REGULATIONS FOR MILITARY DRAFT ARE PUBLISHED

The department of national war services has promulgated the regulations governing the calling up of single young men for military training.

Simultaneously the department issued a list of the personnel of 13 boards to be appointed to control the draft in the various military districts in order to prevent impairment of the effectiveness of essential industries.

To be called first, about October 1, are 21-year-old single men and widowers with no dependents, seasonal workers, students. Those who are taking military training or have had it, will not be on the "immediate call list."

Thomas J. Ralph Died On Tuesday

Winchester Township lost one of its most highly esteemed citizens on Tuesday evening, in the passing of Mr. Thos. J. Ralph, a former councillor and deputy reeve.

Stricken suddenly ill on Monday morning, deceased was rushed to the Ottawa Civic Hospital, where an operation was performed the same day. He failed to respond to surgical treatment, however, and died on Tuesday evening.

The late Mr. Ralph was born at Stittsville 70 years ago, a son of the late James Ralph and Margaret Argue.

In 1895 he married Miss Hannah Young, of Munster, Ont.

Prior to taking up residence on his present farm, north of Winchester about 25 years ago, he farmed near Russell and Navan.

Always interested in the welfare of the township, the late Mr. Ralph served for several years as councillor, and for three terms as deputy reeve of Winchester Township, retiring last December.

He was widely known as a breeder of fine horses and cattle, and was one of the district's most prosperous farmers.

He was also a devoted member of L. O. L. No. 862, Winchester, and seldom missed an Orange Walk on the twelfth of July. In fact, no county celebration was complete without Mr. Ralph and his spirited white horse, upon which he rode at the head of the lodge. He had held many offices in the local Order, where his passing will be keenly felt.

In religion, the late Mr. Ralph was a member of the United Church.

The funeral is being held this afternoon from the family residence to the United Church, where the service, under L. O. L. auspices, will be conducted by Rev. W. S. Atchison. Interment will be made at Stittsville cemetery.

Besides his wife, he leaves one sister, Mrs. John Savage, of Navan, and two brothers, Reuben Ralph, of Stittsville, and George Ralph, of Leamy, Sask.

Pre-Nuptials For Miss Myrtle Carkner

On Thursday evening last, over 30 friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Parish, Maple Ridge, to honour Miss Myrtle Carkner, whose marriage takes place shortly. During the evening, which was spent in games and music, Miss Carkner was escorted to a seat of honour by Miss Jessie Derby, who proceeded to read an address which accompanied the presentation of an electric table lamp, electric iron and several pieces of Pyrex, on behalf of those present by Misses Roma Fawcett, Eleanor Steinburg and Madge Allison. Prior to the reading of the address, the guest of honour was presented with a bouquet of cut flowers by little Miss Margaret Parish.

In a few well-chosen words, Miss Carkner thanked her friends for their beautiful gifts, after which dainty refreshments were served by Misses Margaret Parish, Madge Allison, Eleanor Steinburg and Colbourn Helmer and George Scott.

Before leaving, all joined in singing: "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow," after which those present registered their names in a beautiful bride's book, designed by the hostess, Mrs. Parish.

* * * *

On Friday evening last, Mrs. Dr. McKendry was hostess at a Cup and Saucer shower, held at her home in honour of Miss Carkner. Fifteen guests were present and the bride-to-be was the recipient of as many beautifully designed cups and saucers, for which she expressed her appreciation.

The hostess was assisted in serving by her daughter, Miss Pauline McKendry, and Miss Helen Spinks. The tea table was decorated silver berries, cut flowers and tall green tapers.

The bride's book, containing an address and the signatures of all present, was beautifully designed, and was composed of individual pages made by each of the guests.

The evening was spent in social intercourse. Among those present were a number of friends from Cornwall.

In view of the fact that Miss Carkner is leaving this district, following her marriage, which takes place this Saturday, members of the local Baptist Church visited her home at Maple Ridge on Monday, to express their appreciation to her for the devotion she had shown in the work of the church, and to bid her a kind farewell.

During the evening, Miss Carkner was presented with an Electric waffle iron, magazine stand and end table, by Misses Jean Wyatt and Mary Cumming, on behalf of the Baptist congregation, while the following address was read by Mr. Bert Smith.

To Miss Myrtle Carkner:

It was with feelings of deep regret that we, your fellow church members, received your resignation as organist of the Winchester Baptist Church. During the past two years we have learned to appreciate your faithfulness to the duty you were asked to assume. And yet we know that it was no unwilling service, for having the love of God in your heart, and the desire to serve Him, as He gave you opportunity, you gladly devoted time and energy to this task without thought of remuneration other than that of knowing you had followed your Master's will.

And so, since you are leaving us to enter on a broader sphere of life, we feel we cannot let you go without expressing our sincere wishes for happiness in the new life with the one whom you have chosen out of the whole world. We pray that God may richly bless you in whatever sphere the pathway of life may lead you, and as you go from us for a season, we would ask you to accept these gifts as a more tangible evidence of our esteem and affection, and we trust that it may at times recall to your mind, the friendship and fellowship we trust you have enjoyed among us.

To the one who is to be your life's partner we would also extend our wishes for happiness, and we pray that as he follows God's guiding hand that you and he together may be a means of blessing to all those with whom you may come in contact.

Signed on behalf of the Church, Ralph F. Willson, Pastor; Bertram Smith, Clerk

As a tribute from the Sunday School, Miss Della Barkley read the following address to Miss Carkner:

"Speaking for the entire Sunday School, I want you to know that we appreciate all that you have done for us, and that we will miss you more than we can say. This is not the usual formal little "thank you" dictated by custom for such occasions, it is a tribute sincere, straight from our hearts.

May God's richest blessings be yours through a long and happy life." Signed Della Barkley, Secretary.

The guest of honour replied to the above addresses and thanked her friends for their kind remembrances, stating that she would always cherish the memories of her association with the good people of the Baptist Church.

At the close of the evening, candy was served.

Here's One For Ripley!

Last Thursday, September 5th, 1940, Dr. J. J. McKendry received a post card in his morning mail, addressed to Miss Helen Taylor. The post mark on the card was November 22nd, 1922, and was mailed from Watertown, N. Y., by Miss Taylor's brother, Jack Taylor, who was living in that place at the time. It will be recalled that Miss Taylor, now Mrs. Dodd Mallory, was working for Dr. McKendry prior to her marriage, and the card was written and mailed in care of Dr. McKendry, when she was in his employ. Watertown is only about 75 miles from Winchester, but it took this post card 18 years to cover that distance. Where has it been all those years? That's the mystery. This is one for Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" Column, for sure.

Local Young Man Sailed For South Africa

Mr. Reg. Barnard, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Barnard, left on Monday for Taquah and Aboisso Colony, British West Africa, where he has been engaged as a Shift boss in a London-owned Gold mine. He boarded the steamship S. S. Phrontis at Montreal Monday evening and will be on the water 31 days, travelling via South America. His contract calls for 9 months work and 3 months holidays each year. For the past seven years, Mr. Barnard has been working in the mines at Timmins and is thoroughly experienced in all phases of the industry. It was through a company at Timmins that he received the contract to go to Africa.

All the Barnard brothers are engaged in the mining industry at the present time. Victor is working in the Hollinger mines near Tmmins, while William, a former member of the local Bank of Nova Soctia staff, is now in Alaska, where he is working in an American Government mine. To reach the mine in Alaska from a point in British Columbia, Bill travelled two days by boat and three days by aeroplane. These boys will have a wonderful experience in their mining ambitions, and their many friends here will wish them the best of luck.

ANCIENT GUN REGISTERED AT MORRISBURG

Firearms ancient and modern are being registered at the office of F. R. Chalmers, municipal clerk, Morrisburg, in accordance with government enactment. Some of the guns are so rich in years as to be more dangerous to the man at the butt end than to a person in front of the barrel, once firing commenced. One of the first registered is said to have been picked up at Crysler's Farm after the battle 127 years ago. Arthur F. Merkley has fyled for registration a gun presented to him when a boy, the donor being the late Henry Stearns.

News From And For The Local Boys At Petawawa Military Training Camp

The local platoon of No. 1 Company of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, N.P.A.M., which has been undergoing training at a military camp at Petawawa for the past several days, will return to Winchester about 6 p.m. on Sunday evening. According to letters received by the parents and other relatives of the boys, the life of a soldier in training is no picnic, but they are making the best of it. Some of the boys, who have never had a taste of camp-life before, find it difficult to become accustomed to sleeping in tents and relishing the "army-stew." Others say they are enjoying the outing and find little complaint with the change from civilian life to that of a soldier.

This week the Press received a letter from Capt. F. M. Cass, O. C., regarding the activities of the local boys at camp. It will be found of interest to many of our readers and we are pleased to publish it herewith:

Petawawa Camp, Sept. 8th, 1940.

Dear Mr. Editor:—

Will you please accept my sincere thanks and that of the boys for the copies of your newspaper so thoughtfully forwarded to us here; we are all looking forward to the arrival of the next edition.

According to present arrangements, our Company will arrive home by troop train at 6.00 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 15th next, with Morrisburg and Winchester detraining at Winchester, and Chesterville at home. If weather permits, the two platoons will march from the station to the rink and a good drummer, at least, would come in handy! And I am sure everyone will be surprised and gratified at the improvement made in our marching by two weeks' training.

While to-day it is raining heavily, we have been enjoying some delightful weather and are hoping for more. Our greatest difficulty is rising at 6 a.m. D. S. T. The boys have been kept very busy, beginning the day at 6 a.m. with reveille, followed by a short P. T. period; breakfast at 7 and on parade at 8 a.m.—by this time they must have their lines in proper condition; the battalion marches about a mile and drills for two hours; then home for dinner; on parade at 1.30 p.m. for another march and 3 hours drill and at 4.30 p.m. they are done for the day (the officers, of course, work far on into the night!). The boys are receiving a real groundwork of training up here, but some of the army touches are rather new and embarrassing to a lot of us, particularly the scrubbing and potato peeling fatigues, of which our boys have had their share. Leave to Petawawa is strictly regulated in our camp, but not so strictly adhered to. The writer issued 5 on Saturday to his Company, and when in the town ran across at least half of his Company of 110 (unofficially).

Personally, I feel that not only in our battalion in general, but in my Company in particular, we have a very splendid group of N. C. O.'s and men; one that cannot be beaten anywhere; my junior officers are of the same calibre and our unit is one of which, along, with me, the folks back home can be justly proud. Cheerio.

Fred Cass, Capt.,
O. C. No. 1 Co'y., 2nd Batt. S. D. & G. Highlanders, N.P.A.M.

P. S.—Pte. Jerry O'Brien, of "Jerry's" at Williamsburg, by common rumour, is slated for post of battalion cook, and is as popular with the whole outfit up here as he could possibly be.

L.-Cpl. Gerald Helmer spent all day Saturday looking for a barber shop and when he found it there was no razor strop or hot water.

A.-C.Q.M.S. J. H. Keyes finds the nights up here so warm that, due to the inconveniences of perspiration, he has decided to abandon his sleeping bag.

Pte. George Elliott has gone back to butchering up here and says it is great to be able to throw meat away and not to worry about trimming the bones; ditto, Pte. Pro. Alford, of Chesterville.

Pte. R. C. Barkley, Co'y. runner, finds even marching too hard on him after sampling the local brand of throat-easy poison. F. M. C.

Ed. Note:—We wish to inform Capt. Cass that a drummer, at least, will be available when the unit returns home Sunday. Nothing new has happened since the boys left, but here are a few persoal briefs which we pass on to those concerned:

To "Bud" Utman: Your new awning has arrived and been put in place. It looks fine. By the way, what happened to that big, long letter you were going to write to the Press? Lack of ambition or time—which?

To Gerald Helmer: The shop is still intact—rather dull looking on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, though. We warn you there are some overgrown crops of whiskers and hair awaiting your return. Frank's sale was held Tuesday and went off fine.

To "Pa" Keyes: Wife and kiddies fine. T. O. stil selling groceries. The bass are bigger and better—if you can catch them. George bought a boat, motor and boat-house. Is contemplating another deal to acquire Pat's old speed-boat. He'll be glad to see you.

To Lieut. Porteous: Cottage still intact but has lonesome appearance. Wife took in Mountain Fair. She also looks lonesome. The "squire" is wondering if you have improved your game of Chess.

To Ellsworth Summers: The bees are still humming. The wife and kiddies are fine and are anxious to see how mucn you have reduced that "avoirdupois" that has been creeping up on you.

To Harold Harper: Store still doing business as usual. Someone put in an awful lonesome time on Sunday, especially in the evening. Don. started in Melvin's this week.

To Dave Melvin: Dad and mother arrived home safely, but hope you didn't have indigestion after that meal on Sunday. New helper at service station coming along fine. Hart makes a good "night watch" but is definitely out on the "morning watch," especially around 4 a.m.

To Mac Summers: Bill is still "plugging" away, but is waiting patiently for the return of "Old Faithful." You never miss the water till the well runs dry, you know.

To Dwight Guy: Eric still on the bottle (milk we mean). Young lad has run out of "Sterling Exchange." Telephone operators all fine.

To Bob Hitsman: Everyone pleased to know you like military life, especially the "army stew." It has been rumored around that you are going to sign up for overseas service—is this true?

To Allan Ellacott—Everything running smoothly at Lannin's. 300 more cords of wood have arrived. Boys have been too busy to pile it and are awaiting your return.

To Abbie Crawford: Clark had his tonsils removed this week. Have you been living up to the reputation of "the boy from Glengarry?" Hy. says the flow of eggs is tremendous—he'll be glad when you are back on the job—500 dozen still to be graded. How long does it take to walk from canteen to sleeping quarters—or have you tried it?

To Sam Ault: Ken. completely fagged out; doesn't know how he ever got along without you. Tell Arn. Barkley the casein is running low.

Space will not permit us to send a personal message to each one of the boys, but we're thinking of them, nevertheless. So long.

WEDDINGS

ILLINGWORTH—BUSCH

A wedding of local interest took place at Vancouver, B. C., on Wednesday, August 14th, when Mrs. Lillian Busch, of Toronto, nee Miss Lillian Steinburg, daughter of Mr. Wm. Steinburg and the late Mrs. Steinburg, of this place, was united in marriage with Dr. J. F. Illingworth, of Honolulu, Hawaii. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. S. Tyrer

Following the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Illingworth visited Jasper Park, Banff, San Francisco, and are sailing from Los Angeles, Calf., on September 18th, for Honolulu, where they will reside.

If you were asked for your national registration card, could you produce it?

Morrisburg Men To Face Charges

Two Morrisburg men are facing serious charges as a sequel to the so-called "Children's Picnic," held on Broder Island, on Sunday, August 18th, under the sponsorship of the Morrisburg-Waddington Lions Club

Shortly after noon on Friday last Chief of Police Clarence Biccum served summonses on George D. Howith, Vice-President of the Morrisburg-Waddington Transportation Company, and President of the Morrisburg-Waddington Lions Club, and on Wm. A. McGannon, Jr., proprietor of the St. Lawrence Hall Hotel, and also a prominent member of the Lions Club, to appear in Magistrate's Court in Morrisburg on Friday, September 13th, on charges of "keeping for sale, liquor, contrary to section 87 (1) of the Liquor Control Act."

The charges were laid by Provincial Constable R. H. Wannell, of Morrisburg.

The cases will be heard tomorrow afternoon, at 2 p. m., in the Public Library, Morrisburg, before Magistrate G. A. Wright, of Brockville, unless settlement is made out of court in the meantime.

The police have subpoenaed as witnesses for the Crown, several men who are alleged to have assisted in the preparation or sale of liquor on the day in question.

Prior to the afternoon of the picnic, the Lions Club had printed and distributed dodgers advertising free transportation to Broder Island, for all Dundas County children who wished to attend. When word leaked out of the alleged irregularities at the picnic, public indignation reached a high pitch. Broder Island officials as well as social and religious leaders publicly voiced their disapproval. The Island caretaker made a report to the Provincial Police there, and an investigation was begun. With sufficient evidence accumulated to warrant the laying of charges, the police acted swiftly, and the necessary papers were quickly served.

Former Local Barber Passes At Kemptville

The funeral of Frederick Gerald Bower, a well-known resident of Kemptville, was held on Monday from his late residence on Asa Street to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, where service was conducted by Rev. A. F. Howick, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, assisted by H. L. Henderson, of the Presbyterian Church. Interment was made in the South Gower cemetery.

Mr. Bower was born ni South Gower Township, Dec. 24, 1901, and was a son of the former Maria Sipes and the late Joseph Bower. He was a barber and conducted a shop in Kemptville for many years. He had been in ill-health for some years. He died on Friday evening last.

Left to mourn, besides his mother, are his wife, the former Evelyn Seabrook, of Richmond, to whom he was married on May 17, 1930; two daughters, Geraldine and Joan, and one son, Jerome, all at home; two sisters, Mrs. H. R. Tompkins, of Stirling, Ont., and Mrs. Joseph Lemieux, of Ottawa, and one brother, Lorne, of Belleville.

Many beautiful floral offerings were received by the family.

The late Mr. Bower was well-known in Winchester, having worked in the barber shop, jointly owned by Mr. Neil Hutt and the late Karl Helmer, several years ago.

Metcalfe Fair Being Held Next Week.

The officers and directors of Metcalfe Agricultural Society have completed plans for holding the 84th annual exhibition at Metcalfe, on Friday and Saturday, September 20th and 21st, 1940. The theme of this year's Fair will be "Help Win The War," and a large percentage of the gate receipts is being donated to the Red Cross Society.

Entries in the several classes of each department are coming in steadily, and present indications are that a record entry list will be established.

In addition to a special exhibition by the Boys' Calf Club, there will be a "black and white" day, open to Holstein breeders in Carleton County and Russell and Navan townships in Russell County. Competitions for the prizes in this division will take place on the last day of the Fair. There will also be special classes for Red Cross workers and a "Win The War Section," the details of which are published in the prize list, now available on application to the Secretary.

Features for the second day of the Fair, include a Free-For-All Horse Race for a purse of $200.00. judging of horses, cattle and other live stock, and parade of prize winners; band concert; midway attractions and farm implement displays.

In the evening a concert will be held in the Township Hall and a dance in the Drill Hall.

Nothing is being left undone to make Metcalfe Fair live up to its reputation of being "Eastern Ontario's Greatest Rural Exhibition.

THE CHIEF OBSTACLE TO HITLER'S DREAM OF A GERMAN WORLD EMPIRE

Hitler's ambition to create a German World Empire is not an original ambition. All down through the ages, this has been the dream of German rulers. The method by which Hitler hopes to accomplish the task does not differ a great deal from some of his predecessors. War has always been the basis by which Germany has hoped to build up a vast empire; and war, as it is waged by the Germans to-day, presents horrors, which a century ago were unknown. Hitler is also more ruthless in his methods of defeating the enemy—he doesn't confine his warring activities to the opposing armies and military objectives, but strikes at peaceful communities and slaughters the civilian population, which includes women and children. The aeroplane is his chief weapon for carrying out these brutal attacks.

In his own mind, Hitler may be convinced that he can dominate the world by force and thus make his dreams become a reality, "but there always was, and is, one insuperable obstacle in the way of this magnificent dream of a future world empire for Germany and that is the accomplished, existing, actual world Empire of Great Britain, of which England is the heart, and unless this obstacle can be removed so that it shall never stand in the way again, the grand ideal of Germany's future never can be realized." This statement was made after repeated attacks on England by Count Reventlow and other writers, who issued pamphlets and articles against Great Britain.

In January, 1900, the Koloniale Zeitschrift remarked "The old century saw a German Europe, the new shall see a German world." The Kaiser, 1911, "God has called us to civilize the world." Mommsen preached hatred of England in his historical lectures; Greman fiction abounded in thrilling narratives of successful wars against England.

If Germany is allowed to conquer Britain then the words of Rousseau, greatest, of early exponents of democracy (1762) might again be true, "Man was born free, he is now everywhere in chains."

CHILDREN WITH SPEECH DEFECTS

Parents of children with speech defects should realize that speech is not an isolated factor in a person's means of expression, writes Ruth Lewis, speech authority, in the current issue of "Health," organ of the Health League of Canada. "Speech," she writes, "is an expression of the self and a means of making that self contact other human beings; therefore the whole life of the child must be considered in relation to his speech."

Parrot-like drills are not enough to correct an impediment of speech, Miss Lewis writes. "A child cannot respond to speech training if he is emotionally maladjusted in his relation to his home or school environment." She suggests that trained pyschologists examine the whole personality of the child, and a program of activity adopted that will change the emotional life of the child.

While most speech defects are due to mental maladjustments, there are speech defects due to physical malformations, writes Miss Lewis. In such cases the speech therapist must rely on the doctor's and dentist's assistance. "But the repair of the physical abnormality is not sufficient to cure the speech disorder; it merely prepares the ground," she says.

Speech drills and exercises have an important place in all cases of defective articulation, Miss Lewis holds. "Only with a full knowledge of phonetics and the analysis of sounds can adequate work be done in establishing new sounds and correcting mispronounced ones," she writes. "The need for the child to discriminate one sound from another is always kept in the foreground."

WE OFFER A SUGGESTION

Here is a suggestion for the local Red Cross! How about making a canvas of local homes and ask for donations of articles which have been stored away in the attic for years, and, which, no doubt, the owner has no further use for. These articles, which would probably include pieces of furniture, dishes, trunks, novelties, books, etc., could be cleaned up a little and sold by public auction in the local town hall each Saturday night. It is just possible that many people have discarded articles that their next door neighbour would be willing to pay money for. The money derived from these sales might go a long way in financing the local Red Cross' war program. This is only a suggestion, but if acted upon, it may be the means of raising considerable money for Red Cross purposes, and at the same time create a certain amount of entertainment on Saturday evening. At any rate, it's worth a try.

LEGISLATURES SHOULD LEAD

Whenever a politican is faced with a problem that he does not care to touch, he quotes the somewhat worn phrase that legislation must not be in advance of public opinion, says Dr. W. G. Clark, Medical Health Officer of Edinburgh. One is prompted to doubt the accuracy of this politician's mental placebo. If we waited for an enlightened public opinion to be formed on our various problems, there would be little progress. Very few citizens are in a position to have even nodding acquaintance with the conditions under which all their fellows work, so diverse have the activities of a civilized community become. Some legislature, agitated for in the first place by officials, and sponsored by private members, is apt to be regarded as the product of a time-serving bureaucracy. It is only when fair-minded and unbiased press reports on the debates on such measures are available that a sympathetic and reasoned support can be given by the public. Public opinion will take action on the public knowledge of a public need. The whole history of social progress in this country supports that statement, but the need must be clearly and fairly set forth. It is as harmful to exaggerate a social wrong as it is to cloak it, despite the assertions of those who claim that they consciously exaggerate to be heard.

THE NAZI PARADOX

One curious aspect in the present war is the paradox which even victory presents for Germany. The Nazi machine, geared for attack, must keep going forward or in effect it is going backward. Every day that Germany is not counting a victory, Britain is winning the war.

At this point in his triumphal advance Herr Hitler, and everyone else, knows he would find it most convenient to stop the war now; but Herr Hitler, and everyone else, knows he cannot stop the war now. Yet to carry on the war indefinitely will defeat Germany economically, socially, and finally, by force of arms.

Is Berlin now going more cautiously as this paradox of victory becomes more apparent? There is something about Nazi-ism that is not unlike a toy gas balloon, rising higher and higher, swelling bigger and bigger in false majesty, until—

EDITORIAL NOTES

"Right is Might. Help Britain Fight. Think Right—Talk Right—Act Right!" This is the verse that appears beneath the Union Jack on the cover of a calendar card, being distributed by Mr. Hart Melvin. It is good advice. Let us all take it to heart.

It is certain that this could be made a much safer community not only for children but adults as well if a more thorough enforcement of traffic laws was exercised. There is no reason whatsoever why any motorist should feel free to drive through the town at the same speed he travels over the more open parts of the provincial highways system.

A Toronto psychologist—pests that most of them are—suggests that if people don't think or talk about the heat or cold, they won't notice the changes much. Perhaps so, brother, but it requires more will-power than most of us are capable of exerting to forget about heat when the thermometer is in the nineties, or the cold when the mercury sinks to 10 or 15 below zero.

"Team work" is the subject of a recent poster issued by the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, designed to be placed in all industrial plants throughout the province. The poster reads: "Team work will do the trick. You and the 'big boss,' the foreman and the man beside you are all partners. What hurts one, hurts all; what benefits one, benefits all."

Motorists who have occasion to park their cars on village streets, should use a little discretion. Quite often local car owners have to wait for hours before they can put their car in their garage, owing to the fact that some unthinking motorist has parked his vehicle at the entrance of a private driveway. Next time you park your car on the street, make sure it is not in front of a private or public driveway.

"From the growth of weeds on some of the side-streets in this town, our weed-inspector must be asleep at the switch," was the way one of our local citizens put it, in commenting on the condition of some of our side-streets the other day. We pass it on to the authorities for what it is worth. Too much attention cannot be given to the eradication of weeds, especially at this time of year, when they are shedding their seeds.

Those fifty destroyers which the United States traded with Great Britain for the privilege of establishing defence bases on British territory, may be "old-age destroyers," but, manned by British crews, they will be more effective weapons of war than new destroyers, manned by crews of any other country. It is a recognized fact that British seamen are the best in the world. Those "old-age" destroyers wil be re-born in the hands of the British—make no mistake about that!

Farmers and local gardeners would be well-advised to destroy all corn-stubble this year, as a means of preventing the increase of corn-borer next season. The corn was badly affected in this district this year by the corn-borer and only half a crop will be harvested. Authorities on the subject inform us that precaution must be taken in the autumn if the menace of the corn-borer is to be reduced the following season. For their own good, farmers should heed this advice.

Hitler says if the Royal Air Force continues its planless night attacks on German cities, his air force will simply "erase English cities." What has the German airmen been trying to do for the last three months? Such threats will not greatly perturb the people of England, but will cause the military authorities in that country to be on the alert for increased enemy activity in the air. It will take more than Hitler to scare the British into submission—and he probably is commencing to realize that

Letters to the Editor

Winchester, Ont.,
September 9th, 1940.

Winchester Press,

Dear Editor:—Having heard certain people's opinions regarding the Italians, I wish to express my personal views in this matter. First of all, I wish to inform your readers that I was born in Italy and came over to Canada, in company with my mother, brother and sisters. I received my education in both Canada and the land of my birth. I am well thought of by the more respectable classes of people, but there are a few ignorant individuals who, because I am an Italian, persist in insulting my good name.

Only God knows the destiny or fate of a nation. Sometimes nations meet as friends, other times as enemies, but that is no fault of the individual, who may not always be in sympathy with the policies of military leaders of his homeland.

There are some people who think that Italians should all be hung, or should all be thrown out of this country, etc. At the present time they would rather belong to any other race than that of the Italians.

I am an Italian, and proud of it, but that doesn't mean that I am disloyal to the country in which I make my home. On the contrary, I respect the laws of Canada and uphold the ideals for which she is fighting.

To take the view that because I am an Italian, I have no right to enjoy the freedom of a law-abiding citizen, is contrary to the ideals of Democracy, or of the religion, which all democratic countries boast of. This isn't the time to take such a view, and I leave my thoughts with God. My motto is "odu mihi gras tibi," which translated means "today we, tomorrow you."

Sincerely yours,
Joseph Macrillo.

Ed. Note:—We are not fully acquainted with the facts which prompted our correspondent to write the above letter, but we can sympathize with his views. It is no fault of his that he was born of Italian parentage, neither is it a disgrace. It is true that Italy, today, is an enemy nation, but that doesn't necessarily mean that all Italians living in Canada are in sympathy with the policy of aggression being carried out by their mother country. If an alien is an enemy agent, he is sent to an internment camp. This applies to both Germans and Italians. If they are allowed to live as free citizens, and obey and uphold the laws of Canada, they should not be molested by individuals who hold a grudge against them because they are natives of countries with whom we are at war. Moreover, untruthful stories or malicious rumors should not be circulated about them when they are striving to live at peace with their fellow Canadians. Only people of limited intelligence persist in this practice, many of whom are probably not as loyal to Canada as the aliens they are trying to molest.

THE NEXT STEP

(Carleton Place Canadian)

Unemployment insurance having been provided for, it would appear to be our next responsibility to take such steps as we can to prevent unemployment. Our immediate problem is to win the war but we should not lose sight of the fact that there will be an aftermath.

A LETTER FROM HOME

(Hanover Post)

A letter from home is an important event in the life of the man on active service. He wants to know all that is happening at home, and above all, he needs cheerful news that will provide him with a joke that he can share with his comrades. The organization which provides postal service only a bit slower but quite as reliable as in peacetime is certainly worthy of admiration.

AT HIS OWN DOOR STEP

(Perth Courier)

While many Carleton Place fishermen go hither and yon, in search of good fishing—presumbaly many come to the Perth district—young Alywin McAllister tried casting from the bridge, on the main thoroughfare of that town, into the Mississippi, right in the shadow of the city hall, on a recent afternoon and in a brief time secured five bass that were viewed with envy by the numerous pedestrians on the main drag.

THEY CAN DO PLENTY

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

A Toronto friend was talking about registration the other day and he said he was asked but a few questions by the deputy registrar. Our friend is over fifty and when he gave his age, the deputy had nothing more to ask him. Apparently there is little that a man over fifty years of age can do in this war. And yet, look about you. We'll bet that the majority of the men doing the business of this town today are fifty or better. And these men are for the most part in excellent health, and are doing just as much work as they did ten years ago. Too old at fifty? For the army, yes. For business, no.

HELPING THE LIBRARY

(Smiths Falls Record-News)

In a certain town in Canada (name omitted intentionally) a campaign was held a short time ago to raise funds for the local Public Library. The editor of the local newspaper (as is usually the case with editors) wanted to do his part, so he wrote a splendid editorial praising the great benefits enjoyed through the Library and ended his writings by requesting the readers to send in a brief article on the subject, "Books that have helped me." We can understand the Editor chuckling when he opened one reply and read: "My mother's cook book and my father's cheque book."

THE SAME HERE!

(Stirling News-Argus)

Within recent weeks we have had one or two subscribers who were in arrears for their subscription refuse their copy of the paper at the post office and in this way hope to get out of paying for the same. This is something which they will not be allowed to get away with. Subscription accounts are collectable, the same as any other and unless these accounts are paid, some people are going to find out that this is so.

RUMANIA'S FATE

(Petrolia Advertiser-Topic)

Rumania may now be wishing she had declared war with Poland along with the Allied forces at the start of the war. Trying to be a neutral in the face of German pressure was not possible and that country has paid a great price. Her latest loss of territory, half of Transylvania to Hungary, is quite significant in view of the German-Russian alliance. Germany has fixed Hungary's new Eastern border along the Carpathian Mountains, a natural line of defence which maybe Hitler has in view, should Stalin grow too ambitious in the Balkans. All is far from well in that sector and a year hence might see some spectacular happenings in the Balkans.

THEY CAN'T OUT-BRAG US

(Ottawa Citizen)

The Winnipeg Tribune lets off a loud brag about Manitoba winning most of the big butter-making honors at the Toronto exhibition; the grand challenge cup 19 times in 23 years, and so forth.

Well, Mr. Editor, around here we don't pay much attention to that show at Toronto—or to anything else emanating from Toronto, as a matter of fact.

But if you would like to come along and bring your grand champ to any of our Ottawa Valley fall fairs we'll give you a lick of the most delicious butter in the world, at least half an inch deep on a hunk of the best home-made bread you ever set a tooth in.

And to top it off, we'll treat you to a slab of apple pie that to anyone from west of the Great Lakes will taste like nothing made this side of Heaven.

You folks out there in the wild and woolly "ain't et nothin' yet," and here's your chance to disprove it.

EMERGENCY CALL!

From the shores of our Motherland comes an appeal for help which no true Canadian can fail to heed. While we live in comfort, death drops on that embattled island. The need for Red Cross assistance is urgent. Our sons and brothers are over there. On land, at sea, in the air, they face death daily. We must be prepared to help them when they are sick or wounded.

Red Cross help is needed on behalf of soldier and civilian alike. Hospitals and hospital equipment, surgical supplies and dressings, ambulances and X-Ray equipment will be needed. Overnight the need may become so urgent that lives may be sacrificed if help cannot be sent at once.

Never before has there been so great a need for Red Cross assistance. This challenge to humanity must be answered. Give to the Red Cross. Give to the utmost NOW!

THE PRICE OF SUCCESS

What do you want from life?
Is it wealth or power?
Be ready then for strife!
To fight each waking hour!

Do you wish for fame?
To have your name known wide?
Then you must clinch your claim
With work you need not hide.

There is no easy way;
Each one must bear his load,
And gain a bit each day.

W. M. S. BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 4th, the Hallville Auxiliary of the W. M. S. held a very successful social gathering and tea at the home of Mrs. Thos. Coleman, to celebrate the 54th Anniversary of their organization. Mrs. E. McKendry, Presbyterial President, was present and gave a very inspirational message, stressing the fact that we should spend more time with God. Mrs. Beatty, the President, presided.

Over fifty women gathered to share in this happy event, the members of the Auxiliary and other friends contributing a cent for every year of their age.

The Treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. T. Dougall, made the large three-storey birthday cake; the Secretary, Mrs. Carman Cummings, iced it, and the President, Mrs. Beatty, decorated it with candles and holders in the colors of the Society—blue and gold.

The weather was ideal, an enjoyable time was spent, and a very substantial sum was added to our funds.

The evening was spent in games, at the close of which Mrs. Kennedy was called forward, and Mrs. Fred Beckstead read the following address:

Mountain, Sept. 4th, 1940.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy:—

It is with regret that we, your friends and neighbours, of Mountain, have learned of your coming departure, and so could not let this opportunity pass without gathering here this evening to say farewell. During the years you have resided among us, you have shown the qualities of a good neighbour. The musical numbers rendered so cheerfully, willingly and capably by Eileen and Shirley have been greatly appreciated.

As a token of our esteem, friendship and good will, we ask you to accept this gift and may it remind you of good friends in Mountain.

May God deal kindly with you and may you prosper in your new home.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours, Mrs. Mabel Beckstead, Mrs. Nellie Imrie, Mrs. Bertha Durant.

Mesdames Durant and Imrie presented Mrs. Kennedy with a lovely occasional chair and end table.

Mrs. Kennedy thanked all for their gift and invited all to come and visit her in her new home. After singing of "She's A Jolly Good Fellow," lunch was served.

United W. M. S. Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. George Myers, with the president in charge, the theme being, "The Way of the Father's Will." The meeting opened with The National Anthem, and Mrs. Orren Casselman offered prayer. Thirteen members responded to roll call with the word "Peace." The business items of the meeting were discussed and the offering received.

Mrs. Myers conducted devotional period, which opened with a hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Psalm 116 was read alternatively. Mesdames Arthur Adams and Orren Casselman sang a duet, "Near to the Heart of God." Mrs. Myers gave a reading, "In Time of War, Prepare for Peace." Mrs. Adams gave a chapter of the Study Book, "The Ministry of Healing." An article was given on Christian Stewardship, "What Is Giving." The Community Friendship report was given.

The meeting closed with singing a hymn, followed by prayer by Mrs. Adams. Lunch was served by hostess and committee in charge.

HARMONY W. M. S.

Mrs. Sandy McLean was hostess to the Harmony Women's Missionary Society at her home on Wednesday, Sept. 4. The president, Mrs. Benson George, presided. The worship period opened with a hymn and prayer. Mrs. Nelson Docksteader read the Scripture. A reading, entitled "The New Testament Portrait of a Good Man," which gave a character sketch of Barnabas, was read by Miss Lola Cinnamon.

Mrs. Benson George read from the Study Book the last chapter on Stewardship of Property. A poem, "Something Good About You," was read by Mrs. Thos. Docksteader. The offering was received and the business discussed. The minutes were read. Mrs. Thos. Stobo read a poem, "I shall not pass this way again." A very interesting paper was given by Mrs. Roy Docksteader entitled "In Perils on the Sea," a story of the Athenia. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Lola Cinnamon.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The September meeting, held Tuesday night in the Town Hall, was in charge of the President, Mrs. J. Moffat. In answer to roll call the members named the following characteristics of a good hostess: She tries to make her guests feel at ease; she is pleasant; she lets her guest have some time to herself, and meets her guests with a smile.

After the reading of the minutes and the giving of the Treasurer's report, the matter of raising money was discussed, and a social evening was decided on, to be held next Monday night in the Town Hall, when bridge, euchre and other games will be played. Committees were named and plans made. Much correspondence was read by the Secretary.

Miss Doris Empey, President of the Junior Homemakers' Club, gave an interesting paper on Personality as gleaned from a program she was present at, this year, in Kemptville Agricultural College. Many good suggestions about good entertaining were given.

A sing-song, led by Mrs. E. Steele with Miss Luella Allison at the piano, was held, in which Rule Britannia and Tramp, Tramp, Tramp the Boys are Marching, were sung. A reading, entitled: "How Aunt Dinah got by," was given in good style by Mrs. Arthur Leason. The President conducted a question contest. A Quiz on current events was given by Mrs. Earle. Light refreshments were served by Mrs. Moffat and Mrs. Lannin.

The vote of thanks to those who had contributed towards the program, and to the committee in charge, was moved by Mrs. W. A. Rowat. The National Anthem was sung in closing.

Miss Jane Hanes has returned home after spending a few days with Mrs. Lloyd Cook.

A miscellaneous shower was held in the hall on Saturday evening in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Roberts' wedding. A large crowd was present, all wishing the bride and groom many years of happy wedded life.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Hanes and Jane, and Mrs. Jas. Fossitt were in Brockville on Saturday on business.

ORMOND B. Y. P. U.

In opening the regular B. Y. P. U. meeting on Sept. 6th, several sacred numbers were sung, under the direction of Mrs. F. MacDonald, with Mrs. B. Armstrong as pianist. Miss Jean Gibbons presided during the Junior program. The topic on Prayer was in charge of the Junior Superintendent, Mrs. F. MacDonald.

With Miss Violet MacDonald leading the Devotional Group program began by using the familiar number, "'Tis the Blessed Hour of Prayer." A season of prayer was opened by the president, Mrs. F. Gibbons. Miss Hazel MacDonald conducted a Quiz on Jumbled Books of the Bible." The Scripture lesson was read by Neil Porteous. Miss Hazel MacDonald gave the topic entitled "Victory By Faith." This was followed by a short discussion. An appropriate hymn was used in closing, and the Benediction given by the pastor.

The preceding Monday evening, Sept. 2nd, a social evening, under the auspices of the Fellowship Group, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Porteous. Refreshments were served at the close.

ST. PAUL'S YOUNG PEOPLE'S

St. Paul's Young People's meeting was held on Monday night, September 9th, in the S. S. rooms. Lillian Bruce, president, was in the chair. The meeting opened with a hymn and the Lord's Prayer was repeated. Ruth Payne gave the secretary's report, and the roll was called.

Miss Clara Anderson presided for the devotional program. Ruth Churchill read the Scripture reading which was taken from Romans 8: verses 28-39. Mr. Harry Rodney led in prayer. A chorus "There'll Always Be An England," was sung.

The guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. I. P. McIntosh, from Winchester Springs, was introduced by Miss Anderson. Mrs. McIntosh, a Nursing Sister during the World War, gave a most interesting and inspiring talk on her experiences as a nurse during the other war. At the close of her address all sang: "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Miss Lillian Bruce sang very sweetly "The Rose of No Man's Land." A vote of thanks to Mrs. McIntosh for her splendid address was given by Miss Maude Edgerton. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

ST. PAUL'S LADIES' AID

Mrs. Agnes Smith was hostess to the regular meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid on Thursday last when 29 members answered to the roll call. The meeting was opened by singing a hymn and prayer. The secretary and treasurer gave their reports and letters were read by the corresponding secretary. The flower committee for September is: Mrs. E. Munroe, Mrs. Agnes Smith and Mrs. George Angus. The various committees were appointed to take charge of the Harvest Home Dinner on Friday, Sept. 27th. The program will be under the direction of Miss Clara Irving and Mr. Harry Rodney.

A special canvas is being made within the next two weeks from Ladies' Aid members, proceeds will be given to the Red Cross. After singing the National Anthem, delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. G. Angus, Mrs. J. McLaughlin, Mrs. G. Wilson. They were assisted in serving by Mrs. W. Henderson.

NO CAMP TRAINING FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS

College students who are liable because of their age for 30 days' compulsory military training will avoid a stretch in militia training centres if their military training at their places of learning satisfies Defence Department authorities.

The Department of National War Services has undertaken not to call university students from their studies for compulsory training and the universities have agreed to make part-time training compulsory for all fit male students.

This, it was understood at Defence headquarters recently, places the students in the same category as men already members of the non-permanent active militia. If their drills with their training unit are sufficient during a year to equal the training that would be given compulsory at a training centre, the department will consider what they have had sufficient instruction for the year.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Prevent Tarnish

A few small pieces of camphor dropped into the silverware drawer will prevent the silver from tarnishing.

Aids Bleaching

Add a teaspoon of turpentine to the water when washing white clothes. It aids materially the bleaching process.

Laundering White Silks

White silks will not turn yellow if a small quantity of sodium carbonate is put into the rinsing water afer washing.

Hardwood Floors

When water is spilled on the hardwood floors, rub with a cloth dipped in turpentine, using a regular motion. Then dry with another clean cloth.

The Fly Swatter

Few people ever stop to consider how quickly germs collect on the fly swatter. Make a habit of pouring boiling water through it daily and destroy these harmful germs.

Cigarette Stains

Obstinate cigarette stains can be removed from the fingers by using well-soaped pumice stone and hot water. The lighter stains can be removed with plain lemon juice.

Eliminate Musty Odor

If the coat closet has acquired a damp, musty odor, place a piece of gum camphor on the floor at the back of the closet and it will soon do away with any unpleasant smell.

The Dark Bedroom

Sometimes a bedroom is located on the dark side of the house. When this is the case, furnish it with yellow draperies and decorations and see how it brightens the room.

Broom and Mops

Always hang brooms and mops from a wall. If they are left standing on the floor, the bristles or fibres weaken and rot. An excellent hanger can be made by fastening two empty spools about two inches apart to the wall.

Scratches on Wall Paper.

For wall paper that has been scratched, moisten a scrap of paper which has been saved and carefully scrape off the coloring with a thin knife-blade. Apply this to the scratch and when dry the mark will not be noticeable.

Water Stains on Furniture

Water stains on furniture can be removed by using a tablespoonful of powdered pumice mixed with enough linseed oil to make a thin paste. Rub on the spots until they disappear; then wipe off with a cloth dampened in polish.

Reheating Rolls

The day-old rolls can best be reheated in the following way: Put them into a paper bag and twist the end shut. Dip the bag into water, removing immediately. Place the bag in a hot oven. By the time the bag is dried out the rolls will be heated exactly right.

DO YOU KNOW—

How Did People Tell the Time Without Clocks?

They told the time by the sun, which was quite accurate enough for people who did not have to catch trains, as we do. Then they used sun dials, candles marked off into sections, hour-glasses, and there was a device which consisted of two tanks, one above the other, with a connecting pipe. The lower tank was graduated, and according to the quantity of water that ran in so the time could be told.

Why Do We Use Wedding Rings?

The ring has been considered a symbol of marriage since earliest times. The third finger of the left hand was selected because a small artery was supposed to run from this finger direct to the heart. Modern surgery has, however, disposed of this contention, but the custom has become fixed in the popular mind and will probably go on for ever.

Why Do Sailors Wear Wide Trousers?

Sailors have to turn up their trousers a good deal, and narrow ones would soon crease and become unsightly. Not only do they have to scrub the decks, but they often have to wade through shallow water when landing.

AMBULANCE DRIVING COURSE ARRANGED AT KEMPTVILLE

A new course, consisting of ambulance driving, motor mechanics, squad drill and shooting and stretcher practice, will be supplemented to the Home Economics class at the Kemptville Agricultural School this term.

Lucile Bridges, head of the Home Economics Department, said the girls would get about four hours training weekly and would be taught by the men from the agricultural engineering classes The time for this special training is to be included in the year's work and not conducted after school hours.

First aid is to be stressed in the course but students will also get a working knowledge of a gasoline engine. The girls will learn how to drive a car and even if they never see active service, school authorities believe they will be of some use on their farms next Fall.

The Fall term starts on Oct. 15. The boys of the school will also receive military training during the year and it will not be necessary for them to go to military camps for the required two weeks.

A Poetic Recipe

By Frances Lee Barton

AN inexpensive bag of pears; a diced ginger, crystallized; some sugar — seven cups or more; Say! Aren't you tantalized? Fruit pectin and a kettle large; some jars; a little heat. That's all you need to make a jam that Dad says "can't be beat"

Ginger and Pear Jam

4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit; ½ to 1 cup diced crystallized ginger; 7½ cups (3¼ lbs.) sugar; 1 bottle fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit, peel, core, and crush completely or grind about 3 pounds fully ripe pears. Dice about ½ pound crystallized ginger.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit, solidly packed, into large kettle. Add ginger, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

BEFORE THE MORNING WATCH

The summer dusk deepened slowly over the North Sea as the destroyer flotilla reached its patrol area. In an overcast sky a bar of smoky orange light held out for a while against the darkness, and faded at last. The long low shapes of the destroyers glided through the night like grey wolves whose hour for hunting had come, and presently merged into the darkness.

In the half light the destroyers had gone to action stations. Their crews had done it all so often that they gave the impression of an almost mechanical efficiency. The orders, conveyed in peace time by pipe and shouting, were given in undertones, almost superfluously, and the reports when they reached the bridges—such and such a gun ready and closed up—searchlights and torpedo tubes crews at their stations—were made and acknowledged in undertones, pitched just loud enough to overcome the drone of the fan exhausts and the sound of the sea. "Very good," came the low answer to each report.

It was in truth very good. The flotilla, the ships themselves, every bit of machinery, every weapon, every officer and man, the whole co-ordination of discipline and efficiency and experience, seemed to lock together like a breech-block slammed home.

On the bridge of the flotilla leader the captain levered himself on to a high wooden seat abaft the compass, turned up the collar of his coat and stuck an empty pipe in his mouth. All about him were the forms of men motionless in the darkness. He was conscious of them not so much as individuals but as functions, parts of himself as it were. It was as if he were simultaneously staring through half-a-dozen pairs of eyes into the darkness, listening with other ears to the sounds of the sea, calculating the set of currents,, reading a tiny beam of light flickering a message on the bridge of the next astern; and at the same time he was estimating his fuel requirements when he returned to harbour, wishing he could smoke, and hoping he could somehow keep at bay for the next six hours a longing for sleep.

For the first few hours nobody talked very much. The sky held a pale diffused light, with patches of stars alternately obscured and revealed in the shifting ceiling of thin clouds. This light sufficed to show the dark shadows of the waves as they curved and broke In gleams of grey foam. Occasionally a look-out gave tongue. Once a floating mine was reported and avoided, and the warning flashed astern to the flotilla. Once the dark outlines of a convoy glided past, under guard of its escorts, silent and dark as ghost ships.

At midnight fannies of hot cocoa arrived from the galley. Men stirred themselves and drank, grateful for the warmth of the thick sweet brew, and lapsed into their thoughts again.

The First Lieutenant unfastened the belt of his goatskin coat and pulled a biscuit out of his pocket. He stood leaning against No. 3 gun nibbling the biscuit and thinking about his goatskin coat. It was the type of garment worn by Palestine shepherds and he had bought it at Alexandria. It smelt like nothing on earth when he bought it, but he hung it in the sun and the wind on board his destroyer "up the straits" and that made it all right. Shepherds had probably worn coats like that in the time of Christ, guarding their flocks from wolves on the bleak hills of Palestine. He felt that there was some sort of connection between him and the shepherds although it was a far cry from Palestine to the North Sea. Anyhow, they both had much the same sort of job and they were both wearing the same sort of coat, and it was a good coat for keeping watch in, once you got the smell of goat out of it.

The loader of the foremost gun had toothache. He'd been a fool to drink hot cocoa because that made it worse. He wanted to bang his head against the gun shield. He wondered how anybody could be unhappy who hadn't got toothache. The world was just composed of two lots of people, those who had toothache and those who hadn't. The ones who hadn't ought to go about dancing and bashing cymbals together like the Salvation Army and shouting "I haven't got toothache! Hurrah. I haven't got toothache. Hallelujah. Most people didn't know when they were well off, and that was a fact. He wondered what the captain would say if the ship's company started beating tambourines and shouting "Hurrah!" because they hadn't got toothache. He wished they would go into action and then perhaps a shell would come along and blow his head off. That was about the only thing that would cure him.

The second hand of the signal watch was thniking about his bed at home. His home was a farm house in Hampshire. There was lavender growing in the front garden. His mother dried the flowers and put them in muslin bags in her linen cupboard. His pillow and the sheets smelt faintly of lavender. A down pillow. Your head sank into it and the scent of lavender went over you in a soft wave. He tried to stop thinking about it, nodding where he stood. He thought of waking up in the morning instead, on the first day of his leave. His mother bringing him a cup of tea, and the noises of the farm coming through the window. The clang of a milk pail. The cock crowing. Solomon, his name was.....The Chief Yeoman stuck him in the ribs with his elbow, "Come on, keep your eyes skinned. You're half asleep."

The light in the sky strengthened imperceptibly. The wind blew chillier. The shadowy forms on the bridge became individuals with features and identities, tired men in need of a shave. Cups of cocoa were passed round again. Eyes were raised to the sky. The captain filled and lit his pipe. "Keep a good lookout overhead," he said. "This is Heinkel time—just before the morning watch. "

Beauty for YOU

The Secrets of Good Looks by Barbara Lynn.

HAVE YOU AN OILY SKIN?

The oily or greasy skin is not uncommon. It is inclined to be coarse in texture and is subject to open pores and blackheads. On its credit side, it can be said that it is not nearly so likely to wrinkle as a dry skin.

These general rules may be laid down for an oily skin: (1) Have a face pack every ten days, because a greasy skin responds well to a facial. (2) Keep the skin immaculately clean. Wash often, using soothing palmolive soap and warm water, then rinse with cold. (3) Use lots of astringent lotion. (4) Massage the skin often. (5) Keep your system toned up. Kkovah health salts, taken several morning each week, will help you in this resolve.

Never, never plaster fresh make-up on top of the old. This is bad for any skin but especially for an oily skin. Don't use astringents at bedtime, because you must keep the pores open whilst sleeping so that various acids and other secretions can escape naturally. For the same reason, don't leave cream on overnight if you have an oily skin.

Massage is excellent as it brings the blood to the surface in the same way that a face-pack does and keeps the under-skin free from impurities.

Friction is good for the oily-type skin. Always use a rough towel after washing, but if you suffer at all from split veins do not rub too hard.

Write me direct about your personal beauty troubles, and enclose four one-cent stamps for my booklet on Beauty Care. Address: Miss Barbara Lynn, Box 75, Station B., Montreal, Que.

Answers.

1. The wife should ask one of the guests to sit in front, while she sits in the back with the other guest or guests. 2. Yes; it would be rude and unfair to your hostess if you did not. 3. Such a person is very ill-bred, tactless, and rude. 4. Never. If he does, the girl's father or brother would probably feel justified in giving him a seat on the sidewalk. 5. PRIZE WINNER GIVES SECRET OF Baking

MRS. Russell Jermey of Oro Township, Ontario, has not only been a consistent prize-winner at Fall Fairs, but she has been chosen on more than one occasion to act as a judge in Baking Contests.

"What is the secret of your own baking success?" I asked. "I try to get good recipes and I stay with them," she replied. "Care counts always. And then you need the best ingredients you can find, especially flour; if you haven't good flour you are beaten before you start. My mother used Robin Hood Flour and I've used it for years, and now my daughter-in-law uses it, too."

Couldn't Count Her Prizes

"I won prizes at the Fall fairs with Robin Hood Flour, and I can tell to look at a loaf if Robin Hood Flour was used in baking it; it is always so white and smooth in texture. Bread baked with that flour is really high-class bread."

Baking Made Easy

Why not take the word of this competent prize-winner and judge of good baking and order Robin Hood the very next time you need flour! Every bag contains a money back plus 10% guarantee certificate. And if you want some of the finest recipes obtainable, send nine cents in stamps to Robin Hood Flour Mills Limited, Department "O", Toronto, Ont., for the Robin Hood Recipe Book, "Baking Made Easy". It contains all the standard recipes and many new ones, with the method listed in a way that really makes baking easy for the newest bride or even her younger sister.

OBITUARY

LATE JAMES ROBINSON

An old and lifelong resident of Carleton county, James Robinson, aged 80 years, died suddenly at his residence at Vernon on Saturday. For over 30 years he lived on a farm at Vernon. He was a native of Richmond, where he spent his early life and received his education. His wife, the former Margaret Milligan, died seven years ago.

Surviving are a son, Herbert, of Vernon; a daughter, Mrs. Norman McColl, of Vernon; a brother, Thomas Robinson, of Osgoode; and two sisters, Mrs. Ed. Condie and Mrs. Sylvanuss Condie, both of Ottawa.

He was a member of the Orange order and of Vernon Baptist church.

The funeral took place on Monday at 2 p. m. from Vernon Baptist Church. Interment was in Springhill cemetery.

LATE SYLVANUS WEEGAR

Mr. Sylvanus Weegar, brother of Mrs. Walter McIntosh, Winchester Springs, passed away at his home in North Bay on September 3rd. He was in his 89th year and for nearly half a century had been prominent in the business life of North Bay, where he was one of the town's outstanding figures.

He was born in Dundas County, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Weegar, and was educated in the district schools and at Morrisburg Collegiate, where he was a class-mate of the late Hon. J. P. Whitney. Following his graduation from school, Mr. Weegar worked in his uncle's store at Morrisburg. Later he joined a boat crew and sailed at different points between the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes. He also worked in Ottawa and travelled extensively as an advance agent for a Show company, visiting cities and towns all over Canada and the United States.

In 1899, he and his family took up residence in North Bay where Mr. Weegar entered the business of a restaurant keeper and news vendor for the C. P. R.

In 1908 he was appointed police magistrate for North Bay and occupied the Bench until 1934, during which time he was called upon to preside over many spectacular court cases.

Since 1934 Mr. Weegar has lived in retirement.

He was a devoted member of the United Church and seldom missed a Sunday service.

The funeral was held last Thursday from the family residence to Trinity United Church, North Bay, and was under the auspices of Nipissing Lodge, No. 420, A. F. & A. M., of which the deceased was a Past Master. Interment took place in Terrace Lawn Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, the former Miss Annie Croskery, of Perth; three sons, Fred, of Toronto; Carl and Edrie, of North Bay; two daughters, Eunice, of Toronto, and Mrs. J. Chillis, of Kirkland Lake; also two sisters, Mrs. T. B. Little, of Rochester, N. Y., and Mrs. Walter McIntosh, of Winchester Springs.

"Aye, yon was a powerful discourse on thrift ye preached the Sabbath," said Donald to the minister after the service.

"I'm glad you were able to profit by it," said the parson.

"Profit! Why, mon, I would have sloshed ma saxpence into the plate wi'oot a thought if it hadna been for your providential words—they saved me fourpence there and then."

Public Health Nurse

If any person thinks the duties of a public health nurse are easy and her job is a soft one, we wish to inform them differently. A few days ago we had the privilege of interviewing Miss O. Lefler, one of the public health nurses, engaged by the Counties' Health Unit, and who is stationed at Winchester. From the outset, we were convinced that Miss Lefler was well qualified for the position she held. She is that type of young woman who has the handy faculty of getting the most done in the shortest time, and doing it well. In fact, she has to be a hustler or she couldn't be an efficient health nurse.

During the course of her work, we venture to say there is not a woman in the United Counties who covers as many miles each day in her motor car, as does Miss Lefler. Her average each month is well over a thousand miles.

Judging from the duties a public health nurse is obliged to do, the usefulness and success of the Health Unit is largely dependent on how efficient she is.

Since the Counties' Health Unit was set up early in the year, Miss Lefler has been busily engaged, looking after details of the work undertaken by the unit.

To give a detailed account of the work undertaken by a public health nurse would require a lot of space, but we will give our readers an outline of her duties, as described to us by Miss Lefler.

First of all, a public health nurse must make regular visits to the schools in her terrtiory, and consult the teachers regarding the general health of the pupils. Quite often she is called upon to make inspections of pupils with rashes, weak eyes, etc. Her findings are discussed with the child's parents, who are instructed to seek the advice of their family physician.

Miss Lefler informed us that early in the summer she visited four schools and found five pupils with serious eye defects. In all cases the parents were asked to consult their family physician and, as a result, glasses were obtained, which greatly assisted the students in their studies.

During her visits to the schools, the public health nurse inspects toilets, drinking fountains, water, etc. If these are not kept in a sanitary condition, she makes certain recommendations, which are usually carried out by the school authorities. She also urges the teachers to carry out health teaching and to see that the pupils obey and respect all health rules. She arranges for T. B. clinics and supervises them when they are held.

Last spring T. B. clinics were held at Chesterville, Winchester, Hallville and South Mountain. Although no cases were found in the pupils examined at these schools, the percentage of reactors was considerably above the average, which indicated that there were apparently several sources of infection in the county of which the health authorities were not aware. It was Miss Lefler's task to visit the homes of many of the reactors and determine the source of infection. In a great many cases she has been successful and her findings were reported to the Public Health Doctor.

Apart from the school children, there were 44 known cases of T. B. in Winchester and Mountain Townships at the beginning of the year. Since then, 11 new cases have been discovered by the health nurse and reported. Eventually these T. B. sufferers will be admitted to the Sanatorium for treatment, but in the meantime they are being treated by their family physician on the authority of the Counties' Health Unit.

Where requested by the family physician, or at the request of parents, the health nurse will visit private homes and inspect pre-school chilldren. As a result, many children are treated for poor eyesight and other obvious effects before they start to school. The health nurse does not, however, diagnose cases of illness or prescribe treatment. She merely reports the child's health to the parents and they consult the family doctor as to the proper course to take.

The health nurse's chief object is to teach health and how to maintain it. She will, when called upon to do so, act as superintendent of cases of Health in the home; give instruction re care of patients and protection of contacts in the home; instruct mothers regarding the care of infants as far as regularity of feeding and habit training are concerned, but will not prescribe infant feedings.

She also visits the homes of expectant mothers, with the consent of the family physicians, and gives advice regarding the mother's diet, general health, etc., and assists in preparing the baby's layette. The visits are continued after the infant arrives and further health measures given by the nurse.

In addition to her many other duties, Miss Lefler has given health talks at meetings of Women's Institutes, Men's Clubs and several other organizations throughout the county .

She has also visited and inspected many homes, where applications had been made for guest children from England. This was done at the request of the Children's Aid Society.

At present Miss Lefler is following up the work recommended by the recent T. B. clinics, and making arrangements for other clinics to be held in the near future; also arranging for the holding of toxoid clinics in several centres.

With so many parents indifferent to the necessity of safeguarding the national health ,the public nurse's duty is quite often a difficult one, but she is accomplishing much in the way of education and her work should be encouraged by all who are anxious to see a higher standard of health in our homes and schools.

THE HEALTH LEAGUE EXHIBIT AT TORONTO EXHIBITION

More than 20,000 housewives who visited the Canadian National Exhibition learned how to feed a family of five on $8.24 a week, thanks to the Health League of Canada.

The Health League, with nutrition eduation as one of its war-time objectives, distributed 20,000 leaflets giving a week's menu of nutritive food which could be purchased for $8.24 and is sufficient to feed a family of five for a week.

Hints on nutrition as well as a shopping list are contained in the leaflet. The Health League, through its nutrition committee, is attempting to educate housewives in the low income brackets how to feed their families on little money, and yet enabling them to eat the food that will do them the most good.

"It's not how much you eat, but what you eat that counts," officials of the Health League say.

Two nutrition experts were on duty at the C. N. E. booths maintained by the League. A table was set with a whole week's food supply, which could be purchased for $8.24. Thousands were attracted to this display. Toronto doctors were in attendance every day to answer questions of Exhibition visitors.

The rest of the Health League exhibit showed how through public education sickness could be prevented and waste eliminated. War-time objectives of the league were told in posters. They are: protecting the health of workers in industry, education in nutrition; combatting venereal disease; prevention of diphtheria, and the universal pasteurization of milk.

DUTCH SOLDIERS ON DUTY IN ENGLAND MISTAKEN FOR NAZIS

The following Canadian Press despatch was sent out from London, England, recently.

"Units of the Royal Dutch army entered a town "Somewhere in England" recently. In their grey-blue uniforms designed on the German model, they patrolled bridgeheads with fixed bayonets and took up position for manoeuvres.

"A British officer, who had not heard of their arrival, was driving into the town when he saw what he took to be a German patrol holding the bridgehead in front. He skidded his car into a right-about-turn, set off at a 65-mile an hour speed back to camp and jumped out, yelling: "They've landed."

"Five minutes later, lorries of British troops were concentrating on the town when the mistake was discovered."

THE UNITED CHURCH

The National Day of Prayer was observed by a large attendance at the morning service when Rev. W. S. Atchison requested all to join in a period of silent prayer previous to his usual prayer in which he made special reference to our Sovereign and all his advisers. To the children a talk was given on the folly of trying to please everyone.

The morning text was John 13:35 with special emphasis on the word "if." The two Marys, Zaccheus and the thief on the cross were referred to as Bible characters whose self-repect was restored through their love for Jesus and His power to save.

The opening devotions at the evening service were conducted by Misses Edna Annable, Edra Boyd and Luella Allison, and Mr. Glenn Holmes.

Rev. W. S. Atchison spoke from II Kings chapter 19, on the intervention of God. Many incidents in the Bible reveal this, but particular reference was made to King Hezekiah who, when he was in difficulty, prayed, as advised by Isaiah. He put the whole situation in God's hands and did all he could himself. God will intervene in answer to prayer, the great steadying force in life.

Mrs. (Rev.) Cronmiller, of Williamsburg, presided at the organ throughout the day. The choir sang: "For You I Am Praying," at the morning service.

The best way to fix the Plumbing!

...Telephone

Maybe it's something that Dad could fix when he gets home—but why go through a day of inconvenience, or worry Dad after a hard day's work when a simple telephone call will bring the plumber over in no time at all? The telephone has an almost indispensable place in every home. It gives pleasure, convenience and protection day and night at very little cost.

R. C. A. F. REQUIRES WIRELESS OPERATORS

The Royal Canadian Air Force requires recruits to be trained as wireless operators, it was announced recently at air force headquarters.

The recruits must be from 18 to 45 years old, able to send and receive clearly 18 words a minute in Morse code, capable of passing the medical examination and be free from color blindness, and possess high school entrance or equivalent education.

PIGS MILK COW WHILE FEEDING IN PASTURE

George Barkley, of the Third Concession of Matilda Township, reports an unusual occurrence discovered last week which accounted for the peculiar fact that one of his cows returned home dry each night after a day in pasture. It was not the same cow each day, but one of the herd regularly failed to produce any milk at the night's session for more than two weeks.

Mr. Barkley became suspicious that some one was milking one of his cows each day and on several occasions sent the watch dog into the field where the herd was pastured, but no commotion followed this effort. Finally, Saturday, he noticed three of his pigs wandering in the field with the cows and wondered if they were responsible.

On Sunday he discovered the pigs were milking a cow during the day, and they will later be marketed as "Milk Fed Porkers."

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS

Minister Inducted.

Rev. L. M. Sommerville, late of Heckston, was inducted as pastor of the Spencerville charge, United Church of Canada, at a special service held last Thursday evening.

Patient Doing Well.

We are pleased to report that Miss Edna Steinburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Steinburg, who had her tonsils removed at Cornwall General Hospital on Friday, is progressing favourably.

Honoured On Birthday.

Mrs. R. H. Brown, 154 Hinton Ave., Ottawa, entertained a number of friends at her home on Tuesday evening in honour of her mother, Mrs. Eveard Barclay, of this place, who has been visiting her daughter for the past few days. It was the occasion of Mrs. Barclay's 85th birthday.

New Iroquois Buildings.

M. Sullivan and Sons, Limited, hold the contract with the Caldwell Linen Mills, Limited, for the erection of two storage buildings at Iroquois at an estimated cost of $10,000. The buildings are to be one storey in height with concrete block walls. One building will be 60 by 40 feet and the other 60 by 100 feet.

Civil Guard Band.

The Volunteer Civil Guard at Cornwall, which is commanded by Captain F. H. Hunter, M. C., has organized its own bugle band, having received permission to use all equipment of the cadet band of the Collegiate Institute there, including Highland uniforms, bugles and drums. The band has about 25 members.

Married At Morrisburg.

At an interesting wedding ceremony, conducted by Rev. J. A. Payton, in Morrisburg United Church, on Saturday last, Miss Ruth Anna Robertson, daughter of Mr .and Mrs. M. A. Robertson, Morrisburg, was united in marriage with Captain George E. Edgerton, son of Mr. E. L. Edgerton and the late Mrs. Edgerton, of Lancaster.

Many Guns Registered.

Mr. E. M. Shaver, local municipal clerk, has been kept quite busy during the past few days, registering guns and rifles. Not only the owners of firearms in town, but those from adjoining townships have called on him and, as a result, the job is a much bigger one than he expected. According to Government instructions, all guns and rifles must be registered by September 15th.

A Pamphlet Raid Here.

On Monday afternoon a Canadian Royal Air Force plane visited Winchester and showered the streets with pamphlets, urging the citizens to buy bonds for Canada's 2nd War Loan. No direct hits were scored, the wind carrying most of the paper folders to points on Main Street east. Had the pamphlets been bombs, local buildings would have been left unscathed, after the raid.

Pet Is Recovered.

For two days the family of A. C. Casselman, K.C., M.P., Prescott, and neighbors, searched diligently for "Fluffy" a prized Persian kitten which mysteriously disappeared. All the likely places to which the pet might have gone were investigated without success, but the kitten was found, the second day after its disapparance, soundly sleeping in a drawer of the linen closet in the Casselman residence.

Mountain Fair Was Success.

Many local citizens attended Mountain Agricultural Fair, held at South Mountain last Thursday and Friday, and report that it was one of the best exhibitions ever held in that village. There was a larger attendance than for several years and the quality of the various exhibits was above the average. Some keen contests were witnessed in the horse races which were one of the feature attractions. Many local exhibitors were among the prize winners.

Will Hold Inquest.

An inquest into the deaths of Charles W. Baker, of Cornwall, Leonard, Frances and Mary Laurin, of Morrisburg, who lost their lives in a drowning accident which occurred near the Long Sault Rapids in the St. Lawrence River, on Sunday, August 11th, is being held at the Counties' Court House, Cornwall, today. The inquest was ordered by Hon. Gordon Conant, Attorney-General of Ontario, after an appeal had been made by Arthur Laurin, publisher of the Morrisburg Leader and a brother of three of the four victims, for a full investigation into the tragedy.

Penny Bank Savings Down.

According to a recent report of the Penny Bank for Public Schools in Ontario, local pupils have on deposit $123.68, as compared with $284.59 a year ago. The reason for the decrease is largely due to the students withdrawing money to purchase War Savings Stamps and Certificates. However, the local school rates low in the percentage of savings, as compared with other schools in the province. Winchester is third lowest with 11 per cent. Percentages of other schools in this district follow: Cornwall, 94; Russell, 71; Morrisburg, 60; North Mountain, 49.

Red Cross Note.

Members are reminded that all finished work is to be turned in at the meeting on Monday afternoon next, so that shipment can be made to National headquarters.

Will Move to Church Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Steinburg will take up residence in the Wm. Steinburg residence on Church Street on October 1st. The property is being renovated at the present time.

To Show At Fair.

Fancy sheep and goats, owned by Louis Fischl, former Czechoslovakian glove manufacturer who now owns and operates a large farm on the northern outskirts of Prescott, are to be exhibited at the Spencerville fair, which will be held shortly.

Enrolled In Nursing School.

Among others who have entered the training school for nurses at Cornwall General Hospital are: Miss Doris Kirkwood, Winchester; Misses Vera M. MacLean and Altha MacNaughton, Finch, and Misses Dorothy Senn and Eileen Beckstead, Chesterville.

May Open Consulate.

According to a Washington despatch, the Department of State there contemplates re-opening at Prescott the consulate which was closed years ago so that international communications along border may be facilitated. Re-opening of a Prescott consulate has been under consideration for some time.

Bereaved of Brother.

Mr. Wm. J. Coughler, brother of Mr. Orlan Coughler, of this place, died suddenly at his home at Shanley on Sunday. He was 60 years of age. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon. Deceased is also a brother of Mr. Albert Coughler, of Nation Valley, and Mr. Peter Coughler, of Mountain Township.

Must Notify Department.

Since the national registration of all persons over 16 years of age was completed, a new regulation has been issued by Federal authorities requiring persons getting married to immedately notify the department of registration at Ottawa, supplying full information. The department will issue new registration cards.

M. P. Goes To Camp.

Wearing the uniform of a second lieutenant, George T. Fulford, M.P. for Leeds, is one of the officers of the Brockville Rifles who has gone to Petawawa military camp to undergo two weeks' training. He recently resigned as honorary lieutenant-colonel of the regiment to assume combatant rank. Another officer accompanying the regiment was Lieutenant C. Gordon MacOdrum, mayor of Brockville.

PARTY FROM U. S. A. VISITS RELATIVES AND FRIENDS IN THIS DISTRICT

According to the Anthon Herald, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Gothier, Mrs. Annie Cole and Mrs. Louise Flynn have returned to their home, in Anthon, U. S. A., after an enjoyable motor trip to Canada and the eastern part of the United States, during which they covered 4,000 miles, without the least bit of trouble, not even a flat tire.

In publishing a detailed account of the trip, the Herald says:

"At Inkerman they were guests of Mrs. Bridget Mulloy and family. Mrs. Mulloy is Mrs. Cole's sister and Mrs. Gothier's aunt. Mrs. Cole hadn't seen her sister for 24 years. They were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Norton and family. Mrs. Norton is Mrs. Flynn's sister, whom she hadn't seen for 47 years.

"Winchester is the old home town that Mrs. Gothier left 35 years ago. At this place she met her first school teacher, Mr. Hugh McMaster, and most all of the old neighbors. At Chesterville they spent some time with the Norton family, the members of which are Mrs. Cole's nieces and nephews and Mrs. Gothier's cousins. There they saw Geo. Servage, who at one time was a partner of Mr. Reinhart in a hardware store at Anthon, now known as the Thayer Hardware. He made numerous inquiries about the old-timers and wished to be remembered to them. Mr. Servage and the Anthonites made a trip to Ottawa and Hull, went to the parliament house in Ottawa and then visited relatives at Cornwall."
