Pte. Merkley Laid to Rest

Saturday afternoon last the funeral of the late Pte. Clifford Merkley took place in Trinity Methodist church, when every seat in the auditorium was occupied. The remains were escorted from the family residence on Mill street, by a guard of honor, veterans of the Great War, who fought side by side with their dead comrade. The casket draped with a Union Jack and bearing many beautiful flowers loving tokens from friends, was carried to the funeral car by G.W. Veterans Wesley Fulton, Lyle Marcellus, Walter Vandusen, George Merkley, Walter Carr and Arthur Lawson, who were followed by twenty of their comrades. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W.T. Brown, assisted by Rev. H. E. Warren of Montreal, who at the request of the deceased preached the funeral sermon. The remains were placed in Maple Ridge Cemetery.

Stormont Again Selects James McLeod as Liberal Candidate

The annual meeting of the Liberal Association of the county of Stormont was held at Finch Tuesday when representatives were present from all over the riding. The officers elected are: president, D.D. McLeod, Moose Creek; vice-president, Charles Baker, Northfield; secretary, Arthur Chevrier, Cornwall; treasurer, Earl McCuaig, Finch. An executive committee composed of ladies and gentlemen from various parts of the county was also chosen.

The nomination of a candidate to represent the party in the forthcoming provincial election was the next order of business. James W. McLeod, who has represented Stormont in the present Legislature, was the unanimous choice of the convention, and the feeling of the gathering was that he would retain the seat for the Liberal party in the next Legislature. When the choice was definitely settled, Mr. McLeod delivered a stirring address, flaying the Drury Government in no uncertain terms, the highway expenditure coming in for considerable attention at his hands, and he also had something to say of the 28 commissions appointed by the U. F. O. Government. The people he averred, were heartily sick of the conduct of provincial affairs as carried on by Mr. Drury, and he expressed the belief that the Liberals would be returned to power in the coming contest.

Lutheran Choir Concert at Dunbar

On Monday evening last, those who are music lovers had a very great opportunity of hearing a fine programme presented at the Lutheran church, Dunbar. Our little church had a good audience when the programme began and still they continued to come in. It is only at these occasions that we begin to know how much musical talent we have in our midst and it gives every one of our members a good chance to display the best within them. Much could be said of each artist but space will not allow to give due justice to each. We dare not forget to mention the great applause, especially the junior members of our choir received, and they certainly deserved it as they show signs of having a great future in displaying their talents which will be a great help to future concerts.

The programme consisted of an opening chorus by the choir "Let the Rest of the World go By," Instrumental Duet, by Morris Bros, "I'll take care of you Grandma", Vocal Solo by Mr. Elza Barkley, "Breakfast in bed on Sunday morning"; Recitation by James Brooks "You Git up"; Violin selection by Mr. Shields "To-morrow"; Vocal solo by Mr. Brooks "My Ain Folk"; Piano solo by Miss Grace Barkley, "Winter Tales"; Reading by Miss Anna Froats, "Pamela Splicer at Palm Beach"; Duet (Vocal) Mrs. E. Maeder and Mr. Brooks "Beautiful Moonlight"; Remarks by Rev. Isler of Williamsburg; Instrumental Trio by Miss Grace Barkley, Mr. Shields and Elza Barkley "Old Fashioned songs"; Recitation by Melissa Weegar "Curfew must not ring tonight"; Duet (vocal) by Miss Florence Barkley and Miss Dena Barkley "Indianna"; Instrumental Duet by Morris Bros. "Gypsies' Warning"; Duet (vocal) Mrs. E. Maeder and Mr. Brooks "Whispering Hope"; Accordian Selection by Miss Orlean Weegar and Miss Grace Barkley "Nellie Gray"; Vocal solo by Mr. Brooks, "Garden of Roses"; Closing chorus by the choir "Down the trail to home Sweet Home" God save the King.

Mrs. Jacob Dillabough, Morewood

A sadness passed over the village of Morewood and vicinity, when it became known that one of our oldest and greatly esteemed citizens, in the person of Mrs. Jacob Dillabough, had been called in death, at the home of her son Alexander, on Sunday morning April 22nd. The deceased was born in 1823 was in her 81st. year and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Frood of Chesterville. She msrried Mr. Jacob Dillabough of Morewood. The late Mrs. Dillabough was always a very busy woman, not only tending to her own household work but ready at all times to render assistance to anyone in need. She was always looked upon as a great source of strength in times of trouble or distress. She was very quiet in manner, yet very enthusiastic in anything she undertook to do. She was a life long member of the Presbyterian church where her influence was seen in the success of the early church of Morewood. The last year of her life, she could not attend service as regular as before, yet she never forgot its early benefits and her one anxiety was for its continual prosperity. The funeral service was conducted in the Presbyterian Hall Morewood, Tuesday afternoon by her pastor Rev. F.L. Jobb, assisted by the Rev. S.F. Cooke. The remains were placed in the cemetery south of the village. The deceased had three sisters all of whom predeceased her. Two sons and two daughters survive her, namely, Alex and Oran of Morewood and Mrs Alton Anderson of Saskatoon and Mrs John Elliot of the Ninth, while one daughter Mrs. Angus Smirle and one son Ralph, passed away a few years ago.

"ORPHANS OF THE STORM"

Declared by the New York Evening Mail to be "A wonderful film filled with dramatic suspense and exciting climaxes ... matchless beauty—scenes of luxury beyond compare," while the New York Sun thus expresses it: "One has to look away to keep from being entirely swept away by a flood of emotion—drums crashed, horses galloped, gates clanged, men cursed, weak hearts stopped beating."

Swept by a Flood of Emotions

"A screen masterpiece....you really live, cry the tears and pray inwardly, yet fervently, that the on-rushing horsemen will arrive... The best motion picture yet seen on or off Broadway ...If there is any better bit of suspense and excitement and heart tearing seconds it has not been shown in New York ...A dress suited, evening gowned and movie-blase audience rose almost as one and begged and shouted for the characters to save the girl." –Evening World.

Be sure and see this spectacle of amazing proportions with gorgeous settings.

Not of Incendiary Origin Says Marshal

Spontaneous combustion is given as the cause of the fire which on December 22, last, destroyed ths Quebec Basilica, in the report made public by Eugene Leclerc, fire marshal.

As a result of his lengthy investigation the fire marshal is convinced that the fire originated in the cellar of the sacred building and that it could not have been caused by an escape of gas by defective electric wiring or by any outside agency.

Mr. Leclerc does not believe that the Ku Klux Klan or any other organization was responsible for the destruction of the Basilica or for that of any of the fires in religious institutions in the province during the last ten years.

...ers in the Select Live Stock Train at an Eastern Ontario point, Mr. A. A. MacMillan Chief of the Sheep and Swine Division of the Live Stock Branch, explained the reason why the premium for select bacon hogs sold on the Montreal stock yards had been a different proposition to other marketing points. The city of Montreal requires very large amounts of fresh pork to supply their daily needs. The competition for pork more particularly from shop hogs, was so great as to command quite as high and at times a higher price than could be paid for hogs capable of making export bacon The general reason given for the short supplies was the poor grain harvest in Quebec and Eastern Ontario in 1921. This greately reduced the number of hogs raised in that part of the country. The continued high priers are leading to a more general return to hog raising on the farms. Mr. McMillan expressed the expectation that during the present year the local supply would again overtake the demand and leave some for export. In order that the high prices may be maintained the farmers were recommended to use such breeds and classes of hogs as will produce stock of the select bacon type.

Presence of mind in a very small child helped to avert a tragedy at Peterboro last week. Jack Cooper, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs S. Cooper, of Engleburn Avenue, and his companion of the same age, Paul Roche, were playing in the water on the river bank near their home, gathering small sticks of floating wood, when Jack fell in. He went under twice, but Paul thrust a stick of wood into the grasping hands reaching out of the water and wading in, managed in some fashion to drag the other child to safety. When asked by his mother why he didn't run for help little Paul answered, "But I wouldn't have time to get back to save Jack."

South Indian Farmer is Dead From Kick By Horse

Mr. Duncan Ernest Simser, aged 51, well-known farmer from South Indian, near Vars, died in County Carleton protestant General Hospital, early Sunday morning, from the effects of a kick received from a horse on Friday evening. He was rushed to Ottawa, but, in spite of all medical attention, passed away. Mr. Simser was farming the homestead of his late father—the place of his birth. He was well thought of throughout the district, and was a leading member of the Presbyterian Church. He never married but was living with his widowed mother, Mrs. Nicholas Simser.

High Class Entertainment

(Glengarry News)

On Monday evening of this week, the citizens of Apple Hill and vicinity were given a genuine theatrical treat in the form of a Musical Irish Drama, entitled "My Irish Rose" by St. Mary's Dramatic Club of Chesterville. The play originally designed for and produced as a part of St. Patrick's Day celebration in Chesterville was produced at the request of Rev. Father Foley. The Parish Hall was filled to overflowing, even on very short notice and all those whose privilege it was to be present were unanimous in their praise of the performance. The scene of the play was laid in the County Kildare and the City of Dublin, and throughout the acts the audience was convulsed with the humorous portrayals of the Celtic character. Though all the performers gave evidence of more than ordinary histrionic talent special mention might be made of Mr. E. B. Lynch as Colin McCormick, Miss Florence Flynn, as the Irish Rose and Mr. Andrew Clement as Shawn McGilly. In the interlude choruses of much merit were given by a group of Chesterville boys and Miss Ella McCloskey as accompanist swayed the audience with her instrumentals. After the performance Rev. Father Foley thanked the players for their excellent entertainment and likewise those in attendance for their generous patronage. Rev. Father Staley of Chesterville came down for the evening and the whole party returned on the midnight fast train after refreshments had been served them. From a monetary standpoint also the affair was eminently successful. The conceusus of opinion is that these Chesterville dramatists should be assured of a welcome wherever they may perform in future.

Regulation of Variety Names For Seeds And Plants

A new phase in relation to seed control is being provided in a Bill before Parliament at Ottawa. This measure which constitutes an amendment to the Seed Control Act, prohibits the offering for sale of farm seeds that have been given a false or spurious name. Neither will the seller be allowed to offer seeds or plants under a new variety name not generally employed in Canada for that particular variety unless he first obtains a license therefore from the Minister of Agriculture. The Minister may refuse to issue a license in respect of the use of any kind or variety name unless or until the seeds or plants have been submitted to a propagating test or the nature plants have been examined and reported upon. A license will not be granted for the selling of an old variety under a new name. In explanation of this amendment it may be cited that a farmer or dealer might unintentionally sell seed oats under the name o "Banner" and deliver seed oats that were not true to that variety A complaint might be laid against him under another section of the Act, but the section under review is not intended to apply to such an offense since the variety named "Banner" as applied to oats cannot be held to be false or spurious or new. The provision is intended to apply to persons who invent new names for old standard varieties. It is regarded as likely that this new regulation will give encouragment to plant breeders by affording them more protection with respect to such new sorts they may originate.

Whittaker the Optician will be in Chesterville on May 15th, Finch 17th.

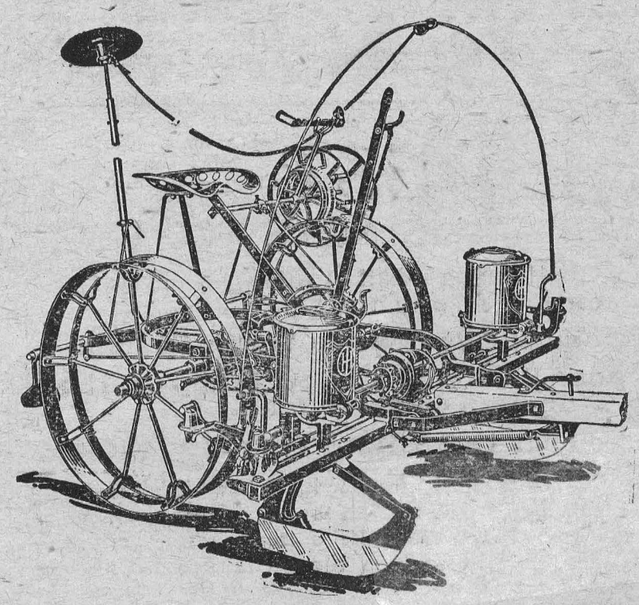
McCORMICK-DEERING CORN PLANTER



In order to get the best results, corn should be planted with a Two-row Planter —Not a Grain Drill. When the Grain Drill is used it is difficult to get all the rows the same distance apart, which mrkes clsan cultivation impossible. The McCormick-Deering Corn Planter will plant in rows from 28 inches apart to 44 inches apart, with adjustments every two inches. The mechanism of the Planter is very simple and can be changed from using wire to a straight Corn Drill in a moment's time. This machine also plants Peas, Beans, Sunflowers, and many other seeds.

The most convincing proof of the true worth of "Fruit-a-tives" as a medicine for women is found in the letters written by them to "Fruit-a-tives". For instance:

"I suffered with all the symptoms of female trouble, pains low down in the back and sides, constipation and constant headache. A doctor advised an operation. I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and this fruit medicine completely relieved me of all my misery".

Thomas Grady, Berwick

"In the midst of life we are in death", how vividly the meaning of this was realized on Thursday afternoon April 26th, when the relatives of the late Thomas O'Grady received the sad message that he had passed away at the age of 44 years. Mr. Grady was always in the best of health until Monday afternoon when he became ill. Dr. Gormerly was called and pronounced a severe case of intestinal trouble and appendicitis. On Tuesday morning he was rushed to Ottawa Hospital where he was operated on. The operation proved unsuccessful. On Thursday afternoon at three o'clock our blessed Saviour and his ministering angels came to claim his spirit which had previously received the rites of the Holy Catholic Church, of which he was an ardent member. His dying hours were comforted by his wife and pastor and also a few relatives and friends.

The late Mr. O'Grady was the eldest son of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. John D. O'Grady who predeceased him not two months ago.

On June 4th, 1905, he was united in marriage to Catherine Moran, daughter of Thomas Moran, to whom were born three children Margaret, Charles and Walter. Besides his heartbroken wife and children he leaves four brothers and three sisters viz. John of Finch William, Michael, Bernard and Margaret at Berwick, Mrs. Denis Kearney, Limerick; Mrs. George McMahon, Chesterville.

Mr. O'Grady bore his severe suffering with christian fortitude and his usual happy and bright spirit was noticed until the last. He resigned his will to God and it was God's holy will that he should leave this world for a brighter and happier world beyond and God in His mercy will comfort those who mourn their great loss.

He will be greatly missed in the community where he lived all his life, as he was ever ready to lend a helping hand to those in need. He sympathized with those in sorrow and rejoiced with those who rejoiced. In business circles and in politics he took an active interest always being leader, his wise counsel was sought by young and old his happy countenance and merry words were always looked for in social and business circles. No gathering was complete without "Tom".

The love and esteem with which he was held, was testified to by the largest funeral ever witnessed in the vicinity of Crysler. The funeral ceremony was conducted by Rev. Father Leahey P. P. Interment was made in Crysler cemetery.

The floral and spirituel offerings were beautiful and numerous:—A spirituel bouquet, the wife and family; a spray, Alice Ruddy. Spirituel offerings—The family, Rev. M. J. Lahey, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Moran, Catherine and Mary Ruddy Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. Gord Murphy and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. A Cool Robbery

One Toronto cashier had reason to remember Friday the thirteenth. A man went into a Yonge street restaurant and saying that he was from next door, asked the cashier if she would give him $40 in bills for silver to that amount. She acquiesced, but on receiving the money, and giving the man the two twenty dollar bills she asked him to wait while she counted the silver. He agreed and very ostentatiously drew out an envelope into which she saw him put the two bills, but held it in his hand until she had done counting. She found that instead of $40, there was only $35. Very confusedly he apologized, and handing her back the envelope, took the silver, saying that he would go back to the store and see what was wrong, that he didn't think he should be out in his money. When he had gone she opened the envelope to put the money back in the till. But the money wasn't there.

Dad (enthusiastic)—"Well, well, son we are going to the country!"

Small Son (pouting)—"Don't want to go to the country."

Both Parents—"Why! Why not?"

Small Son—"Cause they have thrashin' machines."

Presentation and Address To Mr. and Mrs J. C. Simser

Thursday evening last saw in the Music Hall one of the most striking gatherings ever assembled in Chesterville, when between two and three hundred citizens took advantage of the occasion to do honor to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Simser on the eve of their departure for the city of London, where they in future intend making their home. Over twenty-eight years ago Mr. Simser with his family came to Chesterville, where in that time he had become one of its most prominent and best beloved citizens. It does not fall to the lot of many to be so signally honored, not particularly by the worth of the remembrances presented but the spontaneity of the citizens of the different classes and creeds uniting so whole-heartedly in an endeavor, in a small way, to show their regret at the departure of this well known family from this village. While Mr. Simser came in for the lion's share of the eulogies, Mrs. Simser was worthily remembered along with their daughters Misses Laura and Ruth, and their son Reggie, as speaker after speaker followed, expressing their sense of deep personal loss in the removal of the family from this place.

About eight-thirty the chair was taken by the Reeve, when Rev. Fr. Staley, Rev. W. T. Brown, Messrs. Forbes, Chambers, Houlehan and Jordan, ex-members of the village council; Mr. F.J. Barlow, Principal of the High school with Messrs. F. McCloskey, Isaac Garrow and E. B. Lynch of the High school board were invited to the platform. After Dr. S. H. Hutt secretary of the meeting, had read a telegram from W.H. Cassel man, M.L.A. and a letter from Dr. Miles Brown, chairman of the entertainment committee, expressing regret at their inability to be present and good wishes for the welfare of Mr. Simser and his family, a trio was rendered by Misses Campderros Bogart and Dixon. Fr. Staley was the first speaker introduced. He bore testimony to the broadmindedness of Mr. Simser, who, although of a different faith, was among the first citizens of Chesterville to welcome him on taking up his duties as head of St. Mary's congregation. Since that time he had found Mr. Simser a public citizen giving spirited of his best for the welfare of the community in municipal and educational service. He regretted his removal but wished him ever success and contentment in his new location.

Mrs. W. N. Fulton then favored the audience with a solo in her most pleasing manner.

Rev. W. T. Brown in his remarks expressed the loss that would be felt in musical circles through the departure of Misses Laura and Ruth. who were ever willing to lend their talent in every good cause. The loss of the family to the community was such as would not soon be compensated.

Short addresses in the same strain were made by Mr. L. Jordan, Mr. I. Garrow, Mr. F. J. Barlow and Mr. F. McCloskey, after which Mr. and Mrs. Simser were called to the platform, when Dr. S. H. Hutt read the following address:—

Mr. Simser:—

It was with extreme regret that we, your fellow citizens, heard of your intended departure from our midst, and this little gathering is for the purpose of in some way softening such regrets with pleasure for you.

Since you have been one of the big citizens of our town for 28 years we already considered you one of the pillars upon which our municipality stood. As Public School Trustee, Member of the H. S Board and Councillor you have served Chesterville wisely and well. We regret, that as a people we do not as a rule show due appreciation for services such as you have rendered at the time of service, but at this late date we realize the true worth of you as a citizen.

We are sorry to see you leave us but understand you are moving into a larger sphere of influence. We trust you will make as many and as good friends in London as you leave behind you in this, the hub of Dundas, and vicinity. As a slight token of our affection we ask you to accept this suit case at our hands. As you pack it may it remind you that you received it hind you friends whose well wishes will follow you wherever you may go.

packed full of love and as you unpack it remember you have left an empty place here, which no other, however big, can fill.

And the good thoughts which we entertain for Mr. Simser are not confined to him alone, but to you, Mrs. Simser, also we wish to express them with equal force and sincerity. As the good book says "it is not good for man to live alone" so we as married men realize that we could not have accomplished what we have were it not for the loyal support given by our "better halves." We regret, therefore, not only the loss of Mr. Simser, but also you his honored wife and in parting we ask you to accept this lady's Pullman case." Whenever you travel may it serve as a momento that you leave be-

Signed on behalf of the citizens of Chestervllle.

F.McCloskey, Jas. McAvoy, L. Jordan, Dr. S. H. Hutt, S. Bogart.

At the proper moment Mr. Larry Jordan presented Mr. Simser with a very handsome leather suit case, Mrs. Jas. McAvoy performing a like service in presenting Mrs. Simser with a pullman case.

Mr. Simser feelingly thanked his friends in bebalf of himself and Mrs. Simser, expressing his surprise that the people of Chesterville should do so much for him and his family.

After singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and the rendering of two instrumental selections by Mrs. F. L. Lamkin (nee Amelia McMillan) the evening was brought to a close with "Aulde Lange Syne' and the National Anthem. Miss McCloskey presided at the piano throughout the evening.

Blake M. Ouderkirk, Madrid N. Y.

The people of this community were shocked to hear of the death of Blake M. Ouderkirk, which occurred at the Hepburn Hospital, at Ogdensburg, at 10 a. m., April 11 th.

The young man had been suffering from diabetes for a year. On April 2nd, he bruised his right hand. A local physician was consulted and on April 6th, his hand was dressed. It grew worse and on Sunday his condition became so serious that his mother took him to the hospital on Monday where Dr. Madill operated and dressed the wound, which proved to be blood poisoning. He realized the critical condition of the young man and permitted his mother to stay with him. On Tuesday his brother Lowell was called, who with his mother were with him until he was called to his Heavenly Home on Wednesday.

Blake was born in Elka, Nevada, Jan. 12th, 1894, the oldest son of the late Franklin and Frances Beckstead Ouderkirk, formerly of Chesterville. In 1896 he went with his parents to Dunbar and lived there four years, then in 1900 his parents came to Madrid, where they bought the Geo. Haig farm, where the the family still reside. His father died Oct. 11th, 1916, and Blake and his younger brother, Lowell, have worked faithfully with their mother's council to build up a comfortable home.

Blake was a member of the Scotch Presbyterian Church at Chipman, N. Y., and was a faithful attendant. The funeral was held from the home on Saturday at 2 p. m., his pastor the Rev. Geo. R. Harkland officiating. The bearers were Ralph Hargrave, Edwin Fisher, Merril Robson, and Lloyd Rutherford. Interment was made at Madrid beside his father and sister Blanche, who died May 25th, 1914. Much sympathy is expressed for his mother and sorrowing brother Lowell, who was his constant companion. Neighbors, relatives and friends have done everything to enlighten the sorrows of the bereaved ones.

The beautiful floral offerings from relatives friends and neighbors and the extra large attendance at his funeral show the esteem and respect in which Blake was held.

Relatives from out of town who attended the funeral were:—
Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Ouderkirk and family of Canton, Mrs. Effie Garlough and family of Stark, James O. Beckstead of Chesterville, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pemberton af Elma, Mrs. Earl Froats of Massena, N. Y.

Mrs. Ouderkirk and Lowell tender their sincere thanks to those who have been so kind to them in their great sorrow.

Heat From The Sun Said to Be Becoming Less

Government scientists, including the heads of the United States Weather Bureau, have been thoroughly startled by results of examinations made of the sun's world heating capacity, made by Dr. C. G. Abbot, Home Secretary of the National Academy of Science. According to Dr. Abbot, the sun appears to have gone on strike, and is exerting its warming qualities upon the earth to an extent from three to four per cent. less than fifteen months ago. This unusual action on the part of the sun is assumed to be responsible for the present late spring; may have had its influence upon the strange Winter season just passed and may presage a damagingly cold Summer and an intensely severe season next Winter. Scientists see in the present situation a possible duplication of disastrous Summer of 1816 when frosts occurred during June and July, causing wholesale loss of crops and reducing food production to a minimum. Whatever may be the cause of the decision of the sun to reduce its heating effect, no one is prepared to say when the present conditions may return to normal and further increases in the cooling off process are considered possible.

Dr. Abbot points out the last Winter was most unusual and that the present Spring is the latest on record. Some scientists have previously offered the opinion that a lowering of the sun's heat four degrees for an indefinite period might approach a return to the glacial period. Dr. Abbot has no opinion on this subject, pointing out that changes in the heat exerted by the sun on the earth reoccurred.

While Dr. Abbot offers no reason for the sun's changes in temperature, other scientists connected with the various Government institutions, associate them with phenomena of sun spots, resulting from wholesale eruptions of gaseous substances from the sun's surface, extending outward almost unimaginable distances.

The Weather Bureau's reports, quoted by Dr. Abbot, in his paper before the National Assembled Scientists, show that 1921, the year before the decline in the sun's heat began, was the warmest on record for the past fifty years. This condition existed in Europe as well as in the United States. Last year showed a slight decline, but was still above normal as was the early part of the past Winter, but in December, three months after the sun had cooled to near the lowest point, unusual contrasts occurred. The southeastern states were the warmest and the north-western ones the coldest for thirty years.

In January unusual storminess prevailed and the storms followed strange courses. These conditions continued into February and the temperature began to average below normal, especially in ...thern and northwestern sections. ... England, the weather bureau re... show, has experienced one of the ...dviest snowfalls for the entire Winter ever known. March was generally below the normal temperature in the same region and the latter part of the month and the first days of April brought about the most severe cold wave ever known, so late in the season, in the country east of the Mississippi Valley.

The Old Backyard

(The Khan, in Toronto Telegram.)

—He didn't need anything to make him anymore homesick, there in his little hall bedroom on Simcoe street. Ever since the ice went out he has been longing for the old mill down at home and the thickening shadows in the sugar bush. And to-day had been a hard day down in the city. He had been called down by the old man, he had been sneered at by the head salesman, he had been snubbed by the haughty stenog, and he had been giggled at by the bobbed haired little hussy in the mailing department. He didn't need any added thing to make him homesick and sad, and when he opened his window to get a breath of soft spring air he got what he didn't want, a pang!

Away out somewhere around Lambton or beyond Islington a bunch of urchins had raked a backyard and they had fired the heap of rubbish. And though three, four, five it may have been six or seven miles away, the smell of that old heap of rubbish afire in some homely corner made him unhappy. That smell had come, accurate and pungent, past green houses and new ploughed fields, past conservatories and sunrooms full of palms, the primal smell of old earth, her weeds, her seeds, her dead grasses, her ancient petticoats and discarded moccasins.

Sitting homesick in his hall bedroom he could cissect that smell and tell you exactly what was in that pile of rubbish. The foundation was an old mattress. You can't have a real nice odoriferous backyard bonfire without a discarded mattress. An old flannel shirt, a moth-eaten fur cap, a pair of old rubber boots, a tattered rug and the straw out of the dog-kennel—and you get it right

There is possibly no smell in the heavens above or the earth beneath that would recall his boyhood home like this one. We forget because we leave the smells behind. The Scot could never endure exile if he could smell the heather every day and the Irishman would grieve for the old home always if he could smell bruised shamrocks under his feet every morning. I believe that the reason the great cities are growing so fast recently is because there are no livery stables anymore The youth comes in from the country and he never smells horse. My uncle Jim smelled more horsey than a horse and I never could smell horse without thinking of Uncle Jim. Some people get homesick if they sniff a cow stable or a wet straw yard, But there is no smell that has the same universal appeal as a pile of rubbish afire in a backyard in the early spring. It was one of the joys of childhood to rake that heap and dance and scream and howl about it when evening fell.

So our hero sat in his hall bedroom and considered the subject - back to the land. But if he went back to the land he would have to leave the little girl with bobbed hair behind, although she doesn't care a rap for him and he knows it. But it's nice to be where she is. He won't be homesick again till next spring, when they take up another back yard, way out near Port Credit or Markham,

It is a hundred years since they first sung "Home Sweet Home." The poet forgot to add the verse telling how that every home hath a smell of its own. And every smell is a good smell to the folks who live there!

BONDS

Are Mortgages on Fixed Assets

When a township issues debentures (or bonds) it gives a mortgage on the whole township for security to the buyers of the bonds for the loan of their money for a definite number of years at a satisfactory rate of interest.

If the amount required is large it is divided into small mortgages, (that is, bonds or debentures) of $500 or $1,000 each, with the same security behind each, so that investors with small sums may take advantage it.

Bonds or debentures are rated the safest kind of an investment.

Ship That Ran Away

A short while ago it was decided to break up an old steamer, which had remained for months safely moored whilst her fate was being decided. The night before the tugs were to come and take her away to the shipbreaker's yards she quietly slipped her moorings and went off with the tide with never a soul aboard. With no hand at the wheel she navigated safely the most difficult and winding channels, and avoiding collisions by a miracle got safely to the open sea. Next morning the amazed owners discovered that she was gone. The tugs went out in pursuit, but it was a long time before they could locate the runaway, and she gave them a stern chase before they could capture her and bring her back to her doom. Examination showed that there had been a weak link in the main anchor cable, but old salts would not accept this explanation. She knew that she was doomed, they said, and had tried to meet her end at sea.

O.M.L. Will Offer Frizes to Children

One hundred and forty cash prizes totalling $200. have been offered by the Ontario Motor League as prizes to a Safety Essay on "How Children May Help to Avoid Motor Accidents." The Ontario Safety League will conduct this competition for the Ontario Motor League and the school children of the Province will be asked to contribute essays on this subject.

The "Safety Essay Competition" last year resulted in the drawing of the attention of thousands of school children in all parts of the Province to the dangers of the road and gave them a thorough lesson in avoiding automobile accidents. The success of last year's competition prompted the Ontario Motor League to offer prizes again this year. The present Competition is to be conduc ed on similiar lines to last year's.

Rules Are Announced.

The rules, announced this week by the League, are:

1. Any school child in Ontario may compete.
2. The composition may be either prose or verse, and must be written in English. If prose, it must consist of not more than 150 words. If in verse, it must be confined to 16 Lines.
3. The composition must be the sole work of the pupil submitting it, and in the pupil's own hand writing.
4. The composition must be written on ruled paper, with a margin on left side, written in ink, on one side of the paper only, and confined to one sheet.
5. Neatness, spelling and general composition will be taken into consideration in awarding the prizes.
6. The full name, age, name of school and street address of the pupil must be written at the bottom of the paper.
7. The composition must be confined to one subject, "How Children May Help to Avoid Motor Accidents."
8. The contest will close May 15, 1923.
9. The decision of the judges shall be final.
10. All papers are to be handed to the teacher, who will send them to the Principal, to be forwarded to the Ontario Safety League.

Seventy Prizes offered.

11. There will be two classes in the prizes offered: (a) scholars of 12 years and under; (b) scholars of 13 years and over.

The seventy prizes in each class will be 1, $10; 2 and 3, $5 each; 4 to 7, $3, each; 8 to 12, $2, each; 13 to 70, $1, each.

The 70 prizes in each class will be forwarded to the winning contestants June 11, 1923.

Very valuable results were attained last year, and efforts are being made this year to have teachers of classes prescribe the subject for composition at some time during the period of the competition. Such a procedure, it is felt, would materially enhance the value of the lesson which the League is endeavoring to teach to the children.

POOR MAN'S ORCHID IS THE GLADIOLUS

Garden varieties of the Gladiolus were produced by the crossing of many wild species introduced from Europe and Africa. The latter continent in particular has produced a large number of useful species; over 80 are listed from that continent alone. One of our latest acquisitions from Africa is Gladiolus primulinus. It was discovered right in the spray of the Zambesi Falls. This species has a hooded blossom and its crosses are very graceful and include many beautiful tints of color, all of which have a more or less yellow shade.

The Gladiolus recommends itself for the small garden owing to the fact that, although it is one of the most handsome flowers we have, it is comparatively cheap. Many of the best varieties of corms cost only a few cents each. They are easy to grow and perfectly hardy in this climate. They are particularly valuable for cutting purposes as they keep a very long time when placed in water.

Although Gladioli have been known as garden plants for over three centuries, they did not attract much attention until the visit of Her Majesty Queen Victoria to Fontainnebleau, France, in August, 1855. On her return to England, Her Majesty took this flower under her patronage and had them placed on the Royal table at meal times. This fact soon made them fashionable, and ever since that date leading hybridists have been producing increasingly beautiful varieties in large numbers.

Gladioli are not very particular as regards soil, but prefer a fairly light warm soil, well drained; cold clays are objectionable. The soil should be deeply tilled but no fresh manure should be used. For hand cultivation, plant in rows 18 inches to two feet apart and the corms placed six to eight inches apart in the rows. Cover the bulbs with three or four inches of soil.

This flower is one of the best for cut flowers. As soon as the first bloom appears the spike should be cut, always leaving all the leaves on the growing plant so as to build up the corm for next year's use. If placed in a vase of water the remaining buds will continue to open and remain fresh for a week or more. The water should be changed each day and a small piece cut off the stem daily.

The corms should be dug and stalks removed before the first severe frost They may be stored in a cellar with potatoes as they require about the same winter conditions as that vegetable.

The Brooding of Young Chicks

(Experimental Farms Note)

The essential factors in successful brooding of young chicks, whether natural or artificial, are healthy, vigorous chicks, proper temperature, sanitation and plenty of room.

Where only a limited number of chicks are raised each year, natural brooding has many advantages. The temperature is controlled by the mother hen, and, as she can accommodate but a restricted number of chicks, there is very little danger of overcrowding. A quiet but not clumsy brooding hen should be selected, after making sure, before allowing her any chicks to brood, that she is entirely free from lice.

Artificial methods are advocated wherever large numbers are to be brooded. The coal-burning brooder has reduced cost, and to a large extent lessened the labour required. These brooders are usually operated in a colony house, and, as soon as the chicks cease to need the heat, may be removed and the house still used for accommodating the chicks during the summer.

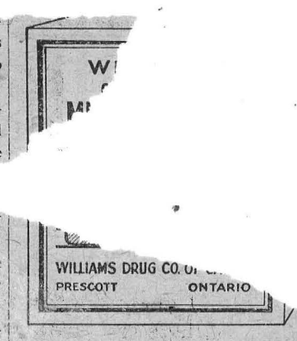
The first requirement of young chicks is warmth. The temperature should be about 98 or 100 degrees on a level with their backs before they are placed in the brooder house. This temperature may be lowered gradually from week to week, depending on the season. In the early part of the year the chicks will require brooding at a higher temperature for a longer time than later in the spring. Those hatched between April 1st and May 1st will require brooding for about eight weeks.

It is most important for the first few nights after they are placed in the brooder house to see that the chicks do not get too far away from the source of heat or bunch up in one corner. A good plan is to have some adjustable arrangement made which will permit the chicks to pass no more than two or three feet away from the brooder at first; then, daily, they may be allowed a little further away, until by the end of a week they have the run of the room. Care should be taken not to drive the chicks away from the brooder through too much heat. On the other hand, there must not be so little heat as to induce crowding under. Watch the actions of the chicks as well as the thermometer. When they are most comfortable they flatten out just around

Nothing is so dangerous as overcrowding. The capacity of many brooders is overestimated, and it is better never to use to full capacity in any make.

Sanitation and cleanliness are important points to watch. All brooders and rooms which have been in use before should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before being used each Clean, fresh litter, free from mould or mustiness, should be used. All water-fountains, feed-troughs, etc., should be washed with a disinfectant solution every day or two.

Suming up: given good, healthy, well-hatched chicks, the main brooding points are a comfortable temperature, perfect cleanliness at all times, no danger of overcrowding, only gradual changes in temperature and feeding methods.



A nice clean preparation. It soothes away soreness and stiffness, relieves Lumbago and Neuralgia. Wonderfully good for children.
