DUNDAS-GRENVILLE PRESBYTERY MEETS

ALL MEMBERS WERE PRESENT AND A LARGE DOCKET OF BUSINESS DISPENSED WITH

The Dundas-Grenville Presbytery of the United Church met in St. Andrew's Church, Hallville, yesterday, Revs. R. E. Newman and H. M. Beach, Chairman and Secretary, in charge.

Devotions were conducted by Rev. John MacKay of Winchester. A lengthy docket of business was gone through with extending into an evening session. There was a full attendance of ministers and laymen. The following attended from Winchester: Rev. John MacKay, Messrs. E. M. Shaver, Melvin Dawley, John A. Carkner, N. W. Beach, W. J. Stewart.

Mr. R. J. Ellis, of Iroquois, made an appeal for support of the Ontario Prohibition Union and announced a meeting of Dundas County Executive to be held at Winchester Springs, on Monday, May 1, at 2 p.m. The report of Home Missions was given by Rev. E. Lacey, of Augusta. Foreign Missions' report given by Rev. A. L. Sisco, Cardinal, announced Sunday, June 18, as a special day in the churches when the work of the Japan Mission is to be featured. Report of Pensions was read by Rev. D. N. Cobrun, Prescott.

In the afternoon ministerial and lay sessions were held in which routine business having to do with the coming June meeting of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference was transacted. Maintenance and Missionary Fund was reported by the Convener, Rev. H. L. Morrison, Kemptville, and Dr. William Munro, Montreal, Conference and M. and M. Fund Secretary addressed the court. It was announced that an appeal will be made to the families of our churches to give a cent a meal to the missionary work of our church as a means of making possible the continued maintenance of our work. Special boxes will be donated for this purpose. It was explained that if the 429,000 families of our church should adopt this method a revenue of over 4 million dollars would be forthcoming. The Presbytery adopted the plan and recommends it to the congregations.

The Religious Education report was given by Rev. John MacKay and included announcement of the following special events: Girls' Conference Winchester, Saturday and Sunday, Apr 29 and 30. Mother's Day, May 14th; Boys' Camp at Broder Island beginning July 7th. Girls' Camp, Broder Island, July 15 (tentative dates; Point Iroquois Summer School, beginning Sunday, July 2; Young People's Summer School, L'Orignal, Ontario, Aug. 9 to 19; Westward Training College, Drummond Street Y.M.C.A., Montreal, July 15 to August 26.

Social Service and Evangelism Report given by Rev. W. R. Johnston, South Mountain, contained a resolution urging support of the Lord's Day Alliance in its endeavor to uphold Sunday as a day for rest and worship, a resolution commending the Parliament of Canada on its stand in refusing to legalize sweepstakes Rev. W. G. A. Wilson of Brinston, gave an encouraging report of the Ontario Prohibition Union Convention held recently in Toronto.

After supper a very interesting discussion on the spiritual mission of the church was conducted by Rev. R. E. Newman. Thanks were extended the people of Hallville for their fine hospitality. The next meeting will be held in Montreal during Conference week.

NURSES HERE

Two Provincial nurses, Misses E. Bagshaw and B. E. Johnston, have been in Winchester for some days making a survey of this district and inspecting children as to their general health, as outlined in the Press a couple of weeks ago. They are sent out by the Minister of Health at Toronto. They will visit the homes of this section.

50 German Passengers Here This Saturday

ARE ALL NOTED SINGERS

With the intention of settling in Winchester, 50 German passengers direct from Hamburg, Germany, will be here at T. O. Keyes' General Store this Saturday. They are not looking for work, but would like to be adopted by local residents, in return for which they are prepared to make life bright and cheery with their beautiful trained singing voices.

Reeve Ross and his colleagues must not feel uneasy, as these singing passengers are the pick of German stock, the finest lot of genuine imported German canaries ever to arrive in this country.

This is your chance to secure that German singer that you have always wanted. They will be sold as low as $4.95. In the lot are 6 Opera Singers at higher prices, and five German henbirds, ready for breeding at $1.75 each. A written guarantee goes with every canary sold. The newest styles in bird cages and stands will also be on sale at remarkably low prices.

Also a nice display of fancy gold fish, etc.

The sale will be held at T. O. Keyes' General Store from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m. by Mr. Fletcher Bradley, the well known importer who has been in this business for 25 years. Mr. Bradley's wholesale and retail taxidermist and pet shop is located at 152 Bank St., Ottawa.

If you want one of these singers, and happen to be short of cash today, come and ask us about our special plan.

LOCAL 100 CLUB DOING GOOD WORK

CRIPPLED CHILDREN ARE BEING GIVEN ATTENTION—OTHER ASSISTANCE ALSO BEING RENDERED

As has been explained in the Press the chief purpose of the 100 Club is to do good to others less fortunate than themselves. With this in view the Winchester Club recently appointed a committee composed of Magistrate McCormick, Mr. Rowatt of the Royal Bank and Mr. Singleton of Hotel Winchester to see if there were any cases in this community of deformed or crippled children or those who needed other attention. The committee have made several trips through the district, and as one of them expressed it "found conditions that one could hardly believe existed in a Christian land." We will not go into detail, but from what the Press knows, and what the Press is told, while concerts and entertainments to raise mission funds may be all right, there is plenty of real work for those who profess to have the missionary spirit right here in our midst. The committee of the 100 Club has only begun its work, but they have three or four cases of children who are crippled, deformed or whose eyes need attention.

The Provincial nurses will probably find many more, and assistance rendered. The deplorable part is that the parents seem so indifferent. Yes, there is much cause for active missionary work right here in our own community.

OLD MAN HURT

Under the impression that he was making for an exit from the building, John Russell, 73 year old Glen Brook farmer, walked into the elevator well in the cotton storehouse of the Canada Mill of Canadian Cottons Ltd. at Cornwall last Friday afternoon. Before he was aware of his danger, he elevator had descended upon him. His head was caught between the framework of th elevator platform and the floor and he suffered a double fracture of the jaw and other injuries. He is lying at Hotel Dieu Hospital today in a critical condition.

English Pheasants Are Distributed

Several crates of pheasants arrived at the C.P.R. depot here on Tuesday, addressed to the reeves of the different municipalities. They came from the Cordington Bird Farm near Brighton, Ont., and were sent at the request of Hon. Mr. Challies, Minister of Game and Fisheries. Those beautiful birds will be distributed throughout the County, and under the protection of farmers who are chosen by the several reeves for that purpose. Those that came to Winchester were put in the care of Mr. Geo. C. Merkley, Nation Valley, and will be taken care of by him. Any one found shooting or in any way annoying the pheasants will be severely dealt with, as there is a law protecting them. These beautiful birds are intended to inhabit our forests, and they need protection, especially as they are not as wild as the partridge and are inclined to be domesticated.

A LAST CHANCE!

This week ends the special discount offer made by the Press to delinquent subscribers. After Saturday, subscribers in arrears for two or more years will be struck off our list and the accounts handed to our collecting agent. Some have come in and asked time, and time has been given. Others have promised to pay in the near future, and they have been granted time. But there are some who have completely ignored our offer, and those are the ones who will be struck off our list. We are glad to say that they number less than one hundred, but one hundred multiplied by five, is $500 to us. We do not wish to offend anyone, and there is more of the give and take spirit in us than is for our financial good, but these are hard times and we know it as well as you do. Remember, Saturday, 29th, ends our special discount offer.

Her 97th Birthday

Congratulations to Mrs. Andrew Timmins, who on Saturday last, 22nd of April, celebrated her 97th birthday in her home here, and with a few of her immediate friends. No lady in this County has had a more interesting experience, endured the hardships of pioneer life, and not only brought up a family, but has during all her life been a faithful member and worker in the old Methodist, and now the United Church. She was in her pew on Sunday last having walked from her home to the Church without even the aid of a cane. She may be seen almost any day on the street, and no one to see her as she walks unaided, and knowing just where she is going, would ever imagine that Mrs. Timmins had just celebrated her 97th birthday. Her's is a most interesting story of pioneer life in Dundas County, and the Press a few years ago gave a very full account of her life. A dear old lady, always thoughtful of others, never losing her self control, always adhering to the old religious customs and observances with charity toward all and malice toward none. What a living example of true womanhood, motherhood and citizenship.

C. G. I. T. MEET HERE THIS WEEK

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS ARE MADE FOR ENTERTAINING DELEGATES

Final arrangements for the Teenage Girls' Conference have been completed. The girls will meet for registration in the United Church at 9.30 Saturday morning and the morning and afternoon meetings will be held in the United Church. At 6 o'clock they will meet in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, where the banquet and evening programme will be held. On Sunday morning the girls will attend church with their hostesses and the afternoon closing meeting will be held in the Baptist Church at 3 o'clock. This will be the only public meeting, the others will only be open to teen age girls, and leaders of C.G.I.T. and Girls' Sunday Classes.

NOT CORRECT

The report that Mr. Joseph Robinson and his gang of men, who have so efficiently looked after the north section of Highway 31, were to be laid off is not correct. They will continue their work as usual.

GET YOUR PERMIT

The car driver who neglects to purchase his permit is taking a long chance, and will, if brought before the Magistrate, likely be denied the privilege of driving for some time. The fine is quite an item too, and it pays to carry your permit with you.

HOLD SPIRITUAL RETREAT

Anglican, Presbyterian and United "spiritual retreat" in the hall of St. Andrew's United Church, Hallville, on Tuesday. It was conducted by Rev. Hubert Browne, of St. Barnabas Angican Church, Ottawa, and denominational lines were forgotten at the gathering. Rev. E. Newman, chairman of the Dundas-Grenville Presbytery, introduced Mr. Browne, who then took charge.

INVESTIGATING ACCIDENT

Following investigations into a traffic accident just north of Winchester station on the Morrisburg and Ottawa highway, when a truck driven by Wm. Thomas, of the Fraser Duntile Co., of Westboro, collided with an express wagon seriously injuring Stanley Raistrick, two charges have been laid by Provincial Traffic Eugene Rose, a charge of reckless driving against William Thomas and a second charge against the Duntile company for allowing a vehicle to be operated on the highway with defective brakes.

CHESTERVILLE MAN HURT

Mr. Dan McKercher had the misfortune on Saturday last of fracturing his right ankle while at work. He is employed at the Chesterville station and after loading some freight on a wagon he jumped off the platform and fell to the ground. He was taken to his home where Dr. H. H. Casselman was called. It will be some weeks before Mr. McKercher will be able to resume his duties.

Will Banquet Municipal Officers

According to his established custom, Hon. George H. Challies, Provincial Secretary and member for Dundas County, has invited the Reeves, Deputy Reeves and municipal officials to meet him at St. Lawrence Hall, Morrisburg, on the evening of May 5th, at a banquet, and discuss with them municipal and provincial affairs. It is a get-together meeting that gives each municipal representative an opportunity to lay before the Provincial Secretary their views on provincial affairs, and guide him in his desire to meet the wishes of his constituents.

NOT THIS YEAR

The space at the curve just West of Winchester between the Mountain road and Highway No. 31 will not be beautified this year. The objectionable debris has been removed, but there will be no filling in, no planting of shrubs, no flower beds this year. The spirit of economy by the Highways Dept. at Toronto has cut down every unnecessary expense. No one blames them. The Press is assured that if things "loosen up" by next year the necessary improvements will be made.

63 Years In Business

Its a long time for a man to be in business, in the same town, same store, and yet it is just 63 years ago that our old friend and best citizen, Mr. Aaron Sweet started in business in Winchester. He is known by everyone in the section, and has hosts of friends. He has not changed much, except that his hair and goatee has turned a little gray. But his eyes have lost none of their brilliancy, his step, while not what might be called elastic, is nevertheless quick, firm and steady, and his love for a good story is as keen as in the days of away back when on stormy nights a few cronies would gather about the big box wood stove in his store, and spin their yarns. Mr. Sweet was born in Hemmingford, Que., and arrived in Morrisburg on the 1st of May, to clerk for his uncle the late Andrew Broder, who for so many years represented this County in the Ontario Legislature and Dominion Parliament. The Press join his many friends in best wishes for many more years of active business life.

Wesleyan Methodist Annual Meeting

REPORTS FOR YEAR ARE RECEIVED AND ARE VERY ENCOURAGING

The annual meeting of Wesleyan Church, Winchester, was held on Monday evening with Rev. D. W. Summers, pastor, presiding.

The treasurer's report showed a credit balance with all debts paid, and seven new members were enrolled in the past year.

Mr. Summers received a unanimous invitation to continue as pastor of the church for 1933.

Officers elected were: Board of Stewards, Almon G. Summers, Robert Rennick and Rowatt Jones. Musical committee, Mrs. D. W. Summers, Miss Bessie Rennick and Miss Minnie Summers; treasurer, Mrs. L. A. Summers; secretary. Miss Bessie Rennick.

Sunday school board, Rev. Mr. Summers, superintendent, James Gordon; members of the board, Clarence Deeks, S. Leason, Mrs. D. W. Summers, Mrs. James Gordon, Rowatt Jones; secretary, Miss Hazel Jackson; librarian, Lyle Summers; organist, Miss Bessie Rennick.

England Muddling Through

In spite of all the difficulties with which Britain has been beset and with which she continues to be beset, the London Daily Express thinks that she has just reason for thankfulness, and these are the things that appeal to that publication in this connection:

1. The trade balance is better by 100,000,000 pounds than a year ago.

2. Great Britain has once more become the greatest exporting nation in the world.

3. No taxation threat of increased taxation exists.

4. Unlike some other less fortunate countries, we have a financial market where bonds and shares can be realized and new issues can find a ready response.

5. The gangster and the bandit have not succeeded in taking root in British soil.

6. Britain's banks are solid.

7. Britain's insurance companies are solid.

8. The building societies are well organized and sound.

9. The heavy industries are still in the shadows, but coal—the most important of all—shows an improvement. Exports of Welsh anthracite have increased.

10. The railways have indications of new life, and although their struggle is great they are not bankrupt as in America, nor do they represent a national ownership, as in France.

11. Owing to our industrial development, we have a market which can consume everything that our farmers can produce—a situation which offers an exceptional opportunity for development.

12. The heritage of Empire remains unspoiled—a comfort in our present troubles, an inspiration for the future.

13. There is no political persecution in Britain, nor is there government by force.

14. Finally, there is the character of the British people, strong in adversity and restrained in prosperity, building for a Greater Britain than history has known, and, by its example, leading the world towards sanity, happiness and prosperity.

And, as far as the world at large is concerned, the last reason is the most important of all.

FOR MERCHANTS ONLY

We have just received word of a substantial reduction in the price of merchants counter check books, effective now. Merchants requiring these sales books will find it to their advantage to secure our prices before ordering.

WINCHESTER SANITARY BOARD

CLEAN-UP DAY

Next Tuesday will be clean-up day in Winchester, and all citizens are asked to read carefully the advt in this issue and act accordingly. After this the Health Inspector will make an inspection of back yards, and other places, and those who have not complied with the Sanitary notice of the Board of Health will be compelled to do so. We want to keep up the reputation of Winchester as the cleanest and most healthful village in Eastern Ontario.

DUNLOP—LEWIS

Married on April 22nd, 1933, in Ottawa, Miss Helen Kathleen Lewis, R.N., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Lewis, of Mountain, Ont., to Mr. Wellington John Dunlop, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Dunlop, of Cobden, Ont. They are now residing at St. Eugene, Ont., where Mr. Dunlop is on the staff of the Bank of Montreal.

STEWART — KER

In the Central Baptist Church, on April 15th, 1933, before a small company of the friends of the bride, Miss Leona Mary Ker, M.A., daughter of the late James Graham Ker and the late Mary Christie Ker, of Montreal, Que., was married to Mr. John D. Stewart, retiring manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Winchester, Ont.

The ceremony was performed at 11 a.m. by Rev. Dr. Chollar, the pastor of the church. Mrs. Henry Conklin of 140 West 91st Street, New York City, attended the bride, and Mr. Henry Conklin gave the bride away. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, gladioli and snapdragon.

Mr. John D. Stewart has been manager of the Winchester branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia for the past 28 years. Miss Ker is a graduate of McMaster University, Toronto, and also of Columbia University, New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart are spending a short vacation at Brick Hill Falls Inn, located at the Deleware Water Gap, in the Porono Mountains, Penn., U.S.A.

Premier Of Ontario Not Resigning

Flat denial that he had any intention of resigning was made to the Ottawa Citizen by Premier George S. Henry, who arrived in the Capital last week. As far as a general election in Ontario was concerned he said that it was "in the lap of the gods."

"I have heard of no resignation," Premier Henry averred. "There was some talk of my resignation because of ill-health but I am feeling much better now. I am not as well as I was three months ago but my recovery has been much more rapid than the doctors expected."

Questioned as to whether he thought the Liberal party would oppose him on the issue of beer and wine in restaurants and hotels, he said that although he did not know, he thought that the opposition members had not yet made up their minds upon the question, and, moreover, believed that they had not yet quite decided who was to be their leader.

BORN AT SPENCERVILLE

W. Sanford Evans, recently chosen Conservative house leader in the Manitoba Legislature, was born at Spencerville in 1869, a son of Rev. J. S. Evans, D.D., and his wife, Mary Jane Vaux. Dr. Evans was stationed in Spencerville as a Methodist minister at the time of the birth of W. S. Evans.

New York City is rather well pleased over the return of beer. During the first 48 hours that beer was legal, 160,000 barrels were sold. During the same time $250,000 were collected in fees by the city.

* * *

New York brewers report they have added 2,000 men as a result of the legalization of beer.

* * *

New York hotels plan to spend several millions to build or modernize taprooms, roof gardens, grills, rathskellers, and other places for the sale of beer.

* * *

One New York brewery sold more beer during the first two days of legal beer this year than any other two days of its history.

* * *

Orange drink stands on the streets of New York are selling beer.

* * *

New York drinkers want trimmings. They ask for pretzels, pickels, rye bread, Swiss cheese, mustard and the like. The sales in these foodstuffs aiding bakers, caterers, farmers and dairymen, was so great that the demand exceeded the supply.

* * *

Many a newly opened German restaurant in New York where beer is sold and where Bavarian waiters provide entertainment, is owned by an Italian or a Greek.

* * *

Music shops report a demand for drinking songs. Many new ones will soon be heard.

* * *

A sporting goods shop here offers a bottle of beer free with each purchase.

* * *

One street stand opened for business with 100 steins. Crowds gathered around for beer. Most drinkers walked off with their steins.

* * *

New York manufacturers of soft drinks are wondering what the return of beer will do to their business. New York dairymen are concerned, too.

* * *

During the first 36 hours of legal beer in New York there was not a single arrest for drunkenness.

* * *

During the same time one New York wine shop received 35,000 orders for 3.2 wine.

* * *

Much beer was delivered by horse-drawn trucks.

GIVE!

Give, give, give, give!
Give of your substance, freely give.
Give to the sick, give to the poor.
Give to the stranger at your door.

Give from the fulness of your heart,
Give a kind thought, give a fresh start,
Give to the sorrowful, weary and worn,
Give a new life to someone forlorn.

Give a fine gift of sweet surprise,
Give to bring luster to someone's eyes
Give without stint, give of your best,
Give of your treasure, give with a zest.

Give with a loving word and smile,
Give from your purse a gift worth while,
Give to a neighbour, give good cheer,
Give of yourself each day in the year.

Give in the spirit of unselfed love,
Give of your bounty sent down from above,
Give to a foe and make him a friend,
Give of your joy and new happiness lend.

Give of your counsel, give of your praise,
Give to make this the finest of days.
Give of your peace and good will to men
Give and still give, again and again.

Give of your faith in God supreme
Give and make giving your daily theme,
Give to the utmost, though thanks be few,
Give since Christ gave all for you!

AFTER ALL

A blazing fire in winter and a garden in the spring—
A bed of pansy blossoms and a tree where robins sing;
Some trinkets in the corners of the little home we keep;
A few brave years of laughter and the tears that all must weep—
'Tis only these we gather through the time we have to live.

As soon we shall discover these are all this life can give;
Though fame and wealth may lure us, though both of them we gain
The home must ring with laughter or all the rest is vain—
And love must bid us welcome when all the struggle's done
Or paltry are the prizes our strength and skill have won.

So let's give some thought to tulips and a garden in the spring—
Let's take the time to listen when the robin redbreasts sing,
Let's plan the home for laughter, and let's not forget to keep
The faith we shall be needing when its time for us to weep,
For if there be friendships and loved ones cease to smile,
Then neither fame or fortune for long can be worth while.

SILENT NIGHT

The hushed white
Shimmer of a starry night,
The piper in the trees,
A child in white upon her knees;

Rare old thoughts, like candles greet
The glamour of another Christmas night.

CHILDREN

"When the lessons and tasks are all ended,
And the school for the day dismissed,
The little ones gather around me,
To bid me good-night and be kissed;
Oh, the little white arms that encircle
My neck in their tender embrace,
Oh, the smiles that are halos of heaven,
Shedding sunshine of love on my face."

THE WATCHER-MOTHER

She always leaned to watch for us,
Anxious if we were late,
In winter by the window,
In summer by the gate.
And though we mocked her tenderly,
Who had such foolish care,
The long way home would seem more safe
Because she waited there.

Her thoughts were all so full of us—
She never could forget!
And so I think that where she is
She must be watching yet,
Waiting till we come home to her,
Anxious if we are late,
Watching from Heaven's window,
Leaning from Heaven's gate.

ONT. HYDRO PLAN CIRCULATES FUNDS

CONSTANTLY REVOLVING FLOW OF MONEY SET IN MOTION BY HEATER INSTALLATION

Toronto, April 17:—Interviewed today on the financing of the new Ontario Hydro plan of free installation of electric water heaters, Hon. J. R. Cooke, Chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, declared the plan would pay for itself inside twelve months. He outlined the basic principle of the plan by citing the story of the hotel keeper who paid a debt with a $50.00 note. The friend who received the note passed it to a creditor to whom he owed $50. The creditor in turn passed on the note in payment of a similar debt. The note then passed from hand to hand until finally a man paid a $50 debt to the hotel keeper with the original note. Thus all debts were paid, everybody satisfied and the hotel keeper had his original $50 note back.

This principle of circulation of funds is, according to the Hon. Mr. Cooke, the basis of the new Ontario Hydro Commission Plan of free heater installation, details of which were announced recently. The plan, continued the Chairman of the Commission, while involving a heavy first investment by the Commission, will eventually pay for itself and in doing so will have benefited practically every resident of the Province of Ontario.

The Circle Begins.

Here is the story of the Hydro Plan as outlined by the Hon. Mr. Cooke. The Ontario Hydro Commission proposes in its new plan to place in every Ontario Hydro home a flat rate electric water heater, free of all installation cost to the user. That is the beginning of the circle. By installing these electric water heaters, new outlets for electric power will be created, Ontario residents will obtain trouble-free automatic water heating and the ensuing low rates they pay for current used will, in the course of a year, pay for the entire Commission investment in manufacture and installation of the heaters.

The Circle Widens.

But the flow of money set in motion by the Hydro Plan does not end with the recompense of the Hydro Commission for its expenditure. It wil percolate throughout the entire Province in the form of contractors' and employers' payments and workmen's wages as practically every industrial and manufacturing section of Ontario will participate in the work.

It is already recognized that the manufacturing of such a large number of electric water heaters required to equip thousands of Hydro homes in the Province will both create new industries inside the Province and stimulate existing mechanical, electric and other organizations. Raw materials will be drawn from purely Canadian resources. New equipment and machinery will have to be created for special Hydro heater specifications. New industries will arise to furnish auxiliary materials such as thermostats and other products. All this means more employment and a continuous source of wages.

Every Resident Benefitted.

Practically every phase of Ontario activity will be influenced by the constantly revolving flow of money set in motion by the Hydro Commission plan. Even those industries and manufacturers not directy affected will profit by the increased industrial activity and the released stream of wages in circulation. Stores, luxury products, staples, and textiles, are only a few of the many Provincial businesses which will derive benefit from freely circulating money.

The Circle is Complete.

The Hydro Plan thus creates a perfect circle, its course beginning with the Commission's initial expenditure, then circling trade and industry, and stimulating them to activity, reaching to Ontario residents and giving them employment and wages, touching retail stores, luxury merchandise and essential products, and finally reaching the users of electric water heaters only to start off again on its route back to the Commission, by way of revenue for service rendered. According to the Hon. J. R. Cooke, the power being used for this purpose would otherwise be wasted. Also the installation cost of each heater to the Commission will amount to the revenue derived from the increased use of power for one year. Thus it will be seen that the entire plan of the Ontario Hydro Commission will completely pay for itself inside twelve months.

NEW HOME FOR PATIENTS

There is now under construction in Williamsburg a home which will accomodate a large number of wheelchair patients and which will be convenient and modern. There will be a registered nurse in charge and this home will fill a long felt want in Williamsburg. It is situated a short distance from the Dr. Locke Clinic.

PAGEANT AT UNITED CHURCH

The Mission Circle of the United Church sponsored the presentation of an excellent religious pageant on Sunday evening last in connection with their annual Easter Thank Offering service. The pageant was entitled "Did You Know Jesus?" and depicted a Greek merchant travelling in Palestine a few years after the Resurrection of Christ questioning different people whom he chanced to meet as to whether they had met Jesus during his earthly ministry. He finds abundant evidence and he meets such people as Mary, the mother of Jesus, John the beloved apostle, Martha, Mary and Lazarus, the Rich Young Ruler now a penniless prisoner, Jairus' daughter, one of the men whom Jesus has cleansed from leprosy, Mary Magdalene, Peter, Paul, the boy who helped Jesus feed the five thousand, one of the children of the mothers of Salem, and even the Spirit of Judas. These characters were introduced severally by appropriate lantern slides, Scripture and Hymns sung by a concealed Choir and were very effective. A profound spirit of reverence pervaded throughout the service and every one felt the impact of the personality of the Master which was so adequately portrayed by the characters. Stage settings, costumes and music all assisted the players in making very real to the large audience the experiences of the companions of our Lord in the now far past Galilee days.

The following is the cast of characters:

Dionysius, A Greek Merchant—Earle Helmer.

Mary, the Mother of Jesus — Mrs. Sherwood.

Martha, a bustling person — Annie Walker.

Mary, a gentle type—Mrs. Arnold Duncan.

Lazarus, a shy man—Charlie Cross.

Rachel, a little girl—Betty Stewart

Ben Amon, a Samaritan, who was a leper—Hugh Graham.

Miriam, Jairus' daughter — Shirley Nesbitt.

David, a boy of 12—Dixon Hutt.

Johannan Ben-Iddo, the young ruler—Arnold Duncan.

Mary Magdalene—Mrs. Carl Rice.

The Spirit of Judas—W. A. Rowat.

Peter—T. J. Hawkins.

Paul—Mac Singleton.

Director—Miss Annie Walker.

Organist—Miss Helen Smith.

Stage and Costume Committee—W. J. Stewart, Rev. J. MacKay, Mrs. Eldon Fennell, Mrs. Harvey Nesbitt, Mrs. E. Kellogg, Charlie Cross.

MOUNTAIN W. C. T. U.

The annual meeting of the Mountain W.C.T.U. was held at the home of Mrs. Rose on April 20th with Mrs. Hoy presiding. After singing a hymn Mrs. Fader read an Easter message, Mrs. Bouck and Mrs. Robinson offered prayer. Several ladies took part in the clip sheet programme entitled "Public Opinion." Passages of Scripture were read from Acts 28th 16 to 20 and Hebrews 12th 1 to 4. "The Kingdom of God, against which this liquor traffic is an active enemy of the generation is called to crusade with all its might." The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. (Dr.) Hoy.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. McGillis.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Robinson
Cor. Secretary—Mrs. Bouck.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. VanAllen
Treasurer—Mrs. R. Beggs.
Pianist—Mrs. Fader.
Evangelistic Supt. — Mrs. (Rev.) Johnson.
Christian Stewardship—Mrs. Margaret Christie.
Flower and Sick Com.—Mrs. J. Cameron, Mrs. Rose and Miss C. Rose.

The meeting closed by repeating the Lord's prayer in unison.

W. M. S. MONEY SHOWER

A delightful tea and money shower was held last Friday afternoon at the United Church Parsonage under the auspices of the W.M.S. The rooms were tastefully decorated with Easter lilies and other plants in bloom. Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Earle received the guests who were welcomed and shown to the dining room by Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Sweet. The table looked very pretty with mauve and yellow tapers, also spring flowers of the same shade.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Keyes, Mrs. Thos. Annable, Mrs. N. W. Beach and Mrs. Ault, the young ladies who assisted in serving being Misses Jean Stewart, Alice Singleton, Eileen Melvin and Agnes Parker.

The committee in charge of this social event were Mesdames Preston, Davidson, Scott, Dixon and Parker.

During the afternoon a number of enjoyable piono selections were given by Mrs. J. Bruce.

Among the guests was Mrs. Rachel Timmins, who on the following day celebrated her 97th birthday.

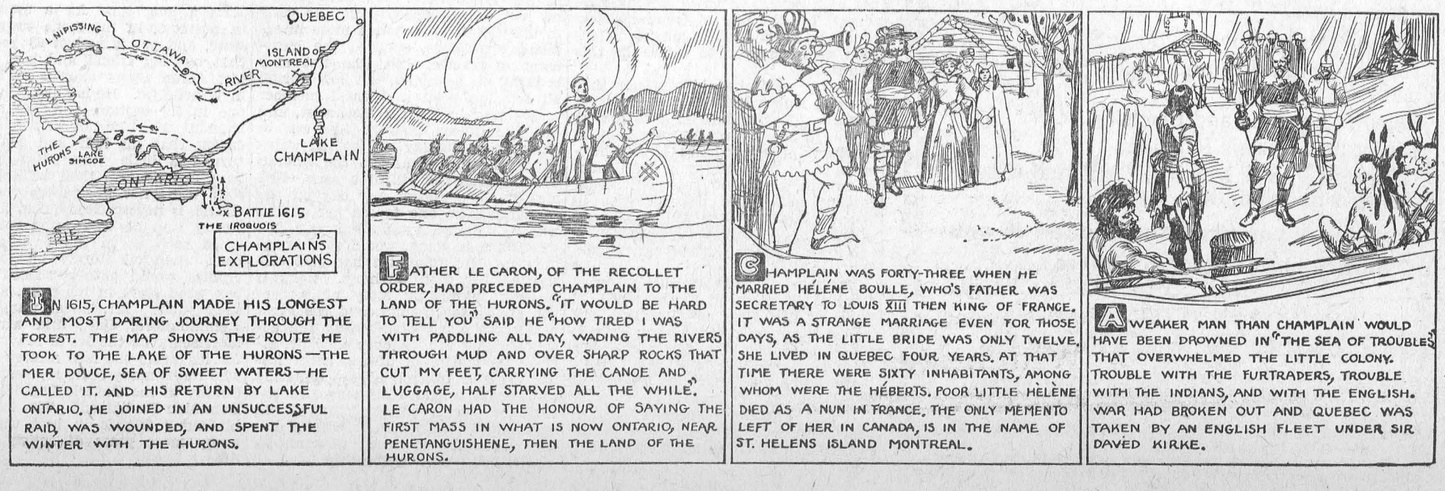
HISTORICAL SKETCHES



INTERESTING NEWS FOR FARMERS

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

It appears that cool moist weather such as we have in spring is the most favourable for the development of apple scab. Moral: Spray early, and keep spraying.

The presence of a large proportion of broken or bruised kernels in seed grain seriously decreases its market value, and further loss is caused by the invasion of fungi after the seed is sown.

Fall wheat and clovers have wintered in good condition. This is the report from the majority of representatives although some districts afford notable exceptions. A greatly stimulated interest in pruning and spraying is observed among orchardists throughout Ontario.

Spring Lamb Offerings Under Market Standard.

Discussing the lamb situation, C. C. Lyster, Federal Government Market Representative, Union Stock Yards, said: "Lamb marketings made to catch the Easter trade were rather disappointing. Producers were either ill-advised, or not thoroughly acquainted with market conditions.

"Of shipments totalling some 500 head, more than 125 were returned to the farms as unsaleable, while half of the remainder were below market requirements for weight and finish.

"In these times it is essential that quality be the first consideration if prices are to be sustained, or advances merited."

Assistance for Dairy Business is Planned.

The Department will announce plans shortly whereby financial aid will be provided for the improvement of dairy herds.

The scheme is designed to assist every producer of milk, provided he is willing to purchase a high grade bull, of known pedigree. This, it is felt, will help the dairyman, and increase the present low yield of dairy cows in Ontario.

Agriculture is Major Factor in Canada's Export Trade.

Agriculture, according to the Ontario Marketing Board, provides roughly one-half of Canada's export trade, the most important items being grain and grain products, cheese, live stock and live stock products, potatoes and apples.

Fruit Shipment to Great Britain.

The Ontario Fruit Growers' Association announce they shipped this year some 800 cars of apples, pears and plums to their European commercial representative. One hundred and thirty-five cars of plums and pears were exported to Great Britain.

This is the first attempt to ship abroad these fruits from Ontario. The business will be extended this year.

OBITUARY

MEMORY IS HONORED OF WM. J. CRAWFORD

The funeral of William John Crawford, a highly respected resident and member of an old pioneer family of North Gower, was held from his home last Wednesday, wtih a large number of relatives and friends in attendance to pay their final tribute.

Mr. Crawford was in his 68th year and had enjoyed good health up until about two years ago. He entered the Civic Hospital at Ottawa and underwent an operation about a month ago, from the effects of which he failed to recover.

He was the son of the late James Crawford and his wife, formerly Mary Smith, and was born and brought up on the homestead east of North Gower, where he settled many years ago. He was an attendant of the Presbyterian Church and member of L. O. L. No. 59, North Gower.

Service was conducted at Kars Presbyterian Church by Rev. Thomas Revie and under auspices of the lodge to which he belonged.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Phoebe Wilson; two sisters Mrs. Adam Taylor, of North Gower Township, and Mrs. Herb. Dobson, of Richmond; one daughter, Mrs. Eber Carson, of Carsonby, and four sons, James of Winchester; Garfield, of Temiskaming; George, of North Gower, and Earl at home.

Interment was made in the Union cemetery, Kars.

MRS. DAVID McDONALD

METCALFE, Ont., April 21—A much respected resident of Kenmore district, Mrs. David McDonald, passed away at her home on Tuesday of last week, following a lengthy illness.

The late Mrs. McDonald, whose maiden name was Margaret Dickson, was born at Cass Bridge, Winchester, 77 years ago. After her marriage to David McDonald she moved to Kenmore to live and the last 40 years or so of her life has been spent in that district.

The funeral, attended by many friends and neighbors, was held from her late residence on Thursday afternoon. The seervice at the house was conducted by Rev. J. Kellock of Vernon, who also read the prayers at the graveside. Interment was made in the Maple Ridge cemetery at Winchester.

Left to mourn her passing besides her husband, are two sons and eight daughters, Mrs. Robert Speers, Metcafe; Mrs. Edward Appleby, Saskatoon, Sask.; Mrs. Alex. Fisher, Kenmore; Mrs. Dougall Phair, Marvelville; Mrs. Roy Thomas, Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. Russell Dillon, Kars; Mrs. Russell Hoy, Metcalfe; Miss Jessie, at home; Alexander and Donald, also at home.

SUDDEN DEATH

While visiting at the home of a friend, Patrick McGinley, one of the most widely known and highly regarded residents of the township of Oxford, died suddenly last Saturday about six o'clock. Mr. McGinley, who was 70 years of age, had been in the best of health. Early last evening he walked from his homestead, situated about a mile from Oxford Station to the home of James A. Sanderson, M.L.A. at Oxford Station. He had only been there a few minutes, when he was taken ill, and passed away while a doctor was being sent for.

His loss will be keenly felt in the district, where he had lived all his life, and was regarded as an outstanding citizen and good neighbor.

WHERE MILK MONEY GOES

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

From evidence submitted by the head of a milk distributing firm to the parliamentary committee now investigating milk prices throughout the Dominion, the Farmers' Sun ascertains that the ten-cent piece which the urban customer sometimes pays for his quart of milk is divided as follows, using data for February last:

	Cents per quart
The farmer got	2.15
Handling charges at depot	.46
Transportation to city	.64
Production costs, including pasteurization	1.19
Selling and delivery	4.12
Containers (bottles)	.19
Income Tax	.08
Net profit	.68
Unaccounted for	.12
Average selling price	9.63

This looks like rather poor business from the standpoint of the dairy farmer. Certainly there must be something wrong with the system of distribution when the costs attending the selling and delivery of milk alone are nearly double what the farmer gets for the raw product. As the Sun also points out, the gross spread between what the farmer receives at the farm and the average selling-price is over three and a half times what the farmer gets to cover the whole of his production costs.

RATIONS FOR WORK HORSES

If a teamster is to get a profitable return from the work of his horses, and to keep them in good condition for their work, care must be taken in preparing and feeding a suitable ration. Many mixtures and rates of feeding have been tried and compared at the Dominion Experimental Farm, and it has been found that a grain mixture of five parts of whole oats and two parts bran, fed at the rate of one pound per one hundred pounds of live weight in the horse is a safe grain ration for horses at moderate work. As fodder either clean timothy or mixed timothy and clover should be fed, at a rate of about one pound per one hundred pounds of live weight. During seasons of heavy work the proportion of bran may safely be reduced to one-half, and the ration increased to one and one-quarter pounds.

FARMER BADLY BURNED FILLING TRUCK WITH GAS

When filling his truck with gasoline by the light of a lantern in a barn on his farm at Domville one night last week, Thomas Foster was seriously burned about the face, hands and chest when gasoline became ignited and he endeavoured to save the truck. The barn was totally destroyed together with the truck, automobile and forty hens.

MANY DEATHS FROM AUTO ACCIDENTS

Five hundred and two persons died, 8,231 were injured, and property damage amounting to $994,000 rolled up, as a result of the 9,971 serious motor car accidents in 1931 in the province of Ontario. These are the circumstances under which accidents happened last year—99.1 per cent. ocured on roads in good condition; 65.1 per cent. on dry roads; 69.6 per cent. in clear weather; 56 per cent. during day light hours; almost 50 per cent. on straight roads between intersections, and 84 per cent of the vehicles involved were reported in good condition.

A LITTLE STREET WHERE OLD FRIENDS MEET

That little street is right in your own home town. If you make it a friendly street outsiders will want to come and share it with you. They will sense the glow of friendly contact and wish to linger long within its warmth. And a friendly street is so easy to obtain. Just a kindly attitude towards your neighbor and others with whom you divide the care of the day. Just a little human understanding of what constitutes gentleness and courtesy. That's all you need to make a street where old friends want to meet.

The community that prospers is always a friendly community. To-day the world is seeking out such places. There is so much of travail and harshness in the everyday affairs of life that friendly havens beckon from afar. If you want your home town to be prosperous, to be known as a friendly spot, then you be friendly, too. It is a good message to carry with you during the year—and it pays big dividends in happiness and prosperity. — The Advocate, Pictou, N.S.

Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario

ANNOUNCEMENT

Free Electric Flat Rate Water Heaters for Every Hydro Home in Ontario

To THE CITIZENS of ONTARIO

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is prepared to place in every Hydro home a flat rate electric water heater at no charge to the consumer. This means that an electric heater complete with accessories—heating element, thermostat and tank insulation and the necessary wiring—will be installed in any Hydro home in Ontario where facilities exist absolutely free of all installation cost to the consumer. All the consumer has to do is to pay for the current he uses at a new low flat rate. This plan provides for the free installation of "Flat Rate Water Heaters" only where such electric hot water heaters are not already installed. This offer will be made for a limited period of time—the expiry date to be announced later.

In homes where a "Booster" heater may be required in addition to the "Flat Rate Water Heater" installation will be made and the consumer will pay a nominal monthly charge which may give him exclusive ownership of the heater at the end of a five-year period.

Why this offer is made to you

The Hydro Commission submits this offer to the people of Ontario for two reasons:

To increase consumption of electrical power.
To set to work as many Ontario citizens as possible.

UNUSED POWER. Owing to the present long-continued depression, resulting in the slackening of industry throughout the province and the material falling off in the consumption of power by industrial consumers, the Commission possesses power capacity which if not used will be lost. In order to absorb this power the Commission is prepared to install electric water heaters in all Hydro homes free of cost, believing that mutual benefits will be conferred on (a) the user through free equipment and a water heating service superior in availability, convenience and comfort to any other method of water heating; (b) the Commission through revenue obtained by the sale of power.

EMPLOYMENT. The plan of the Commission to install free electric water heaters in all Ontario Hydro homes will directly stimulate employment, in addition to benefits to be derived from economy, convenience and increased comfort in the home. Orders have already been placed with factories located in various parts of the Province which have created employment for skilled and unskilled labour and resulted in the purchase of raw materials and the disbursement of wages. There is scarcely a home in Ontario which will not be affected beneficially by this plan of free installation of electric water heaters.

Task will take time

Despite the fact that this plan has been given many months of study and preparation by the engineering staff of the Commission it will take time for the factories of the Province to produce all the equipment called for. Raw materials must be bought—special tools devised—dies cut—machinery installed and even new industries established, before we can be assured of a steady supply of heaters built to our standards and specifications. We have already secured the utmost co-operation from electrical, mechanical and allied trades in the Province. Costs of equipment have been worked to a new low level providing at the same time fair wages to those who have found employment and a fair return to all those engaged in production.

The Hydro Commission has set itself a task of considerable magnitude. There are hundreds of thousands of Hydro homes. Industry and employment are given impetus under the plan. The free installation of electric water heaters eventually pays for itself in power consumed. The plan will cost you nothing. It will give you lasting benefits, the first cost of which has not obligated you for one cent. Every home—every resident—the whole Province will be benefited, stimulated and enriched.

From time to time the Commission will advertise details of progress. We confidently anticipate your interest and co-operation in a plan by which all will profit. Watch for the next announcement by this Commission. Your own Hydro officials will gladly furnish further information.

HON. J. R. COOKE, M.L.A., Chairman.

Science Makes Another Contribution To The Householder

Crowds see Remarkable Demonstration of New Product Recently Introduced

The painstaking efforts of a staff of Chemical Engineers in the Research Laboratory of The Lowe Brothers Co., Ltd., manufacturers of the famous "High Standard" Paints and Varnishes, have been rewarded by the development of a Super Porcelain Finish Enamel of great interest to householders.

According to the announcement of the Manufacturers, this extraordinary Household Enamel now being sold under the name of NEPTO-LAC, possesses features heretofore considered unattainable in Enamels. Formulated from specially selected and treated materials, NEPTO-LAC Porcelain Finishes are in addition to the more conventional features of Smoothness—Toughness—Hiding—Spreading and Color—also HEAT and MOISTURE RESISTING.

Tests recently conducted included subjecting a surface finished with Nepto-Lac to the scorching effects of Boiling Oil at a temperature of 407 degrees; immersion in water for 726 hours, and boiling water and vegetables over an open flame in a saucepan and kettle finished with Nepto-Lac Porcelain Finish Enamel. From all of these tests and many others, Nepto-Lac emerged unharmed. R-3

Another feature of interest to the householder is the fact that Nepto-Lac can be used Outside as well as Inside; on Porch Floors as well as Linoleum; on Porch Furniture as well as Bathroom Walls and Fittings.

Color Charts of this product include many practical decorative color schemes, which may be had through the exclusive local agent—

A. SWEET & CO.

1. Nepto-Lac can be used inside or outside.
2. Nepto-Lac leaves no brush marks.
3. Nepto-Lac is heat-proof—water-proof—tough—and durable.
4. Nepto-Lac dries dust free in two to three hours—and hard in from four to six hours.
5. Nepto-Lac requires no undercoating.
6. Nepto-Lac requires no special thinners.
7. Nepto-Lac has no strong or objectionable odor.
8. Nepto-Lac is easy to apply and it can be brushed back and forth as frequently as necessary.
9. Nepto-Lac hides unusually well in one coat.
10. Nepto-Lac is very economical.

DEMAND GOVERNMENT DISMISSAL

W. Sanford Evans, a native of Spencerville who has enjoyed extensive and varied public experience, has been chosen from the ranks of the Conservative members of the Manitoba Legislature to become their House leader and is already actively engaged in leading an attack upon the Bracken administration.

The latter was given an unmistakable mandate to continue in control of Manitoba affairs when it appealed to the electors not long since after having effected a fusion with the Liberal of the province. Bracken candidates humbled Conservative pretensions and the poor showing made by the latter party largely dictated the recent resignation of Colonel F. G. Taylor, its leader, to assume a post on the Bench.

Since the election, the Bracken Government (acting, in part, in response to demands from the Ottawa administration, which has been lending a helping hand financially to the western provinces) has attacked Manitoba's unfavorable financial position in a vigorous manner. Not only have further reductions in expenditures taken place, but new and burdensome taxation has been imposed, including a levy upon all income received by the people of the province. Mr. Bracken and his associates are making a serious attempt to produce a balanced budget and, in order to do so have been compelled to take rather drastic measures. The Machray defalcations, affecting the provincial educational funds, and the imprisonment of various officials concerned in other pilfering of public funds, have added to the necessity of such action being taken and have also led to a great deal of unrest and uncertainty.

A mass meeting in Winnipeg of interests representing all phases of business and political associations has just appointed a committee to see what can be done to prevent further misappropriation of public funds and requests have gone forward to the Lieutenant-Governor urging him to exercise his constitutional functions and dismiss the Bracken Government.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

A CHALLENGE TO THE CHURCHES

The Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa furnish the information that over one half of the population of Canada is under the age of 25 years. It is a somewhat startling announcement, and one that should cause not only parents to think seriously, but it is a challenge to the churches to make an earnest and persistent effort to see that the youth, the men and women of the very near future, are guided not only in the way of good moral living, but good active citizenship. For some reason the Press will not try to explain, too many of our young people have a hazy notion that connection with the church means the abandonment of all that young people crave for in the way of enjoyment. There was a time when "To join the church" did mean just exactly that, but very few to-day hold to that doctrine. The very essence of youth is action, vigor, physical exercise. The old time religion is good enough for anybody, but the old time way of demonstrating, or showing that you are religious, is not good enough. In fact it is out of date, and old-timers will either have to recognize that this is a changing age, or make way for those who do. The church that shuts its doors to young people's organizations, and church boards that refuse to encourage the young people of today to link up their amusements—we mean decent amusements—with the church, will have much to answer for. The challenge is to the churches to save the young people, and to save them, the churches will have to combat the modern way of leading young people into ways of immortality and crime.

ALWAYS WISE — AFTER

A Peterboro paper says:—"The Ontario administration has been tardy in recognizing the need for retrenchment, and has hurt itself materially by its failure to get its economy programme into operation."

What wonderful things we expect from our governments. A few years ago every city, every county, almost every municipality in the province was urging and demanding our Provincial Government to build roads, help drainage, do this and do that. In fact there was no limit to the demands made. Even two years ago, when the "Relief" fund was first introduced, municipalities undertook responsibilities in the way of public improvements that were beyond all reason. And thus the debt of the Province—of the people of Ontario—mounted up to such proportions that the Government at Toronto insisted on a halt, on retrenchment, on economy, and other governing bodies did the same. The result is that the Government is blamed for not spending, and at the same time blamed for spending too much. As a matter of fact the Government at Toronto, and Premier Henry, have proved wiser than the people, but their efforts to curtail expenditures has brought down on their heads censure for not doing things they would immediately be blamed for doing. The easiest thing in the world is to find fault. A little reflection will show that our Government at Toronto, while not meeting the demands of all economic critics, has shown an amount of foresight and wisdom that few business men have shown.

THAT WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

The Winchester Press is thoroughly "loyal" and we hate like the dickens to be praising and encouraging something in the United States that seems to be an unfavorable comparison to Canada, but the new Roosevelt President at present has the limelight, and he is stirring the whole civilized world to action. Premiers, Presidents, Dictators, or their official representation from the more important countries of Europe are coming to learn wisdom at his seat of power at Washington, and Canada's Premier, Hon. R. B. Bennett, is among the list. Everyone is hoping and expecting a sort of economic "Oxford Movement" as the result. There the great statesmen will hold an experience meeting. They will unburden their hearts, tell of their economic troubles, and seek guidance from a power that seems to be just now located in Washington, D.C. Well, we are all praying that great good may come out of that Washington Conference, and that Nationality will not creep in like Denominationalism did in the recent religious Oxford movement in Canada and the United States.

WHERE GEORGE WAS BORN

Some newspapers are disputing and discussing where Rt. Hon. Senator G. Graham was born. All that concerns us is that George was born, and it was a good day for Canada when that event happened. It was somewhere, they claim, in the County of Renfrew. His father was an old-time Methodist minister, a good man, and a merry man, who, like his son, could tell a good story and tell it well. Senator Graham spent many years of his early life in Dundas County. That is how he became popular and influential. Dundas has turned out a number of good public men, and while Senator Graham may not have been born in this County, his best childhood days were spent here.

NOT ALTOGETHER TO BLAME

While some municipalities have undoubtedly taken advantage of the money entrusted them by the Relief Welfare Board at Toronto, and used funds for purposes other than urgent relief, it must be remembered that two years ago the Relief Board at Toronto was somewhat lax in the way they administered the fund. Municipal work was carried on to an extensive degree, but had first to be submitted to the Board for approval. Some municipalities went in for water works and sewerage system, others for public buildings. It all meant the expenditure of money of which the municipality paid one third, but it gave employment and kept money in circulation. If there was looseness on the part of some municipalities, there was also a lack of proper supervision and care on the part of the Relief Board at Toronto. The present system of direct relief is a poor one, and is having a bad effect. It would be better for the Provincial and Federal authorities to institute some system of public work, so that those who can would have to earn what they receive, and the municipalities should be made to look after those who are, on investigation, unable to help themselves. The trouble is that before relief reaches the needy, those who do not really require it, receive a good percentage. Under government suvervision much real work could be done, and those in need given the opportunity to work. Under the contract system too much goes to contractors and favorites.

ON RELIEF LIST

An Ottawa gentleman who was in town this week told the Press of an incident that goes to show how much money is being spent on relief that is undeserved, but is almost impossible to check. Citing his own case, he said his wife being ill, desired a little help to take care of the children. He made inquiry, and was directed to a house where it was believed he could secure the necessary help in a young lady as the family was on the relief list. He went to that home, and as the door opened to his knock, he made known his wants. The young lady who opened the door in reply to his inquiry said she was sorry she could not come that afternoon as "Pa and Ma" had gone to the movie and left her alone to take care of the baby. But she might come to his help the next day. Our friend from Ottawa said this was not an exceptional experience as he found out. There are a number of people who are deserving of help, but a lot of this relief is simply "bumcum" and he was of the opinion that the only way to give relief was to make people work for what they get. There were already too many who made "Relief" their only source of income, and they seemed to be getting away with it fairly well.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

They had a debate at Spencerville last week on the subject "Resolved that the Government should grant old age pensions," and the judges decided in favor of the negative. Why we do not know, for the Old Age Pension fund is the most humanitarian and most needed of modern legislation. The trouble is, like many other good movements, the old age pension is abused, taken advantage of, and not properly followed up. When a man or woman passes the age of 70 years, is unable to earn a living, and is dependent on public charity, it is the duty of the state to take care of such. Too many are to-day receiving old age pension allowance who should be cared for by there own children, and the Government should see that the children did their part. The County Homes provided for the aged and helpless are institutions of great benefit, but it is hard to make those who should take advantage of such, see it that way. The Old Age Pension law will undoubtedly be made in time to serve the purpose for which it was created and intended, but at present it is being sadly misapplied. To get the pension, with many, only requires the necessary "pull", but time will remedy that as well as many other like grievances.

WHAT KIND OF FEAR?

An Ottawa clergyman addressing a meeting of the Kiwanis Club in Ottawa is reported to have said that in his belief "fear is at the root of the present economic troubles." Fear of what? What caused fear? Why do the people fear? The only fear we know of is the fear of capitalists who "fear" to lose their hold, and fear that their dividends will not be satisfactory. The ordinary every-day business man has and is doing his part, and many at considerable sacrifice, to fight depression. The only "fear" farmers, mechanics and tradesmen feel is a fear that they will not be able to meet the obligations that have been placed on them, or that they have innocently assumed, by men and corporations who control the money markets. The recent revelations at Ottawa have clearly shown that the heads of the milk trusts in the big cities didn't have much fear, except the fear of being found out, and exposed as to how they feathered their own nests, indulged their own extravagances at the cost of the farmers who sent their milk to them.

MAY HE BE SAVED

It is announced the Hon. L. McCauley, Minister of Public Highways, will start on May 1st to make a personal inspection of all Provincial highways. All we can say, is that when he visits Highways No. 31, may the Lord preserve him in his trip from Morrisburg to Winchester and save him from a detour from No. 31 to Chesterville over the Ridge road.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The sooner the Bennett Government gets rid of its Radio Commission, the sooner will the good news be broadcast, that the Bennett Government has done something sensibly practical.

"Depression has been sent to test us; to see how much grit we have," says the Arnprior Chronicle. Well we have up to date proved our grit; what we now want is cash. And the more we get, the more grit will we show depression.

Criticism was made in the recent session of the Legislature of the lavish expenditure of Cemetery Boards and the case quoted in Middlesex County where a Board had spent $1,100 in "visiting well-looked-after cemeteries and counting the tombstones."

Smiths Falls is talking of establishing a broadcasting station. What, with their town council, their Board of Education, Dr. Murphy, and their very excellent newspaper, why Smiths Falls should want a a broadcasting station beats us. What they want up there is more harmony, not noise.

The Brockville Recorder and Times is displaying undue anxiety as to who will "drop out" in the several new constituencies in Eastern Ontario, whereby two Conservative members are concerned. Is it anxiety for the people or for the sake of trying to stir up a local strife the R. and T. is so interested in?

Mrs. Timothy Eaton left an estate of over $600,000. She inherited that estate through the clever scheming of financiers who established the T. Eaton Stores. The fortune is left to relatives who probably have already more than is good for them. And it is these things the world is thinking of to-day, and is breeding communism. The powers that be, better take notice.

Adversity brings out the best or the worst that is in us. If hardship makes us weak-kneed and wabbly, it is because we are lacking in strength. If we want to hide when affairs go wrong, and leave somebody else to straighten out the muddle, it is because we are lacking in courage. If adversity makes us feel like rolling up our sleeves and pitching in, however, you have met the test, and sooner or later, the victory will be ours. Life cannot beat us if our strength and courage rise up gallantly to meet every new emergency.

The following is a quotation from Stanley Bruce, of Australia, who attended the Ottawa Conference as a representative of the British Empire:

> "Today, the world is not suffering from any lack of commodities. The production of wealth has, with the aid of science, attained to a point never previously existed. Yet we have millions of people unemployed and the general standard of living is declining. This position is a challenge to our civilization. To fail to find a solution is an indictment of statesmanship in the Empire and throughout the world.

AWFUL

The Berwick Women's Institute put on an Easter Dance, and it was succesful and they made considerable money.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

The daylight saving is now being observed in the larger cities, but in very few of the smaller cities or towns in Canada. In very many places where it used to be observed the people have refused to endorse its continuance.

RUSHING MATTERS

According to news coming from Ottawa it is not likely the redistribution bill nor the St. Lawrence Waterway Bill will come up for discussion at the sitting of parliament. It is now expected that Parliament will adjourn before May 24th.

WHEN TO WRITE FINIS

A man who does something big in a mechanical way does not write finis after it. If he does, the world writes finis over his name. Compare the first electric light, the first telephone, the first automobile with the present-day product, and the two hardly seem related. Radio is comparatively new; yet all the manufacturers are thinking along the line of progress.

It is not only the inventor and the manufacturer who should take this attitude. It should be universal. Whatever is accomplished you should be less interested in it than in the chance to improve it. Education should not be a thing finished, but a foundation on which to build. Joining the church is a start in Christian living. Do not be in a hurry to write finis except for those things that shoud never have been started. All the rest means going forward indefinitely.

Paste This On Your Wind Shield

Here is the latest set of driving rules which has been placed before the public by J. J. Meagher, K.C., vice-president of the Royal Automobile Club of Canada:

1. Pay attention.
2. Use care at all intersections—driving with the thought in mind that the other fellow always has the right of way.
3. Drive always with highway conditions in mind so that if the car does skid it need not result seriously.
4. Operate always at a speed at which the car can be fully controlled whatever, and however, emergencies arise.
5. Always drive on the right-hand side of the road.
6. In making a left turn use care—give consideration to traffic approaching from all points.
7. Do not follow the vehicle ahead too closely.
8. Always be alert for pedestrians.
9. Never use intoxicants before driving a car.
10. Use great care in getting in and out of a line of traffic.
11. Always have car equipment in good order.
12. Indicate by distinct signals any change of procedure while operating.

THEY WANT TO ADVERTISE

The offer of the two great United States broadcasting companies, the National and the Columbia, to the Canadian Radio Commission of all their sustaining programs free is a gesture which ought publicly to be acknowledged with gracious thanks. It is one more tangible proof of the great amount of good will towards this country that exists in the United States.

POSED AS MISSIONARY

J. B. Ray, giving Ottawa as his address and posing as a missionary who was arrested a week ago by Provincial Officer Alex. MacLeod of Prescott near Ventnor on a charge of vagrancy and who has been under observation since that time, appeared before County Magistrate Adams of Kemptville on Monday and from evidence given and doctors' certificates produced was found insane and was committed to the county jail and will be transferred to an Ontario institution.

LOOSE CHANGE

It is about as hard to drag an old fellow out at night as it is to keep a young fellow in. Remember the robin, he sings in the rain. The only thing that travels faster than light, to a woman's mind, is a run in her new chiffon hose. Asked what he did when his wife started to give him a lecture, a man said: "I listen." Arguments make few friends. The man who comes home whipped at night is usually the man who went out whipped in the morning. Fools rush in where wise girls fear to wed. The more a man really knows, the less certain he is that he really knows anything.

ASSAULTED HIS MASTER

Roy Bale of Edwardsburg township appeared before County Magistrate Adams of Kemptville on Monday on a charge of assault, causing bodily harm to James Ault of Edwardsburg with whom he was employed. He was found guilty and sentenced to three months in jail.

WOULD ABOLISH THEMSELVES

The editor of the Mount Forest Confederate is not in favor of the abolition of county councils. Instead, he would reform them by paying the members only their bare expenses and allowing nothing for the time they spend at meetings. If such a change went into effect, there wouldn't be any need to abolish county councils, for they would probably pass out for lack of members, remarks the Fergus News-Record. In other words they would be starved out.

DEATH AT FINCH

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Hoople, of Finch, Ont., whose death occurred rather suddenly at the residence of her son, Charles Hoople, of Finch, on Monday morning of last week, was attended by a large gathering of friends and relatives of Finch and district, at her late home. Rev. W.E. Davies, B. A., Pastor of St. Lukes Presbyterian Church, Finch, officiated. Interment was made in the local Union cemetery. The late Mrs. Hoople, wife of Allan Hoople, who predeceased her a number of years ago, was in her 73rd year.

BARN DESTROYED

Early Sunday morning a fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the barn and outbuildings belonging to Noah Morgatroyd, a farmer living 3 miles north of Iroquois. The fire had been burning for some time and was beyond control The suffocating cattle were engulfed in flames on all sides and it was impossible to render assistance in any way. Among the stock destroyed were twenty head of cattle, three horses, several young calves, turkeys and ducks and chickens. Loss is estimated at about $5,000 partly covered by insurance.

MUST REPORT

The law now requires garage men to report to the police highway motor accidents that come to their notice through damaged cars being brought to them for repairs. In Sarnia a few days ago a case was brought to court when the proprietor was fined and sternly reprimanded for his neglect. In this particular the law evidently means what is says.

NOT MUCH OF A GOOD TIME

Those who imagine the great public statesmen have a good time, should take a trip to Washington, U.S.A., just now and observe how the heads of the nations' representatives put in their time. It is true they are given great receptions, banquets, and all that go with such, but to men of their active and keen brains such are more of a bore than a pleasure. They have to at all times be careful what they say, how they act. They are tormented by newspaper reporters who try to trap them into saying something they shouldn't. They are compelled to refuse invitations to functions, when they know their refusal gives pain and sometimes offense. And, above all, they are on a mission for their country, where a false move, an indiscreet remark, may mean so much. It is a life that only very strong and brainy men can endure, and it is no wonder that most statesmen die before they have reached the allotted age.

HOT DENOUNCIATION OF RELIEF SYSTEM

An interesting letter from a retired farmer of Western Ontario regarding the levying of taxes to pay for relief was read to the Senate by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Government leader in the Upper House. This man wants to know how long the people are to be "taxed out of their homes" to pay for relief for the "lazy and shiftless," The man wrote:

"I am acting as relief officer in our municipality this winter, and while some cases are both pitiable and deserving, the majority of them are simply maddening, when the law compels me to tax thrifty, hard-working, honest, law-abiding citizens, many of whom are striving to pay their debts by doing with the bare necessities of life, in order to provide the absolutely shiftless with food, clothing, fuel and shelter, the vicious with hospital and doctors' bills, and the criminals with palatial boarding houses where their every need is supplied.

Is it any wonder if those of us who give the matter serious thought are pessimistic as to the future of our once splendid, if rugged, civilization, when thrift and industry can be taxed out of their homes and off their farms to support the lazy, shiftless, vicious and criminals in comfort.

"While I have asked the question, I do not expect an answer."

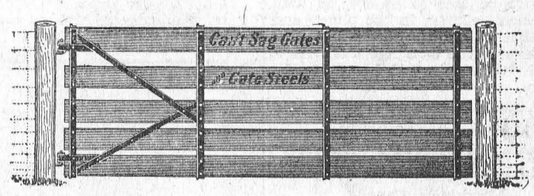
SOME CHURCH SPIRIT

Here's a news item! The minister of a Hamilton United church announced on Sunday that there would be no special collection on anniversary Sunday because all obligations of the church were paid up in full. Some time ago, the same church got a new pipe organ. Subscriptions were solicited, the members being approached in alphabetical order, and before the canvassers got half way down the alphabet, the money had all been obtained. What a church! What a congregation! What a wonderful church spirit!

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS!



"Cant-Sag" Gates

Last longer than any other gate you can buy or build. They weigh much less than ordinary all-wood gates and are far stronger than any steel, wire or gas-pipe gate made. They can't get bent and twisted out of shape by stock as steel gates do—the worst thing that can happen to a "CAN'T SAG" is a broken board — a new board and 5 minutes of your time replaces that and the Gate is as good as new.

Give you everything you can ask for in a farm gate—and at surprisingly low cost. They look neat—hang straight—swing freely and are strong and durable. America's finest farms are now almost universaly equipped with "CAN'T-SAGS." You see them everywhere you go. Come in and let us quote you prices.

A WESTERN FARMER SEES THE HUMOR OF POVERTY

The Spirit to Laugh at Depression and Gains Friends

Winnipeg, April 17.—Courage and an abundance of cheerfulness in the face of economic difficulties are reflected in a letter received from an unnamed farmer in Manitoba by Hon. W. R. Clubb, Manitoba Minister of Public Works. The letter was published in a newspaper with the result that many sympathizers came to the aid of the man and his family.

The letter follows:

'Dear Sir,—I am neither a bum nor a writer, and if I can't state my family's circumstances here to appeal to you, then it is just too bad for me. My case was to have been put in the right hands last fall. No doubt it slipped through his fingers and was lost. Ha! ha! ha! Quite happy over it, am I not. Well, may as well be dead as live without humor.

"However, we have had a hard winter—our cream has brought us about 40 cents a week. We had to do without butter and use separated milk. I sold oats to the value of $12. We had lived on bread, potatoes, meat and jam. The last cold snap got into our cellar and froze our potatoes. Our jam is finished, so you will see that choice has nothing to do with meals not being on time.

"Our wardrobe consists of no shirts, no stockings or socks, no shoes for a girl of four years, snare wire holds together the ones she wears. Mother robbed me of a coat to make overalls for her. She looks like a boy but is really a girl, her stockings like the rest in the house are made from old underwear, but, by gosh, now we are out of underwear and patches. My wife needs underwear, I don't know the name of them. I can't tell you all we are short of. I know that I am short of an eye and last fall one of my horses thought I was chewing too much at the hard times so she kicked me on the mouth and knocked all my top-teeth (but two) out, therefore an all-day sucker or two should see me thru the depression. Ha! ha! ha!

"Peope say that things can be bought for a song in Winnipeg—lead me to them and I will positively sing fifty songs. This may not seem like a down-and-outer's letter, if it can be classed as a letter, but I will give you the ages of the children and size for my wife and myself for any clothes you care to send. As for stomachs, use your own measurements.

"Girls, 4 years, shoes 7."

"Ladies' wear, size 42, shoes 6 and a half."

"Boy, 13 years, shoes 5."

"Me—neck, 16 in., weight 145, height 4 and a half ft., boots 7.

"There, now, there's my order; if I'm not worth consideration drop this in the furnace and let me starve and freeze in peace.

"Sincerely, (Sgd.)——

'P.S.—This stamped envelope is a present from one who thinks that I am worthy of assistance."

CLEANLINESS

There is a story told of a child who was sent home from school because of the offensive smells from his unclean body and dirty clothing. He returned to school with a note from his mother, which read:—"Joe ain't no rose, learn him, don't smell him."

Whether or not this story is true makes no particular difference. The point is that the adult or child who is not clean is an unpleasant person to have around because he offends the sense of smell.

We should keep our bodies clean and change our underclothing and stockings regularly so that we may not be offensive to other people. A warm bath at least once a week is usually sufficient to keep the skin of the body clean. The person who perspires freely or whose work is dirty needs to bathe more frequently.

Underclothes require to be changed frequently as they absorb the perspiration and become offensive. Stockings should be changed daily and the feet washed each day as smelly feet are particularly disagreeable.

THE JAZZ AGE

Vancouver Province: Well, the depression let us down with a terrible jolt, but if it has let us down on something that will turn out to be solid ground, perhaps we shall have cause to bless it in the end. Some of the old truths are still good enough to live by. Two and two is four, and fire burns, and we reap what we sow, and, in the long run, we pay a hundred cents on the dollar for everything we get. Corollary statements are that you can't buy things forever on the instalment plan, and that debts contracted have to be paid, one way or another. We shouldn't be afraid of these doctrines. Perhaps they can't be proved, but we ought to be able to believe, as Walt Whiteman believed, in the plumb and level that we build our houses by. The trouble with the Jazz Age was that it lost God Almighty and found Mumbo Jumbo.

Fourth Installment

SYNOPSIS: Pauline, sentimental, trustful, sincere and loving love, becomes engaged and marries Dennis O'Hara in the belief that their blissful happiness will continue unchanged thru all the years. On her wedding morning she awakens with a strange premonition that maybe love does change, a thought buried in her mind by a letter from her closest friend, Barbara the night before. Pauline adored Barbara who had been married, was the mother of a child which died, but now divorced and living a life which some of her friends could not understand. Between Dennis and Barbara is a seeming wall of personal dislike by both. Six months after Pauline's wedding, Barbara comes for a short stay. During this visit Barbara confesses to Pauline that there is a man she really loves, but she refuses to tell his name. Barbara decides suddenly to go home and Pauline insists Dennis drive her to the station. Irritated, Dennis drives recklessly, and they are in a crash. Barbara escapes injury but Dennis' leg is broken. As he returns to consciousness he learns who the man is that Barbara loves. Its himself. . . . NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

The man hastened to reassure her.

"Nobody killed, miss, nothing to be scared about. Just a bit injured and taken to hospital. My orders were to fetch you."

"I'll come now."

Pauline flew upstairs. She was hardly conscious of what she was doing. A hat and coat—any hat, any coat—a word to the maid—"It's the master—" how she loved calling Dennis the master—"he's been hurt—the car, somehow."

And she was downstairs again. "Oh, hurry, hurry!" she implored the officer.

The car moved off down the road, and Pauline began slowly to regain her self-control. "How did it happen? My husband is such a wonderful driver!"

"Collision at the crossroads. Nobody seems to know whose fault it was."

Pauline hardly heard. "How is he hurt? His arm—leg? Where is he hurt?"

"I couldn't say, miss." Why would he insist on calling her miss when she was a married woman—when she was Dennis's wife? It was not dignified. "My orders was only to fetch you and to say it was not serious."

"I see." She sat staring before her with blind eyes, her hands clasped in her lap.

Suppose he were dead and they were afraid to tell her? To be a widow when she was only so recently a wife. All her pretty frocks would be quite useless—she would have to wear black. All sorts of incongruous thoughts kept tumbling over and over in her dazed mind. She turned sharply to the man beside her.

"There was a lady with him—Mrs. Stark—was she hurt, too?"

"Just a shaking, miss—I saw the lady myself—she was very distressed, naturally, but not hurt, I should say."

She moistened her dry lips.

"How much farther is it?"

"Just round the corner by that red building—the one with the weathercock on it."

When the car stopped she stumbled out blindly, evading the officer's proffered hand. Up the steps to the big open door. "Where is he? I am Mrs. O'Hara. My husband has been hurt. Where is he?"

The maddening waiting, the formalities! Pauline had worked herself into a frenzy by the time someone said, "Please come this way"; and at last she was in a small room with a single bed. There was a smell of drugs in the air, and the polished floor felt hard to her feet. Silly to think of small things like that at a moment when her whole being should have been concentrated on the man lying there—his head bandaged, his eyes closed.

"Dennis!"

He did not move or seem to hear.

Someone standing in the window turned, came forward. Barbara, of course.

"Dennis!" Pauline was down on her knees beside him, sobbing broken-heartedly.

Barbara put an arm round Pauline and lifted her to her feet.

"You must control yourself. They won't let you stay here at the hospital if you make a scene. He's all right, I promise you. Pauline, you know I would tell you the truth."

"I know—but he might have been killed. How did it happen? It couldn't have been Dennis's fault, he's such a careful driver."

"It was at the crossroads," Barbara explained. "It's always hard to say who is to blame. The man driving the other car wasn't hurt at all."

In her heart Barbara knew quite well Dennis had been to blame. When she had warned him that he was driving too fast, he had deliberately accelerated instead of slowing down. She helped Pauline to a chair, not a very comfortable one, and stood beside her waiting for her sobs to cease.

Pauline took her hand and pressed it.

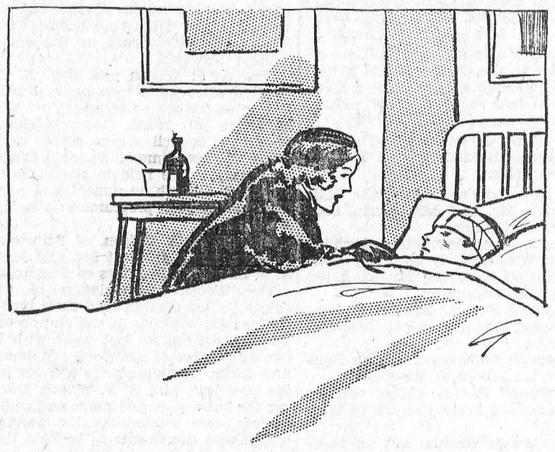
"I'm so glad you were with him, Barbie," she sobbed. "I'm sure things would have been much worse if you hadn't been there."

Barbara drew her hand gently away.

"I think they are bad enough as it is," she said.

She looked across the room at Dennis. He was so white, he hardly seemed to breathe. Supposing he had been killed?

Pauline had ceased sobbing, but her breath kept coming in little gasps. She got up and crept close to the bed.



"Dennis!" Pauline was down on her knees beside him, sobbing broken-heartedly.

"Dennis," she whispered again, but he did not hear her. She bent and softly kissed his cheek. She turned again to Barbara, tears raining down her cheeks.

"Will they let me take him home?"

"I think it would be very unwise, my dear."

At that moment Dennis stirred a little and flung out a hand. Pauline seized it and covered it with kisses.

"Darling—darling!"

He opened his eyes. They were clouded still and far away. They searched her face without recognition; then his lips moved slowly. Pauline bent to catch what he said.

"Barbara?" The name was unmistakable.

Pauline answered at once: "Not hurt. She's all right, quite all right."

"Yes." The faintest word of satisfied assent; then his eyes closed again.

Pauline turned to Barbara. "He wanted to know how you were. Isn't that like him? So unselfish. Oh, are you sure he will be all right?"

"Quite all right, dear. Look, I think he's asleep now."

Suddenly Pauline spoke slowly. "I don't believe he recognized me just now. I don't believe he even knew who I was."

"I don't suppose he did," she said evenly. "He was only half conscious, you know."

Pauline raised tragic eyes.

"But he asked for you, he knew your name—he hadn't forgotten that you were with him, though he seemed to have forgotten me," she added slowly.

Barbara did not answer.

* * *

It was a month before Dennis was allowed to be taken home. Pauline fretted and worried, but Dennis himself aided and abetted the doctors.

"My dear child, it's far better to leave me where I am. You'd only wear yourself out if I were at home."

"He didn't say he was anxious to get back home," Pauline told Barbara afterward, almost in tears. Barbara had stayed on during Dennis's illness—reluctantly, it is true, and only after Pauline had begged and implored of her not to go.

She said now in answer to her friend's words: "Work means everything to a man like Dennis—it includes you and his home and everything else."

Pauline reflected, then she sighed.

"I suppose you're right," she said at last. "You understand men so well."

Barbara flatly refused to visit Dennis in the hospital, though Pauline protested that he would think it unkind.

Barbara laughed. "You flatter me," she said mockingly. "Besides, I hate illness and hospital wards—the smell of drugs always makes me feel sick."

Pauline's eyes grew wistful.

"Wouldn't you come and see me, then, if I were ill?" she asked.

"You're different."

"Why?"

Barbara frowned: "Well for one thing, you rather like me, don't you? Whereas Dennis—"

Pauline broke in eagerly. "But he doesn't, he doesn't! He's asked after you ever so many times since the accident."

"That's very kind of him."

"If you two could only be friends!" Pauline said for the millionth time.

Barbara threw a cigarette end fireward.

"Dennis and I can never be friends," she said positively. "And what does it matter? No doubt it's all my fault."

Pauline shook her head. "No, I think Dennis is as much to blame as you are," she admitted. "It's such a pity, because you're a darling, and he's really rather a nice man, you know, Barbie!"

Barbara laughed.

It was in the middle of the week that Pauline announced that Dennis would be home on Friday.

There was a moment's silence, then Barbara said calmly, turning the page of a book she was reading:

"What a pity! I shall have to go to town on Friday."

"Barbie! Can't you put it off? I wanted to celebrate. I've asked Peter to dinner."

"I'm sorry, but I've promised to lunch and go to a theatre with Captain Barnet!"

Pauline got up and came to sit on the arm of her friend's chair.

"I wish you wouldn't go out with that man, Barbie."

"My dear soul, why ever not?"

"He's married."

"Well, that's his misfortune, not his fault."

"Do you think marriage is a misfortune, then?"

"Yes, in nine cases out of ten. It was in mine—it is in Jerry's. You, I dare say, will be the great exception that proves the rule."

"I wish you weren't so cynical."

"Life—my sort of life, at least—makes one cynical, so don't worry your little head about me. I'm quite happy in my own way."

There was a short silence; then Pauline asked almost shyly: "Is Jerry Barnet the man you—you said you cared about?"

Barbara laughed. "Jerry? Good heavens, no! He's not my sort. We're good friends, but I couldn't fall in ove with a man who only talks about horses and dogs."

"And you really mean to go on Friday?"

"I've promised."

"It's because she doesn't want to meet Dennis," Pauline thought bitterly, when Barbara had left her. "I know that's what it is. Why do those two dislike each other so much, I wonder?"

Then suddenly a bright idea came to her. If Dennis was well enough to come home on Friday, he would be well enough to come home on Thursday. Barbara should not know, and Peter should be asked to dinner for Thursday instead.

She made her plans as happily as a child, taking only the maid into her confidence.

And on Thursday Barbara had a headache.

"Nothing much," she told Pauline, who went to her room and hung over her with solicitude. "It's the kind of headache I get when I know any exertion lies before me. Leaving this comfortable room, for instance, and moving on. All my life I seem to have been moving on," she added rather drearily, and then as she saw the concern in Pauline's eyes, she sat up with sudden energy. "Don't take any notice of me. Send me a strong cup of tea and leave me in peace till tea time; then I'll be down, clothed and in my right mind."

HOW TO FIGURE THE DAY OF YOUR BIRTH

Say, why do folks write to the newspapers to find out what day of the week they were born when there is such an easy method of figuring it our for themselves."

"Perhaps the method is not generally known, answered the scribe.

"Well, it's simple enough," was the reply. "First, you count the Leap Years that have occurred since the year of your birth. Then you add the number of Leap Years to the age that you reach on this year's birthday and divide the sum total by seven.

"If there is no remainder you were born on the same day of the week as that on which your birthday falls this year. If there is a remainder, say four and your birthday this year is on Friday, you count the days of the week "backwards" four days from Friday to Monday. You were born on a Monday Simple, isn't it?

"If you were born in a Leap year do you count that as Leap Year No. 1?" asked the scribe.

"Yes, if you were born before March 1 and the year in which you are figuring is not a Leap year," said the old timer. "But if you were born after March 1 in a Leap year you do not start to count until the next Leap Year. And yersons born before the year 1900 must bear in mind that there was no Leap Year between 1896 and 1904."

"How about folks born on February 29, asked the scribe. They don't have a birthday every year you know."

"That's their hard luck," laughed the old-timer, "and they must blame the old monk who devised the Gregorian Calendar. This method works out o. k. for every day of the year except February 29. That's the exception that proves the rule."

"Ask your friends to try it out when they want to find out on what day of the week they were born."—Drayton Advocate.

FARM PRICES ADVANCING

A "bull movement" in pork values which is an upward movement, as against a "bear movement," which bears downward, is now putting heart into the farmers of Renfrew county, as it is in all the husbandmen of the Dominion. At the same time beef and mutton prices are showing better for the producer. Butter is also going up. Eggs stay down. A few days ago fifteen carloads of live pork, responding to the better prices passed through Renfrew enroute from the West to Montreal. From this change the farmers are beginning to envisage better times—Renfrew Mercury.

AGED MAN BEATEN, ROBBED IN MOTOR

Beaten into insensibility, Patrick Barry, 70-year-old Prince Edward county resident, was robbed of $50 by two assailants last Friday. Jesse Dickerson and George Wickerson, of Mountain View, were arrested by provincial police as suspects later in the afternoon. Barry, a manufacturer of axe handles, was walking along the Picton highway when picked up in a large sedan by two men who offered him a ride. The aged man was asked to buy a gallon of gasoline, and when he produced the money the car was driven on to a side road and he was clubbed with one of his own axe handles. He and the wallet were thrown from the car, after which the bandits made their escape. In a bruised and bleeding condition Barry staggered back to the main highway and was brought into Belleville where the police were informed. He was held up four years ago under almost similar circumstances and robbed of nearly $25.

BAPTISTS PROSPEROUS

The Cornwall Paper reporting the Annual meeting of the Baptist Church of that town, of which Rev. J. E. Ostrom, formerly of Winchester, is pastor, says:

With reports from all branches of the church's activities showing the congregation to be in a healthy condition, both spiritually and financially, the annual meeting of the Baptist Church was held Wednesday night. This was especially the case in regard to mission work contributions in which last year's excellent showing was exceeded by a substantial amount. This would indicate that so far as Cornwall Baptists are concerned, there are no signs of depression.

CUT INTEREST RATE

OTTAWA, April 21—A reduction from three per cent to 2 and a half per cent in the interest rates on savings deposits in banks and the post office from May 1st and a reduction from four per cent to 3 and a half per cent. in the case of deposits in trust corporations were announced by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance in a statement issued last night.

"Effective May 1st," the Minister's statement says, "the rate of interest on deposits in the Post Office savings banks will be reduced from 3 p.c. to 2½ p.c. per annum. A similar reduction has been agreed to by the chartered banks and other financial institutions, and also by the Province of Ontario Savings Office, and is in fulfillment of the policy announced in the recent budget speech as to the necessity of establishing lower interest rates."

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

FOR THE MIDDLE-AGED

You get to thinking about what you OUGHT to weigh — I know you do, for I do it myself.

Well, figure your height in inches—you men of five feet ten. You are seventy inches high. Add 100 to the number of inches for the weight, 170, if you are middle-age or past. This rule does not apply to young adults and children.

Remember, each individual has his peculiarities, which he can by no means escape. It is just as "natural" for some men and women to be spare, as it is for others to be a little stout. I had a most refined, intelligent lady of forty-five, who had worked herself almost into a frenzy—because she held a weight of 145 steadily. Her figure was perfect; yet she was continually in anticipation of "obesity!"

The big boy of fifty, with the ponderous "bay-window," must lay the blame to himself alone. He acquired the deformity by overeating and lack of exercise. It will take him a long time to correct the effects of his truancy, if he ever does it. But he still has room to repent of his sins — to get out of that swivel-chair — get out of doors at every opportunity—and STOP EATING TOO MUCH.

There's the rub, however. He still lingers with the lucious viands with the heavy sweetening. Well, if you'd rather have that belly, keep on as you've been doing,—I'm no traffic cop, to stop you for travelling on the wrong side of the road! Don't forget though, that the prevention of an evil is many times safer than a belated attempt at cure; be sure your (dietetic) sins will track you down.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Shown the Way

One of the ways of increasing the returns in many farm communities is to go in for special crops and reduce acreage of staple or surplus crops. This is easier said than done. It has brought disappointment to many who have tried it. The reason is that the growing of any crop, no matter how simple it may seem, does actually require special experience and often special requirements in the way of soil, water and storage. Preparation for market is another item.

If the farmer starting a new crop will stick to it for a few years and study its culture he will usually master ts production. But usually one year's failure stops a man. So the problem is to work into the crop in some way to avoid failure. How this was done in a Pennsylvania community through the projects of 4-H club members may give an idea to other communities.

Celery growing was taken up as one of the club projects in Schuylkill county, Pa., several years ago. Club members found that in spite of the fine prospect the crop offered for making money it was another thing to produce a quality of the crop which sold well. So they had to go through an experimental stage. With the aid of County Agent W. L. Bollinger and specialists from the State College they found that to produce a high quality of celery it had to have plenty of water. One club member solved this by pumping water down the furrows between the rows. This was improved upon after a time by overhead irrigation.

With the experience of club members to guide them and continued assistance from the state specialists local farmers took up the crop. They were saved much disappointment as a result, and got started off on the right foot. One grower alone now puts out 70,000 plants. The past year six large irrigation systems were installed to water the celery crops of their owners.

Electricity!

No tale of wonders and enchantments has ever been written that excelled the actual reality which is today at mankind's fingertips in the wonders and magic of electricity. Step by step the intelligence of man leads him on through the ages of civilization until to-day our most common utility is in fact far beyond the mere comprehension of even the dreams of our forefathers. The Hydro System brings all of this to the citizens of Winchester. There is no new development or equipment in the fields that is not available to the life and business of local citizens. The drudgery can be taken out of housework if you let electric energy be the slave.

Possibly your home needs re-wiring or the present wiring a little overhauling. If so let us know about it. We are here to see that you get the best possible results from Hydro Light and Power.

OUR SHORT STORY

JOAN TO THE RESCUE

Almost it seemed as if those two middle-aged worthies of Ridthorpe, Mr. Deaker and Mr. Walter Bishop, had it in mind to pass each other in the village street without speaking. Mr. Deaker, however, at the last moment, brought himself to a halt, and, at that Mr. Bishop also came to a standstill, albeit somewhat reluctantly.

"I see you in Norwich this morning, mentioned Mr. Deaker as one formulating a charge.

"Aye," said Mr. Bishop, gazing constrainedly at the setting sun. "—I wondered if you see me."

"I see you all right," declared Mr. Deaker, with a frown, "but you just wouldn't see me would you?"

"Well, I knew you were busy, and I was busy so—"

"Fat lot you was busy," interupted Mr. Deaker. "Why, you was laughing and joking along of that young Joe Taylor all day!"

"Well, you see—" slowly began Mr. Bishop.

The shake of his head intimated that he found explanation awkward.

"You told me as you wasn't going to Norwich to-day," Mr. Deaker indignantly reminded him. "And then you sneaks off there, be'ind my back, with that young Joe Taylor."

"I s'ppose I can go to Norwich with 'oo I likes?" Mr. Bishop restively put forward.

"You and' me 'ave been going together to Norwich market on most Saturdays, for a good many years now," observed Mr. Deaker. implacably. "And today you took and give me the slips, so's you could go with young Joe Taylor. Who are these Taylors, anyhow? No one ever heard of 'em before they took over Three Oaks Farm. And I tell you straight, Walter Bishop, I don't like being given the go-by , Ben Deaker, when its suited your convenience," he added, with spirit.

"Business is business, first, last and all the time with me,' vaunted Mr. Deaker.

"Yes, and you've got quite a name for it around here, ain't you?" commented Mr. Bishop artlessly.

Theres no need to go 'inting things, remarked Mr. Deaker. "You have only took that line to get out of explaining why you give me the go-by today, and——"

Well, I only 'appened to go to Norwich with young Joe Taylor today. I —I 'appened to be out Three Oaks Farm way this morning fairly early, and I—I looked in, and 'e was just starting off to Norwich, and 'e persuaded me to go with 'im. I—I did'nt pertickler want to go."

Well, then why did you let him persuade you.

If you really wants to know, replied Mr. Bishop, with a touch of defiance, "it's because I pertickler wants to keep friendly with 'im, for the present anyway."

"Why?"

"That's my own privit business," declared Mr. Bishop. "And now I must be getting along. Good night!"

Mr. Deaker stared after him resentfully piqued by the display of reticence, and then passed on up the street.

Four days elapsed before Mr. Deaker again encountered Mr. Bishop, despite the fact that an increasing sense of curiosity had frequently moved Mr. Deaker to discover the other gentleman. Mr. Bishop was to be surprised in none of his usual haunts, and it was by chance that Mr. Deaker at length encountered Mr. Bishop out on the high road a mile from home.

"Ah, I been wanting to see you," asserted Mr. Deaker . . . "I reckons you owes me a apology for slipping off to Norwich without me last Saturday, and for being so dodgy and mysterious when I asked you to explain what was up."

"I—I didn't like to explain. I—I thought p'r'aphs you might laugh at me."

"Why should I laugh at you?" demanded Mr. Deaker, his inquisitiveness whetted by this admission of weakness.

"Will you promise to keep a secret?" asked Mr. Bishop.

"'Course I will," answered Mr. Deaker, eagerly.

"Well, I—I'm thinking of getting married again, Walter!" announced Mr. Bishop coyly. "To—to Mrs. Taylor."

"Well, I'm hanged!" declared Mr. Deaker. "Whatever made you take up along of 'er? One o' the crossest, badtemperedest old woman I ever met!" he added, ungallantly.

"I don't think that's a very nice way to talk about a lady," remonstrated Mr. Bishop, distantly. "And I 'ave my reason, o' course."

"Oh, she's got a big o' money?" diagnosed Mr. Deaker, positively.

"'Er 'usband left 'er four cottages and a couple o' shops!" announced Mr Bishop, with triumph. "In Norwich. Me and young Taylor was collecting rents from 'em when you see us last Saturday."

"And what's 'e say to your taking along o' is mother?" queried Mr. Deaker. "'E must realize it's 'er property you're after."

"'E wasn't very keen, not at first. Seemed to think I was a bit too old for 'er, but——"

"Well, fancy you thinking o' getting married again at your age!" derided Mr. Deaker. "You'll live to repent it, Walter!"

"Oh, no, I shant!" denied Mr. Bishop, suddenly taking umbrage. "This is my business, and you remember you've promised to keep it a secret, Ben Deaker!"

He strutted off.

On the following Saturday, as Mr. Bishop and young Joe Taylor were idling through the cattle market at Norwich, Mr. Deaker presented himself to them.

"I—I've told Ben Deaker 'ow it is along o' your ma and me," Mr. Bishop informed young Taylor, moved by uneasiness at Mr. Deaker's quizzical glances.

"I never expected as Walter could be so romantical at 'is age!" grinned Mr. Deaker.

"Not so very old, Ben!" protested Mr. Bishop, frowning.

"Only sixty," mentioned Mr. Deaker.

"Sixty?" queried young Taylor, sharply, turning to Mr. Bishop. "You told me fifty six."

"'E's sixty to my sure and certain knowledge," insisted Mr. Deaker, "'E was boasting about it only a few weeks ago."

Young Taylor looked at Mr. Bishop, who glanced diffidently away, muttering something about it being time to be getting on.

"Well, it won't take long to collect the rents this morning," said young Taylor. "I'll do it alone, and meet you two here again in half an hour."

He went on. Mr. Bishop wheeled angrily on his companion.

"What d'you want to go shoving your oar in for?" he demanded. I've always made out to the Taylor's that I'm fifty-six, and you 'ah no call to come interfering."

"Yes, and my age 'as been the one big difficulty. Young Joe took a lot o' persuading that I wasn't too old to marry 'is ma, and now you must needs come in and start 'im bothering all over again about it!"

Mr. Deaker, with a shrug of his shoulders, turned away to casual examination of cows and calves, till presently young Taylor returned.

"More of the same trouble," he announced. "A tenant bothering for repairs to the premises."

"It's a mistake to spoil 'em by giving in to 'em, in my opinion," stated Mr. Bishop. Tenants is always wanting repairs."

"Well, I'm afraid they're necessary in this case," returned young Taylor. "I wish I knew more about decorations and repairs. I suppose you don't know anything about such things, and their cost?" he suggested to Mr. Deaker.

"I got a pretty fair idea," declared Mr. Deaker.

"Well, then, I wonder if you'd mind coming along with me and giving me the benefit of your opinion?" asked Taylor.

"Certainly," agreed Mr. Deaker. "'Ow'd it be if we was to go round and 'ave a look at all your property in Norwich, and see what needs doing in each 'ouse?"

In the end, despite the evident hostility of Mr. Bishop towards the idea, a tour of the Taylor property was undertaken.

"A very nice little lot," summed up Mr. Deaker. "And in very good order, too. A fi'-pun note would cover all costs for repairs for a couple of years and more."

"My mother'l be glad to hear you said that," commented young Taylor.

"I'll tell her so myself, if you like," Mr. Deaker offered, with a challenging glance at Mr. Bishop.

And so, late that afternoon, Mr. Deaker still accompanied young Taylor and Mr. Bishop when they turned in at the gateway at Three Oaks Farm, and the widow Taylor invited him to tea.

Mr. Deaker was brisk and bright of manner throughout the meal.

"Well, 'ow's it going, Walter?" he suddenly asked Mr. Bishop. "Tired after your day's outing? You ain't so young as you was, you know."

"No one is," retorted Mr. Bishop. "Not even you."

"Well, I'm fifty, and I don't mind 'oo knows it," stated Mr. Deaker. "I ain't ashamed of my age."

"Why should you be?" ased Mr. Taylor, tartly. "I've no patience with people pretending to be young when they ain't."

"It said in the paper t'other day," remarked Mr. Deaker, "that a man was too old at sixty to be any more use. What do you think, Walter?"

"I—I dunno," mumbled Mr. Bishop "I'll tell you when I've turned sixty."

"Any'ow, when I come to sixty," declared Mr. Deaker, "I shall take things easy. You won't find me launching out into new ventures when I come to that age."

"Just what do you mean by that?" demanded the widow, with asperity.

"Oh, nothing, nothing!" airily replied Mr. Deaker.

Mr. Deaker accompanied Mr. Bishop on their homeward path that night.

"She ain't so bad-looking as I thought," vouchsafed Mr. Deaker.

"Well, then, p'r'haps you'll apologize to me now?" challenged Mr. Bishop. "I don't take it kindly, you teasing me about my age. Anyone might think you was trying to make mischief."

"P'r'aps I was," accepted Mr. Deaker "I ain't the sort to boast; Walter, but if your nose ain't out o' joint within a week I'll be very surprised."

Mr. Bishop avoided a meeting with Mr. Deaker for the next two nights, but on the third evening Mr. Deaker elatedy ran him to earth at the Plough Inn.

"I was right!" triumphed Mr. Deaker. "Less than a week now, and—"

"You don't mean she's—she's chucked me?" suavered Mr. Bishop.

"I do." She decided as you're too old, Walter. She 'ad 'er doubts, and when I told her your real game—why, that finished it!"

"You've took advantage of me, Ben Deaker!" cried Mr. Bishop, passionately. "Never mind, it may be my turn next, after all! . . .

On the afternon of the wedding Mr. Bishop intercepted the bridegroom, Mr. Deaker.

"Young Joe won't be sorry to 'ave the farm to 'isself," said Mr. Bishop. "'E's 'ad about as much as 'e can stand of 'is mother's tongue and 'er managing ways, and 'er temper."

"Sour grapes!" jeered Mr. Deaker.

"I don't know as you'll find yor grapes so sweet!" returned Mr. Bishop happily. "Anyway, Joe Taylor paid me five pounds an hour ago."

"What d'you mean?"

"Five pounds 'e promised me if I managed to get 'is mother married off again for 'im."

"Oh, well, I can stand 'er temper," said Mr. Deaker, "with that bit of 'ouse property of 'er's to 'elp sweeten things.

Oh, then, you ain't been told yet?" remarked Mr. Bishop. "I didn't s'pose they'd tell you before the wedding, but it don't matter now. You see, under 'er 'usand's will, all 'er property goes straight to 'er son the moment she marries again."—Tit-Bits (London.)

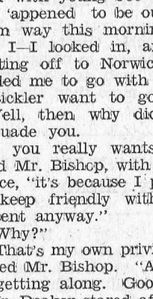
HOLDING PAGE ONE

MATTHEW'S luncheon for Jesus furnished the third "news" sensation. It was not at all the kind of affair which a religious teacher would be expected to approve. Decidedly it was good-natured and noisy.



Bruce Barton

No theological test was applied in limiting the invitation. No one stood at the entrance to demand: "What is your belief regarding the birth of Jesus?" Or, "Have you or have you not been baptized?" The doors were flung wide, and, along with the disciples and the respectable folks, a swarm of publicans and sinner trooped in.

"Outrageous," grumbled the worthy folk. "Surely if this teacher had any moral standards he never would eat with such rabble."

They were shocked; but he was not. That he had condemned himself according to their formula worried him not a whit. His liking for folks overran all social boundaries; he just could not seem to remember that some people are nice people, proper people, and some are not.

"Come, come," he exclaimed to the Pharisees, "won't you ever get over nagging at me because I eat with these outsiders? Who needs the doctor most—they that are well or they that are sick?

"And here's another thing to think about," he added. "You lay so much stress on forms and creeds and occasions—do you suppose God cares about all that? What do you think he meant when he said: 'I will have mercy and not sacrifice?' Take that home and puzzle over it."

"Defends publicans and sinners . . . Jesus of Nazareth Welcomes Them at Lunch . . . Rebukes Prominent Pharisees . . . "Creeds Unimportant," He says. "God Wants Mercy Not Sacrifice."

A fourth story for page one. You may be sure it was carried into hundreds of homes during the next few weeks, and formed the basis for many a long evening's discussion.

As the meal drew to its close there came a dramatic interruption—a ruler of the city made his way slowly to the head of the table and stood silent, bowed by the terrible weight of his grief. That morning he had sat at his daughter's bedside, clasping her frail white hand in his, watching the flutter of the pulse, trying by the force of his longing to hold that little life back from the precipice. And at last the doctors had told him that it was useless any more to hope. So he had come, this ruler, to the strange young man whose deeds of healing were the sensation of the day.

Was it too late? The ruler had thought so when he entered the door; but as he stood in that splendid presence a new thrilling conviction gripped him:

"Master, my daughter is even now dead," he exclaimed, "but come and lay your hand on her and she will live."

Jesus rose and went with him.

DETESTED EVERYTHING

Every house wife has a pet aversion among her duties. This hated job varies with the individual. Such were conclusions of the members of the Women's Institute of Burton, England, which has just completed a survey on housekeeping. The president was positive about her aversion. It was getting up in the morning. Other dislikes were cleaning windows, spring cleaning, chopping wood, washing up, washing one's hair, darning, patching, cooking, cleaning boots and shoes and tidying grates. Three agreed that skinning rabbitts was the worst. Two others said it was cleaning chickens. Another disliked keeping meals waiting, and an old lady declared that she detested everything.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

Jesus Sets New Standard of Living
Lesson for April 30th. Mark 10:1-31.
Golden Text: Luke 6:31.

The lesson begins with the final departure of Jesus from Galilee. Heading southward, He visits Perea, east of Judea and the Jordan. His face is turned toward Jerusalem, the capital, which He approaches via Jericho.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Three incidents, each very different, are depicted for us by Mark in the lesson narrative. The first brings the carping Pharisees before us in an endeavor to entrap the Master by a question concerning divorce. Jesus replies, not by attempting to expound the scribal law, which the Pharisees knew only too well, but by a straightforward declaration of the Mosaic principles. Marriage, He insists, is a permanent union of two lives.

The second episode makes the child again the center of the circle, as was the case in the last lesson. The fondness of the Master for children once more is emphasized. We can see Him rebuke the disciples for their interference, and can fully appreciate the loving tenderness of His immortal welcome, "Let the little children come to me: do not hinder them; for to those who are childlike the Kingdom of God belongs."

The last event is the absorbing story of the rich young ruler. Here is an attractive youth with many fine qualities. With his wealth, education, social position, and high character, he makes a strong appeal to our imagination. No wonder Jesus loved him! For here is a possible recruit who can render very great service in the promotion of God's realm.

How willing he seems! He runs and kneels, humbly seeking guide-posts directing the eager pilgrim toward the Life of the Ages.

But one thing was lacking, as Jesus, with His searching power of analysis, points out. The young man had far more wealth than was good for him. Instead of owning possessions, possessions owned him. His property prevented service, and therefore Jesus advises its sale. But, alas, the youth cannot accept so drastic a recommendation! So the young man departed.

WEDDING

FINK—SWERDFEGER

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the United Church, Morewood, last week when Miss Luella Swerdfeger, R.N., of Yonkers, N.Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Swerdfeger, of Morewood, was united in marriage to Mr. George L. Fink, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fink, of Yonkers. Rev. G. H. Smith performed the ceremony and the wedding march was played by Mrs. G. H. Smith.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Gladys Swerdfeger, of Orilla, Ont., while Mr. Emmerson Swerdfeger, of Massena, N.Y., brother of the bride, acted as groomsman.

The bride looked charming in a Parisian model of blue crepe and carried a shower bouquet of Columbia roses and maidenhair fern. The bridesmaid was sweet in a frock of rose beige crepe and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

During the signing of the register, "I Love You Truly" was delightfully sung by Miss Greta Faulkner.

The happy couple left on a motor trip and on their return will reside in Yonkers, N.Y. The bride travelled in a navy blue ensemble with accessories to match.

The ferry service between Kingston and Cape Vincent, N.Y., which had been operated for more than 60 years, will be discontinued. The Rockport Navigation Company has decided to make the run this year to Clayton, N.Y., instead of Cape Vincent.

Advices have been received from the provincial fish and game department that the muskrat season as affecting Eastern Ontario has been extended until April 30, an additional ten-day season being allowed in order that trappers may dispose of their pelts.

St. Giles' Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, was the scene of a pretty spring wedding on Wednesday last week, when Miss Hilda Eastman, daughter of Mrs. A. Eastman, Merrickville, was united in marriage to B. V. Shantz, of Perth. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Logan Vencta.

Miss Elizabeth Henderson Dickinson, last surviving member of a family whose history was closely connected with Ottawa and vicinity for many years past, died Tuesday at 247 Waverly street, Ottawa, in her 72nd year. She had not enjoyed good health for some time.

Of United Empire Loyalist stock, Miss Dickinson was a descendant of the original settlers of Dickinson's Landing and the vicinity of Cornwall, who came in at the time of the American Revolution.

A NIGHTMARE

A Morrisburg correspondent to the Cornwall paper says:—Winchester residents recently decided the worst dream they could have would be the contemplation of a ride over the Ridge Road, a county side-road between that place and Chesterville. But when that road is considered to be in good shape compared with the King's Highway No 31 at the present time, it can be imagined the nightmares Morrisburg taximen and bus drivers have nightly when they have to drive over six miles of the King's Highway many times each day.

YOUNG MEN RECEIVED INTO CHURCH

Rev. R. C. Cronmiller, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williamsburg, at the Easter Sunday morning service, preached on the text, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," and during the service the following young men were confirmed and accepted as communicant members of the church: Lyle Shell, John Gordier, Ray Merkley, Rex Casselman, Strader and Henderson. The Lord's Supper was administered to the newly confirmed and one hundred former members.

The sermon for the evening service was delivered by Rev. Arnold Gordier, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gordier, of Dundela, and former residents of Williamsburg.

IN MEMORIAM

WRIGHT—In loving memory of Thomas Wright, who passed away one year ago on April 29, 1932.

While the midnight stars are gleaming
Beneath them sleep our father,
The one we loved, but could not save.
Long nights he bore his pains,
To wait for cure, but all in vain,
But God knew what was best,
He took him home and gave him rest.
You are gone but not forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts will ever linger,
Round the grave where you were laid.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear wife, who departed from this world on April 28th, 1928.

And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.
Philip Hitchman

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear boy, Donald B. Monteith, who passed away April 30th, 1931.

No one knows the silent heart aches,
Only those who have lost can tell,
Of grief that is borne in silence,
For the one we loved so well.
Mother, father and family.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Nelson Docksteader, who passed away on May 2nd, 1932.

Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just, to the end of her days;
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memory left behind.

The Essex Free Press suggests that "if this depression doesn't soon let up some of us may yet be forced to wear our Christmas ties. Yes and our winter sox.

A Gananoque man was fined $50. and costs last week for shooting ducks out of season. The fine is not too severe. This is the hatching season, and a man is no sport who goes out to shoot game birds at this season of the year.

Little Mary, aged five, came running up to her mother crying, "Oh, mother! You'd better come quick and get daddy!"

"Why, dearie?"

"Well, papa and Mr. Smith are down in the cellar and I heard Mr. Smith tell papa to give him another shot."

Here are three sentences that some we have heard might take to heart. They run:—To be a fault finder you require no capital, no talent, no brains, no character, you need exercise no self-denial. There is no calling easier to get a start in. Or one more worthless.

A lady teacher in a school not far from Winchester tells this story. A little girl arrived at school one morning with her geography homework undone. When asked why she didn't do it, the child replied: "My mother never studied jography and she got a man; my aunt Annie never studied jography and she got a man; my sister never studied jography and she's engaged, and-and-well. I don't want to study jography neither."

It becomes increasingly apparent that Ontario is in for a keen, hard political fight whenever the Henry administration decides that the time has arrived for an appeal to the people says the Brockville paper.

H. C. Nixon, the Progressive leader, declares that every riding in the province will be contested by the Hepburn-Nixon alliance forces. The Conservatives, who received eight acclamations at the most recent contest, will get none in the next election, he says. In some ridings the opposition candidates will be Liberals, in others Progressives, and in still others the candidates will likely be Independents.

IT'S ON THE LABEL

It is very easy to forget when one subscribed for a publication and when the subscription expires. In the case of The Press it is not necessary for the subscriber to burden his memory with the detail, for the date on the label attached to each copy tells when the subscription expires and should be renewed in order to prevent any interruption in the regular visits of the publication. It will be greatly appreciated if readers will observe the label occasionally and renew promptly when expiration is near.

PAY YOUR TAXES

Port Elgin Times: Former councils did no kindness, but rather an injustice to delinquent taxpayers when they let their taxes run on without payment from year to year. Some people will say these are hard times and the council should be lenient with people who are behind in their taxes. This is all right if leniency would lessen or wipe off the obligation, but it is otherwise, for every year that taxes go behind and are not paid there are interest and expense added to the amount the taxpayer finally has to pay or lose his property. Therefore, though it may apppear hard, the council is really doing us a kindness when they make us pay each year's taxes as they become due.

No doubt many will take in the cheap excursion to Toronto and Detroit on Saturday. Lower rates have never been offered by the C.P.R. It's a grand opportunity to visit your friends in the West.

Mrs. Stubbs, of Morrisburg, sister of Mrs. Geo. Fraser and Mr. J. Gibson of Winchester, was taken to Cornwall General Hospital on Monday for a minor operation, which was successfully performed, and she is now on her way to recovery.

One of the oldest landmarks of the district was completely destroyed by fire early Friday evening, when the frame residence and an adjoining shed of Mr. James Park, one-half mile north of Finch village was burned with approximate damage of $1500.

A very pleasant evening was spent on Wednesday of last week when the members of Chesterville I.O.O.F. Lodge were "At Home" to their many friends. Euchre was played at twelve tables, prizes being won by Mrs. Alfred Jarvis and Mr. Tom Dillabough. Following lunch, dancing was enjoyed.

On Tuesday, April 18, a charming wedding took place at St. Mary's Church, Williamstown, when Miss Loretto Lucille Macdonald, R. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Macdonald, became the bride of Mr. James B. Gormley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gormley, Passaic, New Jersey.

OPERATION FOR EYE TROUBLE

Mr. J. C. Empey, village clerk, will go to Ottawa, to-morrow for a week's treatment for eye trouble, which may mean an operation. Mr. Empey has been troubled with his eyes for over a year, and his physician advised him to receive the treatment of a specialist.

GIRL SUICIDES

After dragging Cornwall canal for a quarter of a mile Friday, relatives of Miss Meriza St. Louis ended their search at 5.45 p.m., when the body of the unfortunate woman was found at a point opposite Seymour Avenue. Miss St. Louis left her mother's home, 35 York street about 7 o'clock Thursday evening without stating where she was going or when she would return. When she failed to reach home when her brother arrived about 11 o'clock that night, homes where it was thought she might be spending the evening were visited, but nothing had been seen of her there.

THOUGHTLESS YOUTH

The Press will not say they are bad boys, but simply thoughtless boys, boys who do not realize that they are violating the rules of common decency and breaking the laws of the land. We refer to a certain number of young lads who gather about the post office at night, when they should be in their homes. They have not only committed an indecency in writing with chalk on the brick wall of the post office, for which the law provides a severe penalty, but they have been thoughtless in using names. They have also been rude to passers by, and one night this week they broke the "no parking" sign in front of the post office. Perhaps this warning will be sufficient, but if not the lads may have to appear before the police magistrate, and that would not be very nice for either themselves or their parents.

MOREWOOD BRIDE-ELECT SHOWERED BY FRIENDS

A very pretty shower in honor of Margaret E. Coulthart was held on Friday afternoon last at the home of Miss Evelyn Marcellus. The rooms were attractively decorated in pale blue and white streamers with white bells. The bride-to-be entered the room on her mother's arm to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March. She was seated beneath a prettily decorated umbrella from which hung several balloons.

A well-laden wagon drawn by Lois Marcellus and Lucille Edgerton, and followed by Edith and Arnold Swerdfeger carrying the bride's book, were presented to the bride-elect. Miss Louva Allison read a fitting address. The gifts were then displayed and Miss Coulthart, in a few well-chosen words, thanked her friends.

Entertainment was provided by games and contests, and lunch was then served.

ROBINSON'S "PERFECT PIES" ARE PERFECT!

Yes Sir—they are not only perfect but are delicious, and how we should know. Our good friend, Chester, often treats the Press staff, but the other day when he walked in with a half dozen little individual pies, about 4 inches in diameter, and told the boys in the office to sample them, it was unanimously agreed that they were well named when called "Perfect Pies." They are the best individual pies we have ever sampled, and at 5 cents each, thy should sell exceedingly fast. They are on sale at all stores and refreshments booths or can be purchased from the Crown Bakery delivery vans. If you have not tried these pies, take a tip from us, "they are good." They are made in Winchester by local bakers, who know how to bake to satisfy the public taste. Encourage them by buying their products.
