Briefly

HSRC report due

WINCHESTER – Hospitals in eastern Ontario will find out today, May 13, what the province's Health Services Restructuring Commission has in store for them, as it releases its report and recommendations in Cornwall. The commission visited the area in early December to explore options for the restructuring of hospitals in SD&G and Prescott-Russell, hearing presentations from hospitals including Winchester District Memorial Hospital. In late October, WDMH forwarded a submission to the HSRC that included a shift in focus to ambulatory care and the reinvestment of savings into new patient services.

SNC to spend $2.2M

BERWICK – South Nation Conservation plans to spend $2.2 million this fiscal year, $700,000 of it for ice storm cleanup. The annual budget, approved by the SNC board last month, also earmarks $15,000 to improve fisheries, $140,000 in grants for water quality improvement, $125,000 for tree planting and forest management and $30,000 for dam maintenance. The SNC also set municipal levies, freezing the amounts for the fourth straight year.

Don't dodge barriers, OPP warn

WINCHESTER – OPP received two reports that train crossing barriers across St. Lawrence Street in Winchester were down but no train was coming. Police remind drivers it is not only dangerous, but contrary to the Highway Traffic Act to drive around these barriers when active, even when no train is apparent. The infraction comes with a $90 fine. Police recommend drivers report when barriers are down but no train is coming and take an alternate route.

OPP target aggressive drivers

WINCHESTER – Aggressive driving was a major factor in the 70,243 automobile collision in Ontario in 1997 that killed 614 people and injured 24,257, OPP say. With those statistics in mind, local OPP will join officers across the province in a crackdown on aggressive drivers May 15 to 29. Aggressive driving includes speeding, following too closely, failing to yield the right of way, unsafe lane changes and passing and disobeying traffic signs. Police say these habits increase the risk of collisions, and the injuries and deaths that result.

Heart & Stroke raises $42,000

MORRISBURG – The Dundas County chapter of the Ontario Heart & Stroke Foundation raised $42,000 through its door-to-door campaign in February, despite the aftermath of the ice storm. The chapter is thankful to all those who made generous donations, which exceeded last year's total and help fund life-saving research. The chapter also held a successful Hearts & Flowers event on Mother's Day at the Morrisburg garden of Jeff Arsenault. About 100 people attended and enjoyed a variety of activities including a blood pressure clinic and draws. Graham Houze of Smooth Rock Falls won a diamond ring, and Ali Van Beilen of Morrisburg won a hand-painted VCR tape tote. Flora McIntosh of Winchester Springs won a lamp.

Tourism gets a boost from feds, province

MORRISBURG — Tourism operators in Eastern Ontario have received a well-timed shot in the arm, courtesy of the provincial and federal governments.

The Ontario East Tourism Association has received $262,000 from the $50 million Canada-Ontario Business Recovery Assistance program. The money will be used to assist tourism operators with marketing efforts in the northern United States in the aftermath of January's ice storm.

The announcement was one of the highlights of Ontario East's Tourism'Kick Off '98 event held at Upper Canada Village Friday afternoon.

Leeds-Grenville MP Joe Jordan, representing federal Industry Minister John Manley and Ontario Minister of Economic Development, Trade and Tourism, Al Palladini presented the cheque to Neal Dick, president of the OETA.

Palladini said one of his priorities since taking over the portfolio has been to ensure the government increased its budget for advertising.

"Ontario used to be the leader in tourism," he said. "Over the years that has been lost and our leadership has been obscured."

Palladini, who was a successful Toronto area car dealer before entering provincial politics in 1995 noted that before he assumed the responsibility as minister of Economic Development, Trade and Tourism, advertising was not a high priority of the government.

"When I took over, the budget for advertising was just $2 million a year," he said. "I was sitting in the cabinet meeting one day and I said, I used to spend half that amount every year at my car dealership. That is no where near enough to promote Ontario tourism."

Morewood bike accident sparks action

Greg Hewitt
Record Editor

MOREWOOD – An accident that sent a 10-year-old Morewood cyclist to hospital has prompted a member of the community to lobby for increased safety measures on the hamlet's streets. Michael Blouin has launched a petition calling for a reduced speed limit, increased signage for drivers and the consideration of additional stop signs or traffic lights.

The action comes a week after a frightening accident on Moffatt Street, the hamlet's main road, during a downpour around 5 p.m. on Tuesday, May 5. Blouin was in his driveway with his children when he heard the sound of tires skidding, followed by an impact. He turned to see 10-year-old Justin Gibeault flying through the air, landing about 20 feet from the his bicycle. The youngster had turned onto the roadway and was struck by a southbound car. He was taken to the Children's Hospital of eastern Ontario where he was treated for a broken collarbone and two lacerations to his leg, it was reported. Fortunately, the child was wearing a bicycle safety helmet. He was expected to return to school May 12.

Police investigated the accident and did not lay charges against the driver. While Blouin acknowledges that in this case the accident was not the driver's fault, he says it highlights a need for increased safety measures in the hamlet.

The petition, which will soon be circulated in the community, calls for the United Counties and Ministry of Transportation to "investigate fully the feasibility of and take action regarding" lowering the posted speed limit from 50 kph within Morewood, that appropriate signage regarding the speed limit and safety be increased and that stop signs or traffic lights be considered for the intersections of Moffatt and Hume and Moffatt and Thomas, as well as and overhead flashing light at the school crossing.

Blouin, a former teacher at St. Bernard School in Finch who is now a curriculum consultant with the Catholic School Board, has drafted examples of signs that should be considered, signs that ask drivers to obey the posted speed limit and "Please go slow!"

Morewood, like other communities in SD&G, has the familiar "Drive Slowly - Children being Children" signs posted at its entrances. Blouin says the signs are only seen by drivers coming into town, and not by those already in town and driving out.

Also, Blouin says while it's not likely the speed limit in Morewood will be lowered from 50 kph, "the issue is that most people don't do 50," but drive faster.

Few problems reported with 911 system

Rich Thorpe
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — So far, so good.

After close to a month of operation, the 911 emergency dispatch system in SD&G seems to be operating with relatively few problems.

"We haven't had any problems per se," said Sr. Const. Joel Doiron of the Upper Canada detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police. "We have had a couple of ghost calls, where people may have called 911 and then hung up. In a situation like that the civic address of where the call originated will show up and we send an officer around to check and see if there is a problem."

Sr. Const. Doiron said in the early stages of 911 it is important to continue educating the public as to when the emergency system should be used.

"I think people are finally relieved that 911 is available in the united counties," he said. "We have to keep educating the public so that people are not abusing the system with calls for general information like road conditions. Non-emergency calls should be directed to the regular number of the detachment."

Shortly after the implementation of 911 there were reports circulating that the Finch fire department had been dispatched to calls outside their normal coverage area.

Sr. Const. Doiron said it could have been a case of the central 911 dispatch in Ottawa erring on the side of caution.

"There is no 911 service available in Prescott-Russell yet and it could be a case where a call is sent to a North Stormont fire department to respond to an incident in the Prescott-Russell area."

Chesterville Fire Chief Ross Casselman said the department has not had any problems with the new system, nor has he heard of any problems with it.

"Our calls are still being dispatched from Canpage in Cornwall," he said. "I haven't heard of any problems. It seems to be working well."

Local mom has a blast following son's shuttle mission

Rich Thorpe

WILLIAMSBURG — To say it has been an interesting month for Isobel Williams would be an understatement.

After all, she carries a distinction which belongs to only a handful of Canadians. She is the mother of a NASA astronaut.

Williams recently returned home after spending almost three weeks in Florida and Houston following the exploits of her son Dr.Dave Williams on board the Space Shuttle Columbia.

She took some time out of her busy schedule last week to sit down with the Record and provide some insight into her son's adventure.

"It was such a thrill," she said. "I thought I would be very nervous and shaking during the launch. Surprisingly, I wasn't. I knew Dave was very confident in the mission and I guess that confidence rubbed off on me. I was sitting in the viewing area with a Canadian Flag in one hand and my camera in the other and I was shooting pictures as it went up. We were three and a half miles away from the launch pad but you could feel the vibrations as it went up."

While she and her group of 30 or so friends from Dundas County watched the launch from the public area, her daughter-in-law Cathy had the chance to view it from a closer vantage point.

"The immediate family watched it from the vehicle assembly building," she said. "(NASA) assigns an astronaut to assist the spouses during the mission."

NASA ensures the family is constantly informed of the status of the mission throughout its duration. Travel arrangements for the family are handled by the space agency. In fact, it is door-to-door service with families picked up at home in Houston and flown to Florida on NASA's private jet.

"The families were given preferential treatment," she said. "They were well looked after. They were escorted everywhere they wanted to go."

Although the launch was originally scheduled for Thursday, April 16 at 2:19 p.m., it was delayed by a day due to technical difficulties.

"They weren't disappointed," she said. "They knew they would be going up the next day. It worked out well for Dave and Cathy. They had the chance to spend some extra time together at the beach house that NASA has for the space shuttle crew."

Organist honored

A reception was held at Williamsburg United Church Saturday afternoon to recognize the musical dedication of Joye Loucks, who has been organist for the church for 60 years. Now 73, Mrs. Loucks says she enjoys the role very much, that it is her love of music that has kept her at the organ for so long. The former Joye Dillabough, who has a son, Bert, and two grandsons, Jim and Robin, who is an OPP Auxiliary Officer, said she would not hazard a guess at how many hymns she knows.

Petition

He says more signage in Morewood would likely lead to safer streets. "Maybe part of the battle is public awareness."

Blouin has discussed the issue with neighbor and North Dundas Mayor Claude Cousineau, and may take the petition through council on its way to the counties or MTO. Once the petition is competed, Blouin says he will hopefully get in touch with the United Counties roads engineer.

"Whatever can come of it is good," he said, adding it was "amazing" the number of people who stopped to help after the accident, tending to the victim, comforting the driver and directing traffic.

Judith Gibeault, Justin's mother, said while she was not aware that a petition was being prepared, she thought it was a good idea. She added it was a good thing he was wearing his helmet. "That probably saved him."

Ontario Provincial Police have also issued a public advisory in relation to the accident, stating it reinforces concerns of residents in built-up areas with regard to traffic. OPP say drivers must be aware of areas where children are more abundant, and such areas may necessitate driving even slower than the posted speed limit in the interests of safety.

Last week, OPP conducted a radar blitz after Hallville residents expressed concern, and issued a number of tickets.

Shuttle

Prior to the launch, Isobel had the chance to meet the crew at a party hosted by NASA at the beach house retreat.

"I had the chance to meet the crew and I was very reassured by their competency. I knew they were very well trained and would be able to handle any situation which might come their way during the mission," she said.

During the mission, Williams was in Houston looking after her grandchildren, Evan and Olivia.

"I was able to stay informed of the mission by watching the NASA channel," she said. "They had daily reports on the mission. My grandson Evan recognized his dad on television. He pointed to the television set and then he would point to the sky and say that was where his dad was. He is only three and a half but I think he had a pretty good understanding of what was going on. He knew his dad was up in space."

Isobel was especially pleased that Dave was designated as the crew's spokesman during the mission.

"He has a way of being able to explain very technical concepts and putting into words that a layman can understand. I think the crew recognized that."

Although she enjoyed viewing the launch, the landing on May 3 was spectacular.

"It was very impressive the way it floated in over the trees," she said. "We were much closer to the runway where it lands. I had no idea how large the Space Shuttle was until I saw it land. I enjoyed the landing much more than the launch."

There is a slight possibility that Dr. Williams and the Columbia crew could have a second mission later this summer to continue on with the important work of Neurolab.

However, that remains to be seen, Isobel said. If her son does return to space later this summer or in future year, she definitely plans to be in Florida for the launch.

"I really don't know what his future plans are," she said. "If he does go on another mission, I will go again in a second."

For the moment, Isobel will be updating her many volumes of scrapbooks pertaining to her son's mission.

"People keep sending me clippings and my friends took a lot of pictures in Florida as well," she said. "I imagine I will be busy for the next few months organizing everything."

Tourism operators receive boost

Along with detailing a variety of initiatives announced by the provincial government in its most recent budget, Palladini announced that over the next five years the province would be devoting $120 million to the marketing of tourism in Ontario.

"Our new advertising program just started recently," he said. "It features a different area of the province in each commericial. "We are going to be working very hard to raise our profile in the U.S. and in other world markets."

Tourism in Ontario is the fifth largest segment of the economy, Palladini noted. He made great efforts during his speech to list off initiatives contained in this year's provincial budget which would prove beneficial to small tourism business operators.

Neal Dick, president of the Ontario East Tourism Association noted the $262,000 assistance package would help the operators in the industry regroup from the effects of the ice storm.

"Traditionally, eastern Ontario lags behind other areas of the province in terms of tourism," he said. "We think we are one of Ontario's best kept secrets. We will be working to create greater awareness of the many assets we have to offer."

Tourism information displays were set up on the fairgrounds at Upper Canada Village featuring more than 75 exhibitors promoting various destinations and attractions from across the region of eastern Ontario such as Sam Jakes Inn, of Merrickville, Parks Canada, Perth Chamber of Commerce and the Cornwall and Seaway Valley Tourism Association.

Support of CNIB helps Williamsburg woman cope

CHESTERVILLE — A positive attitude and the support of family and friends has helped Betty Locke cope with her visual impairment.

The Williamsburg resident was the guest speaker at the Dundas County chapter of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind's annual meeting held May 4 at St. Mary's Church Hall in Chesterville.

Locke has only recently become visually impaired. After having surgery to correct cataracts in the 1980s, she began to experience more problems in 1996. She had surgery for a detached retina in the early part of the year. Later in the fall, she was diagnosed with macular degeneration, which limited her vision.

"The problem got progressively worse and by March of 1997, I was not able to see," she said. "When I found out I was going to lose my sight, I was in shock and so was my family. I was at home alone and I went and had a good cry and after that point, I decided not to worry about what I couldn't do, but rather worry about what I could do."

Locke, was a community activist in Williamsburg for many years as a volunteer with Meals on Wheels and as a member of the Park Villa board.

She now resides at Park Villa where she is able to maintain a regular routine. Being visually impaired means one has to be very organized in all aspects of daily life, Locke said.

"I can cope reasonably well in the kitchen using a microwave oven and toaster oven," she said.

The support of her friends and family have allowed Locke to continue with many of the activities that she enjoys participating in.

"I can still do all the things I liked to do before," she said. "I take part in the exercise classes in Park Villa. My friends pick me up and assist me. I am capable of doing everything else they can do."

Locke has also discovered that she can still enjoy movies, both at the theatre and on home video.

"I went to see Titanic," she said. "I had watched the first movie A Night to Remember. I was sitting between two friends and they would explain to me what was happening whenever there was a pause in the dialogue. I enjoyed the movie as much as anyone else in the theatre."

Thanks to the support mechanisms courtesy of the CNIB, Locke said she has been able to adjust to her situation.

Locke said her counselor has helped her adjust to the many challenges she faces.

One of the most important pieces of technology she has received from the CNIB is a talking clock.

She also enjoys the talking book program.

"I was skeptical at first," she said. "I thought it would be monotonous. I was surprised. I thoroughly enjoy it. The voices are beautiful. I can sit back and relax. You get right into the story and you can't put the book down."

Locke credited the support of her family, friends and the staff and volunteers of the CNIB for helping make her life better.

"My life is fine. I'm enjoying life. I didn't think I would (after I lost my sight) but I certainly am."

In 1997, the door-to-door campaign in Dundas County raised more than $29,000 for the CNIB. This year, the goal has been established at more than $30,000.

Final fundraiser

CPS plans barbecue, plant sale

CHESTERVILLE – Chesterville Public School's last fundraiser for the year is a barbecue and perennials auction, complete with food, entertainment, plants and a guest speaker. The event takes place Thursday, May 21 at the Chesterville Arena from 5:30 to 9 p.m.

The barbecue will provide lots of fun and games for children and a place for adults to pick up some new plants as well as learn a few tips from a guest speaker. So when planning this year's planting, mark May 21 on your calendar. The school is also in need of volunteers on the night of the barbecue. Help will be needed with barbecueing, serving food, children's bingo, perennial auction, ticket sales and in the play area for children under 6. Instead of a spring concert this year students in Junior K, Grades 1, 1-2 and 2-3 will provide the entertainment for the barbecue, from 5:45 to 6:15 p.m.

With the damage sustained by the ice storm and the school's involvement with the environment, it has been decided to repair and replace some of the damaged trees and plants on school property, as well as make a donation to the local park where children play. Students will be planting flats of flowers and vegetables to sell at the sale.

Students will be bringing these plants home to care for until the sale, and will bring them back for the barbecue on May 21. The school is gratefully accepting donations of perennials, annuals, trees or shrubs, garden crafts and decorations, garden tools, books and other gardening-related items.

With spring already here and the planting season fast approaching, anyone who is splitting their perennials is asked to set one or two aside for the school. Please mark the name of the plant, preferred location and a brief description if possible.

If you would like the school to care for them until the sale, drop them off at the school, and its green thumbs will take care of them.

Safety is no accident

It's always frightening when a child is involved in an accident. Anyone who is a parent can relate with the feeling of horror at the thought of a serious injury to a young child.

But that was the case last Tuesday evening in Morewood, when a 10-year-old cyclist darted out in front of a car and was hit. He suffered a broken collarbone and two lacerations to his leg. Treated and released from hospital, he was expected to be back at school May 12.

But the echoes of this accident have not died down in the community. One resident is about to launch a petition for improved safety measures in the hamlet, in the form of better signage, and a call for the consideration of stop signs or traffic lights.

As stated in the story, the driver of the southbound car was not to blame in this case, and indeed no charges were laid. That should be made clear. But at the same time, this entire issue is not about blame, it is about public safety.

Police have suggested drivers should reduce their speeds even below the posted speed limit of 50 in built-up areas. It's a nice thought, even a good idea, but not terribly realistic.

So what is the answer?

In-town signs in areas where children play are a good idea. Not all drivers are passing through town and reminded by the "Children Being Children" signs at the entrances to SD&G communities.

But the bottom line is, to use a cliche, that safety is no accident. Motorists, pedestrians, parents, children and police all have a part to play when it comes to ensuring our roads are as safe as they can be.

Like the signs say, children will be children, and will in the heat of play dart out into the roadway. And that's something perhaps drivers should anticipate, just in case.

And perhaps, to make sure both sides of the coin are addressed, police, educators and parents should take this opportunity to sit down with children and revisit the rules of the road, from a youngster's perspective.

And there is another message we can take from this incident – the importance of safety helmets. The youngster who was hit was wearing one, as anyone under 18 must according to provincial law. If he hadn't been wearing one, we might well have been writing a different kind of story this week altogether.

Meech Lake or minor hockey?

By Robin Morris
Hockey Constitution Editor

I found the answer to a conundrum the other night. Why is that Canada, one of the two or three most prosperous countries on the face of the earth, with a quality of life second to none, is engaged in ceaseless constitutional wrangling? Why is that we are tied in a Gordian knot of debate over a piece of paper that defines our state and government as the country's number one participatory sport, far outdistancing the second national pastime, feeling contemptuous of those lying SOBs who head up the big chartered banks?

It's minor hockey, that's what.

Scratch a Canadian and you'll find a blueline. No other country that has a GNP is so defined by a sport. No other national group has one athletic pursuit so indelibly imprinted on its consciousness. Sure, sure, sure. New Zealand has the All Blacks rugby team. Brazil has produced the most gifted soccer player ever to step inside the lines, and the United States has Shoeless Joe Jackson. But where else does "Where were you in 72?" mean 34 seconds to go at the Luzhniki?

If hockey is the edifice in which our national psyche resides, then minor hockey is its building blocks, its architectural plans and its foundation.

And nothing is nearer and dearer to the heart of minor hockey than rules. Rules of order as well as the rules of the game. Constitutions. Bylaws. Regulations. Committees. Subcommittees. And meetings held in arena halls and Legion basements from the Avalon Peninsula to Salt Spring Island.

It's the nature of the beast. We have engineered a system with a dual purpose: primarily it is to provide kids with healthy recreation, equipping and teaching them to play the world's fastest team sport. The second, and unintended, aim is to develop a feeder system for the NHL, ostensibly where the game is played at the highest skill level, but which in reality has become a league of ankle-skating Canadian "defensive specialists" chasing eastern Europeans whose names look like a box of AlphaBits spilled on your kitchen floor. All consonants and no vowels.

But let's get back to minor hockey and those dedicated parents who comprise the local executives and who have to deal with the Byzantine complexity of Hockey Canada, their governing bodies (in our case the ODHA), and their respective leagues. Of eligibility. And ineligibility. Of the mortgage-inducing expense of outfitting players, paying for ever-increasing ice rental rates, hiring officials and maxing the Visa for motel rentals and meals at out-of-town tournaments. Of amalgamating competing municipalities into minor hockey associations. Of finding and certifying coaches. And last, and certainly not the least of their concerns, of reconciling the competing interests of that very special group of parents which sees its sons as a future NHLers. And not just your garden variety checking forward, but the next Newsy Lalonde (Am I dating myself here?). Of looking after the interests of 250 kids while having to ride herd on the likes of Bonnie Lindros.

Remember the Charlottetown Accord? That orphan of the stillborn Meech Lake Accord? Both went down in flames because Canadians couldn't stomach the proposal of Quebec as a distinct society. Now we have the Calgary declaration, which asks that Quebec be accepted for its "unique character" among 10 equal provinces.

Now in my book, distinct means different. And unique means one of a kind. There's no such thing as sorta unique. Or kinda unique. It's unique. Pure and simple. It's a superlative and it can't be qualified, unlike distinct, which means sorta different.

Only a nation weaned on minor hockey rules and regulations could understand the subtlety in distinction here.

And here's an example of why.

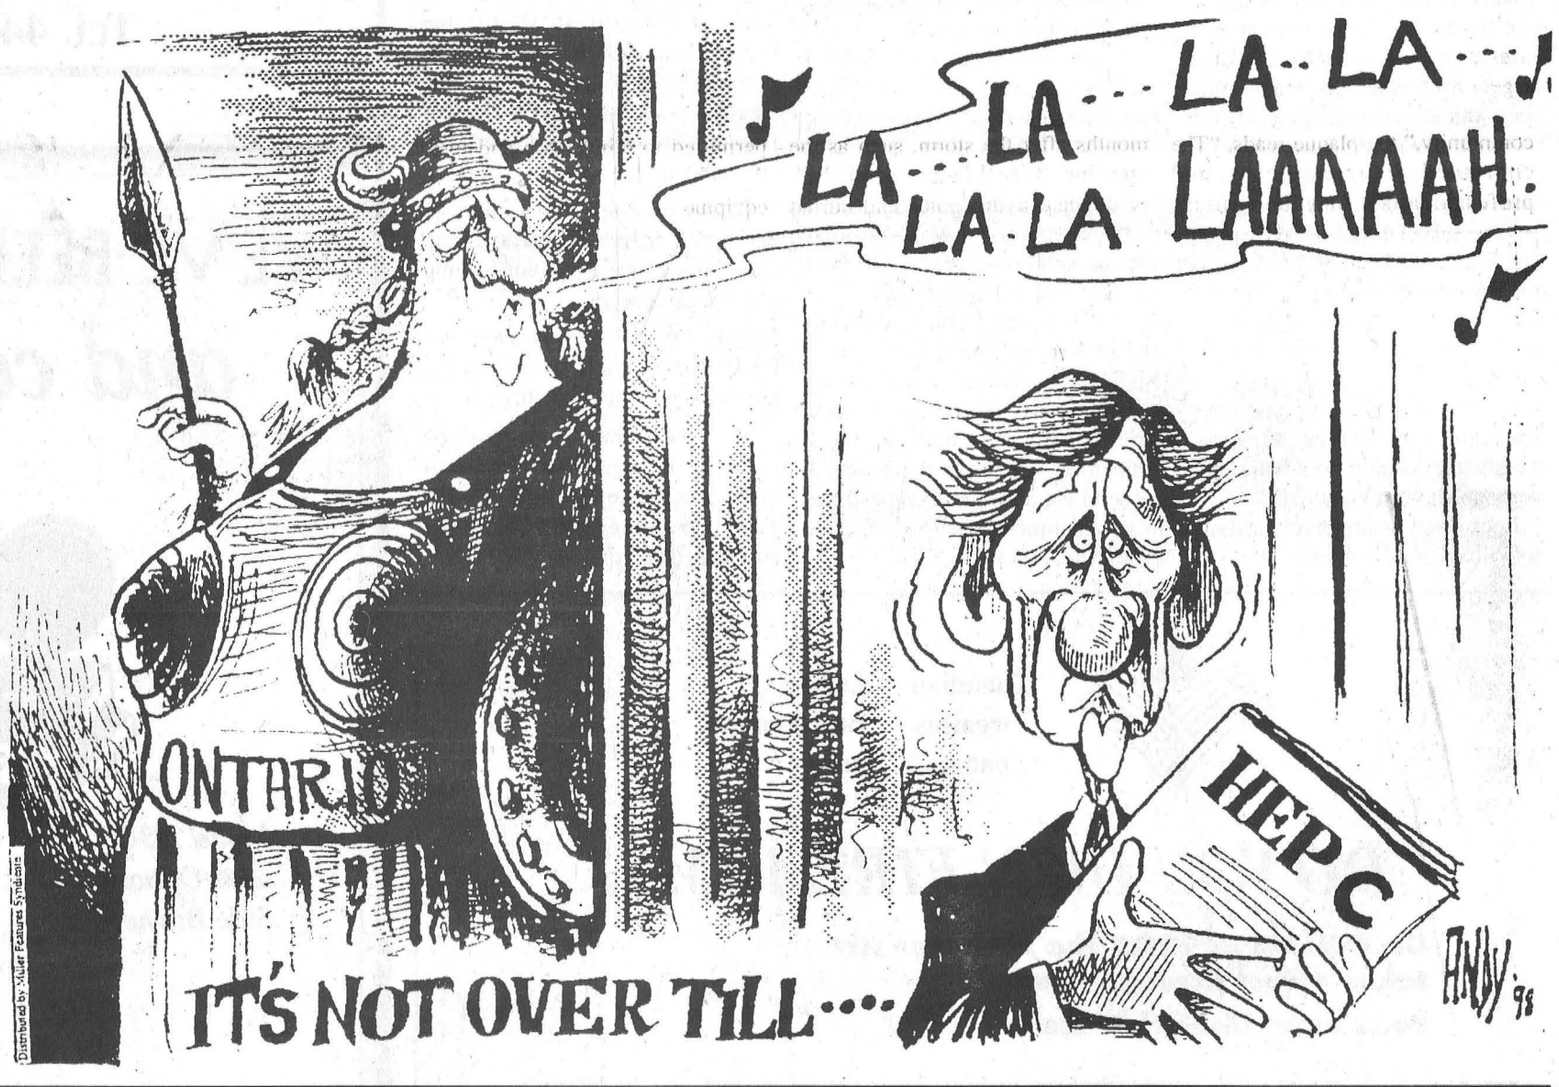
Teams from the North Dundas Minor Hockey Association play in the Upper Canada Minor Hockey League and the association must abide by the rules of the UCMHL. This means that house league teams from each of the associations cannot play in-house games. They have to travel to play other house league teams. Now I always thought that house league meant just that. In-house games. The players either didn't have the ability or the inclination to play competitive level hockey. So they made up teams, split the talent roughly equally and let the kids go at it. Like high school intramural teams, which is Latin for "within the walls". You had your intramural teams and your varsity teams. Intramural teams played "within the walls", or "in the house" and varsity teams competed against other schools. Ditto for house league. Those teams played "in the house" or "within the walls" and travelling teams did what their names imply: they travelled.

But not according to the UCMHL, except for those associations which it has grandfathered and which it permits to play in-house house league.

Catch my drift? Distinct or unique. In-house house or travelling house.

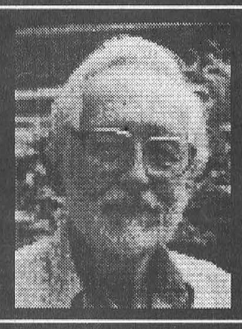
How can one unique partner be the equal of nine others? Unless you adopt the old Roman model of "first among equals" which means that I'm more equal than you. And how can you have intramural if they play "outside the walls"

So it's like I said. I went to a hockey game the other night and a meeting broke out.



Cross Roads

By Clarence Cross



In the old days, nearly everyone died at home. Except in the case of accident, or a sudden seizure, it was usually in bed, attended by family members. My cousin, Lera Fetterly, told me about her father, Milton Fetterly, a merchant in Chesterville:

"I remember mother telling me about being very anxious one Christmas eve. Someone had bought some furniture, and my father had delivered it in a vicious storm. He contracted a very bad cold, and it could have been this that started his illness. He died of pneumonia in February (1908, when Lera was almost four years old).

"I used to watch for him. He came home every noon.. The first thing he did was to search the house for me. It was a great house to hide in. The best place to watch would be from an upstairs window or from the balcony, or the basement window, where I could see those tweed trousers striding across. Sometimes I went to the attic; sometimes to the woodshed, I had wonderful places to hide from my father. It was hide and seek until he found me. Then he would have his dinner.

Before my father died, Giles Bogart, his partner, carried me up the stairs of our house, because my father wanted to see me. The house was full of people.

After my father died, I got up early in the morning and cut the flowers from our place, all the tulips, and most of Mrs. Fulton's and some of Mrs. Ellis' and Mrs. Dave Allison's. I piled these at the foot of the tree, and waited for Mr. Bill Saucer who had the jewellery shop. When he came past our place, I told him I would like him to climb the tree and put these flowers in the branches and tell the angels to please accept these flowers and please bring my father back. , he took me to his jewellery store and opened it up until his companion came to take over, and then he carried me back and got Mother to the door. The two of them talked over what I had done, then took me to Mrs. Fulton and Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Dave Allison to tell what I had done. They all let me have the flowers, and Bill Saucier told me that he would put them up in the tree with the message for the angels, but I would have to wait until he got a ladder. So I didn't get into trouble for cutting the flowers after all.

In pioneer times, when there was a death in the family, the neighbours took over. The women came in and laid out the body, which was placed in a home-made wooden coffin, set up in the front parlour. Plenty of food was brought in for the family and the numerous relations and friends who visited - a death watch was kept at all times for various reasons: the dead person might come to life; there might be an invasion of evil spirits; and in some circumstances, there was even fear of desecration by rats.

This watch, also known as a wake, was often the occasion for partying, with lots to drink. I have been told that at one Irish wake, the corpse was stood up in the corner, so that he could join in. "He never missed a party".

The funeral service was held in the house, and then the coffin was carried to the burial place. Before there were public cemeteries, the burial took place on the home farm. A spot was chosen where it would not be disturbed by cultivation. This was often the orchard, or the front lawn. Mrs. Francis Hutt, who died in 1865, was buried "east of the hen-house" on the home place on Maple Ridge, later owned by Ken Hutt, and now the Engelharts. When Maple Ridge cemetery was opened the next year, her coffin was "lifted" and buried in the new cemetery.

I have learned that there were at least three babies buried in the orchard where I grew up. These included my older sister, whose very existence I did not know about until many years later, and twin babies of my Aunt Nora Fetterly.

Family burial plots were laid out on some farms. Some of these were fenced and maintained, including tombstones, even to the present day. But most, over the years, have been lost track of. The odd one has survived, marked by field stones, perhaps with painted inscriptions. If a person had died of a dangerous disease, the body would be buried as soon as possible, to prevent the spread of infection.

An example of an early family cemetery is Brown's cemetery at the west of Winchester Village. The 200-acre farm had been bought in 1853, when it was sold by the Sheriff for non-payment of taxes, but the Brown family had been living on it for years, presumably as renters. Over the years, the cemetery was used by not only the Browns, but also friends and neighbours since there was no other local facility.

Chesterville had a couple of early cemeteries. The first was on the east side of Main Street, between the river and the separate school playground. Only a couple of stones remain. A second, and larger, cemetery was located further east, on the river bank. It was devastated by a tornado in 1973, when falling trees smashed most of the tombstones. The mess was cleaned up by shoving the debris, including most of the broken stones of our pioneers, down the riverbank. A few fragments were saved, and incorporated into a cement wall, as a project of some school children. They sit forlornly in the centre of a grassy expanse at the east end of South Street East. As no record of the inscriptions on these tombstones exists, an important part of Chesterville's early history has been lost.

L.-Col. Walter Natynczyk, of the Petawawa-based Royal Canadian Dragoons, accepted a plaque Tuesday from North Dundas Mayor Claude Cousineau. The plaque voices appreciation for the military's service to the township during January's ice storm. Below, NDDHS students explore a Coyote reconaissance vehicle last Wednesday.

North Dundas thanks Army for its ice storm relief efforts

Greg Hewitt
Record Editor

WINCHESTER – The military rolled back into North Dundas Tuesday, on a decidedly more pleasant visit than its tour here during January's ice storm.

L.-Col. Walter Natynczyk, who commanded military personnel stationed in Winchester during the crisis, stopped by the municipal offices to receive heartfelt thanks from North Dundas Mayor Claude Cousineau, on behalf of council and township residents.

A grateful Cousineau presented L.-Col. Natynczyk, of the Petawawa-based Royal Canadian Dragoons, with a plaque expressing thanks for the military's service to the township. "Your undaunted and tireless efforts during our time of urgent need played a significant role in the restoration of our community," the plaque reads. "The continued presence and professionalism of your military team lifted our spirits and provided a sense of security and comfort to all our citizens."

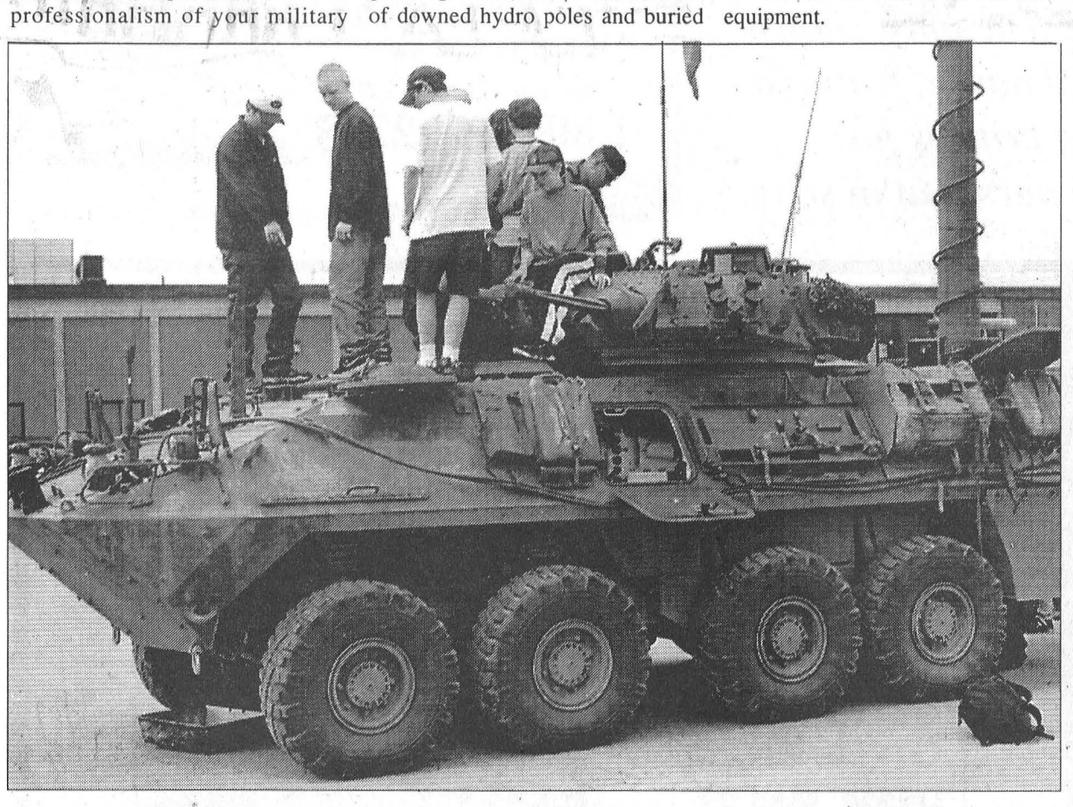
The wood-mounted plaque is also adorned with lapel pins from the four former townships, Chesterville, Winchester Township, Winchester Village and Mountain Township.

During the state of emergency, military personnel fanned out across eastern Ontario and southern Quebec, as part of the largest peacetime mobilization of Canadian Forces troops on Canadian soil. They assisted emergency workers and hydro crews, checked on residents and tended to their needs and provided security. Winchester was one of five bases established by the military in eastern Ontario during the storm.

L.-Col. Natynczyk was quick to note the difference in scenery four months after the storm, such as the greening of local fields and the lack of downed hydro poles and buried cables. He also noted changes to the former operations centre – in the municipal building. The ground floor offices that served as the township's emergency command centre are now being refurbished to accommodate OPP, and township staff have moved upstairs.

He told Cousineau his troops were proud to have served Canadians in a time of need, and thanked Cousineau for the hospitality they were shown during their stay. He presented Cousineau with a Royal Canadian Dragoons coin.

The Dragoons last week also paid thanks to North Dundas District High School, which served as a temporary base for troops and equipment in January. The regiment brought a Coyote reconaissance vehicle to the school, much to the delight of students who were permitted to climb atop and inside the vehicle and test its surveillance equipment.



Legion News Branch 434

During the past year there has been many changes within the Chesterville Legion. One of the biggest was when a vote was taken to lease property to have a new hall built on Industrial Drive next to the fire hall. The property has been leased and the plan is, with lots of luck, to start within two years. This will require the full co-operation from the complete membership if everything is to come together. But now we have to deal with the old hall and that is why the new coat of paint and the changes inside the hall were done. Another big challenge will be to change the image from "The Old Boys' Social Club" back to a Legion Hall which has social activities for all its membership and local residents also.

The new executive is working very hard to make everything work and to have more members involved in all activities which go on in the Legion. The Legion is still involved within the community when the need arises and this was evident during "Ice Storm '98" when the hall was opened 24-hours a day for 17 days providing meals and shelter for local residents and those in need. The Legion also makes donations to local charities.

The entertainment at the hall has shown a great improvement with the selection of bands. There are more people attending the dances and enjoying the music. In the future with the selection of bands everyone should enjoy the Saturday Night Dances again.

The recruiting of new members continues with the membership up over the 200 mark, even with the loss of 10 from last year. With the many changes that are being done, which allow many more people to join the Legion, it is hoped that those who become eligible will become a member of the Legion.

Legion sports are going strong with some teams making it to the provincial play-offs. The dart team won the zone tournament held in Kars, which gives the Legion the right to hold the zone dart tournament on Dec. 5.

The Ladies Auxiliary has been successful this year with several new members. Their bingos have been successful, attracting lots of bingo players and several have gone home happy by winning the big prize. The final bingo on May 30 will have a special jackpot should draw a large crowd.

The Legion Building Committee has been busy for quite some time talking to local contractors trying to find a suitable design. One of our Legion members is an architect who asked to help design the new Legion Hall. With all this the building committee will start the serious fundraising for the new hall starting in September. They will accept donations and give a tax deductible receipt for those who wish to give a donation. This new hall will be a great benefit to the Chesterville community.

The bar, which is open on Friday afternoons, will now have extended hours past the 6 o'clock closing. There has been interest in having bar open past six, so closing will be at 12 midnight. Also food will be available. Come out and support your Legion.

Reminder: General Meeting for May will be on Tues., May 19, instead of Mon., May 18. All members are welcome to attend the meeting.

Last Bingo of the season on May 30 will have a $900 jackpot with $40 for first line and $60 for two lines. The normal games and prizes are also included. Come out and enjoy an afternoon of Bingo and support the Ladies Auxiliary.

Effective immediately Bill Holliday will replace Mac Feely for hall rentals. Anyone wishing to rent the hall or information on renting the hall contact Bill at 448-9169.

Party shows pets' resilience

What's a party without cake? Bandit, a husky-corgi mix, gets a lick of icing from owners Doug and Paula Morency of Osgoode Township during a party held for amputee pets at Dundas Veterinary Clinic Sun., May 3. Bandit lost his leg as a result of a mishap with a van last June, an accident that took the life of the Morencys' 20-month-old Siberian husky, Shadow.

WINCHESTER – Bandit, a 16-month old husky/corgi mix, won the three-legged race at the Dundas veterinary Clinic Sun., May 3 in a hop, a step and a jump.

Which isn't surprising, considering that Bandit lost a leg when hit by a speeding van near his home in Osgoode Township in June of last year.

The accident also claimed the life of his "brother", Shadow, a 20-month-old purebred Siberian husky, but the quick action of his owners' neighbor and the staff at the veterinary clinic made sure that Bandit lost only his right rear leg and he celebrated his survival along with other amputee pets at a spcial party thrown by the clinic staff May 3 as part of Animal Health Week.

Clinic staff pointed out during a tour of the facility that amputation is an option to costly, extensive surgery - or to euthanasia if the damaged limb can't be repaired.

And the May 2 party was a "proof-of-the-pudding-is-in-the-eating" as amputee pets showed little ill effects after the loss of their limbs. Bandit was on the mend within two days of his surgery and is fairly typical of how quickly animals recover their balance.

Animals that have lost a front limb take a little longer to regain their balance, but they, too mend, quickly according to clinic staff.

The clinic has nine amputee patients, seven dogs and two cats, most of whom had fallen victim to traffic accidents.

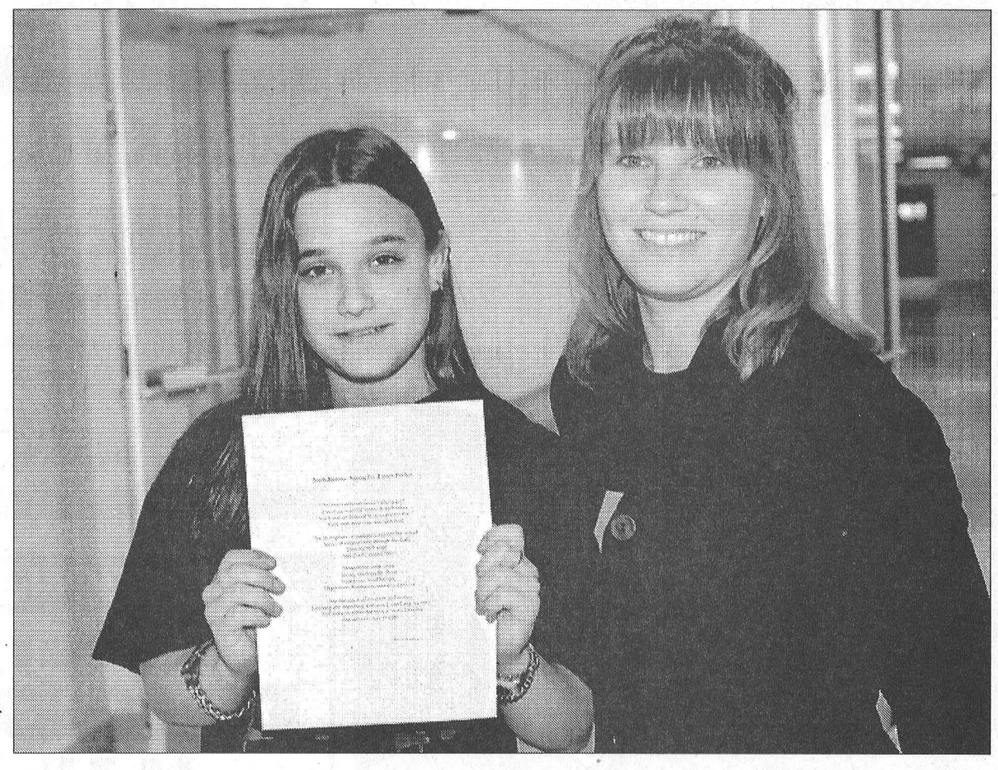
NDDHS prepares to relive 35 years of memories

Dinner, dance and open house highlight school's anniversary reunion weekend



NDDHS student Livia Sumegi's poem took first place in a contest held to mark the school's 35th Anniversary Reunion this weekend. To the right is teacher and committee member Holly Plumb, who says the event is an opportunity for former students to relive the past. Tickets are still available.

Record Editor

MAPLE RIDGE – The halls of North Dundas District High School will echo with more than three decades of memories this weekend, as former students and teachers return to celebrate the school's 35th anniversary.

The reunion, with the slogan "It's about time you came back," features a dinner and dance at the Winchester Arena Saturday night, and an open house Sunday during which former NDDHSers can tour classrooms and soak in the past through displays and special events.

The school's Peer Helpers will provide guided tours, and the pages of old yearbooks will be open to present glimpses of the past.

Reunion Committee member and teacher Holly Plumb says between 200 and 300 are expected to take part in reunion festivities, "which is a nice surprise. And we keep getting phone calls every day," she says. "We had planned for it to be big, but we were all kind of surprised it took off so quickly and so positively."

North Dundas District High School opened its doors in 1963, bridging the communities of Chesterville and Winchester. While many graduates have settled in or near the two neighboring communities, many have scattered to other locales. Plumb says many long-distance grads plan to take advantage of the long weekend to attend reunion festivities, and the crowd will range in age from those in their 20s all the way up to those in their 60s.

The Saturday night dinner and dance event begins at 6 p.m., and a five-course dinner catered by AJ's of Winchester at 7 p.m. Music for the dance will be provided by Ambush, which plays favorites from the 50s right up to the 90s.

Sunday's open house, from 1 to 4 p.m., features classroom tours, displays about the school, gym sports, a jam session with past music teachers, the school's youth band, Not Too Shabby and the sale of school souvenirs, greenhouse items, baked goods and the school newspaper. Daycare will be provided free in the library.

Plumb says the reunion is a chance for those who once walked the halls to come back and see their friends, relive the past and have some fun. Plumb graduated from the school in 1988 and says she's looking forward to it.

And the concept of reminiscing has not been amongst even the newest of NDDHS students. A poetry contest held to mark the reunion was swept by the entries of minor niners. Livia Sumegi's poem, North Dundas: Aiming For Future Perfect, was chosen as the winning entry, with the poems of Brandon Erratt and Aaron Allison earning second and third respectively. Honorable mention went to Adam Byron.

Tickets for the NDDHS 35th Anniversary Reunion are $35, and are available at Al-Mor in Chesterville, Country Boy in Winchester or by calling the school at 448-2328.

North Dundas: Aiming For Future Perfect

So many different faces walking past
Throwing youthful smiles at each other
Each one so different from everyone else
Each with their own special future

An atmosphere of happiness engulfs the school
Songs of laughter ring through the halls
Then the bell rings
And slowly silence falls

Beneath the outer crust
Strong emotions lie about
First loves, heartbreaks,
Depression, frustration, and stress cry out

But through it all we grow and mature
Learning and improving with every small step we take
And just remember that here at North Dundas
Our future is ours to make.

NDDHS has heart

Students of North Dundas District High School got some extra exercise Friday and raised money for the fight against Canada's number one killer. The annual Hoops for Heart event featured 144 students playing 3-on-3 basketball, running, walking, rollerblading and doing aerobics for the event, raising $2,750 for the Heart & Stroke Foundation, $1,750 more than last year. Left, Clayton Olford and Julie Byvelds were among those who enjoyed rollerblading, while at the right, Aaron Lannin ducks Julie Simpson in 3-on-3 basketball. The school's effort also included a basketball game between graduating players and local OPP, which the police won. Organizer Chrissy Linton thanks all those who participated in and supported the event.

Donations handed out

South Dundas council was in a very generous mood at Thursday's meeting, giving out a number of grants to various community groups. The Morrisburg-Williamsburg Village Picnic scheduled for Canada Day, July 1 received a grant of $2,000 from the township. "I think we have to support these celebrations and we should be contributing the same amount as we did last year or maybe a little more," said Mayor Johnny Whitteker. The Elma Public School Committee also received a donation of $1,000 to help pay for a new play structure which will be built in May.

Widowed support

CHESTERVILLE – The Widowed Support Group of Stormont and Dundas is meeting Thursday, May 21 at St. Mary's Church Hall in Chesterville at noon. Members are asked to bring a sandwich and material suitable for quilt blocks and to come out and enjoy an afternoon of fellowship.

Education Week

Students' achievements in the spotlight

Explosive reaction
Timothy Christian School near Williamsburg held several special events last week to commemorate Education Week. On Wednesday, students held a fundraising bake sale and displayed their science fair project in the gymnasium. Grade seven student Sean Cox developed a project explaining how volcanoes react, using a combination of such ingredients as orange drink crystals, vinegar and a healthy dose of baking soda. Included among the other activities held to mark Education Week were a dime carnival, a grandparents day, a movie and popcorn day and a staff versus students volleyball game.

Chesterville Public School celebrated Education Week Thursday with an Invention Convention, in which students conceived, built, patented and marketed their own inventions. Above, Kharla Ward and her Kat Kondo, and Megan Beattie's school desk organizer. To the right, Tyler Beauchamp and his automatic plant watering device.

VILLAGE OF CHESTERVILLE

PUBLIC NOTICE
FIRE HYDRANT FLUSHING

The Utility Operations of OCWA will be conducting scheduled maintenance of village fire hydrants. This program is designed to ensure that our hydrants will be ready if needed by the Fire Department.

The hydrants are inspected for proper operation and their flow capacities are checked. This maintenance procedure is routine but may result in some temporary minor inconveniences such as reduced water pressure of "red" water.

IF COLOURED WATER IS DETECTED

1) Please open your COLD water taps to clear the system.
2) The coloured water is not hazardous to health.
3) This situation is temporary and should last no longer than two hours.

The flushing operation will commence on May 19, 1998 and will be completed by May 29, 1998.

The staff of the Ontario Clean Water Agency thanks you for your cooperation and understanding.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank all the people and the firefighters who came so quick and worked so hard during the disastrous fire that destroyed the barn and workshop but saved our house. Also, all the help for keeping the animals safe, building the new fence; David Brown for digging fence posts with the backhoe at that time of night. Words cannot express our appreciation for all the hard work, time, effort and generosity.

North Stormont president, coach step down

FINCH - The future of Junior C hockey here could be on the table here next Tuesday night.

Team president Barry Brownlee and coach Chad Brownlee have both announced they are stepping down from the team and have called a meeting for May 19 to find a new team president.

Chad Brownlee, head coach for the past three season and the EOJCHL's coach of the year in 1996-97, told The Record Monday, that he wants to lessen his sporting responsibilities and is looking either at an assistant coaching job with an area Junior B team or a role with the Seaway Valley Selects AA organization.

His assistant coaches are also leaving the team, he said.

"If nothing turns up then I guess I'll be curling next winter," he said.

Brownlee Sr. has been in charge of the Finch Junior C club since selling out his interest in the Cornwall Royals Junior A club when the team was moved to Sarnia in the late 80s. Brownlee was chairman of the team's board of directors and an OHL governor.

He stepped in when the former owner of the Finch team Junior C team wanted out and has taken a leading role ever since.

Brownlee said he has told the other members of the team executive of his intentions and hopes someone will come forward to fill his post.

"I don't want to see the team fold, I've just had enough. I'm tired of going to meetings."

The situation in North Stormont places the EOJCHL, already down to seven teams, in a precarious position.

The league lost its Embrun franchise just before the start of the 1997-98 season and looks as if it will lose another team, at least for the 1998-99 season, with the request by the St. Isidore Eagles to take a year's leave of absence. Head coach Christian Lalonde left the team just before the start of the playoffs and has signed as a scout with the CJHL's Smiths Falls Bears, recently acquired by former Russell Thunder coach Michael McLean.

Negotiations with a new owner are under way in Russell and the rumor mill has been busy churning out reports that the Long Sault Vipers will not ice a team next season if the ODHA gives the go-ahead to Akwesasne to enter the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League.

Vipers owner Richard Waldroff put that rumor to rest Tuesday morning, telling The Record that the team will definitely be back for the 98-99 season.

While Waldroff is less than thrilled at the possibility of another team competing for players, such a move would not force Long Sault to fold.

An Akwesasne team would not be able to recruit players from the Ontario side of the border, but Waldroff said he has yet to see that restriction in writing. Akwesasne officials are still unsure of their team boundaries, according to the latest discussions he has held with the Cornwall Island management.

Long Sault had no players from Akwesasne last year and an agreement for a Long Sault - Akwesasne affiliation fell through last season when paperwork could not be completed in time.

Reports of the demise of the Vankleek Hill Cougars are greatly exaggerated, according to a source in that town. The team will be holding its annual fundraising golf tournament on the last weekend of this month and looks set to play another season.

Next Tuesday night's meeting will be held at Heather Branch, Royal Canadian Legion. It will start at 8 p.m.

The EOJCHL's annual meeting will be held Wed., May 27 and teams planning to play in the league next season must pay their registration fees at that time, according to league president John Descarey.

Rhonda Sherrer will compete in the junior girls 800, 1500 and 3000 metere events for the NDDHS Devils this season. Sherrer is one of hte Devils' most experienced athletes and will anchor a team that has become a powerhouse in SD&G in recent years. Here, Sherrer easily outdistances the field at the April 30 relay meet in Iroqouis that kicked off the 1998 season.

ND Devils confident as track season unfolds

Rich Thorpe

CORNWALL — The North Dundas Devils are confident as the track season hits full stride this week.

The Devils sent a contingent of 48 athletes to the SD&G track and field championship at St. Lawrence High School on Tuesday.

"We have good representation in the senior and junior events," said coach Hugh Conlin. "The only area where we are a little low in numbers is in midget. We will be working on that to see if we can improve upon our numbers for next year."

North Dundas, traditionally a power in track and field in SD&G, will be looking for breakthrough performances from a number of athletes this season.

"Our most experienced athlete is Rhonda Sherrer," Conlin explained. Sherrer will compete in the junior girls 800, 1,500 and 3,000 metres races. "A lot of our other strong athletes have graduated or moved on. I really don't know who will come through. That remains to be seen."

The Devils will be missing the experience of Matt Carkner who won bronze in javelin at the OFSSA championships last June. Carkner, who spent the past hockey season as a rookie defenseman with the Ontario Hockey League's Peterborough Petes has remained in Peterborough until the end of the school year.

"We are a well-balanced team and I think we are very strong in the middle distances on the track," Conlin said. "We have always had a strong performance at the SD&G meet and I expect it will hold true on Tuesday."

The top three qualifiers from the SD&G meet will advance to the EOSSAA track and field championship to be held on May 19-20 at the Terry Fox Athletic Facilities in Ottawa.

Top qualifiers from the EOSSAA meet will then compete at the East Regional championship which will be held at Queen's University in Kingston on Friday, May 29.

The provincial championships will be held in Sudbury on June 5-6.

Stelmach, Browns lead Tagwi track contingent

Rich Thorpe
Record Staff

AVONMORE — The Tagwi Warriors are hoping for repeat efforts from a number of its promising track and field athletes.

Heading into Tuesday's SD&G championship at St. Lawrence High School in Cornwall, Tagwi coach Joe Stelmach was very optimistic about his athletes' chances for medals.

The coach was predicting gold medals for Troy Stelmach in the senior boys 400 and 800 metres, respectively. He also figured Keith Brown, a second year midget boy, should easily defend his title as 100 metre champion in SD&G.

Brown's sister, Leslie, who advanced all the way to OFSSAA last year, should also be in the medals in the junior long and triple jumps.

Coach Stelmach also believed Brown would turn in a qualifying performance in the 200 metres as well.

"We're looking for good things for Leslie this year," Stelmach told The Record on Monday afternoon.

Although Tagwi's numbers in track and field remain a little low at 29 athletes, Stelmach is optimistic about the chances for Calah Wright in the midget girls javelin.

"In practice she has been throwing better than the winning distance from last year," he said. "One of her throws was 27.72 metres. She should come in first."

Junior boy pole vaulter Pat Mayer is another athlete who Stelmach believes will qualify for EOSSAA. In 1997, Mayer finished second in the event.

Doug Ferguson, in senior boys, should turn in a strong performance in both shotput and discus, Stelmach said.

"We might have a few athletes come up with some surprising performances as well," he said.

Former Russell coach buys Smiths Falls Bears

SMITHS FALLS - Former Russell Thunder coach Michael McLean has purchased the Central Junior A Smiths Falls Bears and has assumed the dual role of coach and general manager.

McLean, who took the EOJCHL Thunder to a second-place finish and a berth in the league finals, officially took over as the CJHL team's sole owner Friday and says he will use a new broom to sweep clean the Bears' operation.

He will be bringing in a new batch of "young and eager" assistant coaches as he steps up to a Junior A position.

The Perth native's move put to rest fears that the historic Smiths Falls franchise would be moved to another community. He has pledged to keep the team in the Falls "for many years to come" and will concentrate on drafting local talent, much as he did with the Russell squad. McLean said he wants to build a core of local players and will be looking hard at Smiths Falls and Perth products. The Bears carried no local players last year and McLean said there are seven players from the Smiths Falls - Perth area good enough to make his squad.

The Junior C league has been neglected by the Tier Two Junior A loop, something that McLean pledges he will correct, mentioning Russell Thunder players such as Kyle Fetch, Curtis Campbell and Matt Bourque as having the speed to play at the Junior A level.

McLean has already hired former St. Isidore Eagles coach Christian Lalonde to scout the Junior C league and will be inviting unprotected players to the junior conditioning camp he has run in Smiths Falls for the past several years. The three-week camp is held in August.

With the burgeoning interest in girls hockey, McLean will also be opening the camp to female players this year.

The Bears have had the second best regular season record for the past five seasons, trailing only the Kanata Lasers, but have been unable to advance past the second round in the playoffs in that time.

They were ousted by Kanata in the opening round this year.

McLean said he will concentrate on marketing the team this year. "The Bears didn't even have a program last season. They just relied on the gate."

McLean, 29, was the youngest head coach in professional hockey when he was hired by the London Wildcats of the United Hockey League three years ago, stepping up to the head coaching job after a season as assistant coach to former NHL bench boss Wayne Maxner.

McLean started his coaching career with the Canadian champion Sudbury North East Lion Bantam AAA's in 1992 and in 1993 was head coach of the Carleton Place Junior B team. He was interim head coach of the Junior A Sudbury Cubs, which reached the Royal Bank Cup, in 1995 and the following year moved to the St. Thomas Stars of the Western Ontario Junior B Hockey League, taking the team to the provincial finals. He was an assistant coach with the UHL's St. Thomas Wildcats in 1995 and moved to the head coaching job with the London Wildcats the following year.

New owner for Russell Thunder Junior C squad?

RUSSELL - A new owner for the EOJCHL Russell Thunder may be in place within a few weeks, according to team spokesman Brian Robinson.

Robinson and team president Ralph Wilkie have met with a prospective purchaser from the Embrun area.

Robinson said Monday that a "lengthy meeting" was held last week and the team's owners are waiting to hear back from the prospective purchaser, whom he declined to name.

The Russell Junior C team just completed its most successful season ever, finishing second in the regular season behind the Casselman Stars and losing to the Stars in the league championship series under new head coach Michael McLean.

McLean will not be returning to Russell for the 1998-99 season after announcing that he has purchased the Smiths Falls Bears of the Central Junior Hockey League. That deal was finalized May 8.

Robinson had nothing but praise for McLean, saying it is rare to see a coach with as professional an attitude at the Junior C level.

This rubbed off on the players, who responded to McLean's demand for a commitment to the team with an inspired effort that fell just short of the league championship.

McInnis leads Neons to opening win

Camille McInnis scored three goals and Linda Klein-Swormink added a pair to lead the Neon Greens to a 5-3 win over the Pink Flamingos as the Chesterville-Winchester Women's Ball Hockey League started its 1998 season last Thursday night.

In the opening night's other game, Roxanne Backes and Elaine TePlate blanked all comers in a scoreless draw between the Raspberry Turnovers and Forest Green.

Neons 5 - Flamingos 3

Klein-Swormink got the winner with 1:50 to go in the second period and scored the insurance goal with 2:05 left in the game after Kerry Kennedy had brought the Flamingos to within one with 10 minutes left in the game. Both of Klein-Swormink's goals were unassisted. Sheena McBean picked up her second assist of the night on Kennedy's goal.

McInnis scored two of her three goals in the first period to give the Neons a 2-1 lead after one. Cindy Merkley and Lori Dubois had the assists.

Kelly Durant scored the first of her pair on the night from McBean with 12:30 left in the first.

McInnis, from Merkley and Dubois, and Durant, from Monika Herfkens, scored in the second.

Hi sports fans! Don't be depressed, Mother Nature is just taking a rest, the sun will come out again and the drizzle will stop. Don't forget we are still only in May.

The North Dundas Minor Hockey Association calendar winners for the month of March and April are as follows: March-Boyd Cameron, Brittany Sprat, Gary Derks, Edwin McNally and Tom and Gillian Hamilton. For April-Tom Kirkwood, Wayne LaPrade, Douglas H. Durant, Robert O'Brien, and Lynn Thompson. Congratulations and North Dundas Minor Hockey Association thanks you. (My name still didn't get drawn-bummer!).

This is the weekend for the North Dundas District High School's 35th reunion, and it all takes place on Sat., May 16 at the Winchester Community Centre. Tickets are still available for the dinner and dance, so come out and let people who knew you, get to know you again.

On Tues., May 19, the North Dundas Recreation Committee will be holding its monthly meeting at the Winchester Community Centre boardroom. Start time will be 7pm.

The South Mountain Recreation Association will be holding a community garage sale on Sat., May 30 at the South Mountain Community Park and tennis courts. Start time will be 8am. To rent a table call Carolyn at 989-3447 or Kim at 989-1101.

Well, I guess that's all I have for this week, so here's my thought for the week. "Life is like riding a bicycle. You don't fall off unless you plan to stop pedaling".
