Crowder Monuments

"Built on a proud foundation of sensitivity & respect"

THREE GENERATIONS OF EXPERIENCE

• Established 1957 •

Designing tribute to loved ones

Crowder Monuments is proud to offer a service that people will cherish and remember for years to come.

The Morrisburg-based monument firm offers the traditional granite stone with lettering to the more intricate monument which can feature everything from floral pattern to an outdoor scene.

It's a third-generation firm which was started in 1957 by Dwight Crowder who at first only sold monuments. His wife Evelyn and son Dale came on in 1972. They were originally based in Williamsburg but moved in 1978. Now Dale's daughter Lisa is a member of the firm.

Dale Crowder is very proud of what they offer.

"People value the products we have. It's probably the only thing they'll buy that they won't have to replace."

The idea of permanence, of leaving a reminder to the world is also important. Crowder says you can see this walking in old graveyards.

"When you go into the old cemeteries you see monuments back when people lost four or five family members to the cholera epidemic. It's a testament to the people who developed this country."

Dale says that Crowder Monuments takes a lot of pride in helping families to create the perfect tribute to a loved one.

But the face of monumments has changed over the years and Crowder Monuments has kept up with the design changes. He says the changes, especially etching scenes on monuments, have reshaped the industry from what people were able to do 40 to 50 years ago.

"They weren't able to do it years ago because they were using chisels. The design of today requires a lot of different tools. It's not as traditional as it used to be."

They started etching on the monuments four years ago and the result is a beautiful, often startling lifelike scenes. With this ability to etch, Crowder says the only limits on the artwork is the imagination of the customer.

"Whatever they can imagine we can put it on a stone," Crowder says. "If you can draw it, paint it or photograph it we can reproduce it on granite. There is nothing artificial about it."

"We've been putting monuments in Dundas County for the last 35 years."

Crowder Monuments is located on Highway 2 in Morrisburg.

They are open Monday to Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Saturdays they are open until noon.

FAMILY FIRM - Dale Crowder and his daughter Lisa are proud of the work Crowder Monuments has done in providing monuments to Dundas County for the last three decades. The company is located in Morrisburg.
