did come that night. When the Stevens family woke up that morning they opened up all their gifts and ate Christmas dinner.
