Crysler thieves 'quiet and polite'

CRYSLER (Staff) - 'Polite and strong' thieves broke into Crysler Egg and Feed Co. here late Friday evening or early Saturday morning last week, according to the company's vice-president, Yvon Lafleur.

The thieves made off with a quantity of cheques and some cash (approximately $1,000) said Mr. Lafleur. There is rarely that quantity of money in the safe, he remarked, since he goes to the bank quite regularly. The safe has always served as a fire protection for invoices and bills, he said.

Mr. Lafleur's remark that the thieves were polite and strong referred to the fact the 800 lbs. or more, safe was carefully moved from the office into the plant to break into it.

The thieves were careful in the office to the extent of placing the chairs on top of desks in order to move the safe and although there was little room in the plant in which to break open the safe, did not break any machinery or boxes in the plant.

Entry was gained via the back door to the basement which was ripped off its hinges, he said.

Constable Carriere of the Long Sault detachment of the OPP is investigating. No charges have been laid yet.

Fact-finder's report complete

CORNWALL (Staff) - The fact-finder's report, on the negotiations between the trustees and teachers of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Separate School Board, has been completed and negotiations between the two groups continues.

The fact-finder, Luc D'Iorio, was appointed Thurs., Sept. 24 with an approximately 30-day time-frame within which to complete his report. Under the School Boards and Teachers Collective Negotiations Act the teachers and trustees now have a period of 15 days for further negotiations on the basis of this report. A further five days' extension can be agreed upon by teachers, trustees and the Education Relations Commission.

If at the end of either 15 or 20 days negotiations, the parties have not reached an agreement, the fact finders report is made public.

The fact-finder's report consists of material ascertained with regard to which matters in the dispute have been agreed upon, which have not and other facts relevant to a settlement, including any recommendations.

Mr. D'Iorio was assisted by Joe Brazeau of North Bay in the assignment.

Osnabruck exploring need for Sr. Citizen housing

OSNABRUCK CENTRE (Staff) - Osnabruck Township council have agreed to explore the need for additional senior citizen housing in the township, provided by the private sector.

A representative of Bourgon Construction of Cornwall attended the council meeting last Tuesday evening (November 10) to approach council on the matter, said clerk-treasurer Tom Melesky.

The Ontario government is moving away from provincially owned and constructed housing, he explained. The trend in future will be toward privately built, owned and managed housing, with subsidization provided to residents in case of need as at present, he continued.

Council will draw upon the Cornwall Housing Authority, local clergy and senior citizen groups as resources to determine needs, said Mr. Melesky.

The mandate of the by-law enforcement officer, John Garrett Wheeler, has been amended to allow the township to prosecute offenders under the dog control bylaw, said Mr. Melesky.

Council also approved a zoning amendment to allow for future expansion at the Ingleside shopping centre, on a continuous basis, said Mr. Melesky. As the zoning by-law was written, expansion was permitted but was required to be separate from the existing building.

No extensions for Crysler subdivision

BERWICK (Staff) - After several extensions to the draft plan for Phase II of the Crysler subdivision, Finch Township council instructed clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey to advise Mrs. William Smith there will be no further extensions.

The present extension expires December 22. It was granted on the understanding Mrs. Smith or her solicitor would undertake to obtain a subdivider's agreement.

In a letter from Mrs. Smith's solicitor, J.D. Wentzell, council learned she had no intention of ever developing the land but was searching for a buyer for the property. Mrs. Smith is more than 80 years of age, stated Mr. Wentzell, and is actively seeking a buyer.

Mr. Wentzell indicated Mrs. Smith hopes to obtain a better price for the property in the spring and requested a further extension until June, 1982.

Mr. Empey told council the preparation of the subdivider's agreement Mrs. Smith had refused to sign had cost the township approximately $1,200. The agreement provides for a 50-50 cost sharing on the preparation of the document, but left unsigned, the township have had to foot the entire bill, explained Mr. Empey.

Reeve Ralph MacKenzie and councillor Johnson Ouderkirk put forth the view it would be in the township's interest to deal directly with the prospective purchaser rather than Mrs. Smith, who will not be developing the land.

Mr. MacKenzie noted somewhere in the process the emphasis had shifted from the township's development interest to Mrs. Smith's obtaining a good price for the land.

Council passed a bylaw amending the assessments on the Komesch-Logtens drain. The drain had been estimated at $51,918.50 and in fact cost $39,108.69 to construct.

Mr. Empey presented a sample assessment; an ARDA property on the drain was originally assessed at $23,000. The revised construction cost lowered this to $17,000. The land-owner's one-third share is therefore $5,800 before allowances for damages have been made. When damage allowances (made for the spreading of ground on the property and any other necessary alterations) are deducted from the actual cost charged the landowner is $2,200 said Mr. Empey.

In other business, council agreed to replace the two wooden doors on the township garage while the insulation and siding are being installed. Roads Superintendent Reg Burd explained the wooden doors swell in the wet and shrink when they dry. Steel doors will be installed at an approximate cost of $650 agreed council.

Merchants will have the option of giving the tickets free as a goodwill gesture with a purchase or may offer them for sale, should they choose to, said Mr. McNaughton.

Tickets should be available from merchants by the weekend, he added and noted all funds raised by the Rotary Club find their way back into the community.

Split grades - nothing new for rural schools

A small population spread thinly often makes it necessary to join two grades together

(Staff) - Moving between the aisles of squiggling, and figeting grade two students Alice Weaver quietly gives instructions on how to choose the word to fit the blank space in the sentence. As the grade two students begin to puzzle at the sentences and the words in their workbook, Mrs. Weaver, in an equally quiet voice, addresses the six grade one students in her class.

They are told to take out one of their workbooks with the pictures to be coloured. Mrs. Weaver begins to ask a number of questions about the picture.

To an observer following the questions being directed to each grade requires concentration. But to the teacher and her students there is no problem deciphering which instruction is being directed to which group.

Alice Weaver teaches a split grade at Chesterville Public School. She has 23 grade 2 students and six grade 1 students.

With declining enrolment threatening the survival of many rural schools advocates of the use of more split grades, rather than the closure of a local school are becoming more vocal.

School closures can spell longer bus trips for young students travelling to their school, which also means rising earlier in the morning, and arriving home later in the evening.

School closures also mean the loss of a close connection between the school and the families it serves, and a loss of a meeting place for the community.

Parents for Education Progress (PEP), an educational pressure group in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry advocates the increasing use of split grades and comprehensive schools (with Kindergarten to grade 13) rather than the closure of small rural schools.

Although split grades may be newer to students attending city schools those in rural schools are familiar with the style of education.

The nature of a rural area encourages split grades says Chesterville Public School principal, Wyman Barton. In the nine years he has been principal here, there has almost always been a split grade. The small population spread so thinly in rural areas often makes it necessary to join two grades together.

Last year Chesterville PS had two split grades, a 2 and 3, and a 3 and 4.

This year there were 34 grade 1 students arriving at the doorstep of the public school and 23 grade 2 students. The preferable number in a class is 25 to 27 says Mr. Barton.

Having 34 students in the grade one class was just too much to have one teacher handle, thus the decision to go to a split 1 and 2 class.

Although the final decision is made at the first day of class, Mr. Barton likes to warn parents in June there may be the need to split a class in September. It helps prepare the parent for what might occur, he says.

The split is made based on the reading levels and maturity of the students. The most important element in teaching primary grades is the reading level, he explains.

This year one reading group from the grade 1 class, numbering six students, was integrated with the 23 grade 2 students. The split left 28 grade 1 students in one class, and 29 grade 1 and 2 students in the second class.

During the first day of class in September the students spend the morning session becoming acquainted with their class, and the afternoon session is reserved for teacher professional development. The teachers and Mr. Barton get together in the afternoon to assess the numbers situation and make any changes necessary.

Teaching a split grade is not new for Alice Weaver. Of the six years she's taught at Chesterville PS only one year was without a split grade.

While teaching with the Ottawa Board of Education she taught a four grade split class one year. It contained grades 1, 2, 3 and 4.

The idea of split grades isn't new either. Many rural residents can recall being taught in a one room school with grades 1 to 8.

Mrs. Weaver numbers herself among those residents. In fact, it was probably her experience as a student in a one room school which lead her to a teaching career.

As an older student in the class she remembers helping to teach the younger students, acting almost as the teacher's assistant, a position of importance.

There are advantages for the grade 1 students in the split class, says Mrs. Weaver. Being exposed to the work habits of the grade 2 class speeds up their development.

She has seen a big change in the development of the stability and self-control of the grade 1 student since September.

The kindergerten program from which the grade 1 class comes from is geared to develop skills within the child's areas of growth (i.e. physical, social, mental, emotional) and to develop the power and desire to participate in his future reading, etc. in grade 1. This is approached on an individual rate and capacity.

In grade 1 a more structured rate is expected from the students.

In the split class the grade 1 students watch the behavior of the grade 2 students. Through positive reinforcement of good behavior on the part of the grade 2 students, Mrs. Weaver encourages the grade 1 students to follow suit.

For example, if the grade 2 students are sitting straight in their chair, Mrs. Weaver will comment on how their behavior is pleasing her. Immediately the grade 1 students want to please the teacher and copy the behavior of the older students. "It's like fire, It catches on", explains Mrs. Weaver.

There are advantages for the grade 2 class as well. They like to show the younger grade 1 students just how it's done. The Chesterville teacher purposely choses grade 2 students as leaders, showing they are more grown-up. She encourages them to help her to teach the grade 1.

As in other classes where the students are divided into reading groups Mrs. Weaver has divided the split grade. She finds three reading groups enough to handle, and has divided the grade 2 students into two groups, and has the grade 1 as the third group.

The reading group is the basis used for grouping the students, says Mrs. Weaver, echoing the words of principal Wyman Barton. The ability of a primary student in reading is often relfected in the other subjects. From her experience the ideal split grade is actually a 3 and 4 class, says Mrs. Weaver. The grade 1 class, in the split 1 and 2, must catch up to the grade 2 students in classroom behavior, which usually takes some time.

Mrs. Weaver agrees she must watch to make certain the grade 1 students are concentrating on their work and not listening as she is talking to the grade 2 students.

But to watch her in action this primary grade teacher makes it all look so easy.

It's that time of year again

School Guidance Corner

By Don Stephen,

Head of Guidance, NDDHS

It's that time of year when the grade 12 and the grade 13 students begin to fill out their application forms for university and college. In this article I will go over some of the general information they need.

University education teaches students to develop their academic abilities, personal judgment, and self-discipline through independent research and study. Some undergraduate programs are job-oriented such as engineering, pharmacy and business.

In Ontario there are fifteen universities as well as the Ryerson Polytechnical Institute and the Ontario College of Art.

The twenty-two colleges of applied arts and technology are designed to prepare young people for the work force. Business, industry, and government rely on both colleges and universities as sources of qualified personnel.

Registered private vocational schools in Ontario are privately owned profit-making organizations which offer a variety of programs and courses aimed at providing students with the skills and practical knowledge necessary for employment.

There are also apprenticeship programs intended for those who wish to work in the skilled trades. Apprentices train on the job with an employer under the direction of qualified tradespeople, and are paid by the employer while learning.

The annual fees at our Ontario Universities (including tuition and incidental) range from $860 and $1070 in Arts and Science, $880 and $1240 in engineering. Residence and meals, or board and lodging, now costs from $1900 to $2300 per year. In addition to fees students have to worry about expenses for books, personal needs and entertainment.

The annual tuition fee at the community colleges is approximately $440 for two semesters, depending upon the program. The community colleges were planned to be within commuting distance of the main population centres. So little provision has been made for residence accommodation. Students who plan to live away from home while attending college should add the cost of board and lodging to their tuition fees.

Financing an education after secondary school can pose a real problem for many students. Some students get help from parents; some work part time; some get loans and grants from the provincial government. Most students use summer-job savings to help pay their way or supplement other assistance.

The Ontario Student Assistance Program (OSAP) is intended to help students who need financial assistance to further their education. Academic excellence is not a primary qualfication. An evaluation of family financial circumstances is necessary in order to decide who qualified for assistance and the amount of the award.

OSAP is composed of four plans. Students may apply for a grant which does not have to be repaid, and for additional loans through the Canada Student Loans Plan or the Ontario Student Loan Plan. Repayment of the loans, with interest, does not begin until six months after the student graduates or drops out. Particulary needy part-time students may apply for non-repayable bursaries from the Ontario Special Bursary Plan.

Scholarships are also available for outstanding students who are eligible. These are based primarily on academic achievement.

Next week I will write about how applications are filled out and the process that takes place from now until the acceptance dates.

In winter
When doors and windows are sealed your house has breathing problems. Your heating system repeatedly heats the same stale air; your heating costs climb; the level of humidity inside your house soars; and your windows fog up. Last week, the grade 11 class of the North Dundas District High School aircraft program learned to trammel a wing by tightening wires to form a 90 degree angle at their intersection. The process renders the wing square (not in shape but at appropriate locations). Along the right hand side of the wing are David Dobson, Chester Grubb, Brad Haines and Mark Guy, left to right and Rob Reis and Kirk McMillan, along the opposite side, left to right.

Aviation course takes off at NDDHS

MAPLE RIDGE (Staff) - The aircraft program at North Dundas District High School is one of only two in Ontario and boasts four students who have gone on to obtain their aircraft maintenance engineer's licence.

Chester Grubb, who teaches the course, is himself an aircraft maintenance engineer as well as a graduate aeronautical engineer and mechanical engineer.

The course was designed primarily as an interest program, explained Mr. Grubb. The only other of its kind is in Toronto. Canterbury High School in Ottawa was forced to cancel a similar course, presumably because of spending restrictions, he said.

The aircraft program at North Dundas, on the other hand, has demanded no capital outlay since its inception some six years ago. All projects are provided by members of the community and staff, he explained.

As well as hands-on maintenance instruction, the students are taught many ground school topics such as the theory of flight, meterology and branch out into space exploration (mainly in the form of research essays, noted Mr. Grubb, no hands-on projects are available!)

There is no text book for the course, which was formed by the amalgamation of two Ministry of Education course outlines, said Mr. Grubb. The ministry has course outlines for aircraft mechanics and for aerodynamics courses. The North Dundas course was designed by the late Jim Lemon, a teacher at North Dundas and himself, explained Mr. Grubb.

Unfortunately, he said, the grade 12 class has not run on a continuous basis. When the bare minimum number of students are registered, the ministry doesn't run a course. However, there are too many students in the grade 11 class to allow for a combined grade.

Despite its enrollment problems, aside from the four aircraft maintenance engineer's the course has encouraged, two students have completed their commercial pilot's licence, one is in the process of obtaining his commercial licence and another is presently enrolled in classes to obtain a helicopter licence.

This school year represents the first that no girls have registered for the course, said Mr. Grubb. An average year would find two to three girls in the senior class and three to four in the junior classes, he said.

Although some individuals might be reluctant to allow the students to work (and therefore learn) on their aircraft, all work is inspected by Mr. Grubb, whose aircraft engineer's licence is on the line, and to date "nothing fell out of the sky", he laughed.

North Dundas captures Corpuscle Cup, Nov. 12

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Winchester District Memorial Hospital's November Blood Donor Clinic, held last Tues., Nov. 12, was the most successful clinic to date, a hospital auxiliary spokesman said.

The clinic hosted 383 people, who turned out on the sunny Tuesday to donate the gift of life. This mark surpassed the previous record of 280 at last year's clinic.

The clinic was divided into two sections. A morning clinic at Winchester Public School was sponsored for the Corpusle Cup Competition, held between students from North Dundas District and Seaway District High Schools. A total of 103 samples were collected.

North Dundas, once again, had the top turn out with 60 students donating. Due to the fine turnout, the school will retain the Corpusle Cup trophy, which was first presented to them, by the Morrisburg St. Lawrence Medical Clinic, at the blood donor clinic held last February. At the earlier clinic, 58 North Dundas donors were presented compared to 47 from Seaway District.

"I'm very pleased with Tuesday's clinic. The students didn't need a lot of urging and were quite willing to give blood, North Dundas teacher Mary Fetterly said. The student council deserves credit for its help organizing the clinic, she added.

A clinic for the public was held at the Winchester Hospital in the afternoon and 280 people attended.

The Red Cross brings their mobile blood donor team from their head office, at 85 Plymouth Street in Ottawa, to the surrounding area to operate the clinics. Red Cross also distributes the blood to area hospitals and last year the hospital here used more than 500 pints of blood.

The finer organization of the clinic, can be credited to the hospital's auxiliary, for their hard work. The auxiliary sponsors three clinics in November, February and August.

"It's the best clinic we have ever held," said the spokesman, noting, "There were quite a lot of first time donors.

The next clinic will be held in Winchester on February 24th.

In Memoriams

IN MEMORIAM

RUSSELL — In remembrance of our dear son and brother, Chris, who passed away accidentally November 18, 1978.
We'd little thought when leaving home
He would no more return
That he in death so soon would sleep
And leave us here to mourn.
He bade no one a last farewell
He never said good-bye.
He was gone before we knew it
And only God knows why.

Sadly missed by Ken, Carolyn, Brenda, Artie and Wally.
12

Chesterville's past

41 November 13, 1941

Yesterday morning, the coldest and frostiest of the fall season, The Record sanctum was brightened by Stanley Brown of Morewood bringing in a handsome bouquet of pansy blooms picked from his flower garden the evening before.

Winchester Township, especially the Chesterville area, never lets anyone get away with reporting something big without going one better. The pity of it is that these records are so common that they do not always find their way into print. Parnham Allison, however, could not stand for a report of a dozen hen's eggs weighing 32¼ ounces so comes along with a dozen eggs this morning from his seven months old Leghorns which tip the scales at 33½ ounces.

Exceptionally fine luck was experienced by Harry Merkley, Frank Merkley and Harold Windsor during their deer hunt in the Chalk River district. They returned this week, each with his quota of deer and report them plentiful. The Morewood Red Cross Unit mailed Christmas boxes to 12 soldiers from this district who are serving overseas.

Each box contained fruitcake, cookies, shortbread, tea bags, sugar, cheese, nut bars, maple sugar, candy, gum, life savers, cigarettes, tobacco and papers, razor blades and cough drops.

These boxes were made possible through the generous donations of private individuals. The Red Cross unit gratefully acknowledges all such donations.

Over the weekend a rumor trickled into town that one of our prominent citizens had been shot on a deer hunting expedition. The report lacked details - didn't state whether he had been killed or only a portion of his anatomy punctured. Everyone thought that when a deer hunter was shot he was surely shot for keeps.

After a while things became mixed up and it was not known whether Fred Bolster had shot himself, shot a deer or whether a deer had shot Fred.

However it turned out alright. Fred was not shot. He had shot the only deer bagged by that party with whom he was hunting.

We need a place for skating this winter. That thought has been receiving a great deal of thought in the past few weeks. Ideas have been many and some of the organizations, notably the Rotary Club, have been considering the question.

No final solution has been reached but in the past day or two, a means of having the rink has been propounded and we present it with enthusiasm. This sounds like the answer but it will need the whole-hearted support and work to put the idea across.

Mr. William Barker has offered the use of his vacant lot between Church and Victoria Street at the area and to the west of the McCloskey House to any group who wishes to make use of it for a rink. If necessary he will provide the power for the lights, although his donation for the use of the lot seems more than generous.

The firemen under Chief Morris will do the levelling and flooding of the rink space if the services of a tractor can be secured for half a day.

Reeve Harold H. Ouderkirk was returned to office by acclamation for his eighth consecutive year when nominations closed in Finch, Friday.

Three former members of council were returned: R. Smith, W.E. McQuaig, and J.L. Nephew. The fourth member, T. Millington decided not to run and was replaced by O.R. Hoople. All those nominated have qualified.

The reeve has been a member of council since 1933 and became reeve in 1944.

Members of the Post Offices across the country are getting things ready for the big Christmas rush. Extra help is being rounded up and the usual measures are being taken to ensure the safe delivery of the multitude of parcels and letters that flood in at the holiday season.

The work of the post office can be greatly lessened if everyone heeds the notice they have received this week regarding mailing dates for Canada and other countries. It will be well to bear them in mind to make sure your parcels and letters arrive in time for Christmas.

Third class mail has increased from one cent to two cents, that is, unsealed Christmas cards.

Chamber of Commerce president, Brian Coyne, has called a special meeting for tonight in the area. His group is hoping for a large turnout of merchants, organization members and others interested will attend to discuss the Santa parade.

This year new management is needed to handle the annual arrival of Santa in the village. The ladies of Chesterville WI are willing to help. They felt they cannot undertake the full responsibility as in other years.

Much planning and discussion needs to be done. Mr. Coyne hopes a good number of people in the village will attend the gathering tonight and be able to offer some worthwhile suggestions about the parade.

Woodhouse Ltd. store that opened her in the Gillard block a couple of weeks ago has temporarily closed its doors and all stock has returned to the parent store in Cornwall. The transfer took place last Friday afternoon.

This newspaper received a visit at the first of the week from Henry Bloom, comptroller of the Woodhouse stores in Eastern Ontario district. Mr. Bloom explained that a special audit of the Cornwall store and its affiliate, the Chesterville store, had to be undertaken right away. It was necessary, he said, toremove all stock back down to the parent store to do this.

In answer to questions he hoped the company would open again soon. He gave no definite day. This newspaper has not been able to contact the former Chesterville manager, Leonard Tunnicliffe.

The annual competition in Public Speaking for the Public and Separate Schools of Dundas is in its final stages with two Chesterville pupils among the nine finalists.

The local winners from this district are Shirley Cuff, Chesterville who represents Chesterville Public School and Martha Moriarity, representing the schools of Winchester Township.

Friends and families of both girls are welcome to attend the Friday night event at Morrisburg Public School.

The Editor's Notebook

It's not all bad

Although boards of education, teachers, trustees, and others connected with education in Ontario often come under fire from pressure groups and the media, to believe all is lost in this sector is purely pessimistic.

Certainly there are some bleak spots, created by declining enrolment, and inflation, among other things. Teaching jobs are threatened, cutbacks in specialty courses loom large and the possible closing of rural schools becomes too realistic.

Hopefully, the Minister of Education, Bette Stephenson, will recognize the damage the closing of a rural school in a small community could cause and attempt to keep them all open.

Most parents, and teachers would probably much rather see the number of split grades increase, instead of having the number of schools open decreased.

Many rural residents can remember their own days in school that had some grades sharing a classroom, if not grades 1 through 8 in the same class. Their education seemed to continue without major difficulties, even though the students sitting on their right might be a year older, and the student sitting on their left might be a year younger.

In fact, split grades may have helped intergrate students into a world more like the one they'd be entering at the completion of their school days than not.

It probably helped them realize that the outside world is not solely composed of those in the same age group. They no doubt could remember the pain of their own falls while watching the younger students. And they could probably look to those older students in the class and get a clearer picture of what was to come.

Certainly the sense of responsibility must have been awakened earlier in students in split grades. Teachers instilled in older students the sense of being responsible for those younger than them, and in the younger students the sense of being part of a responsible "grown-up" group must have been injected.

Modern education can be credited for providing education opportunities beyond belief, but some aspects of an "old fashioned" education can be credited with giving students some perfectly wonderful "old fashioned" morals, and ideals.

Saving by storing properly

(Special) - Everyone wants to get the most for every dollar spent on any commodity and that includes pesticides. Whether you are stocking up for next year at this year's prices, or saving leftovers, make sure you store these materials properly.

"The first rule in storing pesticides is to store all pesticides in their original containers," says Larry Swinn, of the Farm Safety Association of Ontario.

There's more to keeping the pesticides in original containers than the possibility that you'll forget what's in the container. The container label provides information about rates and methods of pesticide application. Storing pesticides in food or beverage containers may confuse an unwary child.

The Farm Safety Association recommends that you store all chemicals, including pesticides, in a separate building that can be marked and locked. If this is not possible, store these materials in a marked cabinet or room that can be locked to prevent any chance of contact with animals or people.

"We don't advise anyone to keep pesticides or chemicals in the barn," says Mr. Swinn. "But if you don't have a choice, it's a good idea to advise your local fire department that there is a chemical storage area in the barn."

Before storing any pesticide, check the shelf date to make sure you aren't saving something that will be worthless next spring. Check the label or call your supplier for special storage instructions.

Liquid pesticides, in most cases, should be stored in areas where they won't freeze. Take the same precautions when storing wettable powders and make sure the storage area is dry. Store each container so that there is no possibility of one pesticide contaminating another.

The Farm Safety Association of Ontario offers copies of its Pesticide Handbook free. To receive a copy, write - Farm Safety Association of Ontario, 340 Woodlawn Rd. W., Unit 22, Guelph, Ontario N1H 7K9.

Time is money. Every time you hang a load of laundry on the line instead of turning on the dryer, you save money.

The Farmer's Wife

by Wyn Thompson

Remembrance Day - a day to remember that regardless of the size and impact of the toys of war, we haven't learned a bloody thing from all the wars of the past - has come and gone. Like our first snow.

But winter stands in the wings, waiting to make her grand entrance. Corn combines wallow through fields of saturated sponge hoping to at least eke out the cost of the fertilizer and spray materials that were so hopefully applied prior to and during the growing seasons.

Plowing is a hopeless undertaking since the recent weekend storm. Let's hope we get no more snow until the harvest is all in and the plowing completed.

Too much for which to hope? I guess so, but farming is such a high-cost, high-risk business that farmers do not need added worries like early snowfalls.

It was a weekend to get our outdoor household chores done. As we cleaned up the garage, stored our little camper, boat, canoe and fishing gear, we turned to thoughts of Christmas and winter.

Without much degree of enthusiasm on my part, I must say. Must be the weather, I guess.

What would we do if we did not have the weather to blame all our woes on?

I picked up the Farmer's Almanac and read for November 12th that "Every man over forty is responsible for his face."

I guess the reason being that Nature can give you no help then and a worthy character and shining personality will be reflected there, as will the very opposite.

The weather for eight days thereafter reads "Clearing blue skies, air is frisky - rain's risky." We shall see.

The prediction from the 25th to the 30th is fascinating "Sunny respite, with thanks - then snowbanks! Ye gods!

But today, is one of those rare specimen days. Emily Dickinson put it just about right when she said,

"Beside the autumn poets sing,
A few prosaic days
A little this side of the snow
And that side of the haze."

On the weekend we brought in another load of wood for the fireplace upstairs. Not the one with the insert in.

This was for my fireplace, the one in which you can see the flames flicker upward. And relax in its glow.

The smell of cut wood is delightful. This has been seasoning, so the ends of the sticks have a soft greyish look. I asked the Farmer to split some kindling for me. I try when I'm desperate but when the Farmer splits kindling it is an art. As it is with all woodsmen.

Not an unnecessary movement, just a swift rise and fall and the axe never a half inch from the mark.

Occasionally we have guests who split some and it is a revelation to see how a city man splits wood.

As a rule he jumps one one end of the stick and smashes the axe down like a flail. This of course sends the split part flying into the air, he ducks, if he is agile enough, if not he receives a good wallop.

Then he usually uses both hands and bangs the axe down in the middle of the stick. This accomplishes nothing, a few chips may fly, but that is all.

Then, in a final desperate effort, he will bang the axe on the end of the stick, burying the blade so deeply that when he tries to lift the axe, the wood comes right up in the air with it almost popping him on the forehead.

Perspiring profusely, bruised and worn out, our city friend comes in with a handful of chewed up kindling which he deposits in the wood bin for further use. We hand him a refreshing drink and admire him no end.

Another most difficult of country skills is scything. I have never accomplished this skill. When an expert scythes the long grass, the act is pure poetry, beautiful is the sweep of the shiny blade, graceful the angle of the body as the scyther swings effortlessly.

The waves of grass fall behind like gentle ocean waves, And the scythe itself is such a traditional implement, reminiscent of far-off antique days.

Driving home by the river, I see the gulls drifting on the bosom of the air and crying their piercing lovely cry. The boats are asleep in the marinas waiting for the return of spring again.

Nights are cold now, twilight is brief. We eat supper by the fire, and lean toward rib-sticking dishes. Gone are the summer salads.

On the weekends I stay outdoors as much as possible for winter will soon sweep in. New vistas appear in the absence of summer's foliage. A warm day is doubly precious.

I walk to the pond, which mirrors such a pale still sky, and just a few late leaves drift on it still.

When the November rains come in earnest. It can rain so hard that it looks like a wall of water advancing and you can not see your hand in front of you.

I was caught in one of these sudden storms driving home from work the other night. Rather scary business.

I have been sorting books for part of the fall cleaning. This is an emotional business. Every book represents hours of work, anxiety, some joy, and more pain. For who of us can ever write the book which lies closest to our heart.

I suppose Moses was satisfied with the Ten Commandments because he only copied them down. If he had conceived them, he would have fretted over some of them afterward, I am certain.

At the moment I am reading 'The Christ Commission'. It presented quite a challenge for the author, I can see.

A good Novevber to you!

Record Recipes

by Chris Brown

I often read novels or watch movies in which the protagonist inherits a huge sum of money from an unknown aunt or uncle and I dream that such a thing will happen to me. As you know from experience, it never does.

As close as I have ever come in inheriting anything was a huge cardboard box full of recipes I was left by an aunt by marriage who died years before I came on the scene. Uncle Douglas was cleaning house to move into an apartment a few months ago; I got Aunt Wynne's recipes.

One part of the collection interested me. It seems 20 or so of her friends got together for a shower in 1947 and each contributed a recipe from their collection. They seem to have pooled resouces to buy a steno-type recipe book in which to enter them.

I haven't by any means gotten around to all of them but one I tried I just loved (and got numerous compliments on) but it is another cookie recipe! I'll never lose weight at this rate!

DATE FILLED OATMEAL COOKIES

3 cups flour
3 cups rolled oats
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup shortening (I used lard)
2 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
milk

DATE FILLING

½ lb. stoned dates
1 cup water
1 cup brown sugar

Mix all the cookie ingredients until the fat is in tiny pieces. Add milk in a well in the centre until the dough is of the consistency it can be rolled out. (I didn't measure mine but I think it was somewhere in the vicinity of 1 cup. Start low and add more if needed.)

Flour a board well and roll out fairly thinly. Cut into circles and bake at 350 until just darkened (about 10 minutes or slightly less). Let cool.

While you have been making the cookies, on the stove the date filling has been simmering so it will be ready when the cookies are cool. Spread a small dab in the centre of a cookie and press another on top so the filling spreads to the edges.

Rotary draws on middle class

Chesterville Rotary News

Is Rotary a clique for the moneyed and influential only, a refuge for leading citizens? Is it an American organization ?

These and many other questions are often raised by uninformed and curious people.

Rotary was founded by four men, a lawyer, a coal merchant, a tailor and a mining engineer.

Their parents all came to the United States from different countries and were of different religious backgrounds.

Rotary recruits, its members from the middle class who hold a variance of political and religious views. Rotary still has tailors, lawyers, farmers, laborers and many other professional and non-professional members all who vary in financial status.

Rotarians believe that in each one of us there is buried reserves of kindness, generosity, tolerance and loyalty. It's the opening of these reserves that makes the difference.

To be a Rotarian is a state of mind and let me assure you there are great joys to be reaped from serving others.

Our wives play a role in our clubs; a dual role of assistance and research.

They are a great help with visits to shut-ins, hospitals, handicapped, and old age homes.

They also have the best knowledge of the needs of the area served by the club.

Rotary is based on four main principals - first to develop friendships between its members. Second, - to make a close study of all the opportunities to serve. Third, - To apply the ideal of "Service" to ones personal life. Finally - to develop mutual understanding and international relations.

The clubs activities are many, from a simple monetary donation for a needy child to the complete organization of the world games for the handicapped.

With 156 nations represented in Rotary, we are perhaps the most international of all organizations. Moreover our nearly one million members share the ideal of service and goodwill. A thousand words will not leave so deep an impression as one good deed.

Any man who will look into his heart and honestly write what he sees there, will find plenty of readers.

Hotpoint
THE BEAUTIFUL APPLIANCES

A Hotpoint dishwasher is a beautiful addition to your kitchen.

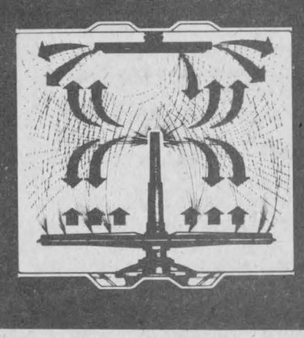
Long before Hotpoint designers went to the drawing board, they went to you–the consumer–to find out what kind of dishwasher you want in your kitchen. The style, the colors, the size, the trim.

That's how our natural colors like Almond and Harvest Wheat, were developed. That's why we offer walnut and cherry decorator tops. And why this year's control panels have been re-designed. You told us they should feel more comfortable.

But you also told us that a dishwasher has to perform, as well as look good. We test the performance of everything from the materials we use, to the way our dishwashers stand up to shipping. In fact, we "life-test" our appliances more rigorously than you could ever use them.

Check out our line. It's got everything you asked for, plus all the features you need. Please check the Buyers' Guide for a full list of features on each model.

Multi-level wash action directs surging jets of hot water over dishes from above and below both racks to give you the most thorough wash possible.



To install wood panelling to match your cupboards, order the Hotpoint Frame Kit. It has instructions and trim for installing a ¼" wood panel. Model No. DK1A12.

Corpuscle Cup returns to NDDHS

North Dundas News

Dawn Williams and Laurie Appleby

Even though there was a short week at Dundas, there was still enough excitement to keep everyone busy.

Tuesday morning following the Remembrance assembly, 60 students were bused to the Winchester Public School.

No, these students did not fail; they were donating blood at the last Blood Donor Clinic.

North Dundas' fine participation in this worthy cause won them the Corpuscle Cup. Each year, students from North Dundas and Seaway battle to win this award, while at the same time donating their blood.

Seaway showed up with 43 donors.

After giving blood on Tuesday the students were worn out and couldn't manage a win against the teachers on Friday in basketball.

The exciting game ended in a 32-31 score for the teachers. So you know the students could have wailed them if they would have been in top shape.

The top scorer for the teachers was Too Tall Lukenda. The fact that he had to look down to drop the ball into the basket did not make his 16 pts. so outstanding as Jumping John Luimes' 12 pts. for the Student Team.

It was an exciting game anyway.

The next Challenge is the Pizza Making Contest where everyone's taste buds get tested.

In the girls basketball finals last week, the seniors won over Glengarry 40-38 giving them third place in the league with a six and four record.

The senior team currently holds first place after their smashing 70-27 win last week. They now stand with a seven and one record.

Sandi Hauch's great performance in last week's game earned her athlete of the week. On Wednesday the juniors play in their first playoff game.

A girls' Gymnastics Workshop will be held on Sat., Nov. 28 from 8:30am until late afternoon.

All interested female students should see Mrs. Kelly to sign up for this event.

Winter training for the track team started Monday practices are held Mondays and Wednesdays after school as well as Tuesdays and Thursdays in activity period.

The training consists of stretching exercise weight lifting, and basic workouts. All new members are more than welcome as "misery loves company".

The band is planning a concert for December 9 so come out for an enjoyable evening.

The Chocolate Bar Sales ended Monday with a big bite.

Red House came out on top with 2395 sales; Gold placed second with 2083 sales; third went to Black with 2049 sales; and Green took fourth with 1362 sales.

North Dundas thanks all those who supported us in our efforts.

The Torn Curtain Drama Club is presenting "A Funny Play Happened on the Way to the Thing" on the 3rd, 4th, and 5th of December. Approximately 15 students are taking part.

Come out and enjoy an evening of comedy.

Science guideline adopted by SD and G Board of Education

CORNWALL (Staff) - The Intermediate Science Guideline for grades seven through 10 in the SD and G County Board of Education was adapted at a recent meeting of the board, here.

The document represents approximately three years work for the writing team of Chuck Beaulieu, John Pollock, Mel Radley and Dick Roffey.

After two years of in-school testing, two "Wise Use of Energy" units were added by Charles Eadie, Science Consultant for the board. The units include a list of relevant audio-visual material for the lessons in each unit.

The administrative side of the guidelines were monitored by Karl Duncan, assistant to the superintendent; Ken MacLennan, superintendent; Tony Francis, consultant and Sid Morrell, Chairman of the Pure and Applied Science Task Force.

Stormont directors election

AVONMORE (Staff) - Two representatives from Stormont to the newly-formed Ontario Dairy Herd Improvement Corporation (ODHIC) board will be elected at an information meeting here Tues., Nov. 24 at 1pm.

The ODHIC program affects all producers by virtue of the check-off system and county associate agriculture representative advises all producers to attend.

Gaston Levac is first on the agenda at 1:15pm with an update on the dairy herd corporation. Bob Humphries AgRep from Dundas County, from 1:45pm until 2:30pm will discuss somatic cell counts.

Election of the directors is slated for 2:30 until 2:45pm. Blair Murray will discuss protein sources until the elected officers are announced at 3:15pm.

PERSONALS

Douglas Hall of Aylmer, Quebec, spent a couple of days with his mother Florence Servage.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Duff spent an evening at the home of Mrs. Servage.

Somatic cell testing popular

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Ontario Dairy Herd Improvement Corporation laboratory technicians have tested three times more individual cattle and herds than were anticipated would utilize its somatic cell testing program.

County members of the new organization were informed at last Monday evening's first annual county meeting by agriculture representative Bob Humphries 56,000 individual animals were tested on the somatic cell option as opposed to 15,000 forecast by ODHIC and 1,190 herds actually tested rather than the 350 predicted.

The corporation, formed this April is an independent, private body which receives financial assistance from the province. It replaces the Ontario Dairy Herd Improvement Association, and corporation members are former association members or Ontario licenced milk producers.

Addressing approximately 50 members attending the meeting at the Community Centre, Dwight Bennett, acting chairman for the corporation, said substantial progress has been made in the ODHIC somatic testing program.

The program measures the level of somatic cells found in milk samples, and high levels can indicate infection in dairy cattle.

Somatic testing, while not a new procedure, is rather new for Ontario. Milk can be measured in bulk or for individual cows.

Dr. George Fisher, director of veterinary services for OMAF, Kemptville, praised members who use the program for individual cows, and said those who use the bulk tank measurements are making a step forward in improving the quality of dairy herds.

Dr. Fisher noted infections of mastitis can reduce a producer's financial returns by up to $30,000 per year on herds of 100 or more milking cows.

AgRep Mr. Humphries emphasized that somatic cell counting is not a test for bacteria. Somatic cells are not to be confused with bacteria, he said, but can indicate infection. The testing program is basically an early warning system.

The goal to be achieved is to have counts of less than 300,000 cells per millilitre of milk. But members were warned healthy older cows do show higher levels than young animals.

Mr. Bennett said there is great concern over discrepancies between the ODHIC butterfat measurements and those found through Agriculture Canada's Record of Performance (ROP) program. ROP and DHIC have agreed to hire personnel from Guelph to determine what is causing the differences and determine if they are significant enough to cause concern.

Dundas delegates

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Bruce Garlough, Don Johnston and Gordon Johnson will represent Dundas County at January's All-Ontario inaugural meeting of the Ontario Dairy Herd Improvement Corporation.

The three were elected at last Monday evening's first annual county meeting of the organization at the Community Centre, here. Elected as alternates were Lyle Van Allen, Dwight Gilmer and Tom Clapp who will serve in the event one of the delegates is unable to attend the January meeting.

ODHIC replaces the former Dairy Herd Improvement Association and the changeover occurred in April this year. ODHIC is composed of former DHIA members or Ontario licenced milk producers. ODHIC will act independently of the provincial government which played a major role in the DHI program.

In April a provisional board of directors was appointed to start the corporation on its way.

Olde fashioned Christmas

Winchester artist Mary Gibson (right) puts a few finishing touches to the Candy Shop display, which will be part of An Olde Fashioned Christmas Bazaar being sponsored by the Winchester District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary this Saturday at the Winchester Public School. Mrs. Gibson, who has created many of the displays for the bazaar gets a helping hand from auxiliary president Gail VanNoy. This year's version of the bazaar is an expanded version of previous hospital bazaars. The bazaar will feature a bake table, a candy store, demonstrations by area residents including a candle workshop, pottery table, a baby sitting service and a tea room, for a quiet cup after browsing. As an added treat tiny tots can have their picture taken with Santa Claus. - staff photo -

Auxiliary plans bazaar

WINCHESTER (Special) - The conference room of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital was filled to capacity on Thurs., Nov. 12 as 39 members and several guests watched Sandra Rennison and Betty Hall of Muriel's Flowers show them how to make their own Christmas centerpieces.

Six volunteers worked on creations of their own, and were able to take their works of art home to grace their own holiday tables.

In Memoriam Fund reported a balance of $4163.59 and a balance of $911.04 was reported in the general account.

The gift shoppe did a brisk business in October and reported a bank balance of $3133.59.

The Winchester unit turned over a cheque for $740 from the recent rummage sale. Mrs. Doris McVey was present and turned over to the treasurer a cheque containing the membership fees of the newly organized Winchester unit. Membership for the Winchester unit now stands at 267 members.

Mrs. Sylvia Grose consented to be an alternate delegate to the Toronto convention.

The Christmas Bazaar slated for Sat., Nov. 21 is now in the final planning stages, as is the First East Christmas party on Dec. 8

Once again Winchester has surpassed it's reputation for the blood donor clinic.

One hundred and twenty-two students from North Dundas District High School and Seaway Valley High School attended the morning clinic held at Winchester Public School.

North Dundas took home the trophy and we would like to extend our congratulations to them.

Next clinic will be on Feb. 24.

Home birthing gaining ground

CORNWALL (Staff) - Louise Hanvey, program director of the Institute of Child Health, will address the Seaway chapter of the Registered Nurses of Ontario on the renewed interest in home birthing among Canadians, Tues., Nov. 24 at 8pm.

Mrs. Hanvey's slide presentation to the nurses at Hotel Dieu Hospital represents the outcome of a survey taken by the Institute to determine the causes of the upsurge in interest in home birthing, said Johanna Feilotter, secretary of the Seaway chapter.

The survey includes responses from 70 per cent of all Canadian hospitals which deliver more than 20 babies per year. All hospitals were contacted, not Mrs. Feilotter, however the 70 per cent represents those which replied.

The Child Health Institute undertook the study since home birthing is contrary to the precepts the Institute holds for a safe environment for mother and child, said Mr. Feilotter.

The study includes specific questions on policy, procedures and privileges pertaining to maternity care, she added.

The nurses in the district will, in turn, take the outcome of the survey to the community, concluded Mrs. Feilotter.

Directors to study health care trends

WINCHESTER (Staff) - "Tracking the Trends in Health Care" is the theme of the 56th annual Ontario Hospital Association convention being held in Toronto, which several members of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital Board of Directors will be attending along with several hospital staff members.

Bill Porteous, president of the board, John R. McIntosh, vice president and, Ron Workman, board treasurer, will be at the convention being held Nov. 30, Dec. 1 and 2 at The Sheraton Centre.

A press release from the hospital administrator, Bert Stel, says between 4,000 and 5,000 delegates (trustees, staff and physicians from public hospital, psychiatric hospitals and other health-care facilities and organizations) are expected to attend the convention.

One of the highlights of the convention is the presence of Ontario Premier Williams Davis as speaker at the official opening and luncheon Mon., Nov. 30.

Other highlights include an address by Ontario's Minister of Health Hon. Dennis Timbrell at a general breakfast meeting on the closing day, and a speech by Canada's Commissioner of Human Rights on "The Accessible Hospital" as a reminder that 1981 is the International Year of Disabled Persons.

A special afternoon session for new hospital trustees will be a new feature of the convention. It'll be held Sun., Nov. 29. Discussions will include what is expected of a hospital trustee, sources of trustee authority and responsibility and the relationship between trustees and the chief executive officer.

Concurrent with the general sessions will be sessions for the various professional groups in the health-care field, including chiefs of medical staff, nurses, pharmacists, dietitians, physiotherapists, chaplains, and numerous others.

Winchester District Memorial Hospital is a member of the Ontario Hospital Association, the independent, non-governmental, representative association of hospitals in Ontario. The convention is among many educational programs organized for hospital staff and trustees by the Ontario Hospital Association.

In the second period Duffy's took a two goal lead as Lyle Servage and Andy Windsor made the passes into Pat Imrie, who

The first goal was a play from Larry Gallinger to Wayne Dillabough, then into the scorer Gary Gallinger.

Red's second goal at 14:43 was by Jamie Utman, with a shot from a sharp angle on the left side, the puck skated along the ice into the bottom corner. Danny Roy and Dave Arnold had the assists.

Blue bombarded Duffy's goalie Pete Monast, until a shot found its way through his defence at 11:56 of the second. Greg Beckstead was credited with the goal; Dan Lecours and Glen Sims added the assists.

Steve Droppo, Blue's goalie made a number of good saves in the third period to keep the score at 2-1.

"Insulating the house made a big difference: over $1,000 a year on the heating bill," and there were no problems with the paperwork to pay for it; CMHC was very helpful."

Don Parent, Ottawa, Ontario

There's one thing you can do about the rise in fuel prices. Use less. CMHC recommends that, if you own or intend to buy an older home, you would be wise to make the investment in bringing the insulation up to standard. Or if you are thinking about buying a new home, be sure to ask the builder about its energy saving features. Then compare the cost and energy saving characteristics of other homes available. Remember, the cost of heating is a very important consideration when purchasing a home. For advice and publications about CMHC housing programs and services consult your local CMHC office.

"I've got new windows and a new furnace, and now it's just airtight. This is our home; you've got your roots set in a place and you like it, why leave it?"
Harry Anderson, Vancouver, British Columbia.

"Since we insulated we have an even heat upstairs and down, and it's made a tremendous difference in the coolness in summer."
