Hunt Builders lay-off work force and plan to close

BY ANDREA CARTIER
SPECIAL TO THE CHIEFTAIN

A number of factors combined to work against local truss manufacturer Hunt Builders and led to the announcement last week of its closure at the end of the year.

On Tuesday, August 1, Operating Manager Rick Chevers announced that 75% of the company's work force was being laid off, and that the plant would close at the end of December.

This means that 33 people found themselves without jobs last week, and more lay offs are to come.

The strength of the Canadian dollar is one of the biggest factors in the closure of this manufacturing plant. "The lower cost of wood combined with the weak Canadian dollar is what gave us an advantage," explained Chevers.

A recent settlement in the long-running softwood lumber dispute, ironically, also works against manufacturing of wood products in Canada. The reduction in tariffs means that manufacturers in the United States pay less for importing softwood, and the advantage of value added in Canada is lost.

"The high cost of diesel fuel is another factor contributing to the closure," stated Cheevers.

With their product being shipped to New England, the rising costs of transportation is prohibitive.

A slow down in the number of new home starts in the New England states is a yet another factor contributing to the closure of the business.

Despite the fact that the Canadian dollar has been rising in value for some time, the decision to shut down the Iroquois location of Hunt Builders was made just recently. "This is not something that we have known about since January," said Chevers. "This is a decision which was just made last month."

The remaining staff will continue to manufacture wall panels and will ship what is left of the inventory to Saco, Maine in the few months left before the plant is closed for good and Hunt ceases its operations in Canada.

Hunt Builders have been operating in South Dundas since 2002. The building is leased, and Chevers doesn't know what the future will hold for it.

Students build cabin for St. Lawrence Parks Commission

BY ANDREA CARTIER
SPECIAL TO THE CHIEFTAIN

On Friday, August 11, a ceremony was held to celebrate a unique new program that saw area high school students construct a cabin in Cedars Riverside Park as part of a youth apprenticeship program. The project, which came about through the partnership of the Catholic District School Board of Eastern Ontario and the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, resulted in 8 students constructing the cabin in a 5 week program. According to Dan Lortie, the Catholic School Board's Ontario Youth Apprenticeship Program's coordinator, the pilot project was a great success, and the board hopes to continue with such meaningful programs in the future. "It isn't easy to come up with creative and realistic ways to teach skilled trades," explained Lortie. "But this project gave the students an opportunity to get real hands-on experience and create something lasting at the same time."

Barry Hughes, the Manager of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, was in complete agreement with Lortie. In his address to the gathering last Friday, Hughes reiterated Lortie's sentiments. "I am a firm believer in helping kids through school to work programs. When we built the first two cabins, I looked to the colleges, but I think this high school program will really help students find direction."

The eight students who took part in the program all agreed that it was a positive experience and that they learned a great deal.

Erynn Henry, a Seaway District High School student, referring to her teammates and instructor Dan Blanchet, stated, "We all became very close, and are like a big family now. It was a great experience, and I would recommend it to anyone. I feel confident now that I could build a cabin again even though I hadn't done anything like this before." Henry and her teammates each received two co-op credits and a world of experience for their participation in this pilot project.

The St. Lawrence Parks Commission would like to see between six to eight cabins in each of their six campsites which are located from Ivy Lea in the west to Glengarry in the east. "Maybe the cabins could be partially constructed in the high schools during the winter, and constructed by teams of students in the summer," suggested Lortie who was thrilled at the success of the program.

Both the Catholic District School Board and the St. Lawrence Parks Commission are interested in seeing this cooperation continue in the future.

Voluntary electricity blackout marks the 3rd anniversary of when the lights went out

BY PETER LOVE
ONTARIO'S CHIEF ENERGY CONSERVATION OFFICER

The August 14th 2003 Blackout has emerged as one of the most powerful instruments shaping our attitudes toward energy conservation in Ontario.

Just before 4:11 p.m. that day, the failure of three transmission lines in northern Ohio triggered a cascade of shutdowns at more than 100 generating stations throughout eight U.S. states and Ontario. Just nine seconds later, 50 million had the plugged pulled.

Wherever I speak about energy conservation, Ontarian's remind me about how this event taught them how much our everyday activities rely on a steady, secure supply of electricity, delivered safely into our homes, schools and businesses.

Ironically, the Blackout, caused by a natural event -- a falling tree -- not over consumption of electricity, reminded each of us what life would be like without electricity.

The summer of 2006 has given us even more opportunities to understand the importance of energy conservation when a new all-time record for electricity demand in Ontario was set on August 1st.

This year, a new phenomenon has emerged. Municipalities are accepting a Province-wide challenge to reduce energy consumption on the anniversary. This elegantly simple idea was proposed by the City of Woodstock, and is being adopted by other cities and towns such as Burlington, Guelph, London, Ottawa, Parry Sound and Owen Sound. Some communities will mark the day on Sunday and others on Monday the 14th. Go to www.city.woodstock.on.ca to learn more.

Here are some easy ways to reduce your electricity consumption and help meet the 4% reduction target of the voluntary blackout day:

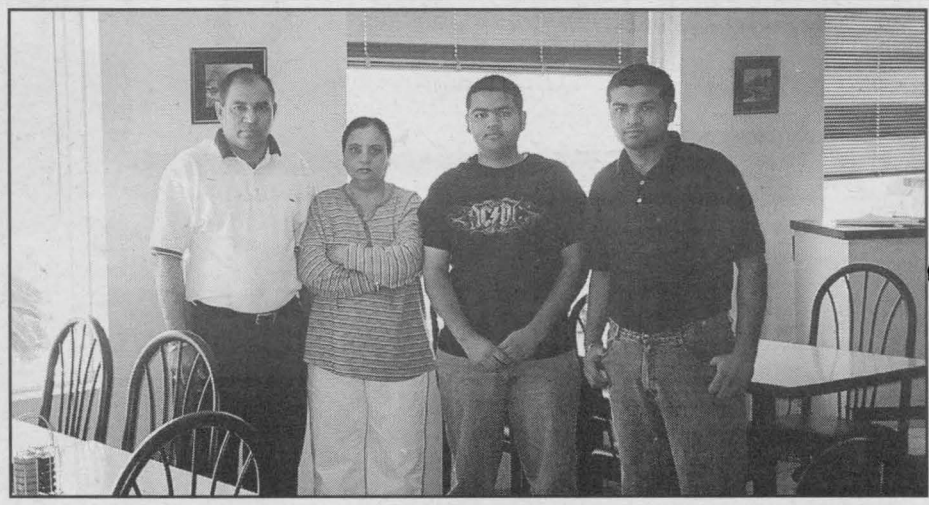
Turn up the thermostat two degrees - you will be just as comfortable. You'll save money on your air conditioning bill and decrease the demand on Ontario's power grid. Try fans instead of AC.

Let a programmable thermostat be your "energy caretaker" when you're not at home by regulating your cooling systems as needed.

Do the math...compact fluorescent bulbs are four times more efficient and last eight times as long. Use them whenever possible - even outside.

Pull the plug or turn off any lights, TVs and other appliances when they're not needed.

The Voluntary Blackout Day will try to reduce electricity use by 4%. If all municipalities in Ontario participated at this rate, Provincial demand would be cut by 845 megawatts, enough to power 680,000 homes. Whether your municipality formally marks this event is not important. Thinking twice before flipping the switch is.



Raj Kumar Batish is the new owner and operator of the 750 Truck Stop, which is located just north of Highway 401 at Morrisburg. Batish purchased the business six months ago and says his new venture is a family affair. His wife Krishna and sons Parteek and Puneet all share in the responsibilities of running the operation. They have made their home in Iroquois where they have lived for four months. Coming from the US, where they ran a similar business, they have found living in South Dundas a pleasant experience where people have welcomed them with friendship and support.
Batish emphasizes that the 750 Truck Stop offers competitive prices for gas and diesel. The newly renovated restaurant and convenience store has seen many improvements and Batish anticipates many more. Serving Canadian and Indian food he and his family invites everyone to experience the delights of a new menu and exceptional customer service. Canada Post puts its stamp on 50 years of modern graphic design

When even the most analytical minds are seduced by such visual things as paintings, prints, posters, and books and CD covers, the graphic designers know they have done their work well. On August 16, Canada Post will issue a domestic rate (51¢) stamp to mark the 50th anniversary of the founding of The Society of Graphic Designers of Canada (GDC), an organization whose members are professional exemplars in the field of graphic design.

Parents who have shared with their children the joy of Dennis Lee's poems as brought to life by the illustrations of Frank Newfield (one of the founders of the GDC), as found in the children's classic Alligator Pie, know intuitively why they are drawn again and again to this book. It is the same for youths and their parents who purchase CDs or books based on the cover artwork alone: they are drawn to the intangible made real.

The profession and art of graphic design originates from traditions and techniques in the industrial trades of printing, typesetting, illustration and typeface design. However, it was the establishment of the GDC as a professional society that allowed the unique skills of the modern graphic designer to emerge and develop.

When the Post Office Department (now Canada Post) established the Design Advisory Committee in 1969, the forerunner of the current Stamp Advisory Committee, the GDC played a key role in establishing the committee and its members have held positions on it throughout the years. Canada Post's own design evolved over those years and the early work done on it by GDC Fellow Paul Arthur, earned him the honour of being the only Canadian graphic designer to date to be awarded the Order of Canada.

GDC founders Leslie (Sam) Smart and John Gibson trained in Britain as typesetters. Their arrival in Canada did much to raise design standards and further awareness of typography as an expressive element on the page. They also brought with them a sense of the importance of membership in a professional design society. Today, the Society's mandate and membership is broader than ever before. The GDC is organized into regional chapters representing British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Atlantic Canada. The Association of Registered Graphic Designers of Ontario (RGD Ontario) is a member association of accredited graphic designers. Designers in Quebec are represented by the Société des designers graphiques du Québec (SDGQ). Membership is comprised of practicing professional graphic designers, design educators, design administrators, design students, associates in related fields and corporate sponsors. Members form a network of professional assistance that acts as a resource to the profession and the public.

This 50th anniversary stamp is the result of a collaborative effort between Rod Roodenburg, David Coates, and Len Yambot of Vancouver's Ion Design Inc. It is an intriguing piece of work, as the rather minimalist design features a stylized lower case "g" that also forms a unique graphic of a beaver, a treasured Canadian symbol and the subject of Canada's very first postage stamp. "When you first look at it," Coates says, "you see simple lines, you see the type treatment. But then you look closer and you see the other levels, you recognize the iconic aspects. That's what design is about."

The 51-cent stamp measures 32 mm x 45.5 mm. Lowe-Martin printed 2,500,000 stamps which will be available in panes of 16. The stamps were printed using lithography in six colours and P.V.A. gum on Tullis Russell Coatings paper. They are general tagged on all four sides.

The Official First Day Cover will read: TORONTO ON.

More bad news for South Dundas, Morrisburg and Iroquois.

In the first week of August, after the Tubie Festival in Morrisburg where all the world seemed to be moving along as we all expected it to.

Then came the news about the clousure of Hunt Builders.

Thirty-three employees were laid off, and as far as South Dundas is concerned, another industry has tried and failed to grow here.

Several months ago, South Dundas Mayor, Lyle Van Allen mentioned in a conversation that the realtionship between the Canadian and US dollar was having more of an impact on business along the Seaway than anyone was realizing.

At the time, I thought that the state of the Canadian dollar was only one of many contributing factors causing tough times for Canadian business throughout the country.

Now, after the news that the main reason cited for the Hunt Builders closure is economic and in particular the position of the Candian dollar as opposed to the American one, all is becoming clear.

If a business is weak in any way then it will be vulnerable to a number of problems and economic threats. A strong dollar feels great, but gives away any advantage gained through hard work to the competition.

A thought... from me to you

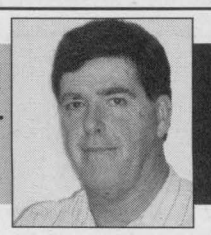
by Joseph Morin
Editor



For those few of us, and I have to admit that from time to time I am one of them, who have started to believe in the nonsense that government does nothing about any of the issues that we care about, we have to think again.

What triggered this brief moment of intense introspective thinking was the news that the City of Toronto was hosting the 16th International AIDS Conference.

Over 20,000 delegates are expected to arrive in Toronto over the next few days to take part in the conference that will run for a few days this week.

This year, the Ontario government will be spending $54 million on HIV related research, care and treatment, prevention and support services, including, according to the governments own press release, $3.25 million in ongoing HIV prevention programs. It seems that from a global perceptive, the threat and reality of AIDS is taken very seriously.

All of those delegates must represent a fair portion of the AIDS related industry and they also represent a great deal of brainpower.

Brainpower is always in demand and the fact that so many people have chosen to take on the AIDS issue on a global scale is a sign that people still are capable to do something.

On the home front in South Dundas, at least a million miles away from Toronto, local government is often thought of as being unresponsive to resident's demands.

What residents never see or hear is the debates, meetings and attention that local councillors, spend on local issues and demands.

Not unlike whoever arranged this latest AIDS conference, it appears that government is doing nothing and then surprise, they throw their weight and expertise behind a cause.

Despite all of the dire negative news, out there about just about everything you could imagine, perhaps not all is yet lost.

Government rarely does what you might want it to do but more often or not it does something. What politicians and civil servants end up doing may not be recognizable as what was first suggested to them, but something always happens.

The good news is that regardless of what any of us think, human nature tends to present itself in predictable ways. People do stuff. The tools that we use are always changing but inevitably, we do something about whatever has to be done.

The AIDS conference is another fine example of an issue that has to be dealt with. It is not really in the news but it has not been forgotten.

I think that all levels of government especially the two upper tiers, federal and provincial can do a better job than they do, but then again I have never had to walk in their shoes.

Whenever local people in this area decide to run for a spot at the South Dundas council table, the word on the "street" is usually one of "who cares." Well... we all should and while we are at it accept the fact that being a councillor anywhere in Ontario can be a pretty thankless job. More is done in South Dundas than most residents realize. South Dundas has challenges that many politicians in the country would quickly run away from.

Like the AIDS conference in Toronto, the operation, and maintenance of where we choose to live does not happen all by itself.

It is a comfort to know that there will always be people out there who can see things differently than you and I can, and act on what they see.

Hunt Builders announced last week that they would be shutting down operations by the end of the year. The strong Canadian dollar, high fuel costs, and the recent softwood lumber agreement all contributed to the lay-offs and imminent closure.

Sandra Bailey announces candidacy

Today I am announcing my intention to run for South Dundas Municipal Council the 2006 - 2010 term. As most people may be aware, I was elected to serve on the current council because of my deep concern over the decisions being made that affect our property taxes.

In all respects it has been an honour to represent the citizens of South Dundas over this last term, during which I feel that I was a positive voice to affect change.

As most people are aware there are many challenges ahead concerning our economic future in South Dundas, as recent developments have shown. If we expect to be a prosperous viable community, we must ensure that tax dollars are used wisely and I would like to be a part of that process. I am convinced that with the support of the community in this upcoming election, we can provide a good Municipal Government that is responsive to the best interests of the people who elected them.

We must begin the job of obtaining good value for each and every tax dollar collected, I believe that it is incumbent on our Municipal Council to be accountable and fiscally responsible and this should be our guiding principle. To this end, I look forward to the support of the good citizens of South Dundas in my bid for re-election.

Win free chocolate milk for a year

/CNW/ - Dairy Farmers of Canada today are offering parents a secret weapon to help combat their kids' late-summer boredom: the Brown Cow Kids' Club. To join the club, children and their parents can simply download the new Brown Cow Kids Club activity booklet for free by visiting www.dairy-goodness.ca. By completing the activities within the booklet, kids and their parents can uncover a secret code word that allows them entry into a contest to win a year's supply of free chocolate milk, just in time for the new school year!

The Brown Cow Kids Club booklet is full of fun chocolate milk recipes, word puzzles and activities that reinforce the message that chocolate milk is just as good for you as white milk.

"As the summer winds down, kids get antsy, so parents are always on the lookout for new and fun activities," says Fran Berkoff, Registered Dietitian, "The Brown Cow Kids Club booklet has fun recipes and activities that kids will enjoy, plus it gives kids a chance to win free chocolate milk for a year, which is exciting for the whole family!"

Nutritional analysis proves that chocolate milk is just as nutritious as white milk - it contains the same 15 essential nutrients found in white milk and has no more sugar than an equal amount of unsweetened orange juice.

"We know that soft drink consumption has risen significantly over the years, often at the expense of more nutritious beverages such as milk and real fruit juices," says Berkoff. "Keeping chocolate milk in the fridge is a win-win for everybody - kids love it and parents can rest easy knowing their children are getting necessary bone building nutrients and minerals. Chocolate milk is a parent's best friend."

Dairy Farmers of Canada (DFC) promotes the wholesome goodness of dairy products as part of a healthy, balanced diet. See contest rules and regulations available on website.

Poverty tied to child mortality in impoverished countries

The statistics on child mortality around the world are staggering. In the world's poorest countries, over 30,000 children under the age of five die each day from preventable causes related to conditions of extreme poverty. Rock Star Bono and others tried to call attention to this fact last year in television ads showing well-known celebrities snapping their fingers every three seconds, each snap representing another tragic child death. A baby girl born in Sub-Saharan Africa today faces a 22 percent risk of death by age 15, and more than a third of casualties are babies who don't survive their first month. They suffer from low birth weight due to their mothers' poor nutrition, and then lack access to adequate nutrition themselves. The World Health Organization says that poverty-related malnutrition is the key factor in over half of all childhood deaths. Many children suffer from debilitating infections virtually right out of the womb, and analysts say that often casualties could be prevented if just basic sanitation were available. Drinking-water pollution is a leading culprit. In areas that lack proper sanitation and that may have just one water source, supplies can easily become contaminated from bacteria in human waste and garbage. According to United Nations statistics, as many as four billion people--two-thirds of global population--lack access to safe, clean water. Concern from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation has spurred renewed efforts to increase education and distribute low-cost but needed tools such as antibiotics and sterile medical implements. "Some global health problems, like AIDS, have no easy solution--but this isn't one of them," says computer-geek-turned-philanthropist Bill Gates. "The world has an opportunity to stop millions of newborn deaths each year." Debt and population issues are also among the underlying causes of this global tragedy. Some poor nations must pay more in service of international loans than on the health and education of their people. Yielding to pressure from "Make Poverty History" advocates, leaders of the world's top industrialized nations last year agreed to cancel $40 billion in debt owed by the world's 18 poorest countries. However, experts point out that this only covers about a sixth of the debt owed, for example, by African nations. And birth rates continue to soar well above the replacement level of two children per couple, and population is growing well beyond the "carrying capacity" of these poor countries. This has a profound effect on the environment as well as on human misery. According to Population Action International (PAI), "More than 200 million women in the developing world today wish to delay or end childbearing but do not have access to modern and effective contraceptives."

Playhouse delivers lots of laughs at Tom, Dick, and Harry

BY ANDREA CARTIER
SPECIAL TO THE CHIEFTAIN

The Upper Canada Playhouse continues its tradition of offering an evening of good humour to audiences with its most recent play, Tom, Dick and Harry. With a larger cast than previous plays this summer, this new comedy written by Ray and Michael Cooney, is fast paced and will keeps the laughs coming.

On what is supposed to be the most important day of their married lives, Linda (Kathleen Egan Veinotte) and Tom (Jamie Williams) anxiously await the arrival of Mrs. Potter (Jill Harland) from the adoption agency. Mrs. Potter represents the last hurdle in the couple's quest to adopt a baby, and the two are determined to make a good impression.

Unfortunately, Tom's two brothers, Dick (Richard Bauer) and Harry (Brian Young) both arrive on the scene before Mrs. Potter, and manage to throw many wrenches in the works.

Smuggled cigarettes and liquor, stray body parts, and illegal aliens (Thea Nikolic and Walter Learning) are all thrown into the mix, as poor Tom struggles to keep a lid on things. To make matters worse, Constable Downs (Doug Tangney) contrives to pop up at the most inopportune moments, and a mafia figure, in the person of Boris (Victor Cornfoot) adds to the confusion. By the end of the play the audience is hoping desperately that Tom finds a way out of the tangle he and his brothers have created, but quite unsure how it will be possible.

The timing in this play is impeccable, and the word play is truly hilarious. At times, the action is choreographed to perfection, adding to the hilarity. The actors do an amazing job of maintaining the quick pace of dialogue and action, and keep the audience in stitches from the beginning to the end of the play. Arguably the funniest show yet this season, Tom, Dick and Harry is a must see. The play runs from August 12 to September 3, but according to Artistic Director Donnie Bowes seats are selling quickly this season, so book your tickets soon.

Agriculture products are used just about everywhere

In the last couple of issues we have looked at agriculture from the perspective of putting food on the table but there really is so much more to the industry. What's the first thing that comes to mind when you think of agriculture? Perhaps it's cornfields and big harvesting machines. Maybe cows grazing in the fields or a country kitchen filled with the sweet aroma of freshly baked pies. When thinking of agriculture, it's not likely you'd have the image of shaving cream or kitty litter or a host of other everyday items that are made from agriculture products. The following are some examples of how agriculture touches your life, from the games you play to the homes you build, agricultural products are everywhere.

The whey from milk adds texture to bath products. A variety of bath products may contain some Vitamin E from wheat, oat starch from flax, and fatty acids from cattle. A lot of agricultural products help you relax. Beeswax is used in many cosmetics, including lipstick, mascara and cleaning creams. Wheat protein is added to some brands of cosmetics, including nail polish and mascara. Cornstarch from corn and glycerin from canola oil are used to make toothpaste and help give it a smooth texture. Sheep provide wool to make sweaters, felt to make mittens, quilt batting. Sheep also provide lanolin, a natural oil, which is used in skin care products. Canola oil is added to sun-tanning products. Parts of the oat kernel are sometimes added to sunscreens as well.

Tallow from cattle is used to make synthetic rubber. This is used in tires on our cars, trucks, bikes, etc. Cornstarch is used in the porcelain of sparkplugs, which helps make them work. Flax fibres are used to replace fiberglass in door panels in BMW's. They make the doors strong and lightweight so they help with fuel economy. They are also biodegradable so they can be recycled. Corn and wheat is used to produce gasoline, especially low protein, high starch wheat. It is fermented to produce ethanol, which is used in the fuel. Corn provides cornstarch that is used in airbags. It keeps the plastic from sticking to itself so that the bag will inflate rapidly. The linseed oil from flax is used in the linings for the brakes of our cars. We can find linseed oil in many things. Cornstarch is used in power steering fluid as a supplement to give it a consistency.

Linseed oil from flaxseed is used to make linoleum for floors and it is also is used to make patent leather shoes shiny. Cornstarch, made from the corn kernel, is used in disposable dishes. Ostrich feathers are able to attract more dust than any synthetic dusters.

Dried plant parts including stems, leaves, and flowers are made from fish food. Extracts removed from oats are used in skin care products for humans and pets. Oat-based lotions and creams reduce redness and skin irritation. The pet shampoo is soap-free so preserves natural skin oils and moisture while treating dry, itchy and scaling skin.

The leather from the hides of cattle is used to make a wide variety of leather products including purses, gloves, wallets, briefcases, etc. Footballs are made from pigskin. Leather from pigs is also used to make vests, skirts, briefcases, and other leather products. It takes 3000 pigs to supply enough leather for the footballs used in one professional season. Volleyballs are also made of leather from hides of hogs. Horsehair and pig hair are both known to have been used in the making of curling brooms.

Chalk, for the classroom, comes from glycerin that is made from the fat taken from cattle carcasses. Crayons are made from the fibres in soybeans. Ink for newspapers and magazines are made with canola oil. What crop stem is biodegradable in the field and also used to make paper and boards? It is straw, which is collected from behind the combine then baled and hauled to a processing plant. Glues and adhesives are made from the skin, hides and connective tissues in cattle. Packing tape and glues may also be made from corn.

What plant oil is used to remove ice from the wings of planes? When canola oil is removed from the seed, it is divided into fatty acids and glycerin. The glycerin is used in making a deicing compound for the airplane industry. Cattle fat contains a triglyceride called azelaic acid, which is used to form products such as high performance coatings for airplanes and automobiles. What plant oil is used for the oil-based barn paints? It is flaxseed, a rich source of linseed oil, which is the major ingredient in oil-based paints.

Gelatin comes from collagen, which is the major protein in skin, bones, hides from cattle. It is used to make coloured paper and x-ray products as well as instant photographic film. Gelatin is used to make chewing gum, marshmallows as well as gel capsules for pharmaceuticals. Agar is the gel in a Petri dish that provides the food for bacteria to grow. It can be made from the blood of sheep and horses. It is used in medical tests. Estrogen (a hormone) is removed from the urine of pregnant horses. It is purified and used in the manufacture of birth control pills.

Wheat is just one of any number of agricultural products that are used in a variety of ways in our daily life.

Cornstarch is removed from kernels of corn and it is used in the making of explosives and fireworks. Fatty acids from beef are used to make hard plastic such as that of football helmets. These fatty acids are also used to make synthetic rubber for tires, PVC pipes, soaps, lubricants, high performance greases and brake fluid. Flaxseed oil (also called linseed oil) is used as a sealant. It prevents water and salts from penetrating the road.

It is also used to preserve concrete surfaces. It stabilizes the smooth concrete surfaces in parking structures, bridges and buildings.

Under pressure to increase production and quality, farmers have turned to science and technology. In fact, it is difficult to think of another sector encompassing more science than agriculture. It involves plant, animal and molecular biology, chemistry, physics, genetics, nutrition, animal behaviour, soil study, water, climate, not to mention, the history of science and technology.

Riverside Major Boys win season and tournament

BY ANDREA CARTIER
SPECIAL TO THE CHIEFTAIN

In a season ending tournament, the Riverside Major Boys baseball team defeated Prescott in the finals to win the Upper Canada Little League Championship. This tournament win capped a great season which saw the Riverside team finish regular play in first place.

The tournament was held in Morrisburg this past weekend with the six league teams participating. The teams were pooled according to their regular season play finishing positions. Pool A consisted of first place Riverside, fourth place Winchester #1, and fifth place Winchester #2. On Friday, August 11, Riverside defeated Winchester #1 by a score of 11 to 6. Pool B was made up of second place Morrisburg, third place Prescott, and sixth place Kemptville. Prescott defeated Morrisburg on Friday evening by a score of 12 to 6.

Play continued on Saturday morning with Winchester #2 defeating Riverside 8 to 4, Morrisburg beating Kemptville 10 to 3, Winchester #2 shutting out Winchester #1 10 to 0, and Prescott besting Kemptville 11 to 0.

Semi-final play began at noon on Saturday, and saw Morrisburg meeting Prescott, and Riverside matched up against Winchester #2. Prescott kept Morrisburg to a single run, and won their game 14 to 1 in order to move on to the Championship game. Riverside came back from an early 6 to 1 deficit to defeat Winchester #2 by a score of 7 to 6 in order qualify for the Championship match.

The final game between Riverside and Prescott was a tightly fought match, with Riverside taking an early lead, but Prescott coming within 1 run before the game ended in the sixth inning with a score of 7 to 6. The Riverside team, coached by Jeff Fowler and Darrin Mullin, was happy to finish the season with the trophy in hand after a summer of great baseball. The Riverside team consisted of Enoch Schizkoske, Cassy Schizkoske, Curtis Fowler, Cory Fowler, Cole Fowler, Konnor Mullin, Dustin Blok, Evan Helmkay, Luc Plamondon, Jason Armstrong, and Shane Barkley.

In the second round of elimination play-offs, the Iroquois #2 Senior Girls defeated rivals Iroquois #1 to go on to the championship round. In a tightly fought battle played last Thursday evening, Iroquois #2 went into the top of the seventh inning with a 1 run lead and scored 6 runs to secure the win. The final score of the game was Iroquois #2 with 20 runs, and Iroquois #1 with 13. This victory means that Iroquois #2 will meet Chesterville for a best of three play-off series starting on Wednesday, August 16 at the Iroquois West Diamond at 7 pm.

Regular season play saw Iroquois #1 finish in first place. According to team coach, Teresa Velt Kamp, this was particularly impressive because most of her team was made up of 13 year old girls who should have been playing in the Major Girls division."We had a really great season. All the girls were eager to play and showed up for their games at least a half hour before start time. I am very proud of their 1st place finish in league play." One of the highlights of the Iroquois #1 teams season was winning the championship in a tournament played earlier this summer in Athens. Iroquois #1 moved on to the second round of the play-offs by defeating Morrisburg 16 to 5.

Iroquois #2 team finished the season in 5th place in regular season play, and defeated the 4th place team, Winchester #1 to advance to last Thursday's play-off game against Iroquois #1. "It just goes to show that anything can happen in the play-offs," stated Lisa Gibson, coach of Iroquois #2. "The championship series is being played between the 5th place and 7th place finishers."

Game 2 of the play-off series will be played on Thursday, August 17 on the Iroquois West Diamond at 7 pm, and a third game, if necessary, will be played at the same time and place on Friday, August 18.

Integrated Minimum Distance Separation Formulas

/CNW/ - The Ontario government is putting in place clear land-use planning tools that strengthen rural communities and the agricultural sector, Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs Leona Dombrowsky announced today.

"The McGuinty government is helping livestock farmers and their neighbours across the province by introducing clearer, more consistent rules for land use," Dombrowsky said. "By acting on the advice of the Agricultural Advisory Team, we are also giving better planning guidance to municipalities."

The government is improving Minimum Distance Separation (MDS) formulas that are used to determine recommended distances between a livestock or permanent manure storage facility and another land use. The objective of MDS is to prevent land use conflicts and minimize nuisance complaints from odour.

The agricultural community, municipal building officials, land-use planners and the public were consulted during the development of the revised formulas. "Our organization fully supports the improvements the ministry has made to the MDS formulas," said Ron Bonnett, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture. "Efforts that result in a better understanding of the MDS, and more consistent application of it, will benefit all rural property owners, not only farmers."

The changes to the MDS formulas are intended to ensure fairness in their use for farm operators, rural property owners and proponents of new development.

Dingwall worked his way to the front quickly challenging Dave Heaslip for the lead and taking the top spot with a power outside move to grab the number one position. Dingwall saw his lead shrink in the closing laps as Heaslip and Stephane LaFrance closed in to within tenths of a second but the outstanding second year Modified pilot from Brockville held them off for the victory. Lee Ladouceur followed LaFrance across the line in fourth with Brian McDonald rounding out the top five.

The win increased Dingwall's lead to 30 points over Chris Jones heading into next week. Jones finished 12th which was good enough for him to win the four race Doiron Engineering Cup series.

A wild and wooly final lap and half saw Stephane Lebrun grab his first Pro Stock feature win. Lebrun was second when Roch Aubin got crossed up in lapped traffic.

Benedict was again able to increase his points lead over Joey Ladouceur in the process.

Marc Lalonde and his high school students celebrated their first win in the 15 lap Semi Pro event. Lalonde used the car built by the students to hold off Nathan Delormier. Delormier failed tech after the race handing second spot to Guy Viens. Jack Johnson, Peter Stapper and Ryan Phillips were third through fifth respectively. The race was red flagged with a lap to go after a spectacular flip involving the 28x car of Marco Lalonde. Lalonde was sporting a limp after the mishap but was otherwise okay.

Corey Wheeler picked up his second Rookie Expert win of the year. This time he got to celebrate it in victory lane as he dominated from start to finish of the 12 lap event rather than winning after the tech checks were made the last time. Wheeler beat a fast closing Jeremy Levac and JP Laberge to the line. Michael Blais took the 12 lap Rookie Novice feature run over Mike Gaucher and Joey St. Louis.

Cornwall Motor Speedway has a doubleheader of cart action planned this week with outings on both Tuesday and Thursday nights. The big boys return to the track on Sunday night, August 20th with the final event in the Express Gas Series for Pro Stocks. In addition to that 50 lap affair, the Modifieds, Semi Pros and Rookies will all be in action. The green flag drops at 7pm.

Rogers wires field for first ever Modified win at Brockville

Bryan Rogers has been on the verge of a feature win for the last three seasons at Brockville Ontario Speedway. He came very close last year leading until a mechanical failure with two laps remaining. Rogers finally was able to taste victory leading all 30 laps on Saturday night for his first career 358 Modified victory at the Beast of the East.

Rogers jumped into the lead on the first lap on a very fast quarter mile, little did he know then, the next time he would slow down would be as he crossed the finish line just over 9 minutes later after recieving the checkered flag. There were some late scares in lapped traffic, there were near cautions, and then there was that black car suddenly on the back bumper for the final few laps. Danny O Brien made another one of his patented Brockville charges, working his way methodically through the field and catching Rogers with 3 laps remaining. However, O Brien couldn't find a way to get around Rogers and this time the Pocket Rocket had to settle for second spot. John Mulder was a solid third followed by Chico Dingwall and Todd Stewart.

There was almost a first time winner in the 20 lap Sportsman feature that also ran green to checkered. Bob Albright led the first 19 laps only to have 15 year old teenager Bobby Herrington get by on the final lap to snatch his second feature win of the season. Jason Riddell also got by on the last circuit to score second in front of Albright, Ryan Poole and Tyler Rand, who impressed in his Bicknell chassis acquired this week.

Adam Turner kept his Street Stock title hopes alive. Turner borrowed the backup car of Dana Aikens and drove it into victory lane in the 15 lap main event easily outdistancing Jack Code who held off brother Billy for second. Peter Stapper and Steve Billings rounded out the fast five.

Josh Kane made his 5th visit to the winner's circle this season taking the 16 lap Rookie feature, after a couple of rocky outings in a row. Brad Banks was next across the line followed by Adam Trickey, Steve Barber and Shawn Sullivan. John McNamee held off Ben Tucker to grab the 15 lap Vintage car shootout with Denzil Billings finishing third.

Brockville Ontario Speedway returns to action next Saturday night, August 19th with the return of the popular winged warriors the Empire Super Sprints. This is the only visit of 2006 by the ESS tour to Brockville, so fans will want to arrive early to grab a seat for the 7pm start.

Province gives green light to 2.6 percent rent increase for Ontario in 2007

/CNW/ - The Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing today released the province's rent increase guideline for 2007. The 2007 guideline will be 2.6 per cent, the third-lowest guideline in the history of rent regulation in Ontario.

The annual guideline is the maximum amount that most landlords can increase a tenant's rent without making an application to the Ontario Rental Housing Tribunal. Most tenants in Ontario receive an annual rent increase that is at or below the rent increase guideline.

The 2007 guideline reflects increases in landlord operating costs. Thetable showing the individual operating cost increases in the 2007 Rent Increase Guideline will be published in an upcoming edition of the Ontario Gazette.

Chesterville Bridal Boutique has new owner

Welcome to the new Bridals by Al Mor in the charming little village of Chesterville, Ontario. Kimberley Carruthers is the proud new owner of this bridal boutique that has built up a strong reputation in the area over the past fifteen years under the guidance of its previous owners, Joyce & Alan Sharkey.

Kim has extensive experience in the retail sector and received her Fashion Merchandising & Retail Management Diploma from Centennial College in Toronto.

She worked with Joyce for the past two years learning the bridal business all the while keeping up with her busy family as well as her and her husband Craig's other business, E.C. Carruthers Utility Construction. When Joyce & Alan were ready to move on to their new enterprise (selling wedding gowns & jewelry wholesale) Kim was eager to take on this new challenge. Kim has surrounded herself with an energetic and professional team to help her achieve her vision of developing a one-stop bridal salon of exceptional quality and service to meet all of her bridal customers needs from the gown, dresses and accessories to invitations, tuxedos and jewelry.

Along with Kim, Kristie Billings is a senior Bridal Consultant and has approximately 5 years of retail experience, 2 years at Bridals by Al Mor. Kim's sales team is rounded out by part time staffers, Christina Carruthers and Deborah Vetter.

Bridals also has three experienced seamstresses in-store to ensure every outfit that leaves the store is perfect. Sharon Anderegg is her Girl Friday keeping the books up-to-date as well as updating the store's website, which can be found at www.bridalsupplies.com.

Kim is also excited to have Wendy Byers of Marion's Flowers in-store to look after all the silk floral arrangements of Bridals' wedding parties.

This business was established over twenty years ago and Wendy herself has over ten years of design experience.

A variety of wedding packages are available and each one is created to compliment the bride's individual style.

Julie Huybregts of Jewels Esthetics has just joined the Bridals by Al Mor group and will be the Brides' best friend when it comes to manicures, gel nails, facials, etc. all those little things that make the Bride feel relaxed and special on her wedding day.

This coming Saturday Kim and her team will be hosting an "open house" to celebrate their store expansion and new look. She will take this opportunity to thank everyone who joined them in the celebration and is looking forward to serving the area for many years to come.

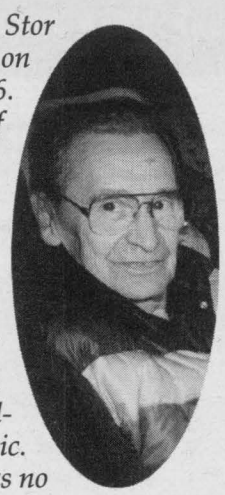
Obituary
Balint, Peter Geza



Peacefully at the Glen Stor Dun Lodge, Cornwall on Saturday, August 5, 2006. Peter Balint formerly of Iroquois in his 85th year. Dearly beloved husband of the late Anna Balint. Loving father of Judy (Thomas) Milner of Regina. Survived by a sister Eszter Wald of Budapest, Hungary. Sadly missed by 2 grandchildren Natalya and Eric. At Peter's request there was no visitation or funeral service. Burial at Iroquois Point Cemetery.

Thank You

To our Friends and Acquaintances in the South Dundas Community

We want to thank you. While this message might have come sooner, this was not possible for us until now, and for that we beg your understanding and forgiveness.

The loss of a child, however young or old, is possibly the worst fear and the worst pain that loving, caring parents can experience. To experience this loss of our son, Justin, has been, and continues to be, very difficult for us, indeed. To have experienced it alone and without the support, caring and sharing of family, friends and acquaintances would have been almost unimaginably worse.

Our local community has been, and continues to be, nothing less that absolutely wonderful in the truly caring and compassionate support we have received from its people. We learned of Justin's death at 4:30 in the morning and, without our having called anyone, food platters started arriving by 9:30, and friends in the community kept us (and those who visited) supplied throughout the period up to and through the wake, the funeral, the reception and the immediate periods following. This aspect is but one of the many ways in which the caring, compassion and support of the community was offered so abundantly during the most difficult hours and days. Many came to us, and many more found other ways of sharing good spirit. Your love, respect and support as a community have been an emotional inspiration for us, and a very large and truly beautiful part of a spiritual foundation, from which we have been able to try to direct ourselves on a path of recovery from that inestimable loss.

We need to mention especially our St. Mary's/St. Cecilia's Parish community, the staffs of Ross Video, the Bank of Montreal (from across the entire region) and Pricedex in Brockville, who came out 'en masse' to express their respect and condolences, and also those many of Justin's own friends, associates, neighbours and former neighbours, whom we had not previously had the pleasure to meet. We also want to mention and express, once again, our deep gratitude to Fr. Robert Chisholm, Fr. Tim Shea, Jeff Marshall, Bob Burgess and the joint parish choir members, Rejeanne de Puyjalon, our beautiful young altar servers and the Knights of Columbus for their combined contributions to making the funeral the very beautiful and memorable rite of passage that it was. Special thanks also to David Lapier for his invaluable personal guidance, and to both he and his staff for the very capable, knowledgeable and sensitive management of the various formal arrangements.

We are resigned to the fact that words cannot adequately express our gratitude and deep appreciation for your love and support. We can only hope and pray that our words, in these respects, will lead you, in your own minds and hearts, to be able to feel this even deeper understanding and recognition - that we did, indeed, receive that love and support, as fully and truly as you intended. Your intentions that your personal expressions and actions would, by sharing, serve to lighten our burden, lessen our sorrow and enable us to cope, were entirely fulfilled. We are truly grateful and continue to be sustained by the love and compassion you have shared with us.

We are also resigned to the fact that, to communicate our thanks individually to everyone who contributed in these ways, is also a practical impossibility. In that regard, we do hope this message will reach all of you, either directly, or indirectly through mention by you, one to another. Please know, and feel fulfilled in the knowledge that what you gave to us was, in fact, received, and that what you intended for us, in terms of recovery, is firmly on the road to being realized.

Thank you all for being with us, for your prayers and good wishes, and for caring to help us through.

Les, Catherine and Terry O'Reilly

Vintage OC Transpo bus rides newest feature at Upper Canada Village's Antique Car Festival

This past weekend Upper Canada Village and the Cornwall Olde Car Club presented an Antique Car Show featuring over 500 vintage vehicles, including antique OC Transpo buses.

The Antique Car Show featured a collection of antique and classic cars from a variety of clubs throughout the region, alongside a special display of 19th century wagons and carriages. These vintage vehicles were on display for public viewing west of the miniature train outside of the Village. Owners of antique or classic cars were welcome to participate in the show and the first 300 cars to register the day of the event received a collector car plaque.

For the first time, OC Transpo brought three antique buses to the site with free rides being offered in the afternoon around the Queen Elizabeth Gardens. Visitors were also able to participate in the People's Choice Award throughout the day and a number of different trophies were awarded at a special ceremony at 3:00 p.m. Admission to the Antique Car Show outside of the Village was free, and many area residents and visitors took advantage of the good weather to take a look at an impressive display of antiques.

As an enhancement to the Car Show, visitors could also choose to make a visit to Upper Canada Village part of their day and witness the transportation of an 1860s rural community in action. The Transportation Museum at Loucks Farm also offered visitors the opportunity to learn about the progression of various modes of travel.

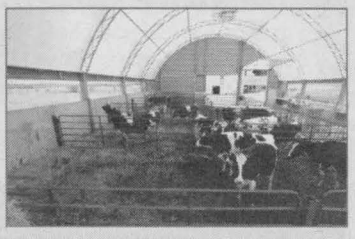
Another Great COVER-ALL



Congratulations to Oakhill Farms

Jorg, Liselotte and Manuela Eichelberger

Owners of a 50' x 84' Dry Cow & Heifer Facility

"We were originally going to put up a conventional building. After looking at Cover-All's, we really liked the light and the fresh air. We figured there was about a 30% difference in price, which we were very pleased with." – Jorg Eichelberger
