100 Club Entertains Juvenile Hockey Team, Top W. H. S. Speakers And New Ideas At Busy Luncheon-Meeting

Winchester 100 Club's 1956 slate of officers and directors have started the ball rolling to bring renewed interest to this village's only welfare club, and one of the two remaining clubs of its kind in Canada.

Much enthusiasm was shown by both members and executive at last Friday evening's monthly luncheon-meeting, held at Heidi's Restaurant. Special guests were members of Winchester Juvenile Hockey Club, who this year were managed and coached by Basil Dawley and George Hanes. Also present were many of the fathers of club members, who were introduced by Centurian Melvin Scott, including: Mac Carkner, Steve Corry, Haldane Durant, Harry Holmes and Howard Willard. Team members present who received jackets were: George Holmes, Doug. Casselman, Bob Mitchell, Jim Deeks, Bert Whitteker, Carl Beckstead, John Durant, Jim Corry, Bob Clark, Earl Hanes, Robert Carkner, Bob Rennick, Robert Guy, Larry Holmes, Lyle Holmes and Garry Willard. Brian Gilbert was unable to be present.

Winner of the Gerald Cross trophy, awarded annually to the most valuable player, was goalie Robert Carkner, who received the trophy on behalf of Mr. Cross from Eldon Davidson, immediate past president of the 100 Club. On behalf of the hockey club members Bob Carkner presented Basil Dawley and George Hanes with gifts of appreciation. Basil Dawley spoke briefly, thanking team members, the 100 Club, Rink Company and parents for their co-operation throughout the season. A special word of appreciation was voiced to Heidi's Restaurant for their very generous donation in providing the dinners to the hockey club free of charge.

Another guest, Mr. Gar. Myers, local conservation officer, was introduced to the club by Robert Woods.

President Percy Roberts presided at the luncheon which had as its guest speakers Miss Nancy Willard, present holder of the W. H. S. Alumni Cup, and Mr. Mac Steinburg, latest winner of the coveted McMaster trophy. These two cups are awarded annually to the two best public speakers at Winchester High School. Miss Willard spoke about "People," and Mac explained the meaning and importance of "Hymns." They were introduced by Reg. Workman and thanked by W. J. L. Boyd.

Business Agenda

An interesting business agenda was highlighted by a report from the executive by President Percy Roberts who asked members' approval to hike membership fees from the present $12.00 to $15.00. The vote in favour was unanimous, and in so doing members decided to discontinue the boost and instead return to a past feature of club meetings, the roll call. In addition, a door prize will be awarded each evening. President Roberts also announced that the 7.00 o'clock starting time for the luncheon would be strictly adhered to at future meetings. Robert Vice spoke for the program co-ordinators and said that the guest speaker at the April luncheon would be Campbell MacDonald, well known news director of Radio Station CFRA, Ottawa. Mr. Vice also intimated that future luncheon-meetings would not necessarily have a guest speaker but, rather, entertainment of some nature.

This year, instead of appointing separate committees for various events sponsored by the club one strong special events committee has been named to direct club activity in the entertainment category. The committee is headed by George Elliott and is composed of Frank Morgan, Archie Rice, Gerald Helmer, Keith Carkner, Wm. Doughty, Dr. S. Dawley, Robert Vice, Basil Dawley, Howard Willard, Robert Bronson, Hugh Eadie, Reg. Workman and Sam Ault.

Other committees appointed are as follows: Welfare, W. J. L. Boyd, H. Biccum, Dr. W. A. Sherwood; Parks, Hart Melvin, Les. Dixon, Jack Rennison, Alex Davidson and Ken. Ault; Meals, C. R. Robinson, Nelson Dixon, Robert Ledgerwood; Boy Scouts, W. E. Bradley, W. A. Servage; Membership, Robert Woods, Eldon Davidson, Harry Flora, Harry Potter; Program co-ordinators, Robert Vice and Frank Morgan; Auditors, Melvin Scott and Hugh Balkwill.

In reporting for the membership committee Chairman Robert Woods said that several new members would very likely be introduced at the April meeting of the club, and that an intensive drive was being carried out at the present time to entice potential members, and to bring old members out to the meetings.

J. Howard Willard reported for the Masquerade Carnival committee, outlining the program and stating that the Rink Company and 100 Club would each net about $50.00 from the event. Winners of the boost sponsored by Albert Turner, Howard Willard, Chester Timmins and Robert Vice, and conducted by Nelson Dixon, were Robert Carkner and George Albert Holmes, of the Juvenile Hockey Club.

Robert Woods opened the meeting with prayer, and the Creed was recited by Hugh Balkwill. Chester Timmins led the sing-song.

Burning Meat Roast Creates Fire Alarm

A burning mutton roast created a little excitement at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield McVey, Church Street, here late Monday afternoon. Returning home from school shortly after five o'clock, Miss Marianne McVey found her home filled with smoke. Peter MacGregor and Kenneth Barrigar, who live nearby, rushed to the scene and not finding the cause of the smoke turned in the alarm.

Within five minutes Winchester Fire Brigade had arrived on the scene, quickly extinguishing a burning roast in the kitchen stove with the use of a dry ice fire extinguisher. Mr. and Mrs. McVey were away at the time, returning from down street when they heard the siren. Before leaving the home Mrs. McVey had placed the roast in the oven, and overlooked turning the heat down. Aside from a little smoke there was no damage, and, needless to add, roast mutton was deleted from the McVey menu Monday evening.

After the fire Chief Gilbert Raistrick issued a warning to Winchester motorists to stop their vehicles immediately on hearing the siren or seeing either or both fire trucks in motion. Inconsiderate motorists can cause costly delays, Chief Raistrick said, as was the case Monday afternoon. Hereafter, motorists who do not abide by this request will be reprimanded, the Chief said.

Winchester Safety Patrol Accident-Free!

Six years ago Winchester's first Public School Safety Patrol went into operation on local streets. In those six years the Patrol has an accident free record. Maintaining a constant vigil six times each day, five days a week, the Patrol is doing a fine job in keeping traffic accidents reduced to a minimum in this village. NATIVES OF WINCHESTER ARE "WINTONIANS"

According to information offered by Mr. John Peart, a former director of Education for Winchester, England, and who visited this village several years ago, a native of Winchester is known as a "Wintonian." Our friend, Will Rowat, now vacationing in Florida, recalls the reference made by Mr. Peart, who said: "In the fifth century, after the conversion of the Saxons to Christianity, the name emerges as "Wintanceastre," meaning seat of a Bishop. The correct designation for a native of Winchester is "Wintonian"."

Two Headed Calf Born On District Farm

The use of a "Caesarian operation" probably saved the life of a two-year-old pure bred Holstein heifer which gave birth to a two-headed calf last week at the farm of Allan K. MacDonald, near Ormond. Dr. S. W. Dawley performed the operation, assisted by Dr. B. W. Lapp, of Chesterville. The birth of a two-headed calf is a rare phenomenon in the bovine world, and this one was made more difficult with the position of the calf just before birth. On examination Dr. Dawley said that it was virtually impossible for the calf to be born normally, and advised Mr. MacDonald that a Caesarian operation was necessary. Mr. MacDonald consented, and is a happy farmer today because the cow is doing fine.

The two-headed calf, still-born by the way, was nevertheless normal except for the two heads which were well proportioned, jutting out from two short necks. Each head had a pair of eyes, two ears, nose, mouth and the regular features of a normally born calf.

It was the second such birth for Dr. Dawley in seven years of practice.

NO RABIES IN THIS AREA YET

Dundas County and more particularly Winchester and district are still free of rabies, a dread animal disease which has created quite an epidemic among dogs, especially in other parts of Ontario. Closest cases are reported in Hastings County and the Pembroke area.

However, according to Dr. S. W. Dawley, veterinarian, who was interviewed last week by Chief Gilbert Raistrick, the possibility of an outbreak is always present especially due to the incidence of the disease in wild animal life.

Dr. Dawley also said that rabies could easily occur in the Winchester area, and that the disease is fatal. He explained that many people are under the false impression that the only way to detect rabies is when the dog goes mad and begins to froth at the mouth. There are other symptoms, he said, like sluggishness, drooping eyes as if the dog was doped, just to mention a few. Both he and Chief Raistrick have suggested that any dog owner noticing abnormal habits or symptoms in his dog should contact the veterinarian immediately. Already many dog owners in Winchester have had their pets vaccinated to prevent the disease.

Asked the best way to prevent an outbreak, Dr. Dawley said that vaccination was the only sure cure and preventive. The disease is fatal and all warm-blooded animals, including man, are highly susceptible.

Elsewhere in the Press Chief Raistrick has issued a warning to dog owners to keep their pets tied up. Especially with the rabies incident is it most imperative that all Winchester citizens,who own dogs, abide by this ruling ,he said.

Record Number Of Patients At District Memorial Hospital

An all-time record was established at the District Memorial Hospital here, yesterday, when there was a total of 54 patients (including 14 babies) occupying the wards. This was the largest number of patients being treated at one time since the hospital was erected seven years ago. Needless to say, the nursing staff is experiencing an unusually busy time this week. Who says hospital business isn't booming —especially in the Maternity Department?

NEW HIGHWAY SIGN SYSTEM BY APRIL 1st.

A completely new highway traffic sign system will be initiated in Ontario beginning April 1st, Highways Minister James N. Allan announces. Replacing the old black and white signs will be a whole new group based on colour, shape and lettering, in that order of importance.

Ontario is the first province to adopt this new system stressing warning mostly through colour and shape. The system already in use in two western states is proving effective. Metropolitan Toronto has already adopted the new signs, and it is hoped that municipalities across the province will follow suit.

Since the public is already well used to the significance of red for stop, yellow for caution, and green for go, these three colours will form the basis of the new system. Three types of blue and white picture signs will, however, be used for school crossings, which will be taken down during the summer months as a psychological move to remind motorists that school is out. Similarly, they will be placed up again a week or two before school re-opens.

Black on white signs will continue to be used, but will be reserved for speed limits and other matters relating to traffic laws.

District Municipalities And Hospital Rates

Failure of district municipalities to lend sufficient financial support to the District Memorial Hospital has caused the Board to increase the ward rates one dollar per day.

The failure means simply that some neighbouring villages and townships are not paying their way, leaving the load on others who are. Serving an estimated 20,000 people today, the District Memorial Hospital should, to all standards, be larger. The Department of Health suggests five beds for every 1000 people. On such a scale the local institution should be a 100-bed hospital. This is highly impractical, however. The idea of increasing the number of hospital beds, though, is quite practical, and to-day has reached the stage where it is almost imperative.

There is no doubt that an increase in the number of beds at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital is inevitable, sooner or later. It might be sooner if municipalities granting three or four hundred dollars a year or less would step up their grant to $1000.00. It might be possible if nearby villages, whose citizens are using the hospital every day, who are giving absolutely nothing, would consider sharing some of the financial responsibility. It might be possible if government grants were revised, making the grant per bed higher, and the hospital board's concern over expansion, less worrisome.

The Winchester District Memorial Hospital is not and should not be considered as that belonging solely to this village. True, the idea, a lot of the work and a lot of the money came from Winchester village in the first place. But the hospital was built with the prime purpose of serving and belonging to Winchester and District. Today, that district has spread far and wide, perhaps too far; but as long as this fine hospital, one of the best of its kind in the entire province, continues to serve this wide area, it is the responsibility of every municipality to support it, on a percentage wise basis, or a straight annual grant.

Winchester village and township issued large debentures when the hospital was erected, and continue to help out in addition to paying off these debentures. In number of admissions per year, this village stands fifth behind Winchester, Mountain, Osgoode and Williamsburg Townships. Mountain and Osgoode are presently making $1,000.00 grants, the only municipalities to do so. There is no intention at the moment of going into detail in this particular matter, as it would most certainly prove distasteful to some, because it is apparent there is a shirking of duty somewhere along the line.

With a waiting list of over 80, which is not growing smaller; with the prospect of a national health scheme; with the evident growth of this section of Ontario, the bed situation at the hospital is not going to improve. We hope every neighbouring village and township within a twenty or twenty-five mile radius will give this matter every consideration, for it deserves immediate attention. No one will deny the important function of this hospital in this entire area. It's your hospital, support it!

New Law For Bicyclists

Scarcely a week goes by without reports being received from various communities across the country that a child has been killed or seriously injured as a result of after-dark bicycle riding without adequate protection. An ideal means of safety is the use of reflective tape on handle-bars, front fork and rear fender of each bike. Equipped in this manner, it appears to glow when viewed from behind automobile headlights. The protective qualities are preserved under all conditions—rain, snow, fog and smoke.

Service Clubs have long sought to ensure safety for bicycle riding youngsters by launching programs to equip the bikes with Scotchlite reflective tape at their own expense. However, legislation by the Ontario Government has now made the use of reflective tape on all bicycles compulsory. Anyone who has followed the tragic number of casualties as a result of nighttime bicycle accidents will readily realize what an important step the Ontario Department of Highways has taken in making protection by reflectorization compulsory.

Reflective Tape provides a clear, bright light set off by the reflection of millions of tiny sparkling beads, and is a safety warning to every motorist.

Reflective Tape on bicycles is now a law in Ontario, but any law is only as good as the faithfulness with which it is kept. Civic authorities cannot police every bicycle in use. The problem rests with those who are directly responsible for the bicycle riding youngsters. Lives may be lost, or bodies crippled, by failing to take precautions in time. When casualty does result, a lawsuit can be lost if it is stated that reflective tape was not in use.

It is the responsibility of every parent or anyone who has children in their care to see that reflective tape is used on the bicycles they ride. Don't let tragedy occur in your neighbourhood. Pass the word along to others who have children. You will be rendering them a service by doing so—and it may be a service that will have lifelong rewards.

Newspaper Growth And Paid Subscriptions

A combination of a lot of things has contributed towards the continued growth of this newspaper, much the largest weekly paper in this particular part of the province. To-day the Press circulation is hinging the 2100 mark, highest ever. It is readily understandable, therefore, that with 2100 separate accounts to contend with, it is absolutely imperative that subscriptions be kept paid up. Subscriptions to any newspaper, magazine or periodical are strictly payable in advance, and we would ask our many subscribers to kindly check their labels. If the date reads anything prior to March 1956, the subscription is due and should be paid promptly. If the paper has expired and the subscriber wishes it discontinued, simply notify this office. There's a human tendency in the weekly business to be lenient with subscribers. This policy is being abused by subscribers, however, and the trend of yesteryear to allow subscriptions to lag has vanished in all good newspaper offices. One good way to tell us if you like the Press is to keep the subscription paid. It's only two dollars and fifty cents per year.

Let's Have 'Em Now!

Don't wait until after I'm buried
And my spirit reposes in heaven
Before your bouquets are presented—
Give me your flowers while I'm livin'.

Don't talk of my weakness and failin'
While here in your midst I am dwellin',
Then brag on my deeds at the graveyard,
I'll take my flowers while I'm smellin'.

Maybe you think if you praise me
It'll make me swell-headed and vain—
So you laud me a lot to my neighbours
And save me from vanity's stain!

But if you decide I'm so ornery
My scrawny ol' soul would be dyin'
From pride at your words, if you praise me
To others, you're only a-lying!

Don't bring me bouquets when I'm cof-fined,
For then I won't care for your givin'.
Don't wait till the funeral, neighbours—
Give me your flowers while I'm livin'.

—Lon R. Woodrum.

Editorial Notes

Spring! Spring. Glorious Spring! It's here at last! Time to check over your fishing tackle—among other things!

Although Canada is the second largest country in the world, physical size, it's population is still relatively small, about one per cent. of the world's total.

New colour signs will be introduced to Ontario motorists after April 1st, the Department of Highways announces. Idea is to make new sign system of three basic colours: red, yellow and green, which are supposedly understood by all motorists. Then, there is always the fellow who is colour blind.

Just when we thought Spring was around the corner, Old Man Winter and Jack Frost teamed up to lengthen the season of white. But, the return of the robin, and the sight of the big black crow along the roadway, the longer days and the warming sun, combined with a date on the calendar, March 21st, tell us to perk up—Spring is officially here.

OF MANY THINGS . . .

GOVERNMENT CULTURE

(By Ambrose Hills)

As the feller said: "I ain't against culture. Heck, I took my girl to the art show, didn't I?"

I am against the current trend to make government the patron of the arts—because I have seen that it just doesn't work. Attempts to proletariatize culture through public corporations set up by the state actually damage cultural growth.

Millions of us know this, but because we haven't had time to dabble in the arts too much, the dilettanti talk us down. They present fantastic, neurotic scribblings, blobs of paint or explosions of dissonant music and shout "shame" at us when we honestly confess that in our opinion it is all a hoax. Too many of us meekly bow our heads and allow that if the government is sponsoring it, it must be culture.

Why don't we use our heads? Take a look at your local Member of Parliament—look closely! Is he a better judge of culture than you? Not at all. Read the speeches made in the House of Commons! How much culture there? Hardly a shade. Some of the worst oratory in history is being mouthed at Ottawa as these lines are being written. When we allow these men to spend millions of dollars of our money to sponsor culture, we need to have our heads examined.

Maybe I still have too much straw in my hair to be an authority on culture; but Sir Thomas Beecham ought to know what he is talking about—and he agrees with me. Writing in the Sunday Times of London he states quite bluntly that the zeal of public corporations for culture is greater than their insight.

Our situation in Canada today is absolutely fantastic. A man in Nova Scotia writes a novel which succeeds. The government does nothing for him but takes a huge bite of his income in taxes. But a girl in a Toronto night club can sing a sexy song with all sorts of bawdy inflections—and the government pays her big fees to star on TV and radio! What a horrible farce! And what an expense! The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has now shouldered aside the C.N.R. as the heaviest millstone around the taxpayer's neck.

If you are a member of an organization of any kind, and some hoity-toity executive wants to make representations to the Fowler Commission in favor of continued heavy spending by government on TV and radio, don't be talked into it. Government culture is a proven flop, and an expensive one.

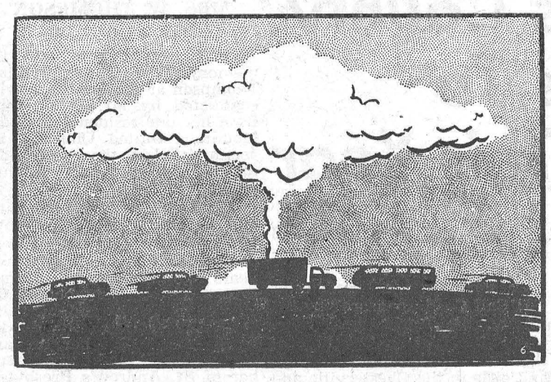
Civil Defence in War

(Sixth in a series of 24 articles)



Have you ever wondered why you keep hearing and reading about civil defence all the time these days? Why don't they drop the subject for a while? Let's talk about something cheerful for a change. How much do they expect a person to take? How long is this going to go on?

If you have wondered about these questions, you're certainly not the only one. But what about these questions — what are the answers? Let's drop the present for a moment then and look back at some recent history.

The airplane has probably done more than any other device contrived by man to bring war from the battlefield into the backyard. So let F. F. Worthington, federal civil defence co-ordinator, take the history from here. And don't think he has a personal axe to grind in this civil defence business. He confessed to some 70 newspaper and radio reporters recently that he'd far rather be home in Vancouver enjoying his retirement. "But there was a job to do," he said. "They asked me to do it." He left it at that.

"Following the Second World War," he told a group of women in Toronto not long ago, "it was full realized that, in any future conflict, the civil population would inevitably become a target in the stretegical aim of an aggressor for two reasons:

"First, because in a democratic country the government responds to the will of the people and if the morale and the will of the people are broken, it will reflect immediately upon the centre of government and may well bring about capitulation.

"Second, the complexity of weapons and equipment required in modern warfare renders the armed forces dependent upon production, and production depends upon the men and women who work in the fields and factories.

"Therefore, if the will to work or the people themselves is destroyed, production will cease and the armed forces cannot continue the struggle."

How to meet this new menace to every man, woman and child—for the H-bomb makes no exception to age or sex—was the problem out of which grew modern civil defence. But how should civil defence be created? There were two possible solutions.

The federal government could set up a central body, semi-military in nature, to make civil defence compulsory across the country. But how would this be accepted by each province? How would your community like to be told how to protect itself by some official in a distant Capital?

The other solution, the one Canada chose, was an organization based on the ancient concept of self-help, from which so many services already existing in Canada have arisen. Now, F. F. Worthington again:

"To maintain peace in the world, as it is today, demands a heavy price—the price of preparedness because no aggressor nation will dare attack unless it is reasonably sure to win—and to win, our home front must be knocked out.

"This preparation we call civil ried out. It requires time, but defence must be carefully carabove everything else—it requires the acceptance of responsibility at every level of government and of as many of its citizens as possible."

He added: "There is hardly a community in our country that will not be affected in the event of enemy attack. There is a feeling that the smaller communities in the "safe" areas have little responsibility for preparedness because they are out of

"I wish to emphasize in the strongest possible terms that such a belief is entirely erroneous. No one city, however big, can withtstand the terrible effects of a nuclear weapon without the combined efforts of each and every community within reasonable distance, and when I say reasonable distance I am talking in terms of hours of travel—not miles."

Does that answer the question? All but one—how long does this go on? Here's that answer from G. S. Hatton, deputy federal civil defence co-ordinator:

"The need for civil defence will continue until either we have achieved a permanent secure peace or our military advisers are able to guarantee that no enemy can make a successful attack on this country. Neither is a foreseeable contingency and as long as we need a military defence we shall need a civil defence."

OTTAWA CHURCH TO PRESENT LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The practical application of the spiritual truths taught in the Bible to sickness, insecurity and other problems of daily living will be the topic of a Christian Science lecture to be given Thursday, March 22nd, by Ralph Castle, of Belvedere, Calif.

On nationwide tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Mr. Castle will speak under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Ottawa, in the Church Edifice, Gilmour at Metcalfe Streets at 8.15 p.m. His subject will be "Christian Science: The Law Governing True Self-Expression."

A newspaperman for many years, Mr. Castle held various editorial positions and also served as Pacific Coast Advertising Manager of The Christian Science Monitor before resigning to enter the public practice of Christian Science in 1934. He has been a student of Christian Science since 1914, when he was healed in Christian Science of a physical ailment which had been considered incurable. He is an authorized public practitioner of Christian Science healing, and has been a Christian Science lecturer since 1947.

Women are made for men and not for pants.

When a man pants for a woman and a woman pants for a man, they are a pair of pants.

This often turns into a suit.

And with Spring comes mild weather, melting snow and water-covered highways and streets, which prompts us to reprint the following comment from the Prescott Journal: "There is probably nothing more aggravating to a pedestrian, except perhaps than being struck by a car, than to be drenched by muddy water sprayed from the wheels of a speeding car. Yes, it is more than frustrating; it is downright mayhem provoking. And it is perhaps one of the more difficult portions of the law to apply, for by the time the luckless pedestrian has wiped the slush from his eyes the offending motorist has disappeared, leaving only his spray to be remembered."

Fish Story

"Many years ago, I had arranged to meet my old friend Wes Taylor, a Philadelphia illustrator, at Jasper Park for a brief vacation," writes Napier Moore in The Financial Post. "Enroute to Alberta, he was to detour for a few days' fishing on Ontario's Lake Temagami. He arrived at Jasper in a state of some distress. He had lost his glasses. Out fishing with a guide, while getting a catch alongside the boat, he had leaned over the side and the glasses, of the pince-nez type, had slithered off his nez and dropped into the drink. Lost without them, he had promptly telegraphed his optician in Philadelphia asking him to rush a new pair to Jasper.

Two days later, a package arrived. "My glasses," my friend exulted, tearing open the wrapping without looking at it. "That's fast work." There was no air mail in those days and by train the package couldn't possibly have got there from Philadelphia. Then Wes gasped. "These are my OLD glasses," he said.

I piced up the wrapper. It bore Canadian stamps. Inside was a note from the manager of the lodge at Temagami. It said that the evening Wes departed, the guide had gone out fishing again and had caught a whopper. And wedged in its gullet were—you are quite right—Taylor's glasses. It was the guide's opinion that the fish, attracted by the glint of the lens as they slowly sank, had mistakenly regarded them as being edible."

It's YOUR HOSPITAL

by

MRS. CHARLES McLEAN
PRESIDENT, ONTARIO HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION

In a previous article, we considered the hospital as a community industry and found that hospitals are not a liability—rather they make jobs for thousands of people, use millions of dollars worth of products of other industries, and thus contribute substantially to the nation's economy. This time, I would like to deal with yet another aspect of hospitals and that is their role in education.

The prime purpose of the hospital, of course, is to provide the best possible patient care. To do this requires an adequate staff of specially trained professional and lay personnel. It is possible to educate most of these personnel, to a point, outside the hospital, but practical experience in many of the professions can only be obtained in the hospital where patients and facilities are available. Hospitals are aware of their responsibility in this regard and have made education an important part of their programme down through the years. The extent of their activities in education, of course, is dictated by the resources available.

The role of the hospital in the education of doctors is of utmost importance. During the latter years of his medical course, the student spends considerable time in the hospital affiliated with his university. Actual clinical experience is obtained and the student has an opportunity to examine for diagnoses and observe the treatment of patients. But it is after graduation that the hospital becomes of utmost importance to the medical student. Through special arrangements between universities and hospitals with adequate facilities and efficently organized medical staffs, medical graduates are taken in by the hospital for a period of internship which is, in reality, a continuation of the medical school course. As an intern for a period of at least one year, the intern gains practical experience in the actual treatment of patients under the supervision of staff doctors. This experience helps to equip the young doctor for general practice. If his intent is to specialize, then added years of residency supplement his initial hospital experience.

The medical intern has available not only patients with a large variety of illnesses, but all the expensive, up-to-date equipment necessary for the practice of modern medicine and, in addition, he hears lectures from widely-experienced physicians and surgeons and has the privilege of attending meetings of the medical staff. In return for the supervised service he provides, he usually receives room and board and a small remuneration from the hospital.

The education of nurses is, of course, the most usual type of education provided by hospitals. There was a day when we spoke of a nurse being "in training" which meant that she received a great deal of practical experience on the hospital wards plus a certain amount of academic instruction in classes. But the picture has changed considerably with the advancement in medical treatment. Now the student nurse devotes much more of her time to classroom study of the various branches of medical science. One hospital authority put this very aptly when he wrote: "During the years the student nurse has worked and learned. Today, she is learning and working." Practical experience, of course, still plays an important part in her education, but the pattern of this experience has changed considerably inasmuch as this time is now spent in the development of professional techniques which, because of the increased demand for skilled service, are rapidly becoming the sole occupation of the Registered Nurse.

On the surface it might look as if hospitals are serving only their own ends by educating nurses, but this idea is quickly exploded when we realize that only one in four of hospital-educated nurses remain in the hospital field. The balance find their way into doctors' offices, industry, governmental health offices, schools, matrimony, and I might say, "above all" in commercial airliners as stewardesses.

As is the case with doctors, there is no place other than hospitals where the student nurse can obtain clinical training, and even though the student may be connected with one of our fine university schools of nursing, she must still receive her actual experience in the hospital. Currently, about 96% of nurses educated in Ontario attend the province's 53 hospital schools of nursing. The cost of education is borne by the hospitals themselves, or perhaps I should say mostly by the patients through payment for care, for, in arriving at the cost of providing patient care, hospitals must include the cost of maintaining nursing schools and other educational facilities. In Ontario, hospitals do not yet receive any financial assistance specifically for the education of nurses.

It is true that a certain percentage of the students' activities on the wards constitutes a service which has some intrinsic value. However, balanced against the cost of providing and maintaining educational facilites, instructors, room and board, and other expenses related to nurse education, the over-all cost of educating a student nurse, on the average, exceeds value received for services on the ward by something like three hundred dollars per student year. This means that a hospital with fifty student nurses may have an annual deficit in this department of about $15,000.00. However, as the demand for nurses increases, hospitals must accelerate their nurse education programmes.

There are a number of other fields of professional education in which hospitals take part. For example, the hospital administrator, today, is a specialist in his field, and many of these men and women, after a post-graduate course at university, spend a year of supervised hospital residency in a selected hospital before entering the field as a qualified hospital administrator. Upon fulfilling this requirement and writing an acceptable thesis on a selected subject, the administrator may be awarded a Diploma in Hospital Administration (Toronto), which is equivalent to the Master's degree. There are other hospital personnel who receive at least part of their education within the hospital. Medical record librarians are completely trained in one of Ontario's two medical records schools, in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, and St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto. Laboratory technologists and X-ray technicians are completely trained in hospital schools. Dietitians, occupational physical therapists, hospital pharmacists, and social workers, are university educated but complete the training as interns in hospitals.

One important course of training provided by a few hospitals, which should not be overlooked, is the training of nursing assistants whose ability to perform many nursing functions is freeing the professional nurse for more important duties.

Yes, your hospital is a busy institution in many ways and education is one of the most important parts of its programme.

Now in 1955, she brings you another wonderful story to see — the heart lifting story of a courageous woman — a Country Doctor — who fought a spiteful town for the right to heal the blind and the sick. It didn't matter that their faith was different than her own.

With this picture she has added another great hit to the Screen's Hall of Fame!

HOME HINTS

The following is an effective method of washing the upholstery: Dissolve one cup shaved mild soap or soap powder in four cups of boiling water; cool, then beat with an egg beater until fluffy. Dip a small clean brush into the fluff and scrub a small area of the upholstery at a time. Wipe the suds off quickly with a clean cloth, then rinse thoroughly with another cloth frequently, wrung out in clean water. (Change water often). Wipe as dry as possible with a soft cloth.

WHEAT

Wheat is good buying now compared with other grain. The price of Wheat hasn't gone up as much as Barley and Oats.

Feed this No. 5 Wheat whole to poultry, ground in pig feed, and ground coarse or rolled in cattle feed. Add a few bags of ground or rolled wheat when making up a mix. It grinds in well with home grown grain too.

CEMENT

There have been reports in the paper about possible shortage of Cement this summer because of the Seaway and so much building in sight.

Usually the shortage does not come until midsummer or later, but it could come earlier this year.

Anyone planning to use much Cement would do well to put in an order early as possible.

Orders booked ahead will be taken care of if Cement should be in short supply.

HOME HINTS

Polishing Furniture

A good practice to follow before polishing the furniture is to wipe over it with a cloth dipped into vinegar and water. This will make the polishing much easier and no fingermarks will show.

Spring Tonic

A fine spring tonic is stewed rhubarb and prunes, blended, but cooked separately. This is well stocked with minerals necessary for the blood and is a fine "builder-upper."

Slip Covers

Before putting slip covers on the furniture, give it a thorough cleaning, brushing and airing. And for precaution, spray the furniture well with a moth-proofing liquid, and then put on the covers.

This ambitious 18-year-old Scot came to Canada in 1845. Versatile, adaptable, he conquered problem after problem.

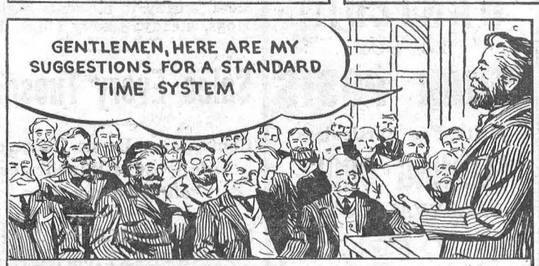
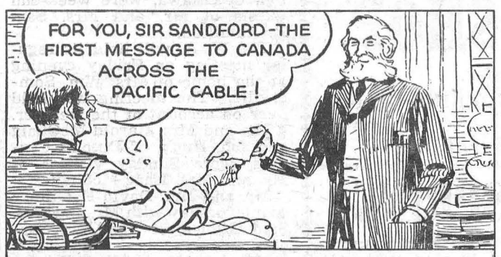
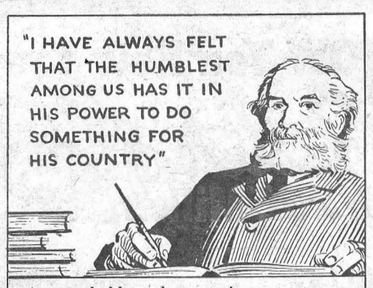
As Chief Engineer, he directed laying of the Intercolonial Railway and the transcontinental C.P.R., completed in 1885.



In 1876, Fleming pioneered a world time system—Standard Time as we know it today. At first he got no support, but finally in 1884, at a 25 nation conference in Washington, his proposals were accepted.



Fleming who was knighted in 1897, then turned to another bold spanning of distances—a cable under the Pacific Ocean completed in 1902. The Prime Minister of New Zealand cables him!



A remarkable and energetic man—a true nation-builder—Fleming was Chancellor of Queen's University for 35 years.

Great though his genius, Fleming was but one of a parade of pioneers whose vision built Canada, backed by men and institutions who provided the financial means to bring their exploits to realization.

The Bank of Nova Scotia is today providing the same backing to our modern pioneers. When you save with your bank you share in these partnerships which are shaping the future of our country.

Salk Polio Vaccine For All Under 15 In Next Two Months

The Ontario Department of Health plans to inoculate all children under 15 years of age in the Province with Salk anti-polio vaccine between now and the end of May, Health Minister Dr. Mackinnon Phillips has announced. Dr. Phillips says there is every assurance that enough vaccine will be available to carry through this programme.

First on the list will be shots for all public school pupils from Grade I to Grade VIII. Following their second shot it is the Department's intention to start inoculating all pre-school children, beginning with those of three, four and five years. Babies of one and two years get a certain amount of immunity from their mothers, Dr. Phillips explained.

Why Not Win Absolutely FREE At This

Giant Auction Sale!

A Registered Ayrshire Cow or Tractor or Baler?

Here is how it is done. When something is knocked down the buyer will be given a special ticket with his lot number on it. This he deposits in a barrel by the auctioneer's stand; twice during the sale and once at the end someone from the crowd will pick out a ticket. The lucky person whose lot number is drawn will take home this purchase absolutely FREE. If the buyer of the lot number which is drawn does not present himself to claim his refund within five minutes he forfeits his prize and another ticket is immediately drawn. As nothing of less than $25.00 value is to be sold at this sale, all three prizes are certain to be good, and it could be a Deisel Tractor, a lovely Ayrshire cow or a Clipper Combine that you take home free.

SPRING IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

A week-end bird's eye view proves that Spring is just around the corner. And a bird's eye view it was because Mr. Crow is back with all the brood; advance flocks of geese and ducks were seen winging their way northward, and Robin Red Breast has made his initial 1956 appearance in this area.

Reports coming to the office came from as far away as the St. Lawrence where the ducks and geese were watched as they moved swiftly across the skies; crows were reported seen all over the entire district, and a Winchester resident came up with the big one—the robin has returned.

Combined with some warm sunny weather, disappearing snow and swollen creeks, and the announcement that plans had been made by Chesterville Legion for the fourth annual Nation River barrel run, the signs all point to one direction, Spring.

NEW FIRE MARSHAL'S OFFICE FOR OTTAWA AND DISTRICT

Attorney General Kelso Roberts announced on Tuesday that a new Fire Marshal's Office would be located at Ottawa. The new office will be open after May 1st and will serve Eastern Ontario Counties including Dundas. Attorney General Roberts said that the new office is being located at Ottawa because of industrial expansion, more population and the increasing prominence of Eastern Ontario.

NEW GOVERNMENT LEGISLATION TO SET UP FARM COMPENSATION

"We consider workmen's compensation should be carried by farmers where help is hired, and a special type of compensation to cover the exchange of neighbourly help is greatly desired" think members of East Osgoode Farm Forum.

Discussing the topic, "Workmen's Compensation," members met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Johnston, and were led in discussion by Scott Argue. Forum members voiced the opinion that government legislation be enacted so that workmen's compensation, including farm owners, will be available in the not distant future. They believed that workmen's compensation benefits were a definite advantage both to the employed and the employer in case of injury. Disadvantage is the farmer who does not employ extra help, and there are many. The Forum believes these people should be allowed at least reasonable workmen's compensation insurance.

Farm Forum Guide states: "No attempt has been made in any province in Canada to extend workmen's compensation to agriculture on a compulsory basis, yet in 26 other countries, including the United Kingdom, all agricultural wage earners are included within the scope of workmen's compensation laws." There are several different possibilities where farmers would be included in the coverage, but as yet no action has been taken to make any of them a reality.

Compulsory To Use Reflective Tape On Bicycles Now

Legislation by the Ontario Government has now made the use of reflective tape on all bicycles compulsory. The amendment to the Ontario Highway Traffic Act states: "Whenever on a highway after dusk and before dawn, every bicycle or tricycle shall carry on the front thereof a white or amber lighted lamp and on the back thereof a red lighted lamp or reflector approved by the Department, and in addition there shall be placed on the front forks thereof white reflective material, and on the back thereof red reflective material covering a surface of not less than ten inches in length and one inch in width."

The use of this reflective tape on various parts of the bicycle may cut down tragic highway accidents. Parents are asked to see that this tape is placed on bicycles belonging to their children. Periodical check-ups will be made by the police department to see that the law is upheld.
