School board explains-

Hopes high for new Public School for Chesterville

Joint council-board meeting clears way for action soon

Chesterville village may get a new public school in the near future. That was the concensus of opinion that arose from a special council and board meeting on Tuesday of this week. School board members went over in detail with the village government their problems and told of their present attitudes towards relieving some of them. Chairman Lorne Thompson had on hand figures just received from the public school inspector. The cost of a new six-room school would come to about three mills a year at present assessment rates. Many factors bear on a final decision to build, but this newspaper believes the board is unanimous that something must be done immediately.

Chesterville Public School rates will take a jump this year. The board will need something over $8,000 above last year's income to keep ahead of rising costs. Included in the costs are heavy repair expenditures. The present school, aside from overcrowding, has to have a new roof, the heating system is entirely inadequate and lighting is not up to proper standards. With these facts in mind, it was the board's wish to sound out council regarding the possibility of planning a new school. The board has already received some interesting facts and figures in the matter.

The school right now has a population of 154 divided as follows: Grades 1 and 2, 37; Grades 3 and 4, 36; Grades 5 and 6, 31, and Grades 7 and 8, 38. There are 12 in the Opportunity Class.

Each year the problem of housing the pupils gets greater. There is a steady though small increase in numbers and the facilities get more overloaded. The school was built in 1902 and through the years has been of immense value. But of late years, old age and too many children have worked the usual strains.

Considerable discussion centred around the acquisition of the present high school land for the site of the new school. It was pointed out that land would be returning to the village as soon as the North Dundas High School District had no further use of it. As soon as the new central school was in being, the property would be surplus and return to the town. It was pointed out that the Winchester site was in process of being turned over to that village at this very moment.

School board members felt that they could go ahead with much more confidence on new school plans as soon as the future disposition of the high school land was made known to the board. One of the decisions of the meeting Tuesday was to get that information as soon as possible.

Discussion of a new public school always brings up other possibilities. One of the most violent points of discussion centred around the need for kindergarten facilities in any new building. Here some members of the school board and the council disagreed. But the majority thought the pre-school students would benefit if the kindergarten training could be offered.

The school board had figures on hand received that day from M. N. Hutchinson, local Inspector of Public Schools. Estimated costs to add four rooms to the present building, close off the top floor, and install a new heating plant would come to almost the same figure as if a new six-room school was built. Each cost would be in the neighbourhood of three mills.

The meeting ended on a note of planning. Chairman Lorne Thompson and vice-chairman Stuart Allan plan a meeting again immediately with village council. They will ask that the property situation be clarified in the matter of the high school land. The view is that a new public school can be planned and built in a reasonably short time if land is made available or promised.

CRUMBS from Graham's Loaf

We started a mess of new machines this week in the emporium of sweat and tears commonly called the newspaper office. The installation followed the pattern of all other machines we have laid to final rest here. First came the arrival of a truck with the shrouded hunk of machinery lying in wait for the handiest hernia. Then the call would go out for all the free hands in the place and the grunt and groan session would begin. In the end, we have always managed to get the machinery indoors but a lot of figuring takes place before the doors close.

Back when our worries were much less, we went overboard and ordered a small cylinder press to fill a certain need. The idea was fine except the darn thing was too big for any door in the place. We ended up taking out the whole front of the office to make a big enough hole. Ever since the vagrant winds of Spring rush through the numerous gaps left when the boards were nailed back in place. Another time, Staff Campbell arrived with a crew and a fork lift to get a machine through the front window.

This is the last, we say now. Of course, we make the same prediction every time the bankroll suffers another depletion at the hands of the machinery dealers. But the offset press should round out our factory so we can do anything, promise anything and try anything. The only thing our machines will not do yet is distil moonshine, but we have a few ideas to try in that direction. The new press under the loving care of one of the b's of the b.s. did a pile of work already for our panting customers. And it promises to open a whole new range of work to offer the faithful.

Every time we install a new machine we look back on the days of the farm and the time we installed the first milking machine for Fred Marshall. Everything went along swimmingly until it came time to demonstrate the outfit. Choosing the nearest cow, we stepped up bravely, muttered "so, boss" and leaned down to attach the necessary teat-cups. Whether the cow was nervous, or we were careless, or what, but we suddenly ended up in the gutter gasping for air. The gentle cow had carefully planted her one hind hoof squarely in the relaxed breadbasket of the said machine demonstrator. For some 20 minutes we gasped and gargled for air, made nasty suggestions about the mixed ancestry of the cow. To this day a certain farmer comes to the "Record" office, renews his paper and sweetly inquires if we have been milking many cows lately.

Now that the flood is down and just about through the river, the Spring season will arrive with a rush. Geese have been flying up and down the stream of late, and the other morning a flock came within an ace of settling in Eric Casselman's barnyard. They plopped in below the dam site and floated down river talking contentedly to themselves. Then suddenly, out of the west, came grandpa. He must have been late getting up, because he was making heavy weather of the downstream trip. He flapped in just over the village bridge, making nasty early morning sounds and joined his family on the river. That old Caanda goose had the world all to himself for a few minutes on Friday morning. He looked down on this Crumb with a threatening gleam, so that we eased away from the river in case he came back with a couple of young honkers to outline the rights of geese in spring flight.

Last Wednesday a most successful fashion show was staged in Berwick by the United Church Women of the district. A capacity crowd was on hand early to clap the lovely models as they showed off their Spring finery. In the picture we have some of the models and some of the principals in charge of the affair. $15,000 blaze destroys store at Williamsburg

Roaring flames which destroyed an electrical appliance store and threatened to consume a nearby house and egg grading station, turned a quiet Sunday afternoon into a nightmare for village residents Sunday.

Within minutes after the outbreak, fire was racing through the two - storey imitiation-brick and metal covered store of Ross H. Beckstead. Two hours later the blaze was brought under control after prompt action by firemen from three communities had averted a potential disaster.

Mr Beckstead estimated cost of replacing the fire-gutted store at from $10,000 to $15,000. An estimated $10,000 worth of used stoves and refrigerators in the warehouse and on the second floor of the structure fell prey to the lapping flames.

First word of the fire flashed through the quiet community, about five miles north of Morrisburg, shortly after 2 p.m., when Hubert Wells spotted smoke rising from the rear of the store. Mr Wells, who lives in a two-storey dwelling about 20 feet east of the Beckstead store, came close to losing his own house in the blaze. Volunteers quickly removed the furniture from the Wells home, but lack of wind and excellent work on the part of the firemen was credited with saving the house.

The Williamsburg Egg Grading Station, almost flush with the west wall of the electrical store, was only slightly damaged. The cement block building was cleared of a huge supply of eggs and egg grading equipment as destruction seemed emminent. However, here again, the firemen managed to save the day.

Egg station owners, Bert McIntosh and Graham Garlough, said their business will be back in operation as usual.

Williamsburg Volunteer firebrigade arrived moments after the blaze was discovered. Village citizens, enjoying a quiet Sunday afternoon, began scurrying outdoors in the raw, 35 degree temperatures.

Morrisburg firemen arrived shortly afterwards, accompanied by several Ontario Provincial Police Officers from Morrisburg. Police stopped traffic on Highway 31 while hoses were strung across the road and firemen went into action. Curious motorists converged on the community from all directions as smoke could be seen as far north as Winchester Springs and for several miles in other directions.

Thousands of dollars worth of new electrical appliances were saved before the flames gained a hold on the store. The street was cluttered with television sets, electric stoves, refrigerators and other appliances as a steady drizzle fell over the village.

The scene of the fire was opposite the home of Dr. Mahlon Locke, the famous foot doctor who made Williamsburg famous with his ability to ease foot trouble. It was only one block east of the Locketon Lodge, which was destroyed in a $250,000 fire last September.

The rear of the electrical store was destroyed and the remainder of the building heavily gutted. Mr Beckstead said it is partially covered by insurance.

Cause of the fire is still unknown. The store was heated by an oil stove. But the oil supply was located some distance from the building.

Winchester Fire Brigade arrived before the fire was under control and immdiately went into action. Water was obtained from reservoirs which were built here several years ago for fire protection.

St. Paul's United Church Women sponsored a successful fashion show and tea in Berwick Community Hall on Wednesday afternoon last.

The latest in fashions were shown from Vogue Ladies' Wear and Jay-Gee Shoes, Cornwall. Flowers were by Muriel's Flowers, Winchester.

The pianist, Mrs Anne Nugent, opened the program with "O Canada." Mrs Dorothy Meldrum welcomed the guests. Commentator for the afternoon was George Assaly of Jay-Gee Shoes.

Models were Marilyn Ouderkirk, Shirley Ouderkirk, Freida Ouderkirk, Jennie Nichols, Lois Ouderkirk, Jessie Ouderkirk and Faye Meldrum.

The Sanders sisters sang "A Little Bitty Tear," accompanied by Mrs Prudie McIntosh at the piano. Connie Ouderkirk and Carold McRae danced two numbers.

Prizes were won by Mrs Billy Thompson, of Chesterville; Mrs Harold Rombough, Ingleside; Mrs Robert, Crysler; Mrs Ford Carruthers, Crysler; Mrs Oran Flannigan, Avonmore; Mrs Harry Gove, Newington; Mrs Bert Begg, Crysler; Miss Mary Curran, Berwick; Mrs Bernard Beehler, Crysler, and Mrs Grant Swerdfeger, Morewood.

Mr Assaly thanked the models and introduced Alex Abugov and his assistants of Vogue Ladies' Wear.

Rev Gordon Rajotte thanked everyone for the successful afternoon and tea was served.

Dundas County Federation of Agriculture plans annual meeting and banquet to be held at Winchester

At an executive meeting of the Dundas County Federation of Agriculture, held in the Legion Hall, Winchester, it was decided to combine the annual meeting of the directors and a banquet, open to all farmers and their wives in the county. The banquet will be held in the Masonic Hall diningroom, Winchester, on April 26. Tickets can be purchased from the Federation directors. There will be 190 tickets available. Art Musgrave, vice-president of the Ontario Federation, will be guest speaker. The directors' meeting will follow the banquet.

The secretary was instructed to send a letter to the provincial Member, Hon. F. M. Cass, Minister of Municipal Affairs, asking his support of the Farm Machinery Act, proposed by the Ontario Federation. The most important condition of this act is that farm machinery manufacturers and distributors of the province should be requested, by legislation ,to provide better availability of repair parts and services for farm machinery; that each manufacturer and distributor be required to maintain at least one major parts depot in the province; that parts be stocked for, at least, ten years from date of sale, and that a skeleton staff be maintained on Saturdays and holidays during the production season. This legislation would make it possible for local machinery dealers to give better service and prevent the exasperating wait for repairs in the busy seasons.

Vice-president Wm. McRoberts was congratulated on being elected a provincial director of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association.

Rotary hears Mrs T. D. Ross on special teaching programs

Mrs T. D. Ross teaches the Opportunity classes in the local public school. She told a fascinating story of her work to Chesterville Rotary Club on Monday night, following an introduction by Robert Coleman, principal of C.P.S.

In 1954 the Ontario Government passed special legislation providing for special auxiliary classes in elementary and secondary schools for children who require special help. The classes were to be taught only by specially trained teachers.

Basically the special classes are for those pupils who are seriously retarded in regular class work but who might benefit from special instruction and class study.

Mrs Ross stressed that the training was not for mentally retarded children, but for children retarded in school. She said a child can be retarded in school for many reasons other than mental reasons.

Four immediate reasons present themselves to the special teacher. They are physical, intellectual, emotional and environmental. Poor health, bad eyesight, etc., come under the physical classification. The speaker told of some means to help the student with these difficulties. In the field of intellect, Mrs Ross said that all students are not equipped mentally to complete the primary and secondary school courses. The opportunity classes afford them education they can assimilate.

One of the most difficult types of handicap to learning can be found in diverse and conflicting emotional stresses. The child may not be accepted by the school group or his playmates and as a result his learning is badly affected.

The last reason has to do with environment. Here the speaker noted that home conditions sometimes led to a rebellion against authority and any kind of regular training. It was up to the Opportunity teacher to try and smooth the path of the troubled student and offer interesting alternatives to resentment.

The thanks of the service club were expressed by C. A. Graham.

High School News

The exams are over and done now for a while and a celebration dance was held in the Community Hall on Friday night. The Students' Council rented a nickelodian and Ronny Merkley emceed the party.

The next big social evening for the High School is coming soon. This is the combined dance with Winchester High School, under our new name, North Dundas District Composite School. Committees from both schools have been set up to look after the orchestra, hall, coat check and refreshments. The dance will be held in the near future when both schools have completed examinations.

Arena group makes further plans

A public meeting attended by approximately 50 persons Tuesday night endorsed present plans of Community Centre Board members. They vigorously supported the idea of a covered arena in the park. A tentative committee was set up to consider ways and means of raising the necessary $65,000 for the project.

Form Chesterville, district Minor Sports Association

A beginning was made in the formation of a Minor Sports Association at a meeting in Chesterville Community Hall on Sunday afternoon.

Purpose of the group is to finance and direct sports activities of Chesterville and district youngsters and to promote sports of all kinds.

It was decided that a number of the committee should attend the council meeting Thursday night to request that a referendum be held for Sunday sports.

It was also decided that invitations be sent out to a number of sports-minded village citizens in order that a larger and more permanent group of officers could be elected.

Chosen to head the first committee on a temporary basis were: President, Lorne Thompson; sec.-treas., Leonard Shane; recording secretary, N. LaPrade.

OPINIONS . . . OURS AND OTHERS

Easter Seals help a great deal

The district here has received through the mails a flood of Easter Seal envelopes. Inside are a packet of seals and a plea for a contribution to help the good work.

Chesterville Rotary Club takes a justified pride in its excellent work with underpriviliged and crippled children of the district and town. Over the years, the club has never turned a deaf ear to a cry for help, when competent investigation showed a need.

It would only be repetition to name some of the services the club undertakes during the course of a season. But braces, supports, eye tests and glasses, camping vacations at special camps and many other services are given those who are unable to help themselves.

This is the time of year we are asked to dig into our pockets and make a donation. Large or small, it will be appreciated and used only for the underprivileged and crippled children of proven need.

Last year your donations came to just $2,000. The need was there for even more than that.

Will you help again this year? Would an extra dollar really make the bankroll seem so much smaller? Whatever you can spare, tuck it in the pink envelope and drop it in the mail.

Your share may mean a smile instead of a painful frown.

Hooray for the Nation flood

One of the joys of living in this part of the country in the Spring is reading all about the mighty Nation in full flood. Even when the flood is hardly enough to get the muskrats swimming, our daily newspapers, radio and TV make a notable mountain of it.

This year was one of those years. At the peak, the water was within a foot of the top of the Hughes wall, on the south bank in town. That is classed as a piddling flood.

The water went over the road at Cass Bridge as usual, but not enough to stop traffic. The upper reaches of the valley went under water for the annual load of precious silt, the cows went upstairs for the duration and everything was normal.

Right now, we are messing around with the last of a most unseasonal ten inches of snow that blew in Saturday and Sunday. But soon the 'pouts will be biting, the worms rising in the lawn and Spring may just get here at last. Without a flood.

Provincial meat inspection measures

Action being taken by the Ontario government to curb the sale of meat unfit for human consumption is a step in the right direction, declares the Ottawa Citizen. But it falls short of what is required—a foolproof system of inspections.

Premier Robarts seems to put particular stock in an amendment to the Dead Animals Disposal Act which would require meat dealers to colour with charcoal all meat that cannot be used for human consumption. The problem with a measure of this kind is that it is most difficult to enforce.

Much more realistic is the provision for increasing the penalties for persons caught selling diseased or dead animals for human consumption. Maximum fines will increase to $5,000 from $100 and possible jail terms to six months from 30 days.

Dr Matthew Dymond, Minister of Health, has told the Ontario Legislature that only one other province, Manitoba, was interested in a proposed federal-provincial conference on meat inspection. Some system has to be found to ensure that all animals are inspected before and after slaughter in this province. To this end there should be the closest possible co-operation between federal and provincial authorities.

The federal government is now responsible for inspection of meat only where interprovincial or export trade is involved. The result is that some 20 per cent of marketed meat is not inspected. Efforts must be made to fill the gap either by an extended federal inspection system or new inspection services within the province.

Inflation is ignored

In some ways people have been curiously unconcerned about inflation in Canada. We say this is strange, because it has undermined the value of certain assets owned by most Canadians. The Cornwall Standard-Freeholder observes that this is of major importance to people at the peak of their earning power and looking forward to what they hope will be a comparatively comfortable old age.

Money in the bank, for instance, has been losing purchasing power through inflation at a rate comparable to the interest paid. Other forms of savings bearing a fixed interest suffer the same handicap. It has been pointed out that 40 years from now money will have declined to the point where an ordinary car will cost $50,000 and a package of cigarettes $1.15.

This is no trivial matter. In France many people's savings have been wiped out, and pensions which should have been adequate will not buy the most meagre necessities. Inflation in Canada has been far more moderate and steady, but it has been going on for 30 years. It tends to work against thrift and the settled virtues by nullifying the rewards of a life of labour and reasonable living.

This has become such an accepted fact of economic life that there is little protest against it. But we cannot know how huch our society has been changed and is still changing from the effects of inflation. The entire process, in a way, is attended by a double misfortune.

As we learned during the depression years, a deflation is perhaps more of a shock to the economy than inflation, and causes even more wide-spread misfortune than gradual inflation. If only there was some way to avoid either extreme the outlook would be better for all concerned.

Ontario Legislature Report

By Hon. F. M. Cass, Q.C.

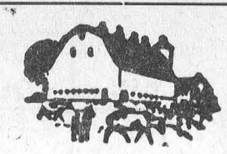
Provincial liquor laws came in for revision and discussion in the House and in Committee during this week. Certain amendments including the abolition of the annual permit, introduced by the Chief Liquor Commissioner, sparked a considerable debate. The Leader of the Liberal Opposition made a short but very interesting statement of his Party's platform on liquor. One of the highlights of the Liberal policy was the abolition of local option. This is a most involved issue and it is doubtful if the people of Ontario at large would be anxious to remove from the decision of the people in any municipality the very controversial problem of the manner of sale, or even the right of sale, of liquor in their own area.

During sittings of the Select Committee on Government Commissions, the Chairman, Judge W. T. Robb, explained in detail the policies of the Liquor Licence Board and served public notice on operators of sub-standard outlets that the Board would require prompt changes for the better or licences would be cancelled. Judging from the small amount of criticism during the Committee meeting, it would seem that despite a great deal of newspaper comment, the present liquor laws, as amended from time to time, are not really so archaic. The Government also has indicated that some further amendments to our liquor laws may be expected this year.

Estimates of the Departments of Health and of Lands and Forests were considered, debated, and duly passed during the week. Once again the Liberal Members performed their duty as official opposition in a very interesting but wordy manner and except for some excellent debate by the NDP Leader and much effusive wordage from NDP Member Bryden, seem to have taken back from the CCF-NDP carriage of opposition functions. This is one of the most decided and heartening developments of this year's Session of the Assembly.

A great numbers of bills were introduced and many others were dealt with by Commitee and the House. Those which had reached third reading, some twenty-nine in number, received Royal Assent on a special visit by the Lieutenant Governor during the Friday Session and have now become laws of the Province. Slowly, but nonetheless surely, the work of the House for this Session is approaching an end. With very few exceptions, all new legislation has been introduced, the estimates of over half of the Departments of the Government have been approved and many of the Standing Committees of the House have completed their work. Delegations continue to occupy much time of many Members as they place their problems and requests before appropriate Ministers with the backing of their Members. And it really is quite surprising just how much can be accomplished by a personal interview with the responsible Minister and his Departmental officials.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS



By Lillian Allison

"Can we get through Highway 31 at Cass Bridge?" I inquired Sunday morning at church. We were going to Prescott after the service and didn't want to get turned back at the Winchester corner.

"Oh, sure," someone assured me. "The flood has gone down since yesterday."

There was no evidence of flood when we turned south on Highway 31. There was water in the ditches and fields which was being increased by the drizzle of wet snow that was falling but this was quite ordinary. What we saw as we approached Cass Bridge cheese factory, however, wasn't.

Suddenly on either side of the pavement there were lakes. The water stretchd on as far as we could see. We slowed the car to a crawl. The water was lapping along both sides of the road. It was like driving over a causeway. The entrance to the Nation Valley road was still visible and some brave soul headed a car down there as we approached but the road west to Oak Valley was completely inundated. A sea of cold, grey water covered the whole area.

From the bridge there was no sign of the river. And there was little sign of most of the fences. For a half mile the fences dividing the fields from the road-allowance were completely covered. Other fences were out of sight for some distance as well. Houses and barns stood bravely in the big lake and trees and shrubs were soaked in the water.

South of the bridge a big highway truck and a smaller one waited watching for danger. They sat at the beginning of the area where the water was running over the road. Highway crews had placed steel posts along the edge of the pavement to guide motorists.

There was a loud swish as our tires hit the water. The water on the pavement was 10 - 12 inches deep. At times the white line was hardly visible. If the water rose any more traffic would have to be re-routed, we decided. We swished along through a quarter mile of water while more water on both sides of us sloshed back and forth in small waves.

Farther south more and more fence posts showed above the flood. The shoulders of the road re-appeared into view. By the time we reached the little bush north of Winchester Springs the flood was completely behind us.

"That was really something," I said as we drove into the village. And we both promised that we would never live in that flood area even if the farm were free. We also suggested that any farmer wishing to sell his farm would be wise to do so in July and choose a stranger for a buyer. We thought of the people who were living in isolation there and what problems they must be having. We wondered if they suffered from claustrophobia.

Then it occurred to me that I had lived within a half dozen miles of Cass Bridge for 21 years and had never before seen the spring flood. Of course I always wanted to go up when the flood was high and a couple of years ago I almost did. But something always intervened.

It isn't that I wasn't interested. I watched the newspapers for pictures. I checked the radio news reports on the flood. I listened bug-eyed as people described it to me. But I never quite got around to see it myself.

And as the song says that's about as normal as blueberry pie. A show of hands among the people who live within ten miles of Cass Bridge yet have never seen the flood would prove I am not alone. Now if the flood were at Morrisburg, Russell or Ingleside we'd probably go to see it. But maybe not. People being the way we are we just don't get excited about the sights and scenes near home.

I imagine it would be amazing how many people in our local area have never seen the parks along Lake St. Lawrence. And while folks come from all over to see Upper Canada Village hundreds within 25 miles have never passed the Toll Gate. Probably they reason that it can't be any good or it wouldn't be so near by.

How many of us have ever seen inside the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa? How many have visited the Mint, the National Gallery, the Museum? Who has seen inside Fort Wellington at Prescott or driven through the beautiful grounds at Kemptville Agricultural School?

You know it's disgraceful that you haven't seen the sights so near home and I can really scold you now that I've seen the spring flood at Cass Bridge.

Lamb turns lion, Stormont's P. Manley assails Minister

Peter Manley is not a man you expect to pack the House in Toronto, reports the Tononto Star.

The Liberal member for Stormont in his 10 years in the chamber has been a mild, gentlemanly man.

He has pointed out failings and weaknesses of the government, particularly as they concerned his riding and eastern Ontario.

But there has been nothing in the deliberate manner of this stockily-set small man to invite excitement.

But now that has been changed. The minister of Agriculture, Hon. W. A. Stewart and some of his colleagues on the government side got the Manley dander up.

And from now on, when he rises to speak he will be getting rapt attention.

The details are not too important.

Mr Manley asked Mr Stewart a routine question about an $11,000 expenditure to a firm of cheese brokers.

The minister replied that this had been a make-good payment for some cheese the company had bought and which had gone bad.

But Mr Stewart is still new in his job, and somewhat politically immature. He is a great man to throw veiled barbs. And, in his answer, he added that Mr Manley probably knew about this shipment as it came from his home riding.

With some members you might as well hit their child as cast a slur against their home ridings, and Mr Manley is one of these.

He gave it to Mr Stewart with all barrels. And in the dressing-down a number of the minister's colleagues who were rash enough to interject, got shelled also.

The lamb truly turned into a lion with a touch of bull-dog thrown in.

And the government benches will be a bit more careful about rousing Mr Manley in the future.

Actually the Stormont member over the years has been one of the outstanding private members in the House.

He is dedicated to his riding and its people, and there is not a member who services his constituents any better.

Despite the fact he has always been an opposition member, he has fought well and quite successfully in their interests. And if there is any gathering or function pertaining to government in his area, he is there.

It is no wonder, that the PC's consider him one of the strongest of Liberals and never look forward to any real expectation of beating him.

The BIBLE TODAY . . .

The Most Reverend F. O. Coggan, Archbishop of York and President of the United Bible Societies, when addressing the World Council of Churches at New Delhi on the subject of "The Bible and the Churches' Need," said, when dealing with the section on "Facing the World's Need:" "The challenge comes to us forcefully, to look to our priorities lest we go to our warfare either with weapons totally inadequate for the task, or with weapons so blunted by the passing of the years that they fail to do the job for which they were made." Among the facts presented by Dr Coggan was the statement that in all the countries of Asia, from Korea to Iran, (excluding China and Japan) there were 133,000,000 children of school age in 1960. Primary schools exist for 67 millions.

The number of Gospels distributed in the area numbered only 3,000,000! One for every 40 children.

BUY MORE FROM WOODLOTS

New Brunswick's Agriculture Federation wants the provincial government to force pulp and paper companies to buy from woodlot farmers and settlers before they can cut on Crown lands, reports The Financial Post.

The Federation also wants the government; To set purchase price of such pulp-wood based on the average of the past 10 years at $25 a cord delivered at mills. To guarantee long-term loans to farmers chartered banks or credit unions, and pay interest on such loans exceeding three per cent.

UPSWING IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

A moderate upswing along a broad business front is in store for British Colombia this year, says Neville Nankivell in The Financial Post's feature report on the province. Big gains are seen in mining, oil and gas. Pulp and paper expansion should give the economy a push. Rising returns are evident in tourism, port business and agriculture. Fishing and construction, though are soft spots. Retail sales have been dragging. Unemployment runs high.

This critical question remains: Will the upturn have enough steam to provide jobs for a steadily expanding labor force? Premier W. A. C. Bennett is pinning his hopes for a vigorous new cycle of business expansion on huge investments in hydro power. One of the projects, the giant Peace River scheme, is already under way. But the other on the Columbia River, was still stalled in March due to a political hassle with Ottawa.

TIPS ON A FAST, SAFE START FOR CALVES

Heifers on the Purina Farm calve 4 to 8 months ahead of average. That means they give around 3,000 lbs. of milk before most heifers have even started producing. Why don't you try it!

1. As soon as the calf is dropped, cut off the navel cord about 2 inches from the calf's body and soak the stub in iodine to prevent infection.

2. For the first three days leave the calf with the mother so it can get the first colostrum milk which helps regulate the digestive system. Milk to even pressure in all 4 quarters, but do not empty udder completely. Guard calf against draughts and dampness.

3. For the next ten days, keep calf in an individual pen. Pen should have clean bedding and be disinfected with Purina Disinfectant before calf is moved in.

4. On the fourth day start feeding Purina Nursing Chow in gruel form 1 lb. replaces 1 gal. milk. Continue for four weeks. Calf should have clean water and rock salt available free choice.

5. Self-feed Purina Calf Startena from 4 days to 4 months, adding bright leafy hay at 2 months.

6. After 4 months change to a Purina heifer growing program.

Why not give me a call, or drop in at my Store with the Checkerboard Sign and let me tell you how Purina feeding has been paying off for many of your neighbours.

Dreaded disease causing blindness control explained

A striking story of a prevention programme that saved the sight of millions was told today by Mr. Ivan L. Hunter of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. In a CNIB salute to Prevention of Blindness Week now under way in 109 member countries of the World Health Organization, he spoke of the sudden appearance of a mysterious disease. About ten years ago it began to attack the eyes of newly-born babies. For no apparent reason the disease known as retrolental fibroplasis began attacking prematurely-born babies who spent the first few weeks of their life in hospital incubators.

In larger Canadian cities a few cases appeared but in the United States the condition reached almost epidemic proportions. Eight thousand U.S. infants were blinded in this way. By 1954 it had become the largest single cause of blindness among children in England.

While cases were mounting in some countries, Australia reported only thirty babies blinded by this disease. Dr. Kate Campbell of Melbourne noted that the condition coincided with the lavish use of oxygen for incubated premature babies. He idea was taken up at the Institute of Ophthalmology London, England and there it was proven conclusively that life-giving oxygen was the thief of vision for thousands of tiny infants all over the world. The doctors found that the children were receiving more oxygen than their eyes could stand. This resulted in scar tissue forming in the eye.

"Prevention of the disease is simple," Mr Hunter said. "They just cut down the oxygen entering the incubator. The amount of oxygen is now limited to a safe level and retrolental fibroplasia, has almost completely disappeared. Never, in the history of the world, has an eye problem appeared so suddenly, done so much damage and then been so completely abolished," he said. "This wonderful success is due to team-work between the doctors, researchers and medical personnel all over the world. Because of their work millions of young people in Canada and the other countries across the globe have their sight today. Their achievement lends a vivid meaning to the WHO theme, Preserve Sight — Prevent Blindness".

Churches at Lunenburg and Long Sault discuss union

Possibility of uniting the United Church pastoral charges of Long Sault and Lunenburg was explored at a congregational meeting at St. Andrew's United Church, Long Sault.

The congregation of St. Andrew's voted to appoint a "boundaries committee" to approach a similar committee from the Lunenburg church.

Rev S. B. Profitt, of Ingleside, chairman of Glengarry Presbytery of the United Church, acted as chairman for the meeting. He explained to the congregation the steps for arranging a possible combination of the two churches into a two-point pastoral charge.

The possibility of doing this was considered because Mr Fred Jewell, student mnister at Lunenburg, will be appointed to another charge upon his graduation this summer. For some time to come, at least, it will probably be difficult for Lunenburg to arrange for a regular minister. For that reason the Lunenburg people asked Presbytery to meet with Long Sault congregation.

The congregation was asked to take a ballot on continuing negotiations, which resulted in favour of the proposal. A committee was chosen to meet a committee from Lunenburg.

The meeting was opened with a devotional period led by the minister of St. Andrew's, Dr W. A. Glazer.

Unlocked cars encourage thieves and "joy riders" says the Ontario Safety League. In 1961 313 stolen vehicles in Ontario were involved in accidents; two of these accidents involved fatalities, and 50 caused personal injuries.

Martha Belle Hanna

Martha Belle Hanna passed away at her home early Monday morning.

She was born in September, 1903, daughter of the late John Hanna and his wife, the former Agnes Cheley. She received her education in the local school and was a member of Colquhoun United Church.

The deceased had been in failing health for a number of years, having returned from Memorial hospital, Winchester, five days prior to her death. A sister, Amelia and a brother George survive. Three brothers, Alexander, Philip and Thomas and a sister Abbie predeceased her.

One of the signs of a careful driver, says the Ontario Safety League, is that he invariably glances left, then right, before starting up when the traffic light turns green.

Philip Alvin Burd

The funeral of the late Philip Alvin Burd, Crysler, was held at Knox Presbyterian Church, Crysler. Rev. A. W. Williamson officiated.

Mr Burd died February 23, 1962, at Winchester Memorial Hospital, he was 77 years old. Mr Burd was born on the old homestead at Crysler on January 18, 1885, son of the late John Burd and his wife Alice Hollister.

He married Annice Edith Irven in 1912.

Mr Burd is survived by 3 daughters — Mrs Lloyd Van Allen (Elsie May), Morrisburg, Mrs Wilfred Lang (Alice Rose) Berwick, Mrs William Tupper (Evelyn) Montreal and two sons, Grant at home and Allan R. Burd, Ottawa.

Burial was made in the Crysler Presbyterian cemetery. Pall bearers were Lloyd Burd, Charlie Burd, Lorne Feeley, Lorne Irven, Elmer Flegg and Lyall Hutt, nephews of the deceased.

The many floral tributes and messages of condolences received as well as the large number who called at the Funeral Home and attended the service, were indications of the high esteem held for Mr Burd.

Holy Week services in area churches

Following a precedent set in 1959 when the Week of Prayer services were held in January, the Williamsburg and neighbouring churches are planning a week of services for prayer and meditation for the fourth time.

In 1961 the services were held in Holy Week instead of the early part of January. This year also, the services will be during Holy week, the week in which Good Friday comes. The first service of the series will be in Knox Presbyterian Church of Winchester Springs with the Rev. E. Hawkes in charge at 8 o'clock the evening of Sunday April 15. The series, under the title, "The Road to the Cross" will be initiated at this service.

On Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights the services will be in Williamsburg at the United, the Lutheran, and the Christian Reformed Churches respectively. The Wednesday night service will be at Dundela United Church with the pastor, the Rev. Ralph Brookson of Elma conducting.

The services will focus attention on the last week of the Saviour's earthly life and His atonement on the Cross. The Monday service in Williamsburg United Church will be conducted by the Rev. Wellwood A. Adam; the Tuesday Service at St. Peter's Lutheran Church will be led by the Rev. Andrew Blackwell and the Thursday service in the Christian Reformed Church will bring the series to its climax under the direction of the Rev. Hilbert Van der Plaat.

In past years, the attendance and interest continued to mount during the week. A successful series is anticipated again this year. Everyone is welcome to attend any or all of the services. The offerings, after costs, will be given to the Canadian Bible Society. The series of services has been arranged by the Williamsburg Ministerial Association.

A donation to the Canadian Cancer Society is an investment in health and happiness.

The Ontario Safety League urges all car owners to carry proper insurance. Without it, a moment of carelessness or bad luck at the wheel could result in a lifetime of debt. Uninsured drivers, who pay an additional $20 under the new regulations before they can get a motor vehicle permit, are reminded that this payment does not give them any protection. They will still be fully liable for any damages awarded against them as the result of an accident. The $20 charge is an excellent move for the public good; but it is an extremely poor gamble for the individual who chooses to pay it rather than buy insurance.

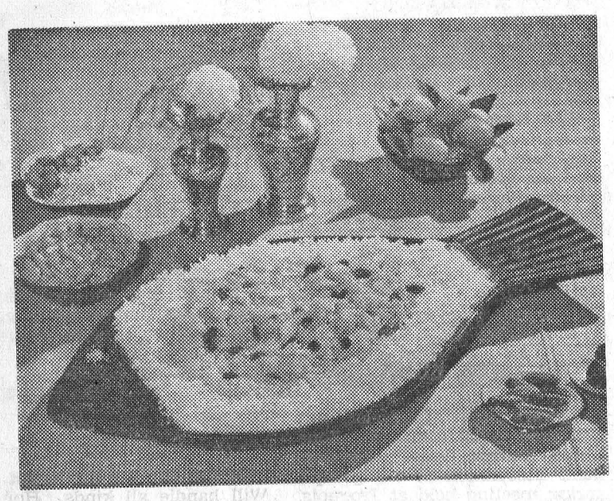
EVERYBODY EATS - TRY THESE

By Helen Graham



Creamy Salmon Curry is a simple main dish which can lend a touch of glamour to a meal. Served in true Indian style it is accompanied by condiments. Some traditional ones are chutney, chopped pickle, chopped nuts, raisins, and cocoanut.—Department of Fisheries of Canada Photo.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT IN FISH RECIPES

CANADA'S DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES turn out some pretty good recipes during the year, but I always think they must save their best ones for the Lenten esason. Here are a few of their ideas for Lent 1962:

Creamy Salmon Curry

Something different in seasonings.

- 1 can (7¾ ounces) salmon
- 2 tbsps. butter or other fat
- 2 tbsps. flour
- 1 tsp. curry powder
- ½ tsp. sugar
- ⅛ tsp. ground ginger
- 2 tbsps. minced onion
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ½ cup liquid (salmon liquid plus milk)
- ½ cup light cream
- ½ tsp. grated lemon rind
- 2 cups cooked rice

Drain salmon, reserving liquid. Break salmon into bite-size chunks. Heat butter; blend in flour, curry powder, sugar, ginger, minced onion and salt. Slowly add mixed salmon liquid and milk, followed by cream. Cook and stir over low heat until sauce is smooth and thickened. Do not allow sauce to boil. Add salmon and lemon rind; heat. Serve over hot cooked rice. Makes 4 servings.

Speedy Salmon Chowder

- 1 can (15½ ounces) salmon
- 2 cans (10 ounces each) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
- 3 soup cans liquid (salmon liquid plus milk)
- ½ tsp. grated lemon rind

Drain salmon, reserving liquid. Break salmon into bite-size chunks. Crush soft bone with a fork and add it to liquid. In a deep saucepan combine frozen soup with blended salmon liquid and milk. Heat gently, stirring often, until mixture begins to simmer. Add salmon and grated lemon rind. Reheat but do not let boil. Makes 6 servings.

Crispy-Topped Fillets

- 2 lbs. frozen cod fillets
- 2 tbsps. butter or other fat
- ½ tsp. salt
- 2 tbsps. butter, melted
- 2 tbsps. flour
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ⅛ tsp. nutmeg
- ½ tsp. dry mustard
- 1 cup liquid (fish juices plus milk)
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- ¾ cup grated Cheddar cheese
- 1½ cups coarsely crushed potato chips

Place frozen fillet blocks in a broad, shallow, well-greased baking pan or dish. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 20 minutes, or until cooked. Remove from oven and drain, reserving pan juices. Add enough milk to juices to make 1 cup liquid. Sprinkle fillets with ½ teaspoon of salt. Cut into serving-size portions. Set aside while preparing sauce.

Combine melted butter, flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, nutmeg and dry mustard. Add combined milk and fish juices gradually. Cook mixture over medium heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Add lemon juice and cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Pour sauce over well-drained, cooked fillets; sprinkle with potato chips. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes longer. Serve piping hot. Makes 6 servings.

Fisherman's Pie

- 2 lbs. halibut
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 tbsp. chopped onion
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1½ cups liquid (fish juices plus milk)
- 2 tbsps. butter, melted
- 2 tbsps. flour
- ½ tsp. salt
- 3 cups hot seasoned and whipped mashed potatoes
- ½ cup grated cheese

Season fish with ½ teaspoon salt. Wrap in steam-tight envelope of aluminum foil, lightly greased on the inside. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.), allowing 15 minutes cooking time per inch thickness of fish, if fresh or thawed, and 30 minutes per inch if fozen. When cooked, drain, reserving juices. Flake into greased 2-quart casserole, discarding any skin and bone. Sprinkle with onion and Worcestershire sauce. Add milk to fish juices to make 1½ cups liquid. Blend melted butter, flour and ½ teaspoon salt. Add liquid gradually. Cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Pour sauce over fish. Top with potatoes. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 25 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Kipper Toasts

The new boil-in-bag kippers make a delicious, British-style supper dish when served in this manner. Cook the kippers as directed on the package. Drain well, and cut to fit slices of hot buttered toast. Sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Place under the broiler just long enough to melt and brown the cheese. Serve piping hot, garnished with parsley and tomato wedges.

DO-IT-YOURSELF MOTOR BIKE

Easy-to-install power unit that can be attached to the front wheel of a bicycle, gives speeds up to 30 mph and fuel consumption rate of about 100 miles to the gallon says the manufacturer. The 2.5 hp motor is mounted over the front wheel. It powers a steel drum on the top of the front tire and the drum drives the wheel forward.

The March meeting of Chesterville Women's Institute was held in the library on Wednesday, March 28, with a good attendance.

Plans were made to tour Nestlé's this Spring and Caldwell's in the Fall. Donations were voted towards Easter Crippled Children's Fund and to Dundas District Variety Show Fund. Plans for the fashion show were completed.

The program, convened by Mrs L. Sinclair, was on Health. Two interesting film strips were shown by Gerald Desormeaux and Brian Brady, students of Chesterville High School. A sing-song was enjoyed, with Mrs Eric Casselman as pianist.

Lunch was served by the committee: Mrs L. Sinclair, Mrs K. Merkley, Mrs E. Bollegraaf, Mrs George Barkley and Mrs J. Pringle.

Following the meeting, the Women's Institute catered to approximately 100 members of the Milk Producers.

Ottawa River. All these things and many more elicit admiring comments from visitors. These visitors come in great numbers from other parts of Canada and from other countries of the world. In fact, during the impressive "Changing of the Guard" ceremony (this year from June 30 to September) the average is about 3,000 visitors touring the Parliament Buildings every day.

Probably the most effective room, the most unusual and the most beautiful as well, is the Library. It recalls the lines by Keats—"A thing of beauty is a joy forever, its loveliness increases."

Certainly the pleasing circular design, the richness of the carved white pine, the dignity of its height and the valuable paraquet floor, all combine to make the room a work of art. Even the most unromantic would feel this and at the same time be impressed by the important usefulness of this beauty spot.

Daily, Members of Parliament, Senators, journalists, civil servants, refer to its shelves for information. Thousands of others refer to it for study or reading pleasure. There are large collections of Canadiana, law, history, biography, finance and banking, Parliament history and procedure, politics and foreign affairs. There are also maps, microfilms, the largest collection of bound newspapers in Canada, some 85,000 pamphlets, unique scrapbooks, as well as modern fiction.

The book collection was once estimated at 700,000 volumes. This has decreased considerably since the establishment of the National Library in 1952. Approximately 250,000 volumes have already been turned over to the National Library, and many more are destined to follow once it moves to its permanent home.

The Library of Parliament is administered directly by the Parliamentary Librarian, who holds the rank of Deputy Minister, and by the Associate Parliamentary Librarian, both of whom "are responsible for the faithful discharge of their official duties, as those duties are defined by regulations agreed upon by the Speakers of the two Houses, and concurred in by the joint committee on the Library." This joint committee is currently composed of forty-four Members of Parliament and seventeen Senators, in addition to the two Speakers, who are joint chairmen. The Library staff consists of sixty-two, which includes twenty-one librarians.

The Ontario Safety League report an unusual feature in the 12-points suspension system for errant drivers in force in North Carolina. At the seven-points level drivers are called in for a conference with licensing officials. If they wish, they may then erase three points by attending a driver improvement clinic.
