The Duke of Connaught Says: "We Need Them."

A few weeks ago when the Duke of Connaught was critically reviewing the Canadian soldiers at Witley Camp in England, as he was passing down the line his eye fell on a certain fine soldierly looking chap, and he stopped and asked his name and where he was from. "Edson Gray of Chesterville, Ontario" was the prompt answer. The Duke said "If there are any more left behind like you tell them to come right along. We need them."

Crop Prospects Look Good

The spring crops throughout this section are apparently in good shape. The ground this year has been in particularly good condition for working, and the weather has been such as to allow horses being worked almost to their limit. The cultivated fields look beautifully fit and the new grain is making good growth. Not a great deal of corn had been planted before this week as most farmers have been waiting for more favorable corn conditions. Apparently all that is needed to ensure a good crop is some warm weather with sufficient moisture.

Advertising Reduces Prices

The man who argues that advertising is an expense which must be charged up to the consumer is usually a fellow who does not advertise. Generally his prices are just a trifle higher than those of the man who does advertise, and it is frequently the case that his goods remain on the shelves so long that he is selling last year's goods this season. If he advertised, he would have cleaned out the stock twelve months ago, and his turnover would have been so fast that it would have been possible for him to reduce prices—and make more money on a larger volume of business.

The 24th of May Concert

Although the rains of the forepart of last week put the celebration arranged for the Driving Park for May 24th out of business the evening programme proved most enjoyable. The concert was one of the best given here for sometime and as each number was given by local talent it is very evident that only outside talent need be looked for on very rare occasions. Miss Beattie, who as a violinist has few equals in Ontario must surely be very proud of the reception she always receives in her home town and as usual she graciously responded to her two numbers with encores. Mrs. G. F. Sayles, who made her first appearance before a Chesterville audience as an elocutionist, made a distinct impression in the recitation of "Little Franz" and it is safe to predict that her next appearance will be hailed with delight.

The Misses Hummel and Simser rendered a very pleasing duet and in response to the applause contributed a second number. Little Miss Dorothy Ault had the audience all her own in the two delightfully humorous selections she gave.

The second but last number was a lively little sketch entitled "Bills" rendered by the talented members of the staff of the Bank of Ottawa. It was a laugh from start to finish and Mr. Craig showed the versatility of his talent in taking the leading role and was very ably supported by Miss Saucier and Mr. Cameron.

A flag drill by the girls of the high school proved a very pleasing feature and showed careful training on the part of Miss O'Neil.

The Chesterville Orchestra rendered several choice selections during the evening.

Mr. O. D. Casselman occupied the chair and expressed his regret that the elements had interfered so seriously with the fine programme prepared for the afternoon.

Consult Mr. A. E. Bolster, if your case can be helped by the use of lenses, he can do it for you. Free test—day or night every day—at W. G. Bolster's Drug Store Chestervllle.

Condensery Is Very Busy

The first annual meeting of the Maple Leaf Condensed Milk Co. to be held in Chesterville took place on Monday last when Messrs. C. E. Hires, J. E. Hires and Mr. Hooks of Philadelphia, Col Robertson and Mr. Coburn of Walkerville directors of the company and about thirty-five local stock holders were in attendance. While there has been no official statement given out we have been informed that the affairs of the Company were found to be in a very satisfactory state, and that the principals in the management are much pleased with what has been done here and the prospects for making the operations at this plant a very large business. The directors happened to be on hand when the largest day's receipt of milk was being put through the process of condensation, seventy-eight thousand pounds having been delivered that morning. Sugar forms a very large item in the expense of preparing the finished article and on Monday no less than a half a car load of sugar was used. It may seem a far cry from Chesterville to China but at the present time we understand three carloads of milk are shipped every week to that far off country.

Forty men are on the payroll at the present time and the plant is short handed, making it necessary for many of the men to work much overtime. In our advertising columns will be found an appeal for more men and when sufficient have been secured it is likely that a regular day and night shift will be instituted.

It is said that many farmers on account of the backward spring making the prospect of a good hay crop look doubtful, are preparing to increase their average of corn.

Mr. Joseph Servage.

Once again it is our sad duty to chronicle the death of an old and respected resident, Mr. Jos. Servage.

If It Is Good For J. P. Morgan It Is Good For You.

Perhaps you think you are well enough off to be above the need of life assurance—that your estate will be sufficient of itself to look after your family when you are gone.

You may think life policies are only needed by men earning small wages or salaries, and that a man in your position does not need any such protection for his family.

Yet the other day J. P. Morgan, head of the greatest financial house in America, and one of the world's most eminent masters of finance, increased his life assurance from $1,500,000 to $4,000,000.

Mr. Morgan is not only a man of tremendous wealth, but he has a mind of unusual financial insight and training.

Evidently, here is at least one wealthy man who thinks that life assurance is good for a man of wealth.

Is there a lesson here for you?

PARTICULARS OF GUNNER BERN SHAVER'S DEATH.

Gr. Bern Shaver, killed at Vimy Ridge

Brother Hurries After Wounded Brotner.

France, May 2nd, 1917.

Dear Mother and All,—

No doubt before you receive this letter you will have received my cablegram, with the sad news of Bern's death. Now, Mother, I will try and tell you as near as possible how it happened.

He was at the battery, I should say the guns, when he was wounded. He was wounded in the head, about eight o'clock in the evening and was taken directly to the dressing station. The first I knew of it was this morning at six. I made enquiries and of course got as much information as possible, and everyone that knew seemed to think it was serious. After breakfast Hubert and I went to the nearest dressing station here, and found out that he had gone through there early this morning, so we got a horse each and followed him and we found his remains at a dressing station about seven miles back. We both saw him and he looked very natural, one would think that he was asleep. He never was conscious, so didn't suffer any pain. They told us he passed away about six this morning. They had all his personal belongings in a parcel to send home, but I managed to get his ring and two maple leaf badges which he had on the lapel of his tunic. I will send them as soon as possible.

We have arranged for his burial tomorrow at 2 p.m. You can remember it like this—He was wounded on 1st May, passed away on 2nd May and buried on 3rd May. We will go to the burial service and see his remains laid away.

Now, Mother, I know this will be a terrible shock to you and especially now, but God will give you strength and do not worry, because no boy ever did his duty any better than Bern. No one can ever say they had to take his turn at anything. He had got to be a great favorite amongst all the old boys and will be greatly missed in the battery.

We are all sorry for one thing, and that is, that none of we three were with him when he got hit or after. I can assure you he suffered no pain, because he looked like one asleep. We will do all in our power to have his grave fixed as nicely as we can. We will have the place marked and while we are here in this vicinity shall do all we can and probably some time later we will be able to do more.

Well, I will write more tomorrow night but for now I will close and ask you to try and accept this as lightly as possible.

Your loving son

STANLEY M. SHAVER.

Ralph Connor Conducts Burial Service

France, May 3rd.

Dear Dad. Mother and All.

It is near evening now, so I must try and drop you a line to let you know how everything is going. We have had a very lovely day, today it has been as fine a day as I have ever seen in France.

Well, we were back today and buried poor Bern's remains. He is placed in a nice little Military Cemetery, which I know well, a very pretty place, near a grove. The Rev. Doc. Gordon (Ralph Connor I believe) conducted the funeral service and was indeed very nice. You may expect a letter from him in the near future. Now I know this will be a terrible shock to you all, but just think of the cause. No man ever died a more glorious death than did Bern. He was doing his duty and didn't shrink from anything. I have seen him and been with times without number, where we were not certain how it would end, a case of living by minutes, and he did the right thing. One of our Chaplains said one day in an address he was giving us that it mattered not, how or when we prayed, if we were sincere, that our prayers would be answered, and many the silent prayer has gone up at times when we had no time for anything more than to raise our heads heavenward. I have no doubt but that at the time Bern's head was turned, and a silent prayer on his lips, but it was the will of our Father in Heaven and His will must be done.

Do not mourn too deeply, because he fills a hero's grave. We are all very fortunate in knowing so definitely how he met his end, and how he was cared for after. Many the poor boy has fallen and his people never knew how or where, and his remains never been seen by anvone, but unconcerned cold strangers. Many a poor fellow lies where he falls but you can rest assurred that Bern's remains are in a nice cemetery at a good distance behind the line.

I guess I will close now, with love and kindest regards and sympathy for you all. I wish I were there to tell you it would seem more real. Your loving son,

Stanley.

Battery Was Heavily Shelled

France, May 3 1917.

Dear Mrs. Shaver:—

It is with a very heavy heart that I write to you tonight and there is a feeling of helplessness that I cannot overcome. As you will have heard by now your son was mortally wounded on the night of May 1st, about eight o'clock, and died in hospital the next morning at six.

I will try to let you have the details as well as it is possible to do. The battery had been shelled rather heavily for a time and the men had taken cover in a trench where they were fairly safe. As the shelling grew less, Bern who was always to the front in everything, and did not know fear, came out into the open with a chum. When they were at the edge of the trench a shell lit and wounded both of them. Bern was hit in the back of the head and was unconscious when picked up. He was taken at once to the dressing station and was tended there and sent down to No. 12 Field Ambulance, where he arrived in the early morning.

He died at 6 a. m. on May 2nd and was buried at the Military Cemetery at Villers-Aux-Bois, about ten miles behind the lines. His brother and cousin and a friend. Bdr. Wilson and I were present. The Reverened Dr. Gordon, senior chaplain of the 4th Canadian Division, performed the ceremony at the side of the grave and Bern now rests in a sunlight valley, green and fresh, far from the guns, with other heroes who have made the supreme sacrifice for their ideals and the safety of mankind.

I ask you not to grieve too deeply. It is the desire of those who go, not to give pain to those at home, and the thought that they will miss us is worse than the thought of giving ourselves.

Bern died while performing his duty and that is the greatest tribute we can pay him.

If there is anything I can do or if there are any questions I can answer please do not hestitate to write me. You have my sincere sympathy in your loss, but always remember "he is not dead but sleepeth." Yours sincerely.

Lyell C. Spence, Lieut.
22 Battery, C. F. A.

Should be Proud of Such Sons.

France, May 7.

Dear Madam,

I take this opportunity of writing you a few lines to try and express my deep sympathy, and also the boys of this Battery, for you at the loss of your son, who died of wounds received in action from a hostile shell. He had been under me since joining this unit and has always given the greatest satisfaction in every way and I may say we have been the best of pals, always. It is very hard I know to lose one dear to you. I have lost two brothers in this war so I quite understand how you will feel about it, but try and look at it in this light that he died doing his duty for his country and what more can a man do? Far better that than to be pointed out to after this is all over as a stay-at-home or a shirker. My turn may come any minute and I hope that if it does I shall meet it as cheerfully as your son did. He was game to the last and died a hero's death. My address is No. 301008, Sergt. Maj. A. G. Bowler, 22nd Battery, 2nd Can. Div., Artillery, B.E.F. France. I will see that his grave receives every attention while we are in this vicinity and we will also erect a cross to his memory and anything further I can do, if you will let me know, it will be done if it is in my power to do it. You will be notified by the authorities, the location of his grave and will also receive his personal property in due course. His brother is well and you should be proud to have such sons. They are the very best and now I must close hoping to have a line if you can spare the time, I remain

Yours very sincerely,

A. G. BOWLER.

Pte. Harvey Barkley Writes to his Mother.

Somewhere in France, May 5th.

Dear Mother and loved ones at home:—

I thought I would drop a few lines to let you know how I am getting along. I am doing as well as could be expected. It is a nice place here where I am, in a large tent with thirty of us here in this ward.

Well, mother dear, I cannot tell you very much, as the censor would only mark it out, but will tell you all I dare.

Bobbie Underwood was shot through the shoulder. Dan Casey got hit in the face with a piece of shrapnel and Johnnie Allen was hit in the shoulder and head with shrapnel and I got it in the left knee in five places, with shrapnel also. I was under the x-rays yesterday and they found two pieces still in my knee so I had to take chloroform and undergo an operation. I am feeling better now but mother, you have no idea what I have suffered and what a fellow can go through until he has to, but I have put my trust in God to look after me.

Do not write till you hear from me again for I will be going to England in a few days and will give you my address from there and then will be able to tell you more about it. I never had a chance to fire a shot at Fritz. I was just twelve hours in the trenches before Fritz got me, but I count myself a lucky boy. I will explain later more about it. I do not expect to get back to the trenches again and expect I will always be lame.

I think I have told you all I dare for now. I will write again and let you know how I am coming on so do not worry over me. I Just got through reading my bible when I was hit. So good-bye, from your lonesome son, HARVEY.

Consoling Letter From Chaplain To Mrs. Napoleon Paul

France, April 30 1917

Dear Mrs. Paul;—

By this time you will have had tidings of the death of your brave husband. As Chaplain with the Battalion I write to assure you of my sincere sympathy with you in your loss. Your husband was a brave man and died in a noble cause. His death was instantaneous so that he was saved any suffering, which will I know be a comfort to you to hear.

I am also glad to say that his body was recovered, many are not. He rests in a soldier's grave close to the spot where he fell. I read the beautiful burial service which is as you know full of comfort and resurrection hope. I might say that the grave is on Vimy Ridge, many others rest near by. A cross will be placed on his grave in a day or two. I felt you would like to have these few lines. Let me close by commending you to the God of all comfort our Saviour who alone can soothe our deepest sorrow. Yours sincerely, (Capt.) W. H. Davis, Chaplain 4th C. M. R.

Pte. Willie Alguire's Appreciation.

The following letter was received from Pte. Willie Alguire of Berwick, shortly before the battle in which he was killed.

France, March 20, 1917

Miss L. Ruddy

My Dear Miss Ruddy,—

I received your most welcome parcel today, and it was appreciated very much by my mates and also myself. The cake was just as it was packed, not hurt a particle and it was really delicious, believe me, and the candy also. My mates and myself join together in sending you and your lady friends of the Ladies Institute of Berwick our kindest regards and also thanking you very much for the parcel sent me, it contained 2 packages of cigarettes, 2 packages of gum, 2 prs. socks, cake, candy, towel and soap.

We are all very well here at present, our Battalion just came out of the trenches a little while ago. We are now at our rest camp, but expect to leave shortly for some other part of the line. I am sending you some souvenir cards; As this is all I can say will close with all best wishes.—Pte. W. Alguire, No. 132911, "C" Company, 73rd Batt., R.H.C., Brit. Bombers, Army Post Office, France.

We find it necessary to repeat the warning of two weeks ago, that actual farm work is necessary to secure promotion for those who have left school since Easter. Planting a small home garden in the village, driving a delivery wagon or washing dishes, cannot be regarded as farm work, and warning is hereby given to the students whom the teachers know to be engaged in these ways, that their promotion positively will not be granted unless they return to school and pass the June examination.

Several more students have felt the call of the food production campaign, and have left school for the rest of the term.

PERMIT NEEDED TO LEAVE CANADA

Ottawa, May 24.--Under an order-in-Council, effective to-morrow from coast to coast, it is illegal under heavy penalty for any male person within the ages of 18 and 45 years inclusive, ordinarily resident in Canada, to leave or attempt to leave the country for any purpose without the written permission of a Canadian immigration inspector or other person authorized to grant such permission, who must be fully satisfied by sworn declaration that the intended departure is not with the object of avoiding liability to be called upon to render military or other service "which might conduce towards the success of his Majesty and his allies in the presently prevailing war."

Violation of the regulation is punishable by a fine not exceeding $2,500 or imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both fine and imprisonment.

The order applies to every male person within the ages specified, save members of military or naval forces on duty or members of crews of boats, trains, ferries street cars, etc., plying between points within and without Canada, when actually in the performance of their duties as members of such crews.

It is of the greatest importance for anyone desiring to temporarily absent himself from Canada for a legitimate purpose to familiarize himself wiih the regulations, which are explained in the official announcement. To obtain a permit it is necessary to make application on a printed form obtainable from any postmaster or railway ticket agent. The forms must be filled out in duplicate. Formal permission to leave the country, if granted by the immigration inspector, is inscribed on the duplicate, which is then retained by the applicant and must be kept on his person for production at the demand of any immigration official.

Each schedule must have attached thereto a photograph that is a good likeness of the applicant.

The declarations must be signed by the applicant and sworn to by him before a notary public, justice of the peace or commissioner.

Applications must be signed by a sponsor, who must be a bank manager, chief of police, clergyman or Dominion Government official, who must state how long he has known the applicant, that he recognizes the photograph as a good likeness. and that he believes the statements in the formation are correct.

Your most kind and loving letter received a few days ago and I was more than pleased to hear from you and that you are all well. I am out of the hospital again and getting along fine. I expect I will be able to go back to France in the course of a month. You asked me in your letter if we had to buy our own socks and shirts. Well, for shirts we can always manage to get along, but for socks, they only issue us two pair about every six months and they do not last us very long, and to buy them they cost about sixty cents a pair, that are any good. The price of tobacco has gone up so high over here that a fellow can hardly afford to smoke any. however we must make the best of it. I certainly wish that this horrid war will soon be over, but I think it will be sometime yet before we hear of peace. Well, Wealthy, I think I have told you all for this time, hoping to hear from you soon again I am as ever, Pte. Ira Utman.

Former Chesterville Boy Member of Flying Corps Saw Service at Dardanelles.

(Saskatoon Daily Star, May 11)

Back from the front, where he has seen service in the Dardanelles, Egypt and France, Capt. R. C. Alford, 811 MacPherson Ave., looks outwardly at least none the worse for the exciting experiences he has been going through since he joined the West Yorkshires as a lieutenant at the outbreak of war. He is out of the fight in spite of his hardy appearance, for the condition of his lungs, brought about when enemy gunfire drove two ribs out of place, is such that at high altitudes violent haemorrhage occurs, and he is unable to continue to serve king and country in the Flying Corps.

Capt. Alford returned to the city yesterday afternoon after an absence of five months, and while he has not been discharged, is under the impression that his fighting days are over. It is likely that he will go to the mountains for a while to convalesce. Seen sitting on his verandah this morning overlooking the Saskatchewan river, Capt. Alford looked the picture of comfort. "I'm glad I'm back," he said, "and Saskatoon looks just as good as ever." He had many questions to ask about friends and events in his home city, but displayed the usual silence of the returned officer in regard to his own exploits.

"No, I never fought a Zeppelin," he answered, "just saw them at a distance.

"Yes, our aerial supremacy is all that everyone claims for it, due to the fact that our men have more brains and nerve than the German aviators."

Asked to describe an air fight he proceeded to explain that the Germans fought on the circus system, sending their machines round and round in the sky as if within an arena. "Our fellows meet this style of attack," he said, "by sending out a slow machine with two fast ones in the rear, but out of sight, one on each side. The Germans see our slow machine and swoop down, making circles round it and trying to force it down with fire. It's then that our fast machines come up and from two sides attack the Germans. The idea in air fighting is to make your own plane as small a target as possible and to force the other fellow into a position where he presents as large a target as possible."

Good pilots can jump from the ground to an altitude of 18,000 feet in about two minutes, said Captain Alford.

That the Germans are rendering down the bodies of dead German soldiers was the startling statement which Capt. Alford made, saying that it was accepted as true throughout the Allied forces. They are supposed to work it by tying three dead men together and placing them on an endless chain which runs through the chopper. The bones are used for fertilizing and the rest of the man is rendered down for tallow, etc. They are short of pretty nearly everything he concluded, and a dead man isn't much to a German.

Food is getting very scarce in the Old Country, he said, potatoes being unobtainable at any price, while there is no white bread, and meat is only in use once a day. "Everything is weighed out," he said, "and while they don't call it a rationing system it amounts to the same thing."

Capt. Alford saw his first fighting in France and later went to the Dardanelles where he was wounded and was sent to Egypt and Italy to recover. He was transferred back to France and drafted into the Royal Flying Corps and was wounded on three occasions, being sent to Saskatoon last winter on sick leave.

From Pte. Albert Harper.

Written to Mr. and Mrs. Eli Harper by their son, who went overseas with the 154th Batt.

Whitley Camp, April 30, 1917.

Dear Mother and All:—

Just a few lines to let you know I am well, hoping this letter will find you all the same. Well, we are drilling hard and getting more fit day by day to meet Fritz and avenge all his treachery. Well, Mother, all my letters must be going astray for the last letter I had was dated Feb. 19th and this is April 30th. I haven't much news but I will send you some verses that will tell you all I know for it is the same thing over and over.

To My Parents.

Mother, when the day's work is over
And from hard drilling I am free,
Sitting awhile in the old "Y.M." hut
My thoughts are all of thee.

I am not much good with the pen, mother,
For the gun is in my line,
So I send fond love by these verses
As I thought perhaps you would pine.

When England's call for more soldiers,
Sounded through our dear homeland,
'Twas duty's call and I obeyed it;
I knew you would understand.

As I sit here fondly dreaming,
I picture your sweet, dear face,
Helping to cheer on the weary
Round about the dear old place.

Our boys are doing well, mother,
For we are always on the go,
Forming fours and Swedish drills
Getting fit to meet the foe.

Thoughts of home come flocking to me
Giving me bliss without alloy,
Looking forward to the future—
Peaceful future full of joy.

Letter From Mesopotamia.

The following letter was recently received by Mr. Robt. Metcalfe and Mrs. Chas. Lapierre from a son and brother who has been nine years in the British regulars in the East and has never been home in that time. It requires three months for a letter from here to receive an answer.

Mesopotanian Expeditionary Force.

Dear Father and Sister,—

Just a few lines in answer to your kind and ever welcome letter, I wonder if you received my last letter and photo, I sent it in a very rough affair but I think you would get it alright. We have been doing very well up here, which I expect you have noticed in the papers. I don't think there will be much chance of me seeing England for a long while yet, well not before Xmas this year, although I am longing to see England again. I have had quite enough of this life now, and what makes it worse for me to get away, I am one of the very few regulars left. Well, perhaps some day I will get away. Don't you think we have given Johnny Turk a shock this time? The weather is starting to get very warm now, but I don't think it will take much effect on me as I think I am well seasoned now to these climates. I expect you are always anxious to hear from me, but I really don't get the time to write, but you can depend I will live through it alright, I think I am too wicked to get killed or die, but I often wish I was, as I get proper fed up at times. Well now, you must excuse me if I don't write too often but just say "Oh! he's alright." I will write as often as I can but for goodness sake don't fret over me, I'll be alright, besides I don't suppose I'd be missed anywhere. Well, roll on something of life, I don't care for this it is too dull now. I think a leave for two months in England would buck me up. No more at present only that I am well and fit and excuse scribble, your long lost but not forgotten son and brother, BOB.

"Poor Jones was such an odd, contrary sort of man."

"Yes, indeed. Why, even when he came to die he did it in the living-room."

EVERYBODY
Wants Profits

It isn't the amount of the premium but the amount of the dividend that fixes the cost of an insurance policy.

This is particularly true in a Mutual company where all surplus earnings are credited solely to policyholders.

The profits may be drawn in cash, used to reduce the premiums or to increase the amount of the insurance.

Less expensive policies are issued without profits, but in a prosperous company such as the Mutual of Canada the policies with profits soon become the cheaper.

One could not do a wiser thing than take out a life, limited payment life, or endowment policy in the Mutual of Canada, for it is among the most liberal dividend payers in America.

For example: twenty years ago a young man, age 25, took out a policy for $4,000 on the 20-year endowment plan. He paid a single premium of $2,036. Last month the Company paid him $5374.-16. This was a return of $263.96 for each $100 invested in addition to the protection of $4,000 for 20 years.

The balance of his money, after paying his taxes and seventeen years back subscription to the local paper, he put in the bank for safe keeping. He has two more hogs, but does not intend to sell them until the family is ready to take a trip to Europe to see the battlefield where the war is in progress.
