South Nation receives $150,000

More than 50 people in 10 South Nation Conservation forestry crews funded by Human Resources Development Canada are in the field, working to clean up debris resulting from the January ice storm. Now SNC has an additional $150,000 grant from Ontario under the Federal Disaster Financial Assistance program. These funds can be used to assist municipalities with clearing riverine areas and drainage facilities, or ensuring parks, public forests and trails are safe to use. SNC and watershed municipalities ask the public's help identifying areas that need to be cleared, especially municipal drains or other watercourses.

Treasure Island goes up in smoke

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

INGLESIDE—An early morning blaze that swept through the Treasure Island Restaurant here Thursday was ruled as accidental by the fire department.

The building had been vacant since a fire on January 5, 1997.

"There was a transient living in the one of the rooms, and he was snooping around in the basement of the restaurant with a roll of lighted newspapers that he used like a lantern," said Fire Chief Shawn Lalonde of the Ingleside Fire Department.

"I wasn't actually at the fire, but the guys said they had to go and wake him up. He was asleep in the third room."

The transient, who was bicycling across Canada from Alberta, had taken refuge in the vacant hotel room.

Fire fighters, who were completing a room check at the time, discovered the man sleeping in the third room behind the restaurant.

"It's routine that we do a sweep through the rooms," said Lalonde, "even though the place had been empty."

The Ingleside Fire Department was called at 8:09 a.m., and the restaurant was totally engulfed in flames by the time they arrived.

"It went up really quickly," the chief said. "It was very dry since it had not been occupied in over a year."

About 30 fire fighters battled the blaze until 4:30 p.m., as assistance came from both Long Sault and Newington Fire Departments. Morrisburg Fire Department helped to fill air bottles as well.

Upper Canada Police Const. Joel Doiron, said no charges were not laid as a result of the fire.

"The guy had found shelter in a demolished building. He had lit some newspapers on fire to see his way around, and probably didn't extinguish it well enough, which later caught on fire. He wasn't hurt," said Const. Doiron. "There wasn't any extra damage done to the building, as it was going to be demolished anyway.

Beds close on third floor at WDMH

Catherine Thompson
Leader Staff

WINCHESTER—Twenty-four beds in the medical surgical unit on the third floor of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital are being affected by changes to take place as of April 1.

Ten active medical care beds are being closed and 14 are being relocated from the third floor to other areas in the hospital as a result of an overall redeployment of resources.

Of the 14, eight are being moved to the medical, surgical floor on the second level, and six active beds will be located on the east side of the second level, in the long term care unit.

Jean Holmes, director of Human Resources explained the six beds are just being geographically relocated and are not intended specifically for long-term care. "These six beds will remain active, and may be used by anyone who fits the criteria of people admitted there," she said.

Asked what is planned for the vacant space, Holmes said nothing has been assigned for the immediate future. Plans for day clinics are ongoing, but there is no decision as to where these should be located. "We're looking at the best location," she said.

After the changes, the Hospital will have 35 active treatmet beds, 25 long term care beds, one respite bed, five obstetric beds, and four I.C.U. (Intensive Care Beds).

Some staff are being relocated as a result of the changes and a total of 25 to 28 received lay-off notices which began in early February.

According to Holmes, nursing, service and support position including housekeeping, engineering and lab, but no clerical jobs were impacted.

Holmes said the final number will not be known until the bumping process is complete. Employees will remain at the hospital until the end of their three month or six month notice.

Through bumping, employees with more seniority and experience in a field can take the positions of employees who have less.

Some will go into temporary positions which will become available to people who can exercise their bumping rights.

"Some went to vacant positions and early retirement packages to others created additional vacancies. This will help to absorb the impact of lay-off," said Holmes.

"We'll attempt to offer retraining initiatives to let people qualify for available positions, to allow them to take them. Training may be a combination of on site experience and theory at an outside facility," she continued.

"The Hospital is trying to explore every and any avenue to minimize the impact of lay-offs," said Holmes.

"We're meeting with union groups on a regular basis to explore opportunities and we're making significant progress."

"We hope the government will open their eyes and realize the cuts are too deep."
Acres

"It's been very traumatic," said Rhonda Acres, president of CUPE Local 3,000, regarding the impact of lay-offs on employees and their morale.

"And it will impact on the community. The people will suffer because they won't have the same access to health care as they do now. There just will not be the beds available."

Acres said the union is trying to save as many jobs as possible through weekly labor management meetings.

"We're trying to save as many as we can through the bumping process, and we hope the government will open their eyes, and realize the cuts are too deep across the province."

Acres said seven full-time registered practical nurses, a fulltime dietary, and a full-time lab position were affected in the lay-offs.

CUPE includes clerical, support and technologist workers. There are approximately 150 employees in the local bargaining unit but probably less now,

Chilldown wraps up Disaster Relief Week

Catherine Thompson
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG–An evening of fun and entertainment is set this weekend as Chilldown '98 wraps up fund-raising events for SD & G Disaster Relief Week.

"I'm getting some feedback from people and it's starting to shape up. We've had some good donations from people for prizes. There's so much going on, it should be really good," organizer Keri Metcalfe commented.

Cornwall D.J. Johnny B. Good will get the ball rolling at 7 p.m. for the party at the Morrisburg Meeting Center. Music and entertainment is by two bands including Velvet Heart and local band Country Rain, and some alumnae actors from Upper Canada Playhouse.

Refreshments are in the form of a light lunch, and there will be a cash bar.

The evening is sponsored by Molsons, who are offering door prizes of ball caps, T-shirts and duffle bags. "Some prizes will be raffled off, but most will be given away," said organizer Keri Metcalfe. "There are lots of other prizes too, like Ice Storm sweat shirts someone recently donated."

In addition, there will be a draw for a Molsons jacket. The first ticket is free with admission, and additional tickets for each beer purchased.

Also that evening the Molson draw will be held for wearers of Melt-down buttons. All week, spotters have been going throughout the area, checking for buttons, and a spotter will be at Chilldown. Those people 19 and over who are seen wearing one will win $25 on the spot and their name will be entered in the draw that evening.

People 18 and under who have been spotted will receive $10 gift certifiicates for MacDonalds, and are entered in the draw for $100 of MacDonalds gift certificates.

There are some exciting items in the line-up for Silent Auction, including two rounds of golf for Upper Canada Golf Course, a one day family admission pass for Upper Canada Village, a $100 gift certificate to Porto Bello Restaurant. Two admission tickets to the main parks and water parks at Walt Disney World in Orlando, Florida were donated by a Disney employee and are good indefinitely.

Metcalfe hopes the community will really support the fund-raiser. "I hope people haven't forgotten the damage done by the Ice Storm and that people are still suffering and trying to recover their costs," she said.

Meltdown was a hit

Despite the snow storm on Sunday, Meltdown '98 which kicked off the fund-raising week was a success, and approximately $40,000 was raised for Disaster Relief in cash and cheque donations.

"Although the weather put a damper on things, everybody who could make it did enjoy it," said Leslie O'Shaughnessy, chair of fund-raising for Disaster Relief.

O'Shaughnessy suggested this Saturday's event may provide people who benefitted from use of the Meeting Center as a shelter during the Ice Storm a chance to give back to the community.

"One of the reasons why we decided to hold one here, was to allow people that option of attending one locally," Metcalfe explained.

"We hope people who weren't able to go to the kick off in Cornwall because of the weather will be able to go to this one," she added.

Retired navy engineer turns full-time woodworker

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

Cyril Gosse is a retired marine engineer turned woodworker. He's been creating extravagant pieces for over 20 years, but just these past 10 or so, his hobby has become very serious.

But Cyril didn't retire from the navy because he wanted to. He had to.

His heart told him so.

"I was out feeding the cows one morning and I felt a little funny in my chest," said the personable cabinet maker, as he sat down at his kitchen table to visit last Thursday.

He went to the hospital, where doctors discovered he had a hiatus hernia.

After repairing the hernia, his doctor performed a quadruple by-pass, which ended his career in the navy.

"That was about the time I took up woodworking full time," he said, as he tucked a fat pencil behind his ear after some doodling on a scrap piece of paper. "That was in 1985, but it's just been the past 10 or so that it's been my business."

Cyril recently opened a show room above his barn-turned-workshop, where a selection of painted and unfinished wood pieces are on display. These include small buffets, jelly cupboards and numerous cut wood pieces suitable for either experienced or beginning tole painters.

Most of his creations are purchased for tole painting, which is about 90 per cent of his business he says.

There are lazy susans, and wall plaques, children's toys and tables and chairs, even corner cabinets and bedroom suites. He's done it all. Perhaps his most impressive pieces are enjoyed in his home.

He made a cherry bedroom suite, complete with a four-poster bed frame, two night stands, and a chest of drawers. Instead of the mirror on the chest, there is a ceiling-high book case, and a curio-corner-type cabinet which divides the unit down the centre.

"Now how much would you charge me for this suite?" I asked him in wonderment.

"$14,000," he tells me.

I'm thinking $1,400, but I repeated the number out loud.

"$14,000?! Wow. That's incredible, and absolutely beautiful."

He smiles, obviously proud of his work.

All through his home there are works of wood, created by both him and his wife.

At a quick glance around his homey kitchen you can see his pine cupboards, and a microwave stand. His living room is also a showroom for some more of their creations.

"My wife Judy is a cabinet maker by trade," he says. "She works at Oxford and went to Algonquin in Ottawa."

Even his son Richard helped him build a cedar strip canoe, in which Cyril tells me, they've enjoyed many hours on the water.

By this time, I'm anxious to see the showroom, and Cyril is just as excited to show me.

Going up a steep set of stairs (which he made by the way) to the loft in the barn, I wait in anticipation as he opens the door to his hide-away.

Inside, there are hundreds of pieces, which Cyril says he has to see pictures in books in order recreate them.

I can't remember the exact comparison, but he says he's about as imaginative as a clay pigeon.

"I have to see it in a book before I can make it," he says with a chuckle. "I'm not too creative."

Of course, you would never know this if he didn't tell you.

Many of his pieces are made from basswood, which he says, makes the best surface to paint on, as "there aren't the knots, or stains on the wood, like you find on pine."

"The ladies I sell to are buying up pieces to tole paint on, and in the very near future I want to teach classes on how to use a scroll saw," he says.

"I want to start after the Morrisburg Craft Show. After a couple hours of instructions, away they'll go. There's not really that much to it, but a few ladies have asked me to teach them, so I figured, 'why not?'"

Cyril says he's got a great partnership going on with Diana Bew, who is an impressive tole painter in Brinston.

"Diana buys a lot of pieces from me, and her work is just beautiful," he says.

From the showroom, he takes me down stairs to check out the 'work' room.

Actually, his companion pooch raced to the doorway first.

"I used to have a bunch of beef cows, and pigs, turkeys, chickens," he said. "But not anymore."

Behind this door, instead of his menagerie of animals, there are even more tools of his trade: a skill saw, planner, drill, hand tools and lumber, and such, as well as numerous pieces of wood at different stages of creation.

"Judy and I are going to have a little business going here when she retires from work," he says.

He calls his business, Homeport Woodcraft.

"That wouldn't mean anything to anyone else but another sailor," he says with a laugh. "It just means that I'm home and I ain't moving."

Except of course, when he and his wife take extended trips in a motor home, and enjoy the summer months.

But for now, he's content to work away in his shop, which is located off County Road 22 (South Gower Drive), south from Highway 43, then east on Latourell Road at Pelton's Corners. Watch for the blue sign on the north side of the road and you're at Cyril's place. The civic number, 409.

He says that painters and teachers alike are encouraged to drop by and ask questions. There are special rates for teachers who want to give classes, as his wooden pieces are on available at comparative wholesale prices.

Painters can bring their own drawings, patterns, or sample pieces, and he will also give reduced prices when more than five of the same items are ordered.

"Pieces can be cut or manufactured from pine, basswood or Baltic birch plywood," he says. "Furniture can be made from any available wood, including oak, cherry, or pine. Whatever the customer likes."

If you would like to see some of his work, Cyril can be reached at (613) 258-2931. He will also be at the Morrisburg and District Arts and Crafts Show, which takes place at the Morrisburg Legion Friday and Saturday. As a member of the MDAC's association, Cyril also has his pieces on sale at the Craft Barn, which opens in May, and is located west of Upper Canada Village.

Ice Storm fund-raiser

"They should have a good time and it all goes to a great cause."

The proceeds will go to the SDG Disaster Relief Committee to help people whose insurance did not cover damage and clean-up costs from the Ice Storm. Monies raised are to be matched on a four on one basis by the provincial government.

Tickets at $10 for adults and $5 for children seven and under are available on a limited basis, by calling the Meeting Center at 543-2911, or from municipal offices in Williamsburg, Winchester or South Stormont (formerly Osnabruck Township).

The Disaster Relief Committee recently set up a telephone donations line through Bell Advantage. If anyone wishes to donate $20 to Ice Storm relief by telephone, they may dial 1-900-630-3320, or $50 by dialing 1-900-630-3350. The last two digits of the number represent the donation.

The donation will be put on their telephone bill, and donors will receive a tax deductible donation from the Disaster Relief Committee.

Winchester Hospital

said Acres.

"The community is not aware of what is happening, To my knowledge there have been no community meetings."

Public meetings held in different communities around the catchment area have nothing to do with what is happening now, Acres continued.

And a couple of weeks ago, five managers lost their positions, some of whom were offered retirement packages and others termination packages to help them in transition until they find alternate employment.

Last fall, the Hospital submitted its strategic plan to the Hospital Restructuring Commission. Among the recommendations was to continue to provide emergency care, internal medical and surgical care, but increasingly on an outpatient basis. The Hospital would provide enough beds to manage acute care, but shift the focus over time to ambulatory care through clinics and additional day services.

The Restructuring Commission is expected to respond to the Hospital's submission by late March or early April.

'Seconds, please' boasts good quality, savings

Catherine Thompson
Leader Staff

WILLIAMSBURG—Not long ago, two Williamsburg residents, Carol Green and Anne Allen, had visions of setting up a good quality second hand clothing store.

"We both independently had this idea at the back of our heads," explained Allen, a real estate broker with Gale Real Estate Ltd. and a local landowner.

With this in mind, Anne started to eye her vacant property opposite the Lutheran Church, and tenant Carol came over, wondering what Anne was up to.

"I told her and she said she was interested, and didn't know I was either. She said 'It's always what I wanted to do,' Anne explained. "So we decided and here it is."

"I had no idea what her interests were until she came over to see what I was doing," Anne added.

And with her background to draw on as a designer of clothing for recording artists, Carol will have much to contribute to the new business. She ran a shop called 'Plumage' in Scarborough, but missing her native Montreal, returned there. Then five years ago, she decided to try her hand at life in the country.

"And now I've found my niche," the current Williamsburg resident declares. "I've incorporated all the things I know and I'm in the country too".

The two ladies will have their work cut out, as Carol combines the clothing business, with pursuing a Psychology major at Carleton University, and Anne continues her work in real estate.

Over the last few weeks the two have been busy renovating with the help of a contractor and Susan Hunt, another Williamsburg entrepreneur who has her own business in painting and wallpapering has assisted with redecorating. The three ladies intend to share hours at the shop.

The new business 'Seconds Please' has something to offer 'Guys, Gals and Little People' who are looking for 'gently worn' clothes, some seconds with slight flaws, and some new clothes including the latest fashions.

"We'll try to dress the working mom for the office so she won't have to spend all her money on baby sitting and clothes," Carol stated.

"Last Saturday we weren't even open, and two girls came from Kanata and bought some of our new clothes," said Anne. "One lady had to dress herself for work and she dressed herself from our shop."

"One of the things we wanted to do was keep it a home environment. As if you were going over to your friend's place and exchanging clothes," Carol added.

The clothing is located upstairs, but Carole pointed out those who are unable to climb stairs will be courteously served downstairs.

"This community needs a good second hand store with quality garments at reasonable prices," Carol concluded. "Our motto is going to be good quality, great savings."

Books and knickknacks and puzzles are in the coffee shop, and may entertain the children while parents browse. The coffeee shop officially opens at 9 a.m. Saturday, March 28 and customers may enjoy homemade soup, sandwiches and desserts here.

Located at 12364 County Road #18, 'Seconds Please' will be during the week from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, but closed Wednesday and Sunday.

Working moms who are unable to shop during open hours can call for an appointment. For more information call 535-1085 or 535-2578.

MPP on Info highway

With a click of the mouse, SDG and East Grenville MPP Noble Villeneuve, launched his new fully-bilingual web-site, www.noblevilleneuve.com at the Tagwi Secondary School library.

"When I was first elected in 1983, the personal computer was just coming on the market - typewriters were more the norm," said Villeneuve. "The personal computer has quickly become part of our everyday lives, which is why I'm proud to launch this informative and entertaining website."

The site was designed and constructed by 21 year old Sue Bowness, a Monkland native and graduate of Tagwi Secondary School. It includes: a photo album full of memories from community event; an online version of Noble's weekly news column; answers to frequently asked questions; links to government and local web sites; and e-mail for people to get in touch with Noble.

The site will not only provide quick access for constituents looking for information about what's going on at Queen's Park and in the community, they can also send Noble an e-mail message.

"Sue has done a remarkable job," said Villeneuve. "This is another excellent tool to communicate with my constituents."

April seat belt campaign

Beginning April 1, and continuing for two weeks, police will again be conducting the annual seat belt campaign across Ontario.

The focus of the 1998 campaign is the correct use of child safety seats, which means having children properly buckled in an appropriate child safety seat. For newborns (up to 20 pounds) a rear facing infant safety seat or convertible safety seat is required. Toddlers (20-40 pounds) would progress to a convertible safety seat which allows them to ride facing forward in the car.

If the child is at a height where the middle of the child's ear is higher than the top of the back of the seat then it is time to move to the next stage, a booster seat. This will utilize the vehicle lap and shoulder straps. The manufacture's weight and height requirements and the issue of head protection provided by the vehicle seats will dictate when it is time to use the vehicle seat belts for protection.

It is important to have the safety seats properly installed with all the necessary hardware. This can become a concern when parents are considering the purchase of used equipment in order to ensure these seats offer the maximum protection to their children. A 1994 "Safe Kids Canada Survey" indicated that 97% of parents believed they were using the child safety seat properly, while nearly two thirds of the children are not secured correctly in their safety seats.

Drivers are responsible for all passengers under the age of 16 being properly belted in, and violations may result in a fine of $105 and two demerit points.

More information on choosing and using child seats is available on the Ministry of Transportation web site. Before you turn the key, make sure everyone's buckled up.

National Wildlife Week

National Wildlife Week takes place from April 5 to 11, at which time people from coast to coast work together to raise awareness about the importance of wildlife and wildlife conservation in Canada This year's theme focusses on shoreline habitat and the need to protect these important areas for wildlife.

National Wildlife Week was created in 1947 by a Act of Parliament to commemorate the late Jack Miner, one of the great founders of Canada's conservation movement.

To promote the week, the slogan Give Wildlife An Edge. . Protect Our Shorelines was chosen as the central message for promotional materials. This message emphasizes that wildlife depends on shorelines and needs our help to protect or improve their habitat so that they can continue to flourish in a safe and healthy environment.

During NWW, the Canadian Wildlife Federation (CWF) works with federal, provincial, and territorial wildlife agencies to encourage Canadians to coordinate events and activities relating to wildlife and to spread the word about this important event. The CWF has sponsored NWW since 1963 with help of federal, provincial and territorial agencies. Since then, hundreds of schools, libraries, parks, community groups, service clubs and individual citizens have taken part in interesting wildlife-related events and activities including habitat improvement projects.

This year, all sorts of exciting activities are taking place across the country to celebrate NWW, including nature walks, wildlife art exhibits, film festivals, mall and museum displays and school programs, to name a few.

Habitat 2000

In conjunction with National Wildlife Week, CWF distributes an educational kit entitled, Habitat 2000, to thousands of schools across the country. Habitat 2000 is a wildlife habitat improvement program for young people. To date, close to 170,000 young people have taken part in the program. A special Habitat 2000 Fund allows school and youth groups to help finance projects that will improve habitat for wildlife by the year 2000.

Grants of up to $200 are available per class to purchase raw materials and tools needed for a Habitat 2000 project. Once equipped with items such as seedlings, soil, rakes, and shovels, young people work together and enjoy themselves while improving habitat for wildlife and their community's natural surroundings. In recognition for their extraordinary efforts to improve wildlife habitat, schools and classes across Canada receive National Wildlife week Awards.

If you would like to take part in NWW and need help in planning an event, or if you would like a copy of this year's poster, please write to CWF at 2740 Queensview Dr., Ottawa ON K2B 1A2 or call the NWW Hot line at 1-800-563-WILD.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles by Laurie Day

1988

In a send-off befitting champions, members of the Morrisburg Curling Club bid good luck and farewell to the Ontario Pepsi Junior Men's Champions Sunday night. The rink of Daryl Morrell, Scott Lane, Gord Johnston, Chris Lane and coach Sid Morrell, won the provincial championship in London with a perfect 7-0 record two weeks before. Several dignitaries were on hand to wish the team well before they were to depart for the national championship in Vancouver later on in the week.

Natasha Buter was pictured on the front page of the March 23 issue of The Leader as she waited in line to be made up by Emily Geleynse, of Timothy Christian School. Wearing clown faces was part of a fundraising effort by the school which needed $8,625.It was the best bazaar ever financially, according to organizer John Zandbergen.

A Monday night fire on Beckstead Road left one garage gutted and caused about $6,000 damage. The Morrisburg Fire Department was called to the scene at around 7:15 p.m., which took the fire fighters about 15 minutes to extinguish.

Pictured on the front page of the March 22 issue of The Leader was Leo Lafortune, who surprised local hockey fans with 15 goals and seven assists in seven play-off games. Leo, in his rookie year with the Morrisburg Junior B Lions, had only 12 goals during the regular season.

Water rates were up 15 per cent in Morrisburg, the village hoping to pick up a $4,700 loss incurred in the year past. The average home in Morrisburg was paying about $32 a year for water.

One of the latest residential developments around morrisburg was the planned subdivision along Flagg Creek organized by Gabemi Developments.

The Village of Morrisburg was experiencing a growth rate second to none in the three United Counties. In the past two years, Chesterville had grown by about 70 residents, Iroquois by 40, and Winchester by 150.

Junior B playoff action between Morrisburg and Prescott was continuing with Morrisburg leading 3-0 in their bid for their third straight Gill Cup championship. The Lions had defeated the Saints by scores of 6-5, 6-2, and 8-2. They had only lost one which was to the Cardinal Broncos in their first round of action.

Workers at Crysler Park Sugar Bush were preparing for the season. Trees were tapped the sap wasn't running yet.

The March 29 issue of The Leader reported the Combines left for Newfoundland for the first round of Allan Cup playoffs. Coach Ralph Hurley was a bit troubled about the opposition they would meet there. "I have a feeling that Newfoundland will have a tough team," he said. "I know that old pros Alex and George Faulkner, Howie Meeker and Fleming MacKell are playing there."

John F. Casselman of Williamsburg celebrated his 92nd birthday. Born at Strader's Hill, west of Williamsburg on March 28, he was a son of Levi J. Casselman and his wife Agnes Alisha Casselman.

Introduced in the Meet Your OPP column, was Const. Frank Albert, who was born in Ottawa. Appointed to the force in 1963, he was very popular with the youngsters in Morrisburg as he coached minor hockey and softball.

At the Dominion, turnips were seven cents a pound and Eversweet breakfast bacon was 59 cents for a one-pound package.

The March 21 issue of The Leader reported donations for the new Morrisburg Arena were coming in at a steady clip, with the total raised through donations now at $1,361.

A new navigation opening record was set when the government ship, Grenville, left port two days earlier than usual on March 20.

The Morrisburg Feed and Produce Company had moved to its new site on Industrial Road just off the new No. 2 Highway, directly north of Kingston-Dunbrik.

It was election time again and an advertisement sponsored by the Grenville-Dundas Progressive Conservative Association, was urging voters to give Diefenbaker a majority, by voting for A. Clair Casselman, a Prescott lawyer.

Running for the Liberals in Grenville-Dundas was Arthur C. Casselman.

It was reported in the March 26 issue of The Leader that Halifax St. Mary's had turned back the Inkerman Rockets 9-1 to take a one-game lead in the best-of-five series for the Memorial Cup. The Rockets threw everything they had at Ernie Yeader, but managed only one goal against the first-year junior. Inkerman's first line of the Duncan twins, Erwin and Edwin, and Percy Armstrong, turned in the best work for the locals.

A 30-piece set of Corex dinnerware was selling for $4.70 at McGillis Home Hardware.

Rooms at the Lord Elgin in Ottawa were $4 per night for a single.

MS Read-A-Thon kicks off at MPS

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Students at Morrisburg Public School were enthusiastic about the MS Readathon kickoff Monday, but were even more impressed with their chances to win a trip to Toronto.

Danielle Soucre, presenter of the Multiple Sclerosis Read-A-Thon to school-aged children, was in Morrisburg to kick off the annual fund-raising event for MS.

"Students have a month to read as many books as they can, obtain sponsors and help raise money for MS," she said.

"This is a very exciting and challenging program."

The students were shown a short video about MS, which highlighted some important basics about the nervous system disease.

"First of all, you can't catch this disease," Soucre stated after the video presentation. "It's not contagious, and it's not hereditary. Best of all, it doesn't affect kids."

"Just because you guys can't get it (at this stage of life), doesn't mean you can't help find a cure, and by taking part in this read-a-thon, you're doing just that."

Some interesting stats show that in the past 21 years that this program has been in various schools across Canada, primary school children have raised $26 million, and have read 90 million books.

This year's fund-raising effort will give each student involved a chance to win a trip for two to Toronto, to enjoy a Maple Leafs weekend, complete with return train tickets, one night's accommodation, two game tickets, Maple Leafs memorabilia, dinner for two, two passes for the CN Tower and a Tour of the Universe.

No only to these students have the opportunity to win great prices, but they also have a chance at winning an educational scholarship from the Canadian Scholarship Trust Foundation (potential $2,000). Schools also win, as each school that completes the MS Read-A-Thon programs receives a $50 voucher to purchase books from Scholastic Canada Ltd.

Morrisburg Public School principal, Brooke Leightizer, stated that this fund-raising effort is one suggested by the school's Council.

"We haven't participated in the MS Read-A-Thon for a few years," said Leightizer. "There are a lot of great children's charities which we have raised money for in the past, like UNICEF, Jump Rope for Heart, and this year, our one major fund-raiser for a charity will be this event."

Leightizer guestimates about three-quarters of the students will participate in the Read-A-Thon, and they are presently checking out books from the library.

Last year in Ontario, 97,492 students read more than 437,000 books, and raised $1.2 million for MS research and services.

This year marks the MS Society's 50 anniversary. Since its founding 50 years ago, the MS Society of Canada continues to be a leader in funding MS research nd providing services to people with MS throughout Canada.

Multiple sclerosis is a disease that randomly attacks the central nervous system, affecting the control people have over their bodies. Canada is a high risk area for MS, which is usually diagnosed in people between the ages of 20 and 40 years. Its effects last for the rest of their lives.

The MS Read-A-Thon is a major fund-raiser for the society. It's also proven itself to be an excellent motivational tool for children tool for children to discover the joys of recreational reading while improving their reading skills.

At the same time, the MS Read-A-Thon is an effective method of increasing public awareness of multiple sclerosis and raising funds to support the programs of the MS Society.

This fund-raiser started in 1977 with a pilot project at Jack Miner Senior Public School in Scarborough. The program now involves students from grades JK through 8 across the country.

The children read books for a period of about four weeks, and obtain pledges from sponsors for each of the books they read. The money raised is sent to the MS Society.

This program is endorsed by the Canadian Library Association, the Canadian Counsel of Teachers of English, the International Reading Association and many provincial ministries of education.

Lining up for registration
Morrisburg Public School students lined up Monday to receive their registration kits for their MS Read-A-Thon. This is the school's project to help raise money for a charity. The students will be collecting sponsors for books read during the month-long blitz.

Edward A (Ted) Weir, technical engineer in the National Research Council, was appointed factory manager of the prosthetic centre in Ottawa. The position carried a salary ranging from $3,600 to $4,200. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. D.H. Weir of Morrisburg. A Morrisburg Collegiate Institute student, he graduated from the University of Toronto in 1941 and in January of that year, he enlisted with the RCOC. He served in England and France and was severely wounded in the battle of Caen.

The March 25 issue of The Leader reported traffic on the Ottawa-Morrisburg highway at Cass Bridge was almost at a standstill as flood waters from the Nation River covered the road to ta depth of a foot. This was the first time since the new road was constructed four years earlier that water had covered it. Three bridges in the South Mountain area, where the river was extremely high, were carried away by ice. Malcolm Rae, a teacher at Nation Valley, and several pupils, were forced to return to school in row board, roads in this area covered with three to five feet of water.

A number of farmers had tapped their trees and were reporting a fairly good run of sap.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Strader of Brinston celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary.

The March 23 issue of The Leader reported navigation on the St. Lawrence River west of the canals would open on April 15. The St. Lawrence canals were expected to be open a week later.

The spacious premises on the south side of Main Street, formerly occupied by S.B. Fell as an art gallery, were being renovated as a show room for Morrisburg Motors Ltd., which handled the famous Nash cars.

Rebekah Lodge 50-year jewels

Matilda Rebekah Lodge #342

BRINSTON—The Matilda Rebekah Lodge #342, was founded on January 23, 1948, at Brinston.

The president of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, Ruby Webb of Prescott, declared the lodge duly instituted, after the members received the charges and obligations and signed members registered.

The original members were Sisters Ruth Coons, Velma Cooper, Ada M. Styles, Doris McQuaig, and Dorothy Smail, and Brothers Wilfred Cooper, Brooks Hanes, Charles Coons, Orville Smail and C.E. McQuaig.

"The lodge had two fires during the past 40 years, but the members have been supportive and we have an active membership of 39 sisters and one Brother," said Della Murphy of the lodge.

Since its inception, the lodge has attempted to help the community through charitable donations, both locally and on the national level.

Some of the objectives of the lodge are to visit the sick or forgotten individual and help send a local student to visit the United Nations. "Our help is varied in many aspects of community life," she said. "Our lodge raises money by catering to banquets and weddings, holding bazaars and teas, having raffles and selling cook books."

The fraternal bond between members and the friendship is a lasting and rewarding experience.

Tips for a healthy lifestyle start with smart food choices

More and more people talk about heart health. It means adopting a lifestyle that is healthy for one's body in general and one's heart in particular.

Food choices play a major role in heart health. A high fat intake, especially in saturated fat, tends to raise blood cholesterol levels. As the level of blood cholesterol goes up, so does the risk of heart problems—especially if other risk factors are present.

Even if some dietary fats are better than others (eg.) saturated verses polyunsaturated, the recommendation from Health Canada is to limit total fat intake. Today, Canadians on average, get too much of their calories from fat.

There is no need to live with a calculator in hand. Making small changes, like choosing lower fat dairy products, leaner meats and food prepared with little or no fat, will get one started towards a healthier diet.

Most of the fat in the diet comes from five main sources:

- butter, margarine, mayonnaise, oils and salad dressings;
- meat, poultry;
- higher fat dairy products like homo milk, regular cheese, yogurt with more than 2% butter fat, cream (table, sour, whipping) and ice cream;
- fast foods and snack foods;
- many baked goods, croissants, cakes, cookies and pies.

The secret to heart health means lowering fat intake as much as possible by consuming less foods that are identified as containing high levels of fat.

There are all kinds of little ways to cut back on the fat one eats. Added together, the following can make all the difference that is needed.

Keep in mind, that one pad of butter equals four grams of fat.

Ideas to limit fat

- Limit the use of butter, margarine and oil every day. Try not putting butter or margarine on toast or in sandwiches. (fat grams avoided: 4-8)
- Buy a good nonstick skillet to start foods off with very little or no fat at all. Add a little water if items start to stick to the bottom of the pan. (4-12 fat grams avoided).
- Switch from whole milk to 2%, 1% or skim. (9 fat grams avoided).
- Cottage cheese can't compare to regular cheese in calcium content, but lowers your fat intake considerably. Choose lower-fat cottage cheese 125 ml (1/2 cut), instead of 45 grams (1-1/2 ounces) of cheddar cheese. (13 grams of fat avoided).
- Check out the cheese counter for lower-fat cheese.(3-11 fat grams saved)
- Use milk in your coffee instead of cream. (10 fat grams saved)
- Eat smaller servings of meat, fish and poultry. 90 grams (3 oz) is approximately half a chicken breast; a slice of meat about the size of a cooked quarter-pounder hamburger; a fillet of fish about the length of your outstretched hand and as wide as your three middle fingers.
- Don't spoil the goodness of your salad by dousing it with a high-fat dressing. Use a low-cal dressing sparingly. (12 fat grams saved.)
- Use lean meat, sliced poultry or canned fish for sandwiches; avoid the higher-fat sausage meats, salami and bologna (2-10 fat grams saved).
- Fruity sherbet, frozen milk or frozen yogurt make a nice low-fat ice-cold treat. (12 fat grams saved).
- When it comes to nibbling, stick to pretzels and home made (air popped) popcorn that isn't dripping in fat. (35 fat grams avoided).
- Steer clear of over-sized muffins, croissants, pies and cakes from shops and bakeries. (12 fat grams avoided.)

Williamsburg Twp. Seniors Meet

WILLIAMSBURG—On Tuesday, March 18th, 20 members of the Williamsburg Township Seniors' Group held their monthly meeting and Pot Luck dinner at the Park Lane Seniors Support Center.

Johnston elected to CCA Board of Directors

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—She's been curling since 1969, and has been an active member of the Morrisburg Curling Club since that time.

She's also nationally recognized as an active Board member of the Ontario Ladies' Curling Association.

It was no wonder Katherine Johnston of Morrisburg was elected to the Board of the Canadian Curling Association for a five-year tenure.

Her term commences July 1, 1998.

"I was surprised, but not really surprised," she said from her home Tuesday morning. "What really surprised me was the fact that I was elected on the first ballot."

There were two other highly qualified candidates nominated for the position on the board, including Audrey Hogg of Manitoba, and Maureen Miller of the Northwest Territories.

Johnston needed 14 of the 26 available votes to win the seat. Anything less than that would have called for a second ballot.

She was nominated in November by the Ontario Ladies Curling Association.

It was a time in her life which was very difficult, after losing her husband Wayne at the end of September.

"That was a really tough decision, but I talked about it with the club and they convinced me to do it," she said.

In a letter nominating Johnston for the position, OLCA president Candy Irwin stated, "Katherine has extensive experience in the administration and policy formulation of our sport through her involvement with the Eastern Ontario Ladies Curling Association, the Ontario Ladies' Curling Association, Curl Ontario and participation in committees with the Ontario Curling Association.

"We are confident that the knowledge and experience that Katherine would bring to the CCA would benefit all aspects of our sport and we are pleased to have the opportunity to present her name for consideration as a director," Irwin wrote.

Johnston was in Winnipeg at the National Curling Conference (Labatt Brier) when she heard the news that she had been elected.

"We were introduced on Monday, and as the week progressed, I felt I had a good chance once people got to know me."

The election took place on the following Thursday, March 12. There were 26 voting delegates, (each province and territory as well as Northern Ontario have two votes).

According to Karen Ryan, executive assistant to GM Dave Parkes at the CCA, Johnston will be responsible for several portfolios within the organization.

The CCA covers four specific areas: championships, high performance, domestic development and marketing.

The primary area of administration, championships are also the most financially consuming for the CCA, which is responsible each year for the organization and operation of the Labatt Brier, the Scott Tournament of Hearts, the AT&T Canada Mixed, the Karcher Juniors and the CIBC Seniors.

While the CCA provides direction and pays many of the bills associated with the events, it is responsible for staging them. The CCA is directly responsible for all of the technical aspects of each event and provides substantial funding in support of officials, statisticians and ice technicians.

Katherine Johnston

In addition, direct hands-on assistance is provided in all areas associated with media and television.

Starting in 1999, the CCA will assume a management-consultant role with the Ford World Curling Championships when the event is held in Canada.

When dealing with high performance, the CCA has the responsibility of selecting and training teams for the Olympics, as well as dealing with National Team programs and the development of Level 4 and 5 coaches.

Domestic development touches more people than any other CCA responsibility. It involves instructor and lower-level training programs, the Canada-wide Learn To Curl programs, and training of ice technicians and officials.

This is an area where Johnston feels needs much improvement is needed as she sees interest failing for the sport in her home town.

"We have to 'grow the sport', and get more people into clubs. All the voting delegates could relate to that theory," she said, as she touched on her selling point from her speech before elections.

"We have to get into the schools and convince the young people to get into the sport of curling and stick with it."

Johnston said that the biggest problem is getting young people to hang i there. They have no trouble getting them out, it's encouraging them to stay that is the hard part.

"We need to bridge the gap between what they see on television (ie. the Olympics, Brier, Tournament of Hearts, ect.) and what they feel they can or can't do on the ice," she said.

This brings us to the marketing division of the OCC which primarily involves a series of programs aimed at retaining existing curlers and developing programs and materials for the recruitment of new curlers.

It is through marketing that direct contact is maintained with some 1,200 affiliated curling clubs, 28 provincial and territorial associations and the 1.5 million Canadians who play the sport each year.

Johnston says she is looking forward to the challenges that her tenure will bring.

"I'm excited and enthusiastic, but I'm also a little apprehensive," she says.

This volunteer position will see Johnston travel across Canada to different National events (expenses paid by the OCC), attend three meetings a year in Ottawa, and sit on appointed committees.

It's a big commitment," she says. "And it's also a big country."

Novice C Lions claim Eastern Division cup

WINCHESTER—The Morrisburg Novice C Lions claimed the Eastern Division championship here last week, after upsetting the North Dundas II team 6-1.

After getting a bye to the second round of playoffs due to their first place standings, the Lions claimed the division title with a six points in the round-robin series, including a 2-2 draw with N.D. 1 in their opening game, a 1-0 upset over ND 1 in game two, another draw with ND 2 in game three, and a final 6-1 victory over ND II in game four.

They now meet South Grenville 1s, which have been a tough opponent all year long. Morrisburg claimed a win in their first meeting, lost their second by one goal, and tied their third game.

"We are going into this series with a total offense type plan," said coach Mike McManus. "And hopefully are able to end the series quickly. The team is playing well, and I expect a close hard fought series."

Semi final action

In game one the Lions were in Chesterville to take on North Dundas II, and Jeff Eamon got the nod to start between the pipes.

First period action saw tight checking from both teams and a scoreless tie at the break.

In the second, Andrew Tupper took over duties in the crease, as Kurtis Corry found a hole past the opposing netminder to get on the scoreboard first.

He was assisted by Josh Pepers and Peter Toonders. The 1-0 lead held for only a few minutes as North Dundas found an opening twice only 30 seconds apart.

The Lions came back quickly, again only 30 seconds later to break the tie, as Corry found the crease, assisted by Peter Coolican.

In the final frame, both teams gave up few chances, and the Lions were able to come home for game two, with one point after the two-all draw.

On March 15, Morrisburg hosted North Dundas 1s for their second meeting of the round robin action. This game, as the last, saw two very evenly matched teams playing a hard fought battle with tight checking.

Again, with a scoreless first Morrisburg's Corry ripped into the second period with a hard blast from the blue line, As the North Dundas goalie slipped across to make the save, the puck some how just trickled in for a 1-0 lead, which withstood for the final count.

Toonders and Coolican assisted on the goal, and as the final minutes ticked away, the Lions kept up the tight checking and were able to hold off the Demons attack for another two points in the series.

Heading into game three, Morrisburg hosted North Dundas IIs on March 19, looking for a win to clinch the championship.

The Lions were pumped up and came out flying but it looked like it was going to be one of those games where the bounces always went the wrong way.

Early in the game, the Lions had a couple of chances with wide open nets and hit the posts twice leaving the first period in a scoreless deadlock.

In the second, feeling frustrated the Lions took two penalties which would turn into two N.D. powerplay markers.

Heading into the third, Morrisburg roared back with two goals of their own, as Corry did the damage, from Toonders and Andrew Cassell. Jarell Green sank the other counter, assisted by Cassell. As time ran out, Morrisburg had to settle for a second tie, and one more point in the series. They needed another tie or a win for the championship.

On March 20, back in Winchester, the Lions got what they were looking for, as they claimed their division title with a 6-1 win over North Dundas IIs in Winchester.

Morrisburg was out of the gate flying, and this night the bounces were on their side.

Keeping up the pressure, tow more goals found the back of the NDs net and by the end of the period, Morrisburg had a 4-0 lead.

Goals were scored by Pepers, Adrian Bongers, Green and Coolican.

Going into the third period, Pepers would complete his hat trick, raising the Lions edge to 6-0. Only seconds remained in the game, when N.D. found the net to break the shutout bid, but the clock ran out and the Lions celebrated a 6-1 victory and the Eastern Division Championship with two wins, and two ties for six points.

The Morrisburg Novice C Lions and their coaches, would like to extend their appreciation and thanks to the following sponsors in support in their March 16 tournament: Cook's Corner, Pokey's Place, Subway, Seaway Gallery, Bake Shop, Classic Cuts, Delage's House of Gifts, Gregor's Place, Sears, UAP, New Centennial. PeeWee Whites win B championship

MORRISBURG—The Morrisburg PeeWee C White and Blue Lions hosted a tournament here on March 20, where the Whites ended up winning the B championship.

In the Whites first game they were up against North Dundas #2 and lost 3-2. Morrisburg's goals were scored by Cameron Levett and Evans Bedzra. The assists went to Jeff Madge, Anthony Levere, and Eric Vachon.

In their second game the Whites faced off against West Carleton and dumped them with a 7-0 score.

Jeff Madge and Chris Phifer each scored two goals, and Jason Keeler, Levere, and Bedzra added singles. The assists went to Levere, Vachon, Adam Ryan with three, Bedzra with two, Keeler, Chris Kerkof and Levett.

In the B final the Lions were playing Kemptville and dropped them with a 2-1 score.

"The boys played a good game. We lost to them in Kemptville and now we evened it up," said coach Doug McNairn. Morrisburg's goals were scored by Bedzra and Keeler, the assists went to Keeler, Bedzra and Phifer.

With the win the Lions claimed the B championship trophy.

The Blue Lions were not as successful as they won their first game to go the A-side and then lost their second game to North Dundas #2.

In the first game the Blues clobbered West Carleton with a 7-1 score. Brad Francis opened the scoring with a natural hat trick followed by Jamie Byvelds, Chris Mellan, Matt Hicks, and Josh McElheran.

Summer jobs give students chance to discover potential

Bob Kilger, M.P. Stormont Dundas

OTTAWA—Summer jobs provide not only work experience, but the opportunity for young people to discover their potential and make informed decisions about their future careers.

Students also use their summer job earnings to help pay college or university fees and living expenses. The Liberal government has made it a priority to increase opportunities for student summer jobs.

This summer, the government will invest $120 million to create jobs for at least 60,000 students. Last summer, a $120 million investment in the same program created jobs for more than 70,000 students, and another 350,000 were assisted in their job search.

Information technology

Industry Canada offers five summer work programs for students in the field of information technology, a high-growth industry with many job opportunities.

School/Net Youth Employment, the Student Connection Program, and the Community Access Program hire students to connect teachers, businesses and rural communities to the Internet, and train them to use it.

Students will work creating multimedia products through the School/Net Digital Collections program or repairing computers through the Computers for Schools program, which distributes surplus computer equipment to schools across Canada.

Student Summer Job Action

Human Resources Development Canada (HDRC) offers five programs, including Summer Career Placements, which provides wage subsidies to employers who create career-related summer jobs for students. Young entrepreneurs can start their own summer businesses with Student Business Loans of up to $3,000.

Through the 360 Human Resources Centres for Students across Canada, young people can get help in their summer job search, or attend information sessions on job hunting, resume writing, and interview preparation.

Other HRDC initiatives enable students to find a summer job with local business associations or with the RCMP.

Discovering Canadian Heritage

In partnership with private sector and community organizations, the Department of Canadian Heritage offers the Young Canada Works program, enabling more than 2,000 students this summer to work with community associations, museums, libraries, parks and national historic sites. Under the Aboriginal Urban youth component, more than 300 Aboriginal youth will develop, supervise or manage sports or cultural activities in Aboriginal Friendship Centres.

Jobs for Aboriginal youth

Thousands of Aboriginal youth living on reserves will find summer jobs through First Nations and Inuit Student Summer Career Placement, which offers wage subsidies to employers. In addition, science and technology summer camps are available to First Nations and Inuit youth at the primary and secondary school level.

Young people are a priority for the Liberal government. Student summer job programs are only one part of the government's assistance to youth, which includes more than $2 billion a year in investments in higher education, training and work experience.
