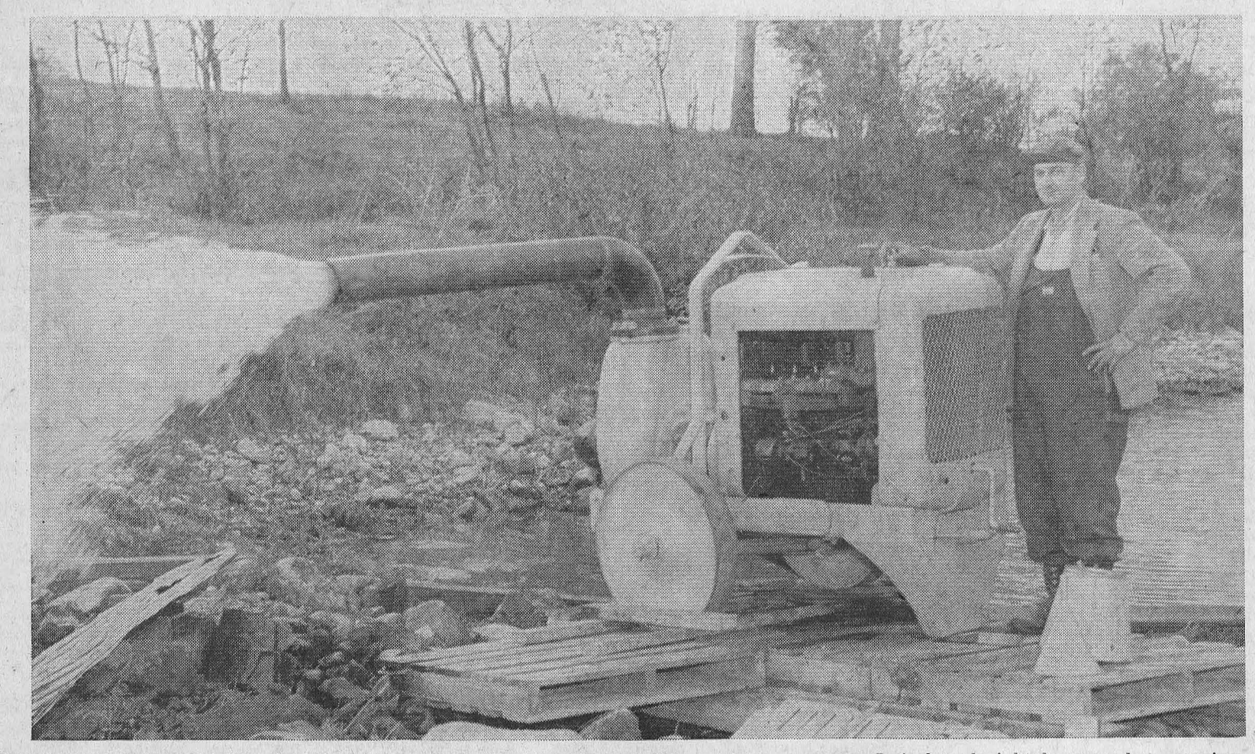
Precious Water Started on 4-mile Downriver Trip by Factory Pump



PRECIOUS WATER POURS downstream forced by the big rotary pump of Nestlé's. Situated upstream just east of the second Nation bridge at the end of the dredged channel, the factory pump has been pumping for a week, night and day, to bring water down to the village pool. The pump supplies nearly 80,000 gals. per hour and has added many inches to the water level here. A problem has arisen in that the storage pool in the upper Nation is dropping rapidly. With nearly thirty inches pumped out, it is feared operations with the pump might soon stop. It is hoped eight hours a day pumping can hold the supply down here and allow the reservoir to fill from the underwater springs. The factory needs about 30,000 gals. of water per hour to operate. The factory wells are also being used to their capacity. In our picture, Oscar "Slim" Olsen, machinist of Nestlé, is shown on hand on the daylight shift in charge of the pumping unit.—Record Photo.

Hospital Auxiliary Annual Held Year's Work Reviewed Mrs. M. Black New Prexy

On Thursday evening, October 3, the ninth annual meeting of Winchester District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary was held in the assembly hall of the hosptal. An attendance of 57, representative of 15 of the 19 units, was present.

Mrs P. Roberts presided over the meeting, assisted by Mrs Willard Acres, secretary. Mrs Roberts reviewed highlights of the past year, including the all-time high membership of 1,279, an increase of more than 200 over the previous year.

Mrs M. Black, of Mountain, succeeds Mrs Roberts who is retiring after a two-year term of office. Mrs Lyle Marcellus expressed appreciation to Mrs Roberts for her capable leadership during her term of office which had been so very successful in all projects sponsored by the Auxiliary.

The success of the past year, Mrs Roberts stated, was achieved by the willing co-operation and help of each and every one who formed a part of the Auxiliary. She also thanked the officers with whom she worked and, in passing over the gavel to the new president, Mrs Roberts asked for continued help and suppirt to Mrs Black during her term of office. In accepting the office, Mrs Black said she was honoured to accept the presidency of such an important organization and hoped that the same good will and enthusiasm would continue while she was in office.

Mrs Mulloy, superintendent of nurses, gave a brief resume of the support which the Auxiliary had given the hospital, stating in part, that each and every department had benefitted by the efforts of the members. Equipment, linens and food supplies, all of which are absolutely necessary, were purchased quite willingly. Thanks were extended to Miss McConnell for her continued devotion to the sewing needs of the hospital.

The financial statement presented by Miss Nora Elliott was extremely gratifying and showed the interest that the different units have in their work. Total cash receipts during the year amounted to $5,212.17 and disbursements totalled $3,355.26. The purchases during the year included linens to a value of $1,861.03; a coffee maker, $375; chairs for the assembly hall, $121.25; drapes, $270.46; fans, $478.42, and other items useful and necessary to the proper functioning of the hospital. The bank balance stands at $15,301.16.

The nominating committee, convened by Mrs Lyle Marcellus, assisted by Mrs James Bowman and Mrs Ross McConnell, brought in the following slate of officers:

Past president, Mrs P. Roberts, Winchester; president, Mrs M. Black, Mountain; 1st vice-president, Mrs Lyle Marcellus, Chesterville; 2nd vice-president, Mrs John Campbell, Winchester; 3rd vice-president, Mrs Keith Carkner, Winchester; secretary, to be named; treasurer, Miss Nora Elliott; sewing convener, Miss McConnell; Summers and Cass Bridge, Miss Willow Summers; Cloverdale, Mrs Carl Docksteader; Chesterville, Mrs Leroy Smith; Harmony, Mrs Wallace Merkley; Melvins and Annable, Mrs Ross McConnell; Morewood, Mrs Murray Dillabough; Mountain Ridge and Mulloys, Mrs Byron Ostrom, Inkerman; Ormond, to be named.

After the business session of the meeting was concluded, an interesting film was shown by Mr Alford, administrator, and following this, refreshments were served by hospital staff members. A vote of thanks was extended by Mrs M. Black to Mrs Mulloy, Mr Alford and the assisting members of staff.

Stormont Plowmen Hold Annual Match

Trophies and awards were presented 19 contestants who placed high in the annual Stormont County plowing match at a banquet held at Osnabruck Centre Township Hall this week with approximately 75 in attendance.

The one-day match, held at Osnabruck Centre, generated enthusiastic interest among the spectators and contestants alike, some of whom came from Mallorytown, Marvelville and Williamstown.

Guest speaker at the banquet was Mrs Harry Allison, Chesterville, who was introduced by Peter Manley, MPP, and thanked by Kenzie MacGillivray, reeve of Finch Township.

Others who briefly addressed the banquet were Ivan Eamon, Osnabruck councillor; Rev S. B. Crawford, Ingleside; Fred Timbers, Stouffeville, judge of the plowing match; Reeve T. H. Lane, Albert Lavigne, Stormont MP; Ken Best, Stormont Agricultural representative.

Mr Timbers expressed his congratulations to those who participated in the match stating they were faced not only with keen competition, but also "ground full of stones."

Mr Best presented the trophies and awards to the following: Class 1, (Horse or walking plow) Lloyd VanDusen, Mallorytown; Class 3, (With the largest entries) first, Arnold Fetterly, Lunenburg; best crown; second, Ronald Beehler, Crysler; third, Bernard Moran, Crysler; fourth, Clark MacDonell, Williamstown; fifth, George Hay, Marvelville; Class 4, (open to boys 21 years and under), Bert Beehler, Crysler, best finish; second, Murray Manley, Berwick, best crown; third, Robert MacDonald.

The trophy for the best plowed land was presented to Bernard Beehler, Crysler.

BIG SPUDS

Andrew Harper dug his potatoes the other day and brought a couple of large samples to the Record Office. He had two tubers that were monsters in their class.

The largest potato weighed just two pounds, three oz. The other was a little smaller at one pound, 12 oz. The big potato measured 16½ inches by 14 inches. Andrew grew the potatoes at the garden patch at the residence of Willis Harper.

Water Situation Worse River Level Lower

The heavy drain of the factory pumps at the upper Nation bridge has lowered the big storage pool alarmingly in the past week. Monday the level had gone down 27 inches at the suction pipe and was dropping with great rapidity. The water has reached the village pool now and has raised the level here considerably. The reserve is just about gone in the upper Nation, though, and when that goes, then the plant will be in a rough spot. Water is needed for operation of the big pans and cooler there.

Rain is desperately needed in the valley, both to fill the river and also to fill the dry wells of the farmers. In some instances, water for over 100 head is being hauled twice a day from those wells that still have water or from the river.

Village folk are asked again to have respect for their tap water. It may soon be necessary to shut down the village lines and careless use of tap water will only hasten the day.

Sickness Prevalent 'Flu Bug Busy

The community has been experiencing a considerable degree of sickness the past week. While everyone calls it the 'flu, most of the cases are not serious enough to cause undo concern. The greatest danger seems to be that of overdoing it before recovery is complete. The usual high fever that is accompanying the 'flu bug means that some care should be exercised after the patient is feeling better.

Chesterville schools are feeling the effects of the widespread sickness. All three here in the village report large numbers absent through illness with some classes cut from 15 to three.

The volcano of Haleakala, in Hawaii is 20 miles in circumference and 10,000 feet high.

Miss Elizabeth McGee Passes in Hospital Mon.

The community was saddened Monday morning to hear of the passing of one of its most beloved members. Word was received that Miss Elizabeth McGee had passed away in Winchester Hospital after a final illness of just a week. She was 88.

Born in Newmarket, Miss McGee was the daughter of the late John McGee and his wife, Lucy Brown. For many years she and her brother, the late T. J. McGee, operated a store here where the Ouderkirk service station now stands.

Always a leader in community affairs, she was secretary-treasurer of Chesterville Women's Institute for 25 years. She was a member if most of the organizations of her church, Trinity United; for many years she and the late Miss Helen Moad were the well-loved teachers of the kindergarten classes in that church's Sunday School.

Miss McGee continued active in store work after her brother's retirement and death; she worked with J. F. Moriarty until in 1954 her health forced her to curtail her activities.

Miss McGee lived for many years with her brother and sister-in-law on College Street. Mrs McGee survives along with several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held in the family residence Wednesday afternoon when the Rev E. B. Bugden conducted the service. Interment was made in the family plot at Maple Ridge Cemetery.

W.A. Meeting Highlighted By Travelogue Given by Bob Gilroy

Members o the Woman's Association of Trinity United Church met in the dining hall on Thursday afternoon for the October meeting. Mrs A. E. Jarvis conducted the meeting, assisted by the secretary, Mrs D. M. McElheran.

The treasurer's report, as given by Mrs Graham Smith, showed a favourable bank balance, with the current canvass not yet completed. Other conveners reporting included Mrs Howard Kittle, as corresponding secretary; Mrs Harold E. Merkley, for the visiting committee, and Mrs Lyle Marcellus for the parsonage committee.

During the devotional period Scripture was read by Mrs Earl Merkley, followed by meditation and prayer by Mrs A. E. Smith.

A highlight of the meeting was Bob Gilroy's travelogue of his recent trip to Surrey, England, as a delegate to the Boy Scout Jamboree. The excellent photography, as well as Bob's easy and informal account of events, made the program a very interesting one. The speaker was introduced by Mrs Myles Merkley, convener of the meeting, and thanked by Mrs Eric Casselman.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs Merkley and her committee which included Mrs Geo. G. Merkley, Mrs Fay Shaver, Mrs Earl Merkley, Mrs Ed. Forward, Mrs Foster Bowman, Mrs A. E. Smith, Miss Ethel Merkley, Mrs Wm. Fetterly and Mrs Harry Hummel.

During the afternoon Mrs W. O. Dixon, on behalf of the organization, presented a gift to Mrs W. A. McLaggan who will shortly be leaving Chesterville to live in Perth.

God Save The Queen

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II will be visiting this country next week. It will be a memorable event for Canada and a first time too for a reigning sovereign to open Canada's parliament.

Elizabeth II, by the Grace of God, Queen of the United Kingdom, Canada and Her other Realms and Territories, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith, is a slender, young woman of 31 who has become more legendary yet more real than any other of the reigning members of the Royal Family of Great Britain. With the Commonwealth making up nearly a quarter of the population of the world, over 640,000,000 people look to the young Queen to be the symbol of leadership democratic countries recognize.

Her Majesty and her consort, Prince Philip, will be welcomed with all the affection and respect Canada can show. While other seasons of the year than late Fall would prove more reliable weatherwise, perhaps the weatherman will smile and make their visit one of sunshine and warmth to match the welcome felt by all Canadians.

'Flu Bugs Galore

On every side we hear of someone who has the 'flu or who is just getting over it. The whole community is showing the effects of the epidemic with absences from work and school.

Several erroneous ideas have been circulated about the prevalence and seriousness of the disease. The disease is not in a class with the serious epidemic of 1917-18. This 'flu is comparatively mild and will respond to the most elemental health rules. All medical quarters say that immediate bed rest is essential, along with a liberal dose of aspirin and lots of plain cold drinking water. The same commonsense attitude towards any high temperature should be observed. Just the fact that the present illnesses have been labelled as Asiatic or any other kind of 'flu, is no reason to assume dire results to the community's health. Many cases of complications that have been reported after a bout of 'flu are nearly always the result of carelessness on the part of the person involved.

If you get the 'flu bug, stay in bed until the sickness passes; you will get better faster and will keep the bugs to yourself.

The cenotaph base has been poured for the Legion memorial on the Community Hall grounds. It was just a year ago we raised the matter in these columns; Legion is to be complimented on their community endeavour.

Chesterville Rotary is staging their annual Fowl Bingo in Community Hall on the 21st. The Poultry Club project of the service club is one that is well worth sustaining; over 1,000 chickens have been supplied to the 4-H members by the Rotary Club. This bingo helps pay part of the cost of the project; your support will be appreciated.

Seeing Little Lepra Cohens

As wonderful and witty a piece of writing as we've seen for many a year is that which follows. It was delivered as an invocation by a Father Manton, on the occasion of the visit to Boston of Hon. Robert Briscoe, Lord Mayor of Dublin, the first Jew to hold that high office in the city's thousand-year history.

"Almighty God, our Good and Gracious Father, we find ourselves a bit bewildered this morning. You know that the first President of the Irish Republic was a Protestant; the present Lord Mayor of Dublin is a Jew; the Lakes of Killarney belong to a Yank and the historians keep hissing in our ears that St. Patrick was a Frenchman.

"Help us this morning to hold high the brimming cup of hospitality to a good and a great man and to greet him not as a stranger but as a treasured friend. And while he is over here, make him in the best sense of the word a fair-weather friend, with none of those "soft" days they sometimes have in Ireland, where, of course, it never really rains—those are only silver harp strings coming down—just a few drops of holy water sprinkled on the windshield. Deign to give him serene and mellow weather so that he will go back as bright and fresh as the colours in the Book of Kells:

"And, my dear God, stay the man up with monumental patience as he heroically endures a hundred toast-masters who will gaily imagine that the very fillings in their teeth are fragments of the Blarney Stone as they ring all the obvious changes on a Jewish Mayor of Dublin. Help the poor man not to be "banquet weary" of all these glib attempts to paint a green beard on Moses, or by the end he will be seeing Lepra Cohens.

"Deliver him, O Lord, this real Irishman who risked his life for the land he loved, from any professional Irishman with an angle. There are mercifully very few, but spare him from these, the sham shamrocks, the bogus bog-trotters, the synthetic Sinn Feiners and especially the psycho-Patricks who love too loudly through a green base an Ireland that never was.

"Instead, let him meet our wonderful best, the many genuine practical people who appreciate that the purpose of this trip is not merely the wearin' o the green, but the sharin' of the green, by touring in Ireland and by trading with Ireland.

"Finally, dear God, bless this man, our friend, and this meal, our food, and today let Thy blessing come down even on the English muffins and the Orange juice, so that having broken fast at the top of the mornin' we may rise thanking You from the bottom of our hearts, Amen."—The Blenheim News-Tribune.

CARE AND FEEDING OF HOUSEHUNTERS

Buying a house may prove to be a long and exhaustive business, but selling one is no simple matter either, as Leslie Thomas, London, discovered when he put his up for sale recently.

"My first inkling that things were going to be somewhat trying came soon after I had put the property in the agent's hands," he said in a talk broadcast in the BBC "Woman's Hour," and before long he scarcely raised an eyebrow in surprise if he returned home to find a stranger lying in the hall measuring for carpets, pummelling the walls, or swinging the cupboard doors to test the hinges.

Soon he was able to catalogue his numerous visitors almost on sight. There was the Habitual Househunter who came as he would go to the movies—just to see what was on. Then there was the Businesslike Buyer, who turned out to be trying to sell something; the Vague Viewer, who chatted charmingly about her recent holiday and finally left, having quite forgotten why she came; and the Bad Weather Bargainers who came in on a wet day simply to get out of the rain. The fact that the house was for sale gave the chance of a lifetime to the Nosey Neighbour who had been longing to have a look inside it and relay disparaging gossip.

But no prospective customer was comparable, Mr Thomas decided, to the Midnight Menace, who roused the weary owner from his first luxurious slumber with a loud crash on the door knocker, and then explained that he had lost his way, but would like to look around all the same. "He insists in seeing the entire house and, worse, the garden," said Mr Thomas. "You stand shivering in your dressing gown while he solemnly paces the lawn for clock golf. When he asks to see the tank in the roof, you can: (1) Hit him on the head; (2) Hit yourself on the head; (3) Show him the tank; (4) Push him into it."

NO SALE

Wolcott, N.Y., shoe store clerk Gerald Bush smiled when the woman came in, put down her purse, sat and propped her foot on the stool for measurement.

But he frowned when, after the woman's feet had been measured, she rose, picked up her purse and started out the door. saying: "Oh, I don't want any shoes here. I just wanted my foot measured so I could order a pair of shoes through the mail."

George Sand, the French woman writer who died in 1876, wrote romantic, socialist and pastoral novels.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

Now some folks think if only they
Had piles of stuff—that isn't hay—
And bonds and notes all cached away,
Then they'd be thankful.

They think if they had lots of furs,
A motor boat that gently whirrs
And a Cadillac that sweetly purrs,
They'd be so thankful.

I haven't much of this world's money;
My bank account, it sure looks funny,
But still I find life's sweet as honey,
So I am thankful.

I haven't got a palace grand,
But I've a lot of good, rich land
And grass as thick as it can stand
And I am thankful.

Right now I can look out and see
The bright leaves on my maple tree;
And best of all, this sight is free.
I'm very thankful.

I've got the stars that shine at night;
The moon is such a lovely sight,
It fills my kitchen full of light
And I am thankful.

And food I have. I'll tell you flat
There's much more than I need of that.
It only tends to make me fat
But still I'm thankful.

The house I have is really good.
I wouldn't leave it if I could.
The cellar is chock-full of wood,
And so I'm thankful.

I know I'm not dressed like the Queen.
I can't buy everything I've seen,
But usually I'm warm and clean,
And I am thankful.

I used to be filled with remorse.
That's when I had those colds, of course,
But now I'm healthy as a horse.
I'm very thankful.

I'm sometimes lazy, it is true.
I don't like work no more than you.
Still I am glad there's work to do.
I'm really thankful.

I've one good hobby; that's enough.
To fill this column's sometimes tough,
But folks say that they like the stuff,
So I am thankful.

The many friends I have, I hold,
Are worth more than a mine of gold.
Their value never can be told.
For them I'm thankful.

I've got a church where I can go
To worship, and none dare say, "No."
We've freedom of religion, so,
I'm very thankful.

Our Canada's a good country.
It's big and rich and it is free,
For ours is a Democracy.
I am so thankful.

I know you're busy now, but you
Should stop and count your blessings too.
You'll find that you have quite a few,
And you'll be thankful.

For God's been good to you and me
And we should thank Him honestly,
And say with all humility,
"Dear God, I'm thankful."

DO-IT-YOURSELF LAWYERS CAN MAKE MISTAKES

"Pen attorneys," the convicts who hope to win freedom by finding a legal loophole in their trials, are busy at Ohio Penitentiary.

Each year these cell-block lawyers file more than a 100 petitions in local courts asking for their freedom.

Usually the petitions are writs of habeas corpus which the prisoners generally call "habeas escape us." The writs require the state to show why the prisoner should not be released.

Some of the convicts win their freedom.

Robert Crawford sentenced four years ago, won freedom when he proved the clerk made a mistake in reading the indictment to which he pleaded guilty.

Other prisoners learn sadly they should have taken up a different do-it-yourself project. A number have won freedom from the prison only to be met at the prison gates by officials from other states who have warrants for them.

One "pen attorney" lost his life because of his excellent academic efforts. Cecil Yankey, serving a life term for murder, won a new trial. He was convicted again and sentenced to the electric chair where he died in 1950.

WHO SPENDS?

WHEN new federal buildings, or new highways with elaborate cloverleafs, or new city halls are constructed, they must be built with the taxpayers' money.

Very often such expenditures are enthusiastically approved, because each of us seems to think it is some other person's tax money which is being spent so lavishly.

Canadians can help themselves, and the men and women they have elected to office, only if they remember that governments have no funds except the taxes they take from each of us.

Modern School Nears Completion At Ingleside

Spacious, bright and cheery are three words that can be used to describe the new $225,000 Ingleside Public School, which although not yet completed has been in operation for some weeks.

The nine classroom school, replacing public schools in Aultsville, Farran's Point, Dickinson's Landing and Wales, is a completely modern structure built of steel and brick.

Its exterior is of red brick. The upper half of the one-storey building is composed almost entirely of a series of windows which allow a maximum of daylight into classrooms.

Inside, there are nine classrooms, boys' and girls' lavatories, teachers' rooms, a health unit, principal's office, several small storage rooms, furnace room, a small kitchen and a combination gymnasium-auditorium which is not yet completed.

Colours vary from room to room. All pastel hues, there are pinks, yellows and greens to complement the white ceilings and natural woodwork.

The main entrance to the building features a large, airy lobby. In some parts of the lobby, walls are of natural wood, but it is expected they will be painted to harmonize with the school's attractive colour scheme. Other sections are coloured green and feature the granite blocks used throughout the school.

Flooring in the lobby and halls is a smooth grey-brown terrazo. A similar material is used on the lower walls of a long hallway leading off the lobby to classrooms. The upper walls are of a smoothed granite block, painted a gay, light yellow. White ceilings continue throughout the building.

A large combination playroom and auditorium is to the immediate left of the lobby. The 47-foot by 60-foot room, complete with stage, has walls of grey granite blocks with natural woodwork. The floor will be of a tile similar to that in classrooms.

A small kitchen complete with stove, refrigerator and cupboards will be built at the rear of this room.

At the present time, Wilfred LaPorte, school principal, reports an enrolment of 311 pupils. There is a staff of nine teachers and the principal.

Mr LaPorte is also in charge of nine one-classroom schools in the township of Osnabruck. There are 569 pupils under his supervision.

CLERK CALLER

Customers in the hardware section of a Regina department store were startled to see a man holding the lids of two garbage cans over his head.

He dropped them on the floor. A clerk rushed over.

"You certainly have to make a lot of noise to get waited on around here," the man remarked.

Roots of Commonwealth

"The word 'commonwealth' has a long history and has meant different things to different generations of men. In fact, it moves with the times, just as we like to think our Commonwealth does today," said Charles Carrington, Professor of British Commonwealth Relations at the Royal Institute of International Affairs, in a talk broadcast in the BBC's General Overseas Service.

"When the English language took shape five or six hundred years ago," Professor Carrington said, "the 'common weal' was an expression in general use for 'the public goid,' 'the public interest;' and in this sense you can find the word in official documents in the 15th and 16th centuries as well as in books. 'Weal', of course, is an old-fashioned word which survives in a few phrases like 'weal or woe.' It means 'well-being' or 'prosperity' and the modern form 'wealth' is merely an alternative spelling."

In one Act of Parliament of Henry VIII the three variations "common weal," "common wealth" and "commonwealth" were all used to express the same idea—the public interest. But even at that time, the word was acquiring a secondary meaning to denote the whole body of people, or society, and so, by an easy transition, the state or the form in which society was organized. The word "commonwealth" occurred more than thirty times in Shakespeare's plays; and in the days of Queen Elizabeth I it was most often used to mean "the state."

"However," Professor Carrington said, "when Sir Thomas More wrote his 'Utopia' in 1516, before Elizabeth came to the throne, he had no illusions about the unreality of his imaginary state. In fact, he said, rather cynically: 'While people talk of a commonwealth, every man seeks only his own wealth'."

Sir Thomas Smith, in his standard work "De Republica Anglorum," a discourse in the Common wealth of England, described Plato's commonwealth and More's Utopia as "feigned commonwealths such as never was nor never shall be. The word, in fact, was familiar enough and people were disposed to compare one kind of commonwealth with another, to discuss imaginary commonwealths, and to plan new commonwealths overseas.

In the struggles between the Stuart kings and their parliaments in England the word was used by both sides, often in the sense of the civil government as distinct from the Church, Professor Carrington said, and when Parliament had overthrown the monarchy they had declared the Kingdom of England "a Commonwealth and Free State" in an act of 1649. Within three years that Commonwealth had become a military dictatorship under Cromwell and at the Restoration of Charles II in 1660 the name had been rejected and, owing to its unhappy associations, had gone out of fashion in England for a hundred years. But some of the American colonies, when they had revised their charters as members of the United States, had described themselves as "commonwealths."

In Europe meanwhile, one of the word's original meanings—"the whole body of the people"—had been exten ded to mean "the civilized world." Such expressions as commonwealth of letters and commonwealth of science were not unusual. Macaulay referred to the powers of Europe as a "commonwealth of nations" and it is in this sense that the word came to be applied to the British self-governing territories. When the six scattered colonies in Australia had federated themselves into the Commonwealth of Australia, no one could have foreseen that Australia herself was to become a commonwealth within a commonwealth.

The first use of the phrase "British Commonwealth of Nations" was generally ascribed to Lord Rosebury, in 1884, but it was not until 1917 that the term "British Commonwealth" came into its own. It was used by General Smuts, by Sir Robert Borden, by Lloyd-George, and appeared in official papers. With the aid of this old and historic word, the political transition from Empire to Commonwealth had begun.

PINOCCHIO ON CBOT

One of the world's great children's classics will be brought to life Sunday, October 20, when the story of "Pinocchio" is aired over Station CBOT Ottawa.

According to H. G. Bigelow, owner of the Rexall Drugstore in Chesterville, the hour-long spectacular is guaranted to delight kids from three to ninety-three. The effervescent Mickey Rooney is cast in the role of the lovable puppet Pinocchio, while versatile Walter Slezak portrays Gepetto the carpenter who creates Pinocchio.

Other well-known stage, screen, TV and radio personalities in the cast include Fran Allison, Jerry Colonna, Stubby Kaye, Martyn Green and the dance team of Mata and Hari.

Pinocchio will establish a television first, as it will be the first time that a television spectacular will be viewed from coast to coast in Canada on the same day.

As local sponsor of the show, which the Rexall Drug Company will telecast throughout the nation over every English language televisiin station in Canada, Mr Bigelow states that the Pinocchio show will launch the famed Rexall One Cent Sale, opening the following morning. The six-day event will continue through Saturday, October 26.

EXPENSIVE REPAIR

A man drove his car into a Blytheville, Ark., garage to get a 35-cent auto part and ended up with a repair bill for $1,700.

Fletcher Womack said he was backing into the garage when he reached for the hand brake but touched the accelerator. The car lurched back and knocked a huge hole in a brick wall.

The crumbling wall caused a large overhead door to fall on Womack's car. The impact somehow jarred the car's automatic transmission into a forward gear, and the vehicle plowed into another automobile.

Womack was lucky. He escaped injury—and he also had insurance.

But he left without getting the 35-cent part.

APPLES

APPLES ARE IN GOOD SUPPLY and are not quite as expensive as they were last year. Here are a few of my favourite apple recipes:

Apple Whip with Custard Sauce

1 egg white
4 tbsps. strained apple sauce
2 tbsps. fruit sugar
1 tsp. lemon juice or ½ tsp. cinnamon

Beat white of egg until stiff; gradually heat in sugar, apple sauce and flavouring. Continue beating until very stiff; pile lightly in a serving dish and chill. Serve with chilled custard sauce.

Custard Sauce

1 cup milk
2 tbsps. sugar
1 egg or 2 yolks
⅛ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla

Heat milk over hot water. Mix sugar, beaten egg yolks and salt. Add hot milk to egg mixture. Re turn to top of double boiler and cook slowly stirring frequently until sauce coats a silver spoon. Remove from heat and cool quickly. If sauce starts to curdle cool at once and beat with rotary beater.

Dutch Apple Cake

2 cups biscuit mix
2 apples
½ tsp. cinnamon
2 tbsps. sugar

Mix biscuit mix according to directions for short cake. Spread in a well-greased pan. Pare, core and cut apples in eighths. Arrange in rows on batter, pressing sharp edges into batter. Mix sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over cake. Bake in a moderate oven 35 to 40 minutes. Serve warm or cold with whipped cream.

Orange Baked Apples

6 baking apples
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
1 orange

Arrange apples, which have been cored, in a baking dish. Add water. Sprinkle sugar over apples and into the centres. Wash orange and cut in thick slices. Do not peel orange. Arrange slices between apples. Bake at 350 degrees 40 to 45 minutes, basting every ten minutes.

Fried Apples and Onions

Prepare onions for frying and add to them one or two unpeeled apples, cored and sliced. Fry onions and apples together.

Fried Apple Slices with Pork Chops

Fry pork chops until nearly done. Add thick slices of unpeeled. uncored apple, arranging them well down in the pork fat. Sprinkle each slice with brown sugar. Turn once while cooking. The apples take about 10 minutes to cook.

LESSONS BY RADIO IN AUSTRALIA

A thousand miles is a long way to go to school, in fact, so long that some of the children on the vast cattle stations in the outback of Australia do not go at all, but take their lessons by radio instead.

Mrs Mary Cranson, one of the teachers at the Higher Primary School in Alice Springs, right in the centre of Australia, described how the scheme operates in a recent edition of the BBC program "In Town Tonight."

The decision to make use of the Alice Springs "flying doctor" radio to bring these "outback" children into contact with teachers was taken about eight years ago, she said. The teachers can not only talk to the children, but can ask them questions and the children can reply immediately by their own radio transmitters.

The transmitters were originally designed for emergency calls, and sometimes a lesson is interrupted by an emergency call and has to be continued later. A definite morning is reserved on the radio timetable for medical calls. Then there is an hour for women to chat to each other over distances of thousands of miles as they would chat over a garden fence.

Mrs Cranson said that children who learn by radio keep up to much the same standard as other pupils. They have lessons by correspondence, and send in their answers for checking, but sometimes the teacher checks their answers over the radio.

Prince Philip spoke to the children over the system when he was in Australia and one of the pupils replied with a vote of thanks.

35 ABUNDANT LIFE BY ORAL ROBERTS

HOW TO TOUCH THE INVISIBLE

The robe of Jesus has a story to tell. If it could only talk it would thrill the heart of the world. It was made by Mary and Martha to show their gratefulness that their brother Lazarus was raised from the dead. Thus it became a symbol of the power of Jesus over life and death! This robe became a "point of contact." To touch it was to touch Jesus. And to those who touched it, the robe became a conductor to the invisible. The Bible states, "For as many as touched His robe were made perfectly whole."

A certain woman suffered an incurable disease. She decided to seek Jesus for healing. She learned that it was practically impossible to see Him. And so she said, "If I can only touch the hem of His garment. . . . "

She pushed her way through the crowd, used the last remnant of her strength to fall forward and thrust out her hand to touch the hem of His garment. Instantly she was made completely well, for, to touch the visible with her hands was to touch the invisible with her faith. She had made her "point of contact."

What is a "point of contact?" It means that you use something material in order to stimulate faith which touches something that is spiritual.

It could be when the minister of God lays his hands upon you, or when you clasp your Bible in your arms, or kneel in prayer. But it is that precise moment that you set in your own mind and spirit to release your faith that brings deliverance to you as you believe.

One evening six or seven people met for prayer in a chapel. One of the group, a nurse, was absent. She was in a large city at the bedside of a nephew. This young man had a burst appendix and suffered blood poisoning. There was also an infected kidney and a streptococcic infection of the blood stream.

The nurse in charge of this young man understood the terrible danger of her patient's condition. She called long distance and asked that this group pray for him. "At exactly 9:30 we will pray for him," she was told. "Tell him to expect his healing at that moment and you pray for him, also."

Two days later she returned to the town in which the group lived. She found one of her friends in the back yard pulling weeds.

"It was the most wonderful thing I have ever seen," the nurse declared. "At 9:45 he looked up and said, 'What is happening to me? All of a sudden I feel fine. I don't hurt anymore.' "

The hospital, in perplexity, kept him one more day during which every test was negative. On the following day he went home. This incident is in the hospital records and can be investigated by anyone who cares to.

There was a time set to believe . . . the robe of the Nazarene was touched . . . the "point of contact" was reached and a miracle took place.

Maginnis–Henry

St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, Finch, was the scene of a pretty double-ring ceremony when Eleanor Patricia, daughter of Mr and Mrs W. Wendell Henry, Berwick, was united in marriage to Robert Thomas Maginnis, son of Mr J. H. Maginnis and the late Mrs Maginnis, of Lunenburg. The church was decorated with baskets of gladioli. Rev John W. Bell officiated.

The wedding music was played by Miss Lena MacLaren; soloist was Miss Joan MacLeod, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and, during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

The bride entered the church with her father to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal March. She wore a floor-length white gown of rose-point lace and nylon illusion tulle over bridal satin. It was designed with short sleeves with elbow-length lace mittens that came to a point over the hand, a portrait neckline trimmed with mother-of-pearl sequins, and a bouffant skirt made with a wide insertion of tulle and ending in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was attached to a band of sequins. Her only jewellery was a string of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses and white split carnations.

Mrs Colleen Borland, sister of the bride, acted as matron-of-honour and wore a waltz-length gown of white nylon chiffon over white taffeta. The shirred bodice had a scoop neckline and cap sleeves. The empire waistline was trimmed with appliqued medallions of pink and white flowers. A wide pink sash of chiffon fell to the hemline of the skirt at the back.

Bridesmaids were Miss Helen McMahon, cousin of the groom, and Miss Sharlotte Brownlee, cousin of the bride. They wore dresses similar to that of the matron-of-honour. The appliqued medallions were blue and yellow with matching sashes. They wore matching hats. shoes and gloves. They carried cascade bouquets of carnations to match their sashes.

Best man was Donald Eamon. Ushers were Gerald McEwan and Evan Henry.

The bride's mother wore a blue shagway dress with gold accessories and a gardenia corsage. The grandmother of the groom wore a black crepe dress with a gardenia corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Berwick Hall. Later, the couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls by way of Northern New York.

For travelling, Mrs Maginnis chose a two-piece beige wool suit with tangerine accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses. They will reside in Cardinal.

Guests were present from Welland, Toronto, Belleville, Montreal, Brockville, Ottawa, Morrisburg, Cornwall, Massena, Cardinal, Lunenburg and Finch.

The 17th-century Swedish author, Samuel Columbus, was a noted hymn writer.

Miss Lois Gray Honoured at Shower

On Friday evening, October 4, Miss Lois Grey was tendered a miscellaneous shower at her home. Miss Gray, Mrs Gray and Mrs Dillabough were escorted to nicely decorated chairs and presented with corsages.

Mrs Harold Merkley read an appropriate address, after which gifts were passed and placed on a table decorated with pink and white streamers. Miss Gray expressed her thanks in her usual charming manner.

Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs Harvey Barkley, Mrs Gerald Styles, Mrs Fred Robinson and Mrs Lloyd Merkley.

The children, their mothers and guests were welcomed after which Scripture was read and a story told.

The Mite Boxes, which the infants had been diligently filling, were collected and dedicated to service in the mission field.

Stephen Durant and Alan Doering each contributed a pleasing solo, accompanied by Mrs C. A. Graham.

Graduates from the Baby Band were welcomed to the Mission Band by President Beverly Butcher. Those receiving graduation diplomas were: Andrew Forward, Tommy Forward. Brian Smith, Douglas Merkley, Sharon White, Jeffrey Johnston, Brian McMillan, Wilma Smith, Brian Brownlee, Alan Doering, Nancy Cross, Betty Lou Casselman, Jane Helmer, Jim Moffatt, Patsy Fawcett.

Mrs Lapp closed the meeting with prayer after which delightful refreshments were served.

IN MEMORIAM

IRVING—In memory of a wonderful husband and father, Mr Herbie Irving, who was accidentally killed October 6, 1945.
There is someone who misses you sadly, Father,
And finds the time long since you went;
There is someone who thinks of you always
And tries to be brave and content.
Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be,
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.
He gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it cost to lose you
No one will ever know.
Ever remembered by Wife, Daughter and Son.

IN MEMORIAM

IRVING—In loving memory of a wonderful daughter and sister, Gwendolyne Irving, who was accidentally killed October 6, 1945.
Dear One, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with me
As you always were before.
God knows how much I miss you,
Never shall your memory fade;
Loving thought will always wander
To the spot where you are laid.
A faithful girl. one of the best,
May God grant you eternal rest.
Ever remembered by Mother, Sisters and Brother.

IN MEMORIAM

OUDERKIRK—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs James Ouderkirk, who passed away October 16, 1951.
Oh, Mother, may I never falter in your footsteps
Along the righteous path you trod;
May I have your strength and courage
When I kneel before our God.
Ever remembered by daughter Mabel.

Grantley W.A. Meets At Shaver Home

Grantley W.A. met at the home of Mrs A. J. Shaver and Miss Bessie Shaver Wednesday afternoon, with 10 members present. All present were pleased to find Mrs Shaver in such good health and so cheerful despite her advance years. She selected two of her favourite hymns to be sung in the meeting.

Mrs Donald Carr and Mrs Wilburn Robinson presented the worship service. The president, Mrs Gordon, led in discussion of the topic, "Service," with reference to the lives of David Livingston, Wm. Booth and Charles Wesley.

The secretary, Mrs Hesson, read the minutes. The double collection was dedicated and the roll call next month will be a favourite written recipe. Current events were given by several members.

Mrs M. O. Robinson read a letter from Mrs Glenn McMillan thanking the W.A. for flowers and cards while she was in hospital. Repairs to the church were discussed and a social evening and bazaar for early November planned. Mrs Ernest Beckstead took several orders for cards.

Readings with a Thanksgiving flavour were given by Mrs Albert Winters, Miss Bessie Shaver and Mrs Donald Carr and a contest on kinds of cake was won by Mrs Albert Winters.
