Santa parade drew large crowd

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—It started with an idea, a conception of George Davies, the president of the Business Improvement Area Association, that the Village of Morrisburg needed a Santa Claus Parade.

Davies started organizing many months in advance to increase the parade which last year consisted of a few entries. Saturday, the planning and hard work paid off, as Santa appeared preceded by a magnificent 30 entries.

To mention a few, entries included the Lions Club wagon, one member sporting reindeer antlers. Staff from Upper Canada Playhouse were dressed as the ghosts of Christmas past, while the Plaza Deli float depicted a large doughnut with a grandmother passing out free samples.

Canada Post had a walking entry in a post box, and the Town of Morrisburg featured a Night before Christmas theme, with Grandma sitting under the tree a fireplace in the background, and children listening to a story.

Paraders were accompanied by music from the Lancaster Pipe Band, and Matilda Majorettes bravely marched to the music despite sub-zero temperatures. Temperatures moderated from sub-zero with wind chill temperature reaching minus 30 Celsius at the beginning to milder temperatures along with snow flurries by noon.

Organizers changed the direction of the route from down Laurier to a more sheltered way down Farlinger, across Second Street and returning back Augusta to Fifth and the mall, with a short detour through the Hartford Home.

BIA project coordinator Earl Baker commented on the cooperation received from all parties, from the Morrisburg Public Works Department which prepared the road surfaces to others who helped with its coordination. O.P.P. Constable McLeod led the parade, while the coordination by radio was handled by Ed Hanson, Bryan Cochrane Keith Robinson and the town crew.

"A great big thanks to everyone who helped make this event a success, including those who showed up Friday night to help decorate the floats," Davies added.

Spectators commented that from beginning to end, the Parade was a remarkable first for the Village of Morrisburg. Organizers hoped at the start to make it an annual event if successful, and are already thinking about a repeat performance.

Santa I want

This youngster who visited with Santa Claus Saturday appears to have a list of wishes. The Merry Elf made the rounds in Morrisburg, appearing at the Figure Skating Pancake Breakfast, starring in the Santa Claus Parade, and sharing a photo opportunity with Chancey the llama at the Tourist Booth. The day's activities wound up with a huge community party at the Operating Engineers Training Institute, where a crowd was entertained while awaiting the results of the BIA sponsored draws.

Seaway workers ratify a two-year contract

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS—Employees of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority have ratified an agreement with the Authority which should guarantee service for ships until the end of 1996.

Some 600 workers were without a contract since January, including 535 operational and maintenance workers along the Seaway and staff at the Cornwall Headquarters. A total of 315 employees voted in favor and 133 voted against a two-year contract which expires at the end of December 1996.

Before the agreement was ratified, unsettled issues concerned elimination of jobs and possible relocation of employees to Quebec, lunch hours worked without compensation, and possible closure of the Cornwall headquarters.

The employees get a signing bonus of $375 and an average wage increase of 1.5 per cent next year, starting with .18 an hour in January and .18 next July, and a $.30 an hour towards which the company contributes on the employees pay cheque. David Lee president of local 4323 and one of the negotiators said the long term disability benefits was something the union traded to replace compensation for lunch hours worked which is to be phased out by 1999.

Terms are in place to cover relocation and working conditions of employees if the Cornwall head quarters closes where previously, there was no agreement covering the employees. "This way we can work something out for the employees, how they will be placed in positions," Lee stated.

The Authority must provide 120 days notice to the union of the decision to close the facility.

When positions are transferred from Cornwall to another location, incumbents retain their positions and are transferred with their position. Employees whose positions are abolished may be reassigned by the Authority to any vacant or newly created position within the Authority.

The company lifted the demand to move employees whose jobs had been abolished to another province.

Another important item agreed to was the granting of three personal days over and above the days leave which are mandatory by law for death in the family or jury duty. These can be used at the employees discretion and employees who do not use the personal days within the year are paid for them in January of the following year.

Lee who has been involved in ongoing negotiations said this was an agreement which has satisfied both parties. "We'd rather talk than strike . no one wants to go on strike. We wanted job security, and cost of living to keep up with inflation and long term benefit, not major money or special treatment. We were mainly interested in protecting the employees."

John Lafleur, chief negotiator for the St. lawrence Seaway Authority and Hemi Metic, vice-president of the Canadian Auto Workers and CAW chief negotiator worked together on the agreement. "We both look to establish good constructive relations with the unions," Lafleur said. "We're both pleased to develop a fair deal for both parties."

Employees at the Seaway were formerly members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transportation and General Workers which merged with Canadian Auto Workers in April.

The agreement is expected to be signed in Ottawa, December 17 or 18th. Rumors have been circulating around the future of the St. Lawrence Seaway, that the Federal Government plans to privatize the operation.

A spokesperson for Transport Minister Doug Young, Susan Smith Angel said a National Marine policy will be released before Christmas, mentioning the Seaway and its operations.

Councillors not so jolly

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

INGLESIDE — 'Tis the season to be jolly, but Osnabruck councillors found little to be jolly about Monday night.

In their first council meeting since Ontario Finance Minister Ernie Eves announced drastic province-wide budget cuts — including $658 million to municipal governments — councillors had their first taste of a biting reality.

Reeve Jim Bancroft told his council they will have to decide what user fees to charge residents and what services council will or will not subsidize.

"It's time we look at the total picture," Bancroft said. "I'm not suggesting we cover every nickel and dime with a user system."

Councillor Stephen Middleton expressed his concern that some of the Township's Recreation Department services may suffer.

"Are we going to price ourselves out of recreation?" he asked.

Although some councillors shook their heads 'no', Bancroft replied truthfully.

"We'll have to look at the total picture before we decide what to subsidize and what not to," he said.

Council will meet again soon to decide on a plan of action.

In other news, councillors debated whether they wanted lawyer Barry Wilson to represent them at an upcoming Ontario Municipal Board hearing.

An Ingleside resident is protesting council's plan to build a seniors complex on property in the centre of the village; although some councillors wish to have Wilson represent their interests at the hearing, councillor Heine Bruining is adamantly against it.

"I think he's the wrong way to go. You're talking about legal council who is not doing the job for us," he said.

Reeve Bancroft was quick to fire back: "Over the long haul, (Wilson) has been a good representative to us in a lot of good ways."

After a lengthy discussion, council decided in favor of Wilson, in a tie-breaking vote decided by reeve Bancroft.

Volunteers still needed for local Angel Trees

MORRISBURG—There are still over two dozen Angels occupying the Angel Trees in both the Bank of Nova Scotia in Morrisburg, and the Bank of Montreal in Williamsburg.

Lions Club organizer, Jack Notman is in a bit of a panic, as this week is the deadline for the return of the gifts for those angels in need in Dundas County.

"We are giving a few days' grace, but I'm really beginning to worry," said Notman. "Usually, the angels are all gone by now, and most of the gifts have been returned, unwrapped by this time."

There were over 160 paper angels on the two trees this holiday season. That number is down by 15 or 20 from last year. This year, due to Social Services restraints, the age limit of the angels appearing on the trees is 13.

Residents are urged to choose an angel from the tree and purchase a suitable gift for that particular child. On each angel a child's age and sex appears, so it makes it easier for the purchaser to choose an appropriate gift.

Notman added, "If it were not for the generosity of the area folks who pick an angel, these children would not receive a Christmas gift at all."

Seniors Christmas Party

More than 150 senior citizens attended the concert which featured the Lions childrens choir, the Seaway High School choir, performers from the J.H. Meikle School of Music and the Don Morrell orchestra. The Lions Club has put on the concert every year since 1978.

Council decides to look into restructuring options

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—On Monday evening, Council voted to pass a by-law to explore municipal restructuring, only after much discussion and a recorded vote.

All were in favor, except Coun. Larry Schnurr who was against, but even those who were in favor had many reservations. The by-law passed permits the Village to "investigate alternatives available through municipal restructuring, and to contact the Ministry of Housing and Municipal Affairs for financial and staff assistance."

The Municipal Act is being revised and structural changes are to be in place by January 1, 1997. Municipalities are being advised to examine their present structure with a view to amalgamate and to replace existing two-tier with one-tier government.

Schnurr said he was opposed to the proposed restructuring and to a by-law to explore restructuring, on grounds that the premise of restructuring is "grossly flawed." He criticized the suggestions "as opinionated, not factual. And they ask us to create a by-law to support that we want to be party to this nonsense?"

"I see this as the thin edge of the wedge, or foot in the door," Schnurr went on to say."I intend to fight amalgamation and any kind of restructuring. I can't see supporting a by-law that says 'oh let's have a look at it.' I don't like what i've seen and read so far from the Ministry on this."

Deputy reeve Dirk Testerink said he agreed with Schnurr that "amalgamation is totally wrong. I think it will cost a fortune."

He went on to describe a future in which one elected official would have a six-digit salary, with complete administrative departments for items like by-law enforcement, building inspection which are now run by one person part-time. If eight municipalities amalgamate in Dundas County to one government, it would be impossible to run the administration for 20,000 with a clerk treasurer. Instead, a chief executive officer would be required, with clerk treasurer and deputy administrative assistants. Testerink and the clerk had put together some figures, which suggested a one-tier government for Dundas County would be twice as costly as the present structure. "I can't see where they'd save a penny," he stated.

Funding the OPP, a currently provincially-funded service is another service which the province would like to download on municipalities, Testerink pointed out.

Coun. Cam Martel who agreed with possible future projections said the best way to fight the proposed legislation was to "get on the wheel and fight from the inside, not the outside." Coun. Jack Notman and Testerink agreed this was the way to deal with the proposed changes.

Notman suggested an original method of coping with downsizing and proposed restructuring by the provincial government. He referred to a Fact Sheet New Tools for Municipalities which outlined suggested methods for municipalities to deal with transfer payment reductions. Legislation proposed under Bill 26 would enable the government to effect sweeping changes including the provision of "new tools" to municipalities.

Included among the "tools" on the fact sheet are user fees. These fees are currently restricted to services such as water and sewer, resident fees from people in homes for the aged and garbage collection. At present user fees are 18 per cent of total municipal revenues, and have barely increased in 20 years.

Another method would be expanded authority for municipalities to license businesses. Currently, municipalities can only license about 60 types of businesses, listed in the Municipal Act and related legislation. For example, restaurant fees are approximately $20 a fraction of the cost of administering and enforcement.

The new legislation would give municipalities more authority to license all business except manufacturers and wholesalers, and to set appropriate fees.

Notman said he wanted people to be aware of the "new tools" suggested by the province, and had a proposal of his own for raising revenue. Retain a small percentage of provincial taxes on gasoline, liquor, or even the retail sales tax. Even a small percentage if retained within the village coffers would amount to a significant revenue for the village, perhaps eliminating the need for $225,000 in transfer payments from the province.

Notman's proposal was made to counter what he felt were ridiculous suggestions from the government. While made in a light-hearted fashion, the suggestion pointed nevertheless at the need "to look at other avenues" of revenue raising.

Reeve Gord McGregor expressed his opinion to the proposed restructuring, pointing out that only at municipal council, ratepayers have the opportunity to sit at a meeting, and ask what is being done with their money. "Try to get that at a big city council or the House of Commons. You're taking that away from the people."

Information highway at our fingertips

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG — Residents of Morrisburg now have an open gate to the information highway.

Mor-Net Communications Inc., an Internet provider service, is officially opening this weekend in the shopping mall.

People will be able to 'surf the net' either at home, at work, or by visiting owner Ken Davies' shop at their convenience to look for information on virtually any topic.

Whether you want to shop for clothing, concert tickets, buy a new car, read newspapers from across the world, or get the latest in medical information — it's all on the Internet.

Davies will have three computers set up in his shop for the general public to use. To get the information you want, you simply press on various buttons that move you from screen to screen.

If you are interested in accessing the Internet through your computer at home or in the office, Davies will sell you a package with the necessary disks and information.

You will need at least a 386 computer and a 14.4 modem to use with his package.

"By having (an Internet) provider in the area, the computer user will save long distance charges," Davies explained to a crowd of 10 at his ribbon-cutting ceremony on December 8.

"This puts Morrisburg, Iroquois, Williamsburg and Matilda Township into the 20th century," he added. "The Internet connects you to the world."

Davies took six weeks to set up his new business in Morrisburg. He is using an existing Internet service, 'Glen-Net' — which operates out of Alexandria — to connect people to the Internet.

Logging on to Mor-Net

The first thing you see on your computer screen when you log-on to Mor-Net is a welcome message, which then directs you to browse through 'Glen-Net', or select an 'Ideas' button — which enables you to send comments to Davies. You can also avoid both choices and begin your search through the information highway.

There are presently 50 million Internet users across the world. What started as a military project in the United States in the 1960's has developed much faster than original designers could have ever anticipated.

Twenty-five years ago, it took four hours to communicate with people across the world. Now it takes seconds.

If you are interested in Davies' service, his fee is $30 a month for 50 hours of use. If you wish to use the computers in his shop on a non-committal basis, you will only pay for the amount of time you use the service.

How the Internet changed one's man life

Three years ago, while working as a doorman at a dance club in a tough neighborhood of Montreal, Alexandria's Mike Ashburne was shot three times by members of a Jamaican gang.

One bullet went through his neck and paralyzed his spine. Two weeks after surgery, he suffered a stroke on Christmas Day, caused by a blood clot which resulted in an embolism.

Today Ashburne is a paraplegic and hemiplegic — half his body has been impaired from the stroke.

After his tragic accident, Ashburne spent hours searching for a cure. He saw several doctors, but few had answers to his many questions.

Then he discovered the Internet.

For the past year, Ashburne has spent three to four hours a day on-line delving into a wealth of medical information concerning his condition.

Now he tells his doctors what they should be doing to cure him.

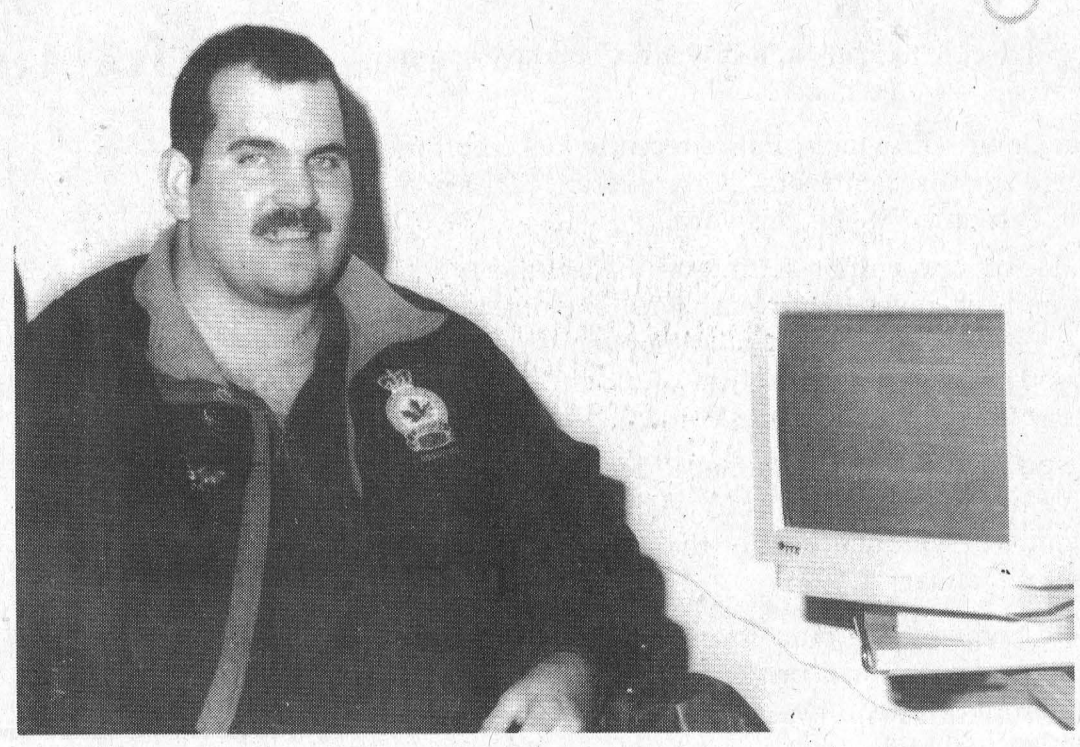
While surfing the net, Ashburne has accessed medical libraries from across the world, medical journals, newspaper articles, and various information and on-line chat groups for people with disabilities.

He's got a list of 75 Internet sites that he routinely searches for information. He also has eight pen-pals across the globe that he chats with everyday through the Internet's e-mail (electronic mail) system.

Ashburne has found the Internet so fascinating that he now also uses it to seek other information — to check his lottery tickets, to look for upcoming concerts, and to share information with other parents in a 'Mom's and Dad's' group.

"There isn't anything I can't find on the Internet," Ashburne told a reporter at Davies' ribbon-cutting ceremony.

"Everything is there," he added. "It's changed my life."



Searching for a cure
Alexandria's Mike Ashburne, who is a paraplegic, has discovered a wealth of information on the Internet in his search to find a cure for his disability.

Ask A Master Gardener

Question: How do I care for my Poinsettia, and can I keep it until next year?
Answered By: Alfred St. Denis

Poinsettias are always bought in bloom and can be kept blooming for 2 to 3 months under the right conditions. It is the most popular of the Christma flowering plants, not for its flowers, but for its bright petal-like bracts in red, white or two tone colors.

Poinsettias need cool room temperatures, preferably not above 70 F (21C) during the day or 55F (13C) at night. Water thoroughly, but let dry out somewhat between waterings. Do not feed. Keep in bright light and out of drafts.

It is possible to hold a Poinsettia over until next winter and to get it to bloom again, however, you must follow a rigorous routine. After the bracts have faded and fallen off cut back the stem to about 6 inches. When growth stops keep the dormant plant at normal room temperature and in bright light. In early May repot with a sandy loam mixture. Feed every 2 to 3 weeks with a complete fertilizer (i.e. 20-20-20). Remove some of the new growth to leave 3 or 4 strong stems. The plant must again be kept out of cool drafts and prefers bright light. Starting at the end of September for a period of 8 weeks the Poinsettia must be kept in total darkness for 14 hours then in bright light for 10 hours each day. A black polyethelene bag can be used for this. If one of these dark periods is interrupted for even a short time the flowering cycle will be lost. Therefore you must be careful! After this 8 week routine is completed treat your Poinsettia as previously stated. Then thoroughly enjoy your colorful Poinsettia once again.

Your Poinsettia will however be much taller than commercially produced Poinsettia's because professional growers use a dwarfing chemical.

If you decide to drink and drive this holiday season, be warned — you will be caught.

The Ontario Provincial Police recently kicked off its Reduce Impaired Drivers Everywhere (RIDE) program. Everywhere is the key word.

Police officers will be setting up road blocks whenever and wherever they please with one objective in mind — if you are operating a motor vehicle and have a blood alcohol concentration of .08 milligrams or more, you will be caught and you will be charged.

A special 'Roaming Regional Ride Unit' consisting of five officers from Morrisburg, Long Sault and Casselman will conduct most of the road blocks in this area until January 4, 1996.

RIDE Sergeant Joe Houston says the officers may stay in one area for a prolonged period of time or move around randomly, so "people will never know where we will be."

Those convicted will be forced to pay a substantial fine, lose their driving privileges for one year and pay higher insurance rates.

One might think that facing such severe repercussions, people would think twice before driving impaired.

Not so according to Morrisburg-Winchester OPP Sergeant Brent Matice who says drinking and driving appears to be on the increase in this area.

On the other hand, Cornwall police stopped 2,815 drivers last year and did not lay a single impaired driving charge.

Police are hoping residents of SD & G will help in its quest to charge drunk drivers. "Operation Lookout" is a program that encourages the public to report any suspicious drivers believed to be impaired.

People are asked to call their local OPP detachment to report any incidents (anonymously if desired).

Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), a group of concerned women from the SD & G area, is also supporting the holiday campaign by passing out red ribbons with the MADD logo for people to display on their cars, at work or anyplace with high visibility. Some officers will also attach the ribbons to the door handles of their cruisers.

There's only one logical choice this holiday season to avoid all the fuss —don't drink and drive.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles by Stephanie Wolfe

1985

Residents of Williamsburg were pleased to learn that they would not be responsible for cost overruns in the recently completed sewer project.

The Ontario Municipal Board approved the township's debenture of $366,965 for the $1.6 million project.

The project was above cost because of substantial time delays, increased engineering costs and changes in the lagoon site.

Ingleside resident Rick Eamon was the sole objector to the proposed Ingleside development lands.

Eamon submitted a three-page list of objections to the zoning bylaw and official plan amendments for the 278-acres project to the Ontario Municipal Board.

The project involved preparing the land for residential, commercial, recreational and industrial development.

1975

Despite severe weather conditions, illnesses and injuries, the Morrisburg Lions won four games in five days.

They scored a total 32 points versus 14 against them to secure a first-place 15-1-0 record.

Meanwhile, Black's Red Barons of the Morrisburg Area Broomball League clobbered the second-place Mutual Blue Jeans 6-2.

1965

The Morrisburg Combines trounced the Ottawa-Carleton

Maroons 5-2 for their 10th win in 11 games.

The win gave the club a comfortable five-point lead at the top of the standings.

Jim Forrest, Combines' leading goal scorer, led his team with two goals and Wayne "Weiner" Brown, Mel Tomalty and Ed St. Louis scored one goal each.

Five men accompanied the truck, all of whom escaped to the other side in motor boats which were waiting to load liquor.

Let's get Personal

Stephanie Wolfe

I never knew much about Christmas until my second Dad, Ted, who was raised a Catholic, came into my life when I was seven-years-old.

For years my family celebrated the Jewish holiday of 'Chanukah' while the world around us celebrated Christmas. Before my stepfather converted to Judaism, he had always loved the Christmas season so he and my Mom thought that it might be fun for his sake to combine some of the non-religious aspects of the two holidays.

Although that first Chanukah/Christmas holiday was special, it wasn't until the following year when Ted's mother — my new Granny Eileen — came to spend the holiday with her new family, that I discovered a new perspective on the magic of this special season.

My grandmother has suffered from Multiple Sclerosis, and has been confined to a wheelchair, for most of her adult life. When she was a young woman, she was forced to give up her three children — Ted and his two sisters — when she was diagnosed as having MS.

However, you'd never believe she's experienced so much trauma. Despite everything, she has a fervent belief in God and a joyous love for life.

The first time I met Granny Eileen, she was struggling to roll her wheelchair up a steep hill behind our apartment building and gently refused my offer of help, saying she preferred to be as independent as possible.

Her attitude was inspiring to a young girl. Granny Eileen taught me so much with her infinite capacity for joy in the simplest of family pleasures — eating Chanukah latkes (potato pancakes), lighting the Chanukah candles on the Menorah every night, playing the Chanukah dreidle game, eating turkey and opening gifts.

Although we weren't celebrating Christmas, our family's Chanukah festivities helped her to enjoy the spirit of the holiday season. My Bubby Anne and Zaidy Ralph and all my Jewish family and friends warmly welcomed her.

Granny Eileen spent five days with us that first Chanukah/Christmas holiday season. I spent hours with her, helping her slip on shoes over her swollen feet, helping her in the bathroom and wheeling her around the shopping malls (with her permission of course)

When I watched her leave from the Ottawa airport on a cold December night in 1978, I was close to tears. My family and I knew she was returning to an institution. Through my tears, I couldn't help but smile. What a loving, independent, feisty lady my grandmother was.

Granny Eileen was always busy with her various jobs and other activities — university courses, sports events, bowling. If something was offered, my Granny didn't blink twice before saying, "Yes!" She squeezed every bit of juice out of life.

Granny Eileen taught me that a disability didn't mean you gave up on life. Her wheelchair was always a way of being mobile; it was never an excuse not to do something.

For 10 successive years, Granny Eileen visited my family twice a year — in August for her birthday and every Chanukah/Christmas. She was there when Ted and Mom were married. She was there when I celebrated my Bat Mitzvah. The sad time came when even she could no longer travel. However, I was glad to see during a visit two years ago to celebrate her 75th birthday that she was still brimming over with life and raring to go. She recently adopted a Muslim foster child from Malaysia.

Although I don't see her as often now, I feel comforted that I am on her "prayer list". Twice a day, she prays for a long list of family and friends and has done so for many decades. She prays to a Creator who she believes is God to all of us — Jew, Christian, Muslim, Hindu ... everyone.

Perhaps that is part of the true, magical meaning of the holiday season we are anticipating. Whether it is Chanukah or Christmas we celebrate, it is a special time to enjoy the simple joys and pleasures derived from our family. And to remember to extend a loving hand to family, friends and those less fortunate.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Morrisburg Leader
Morrisburg, Ontario

Dear Editor - Just a thank you to the B.I.A., its committee and volunteers, for the lovely day this past Saturday. In spite of the cold weather, wind and snow, the Christmas parade was excellent. The breakfast put on the by Figure Skating Committee was great, and the concert in the evening was fun - even if I didn't win one of the prizes.

A job well done by all. We look forward to next year's event.

WENDY VELDHOVEN

Dear editor — Something is very wrong with our Post Office. After the first snow storm, there was about 12 feet of snow and it was very icy so I informed the 'Post Mistresses' and while in my van, 'lo and behold' she comes out and walks over it, comes back in a short time and slides on her fanny.

Also, one Canadian flag was hanging by one corner for a period of two to three weeks and I phoned the Post Office, spoke to the assistant and it still took three days to change. I repeat, this is or was our Canadian flag.

The walk at Winchester or Williamsburg is no problem at all. Apparently at our Post Office, they have never heard of using sand.

There are a lot of seniors in our town and we have to go pick up our mail so it's time they formed some kind of policy. Is it their fault or just the type of contract they have?

It's time for a change.

Catholic celebration

IROQUOIS—The end of a year of celebration for the parishioners of St. Mary's/St. Cecilia's Roman Catholic Church came last Friday evening at St. Cecilia's Church in Iroquois.

The two churches have been celebrating their anniversary (150 years for St. Mary's and 110 years for St. Cecilia's) with a variety of events throughout the year.

Many people felt Friday's Mass and Candlelight Service was the most beautiful and touching ceremony of all.

Pearl Summers wins grand prize in BIA draw

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—It pays to shop in Morrisburg.

At least that was the lesson Pearl Summers and four other winners of the Morrisburg BIA sponsored draws held here Saturday learned.

"I just couldn't believe it was true," said grand prize winner Winchester resident Summers. "This is one of the biggest things I have ever won. I have never won a trip like this before."

While uncertain how to spend her $3,000 certificate at Thom Travel Agency, whether on a Caribbean cruise or trip to Disney World, who has plenty of time to think over the options. The certificate is valid until July 1, 1996 and she can upgrade the trip or include others if she wishes.

Winners of the $500 gift certificates were Cindy Veinotte, Kelly Smith and Marilyn Salmon all of Morrisburg, and Lorraine Pollack of Toyes Hill. The ballots were only five of thousands packed into a giant rotating drum, from which the winners were drawn.

The parking lot and auditorium at the Operating Engineers Training Institute where the draw was held was packed with spectators curious to learn the winners. As Master of Ceremonies Marshall Button said, "There's nothing like giving away $3,000 in prizes to draw a good crowd."

Button entertained the crowd with two versions of the Night before Christmas, including the traditional poem, and an imaginative version of the "Night before the Referendum" performed through his character 'Lucien'. Spectators delighted to hear the chorus transformed to "On Chretien, on Bouchard, on Parizeau, McKenna all full of Baloney. So take it from me, da wise old Acadien. Who's not shy to say: proud to be Canadian."

Highlighting the evening's entertainment were illusions and escape tricks by Cornwall's magician "Magical Marc" DeMontigny. Magical Mark wowed the audience with sleight of hand card tricks, the appearance and disappearance of dove "Beauty" and "Daffy" the duck. Forecasting wonders to come, deMontigny's two children Catlyn and Crystal performed an escape from a box. The trick which originated with Harry Houdini, was improved by the contemporary magician Doug Henny. In an illusion called "mini zigzag" usually done by adults, Catlyn performed the difficult operation of cutting his sister into three. His sibling miraculously survived the ordeal with only a few grimaces of pain!

Venturing into more awesome displays, Mark demonstrated the "thumb cuff key trick" on a daring audience member, and topped off the show with a dramatic escape from a strait jacket. The restraining device made of leather and canvas holds a patients with his arms locked behind his back.

Members of the audience were again called on to assist, as Derek Tupper and Keith Robinson helped the magician put on the device and watched as he struggled desperately for a few minutes to escape.

Until the famous escape artist Harry Houdini first saw one in an insane asylum in 1912, purchased it to add something new to his show and then tried to get out of the device, the strait jacket was viewed as inescapable. And at first, it took Houdini months to escape.

A performance of seasonal music by the St. Mary's Church Choir added to the entertainment which was organized by Brian Wheeler.

The evening topped off a day long of Christmas oriented activities, starting with the Pancake Breakfast at the Civic Center followed by the Santa Parade organized by BIA president George Davies. Commenting on the event was BIA project coordinator Earl Baker. "I think it was a great day all the way around. It reflected a good pride in the community. It was a real good show and a real good crowd for the parade and the evening."

The events were well received by the crowd, which included both "older and younger individuals and inbetween."

Baker added the event was good for the area and the shopping center in particular.

Ho Ho Home Buyer Homework

By: Aubrey LeBlanc, Ontario New Home Warranty Program

TORONTO—Purchasing a home is a significant investment of money, energy and emotion which requires unhurried homework.

The Ontario New Home Warranty Program (ONHWP) encounters many new home buyers who become swept up in the excitement of buying a new home and make a quick decision without weighing all their options.

Researching your builder is the first and most important step you should take before buying your home. The first question from all house hunters should be whether the builder is registered with ONHWP.

Ask for the builder's registration number and the home or condominium unit enrolment number. Call you nearest ONHWP office for the most up-to-date information on the builder.

Be wary of the unregistered builder offering you a 'deal' to lower the purchase price in exchange for your silent co-operation to circumvent ONHWP and not enrol the home. The builder's unwillingness to adhere to the law should alert every new home buyer to potential problems.

A home built by an unregistered, rogue builder may still be protected by warranty but there would be fewer safeguards involving good after sales service and receiving accurate warranty information.

Take time to tally your needs against your wants and resources. Make a room-by-room check list of all the priorities you want to see in your new home. Keep the list handy as you inspect homes and talk to builders.

During your visits to builders' model homes, watch for ONHWP's Seal of Excellence certificates, Service Excellence Awards or Ernest Assaly Award achieved by builders who have displayed exemplary service to their homeowners.

Thorough home buyer homework should include personal interviews with current homeowners. New home buyers should take the time to walk around the neighborhood where they want to buy armed with pertinent questions. Was the home built on time and according to budget? Are you happy with the builder's work? How quickly was incomplete work finished?

Don't be shy about talking to builders and comparing each builder's after sales service program, namely their repair policy and inspection checks after homeowners move in.

Attend any new home buyer seminars sponsored by home builders' associations, banks and trust companies and use the opportunity to discuss your home buying needs with the experts.

Early in your new home search and definitely before the important paper work is presented, hire a lawyer who is experienced in real estate matters. A lawyer can translate the tangle of legal text associated with the new home purchase process and help you understand all the important documents to be signed by you and your builder.

You should determine exactly what will be included in the purchase price, what selections you can make, quality of cabinets, carpeting or finishing you want. Have all the specifics included in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale. Carefully review this document with your lawyer to ensure you receive all the items you requested. Remember verbal agreements may not be binding on the builder.

Once your detective work is complete and you have selected a builder, keep the lines of communication open. Find out whether you will be permitted to visit the construction site from time to time and how you can keep informed of construction progress.

Ask the builder's representative to give you the full name, address, telephone and fax numbers of the person responsible for after sales service. The supervisor or foreman on-site may not be the best person to assist you with the service problems.

Lastly, home buyers should never rush one of the major investments of their life. before signing or making any final decisions on your new home purchase, don't be afraid to take extra time to ensure you receive exactly what you want.

Careful research pays big dividends for new homeowners. More information about the entire home buying process can be found in ONHWP's free booklet, What Every New Home Buyer Should Know. To receive a copy contact your ONHWP office or call 1-800-668-7504.

Baldwin Bridge opens in Matilda

MATILDA TWP.—A ceremony was held Friday to officially open the new Baldwin's Bridge in the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

The Honorable Noble Villeneuve, Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs, Minister Responsible for Francophone Affairs and MPP for SD&G and East Grenville, Bob Kilger, MP for Stormont-Dundas, and Floyd Dingwall, Warden of the United Counties of SD&G noted the completion of the project.

This new bridge replaces Baldwin's Bridge over the South Nation River. It is located midway between Inkerman and South Mountain on County Road 16. It improves traffic flow on this County road

The $750,000 project was completed under the Canada-Ontario Infrastructure Works program, with each partner (federal, provincial, municipal) contributing one-third of the program funding.

"The reconstruction of this bridge will greatly improve a major transportation route and encourage future development in the area," said Villeneuve. "By renewing local infrastructure, we are creating a positive business environment for Ontario."

In a period of fiscal restraining, the cooperation exhibited under the Infrastructure Program in this needed replacement of Baldwin's Bridge is very much appreciated," noted Dingwall.

Obituaries

Stephen C.W. Merrill

Suddenly on Monday, November 27th, 1995. Stephen Charles Walter Merrill of Morrisburg. Loving and dearly loved husband of Judy Merrill. Dear son of Dorothy Merrill of Morrisburg and the late Dalton Merrill. Survived and deeply missed by his sister Catherine and her husband Gord Flumerfelt of Edmonton, Alberta, Ron and Emily Dickenson, John and Amy Dickenson, and his close friends and Max.

Stephen spent his early years in Morrisburg graduating from Morrisburg High School and Algonquin College in Ottawa. During his years in Morrisburg his competitive nature led Steve to involvement in hockey, curling, football and lacrosse. Football and lacrosse were his true loves and while involved in lacrosse he participated in guiding the Morrisburg Junior Mets to the Canadian Championship in Winnipeg.

Steve will always be remembered by friends and teammates for his commanding presence, sharp wit and competitive spirit that carried through to the end of his all too short life.

Upon graduation Stephen moved into financial services and after various assignments in Ottawa, Mississauga, Calgary and Hamilton, he completed his career with Canada Trust as a Senior Assistant Vice President responsible for the Securities and Pension Trust divisions in Toronto.

Stephen and Judy met in 1981 as co-workers in Hamilton and were married in June, 1988. Always seeking a greater challenge, the couple moved to Morrisburg in 1990 to begin a new life as partners in the Brister Group Insurance Brokerages.

The past five years were spent enjoying life to the fullest through special vacations with friends Cam and Sharon and the challenge of the expanding Brister Group of companies. Stephen was an avid boater and with Judy enjoyed the camaraderie and close friendship of like-minded friends wherever their port. "Options" was always a refuge offering a cool libation or gourmet meal.

In his short life, Stephen touched many lives and made that special impression that will allow us to remember him for his quick wit, zest for life and a great desire to help people achieve life's full potential.

Memorial donations to the Heart and Stroke Foundation, Diabetes Education Program at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital at Brockville, or the Winchester Hospital would be gratefully acknowledged by the family.

Boys' basketball season begins

Junior Spartans kick off season with win

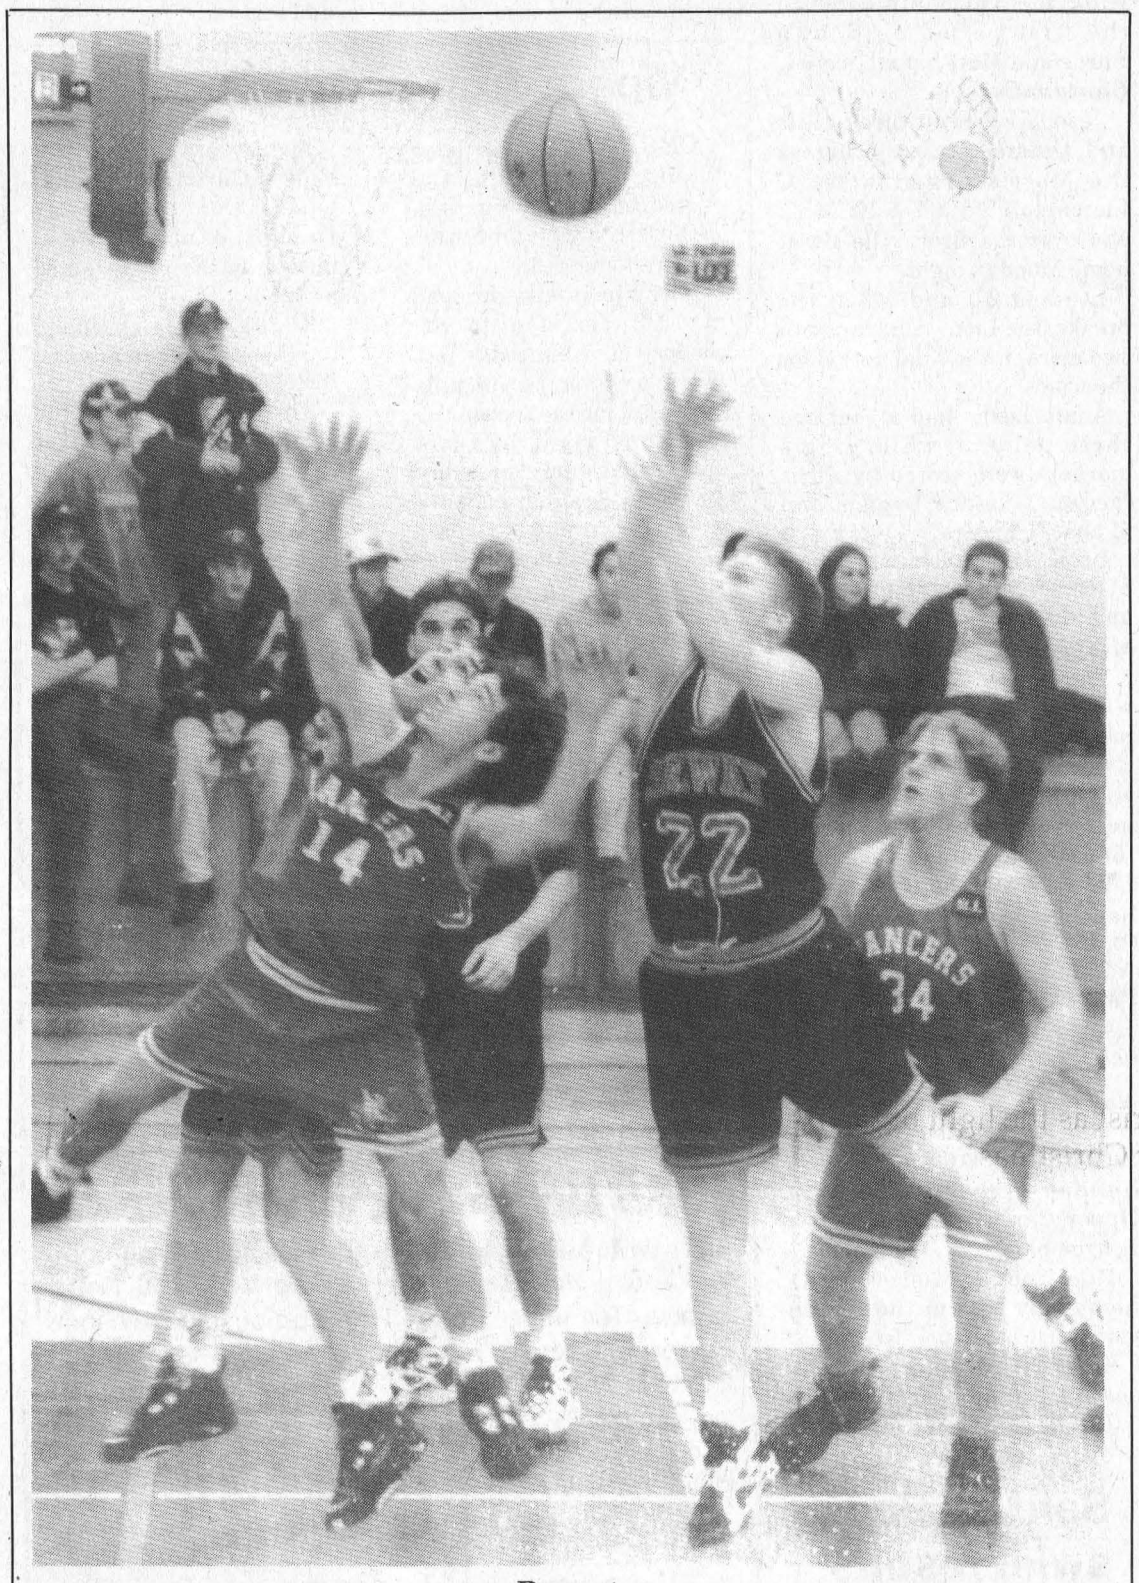
IROQUOIS—The SD&G boys basketball season got under way last Wednesday with the Seaway Spartans hosting the Rothwell-Osnabruck Lancers in their home opener.

The Lancers were winners two of the three games with the Midgets and Seniors claiming the wins.

Coach Irv Francis was pleased with the games, although only the Juniors came away with a win.

"All three games were close, and that Midget game could have went either way," he said.

The Midgets played to a 28-all deadlock forcing an extra period, where the Lancers' top point-getter, Brock Frost sunk a three-pointer at the buzzer to seal the victory.



Box out

The Junior Spartans won their home opener last week with a 60-46 upset over the R/O Lancers. The team was led by John Derouchie, who sunk 20 points. Both the Midgets and the Seniors lost their bouts. —Day photo

Frost had a total of 14 points in the 34-28 win.

Will Bruining added six, and Matt Jackson had four.

For the Spartans, Clint Bylsma had eight points to lead the team, with Billy DeJong adding five.

With two points each were Wayne Garlough, Jason Ouderkirk, Dee Lewis, Josh Head, Kevin Fields, Sean Marshall, and Ty Darrach. Josh Robblee hit for one from the line.

In the Junior contest, John Derouchie was a big force on the court hitting for one-third of the team's total points in the 60-46 win.

"He's really come into his own this year," commented Francis. "That guy is unstoppable."

He does his job under the net, either nailing a basket or forcing a foul.

Although the Juniors got off to a sluggish start, ending the first quarter in a 13-all tie, the Lancers came on strong to take a 27-24 lead at the half.

Seaway turned on the heat in the third quarter to post a 44-39 edge, and went on to almost shut out the Lancers in the final quarter.

Jason Byvelds had 11 points for the Spartans, while Travis Thompson added 10. Both Nathan Kiar and John MacPherson had seven each, and Ben MacPherson added six. Brad Boivin sank five points, and Brandon Cassell had one.

Leading the Lancers was Jason Zeran with 16, and David Frost had 12. Both John Pollock and Carson Boals picked up six each.

In the Senior match up, the Spartans lost a 70-57 contest.

Matt Ware was the driving force for the Lancers as he hit for 18 points. Jason Pickup had 15, and Rob Beckstead 11.

Derick Casselman had 21 points for the Spartans, and Kyle Swerdfeger and Kevin MacKillican 11 and 10 points respectively.

On the 21st, the Spartans host ESSL in their last games before the Christmas break. Tuesday, they were at Tagwi, but results were not available at press time.

Arena zamboni problems cause $3,400 loss, 15 hours of ice time

MORRISBURG—Approximately 15 hours of ice time were lost at the Morrisburg Arena this week because of an ailing zamboni.

But thanks to a rebuilt Volkswagon industrial motor, things are up and running smoothly.

"The old motor was seven years old," said Don Smithson, Arena manager. "We don't expect them to last much longer than that."

The zamboni quit Thursday because of scored cylinder walls in the motor, but by 5 p.m. Saturday, things were back to normal. The rink was closed during that time.

Because of the shut-down, $1,300 to $1,400 was lost in revenue. And $2,000 came out of the operating expense budget to replace the motor.

Both Town League and the Junior B Lions will reschedule their lost game times. On Saturday, the Minor Hockey Association lost their day of practices.

Matt Hicks scores loner

The Atom III Lions hosted the North Dundas II team on Tuesday last week, where the home team lost a 3-1 UCMHL bout.

Matt Hicks was the only goal scorer for the Lions with Matt Lewis picking up the assist.

Just Another Day... or two

Laurie Day

It took me two whole days to address my Christmas cards this weekend. And I only sent out seven!

See, when I send my pals a card at Christmas, I usually write that person a letter. So justifiably so, it takes a little longer.

I can't figure out people who send seven thousand cards at Christmas time. They send cards to people who they don't even see during the year, and if they do, it's just when they're washing their car or standing in a line-up at the bank.

I know, I know, it's guilt you feel if you don't send out that many cards. (I have felt this kind of guilt, and it's quite a burden.) So when was the last time you saw your "best friend" from grade school...1972, 1987 or at the class reunion? For me it was at graduation over —I'll say 10—years ago.

If the friendship meant more than an annual Christmas card, then why not try to get in touch with that person more than once a year? Sad card-attempts at a Christmas time just don't cut it.

Yes, I was a Christmas card-aholic. But this year I no longer am. I sorted through my 150-person card list and got it down to seven. Sad isn't it?

My feeble attempts at trying to soothe my guilty conscience finally got the better of me. I never see those people I used to send cards to at Christmas. So I did it. I cut the cord. Broke the tie. Scrapped my card list.

Those seven pals I sent Christmas greetings to this year I actually see more than once a year. Those I don't see, I write to all year long. They include my relatives in England, my best school pal who moved to Toronto many moons ago (and I still harass her because of her incapacity to write me back—even if it is with purple crayon and post-it notes, MARI-LYNN!!!), my former co-worker—who also moved to the big city, my buddy from here who escaped to the land of the un-known; and even my former grade four teacher whom I relocated after a 20-year hiatus. (Now don't go trying to figure out how old I am. That's twice I made reference to my age, and neither time will you be able to accurately calculate it.)

No, I don't send cards to my relatives, like Mom and Pops, Mom-in-law and her outlaw children, Grammie, wee Bro, my close-by best buddies, or my aunts and uncles and cousins because I get to celebrate the Christmas season with these wonderful people every year.

This year, I can't wait. Three dinners in the short span of two days. Arg. But, oh what fun...

I am now pleased to report that I am a reformed card-aholic.

However, Canada Post will surely miss my annual stamp-purchase of $70 plus.

SanMar Pool swim results

WILLIAMSBURG—The water is quiet, the deck is dry, and the diving board is lonely as area youth hang up their towels to end autumn swimming at SanMar Pool in Williamsburg Township.

It has been a busy fall with 131 youngsters enrolled in the Red Cross and Royal Life Saving Programs.

Instructors Shari Crummy, Jill Hess, Cherie Geertsma, Emily Slowey and Jaina Prost were proud of the progress of all their prodigies.

However, there were many participants who showed exceptional ability in their levels and have been designated star swimmers.

They include: Mark Peters of Morrisburg, KinderSwim; Kyler McMillan, Chesterville, Yellow; Corey Steele, Williamsburg, Orange; Gregory O'Neill, Morrisburg, Red; Megan Melonhorst, Winchester; Survival; Michelle Jones, Morrisburg, Maroon; Brodie Spratt, Mountain, Blue; Jeffrey Madge, Morrisburg, Green; Erica Walsh, Williamsburg, Grey; Simon Garlough, Williamsburg, White and L.S. I, and Stefanie Walsh, Williamsburg, L.S. I.

Adult lessons have been scheduled for Novice and Advanced swimmers during January and February. This is an opportunity to learn to swim or to improve your technique and endurance.

Consider going to the pool this winter. It could be a weekly tropical escape.

The staff at SanMar Pool wishes their clientele and families a happy holiday and they look forward to seeing everyone again in March.

Holiday shopping at the mall

Save big bucks on clothing

MORRISBURG —Everyone is always looking for a great sale at Christmas.

At Biba in the shopping mall, manager Ginette Smith is doing her best to save you money.

Until December 15, there is no GST on anything in the store. If you buy any accessories with a purchase, you'll get 15 per cent off the price of the accessory, which includes necklaces, purses, all-protector spray for boots and much more.

'Point Zero' sweaters are selling for $39.95 (five dollars off the regular sale price) with an additional 15 per cent off if they are purchased with something else in the store.

If that's not enough, Levi jeans are selling for $49.95 as opposed to the regular $63.95 price.

You'll also find other items at Biba that aren't on sale but may catch your eye.

There's full grain leather coats, 'Fun Fur' coats — the same as those worn in the 1950's, and a wide selection of sweaters, jeans and footwear, including Code West men's cowboy boots and Joe Sanchez ladies' boots.

Smith says Sorel Boots are very popular at this time of year because of their warmth and rubber soles.

"In Eastern Ontario, people find there is so much slush and water and these boots don't leak and leave no salt stains," Smith says.

Biba has been doing business in the mall for 23 years.

Next door at Edie's House of Fashion, owner Karen Morrow has quality fashion clothes for women of all ages.

She carries everything from casual and party dresses, to suits, sweaters, blouses, lounge wear, and winter coats and jackets.

"A lot of women buy for themselves but there are also many men who buy for their wives," Morrow says.

Joseph Ribkoff dresses and party outfits are popular sellers as well as jewelry and accessories including gloves, hats and scarves.

A new 'cruise line' has recently come in with beautiful colors and designs.

Edie's sells everything from petite sizes to oversize in all its merchandise.

Edie's does alterations to all its clothing, sells gift certificates for the holidays and will wrap your presents.

Day of spirit for SDCEC

MORRISBURG—If the number of calls from people in South Dundas with offers of help is any indication, December 20th promises to be a day to celebrate the spirit of Christmas.

The South Dundas Christmas Exchange Campaign (SDCEC) will begin the sorting of food on noon December 20th, and volunteers are invited to come and help during their lunch break.

All 190 boxes have been made up especially for the SDCEC by Les Craig's company, as well as by Odonto which also donated a large selection of goods.

The Angel trees in Morrisburg, Williamsburg and Iroquois still have angels on them, but hopefully, there will be a toy for each of the 300 children on the SDCEC list.

The bins for nonperishable food are quickly filling up at Mr. Grocers, Beckers in Iroquois and the tin can pyramid at the Royal Bank is steadily rising.

Every church in the district is getting involved by collecting food and money or both. Some have cookie trees or book trees, or even mitten trees which people are contributing to.

Industries and businesses are coming up with novel ways to collect cash donations.

The Parks of the St. Lawrence held a raffle and a bag of coins and bills amounting close to $300 was raised.

Ross Video is concentrating on collecting baby food, as many mothers with young children work there.

All schools in the area are gathering food, some at their Christmas concerts, and others throughout the week.

St. Mary's School is also providing gifts for five of the children on the Angel tree by collecting $3 from each child.

Some schools are donating books and puzzles.

The High School and Alternative SChool will work hard on distribution day by carrying boxes loaded with food to the recipients' cars.

There were 50 more requests received this year and 40 people who live alone are not going to be able to receive baskets due to the demand from families.

Committee members Robin Lane, Carol Richer, Joan Findlay, Glen Cunningham, Mark Hart, Jean Marsten and Bill Kurschinski, are thankful that the response from the community has been so tremendous.

"This year's campaign can already be considered a success," said Lane.

Generous donation

Rev. William Kurschinski (Padre) donated $500 on behalf of Williamsburg Legion Branch 538 to the South Dundas Christmas Exchange last Wednesday. Receiving the cheque for the Exchange is organizer Robin Lane. They are pictured at Mr. Grocer, where a large container is set up to receive non-perishable food donations.

ROYAL CANADIAN LEGION BRANCH #48 MORRISBURG, ONTARIO

NEWSLETTER

Christmas is coming and the goose is getting fat, well maybe not the goose, but the meat draw this week has a turkey and a ham as the prize again, so there's still a chance to win a Christmas and New Year's day dinner. Last week's winner of the turkey and ham was Sharon Lewis.

The Branch also has an ongoing draw for beautiful Christmas Baskets made by Smyth's Apple Orchards. These draws are also open to everyone. Tickets are $1.00 each and the draw takes place every time 100 tickets are sold so don't miss out.

This Sunday past saw the last of the Sunday games until the New Year with Terry Laurin winning first place in cribbage. Last week's Euchre champ was Brian Elliott In the New Year, beginning January 7th, it is planned to hold a tournament every Sunday rotating with dart steak shoots, euchre and cribbage.

Last Friday saw the decorating party hard at it, and with the work of many helping hands the Branch took on a festive look for the Holiday Season. Our Senior members will be the first to enjoy the decorations as they enjoy their dinner this Wednesday night The dart players will be too busy playing to look around at the decorations.

There may be a little bit of magic in the air on Sunday, Dec. 17th, when the Branch will be holding a Legion Members Christmas Party for the children and grandchildren of all members. There is one person who is sure to show up for this party and that of course is Santa Claus.

There are still a limited number tickets available for the New Year's dance so why not get a group together and come to the Legion to see the Old Year out and the New Year in with your friends and neighbours. Ticket sales are open to everyone this year on a first come, first served basis at $12.00 per person.

The Santa Claus Parade was a great success and one couldn't help but be proud as the Lancaster Pipe Band sponsored by Branch 48 marched past. Nothing like a little bit of snow to make one realize that Santa is on his way.

Our main hall will be turned over to the South Dundas Christmas Exchange on Wednesday, Dec. 20th and they will be finished on the 21st in time for the Bingo game. There will also be a bingo game on the 28th of December.

On behalf of the President and Members of the Executive, we wish all the members, families and the residents of Morrisburg and area a Very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

CARD OF THANKS

LOUCKS–As this Christmas season approaches one thinks of family and friends. For this reason, I would like to say thank you to the doctors and nurses at W.D.M.H. for their excellent care. Thanks also to those who remembered me these past five months with visits, cards, flowers, phone calls and many good thoughts. An extra thank you to Pastor Diane Raddatz for being at my side when I went into hospital and for her many visits and prayers. I am now a resident of Dundas Manor Ltd. I want to wish all my friends a blessed Christmas and a prosperous New Year.
–Velma Loucks 50p

EMMERSON–We wish to thank those who came to our assistance during our recent car accident. Your help was appreciated.
–Jennie and Beverley Emmerson 50p

WERELEY–Many thanks go out to our family and friends for a great 25th party. Thanks for your gifts, cards, visits and all the help given. It was a party we enjoyed and will always remember.
–Sharon and Keith Wereley 50p

SADDLEMIRE–We, the Saddlemire family, gratefully acknowledge the Williamsburg Community for their support in the demise of our dear husband and dad. A sincere thanks to W.D.M.H., the ambulance attendants, Dr. G.N. Houze, Dr. B. Steel and the nurses on the 2nd floor for their care. For all the memorial donations, flowers, cards, visits and food brought to the house, to Rev. Macpherson, David Lapier, the pallbearers and my sisters, Millie and Marion, all we can say is thank you. 50p

BIRTHS

IT'S A GIRL!

IN MEMORIAM

GAUTHIER–In loving memory of Janice, our only daughter and sister, and Robby, our only grandson and nephew, who left us so suddenly Dec. 14, 1986.
They touched many lives
In their few short years.
Now their memory remains
To soften the tears.
We don't wish them back
From their heavenly home,
For we hope to join them
Around God's throne.
–Lovingly remembered Glenn, Audrey and Stephen Dafoe 50p

SALMON, CHRIS–Cherishing memories of a dear son and brother who passed away eight years ago on December 5, 1987.
No pen can write, nor tongue tell,
Our sad and bitter loss;
But glorious memories have helped so well
To bear our heavy cross.
Now that Christmas shades are falling,
We sit together in quiet alone,
To our hearts there comes a longing
If Chris only could be at home.
Then comes a smile, then comes a tear,
As we feel a warm familiar presence,
We're not alone, we never were,
We know he is truly here.
–Missed so much by Dad, Mom and Nicole 50p
