Legion Winter Carnival Held Last Saturday

Miss Yvonne VanAllen, Morrisburg High School Carnival Queen and her princesses, Cathy Rice and Yvonne Cassell, were chosen as Queen and Princesses of the second annual winter carnival sponsored by Morrisburg Branch No. 48 Royal Canadian Legion Saturday. Legion president John Rice, crowned the Queen and presented her and her princesses with gifts. Miss VanAllen will represent Morrisburg in the Can-Am contest to be held at Morrisburg July 6.

The carnival got under way at 9 a.m. with Morrisburg Squirts defeating Winchester 4-1. At 9.30, Brockville PeeWees defeated a Morrisburg team 4-1 and at 10.45 Morrisburg's second PeeWee team met a total 6-0 defeat at the hand of Prescott champion PeeWees. At 11.45 Morrisburg Midgets redeemed the home record when they won over Iroquois 2-1.

The afternoon saw ice races for all ages. Mary Howald was winner in the one to six age group. Other winners were: girls 7-9, Judy Gurnhill; boys, Wayne Leduc; 10-12 years, Sharon Felker and Jimmy Casselman; 13-16, Bonny MacDonald and Lee Tuttle. Gary Hess and Penny Dillabough were winners of the bicycle race.

At 3 p.m. The Atoms, future hockey stars under eight years, played a spirited game when Winchester defeated Morrisburg 6-2. The 3.45 game saw Morrisburg girls with Muriel Baker in the net get a resounding 9-0 win over Winchester girls.

Judges for carnival costumes were: Rev. C. W. Earle, Mrs. Edwin Rice and Ronald Cameron. Mary Howald as a daffodil won the under 8 prize for girls and Jimmy Casselman as Mother Hubbard took the boys' prize. Other winners were Debby Scott as a robot and Gordon Dillabough dressed as a girl 9-1 2years; Billy Lawlor and Tommy Whelan 12 years and over. Two clowns, Harry and Walter Cassell, kept the crowd of more than 500 spectators convulsed with laughter at their antics.

The Morrisburg Trumpet Band, made up of 31 boys and one girl entertained under the direction of Percy Smith of Cornwall. The band organized only ten weeks ago, made an excellent showing.

32 students from North Dundas High School, with four cheer leaders presented an intricate and well executed precision drill under the direction of E. E. Forgues and J. A. Bobbs, Physical Education Teachers. Ice time for rehearsals had been provided by Morrisburg Legion.

Members of Cornwall Figure Skating Club and 29 local students presented figure skating and drills. Morrisburg youngsters were under the direction of Miss Sheila Graham. Cornwall artists were 10-year old Lynn Sheridan, Provincial Juvenile Champion, Nicole Dalbec, Barbara Pechie, Marietta Dalbec, Benny Riddell, and skating as a couple, Gail Curtis and Nelda Youngs.

An old-timers' hockey game with Morrisburg's junior champions of 1942 meeting a matching team from Cardinal concluded with an undetermined score. When an old-timer evidenced signs of weakening the umpire, with grave consideration, would give him time to recuperate in the penalty box.

Prior to this game, two minutes' silence was observed in honor of James O'Brien, veteran Legion official from Cardinal who died on Thursday at 43 years of age.

Rev. Cyril W. Earle announced that a "Drumhead Memorial Service" will be held at 3 p.m. May 16, at Crysler Park.

The evening concluded with a costume dance at the Morrisburg Legion Hall.

Damage Is Heavy In Parsonage Fire

Lakeshore Drive United Church parsonage on Tuesday afternoon, was the scene of a fire which caused many thousands of dollars damage. One estimate placed the damage "possibly between 10 and 12 thousand dollars".

The minister of the church Rev. W. J. March and his wife were bot hout of the house at the time.

Ralph Snyder, working across St. Lawrence Street, at the home of Dr. Robertson, noticed smoke coming from under the eaves of the parsonage, and notified the Morrisburg Fire Department. Firemen, arriving on the scene were forced to break open the front door to get in.

The rfie was first noticed shortly after three o'clock, and is now believed to have been caused by a defective switch-box on the furnace.

At the time of going to press, no decision had been made as to whether the damage would be repaired or a new parsonage built.

The stately old home was for many years the residence of the Irwin Hilliard family, and tne late Dr. Marion Hilliard spent the early part of her life there. It was built in 1882.

Red Cross Drive Set For March 26-27

Like a true friend in time of need, Red Cross responds in emergencies with deeds that help to alleviate the suffering of man. Comforting words in time of stress are always helpful, but what counts more for a stricken individual is definite action; deeds which will help him on his feet again; deeds which will convince him that people care enough about his plight to back up their comforting words with substance .

The Red Cross provides emergency food, shelter and clothing for victims who have suffered loss in a disaster. The sympathetic voice of the Red Cross is heard through handmade blankets and quilts that will keep the disaster victim warm. It is heard through the fresh new clothing that he will wear for protection, and it is heard through the vital food that will give him nourishment. It is a voice that speaks with definite deeds, and so is a welcome friend indeed. The Red Cross deserves our full support.

Show your interest an support by giving generously to the canvasser who calls on you for your donation on Friday and Saturday, March 26 - 27 during the afternoon and evening. If you are not going to be at home, your donation can be given at the local Bank of Montreal or Bank of Nova Scotia where official receipts are available.

STILL OWE FOR THE STOVE

Noting that the Ottawa Government, for old age pensions and other purposes, is planning to spend tens (or is it hundreds?) of millions of dollars more, a casual observer of things governmental asks, "Just what are we going to do for money?"

Perhaps the answer to this question came from the late Jack Charlesworth, who overheard a hand-in-hand young couple devise a way for them to get something without spending the cash at once. The very sweet-looking young lady asked her handsome man, "Darling, do you think that if we missed a payment or two on the stove we could get a television?"

Canadians are young and sweet and lovely and they plan to look after the aged and aging whether or not the stove ever gets paid for.

LOYALTY CLASH

Believers in brand loyalty of consumers may take heart from an experience in employing a woman to oblige with the cleaning.

Floor wax of the wrong color and consistency was replaced, there was a new detergent in evidence, and even the dusters were different. The only problem remaining was what to do with the scorned remainders.

Greatest cause for regret was the passing from the shelf of a brand of furniture polish used since childhood. It had been a reminder always of those days when a small girl was being instructed on how to do the dusting, yet it only seemed fair that the brand loyalty of the woman wielding the polish cloth should prevail.

But as with the voter who switches from Party X to Party Y a sneaking nostalgia for the old days and the old oil still remains.

In articles, speeches, panels, seminars and symposia deep thinkers are trying to impress upon the heedful and the heedless that there must be a new attitude to work. For many, they say, work will one day cease to exist and something else must flow in to fill the time of men and women. They overlook one factor, the pleasure most of their audience have in the everyday task of making a living.

In a newspaper interview, a man told a reporter recently about his father, who was in the baking industry. The father used to say that the day he didn't find romance in a loaf of bread he was going to quit There was no suggestion that day ever dawned.

If work ceases to exist, someone will probably invent it.

Cass Reports

F .M. Cass, Q.C., M.P.P.

Some very interesting matters during this week at Queen's Park interspersed normal debate speeches, introduction of legislation and routine Committee matters.

For some years now the conditions of, and in, penal and correctional institutions by all levels of government in Canada have been under close scrutiny by the press, by Members of the Legislature and by the public generally. And it has been increasingly difficult to staff and operate our Ontario reformatories and gaols with reliable and efficient personnel as most honest and efficient persons do not take with equanimity the disturbing insinuations of misconduct and inefficienc yand bitter attacks which from time to time are levelled against them and which have a most disturbing effect on those within such institutions. The most recent instance of this was disclosed by the Minister of Reform Institutions when he reported to the House a most unusual visit of inspection and search made to the large reformatory at Guelph, made by two members of the New Democratic Party. The sequel to this particular visit has been the request of the Superintendent, a very experienced and trustworthy public servant, for a transfer from being head of any institution subject to such visits, and the Minister's announcement that in future some restrictions must be placed on Members' visits to and actions in our correctional institutions.

A most interesting release was made by the Minister of Agriculture when he tabled the recommendations of the special Committee investigating the milk industry in Ontario. The Committee had made a detailed study of all segments of this most important agricultural industry, so vital to us here in Eastern Ontario, and their recommendations are revealing. Suffice it to say that the Committee recommends that all matters pertaining to this sphere of farm production and marketing be in the hands of one Commission with a high-priced general manager and most sweeping powers. The report, if implemented, is the death knell of several well established farm organizations, especially in the area of cheese production and marketing. It is to be hoped that all those so vitally interested in these matters will give the report very careful consideration and be enabled to make their views known to the organizations concerned and through them to the Minister and the Government. It would seem that generally the Committee's report is sound when it recommends that the milk producer be placed in a position to secure a fair return for his product in compariso nwith the costs of production and the cost of modern living.

A third important event was the adoption b ythe Ontario Legislature, with only NDP Members opposing, of the resolution required to have Ontario agree to the conditions necessary to bring the Canadian constitution — our British North America Act, to Canada and under the jurisdiction of Canadian federal and provincial governments The formula proposed and agreed upon last year by representatives of all provinces and the Dominion Government and now before all Canadian Parliaments for ratification, preserved the special rights o fboth Dominion and Provincial governments and of certain religious and ethnic groups and would appear to be little more than a transfer from Westminster to Ottawa of the arena in which future wranglings between provincial and federal authorities will take place. It does, however complete the severance of connections with Great Britain save those tenuous but affectionate ones which bind us to our Queen and the stronger economic ones which for our own good keep us in the Commonwealth orbit.

On a per capita basis, Ontario's electrical consumption is among the highest in the world. Latest available comparative statistics show the provinces annual per capita electric energy consumption totals 6,300 kilowatt-hours, compared with 5,100 in the United States and only 1,750 in France.

CANADIAN-MADE SEAWAY SERIES SLATED FOR CBC-TV NEXT FALL

A series of 30 one-hour programs based on the St. Lawrence Seaway, produced by Seaway Films Limited in co-operation with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will be a highlight of the CBC-TV English and French networks' fall and winter schedules, starting next October. This is the first hour-long film series to be produced in Canada.

The CBC today announced signing contracts for the series by Captain W.E.S. Briggs, CBC vice-president, and by Maxine Samuels, president of Seaway Films Limited.

Also participating in the series is Associated Television, Limited, Britain's private TV nework which has scheduled the programs for prime time showing in Britain.

"The agreement between Seaway Films and the CBC is the result of extensive discussions and negotiations", said Captain Briggs. "This ensures that the needs of the various groups involved are realized. From the CBC point o fview, the series has a two-fold importance. It promises the public some first-class entertainment in a Canadian setting and provides for the engagement of Canadian actors, both English and French, without whose skills the CBC could not fully perform its role in Canadian life".

The series is also a great stimulus to the Canadian film industry. Total capital involved from all sources in the venture is $3,000,000. This is about 25 percent of the gross revenue currently accruing from the Canadian film production industry, which has been running about $12,000,000.

"I am very proud to have the opportunity of producing the TV series on the Seaway", said Maxine Samuels, president of Seaway Films Limited. "For sheer variety, vitality and action, there is no background anywhere to match the scope of adventure on the Seaway. The Seaway is the umbilical cord of North America, uniting 2,300 miles of Canadian and American cities, towns ,rivers, locks and industry and visited by ships from every continent".

"It is extremely important to the Canadian film industry that we have the encouragement and support of the CBC and of ATV of England to create and produce this interlocking series in Canada".

"It i sthe most significant development in the history of the Canadian film industry, affording opportunity to Canadian talent, writers and technicians for exposure throughout the world".

Action of the series, titled "On the Seaway" ,takes place at points along the St. Lawrence Seaway and at ports of the Great Lakes system. Principal characters, not yet cast, who will appear in the series are Foxy, a mature person serving with Canadian government's department of transport, and Nicholas King, a young adventurer, who represents the interests of associated owners and shippers

Casting will provide for a reasonable proportion of French-speaking actors and actresses, and the 'Franco-Italian' techinque will be use to overcome bilingual problems. For example, when a French language character speaks to an Engilsh language character, each will speak in his own language for the original sound track. The necessary dubbing will then be done for specific language versions. Though on the surface this may seem a difficult method, in fact it has proved highly successful in Europe.

Abraham Polonsky, winner of an Academy Award for his original screen play for the movie, Body and Soul, has created the format for On The Seaway and will supervise all the scripts as well as writing some himself. Included among produce dby the CBC, and Lindsay Galloway, author of the screen play for Waltz of The Toreadors.

Co-operating in the reasearch to assure technical accuracy were Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, St. Lawrence Seaway Devel opment Corporation of the U.S., department of transport (marine services branch), National Harbours Board, Shipping Federation of Canada, Canada Steamship Lines, and individual port authorities and their staffs.

Report on Canada's Parliament . .

By Mrs. Jean Wadds, M.P.

It is gradually becoming known that constant and severe criticism of the Canadian Pension Plan is appearing on the desks of the Liberal members of Parliament.

What was presented as the solution to retiremant problems for all Canadians is now frequently called a hoax and a bigger financial gamble than the CPR. One prominent wittness before the Parliamentary Committee "My verbal comments were subjected to such hostile interuptions that I was preluded from adequate presentation. As a result the pledge given me gy the Prime Minister March 3, 1964, was broken which in part read quote I am confident that by the time the final decision is made this matter will have received the especially intensive and prolonged discussion that it's importance merits - unquote".

He also complains of the actions of the Minister of Health and Welfare. No acknowledgement was received to a letter reminding the Minister of her statement a year ago. This statement backing the first version of the plan, warned us that a heavily funded plan such as the present one would lead to a Facist State or States.

And so although the debate on the Canada Pension plan seems wearisome and ill attended in the House of Cnmmons, it is almost worthwile perusal of one of the mos far-reaching peices of leglislation ever to be brought before Parliament.

No one inside or outside the House of Commons should begrudge the time spant discussing and trying to improve legislation which will so seriously affect our econemy and be so impartant both indirectly and directly to every Canadian.

Once adopted there is, for all practical purposes, no turning back.

This will undoubtedly reduce the amount of money for investment by private individuals. At the very time this is taking place, we have the well received First Report of the Economic Council of Canada stressing the need for an annual increase in gross private field investment of aruond 10percent.

No fairy godmother will produce this money to spend over again a second time. It is a sure thing that if the government takes more and more money from individuals whether they call it taxes or compulsory contributions, then those individuals will not have it to put into private investments so needed to expand our industries.

Countries where everyone works for the government do not seem to us to have the kind of society we wish, the freedom of speech, the freedom of the press, the freedom of religion.

This week already there is a strong rumour that one large industry long opperating on a narrow margin, of profit will have to close down if this one and one half percent contribution or tax is added to their costs. The result will be that the government will have to take over our several thousand people or they will be out out of employment.

But where are we heading at the moment. We are going to have the masive Canada Pension Plan to meet hypothetical needs of the future; and shortly thereafter we will have to broaden our existing program to meet the "real" needs of,- the needs that are not met by the Plan. The bill to the taxpayers for this after thought will be a large additional burden.

COMBINES ARE IN TIGHT SPOT

Morrisburg Combines, the team that many area fans hoped could bring hoceky fame to the village, have fallen on evil days. Now with their backs solidly up against the wall, they lost two games and won one during the past week. As a result, Kingston Aces now lead the final series 3 games to 1. If Combines hope to salvage this series, and move ahead, they must win the next three games straight. And even to the most partisan Morrisburg fan, this represents a lot of better hockey playing than the locals have shown thus far in the series.

Friday night in Morrisburg, the home team walked all over the Kingston Aces and outscored them 10-4. Rowdy Gillard led the scoring with three goals, followed by Gord. McMillan with two goals. Singles were contributed by Red Lawlor, Big Doug. Casselman, Mel Tomalty, Ed. St. Louis and Cal Wagner.

For Kingston, Rawson, Robertson, Gebhardt and Collins each scored once.

After the game, Morrisburg's flashy centre, Rowdy Gillard, who finished the regular schedule with a total of 71 points was presented with the Glengarry Transport Trophy for the best marksman in the league.

On Sunday afternoon a record crowd of 1805 saw the Combines whipped by a score of 6-3. Lawlor, with an assist from Wagner, opene dthe scoring at 5:56 of the first period and Combines held the lead until 19:14 when Gebhardt scored for the opposition.

Morrisbur gwent ahead again in the second period at 11:42, with Red Lawlor again hitting the twine with assists from Tomalty and Big Doug Casselman. The Aces couldn't get one past Fleury in the second frame, but seemingly discovered the secret for putting the pick past the Morrisburg defence and goaltender during the intermission for they scored four more in the third period. Rawson had two for the Aces and Ball and Collins one each. Rowdy Gillard scored the final goal of the game with only two seconds left, to bring the final count to 6—3.

Wednesday night in Kingston the Combines dropped their third game of the series, again by a 6-3 score. The game followed much the same pattern as Sunday's with Big Doug. scoring first for Combines and Curran of Kingston, knotting the score just before the end of the frame.

Kingston came on strong in the second, and after Morrow put one past the nimble Kingston goalie, they counted four unanswered goals. One, on a slap shot by Long from the blueline, bounced just as Fleury thought he had it and went past him into the net. Weston, Robertson and Curran scored the other goals.

During the third period, Morrisburg and Kingston each scored one goal, with Forrest and Big Doug doing the honours.

Perhaps the most exciting incident during this frame was a minor riot that broke out in the stands Several of Morrisburg's more boisterous fans and Kingston defenders were involved, but it was broken up quickly and the scrappers returned to their seats to watch the rest of the game. Nobody was hurt, but there were a few signs of blood and several bruised jaws. The whole thing proved to be a bit of a rest for the two teams, as the game was stopped, and they could watch the fans.

Friday night, the fifth game of the series is scheduled for Brockville Arena and if Combines are to stay in this race, they have to win on Friday.

ANNUAL REPORT TIME . .

The Company's Annual Report for 1964, mailed in February to shareholders in the Morrisburg-Williamsburg area, has facts and figures that may be interesting to customers and others as well.

Take the number of telephones added to the network last year, for example — 222,475 (including 120 in Morrisburg-Williamsburg). This is almost as many as serve the entire Ottawa-Hull metropolitan area, and is the third time in Company history that over 200,000 telephones were added in a single year (1956 and 1955 also set records). The figure becomes even more impressive when it is realized that it took thirty-three years — from the Company's inception in 1880, until 1913 — to reach the first 200,000 telephones in service.

Even as recently as the First World War, then, telephone service could not be considered the necessity it is today. Most people obviously didnt have telephones (though most businesses surely did) and the number of people you could reach was restricted. Today, of course, the whole pattern is changed. At the end of 1964, the Company had 4.3 million telephones in service, reaching into virtually every office and an estimated 92% of households in our territory in Ontario, Quebec, Labrador and the Northwest Territories.

And though telephone service has long been absolutely vital to the operations of Canadian businesses — and a single large corporation can require literally thousands of telephones within its offices and plants — we find nevertheless that year after year the proportion of telephones in homes has been creeping up, compared to those in business use. In 1964, for example, 70.6% of our telephones were in homes, compared with 70.5% in 1963 and 69% in 1955.

This to me is a sure indication of the standard of living enjoyed by Canadians, for Canada is one of only a handful of nations where individual families benefit so universally from the security and convenience of telephone service.

And speaking for Bell, one major reason why this is so is that intensive effort is continually made to keep the cost of this vital service within the reach of any family in our territory.

HOW'S YOUR DRIVING I.Q.?

Most automobile skids are the result of (1) under-inflated tires? (2) too much snow or ice on the road? (3) over-inflated tires? (4) driving too fast on slippery road surfaces?

According to the Ontario Safety League (4) is correct. But remember, you're more likely to skid if the treads on your tires are worn. If your car does start to skid, you should turn the front wheels in the direction the rear end is swinging.

Letters To The Editor

The Editor, Morrisburg Leader, Morrisburg, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Editor—As a resident of this village I wish to express my congratulations and admiration to the members of the village fire department for their efforts at the United Church parsonage on Tuesday afternoon last.

Whether the building was saved for future use, time alone will tell, but I think it was evident to the spectators that the fire department acted promptly, courageously and efficiently, and that they deserve the gratitude of the residents of the Village of Morrisburg.

ALL ABOUT EGGS

A hot soup, salad and dessert forms a familiar pattern for many a luncheon or supper menu in Canadian homes. Sometimes at this season the salads need perking up a little bit to keep them interesting. The Poultry Products Institute suggests a new switch to an old favourite in Caraway seed, cabbage and stuffed eggs.

CARAWAY-CABBAGE & STUFFED EGG SALAD

4 cups finely shredded cabbage
2 cups grated carrot
1 to 2 tblspns. grated onion
½ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
½ tspn. Caraway seeds
Salt and pepper to taste
6 stuffed eggs
Lettuce leaves

Combine cabbage, carrot, onion and sufficient dressing to moisten. Add Caraway seed and season with salt and pepper to taste. Pile lightly on lettuce in salad bowl or on individual salad plates. Garnish with devilled or stuffed eggs and sprinkle with paprika.

NOTE: For variation in flavour of stuffed eggs, add a little finely crumpled bay leaf, onion juice and curry powder to the mashed egg yolk, season with salt and pepper and moisten with salad dressing as usual and restuff whites with this mixture.

A fluffy melt-in-the-mouth icing is simple to make using honey or corn syrup and egg whites. Why not treat the family to a cake for dessert that will look as delicious as it will taste. Here is a recipe for the Poultry Products Institute's husband-approved never-fail icing.

FLUFFY ICING

2 egg whites
¾ cup corn syrup or honey
Pinch of salt
1 tspn. vanilla
Food colouring to tint, if desired

If using ¾ cup of corn syrup, heat it just to the boiling point, but if using ¾ cup of honey, bring to the boil and boil slowly for 4 minutes stirring occasionally to prevent honey from scorching. Beat egg whites slightly just to a froth and then gradually pour the hot syrup in a stream beating constantly. When mixture holds its shape, add vanilla and if a tinted icing is desired, beat in food colouring a drop at a time until the desired colour is obtained. Yields enough icing to cover one 8-inch square, two 8-inch round layers or 1 to 1½ dozen cup cakes depending upon size. If serving cup cakes, an attractive colour combination can be obtained by dividing the white icing into 2 or 3 portions and tinting each one a different shade.

Honey will give a much sweeter icing than the corn syrup. To vary the appearance of the cake, sprinkle with finely chopped nuts or plain or tinted coconut. Variation in flavour may be obtained by adding peppermint flavouring which will compliment a chocolate cake or grated orange or lemon rind for a white cake.

Are you an oven peeker? If so, every time you open the oven door you lower the oven temperature and prolong cooking time. When cooking poultry, this can be an important factor in altering suggested cooking times? If turkey or chicken (either whole or in pieces) should need basting while they are being roasted or baked, remove the pan from the oven, close the oven door, complete the basting and return the poultry to the oven. In this way you help to conserve the oven heat.

ROYAL FARE

The Poultry Products Institute points out that chicken and honey are popular companions and the flavours blend to make a delicious main course in the following recipe:

Coat halved chicken breasts with seasoned flour. Melt butter in a hot baking pan to the depth of about ⅛ of an inch. Turn chicken pieces lightly in melted butter and finally arrange them skin side down. Cover pan and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes. Uncover, turn pieces skin side up and spread lightly with honey and a sprinkling of sesame seed. Reduce heat to 325 degrees F. and continue cooking until tender and brown about 20 minutes. If the honey should show any tendency to scorch, cover pan with a sheet of aluminum foil with the shiny side up to reflect the heat away from the surface of the chicken.

A quickie for a luncheon or supper sandwich is suggested using left-over cooked turkey or chicken. Cut cooked turkey or chicken in large chunks or thick slices and heat in turkey or chicken gravy which has been mixed with catsup or chili sauce to taste. Spread mixture on bread to form a substantial open-faced sandwich. The mixture may be served hot or cold and is nice when accompanied with a crisp cabbage and grated carrot salad. This mixture of turkey or chicken and gravy may be served either hot or cold. If preferred, instead of serving as a sandwich, serve the chicken or turkey mixture with mashed potatoes and one or two cooked vegetables.

A delicious and inexpensive dinner main course consists of a substantial omelet. Why not try the suggestion from the Poultry Products Institute for a delicious chicken liver and onion omelet. Allow 2 to 3 eggs per serving, 3 to 4 tablespoons of finely chopped cooked chicken liver and one to two tablespoons of sauted finely minced onion per serving. Season with salt, pepper and a dash of magarine or one of the prepared seasoned salts. If using seasoned salt, omit the plain salt in the recipe.

Beat required number of eggs only enough to blend yolks and whites lightly, adding 1 tablespoon of water per egg.

Mix the liver, onion and seasonings with the egg and pour into a hot well-buttered heavy frying pan. Cook slowly over low heat lifting the edges of the omelet with a knife and letting the uncooked liquid run onto the bottom of the pan, continue cooking slowly until mixture's set but surface of omelet is still slightly moist. Tilt pan, run knife around pan to loosen omelet and roll out onto a hot platter, serve with steamed spinach, home fried potatoes, a crisp salad and hot rolls.

At present economical prices 2 or 3 grade A large eggs cost only a few cents and give a substantial serving of top quality protein. Canada's Food Guide points out that eggs may be used in place of meat, fish or poultry in our menus.

MRS. MILDERD GOTTFRIEDSEN, mother of 12, from the Kamloops Indian Reserve was 1964 FTD Canadian Mother of the Year, and honoured in Ottawa last spring. Here she is choosing a new chapeau prior to attending a social gathering. You may nominate an extraordinary Mom for the 1965 national title simply by sending a letter stating the name of the mother you think deserving of Canada wide recognition, along with her qualifications to—FTD Canadian Mother of the Year, Box 4044 Ottawa, by March 31. The 1965 Mother of the Year will be flown to Ottawa for 3 days of honours just before Mother's Day.

Nominations open....

Canadian mother of the year

In the past five years literally hundreds of prairie mothers have been nominated for the title "FTD CANADIAN MOTHER OF THE YEAR". Stories of extraordinary heroism, devotion to family and community, and struggles in pioneering in the West have been told in nomination letters.

The search is now on for the outstanding Canadian mother who will be singled out for honors just before Mother's Day this year.

Throughout the West there will be children from Kamsack to Kenora, Flin Flon to Hay River, Red Deer to Assiniboia sending letters to: FTD Canadian Mother of the Year, Box 4044, Ottawa. And there will be husbands, friends, clergymen, school board chairmen and community leaders from Regina to Calgary, Winnipeg to Prince Albert, nominating mothers they believe to be outstanding.

Prairie mothers nominated for the 1965 award sponsored again by the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, will be young moms who may still be diapering their wee ones, yet take in foster children just so they have a home; they may be middle-aged moms who put in a sixteen-hour day leading church choirs in small towns, helping C.G.I.T. or Boy Scouts with carnivals and candy sales; or they may be Grandma-type moms who knit for the Red Cross, canvas for the Heart Fund, visit shut-ins and bake goodies for lonely folks. None of these mothers feel that what they are doing is special, yet to all the people they have helped over the years they are special and deserve to be nominated as 1965 "Mother of the Year".

Three Western mothers have already been named "FTD Mother of the Year: Dr. Breg DeGroot, Regina in 1960 for founding the Harrow DeGroot School for intellectually-handicapped children and helping these youngsters to become useful citizens; Mrs. Dorothy Gentleman, Lethbridge in 1961 for establishing "Aunt Dorothy's Playhouse" and supervising work-play activity of over 2,000 preschoolers, besides helping teenage girls in homemaking arts; Mrs. Mildred Gottfriedsen of the Kamloops Indian Reserve in 1964, a mother of 12 who also raised 24 foster children over the years and strives to assist integration of Indians into Canadian society.

Letters sent to Box 4044, Ottawa for the 1965 FTD Canadian Mother of the Year award will be read by judges, all outstanding Canadian persons, including Mrs. W. A. C. Bennet (wife of the Premier of British Columiba), Mrs. John Bird (Anne Francis of CBC fame), Mrs. T. C. Douglas (wife of the New Democratic Party national leader), Mrs. Margaret Konantz (M. P. for Winnipeg South), and Mr. Jack Passmore (FTD Canadian Director).

The woman titled "Mother of the Year" by the judges will be flown to Ottawa for a three-day all-expense-paid tour of the nation's capital, just before Mother's Day—May4, 5 and 6. She will receive an award plaque and a specially-designed Mother's Day bouquet. She will be honoured at a luncheon attended by senators, members of parliament and other leading Canadians.

The Canadian Mother will also be able to wire to anyone she selects, anywhere in the world, a bouquet identical to her special-award bouquet. And for each of the following twelve months she will receive an exquisite flower-of-the-month bouquet from the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association.

All letters nominating mothers from any part of Canada must be postmarked no later than March 31, 1965.

BANDED DUCK MAKES LONG TRIP

How far a duck will go to get away from a Saskatchewan winter came to light in a report received by the department of natural resources this week. A blue winged teal was banded August 23, 1964, at Little Quill Lake by Jim Donovan of the department's wildlife branch. Just three months later, on November 22, a hunter by name of Rafael Antonio Morales shot the teal in a swamp on the Atlantic coast of Columbia, South America, about 40 miles east of the city of Cartegena, known as Cienaga Del Totumo. As the crow flies, this is approximately 3,150 miles.

"The motion is made, gentlemen, that we use it for our Christmas card!"

Mythical qualities ascribed to certain foods are exposed by Frederick J. Stare, nutritionist, who says, for example, that fish and celery are not brain foods...

food myths exposed

Fish and celery are not brain foods. Beets do not build blood, and yogurt will not keep one young. So states an article in the January Reader's Digest which also explodes these and many other long-accepted theories about the food we eat.

The writer, Fredrick J. Stare, a professor of nutrition, says he has been asked a thousand such questions by readers of his syndicated column. And there is little difference between queries from people of modest schooling and those from college graduates. "Indeed," says Stare, "I am beginning to think the better educated man is, the greater his skill in summoning up pseudo-science to support the latest food fad."

In a few instances, the seemingly uncanny powers of certain foods have been scientifically explained. We now know, for example, that limes or lemons cured scurvy because of their vitamin C content. Rice polishings prevented beriberi by reason of the vitamin B1, or thiamine, they provided. An ancient treatment for goiter was dried or burned sponge, a rich source of iodine.

However, according to the article, a half-truth or a distorted scientific fact sometimes will give rise to a food myth. For instance, many believe that rare steak will make you strong. Certainly it is rich in good-quality protein. But so are fish, eggs, milk—and overcooked steak.

Contrary to popular myth, there is no reason to increase your consumption of vitamins as you grow older. They serve primarily to help metabolize food and thus to produce energy and build, maintain and repair body tissues. Since total food intake diminishes (or should diminish) with the years, the elderly in general have less need for vitamins than younger folk. At any age, whether or not a given individual needs extra vitamins is a decision for his doctor to make.

In matters of nutrition, however, all too many prefer to take their counsel from TV commercials, an oracular voice on the radio or a newspaper report on the latest diet fad. At best, most of these fads are worthless.

No need to add detergents to weed chemicals

Concerned about farmers adding detergents and other materials to weed chemicals was expressed by the Saskatchewan Advisory Council at its recent annual meeting in Regina. The Council stated that research does not support the need for any additives and urged farmers to use chemicals according to label directions. The addition of other materials may actually reduce the effectiveness of herbicides or make them difficult to use.

The Council supported the use of dicamba on barley and TCA for the control of green foxtail in oats and barley. Green foxtail is fast becoming a problem in Saskatchewan. The Council was satisfied with the use of simazine for weed control in shelterbelts.

CO-OPERATIVE TRUST COMPANY TO MEET

The Co-operative Trust Company will hold its 12th annual meeting Monday, February 22 at the Hotel Saskatchewan, Regina, according to General Manager, Harold Wagner.

The Saskatchewan Trappers Guide says that some trappers colour traps by using bark and chopped twigs of native plants in boiling water.

THE HEART STORY

(Fourth of a six-part series on heart and circulatory disease and the Heart Foundation Research now being undertaken to control it.)

EARLY HEART STUDIES IN CANADA

By: DR. H. N. SEGALL,

Assistant Professor (Retired), Department of Medicine, McGill University, Montreal Quebec.

This story begins with Dr. Andrew F. Holmes. His parents were en route to this country when they were taken as captives from a British vessel by a French frigate and deposited in Cadiz, where Andrew Holmes was born in 1797. Four years later, his parents brought him to Canada where he was educated in Montreal and began his medical career at the age of 14 under the tutelage of Dr. Daniel Arnoldi. In 1819, he went to Edinburgh for his medical degree and returned to Montreal in 1821. In 1824, he published a report of an unusual case of congenital heart disease, the specimen of which was found by Dr. Maude Abbott (1869-1940), two years after she became Curator of the McGill Medical Museum in 1898. It is an unusual type of three-chambered heart because the wall between the two ventricles did not develop. This specimen, probably the oldest in any Canadian Medical Museum collection, is known as the "Holmes Heart".

It is of significance to us at present because it initiated Dr. Maude Abbott's interest in congenital heart disease, and her correspondence with Sir William Osler about it, played an important role in the subsequent steps which led to Dr. Abbott's becoming the leading world authority on this subject.

Osler himself had made an important contribution to the study of heart disease during his period as Professor of the Institutes of Medicine at McGill University (1874 - 1885). While doing research on inflammation of the heart valves, he identified a type of illness which came to be known as Endocarditis Lenta or Osler's Disease in Europe, and Subacute Bacterial Endocarditis on this side of the Atlantic. Until 1943 when penicillin was proven to be effective in its cure and prevention, it was almost invariably fatal.

Pierre Beaubien (1796-1881) a sixth generation native of Lower Canada, studied medicine in Paris from 1816 to 1825 and on returning to practise in Montreal was the first to bring a stethoscope (invented in 1816) to this country. In his thesis for the doctorate (1822) on rheumatic fever, he mentions listening to the patient's chest.

In 1916, Louis Gross (1895-1937) won the Holmes Gold Medal, for the student who achieves the highest aggregate of marks for the entire medical course. He chose a career of research in the McGill Department of Pathology. His principal achievement concerned the study of coronary circulation which he embodied in a classic monograph, "The Blood Supply to the Heart" published in 1921 when Gross was only 26 years old.

On October 20th, 1920, Dr. Frederick G. Banting in London, Ontario, "conceived an idea, the compulsion of which drove him onward to fame". This idea led to the production of insulin and this dramatized the importance of medical research. In the 1930's Banting addressed himself to the problem of coronary artery disease. The Second World War interrupted these studies and Banting died in an airplane accident in Newfoundland in February, 1941, while engaged in War Research.

The generation of research workers who began their careers immediately after the Second World War in all parts of the world, invented a wide range of new diagnostic techniques which make it possible to insert measuring instruments inside the heart and blood vessels and methods of performing surgical operations within the heart. These techniques require teams of doctors and extensive laboratory space as well as a number of technical assistants attached to each team. Thus research, diagnosis and treatment have become more productive and at the same time much more extensive.

Research is no longer a sideline or hobby of the doctor. It is a life-long career. Among the first to recognize this was the Canadian Heart Association whose members are the heart specialists of this country. Under the leadership of the late Dr. George F. Strong of Vancouver, with the blessing of the Honourable Mr. Paul Martin, in 1956 the Minister of Health and Welfare, a partnership between doctors and laymen was launched in the Canadian Heart Foundation which annually mounts a Heart Fund Campaign. Increasing amounts have been collected each year since its inception in 1957 but these sums are still only a fraction of what is needed to support the growing needs of those who dedicate their lives to search for the knowledge which will make possible prevention and adequate control of diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

Your Life and Mine

Study Groups should examine their motives

by PHYLLIS MITCHELL

At the present time there is considerable emphasis on religious study groups, and of course there is value in any activity that draws people closer to God. It is good to discuss the bible and assist one another in learning how we may apply its truths in our own lives.

The fact remains that some groups allow their discussions to become too analytical. They turn to a phrase and ask "What did Jesus really mean when He said this? Was it true in His day? Is it true now?" They explore every word as diligently as a prosecuting attorney attacks the case before him. It almost seems that they are tearing the bible apart looking for loop-holes that will permit them to pursue their favourite, unchristian habits and claim the power of the Christian faith at the same time. Then because they want to do both right and wrong, conflicts arise and they are often more confused than they were before they started studying.

Broad-minded observers say such people are seeking; but Christ's way is not hard to find. The bible clearly points the way to the Kingdom of God. Of course, I do not refer to all study groups, but where some are concerned I think they are not looking for the way "in" as much as they are looking for a way "out"—a way of obedience to Christ.

Study the words of God, but do it with the simple faith our Lord recommended, and learn how you may apply it in your own life. Do not be so concerned with the meaning of an ancient Greek or Hebrew word in comparison with the English language that you avoid trying to learn Christ's will for your own personal life.

The joy of Christianity, and the power, are for those who turn to the Saviour with complete faith.
