Sanatorium Site Will Cost United Counties Over $15,255.00

The site of the recently erected St. Lawrence Sanatorium, covering a little more than 14 acres, will cost the counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry $15,255, according to a decision handed down yesterday by County Judge Francis T. Costello in an arbitration begun when counties' council decided to expropriate the site.

The sanitorium is located about six miles east of Cornwall, facing the St. Lawrence river, on portions of farms owned by Mrs. Catherine Purcell and Mrs. Annie Craig. In the decision Mrs. Purcell was awarded $8,337, while Mrs. Craig received $6,918. Judge Costello assessed the costs of the arbitration proceedings and solicitors' fees of the farm owners on the counties.

The land taken from the Craig farm has a frontage on the highway of 279 feet and contains 5.57 acres, while the land expropriated from the Purcell farm has a frontage of 458.7 feet and contains 8.91 acres. In settling the value of the land, Judge Costello said he took into consideration the river frontage lots on each farm, and their value as possible sites for summer cottages.

To each of the parties, Judge Costello allowed an additional ten per cent. to cover time, costs and expenses incurred as a result of the proceedings. Interest in the total amounts was allowed from October, 1936.

Favours Jail Sentence For Drunken Drivers

Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced yesterday that he favored mandatory jail sentences for drunken drivers. A proposal to make them so will receive the full consideration of his government, he said.

"Any person driving a car under the influence of liquor should go to jail," he said, pointing out many magistrates did not impose jail terms on first offenders. The Premier did not favor mandatory jail sentences in reckless driving first offences.

"In view of the various degrees of recklessness, the magistrate should have some discretion. But I repeat that any person driving a car under the influence of liquor should go to jail," said Mr. Hepburn.

The Premier said he could not commit the government to legislation to make jail terms mandatory as consideration would have to be given by the Attorney-General's Department to such a step.

Election Results In Monday's Contests

Finch Township

Councillors elected for Finch township Monday were: M. McGillvray, 451; C. MacKinnon, 393; H. Trudeau, 358, and J. Dutt, 196. Acclamations were given on nomination day to Reeve George Pollock and Deputy Reeve Simon Ouderkirk.

Mountain Township

With Reeve Robert Brown and Deputy Reeve Charles V. Shaver having received acclamations on nomination day, elections for councillors for Mountain township resulted as follows: Douglas Beggs, William Carlyle and Fred Hutt. Robert Shaver and William R. McMenomy were the defeated candidates.

Roxborough Township

George H. McIntosh, former reeve and ex-warden of the three united counties, was elected reeve of Roxborough township on Monday by a vote of 441 over his opponent, Hugh Blair, who polled 335 votes. Everett Helmer was elected deputy reeve by a vote of 494, defeating Adelard Emmell, who received 368 votes. Councillors elected by acclamation were Neil McIntosh, Daniel McNeil and Ernest McPhail.

Magistrate Had Busy Session On Monday

The following cases were disposed of by Magistrate John McCormick during the past week:

Floyd Morell, Williamsburg, was charged with causing a disturbance by being drunk. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs of $5.65.

Robert Whittaker, Williamsburg, also paid a fine of $10 and costs of $5.65 on a similar charge.

Harold Rutherford, Williamsburg, was fined $10 and costs of $3.75 on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place.

Found guilty of theft, Sidney Froats, of Winchester Springs, was given a suspended sentence and ordered to pay the costs of $15.25 or spend 30 days in jail.

Victor Armstrong, Inkerman, pleaded guilty to a charge of common assault and was fined $10. and costs of $3.75.

An action entered by Bruno Turpin of Edwards, against Samuel W. Reid, of Mountain, for non-payment of wages amounting to $14.00 was dismissed with costs levied against Turpin. In this case Turpin had entered into an agreement with Reid to work for 1 month. At the end of 21 days he left his job without notice or reason to his employer. In rendering his decision, Magistrate McCormick stated that Turpin had violated his contract and as a result was not entitled to remuneration.

Fast Hockey Features Opening League Games

If the brand of hockey displayed at the opening games of the local town league, is any indication of what may be expected as the season progresses and the teams round into shape, Winchester and district hockey fans are assured of some real good hockey this winter, with plenty of exciting situations.

Monday's games produced a fast brand of wide-open hockey—the kind that makes fans wild with enthusiasm, and as none of the teams have struck their stride, we feel certain that a superior brand of hockey will be played in the local league this season.

Flyers and Bessins Tie.

In the initial contest on Monday night Chas. Cross. Flyers played a scoreless draw with Hy. Bessin's sextette. Both teams travelled at a fast clip for the entire game, and while there may have been times when the goalies had some close calls, there were no serious scoring threats from either team.

The Flyers, composed mostly of Junior players, are an aggressive outfit and have plenty of colour. They should give a good account of themselves before the winter is over. On the other hand, Hy. Bessin has rounded into shape what looks like a team that will go places and do things before the schedule ends. Most of the players have been drafted from Williamsburg and Nation Valley, with an odd player from Ottawa thrown in for good measure.

The line-ups were:

Flyers—Goal, G. Coons; def., A. Barkley and Chas. Cross; centre, W. Cross; wings, D. Melvin and W. Lannin; alternates, V. Thoms, G. McDonald, R. Allison, C. Curtis, G. Elliott and D. Lannin.

Bessins—Goal, L. Schell; def., F. Soucie and V. Schell; centre, L. Marcellus; wings, D. Gordon and R. Casselman; alternates, D. Harper, H. Schell, S. Barkley, A. Monroe and E. Shay.

Ford V8's Defeat Kenmore

Although Ken. Ault and his Ford V8's defeated Bob Little's Kenmorites 6-2, the visitors gave far more opposition than the score would indicate. Some of the goals scored against them were of the hard-luck variety, while on the other hand the breaks of the game were against them.

Art Summers, snappy right winger, who, by the way, turned down an offer to try out with Ottawa Senators on Monday evening, led the Ford attack with three goals. Ran. Wylie was the second point-getter, when he scored one goal and assisted in another. Lloyd Dixon and Kelly Coleman were the other scorers, with Lloyd Kenny, Clare Carkner and Doc. McLean being credited with assists.

Bill Casserly was the outstanding performer on the Kenmore squad and bagged both counters, with W. Conlin getting an assist on his first goal.

As was to be expected, the Ford V8's placed a strong team on the ice and on Monday night's record, they look like the team to beat. However, they are not so strong that defeat is impossible, but they can be depended upon to give their opponents plenty of trouble in each contest. The three newcomers, Eric Marquette, Kelly Coleman and Dalton Robinson have strengthened them considerably, while the rest of the players are up to their usual high standards of playing ability.

The Kenmore team, which is making its first appearance in town league hockey this winter, is an aggregation of fine players. Once the boys get accustomed to the local rink and get better acquainted with the temperament of the fans, they will make the other teams step. Their goalie, H. Curry, is one of those cool-headed fellows who puts his whole heart into the game and the fact that six goals were scored against him in his first contest here doesn't mean a thing. He is supported by plenty of good material and we can forsee possibilities of some outstanding performances by this team later on in the season.

The line-ups were:

Ford V8's—Goal, H. Williams; def., D. McLean and E. Marquette; centre, L. Kenny; wings, A. Summers and L. Cameron; alternates, K. Coleman, R. Wylie, D. Robinson, C. Carkner and L. Dixon.

Kenmore—Goal, H. Curry; defence, S. Porteous and V. Porteous; centre, D. Craig; wings, B. Casserly and W. Conlin; alternates, R. Warren, A. Clarmo, H. Warren, H. Conlin and D. Carkner.

Referee—Melvin Scott.

Kenmore Defeats Flyers

In a regular scheduled game of the Town League, played at Kenmore last night, the Flyers were defeated 3-2 in a hard-fought contest. At one time during the game the local team was two goals up, but being unaccustomed to the open rink were unable to hold their lead as Kenmore pushed the play in an effort to win. Dwight Lannin and Ritchie Allison were the local scorers.

Canadian Defence Weakness a "Menace" To U. S. Security

The Toronto Daily Star, in a despatch from its Ottawa Correspondent, says to-day:

"Unless Canada takes adequate measures to defend her coast lines, particularly on the Pacific, the 4,000-mile unfortified boundary between the United States and Canada may soon become a thing of the past.

"Information reaching Ottawa is to the effect that United States army and navy officials regard the weakness of Canadian defences as a menace to U. S. security. While no effort is made to stampede Canada into big armament outlays, the U. S. officials say the alternative is strong U. S. defences along the Canadian border in coastal areas to prevent any aggressor using Canadian territory as a base of attack upon the United States."

No Govt. Comment.

Government officials would not comment on an Ottawa dispatch to the Toronto Star yesterday declaring that unless Canada takes adequate coastal defence measures United States might build forts along the international boundary to guard against invasion by another nation through the Dominion.

If intimations to this effect have been received by the government from Washington, they are being kept secret. It was recalled, however, that already Defence Minister Mackenzie has announced elaborate additions and improvements to coastal fortifications on the Pacific coast.

In an address delivered recently in Toronto, Mr. Mackenzie announced the government was paying particular attention to coastal protection and would place new fortifications at Esquimalt, Vancouver and York Island.

Emphasizing the importance of aircraft in defence operations, the minister declared his department would obtain as quickly as possible the necessary reconnaisance, torpedo-bomber, observation and fighter aircraft to strengthen this arm of the forces.

Mr. Mackenzie is on a cruise to the West Indies and will not be in his office until the end of the week.—Ottawa Citizen.

N. MOUNTAIN TRUSTEES

The annual meeting of the North Mountain Consolidated School was held last week, and the election of trustees for the coming year took place, which resulted in the entire school board being elected by acclamation. The following are the members: Chairman, Robert Beggs, who has the distinction of holding the office for sixteen years; trustees, Fred Cassidy, M. Allen, L. Kerr, J. Hyndman; secretary, Dr. Sam Brown; treasurer, Harry Patterson.

METCALFE CURLERS DEFEND CHRISTIE CUPS

On Tuesday evening two rinks of local curlers journeyed to Metcalfe in quest of the Christie Cups, but were unsuccessful in their venture. The rink skipped by Will Johnston succeeded in holding J. P. Dowser's rink from Metcalfe to a 11-11 draw, but the second rink, skipped by T. O. VanBridger, suffered a severe defeat, the score being 19 to 5. His opponent was A. C. Blair. The rinks and scores were:

Metcalfe—Rev. M. J. Mooney, J. Lee, F. Dowser, J. P. Dowser, skip, 11.
Winchester—R. Callan, W. Watson, J. D. Stewart, W. Johnston, skip, 11.
Metcalfe—J. E. Craig, G. Noble, J. Rowan, A. C. Blair, skip, 19.
Winchester—W. J. Cass, W. J. Stewart, W. Moffat, T. VanBridger, skip, 5.
Majority for Metcalfe, 14 shots.

WILL PLAY AT MONTREAL

Local curlers are looking forward eagerly to the Edinburgh Granites competition which is being held in Montreal on Friday and Saturday of this week. For several years the local Club has considered making an entry in this outstanding tournament, but it was not until this year that some real action was taken in the matter.

As a result two strong rinks will leave tomorrow to match their skill with clubs from all over the country, in quest of the "stanes." Those making the trip include Messrs. W. J. Stewart, J. D. Stewart, Walter Moffat, Lyle Merkley, G. E. Payne, W. A. Rowat, Lorne Kinkaid and Will Johnston.

Last year the Morrisburg Club was successful in winning a beautiful set of granites, and since viewing the prize, the local curlers have become determined to win those "rocks" or "go down fighting." We wish the Winchester curlers every success in their quest.

Dr. Neil Malloch Presented With Cane

An interesting event took place recently when the professional confreres of Dr. Neil Malloch, for many years one of the leading physicians of this district, presented him with a gold-headed cane in recognition of his unfailing interest in the practice of medicine and his valued co-operation in all things pertaining to the profession. The presentation was made by Dr. J. J. McKendry on behalf of his fellow-physicians, accompanied by the following address:

Dear Dr. Malloch:

We, your confreres, of Winchester, desire to express our regret at your departure to Ottawa.

Your professional etiquette, your valued opinion in consultation, and your readiness to co-operate, makes us remember you with great pleasure.

In order that time may not dim your recollections of Winchester, we ask you to accept this walking stick as a token of our appreciation of yourself.

We hope and pray that this may be a true support to you when you need it, and bring to you happy memories of Winchester

—Dr. P. McLaughlin, Dr. J. J. McKendry and Dr. H. S. Gross.

Dr. Malloch and Miss Maude Malloch have taken up residence in Ottawa.

New Year's Concert Was Greatly Enjoyed

Although weather conditions were unfavorable and heavy roads hindered district citizens from coming to town on New Year's Night, the entertainment presented by the Young People's Dramatic Club of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, in the town hall, was well attended.

Featured on the program was a play entitled: "The Automatic Butler." The presentation was of the comedy-drama type and created much laughter. Members of the cast portrayed their roles in a very intelligent manner, and the directresses, Mrs. George Wilson and Miss Clara Anderson, are to be commended for their efforts in training and instructing the players during the rehearsal period. There was not a dull moment in the entire three acts, and the audience heartily applauded at the close of each curtain.

The cast was as follows:

Mrs. Violet Mackle....Florence Gordon
Lily Preston .....Lorna Workman
Abdon Bennyworth .....Hugh Wilson
Elliott Bailey .....Robert Robinson
Matilda Jane (Jenny) Sandkitchen—Jessie Gordon
Slick Babbitt .....Randall Wylie
Kitty Preston .....Martha Knowland
John Preston .....Charles Cross
Conny Bryant .....Mrs. Hugh Wilson
Adrian Bryant .....John Christie
Big Jim Mitchell .....Gordon Wilson
Maizie Dowell .....Lillian Bruce

Between acts a piano solo was rendered by Reggie Workman, while Misses Mona Robertson, Sybil Empey and Wilda Barkley sang a trio.

The accompanists during the evening were Mrs. W. D. Turner and Mrs. Geo. Wilson, while Rev. Mr. Turner acted as chairman.

WANTS NO SUNDAY PLAYS

Disapproval of theatrical performances on Sunday, whether in theatre, hall, in a broadcast or in a church was expressed in a resolution passed by Toronto presbytery of the Presbyterian Church at Toronto on Tuesday.

January 15th Last Day To Obtain Automobile Licence Plates

According to an announcement made by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, January 15th, is definitely the dead-line for using 1937 automobile markers. After that date motorists who have not procured their 1938 plates and driving permits are liable to a fine, if they are detected by police officers, who have been given instructions to check up on tardy motorists although markers and permits have been available at the local license bureau for the past three months. No doubt a rush will be made during the next few days as motorists seek to comply with the law respecting the time limit.

WINCHESTER NATIVE DIES IN MOOSE JAW, SASK.

Joshua Browell (Josh) Annable, 73, died in an hospital at Moose Jaw, Sask., on Saturday last. He went to the site of Moose Jaw 55 years ago as one of the first settlers and since then farmed south-east of the city.

Born in Winchester, Dundas county, Mr. Annable travelled to Moose Jaw in 1883 to find little but bare prairie. Tents marked the site of the present city of 20,000.

The late Mr. Annable is well-known among the older residents of Winchester, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Annable, prominent residents of the Annable settlement some years ago.

CANADIAN AIRMEN LEAD THE WAY

There are times when the thought occurs that "the cause of chivalry is dead." When we read despatches dealing with the bloody civil war in Spain and learn that countless hundreds of civilians, mainly women and children, have been ruthlessly slain by aerial bombs and artillery fire, we cannot help but think that the spirit of gallantry has suffered an ignominious death. The same thought occurs when we read reports of the war in China where death has rained from the air on congested civilian areas resulting in the wholesale slaughter of innocents.

During recent years much emphasis has been placed on the rapid development of the aeroplane as an offensive and defensive weapon. We are told by experts that hereafter war will be fought in the air, and any progressive nation will look to its air strength above all else. Thus in the minds of many, modern aircraft is looked upon as a weapon of war, much in the same category as battleships, tanks and artillery pieces.

Over the week-end, Canadians have had the opportunity to demonstrate to the world that chivalry still lives; that gallantry may still flourish if given the opportunity, and that modern aircraft are not essentially weapons of destruction, but ships of mercy and good-will.

For 39 days fifteen French-Canadian surveyors had lived without food in the uncharted wilds of Northern Quebec. They were lost, and a slow and agonizing death from starvation faced the entire party for the food cache could not be found. Far to the south, families anxiously offered up prayers for their safety and eagerly awaited news of their whereabouts. None came—until Pilot G. R. Spradbrow of Dominion Skyways roared into the air and set off in search of the men. Flying over the wildest type of country where a faulty engine, adverse winds, sleet or snow might bring death, the intrepid airman "fine-combed" the rocky, bush-laden terrain. For hours the search went on and at last his efforts were rewarded. He sighted a small group of men waving frantically from a small clearing—the search was over. Within 48 hours the starved men were back in civilization and another epic had been written in the conquest of the north by air.

Canada has led the world in northern flying and Canadian airmen take second place to none when it comes to using their talents for the benefits of others. An aeroplane in their hands and under their expert guidance becomes the symbol of chivalry—just as the fiery red cross emblazoned on the shields of ancient knights represented all that was good and gallant. The mighty aircraft of today may be weapons to some, but to Canadians they represent the means whereby greater acts of heroism, greater deeds of daring and greater benefits may be accomplished on behalf of all mankind.

JAPAN'S DIVINE MISSION

We doubt exceedingly if the average Britisher was greatly impressed by news despatches of an interview with Admiral Nobumasa Snetsugu, Japanese minister of the interior, which appeared recently.

The Admiral is said to have asserted that "it is Japan's mission to put an end to the "hegemony" of the white race and declared that "a general conflagration "would inevitably accompany the execution of such a task."

Further along in the interview the Admiral is quoted as follows:

"To break Chinese resistance we must absolutely stop British aid, perhaps at the price of war. Can we do it? Necessity will provide the means. Why does England not want to understand the futility of its support to China, which will simply draw the storm upon her? I do not want to believe that the Americans, whose interests are not affected by our action, will be taken in tow by England to fight us if we face the latter, arms in hand.

"Japan's economic strength is greater than the Chinese and the whites imagine. Never shall we descend to the situation of Germany after the war. The trading interests of the whites will have to be erased under the sun of Japan's mission.

"We are living through events which will have enormous importance in the history of the world. No one can say what rhythm they will develop. I am convinced that the yellow race will play the happy role heaven has reserved for it. The end of white hegemony will truly usher in the era of justice and humanity of which the Europeans and Americans constantly speak. I am not afraid to insist on this point. If need be, I will insist upon it before the whole world. The white yoke on the yellow race must disappear. Naturally the rapid realization of liberation will bring a general conflagration. But we say that whatever precautions [illegible] take the result will be the same: a general con[illegible]ration. So destiny has decreed. The important [illegible] is to carry out our mission without stopping [illegible]ondary considerations."

[illegible]well, well—"so destiny has decreed!" We won[illegible] Japanese Admiral has ever stopped to consider [illegible]d such a conflagration "burst forth" upon the [illegible]estiny may also decree that the Japanese will be [illegible]d a thorough and most satisfactory "spanking" [illegible] naughty boys receive from time to time.

[illegible] of course that Japan has been quite suc[illegible]g the methods of Western nations with re[illegible]but it is extremely doubtful if the Japs [illegible]ulness, stamina, skill and daring [illegible] British soldier for hundreds [illegible] that the Japanese will have to accomplish more than the bombardment of a few helpless Chinese cities before the average Anglo-Saxon will become perturbed over Japan's divine mission. Until now the British lion has merely growled—beware of its claws is our advice to Japan.

THE RECORD OF THE WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL

Parents and citizens as a whole should take considerable satisfaction from the report of the High School inspector forwarded recently to the secretary of the High School Board. The report indicated that the local school may well be ranked among the leading High Schools of the province.

Judging from a scholastic point of view, Winchester High School has for several years achieved outstanding success. The results of examinations have indicated that local students were receiving excellent instruction and guidance from their teachers and at the same time putting forth splendid efforts on their own behalf.

The following excerpts from the inspector's report speak for themselves:

"The teaching staff is a strong one. The high standard of scholarship attained in previous years and so well maintained during the past year, furnishes evidence of the efficiency of the teachers and of the co-operation they are receiving from the pupils. In extra-curricular activities, too, a full share of honours has fallen to the lot of this school."

Again we quote:

"A visitor is impressed by the courtesy and good conduct of the pupils and by the high quality of their oral work. Not only are they being trained in proper habits of posture and in the correct use of English, but they freely criticize one another's answers and offer suggestions as to how these answers may be improved. The discipline of the school is good."

Thus it is that the citizens generally may take a just pride in our local High School and the work that is being accomplished there by staff and students alike.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The sudden passing of Sir George Perley removes from the public life of this Dominion one of its most colourful figures. Prominent in the affairs of Canada for decades, the death of the outstanding statesman and philanthropist will be mourned by everyone.

Students in our local schools went back to their classrooms on Monday after enjoying the Christmas holidays. Ahead lie four months of real hard work for those who appreciate the opportunity that is being offered to them of obtaining an excellent foundation for later life.

This was in the village of Chesley, Ontario: "Ratepayers went to the polls on Monday to vote on a by-law authorizing the expenditure of $31,000 for renovation of the Town Hall. It was passed, 395 to 61."

A by-law designed somewhat after that fashion would be a good thing for local taxpayers to ponder over during 1938.

In spite of the heavy falls of snow which have become the custom so far this winter, Highway No. 31 is in fine shape and motorists who exercise reasonable care have no difficulty in reaching their destinations. The work of snowplow crews has been outstanding this winter and the highway is given a thorough "overhauling" after each storm with speed and despatch.

The Italian newspaper Il Popolo Di Roma this week is said to have accused the United States with cowardice in connection with the sinking of the Panay by Japanese aircraft. It is just possible that both bravery and cowardice are judged by different standards in the United States than they are in Italy. For instance, we cannot imagine our neighbours to the south engaging in the conquest of a helpless nation such as Ethiopia.

The assertion of President Roosevelt in a message to Congress this week that world peace was "most safe in the hands of democratic representaitve government," made a decided hit in the democratic European countries. Mussolini and Hitler spend so much time bawling out to the rest of the world the wonders of Fascism and Nazism that it is refreshing when a staunch believer in democracy stands up and "leads with a right" occasionally.

The annual meeting of the local Horticultural Society is being held this week and we urge all citizens interested in beautifying their homes and surroundings to attend. Those who serve as officers of the Society do so with no remuneration other than that satisfaction which comes from serving the community. They deserve your support and co-operation throughout 1938. Plan to attend the annual meeting now

The Ontario Department of Highways has announced that January 15th is definitely the last day of grace for the red and white 1937 automobile license plates. After that date, highway patrol officers are instructed to "pick up" all offenders using 1937 markers. At the same time it was pointed out that operators', chauffeurs' and taxi-drivers' permits expired January 1st, and that no extension was being given in this connection.

Incidentally the red and blue 1938 plates are good until March 31st, 1939, which is something to be thankful for.

Magistrate John McCormick informed the Press this week that, after considerable thought, he had decided to adopt a series of New Year's resolutions for 1938. These include the following:—

That persons appearing before him charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor will be given the maximum penalty in future, as this offence is among the chief causes of highway fatalities and accidents.

That individuals appearing in court on charges of reckless driving will feel the full force of the law, for such an offence indicates no consideration whatever for the general public, and where no consideration is shown by a motorist, none should be given to him in court.

Such resolutions, if adopted generally by magistrates throughout the province, would have a real effect in reducing serious accidents on our highways during the year.

PANTS BURGLAR

(Campbellford Herald)

Toronto police are hunting a pants burglar who empties the pockets and throws the pants away. It's different around here. Our pants burglar removes the contents of the pockets, carefully folds the pants over the arm of the chair and then tip-toes back to bed.

SO THAT'S THE REASON

(Smiths Falls Record-News)

We have been asked the reason that public school honour rolls have not been appearing in this paper recently. The omission is not the fault of The Record-News, but is due to the fact that the Ontario Dpartment of Education has decreed otherwise, with the result there will be no such publication in the future. The new course, outlined by the Department, is to eliminate competition and give the duller scholar, with the greater effort, an even place with those with whom study is but a pastime. It is possibly a good idea, but names in the papers were a great joy in the home of those appearing high in the standing.

SIMPLIFY TAXATION

(Cobourg World)

There is a good deal of unnecessary shouting at the moment, specially by various provincial leaders who should know better, on the matter of "holding on to" this and that item of taxation for provincial use. The people of Canada pay taxes. Some of the money is collected and used locally, some provincially and some nationally. Portions of the revenue which is collected by the Dominion is handed over to the provinces, leading to confusion of mind. The one thing clear is that certain services are provided, all over Canada, for which the citizens pay in taxation. Provincial and local collection is a stupid and needless task.

COST OF DYING LOW IN THOSE DAYS

(Trenton Courier Advocate)

The cost of living is thought to be rather high in this day and age, but if that is so what about the cost of dying. Particularly in comparison with the price of funerals in the old days. In 1857 there was a funeral in Trenton and all the particulars except the name of the deceased are given in the old minute books of the town offices. Presumably the bill was made out by a doctor and as the man, a Scotchman, had no means it was presented to the village council for payment. The particulars were as follows: Mrs. Allen, $10; digging grave, $5.00; goods, wet or dry not stated, $3.00; coffin, $3.00; laying out, $1; a total of $18.50.

Even at that low figure it stands to reason that the early settlers gave the man the decent burial he deserved for the early settlers were like that.

THE PREACHER'S NEW COAT

(Peterboro Examiner)

The minister at Chatham was in court complaining that some persons had stolen his overcoat. And it was a new one. The man who is said to have done the stealing was also in court, and from there he went to spend two months in jail.

Just how a minister should look at such a case we do not know for sure. As a rule we expect them to do all sorts of things which we ourselves would not do. They are not supposed to grow angry on short notice; they are supposed to keep the purse strings open and to receive all who come for aid and send them on their way rejoicing.

But losing an overcoat, and a new one, with winter settling down for business, comes in a peculiar classification. There is some reference to clothing in Matthew, where it says: "And if any man will sue thee at law and take thy coat, let him have thy choke also." But of course that does not say anything about a man going into the home and stealing a new overcoat even if it was the minister's coat.

FASCISM IN QUEBEC

(Almonte Gazette)

Anyone who doubts that the present government in Quebec Province is Fascist in its sentiment should read the following eulogy of Mussolini from the lips of Hon. F. J. Leduc, Minister of Roads, in the Duplessis Cabinet, as reported by the Montreal Gazette:

"French Canadians in Quebec to-day should occupy positions of importance if for no other reason than because of their superiority in numbers," said the Minister. "We must realize the brutal fact that in numbers there is strength," he added.

"Mussolini and th other dictators realize the principle of the strength in numbers," he asserted., "French-Canadians should also realize the importance of numbers.

"Mussolini has brought home to the people of Italy the realization that force commands, and that a race must be disciplined and cognizant, not of its superiority, but of the role it has to carry out," he added."

In the above Leduc, a Minister of the Crown incites race hatred. Not only that but he urges his French compatriots to adopt the bullying policy of force as exemplified by the Italian Boor, Mussolini. Does he want civil war with the English-speaking people of this Dominion? If he does he should remember, while he reminds his compatriots that they are in a majority in Quebec, they are in a distinct minority in Canada. He should also remember, when he counsels force, that it is the English-speaking people here who understand the art of war because of their experience from 1914 to 1918.

The blame for this wild talk must be placed squarely on the shoulders of Duplessis and his Government as can be seen from the above statement made in a public address by one of the Crown Ministers.

The Poet's Corner

A HOME

A home needs more than just four walls,
To stay the cold from creeping,
It needs more than a fire, and food,
And places to be sleeping.

A home needs laughter, high and clear,
And hope, and song, and praying;
And welcome for the ones that roam,
And comfort for those staying.

A home needs tenderness and peace,
And gentleness and pleasure,
And, oh, it needs the sort of love
That's given without measure!

THE EVERLASTING PROMISE

The golden fields are bound and heaped,
The orchards garnered, meadows reaped,
And ripened berry, grain and root,
And safe the seed and safe the fruit.

And ours the piles of red and gold—
In spite of flood and drought and cold,
Here bend and weigh, here roll and shine
The grain for food, the grapes for wine.

What need we fear, what need we dread,
Hearing the wild geese overhead
Proclaim their million-year-old rite
Of safe departure, age-sure flight.

How can we doubt that dreams come true,
Watching this wood-smoke's ageless blue
The apples ripen, honey pour,
As in a million falls before?

What winter kept and wild spring found
And burning summer raised from ground
Is here, as evermore, for reaping;
God's everlasting promise keeping.

—Margaret Widdemer.

"GOOD MORNINGS"

I often wonder where they float
Off in the sunny air,
The hosts of bright "Good Mornings,"
That one hears everywhere.

We smile and say them to our friends,
And folks we hardly know.
I wish I knew for certain where
These gay "Good Mornings" go.

Perhaps the dear, kind fairies
Guide them both far and near
To where a glad "Good Morning"
Would start a day of cheer.

Or, waft them off to sick-rooms
To ease the loads of pain,
Or into sad unhappy homes
To brighten life again.

Oh, surely these "Good Mornings"
Are guided carefully
By those wee watchful fairies
We love, but never see.

FIRST DAYS

Little red schools on a country road,
And those on a city street,
Alike are echoing once again
To the marching of eager feet.
Faces with freckles and faces with smiles,
Sometimes a tear in an eye,
Now and again there's a new little girl,
Or a little boy starting to cry.

Oh, the road winds far when it starts to school,
And it wanders through half the town,
When a small boy chokes on a hidden lump
That wants to go up, not down.
His toys are scattered about the house,
Yesterday he could play,
But he washed his face and he went to school
When the loud bell rang today.

He's finding a world that he didn't know
He'll laugh at each glad surprise,
After the lump goes down a bit,
And the tears have left his eyes.
The waiting toys are as safe as safe,
It's part of an old, old rule;
Nobody likes to touch his toys,
When the last little boy's in school.

WE THANK THEE, GOD

We thank Thee, God, for shaded lamps at evening
For crusted loaves and firelight and the rain.
Whose gypsy songs make music for our dreamings
On dark blue nights, against a shining pane.

For wide, green winds, and sun-bright fields of summer
Sea-light and dusk, and high, brave trees that bend,
To spring back straight, and rainbows after showers,
And homing paths with laughter at their end.

We thank Thee, God, for seedtime and for harvest,
For violets asleep in mossy banks,
The hurt we masked with gaiety undoubted—
Oh, most of all for bravery we give thanks.

—Helen Weshimer.

GOOD CHEER

He brings good cheer with his smiling face,
When the days and hours are long;
When clouds are dark, and tempests rage,
He gladdens the time with song;
And all the while he hides his care
Beneath the smile that he tries to wear.

He bows not 'neath fate's heavy hand,
But walks with a courage high—
A laugh and a song at his command
And light in his hopeful eye;
A man whom all delight to meet
In country lane or city street.

He is not renowned for noble deeds,
He is neither rich nor great,
But he shows a courage fine and true,
When he battles hard with fate;
We little dream 'neath his cheerful smile
That his heart is rent with care the while.

Oh! we sing the praise of the statesman grave,
We laud the patriot's fire,
We honor the bard; the hero brave
Is a theme for song and lyre;
But the man who scatters a wholesome cheer
Merits equal rank with the bard or seer.

He was, in fact, the absent-minded professor, and he was strap-hanging in a tram-car. The other arm clasped half a dozen bundles. He swayed to and fro. Slowly his face took on a look of apprehension.

"Can I help you, sir?" asked the conductor?.

"Yes," said the professor with relief. "Hold on to this strap while I get my fare out."

"CANADA—1938"

Taking its cue from Father Time, "Canada-1937" becomes "Canada-1938" when Imperial Tobacco's outstanding program takes the air again from coast to coast Friday next, January 7th, at 10 p.m.,E. S. T.

This week, Walter Bowles, the Roving Radio Reporter, will broadcast from Station CKCK Regina, Sask. In spite of drought, hail and other misfortunes, the people of this great Western province have shown steadfastness and determination. They face the future with every confidence and Walter Bowles' story, right from this area, will be an inspiration to the whole Dominion. It will show that nowhere in this world is there finer nation building material than in our own Canada.

Scanning the news front in Europe, Vernon Bartlett, veteran foreign correspondent, will direct his attention to last minute Continental affairs, bringing informative observations on history-making world events.

As usual Lionel Shapiro covers the theatrical scene from Radio City, New York, and Russ Titus, Pauline Winters, the great choir and orchestra head a sparkling musical program from Montreal as "Canada-1938" takes the air from coast to coast.

THE UNITED CHURCH

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered on Sunday morning by Rev. W. S. Atchison, who gave an earnest message from I Cor., 17-24 on the wisdom and the power of God. Paul spoke positively. He said: "I know." He preached Christ whom he loved and who had completely transformed his life. He felt this was the only adequate message to give to a sinful world. "What are we going to do with Jesus this year?" was the challenging question given in closing. An appropriate special selection: "Ring Out Wild Bells," was sung by the choir.

The evening text was Rev. 1:10. It is one of our greatest privileges to be in the Spirit on the Lord's Day. The persecution of the Christian Church in Germany was dealt with. This, said the pastor, ought to stir us deeply and bring us to our knees.

Jesus Christ is also being crowded out of Russia. Many Christians are in exile. The great need of the world to-day is more of God's spirit. Being in the spirit takes away loneliness and fear. We need spiritual power. As many as are led by the spirit of God they are the sons of God.

A farmer was asked whether he had had a good year. "Yes," he exclaimed. "I had four cows and three hogs killed by railway trains, and two dogs and eleven chickens killed by motor cars. I cleared a pile of money!"

He was spouting with great vigour against corporal punishment for boys, which he declared never did any good.

"Take my own case," he exclaimed. "I was caned only once in my life, and that was for speaking the truth."

"Well," retorted somebody in the audience, "it cured you."

WORLD'S RAIN

If all the rain that fell on the earth during the course of a year could be gathered together at one time, it would cover the entire globe to a depth of 29.13 inches. This emphasizes the importance of our drains, rivers and lakes. It also illustrates the need for regulation of our great drainage courses to prevent floods. —Chatham News.

INSURANCE RATES TO GO UP

Accident insurance underwriters are preparing their customers for the shock of an increase in automobile insurance rates early in the new year. Thirty per cent. is the estimated raise which is remarkably reminiscent of the former speed limit. The boost in rates just about represents the hazard put into motoring by booze and unnecessary high speed. What should be done to take it out?

JAPANESE FIGHTING MEN

The Japanese soldier at the front is one of the world's best equipped fighting men.

Ther is nothing cheap or shoddy or in any way resembling the flimsier Japanese gadgets sold abroad, what the soldiers has at his disposal in actual combat.

The Japanese soldiers have German knapsacks. French trench-coats, rifles resembling those of the American type, bayonets like those used by the British in short they have used the best points of each army in the world.

The uniforms are ill-fitting. The Japanese does not have the same sense of military trimness that other army men possess. But on a cold morning at the front the men have what it takes to carry on efficiently. The officer who seemed so sloppy on the streets of Tientsin a few days ago has a fur-lined sleeveless garment which leaves his arms free. His pistol, despatch case, field glasses, ammunition and canteen are trimly attached to his belt or slung over a shoulder.

The soldiers have warm coats, part camel-hair wool, hooded to keep off rain or snow. They button back in front so that the knees are not impeded in heavy going. Their comfort kits, weapons, emergency rations are securely stowed on them.

The Japanese soldiers are better fed than in previous wars. In the first Sino-Japanese conflict 50 per cent. of them had beri-beri, a dangerous disease caused by diet deficiency, which cripples the muscles. In the Russo-Japanese war 85,000 Japanese suffered from it. Officials say there has been none in present North China campaign.

The fighting qualities of the Japanese army are debatable. There is no question of individual courage. There is ample evidence that the Japanese soldier is as courageous as any living man.

It is said that the Japanese are not good aviators. It is true there are many accidents among fliers in Japan. Weather conditions there may be partly responsible. However, some aviators did a neat bit of picking off objects cleanly. But most of that bombing was done at about 300 yards and the bombing abilities at high altitudes were not tested.

The artillerymen are said to be poor marksmen, although that would be a question for personal opinion. The Japanese do not publicize their gunnery records. The Japanese had so few defeats in battle that they have come to think of themselves as invincible, admittedly a dangerous attitude when coupled with the tendency toward individualism and excited actions in emergencies.

The infantry men work up a holy zeal in their rushes. It makes them hard to withstand. What the Japanese call 'bushido,' or code for military conduct, regards each soldier as a human bullet." His life is not as important as the mission to which he is dedicated. A soldier killed in action is deified. There is no more honorable death.

WINTER BROODING OF CHICKS

The poultryman with proper equipment can handle chicks in mid-winter with as little mortality as with April chicks. He may not get as high percentage hatch as later on, but even the hatchability of eggs is being controlled by the feed. January chicks will cost more as eggs are higher priced to start with. Then it will take more fuel than with spring brooding. But there is more time for looking after the chicks; there may be less disease and mortality; broilers will catch a high market, and pullets should be laying early in the fall or even in late summer when egg prices are at their peak. Of course, if many started hatching their chicks in January the higher prices for broilers and eggs would be wiped out, and chicks hatched at some other season would find the best market. Brooder houses unsuited for prolonged zero weather and the higher price for chicks will limit the number going in for January chicks. Nevertheless there should be good returns for the few who do, and they can prolong the use of their equipment, as those who have January chicks usually have another batch in the spring so as to have pullets coming into production at different seasons. January chicks will go on to range early in the season, or they may be raised indoors until ready for the laying pen.

TWELVE-INCH LEMON GROWN NEAR TAMWORTH

Mrs. Robert McLaughlin, who lives near Tamworth, has growing in her home a lemon tree from which she picked last week an unusually large lemon, measuring 12 inches in circumference, and about as large as a medium-sized grapefruit. On the same tree there are still growing five other lemons. It is not unusual for lemons to be grown in this country on trees kept in hothouses or homes, but for fruit to reach the size of the sample exhibited by Mrs. McLaughlin, is most remarkable.—Napanee Beaver.

The annual concert by the pupils of the Belmeade Public School was held on Tuesday afternoon in the school room with a good attendance. Miss Irma Allen is the teacher of the school and a hearty vote of thanks was extended to her by the school board for the splendid program that was arranged and staged under her direction. Ellis Kinnaird provided guitar accompaniment for the musical numbers.

After the program, Santa Claus appeared and distributed gifts from a well-laden tree.

SUNDAY AILMENTS

Morbus sabbaticus, or Sunday sickness, a disease peculiar to church members. The attack comes on suddenly every Sunday; no symptoms are felt on Saturday night; the patient sleeps well and wakes feeling well; eats a hearty breakfast but about church time the attack comes on and continues until the services are over for the morning. Then the patient feels easy and eats a hearty dinner. In the afternoon he feels much better, and is able to take a walk, talk about politics, and read the Sunday papers; he eats a hearty supper, but about church time he has another attack and stays at home. He retires early, sleeps well and wakes up on Monday morning refreshed and able to go to work, and does not have any symptoms of the disease until the following Sunday. The peculiar features are as follows:

1. It always attacks members of the church.
2. It never makes its appearance except on the Sabbath.
3. The symptoms vary, but it never interferes with the sleep or appetite.
4. It never lasts more than twenty-four hours.
5. It generally attacks the head of the family.
6. No physician is ever called.

ALWAYS IN FASHION

The farmer's daughter was coming up the lane. She was clad in overalls, from the pockets of which bulged bunches of waste and wrenches, screwdrivers and other tools. In her hand was a satchel of iron tools.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?" asked a passerby.

"I'm going a-milking, sir," she said.

"But why all the tools, my pretty maid?"

"Trouble with the darn milking machine," she said.

Neil: "I hear that you and Elmer are engaged. I don't suppose he told you that he was engaged to me last year?"

Bell: "Well, dear, he did say something about there being some things in his past he was ashamed of, but he didn't go into details."

WINTERING THE BROOD SOW

The brood sow deserves her fair share of winter accommodation. A pen that is well bedded, dry and free from droughts is essential. Place the feed trough some distance away so that she is forced to exercise outdoors daily. Eradicate lice and round worms; there is no market for them. Feed a mixture of grains to maintain the sow in fair flesh, but use barley sparingly unless the sow is very thin. Provide clover or alfalfa hay to be eaten at will. Be kind to the sow, but not "too kind," or weak unthrifty pigs will result.

Fruit Salad for the Luncheon Or Supper Main Course

By BETTY BARCLAY

Salad bowls should not be confined to summer alone. They are even more valuable in winter when fresh fruits and vegetables are less plentiful. They help supply the daily ration of vitamins and minerals so necessary for optimum health. Especially valuable in these combinations are the citrus fruits, since they are available in fresh form the year around. Combined with other fruits in season, they make possible delicious and nourishing salads for every day in the year and all types of occasions. Try this menu for Sunday night supper or a bridge luncheon or even surprise the family with it for luncheon or supper any day.

Fresh Fruit Salad Bowl

The newest fashion in Fruit Salad Bowls keeps fruits separate. Greens afford contrast and background. For the salad pictured, wash and dry carefully one or more varieties of fresh crisp greens such as romaine, lettuce, watercress, endive, chicory, escarole. Arrange attractively in a salad bowl. Place on the greens in definite groups:

8 slices of California Navel orange
4 slices of unpeeled, red-skinned apple, each "sandwiched" between 2 orange slices
4 crescents of avocado, pear or peach, sprinkled with lemon juice to prevent discoloration

GOOD NEWS

One of the greatest dietetic fallacies, says the Magazine Digest, is that leading us to believe potatoes are fattening. Eaten without butter, they're more slimming than rye biscuits. The average potato contains from 70 to 80 per cent. of water and about 19 per cent. of carbohydrate (starch) whereas rye crisps which are supposed to be slimming, are composed of 8 per cent. water and 70 per cent. starch.

Marcovici, the famous dietetic expert, says that potatoes may be retained in the most reducing diet, provided, pastries, and an excessive amount of bread are banished. He allows patients to eat fish, eggs and potatoes without limit. This view is endorsed by Professors Hutchinson and Mottram, two of Britain's greatest food authorities.

There is no perfect food, but potatoes are as near the ideal as any. Life can be sustained almost indefinitely on them.

BROTHERLY KINDNESS

Life is not made out of money, and friendship, and talents, and patronage, and family influences, and good chances, and good positions, and good health, and good nature; it is made out of faith, and virtue, and patience, and godliness and brotherly kindness and love.—T. T. Munger.

THRILLING HOMEWARD JOURNEY

Across the mountains of Asia, the searing sands of the Syrian Desert, through the lofty Himalayas by way of the Khaibar Pass into Afghanistan, through Switzerland's sub-freezing temperatures and across the highways of Europe and Great Britain. This was the route followed by four adventuresome American students in returning to the States after completing a year's study at Lignan University, Canton, China. Exchange students from American universities, their party included John Fuller of San Mateo, California; Emmett Durrum of Harvard and Richard Lace and Clayton Zahn of Penn State. Fuller who is known as a navigator of some accomplishment in the water off San Mateo, charted the homeward course. The fifth member of the party was a 1933 Chevrolet coupe which had already seen more than 42,000 miles of service in the United Staets when the trip started. The car was shipped from Hongkong to Calcutta, and from there the adventurers commenced their thrilling journey home.

Fight Way Across Muddy Waters

The first leg of the journey led 840 miles over winding, primitive roads to Allahabad, India, after several days and nights of driving. Leaving Kabul, they found that the bad roads of India had been excellent highways compared to what they had in front of them. The car was forced to carry gasoline supply sufficient to take the party over 1,000 miles at a stretch where there were no repair stops and no supply depots. "If the car had needed repairs, we would have been out of luck," Fuller admitted. "We had to trust to the dependability of the Chevrolet. Throughout the entire 12,000 miles of hard, rough treatment, the car never gave us a minute's trouble. We had a little trouble with some Arabs once or twice, and we had a little difficulty getting the High Mayor of Baghdad to let us cross the Syrian Desert unescorted, and in Turkey a mechanic took our carburetor apart to clean it and couldn't get it together again,.....but aside from that there wasn't anything to complain about." The route took them through the deserts of Persia, over the old silk route that great merchants of the dim past once used between Rome and the Far East. Fighting their way across muddy rivers, over roads that were no more than jagged, jutting rocks, across swirling sands, the party came to Baghdad, and faced a 600-mile stretch over the Syrian Desert to Damascus.

Reach Oasis In Desert

Leaving Baghdad at 6 p.m., the party navigated by the light of the North Star, setting their course for an oasis half way across the desert. The floor of the desert, related Fuller, was like a billiard table, and for the first time since leaving Calcutta, they drove at 60 and 70 miles an hour. "We made the oasis about 6 a.m.," he continued. It was only a few deep wells in the middle of a lot of sand, and we left after getting a supply of water. We got to Damascus at noon, after averaging about 40 miles an hour driving time for the 600 miles. Just outside Baghdad we encountered a temperature of 130 degrees in the shade, although in Baghdad itself it had been only 119 degrees. On the desert, the thermometer went above 100 degrees every day, while at night it dropped to around 50 degrees. Going across the desert, the water boiled a little, but we didn't have to add any until we reached Damascus." Describing the roads at one point, Fuller stated that it wound up a steep mountainside at the rate of 270 feet per mile, while the road leading into Constantinople was nothing more than an unused cart track. The last leg of the journey through Turkey was made at an average speed of about two miles per hour. Young men walked alongside of the car helping to lift it over almost impossible barriers.

Reservation Difficulties

In Switzerland, they were glad to sleep under blankets and quilts in subfreezing temperatures, the mercury hanging around 20 degrees. Swinging through France, they stopped for a time at Paris, crossed the English channel and headed for Southampton and the liner which was to bring them back to the United States. "There was some difficulty about reservations for the car coming back," stated Fuller, "and by the time we got that settled we found that we had only ten minutes in which to catch the last tender to get aboard before sailing. After more than 12,000 miles across Asia and Europe, we just about made the boat by the skin of our teeth." Throughout the trip, Fuller reported the car consumed only 14.2 quarts of oil, and 750 gallons of gasoline —an average of 16 miles to the gallon over the roughest country in the world.

REMEMBERING THE CAR OWNER

Christmas trees this year are heavily laden with automobile accessories. Commenting upon the widepsread buying of radios, heaters and other articles for the car this Christmas, R. N. Grainger, general parts and accessory manager, General Motors Products of Canada Limited, remarked, "Improved design and attractiveness of accessories account for the increased interest in these articles as gifts. Not many years ago," continued Mr. Grainger, "they had only a utility value. They were heavy and cumbersome and seemed strangely out of place on a glistening Christmas tree. This is not true today. Through artistic metal treatments and a wider use of complimentary colors, exteriors have become more pleasingly attractive. Sizes have been reduced. Radios and heaters, for example, occupy far less space than formerly and yet are much more efficient. In addition, there is less mechanical difficulty in making proper installation as cars are now made so that accessories are readily fitted.

SKIPPER PREVIEWS CAR FROM BRIDGE

There's something about a sailor....for instance take Captain William Haydet of the freighter George M. Humphreys and consider how he had a private preview of a glistening new 1938 Pontiac sedan recently. As the boat was gliding by the dock at Marine City the skipper grabbed his binoculars and speculatively trained them on the shore where the car had been parked. He carefully studied the flashing new radiator grill with Chief Pontiac riding proudly acrest, the gleaming grey finish, he could see the roomy interior and and through the open doors of the car, harmonizing upholstery. With a grin of satisfaction he laid down the binoculars and picked up a megaphone. "Looks all right to me,' he boomed to a man standing beside the car, "I'l wire you from Toledo." The next day a wire closed the deal and another Pontiac had been sold. This true story of one of the most unusual selling methods adopted by a Pontiac salesman was recounted by Henry Holder, owner of Holder-Pontiac Sales at Algonac, Mich. It appears that the Haydet family had decided to purchase a new car and Mrs. Haydet had seen the new Pontiac. She wrote to her husband and arrangements were made to have the car on view with its doors open as the freighter passed the dock at Marine City. Thus while thousands flocked to Detroit for a first glimpse of the new models, Captain Haydet had a private previw aboard his own boat. "Yes," grinned Mr. Holder, 'there's something about a sailor."

SHORT COURSES FOR GIRLS

Over 100 rural young women in six Ontario counties will receive four weeks training next month under the Dominion-Provincial training project, Miss Bess McDermand, Superintendent of the Women's Institute Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, stated recently Courses are scheduled for seven counties in February and fourteen in March, Miss McDermand said. Girls taking up the dressmaking course will be taught how to make women's and children's dresses and given information on dress designs and textiles.

MRS. FISHER SUGGESTS FOR LUNCHEON:

Canadian Fish and Cheese Casserole

Place a layer of cooked peas or cooked spinach in the bottom of a large, shallow greased baking dish. Place on the vegetables a layer of any variety of Canadian fish, using either slices of fish or fillets cut into suitable serving portions. Sprinkle salt and pepper and cooking oil over the fish. Place the dish in a hot oven for six or eight minutes. Then, having a cheese sauce ready, pour it over the fish, sprinkle with fine bread crumbs, dotted with butter, and put the dish back in the oven until the top is nicely browned. The cheese sauce may be made as follows: Melt two tablespoons of butter, blend with it two tablespoons of flour, and add a cup of liquid (a cup of milk or of milk and vegetable water combined); cook the mixture until it is thick and smooth, stirring constantly, and just before removing it from the stove add a half a cup of grated Canadian cheese, and continue to stir the sauce until the cheese is melted.

Canadian Fish are rich in vitamins and health-building minerals and, having regard to nutritive value, are among the most nourishing of foods.

Canadian Fish Cutlets

Flake two cups of any desired kind of Canadian fish or shellfish and add salt and pepper to suit the taste and two tablespoons of onion juice, two tablespoons of lemon juice and, if desired, two teaspoons of Worcestershire sauce. Add to the fish and seasonings two cups of thick white sauce whcih has been thoroughly chilled. Form the mixture into cutlets and roll in finely sifted bread crumbs. (It is well to chill the cutlets again after they have been shaped). Bake the cutlets in a greased pan in a moderate oven or fry them in deep fat, having the fat sufficiently hot to brown an inch cube of bread in forty seconds. The white sauce may be made by melting a quarter of a cup of butter, or using a quarter of a cup of cooking oil, blending in a half a cup of flour, adding two cups of warm milk, and cooking the mixture until it is thick and smooth, stirring it constantly. A tomato sauce goes well with the cutlets.

Canadian Fish Foods, rich in nutritive value and in vitamins, are very easily digested because of the tenderness of their flesh.

Canadian Scallop Supreme

Place in a greased baking dish three cups of diced fresh or left-over vegetables (carrots, potatoes, onions, etc.) and add one cup of cooked and flaked Canadian fish. Pour a white sauce over the fish and vegetables, sprinkle finely sifted bread crumbs over the top, dotted with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until the crumbs are nicely browned. Any kind of Canadian fish may be used. The white sauce can be made by melting three tablespoons of fat or butter, blending in three tablespoons of flour, adding two cups of liquid,, either half milk and half vegetable water or all milk, and cooking the mixture until smooth and thick, meanwhile stirring constantly.

Canadian Fish Foods are comparable to meats in nutritive value and they are especially rich in health-guarding minerals and vitamins.

FOOD HINTS

It is really hard to beat fresh pineapple in season served as a dessert. Leave on the leaves. Cut enough off the "crust" on one side to make the creature lie down on a silver dish. Cut a full slice off the opposite side. Take out all the fruit with a sharp knife, leaving a good firm dish of the shell. Chop up the fruit with fruit sugar and any liquid you might fancy. Pile the fruit back in the shell and let the guests help themselves. They will.

Take fresh tomatoes, cut off a cap and take out the hard centres. Stuff them with minced fried bacon, chopped mushrooms, fried in butter, and wild rice cooked till tender in boiling salted water. Put a little cheese on top and bake till tomatoes are done.

You'll enjoy a sardine sandwich made by rubbing sardines to a cream with melted butter, lemon juice, salt, cayenne and a little horseradish. Good on brown bread.

POULTRY PRODUCTION

The value of poultry and egg production during 1937 does not show much change from 1936. Egg prices averaged fractionally lower than last year, but poultry prices were a shade higher. It is interesting to note that the rise in prices of poultry products from the low point of the depression has been of very limited proportions, and very much less than in the case of most other agricultural products. Poultry producers were handicapped during the greater part of 1937 on account of high grain prices, but since harvest production costs have declined with lower feed prices. Ontario shipped this year large quantities of live poultry to the United States markets and also considerable quantities of dressed fowl to the United Kingdom.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER

POULTRY SOLD ON GRADE

The major portion of Christmas poultry was bought and sold on grade this year, thanks to the newspaper advertising campaign by the Dominion Department of Agriculture which received every assistance of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in the matter.

Retailers report the public as being pleased with the idea of graded poultry as it takes the "guess" out of buying the Christmas turkey. In other words, housewife pays for what she gets. A Grade "A" red tag tells the buyer that the bird, whether turkey, chicken, goose or duck, is well-fleshed and especially fattened for tenderness. A Grade "B" or blue tage shows that the bird is a good one, but not as well fleshed, while a Grade "C" or yellow tag tells the world that Mr. Turkey is not quite as good in quality and therefore not worth so much of the householder's money.

CARE OF FARM WOODLOT BRINGS GOOD RESULTS

Grazing by live stock and burning probably create more damage to the farm woodlot than any other agencies, and, therefore, foresters recommend fencing off the woodlot from cattle and taking particular care to see that fire does not burn over the woods. By following certain simple rules, farmers can get good results out of the care of the woodlot. These rules are: 1, Keep the live stock out of the woods; 2, confine annual cutting to a definite area of the lot; 3, make no large openings in the woods; 4, favour the thriftiest best-formed crop trees; 5, remove some of the larger crop trees where crowding exists; 6 cut inferior trees for wood; and 7, protect the woods against fire.

The reason why live stock should be kept out of the woodlot is that their presence tends to have the litter trampled under the trees and packs the soil so that the water run-off and consequent erosion of soil are encouraged. Further, the admission of live stock to the woodlot prevents the proper growth of the new crop of trees which comes up under normal conditions to replace the trees that are harvested. The actual growth of the standing trees also is reduced through the abnormal conditions prevail and with proper thinning of the stands by culling the inferior trees, the timber crop will be improved.

It is estimated that farm woodlots, especially hardwoods, will produce at least 50 per cent. more lumber if the lots are protected from fire and heavy pasturing avoided, the increase in production being realized by the greater number of standing trees and by the less defect in the lumber that is grown. Another essential in the production of full lumber crops is the employment of methods of cutting trees which favour continuous growth. Although the farm woodlots do not require the same attention as orchards, at the same time, to obtain profitable returns, some attention must be given to the conditions of growth.

LIVESTOCK SITUATION

Exports of live cattle to the United States recorded a substantial increase during the past year, but shipments to the United Kingdom were negligible. With the severe decline in cattle prices in the United States in recent weeks, the market is now definitely below an export basis, but the recent reduction in Canadian markets has placed Ontario cattle in a position for export to the United Kingdom.

The trend of bacon and ham exports to the United Kingdom continued to rise and for the twelve months ending September 1937, Canadian exports totalled 195,000,000 pounds as compared with 133,000,000 pounds in the previous twelve month period, and only 11,000,000 pounds in the calendar year 1931. The rapid progress made by Canada towards filling its quota of 280,000,000 pounds granted by the United Kingdom in 1932 is quite apparent and every effort should be made to prevent any falling-off in exports to this market.

Shipments of western feeder cattle to Ontario reached an all-time record this year, with the total number 75 per cent. greater than last fall. More than the usual percentage of these were of quite light weights and will not be ready for marketing until next summer off the grass, and quite a number will be carried over a second winter. The heavy inflow this season is an indication of the abundant supplies of coarse feed available in the province.

DAIRY PRODUCTS

Prices of butter and cheese were consistently higher during 1937 and the total value of dairy products is expected to amount to about $97,000,000 as against $91,000,000 in 1936. Production of creamery butter in the first 11 months, as compared with the same period last year, declined from 81,106,000 pounds to 75,809,000 pounds, rpresenting a decrease of 6.5 per cent., and due chiefly to the diversion of milk from creameries to the cheese factories and to evaporated milk plants. The output of cheese, on the other hand, rose from 85,991,000 pounds to 91,353,000 pounds for a gain of 6.2 per cent., and exports of this commodity to the United Kingdom were considerably higher. Wholesale prices of butter to date have averaged about 2.5 cents per pound more than a year ago and cheese prices about 1.2 cents greater. The quantity of milk purchased by concentrated milk plants shows a substantial rise owing to a keen domestic and export demand for manufactured products, the output of which has increased by approximately 35 per cent. Prices to producers for fluid milk were generally continued at about the same level as in 1936 until November, when an upward revision was made in the Toronto milk-shed.

FEEDING BROOD MARES

To properly care for brood mares during the winter months, it must be understood that they should be given mild exercise each day but deep snow and the hauling of heavy loads should be avoided. It is particularly important that mares in foal are not allowed to be idle during the winter months, as they usually produce weak foals—no matter how they may be fed.

A brood mare's ration may be made up of a variety of feeds, however, it is essential that it be nutritious and contain a generous supply of protein and minerals. A good grade of mixed hay, oats, and bran will supply all the necessary requirements. A few roots fed daily will also prove beneficial. The amount of hay and grain to be fed daily will depend upon the size of the mare, her condition and the type of work she is doing. Naturally the more she is required to do—the larger the daily grain ration. Young mares that have not completed their growth must be fed quite libraly.

After the foal is born, drinking water with the chill taken off is given to the mare. The mare's first feed after foaling is always a warm bran mash and the grain ration contains one-half bran for a week or more after the foal is dropped. By so doing, complications such as an oversupply of milk or indigestion are usually avoided. When mares are thin at foaling time, light feeding should only be continued for a few days. In such cases, the feed is usually increased gradually in order to insure a good supplp of milk for the foal. Mares that are required to work while nursing their foals will require liberal feeding, if they are to be kept in good flesh and provide a generous supply of milk for the foals.

HUDSON MOTOR CAR COMPANY PLANS TO START NEW CAR IN LOW PRICE FIELD

A. E. Barit, president of the Hudson Motor Car Company, at Detroit on Tuesday told a gathering of news men that his company will recall 6,000 men to work within the next few weeks, as part of a plan to put "men and money back to work." At the same time he announced the Hudson company will start production this week on a new car "in the lowest price field." The recalling of 6,000 workers, he said, will increase the factory personnel to 12,000 men and add $1,250,000 to the monthly payroll. He estimated that $11,000,000 will be expended for tools, production materials and other costs.

OXFORD GROUP MEETING

An interesting and well-attended meeting was held on New Year's Eve at the home of Dr. and Mrs. McKendry. A number of young people under the leadership of Ralph McKendry, witnessed as to the rising tide in their lives during 1937. Searching questions were given as a challenge, such as: Have we contributed to the sum total of the hatred of the world that makes for war? Do we in our thought life contribute to the impurity of the world? Some told of their changed home and school life, and of victory over self-pity, hate, and selfishness, as well as of greater interest in the Bible.

Dr. McKendry gave as a Bible reading the experience of the Israelites at Marah where they found the bitter water, also Christ's agony in the garden. How we react when we come to the bitter water is the test.

Good Advice

At this season of the year when you are resolving to do certain things that will make your life a happier one, be sure and include a resolution regarding your eyes. Resolve now that you will not neglect to give your eyes the attention they deserve. An examination at my office will determine whether your eyes are as healthy as they should be or not. If you need glasses, a delay in procuring the proper lenses is dangerous.
