Little doubt about local position on French

Members of the Iroquois Public School Community made it quite plain at a meeting on Monday night of the school committee that increasing the amount of French taught in local classrooms is not one of their priorities.

Parents and interested members of the community were invited to a special meeting of the school committee in the gymnasium to hear an explanation of the board's current position paper on proposed French programs for public elementary schools in S.D.&G. The report which was prepared by a working committee was presented to the board and to the public several weeks ago and was to have been discussed and voted on by board members at a meeting sometime this month.

When it became apparent that the document was going to raise more than a little discussion, the board decided to hold off on their meeting until December 15th and to have the meeting in a school auditorium in Cornwall where delegations will be permitted to make presentations on the topic.

The Iroquois group voted to try and put the whole thing off until, possibly, February 1978. But regardless of when the meeting is to be held, there was little doubt that those present on Monday night felt that increasing the amount of French in the local school was not a burning desire.

Only about 30 parents turned out for the meeting which had been advertised in the Post and for which an invitation had been sent home with each of the children at the school. They agreed to meet again before the 15th of December and draft up a proposal to put off the decision until early 1978 and to consider whether they want the present core program increased from 20 to 40 minutes per day.

There was so much disagreement and confusion among those present about how to best get their message across to the board that the chairman of the meeting, principal Jim Shaw was unable to get a definite reading on what the next step should be. There were suggestions to hold another meeting, to send home a detailed explanation of the proposals, to send home a questionnaire with a ballot for voting on the proposals, to vote then and there and finish it, or to try and convince the board to wait until later to make their decision.

Local board representative Mahlon Zeron summed up the proceedings best when he stated that he was getting a feeling from each meeting he attended on how the local community would react to the proposals. The feeling he got from Iroquois, he said, was much the same as his own personal feeling: "That we don't want French to be taught at the expense of English; not at the expense of our mother tongue." The comment drew a round of applause from the audience.

Superintendent of Education, John Comtois who was there, as he put it, "not to sell French but to provide an opportunity for your young people to be prepared to compete in 10 or 12 years for jobs." Mr. Comtois emphasized that he was not there to play politics, but rather to inform the parents of the opportunity that exists for French language instruction and of the government grants that are available to the board for that purpose.

Defending himself from charges by one guest that he was a super-salesman for the French language, Mr. Comtois told the audience to, "simply state in front of board member Mahlon Zeron that you are not in favour of increased French instruction and there will be no questions asked. "It's yours for the asking, but the board will not impose it," he said.

Mr. Comtois explained three basic principles of French instruction, noting that it was the right of the parents to opt out or in any one of the proposed programs.

First was the Core program, a plan that would see each grade from 1 to 8 eventually having 40 minutes of conversational French per deay. Students at Iroquois Public now have 20 minutes per day with the exception of the immersion Kindergarten class.

The second option is for an extended program offering approximately 75 minutes daily, along with conversational French for 35 minutes and the instruction of a subject such as History or Geography in the French language.

The third was for a bilingual or "immersion" school with a range of from 100 per cent French at Grade 1 to 50 per cent French and English at the Grade 8 level.

All of these, options, Mr. Comtois emphasized would be optional, would not jeopardize the jobs of English speaking teachers and could be opted out of at any time.

Gerald Pope killed in single car accident

An Iroquois man, 27 year-old Gerald Pope was killed sometime early Tuesday morning in a single car accident on Highway two 1.6 kilometres west of Prescott.

According to Prescott OPP who were notified of the accient at 7:55 a.m., a passenger with Gerry, 18 year-old Stanley Moses Leach of RR 4 Spencerville was in serious condition at Brockville General Hospital.

Gerry's 1967 model Dodge was apparently eastbound on Highway 2 when he failed to negotiate a curve in the road at Bradley's Creek. The car crossed into the westbound lane, hit an embankment, jumped the creek and crashed into the bank on the east side.

Police believe that Gerry was killed instantly. Mr. Leach was in shock when he was found by passing motorists and was suffering from severe leg injuries.

Until officers can speak with Mr. Leach, they will be unable to pinpoint the exact time of the accident. Constable J.D. Kennedy of the Prescott OPP is investigating the accident.

Gerry was the son of Patrick and Marjorie Pope of 216 Victoria Street in Iroquois. Funeral services will be held at the C.W. Marsden Funeral Home in Iroquois on Thursday November 17th at 1:30 p.m.

Policy announced for sale of lots in Iroquois

Iroquois village council has agreed on the procedure to be followed in the upcoming sale of twelve new building lots in the east end of the village. A discussion was held at the regular meeting of council last week and it was agreed that the lots would go on sale on a specific date, yet to be announced, but likely within the next two or three months.

Prior to the sale of the lots, the date will be announced in the Post and a site plan of the area, along with the selling price of each individual lot will be published. First choice in the sale of the lots will go to people who are now residents of Iroquois. This stipulation will be in force for the first five days after the lots go on sale, then there will be no restrictions on who can buy property.

At the time of sale, the prospective buyer must specify which lot he would like and must put as a deposit, a certified cheque for 10 per cent of the price of the lot he wants. The balance will be payable in cash or certified cheque on the day the deed is presented.

Another condition of the sale is that the lot must have a house started on it within two years and completed within three years. Failure to do so will result in council having the option to buy back the lot at the selling price plus whatever taxes have been paid.

The intent of council in this matter has been to enable people who are now residents of Iroquois, and are perhaps paying rent, to buy a lot to build a home for their families. The village clerk has a list of names of people who are interested in the property and each one of these will receive a letter advising them of the date the lots will go on sale and the conditions that have been attached to the sale.

A questionnaire was sent out earlier to determine the potential market for new building lots in the community, but it was stated on the form that its return did not constitute an application to buy and that there was no committment or guarantee by either party.

Council passed a borrowing by-law at the meeting authorizing the clerk to proceed with a loan of $47,500. at the bank to purchase the property from Ontario Hydro.

It was also decided to seek invited tenders from all local contractors who might be interested in the installation of water and sewer services to the new lots. Council voted against the idea of advertising in the paper and agreed to go with the invited tenders idea due to the short time factor involved. It is hoped to have the lots all serviced before the ground freezes solid.

A hydro line that intersects one of the lots is scheduled to be re-located this week.

A Sunday surprise

Iroquois residents had a little surprise in store for them on Sunday morning with the season's first snowfall of several inches. Many roads were slushy or slippery for a while, and the snow hung on for several days before disappearing. But, have no fear. It will be back.

Solemn moment

Residents of the village of Iroquois and Matilda Township paused on the weekend to pay tribute to the dead of two world wars at spearate services held on Friday at Brinston and on Sunday at Iroquois.

The Brinston service held at the traditional 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month was conducted at the Oddfellows Hall at Brinston with Rev. L.D. Joyce assisting Rev. L.T. Schalkwyk of the Christian Reformed Church in Williamsburg.

With approximately 75 people in attendance, the service opened with a selection by the Matilda Township band, under the direction of Gerry Westervelt. An address was presented by Rev. Schalkwyk, who spoke of his childhood days in Amsterdam during the war and of the deprivation the Dutch people suffered and of their gratitude to the Canadian troops. Mrs. G. Lieverdinck also delivered a brief message of thanks to the Canadian forces.

Wreaths were laid by Mrs. Margaret Ault, (Matilda Women's Institute); John English (Province of Ont.); Mrs. Harold McQuaig (Matilda Township); and Mary Perry (Rebecca Lodge).

The Matilda Band offered two more selections, in addition to a number by Mrs. Joyce Gelenyse who accompanied herself on the guitar.

In Iroquois the service was held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the civic centre, following a parade from the Legion Hall on Dundas street with members of the Iroquois Branch 370 of the Royal Canadian Legion marching in the company of members of the Iroquois Fire Department, the Iroquois Lions Club, the Spencerville Pipe Band, Iroquois Cubs and Scouts, Guides and Brownies and Iroquois-Morrisburg council of the Knights of Columbus.

The service at the civic centre was conducted by members of the local clergy, with the Legion address given by Hamilton Summers, Past District Commander of the Royal Canadian Legion, and a familiar face at local Legion functions. Mr. Smmers spoke of the need for young people to be conscious of the great sacrifice that was made for them by those who gave their lives in the two world wars. He also told of the importance of Legion branches admitting new associate members to their ranks to replace the many veterans who are growing older. It is only through these dedicated associate members, he said, that the work of the Royal Canadian Legion can be carried on. Pianist for the service was Mrs. Jane Graham.

Legion president, Ed. Hitchinson presented medals to the two winners in the recent Legion sponsored poster contest. These went to Lolitta Dugan and David Cherry, both of Iroquois Public School for their participation in the contest.

Following the service the parade moved to the cenotaph on Elizabeth Drive where, under heavy grey skies, wreaths were placed in memory of the men of Iroquois and district who made the supreme sacrifice.

Iroquois council rejects computerized tax bills

Taxpayers in Iroquois can expect to keep on seeing the familiar handwritten tax bills in the future, following a decision by council at their recent meeting. Council rejected an offer by Welby Computer Services of Ottawa to prepare all tax bills for the village on a computer.

According to the letter from the firm, all assessment information for Iroquois could be sent on magnetic tape from the assessment office in Cornwall to the computer and from there bills could be printed out. The firm proposed a cost of just over $500. for the service, plus the cost of mailing.

Reeve Frank Rooney stated that he was against the proposal, saying that Iroquois had already lost control of assessment as it was done in Cornwall and has also lost control of the school board. He felt that it was preferable to keep the personal contact that now exists with taxpayers.

Deputy Clerk, Katherine Brown was also against the proposal, saying that if an error was made, it would be months before information could be fed to the computer and the problem eliminated.

Council agreed that for the time being, nothing would be done in regard to pursuing the computerized tax billing idea.

In other council news, council decided to proceed with the purchase of some new tables and chairs for the civic centre. A donation has been received from the Good Companions senior citizens group, and council is intending to put in some funds as well. It was decided to approach the Iroquois Lions Club with the idea to see if they would be interested in making any sort of contribution.

Council approved a proposal from its housing committee to ask Ontario Hydro to release a block of land for sale, located behind the Farlinger Apartments. It is suitable for another apartment unit if a developer was interested in such a venture.

John McAllister, chairman of council's Industry and Tourism committee reported that the industrial brochure being prepared by an Ottawa promotional firm is ready for printing and will be quite impressive. As well he stated that a meeting is to be held in Cornwall next Thursday with representatives of the ministry of Transportation and communications regarding placement of signs advertising the Iroquois Locks on Highway 401 and on Highway 2, approaching Iroquois.

Group to perform Gilbert & Sullivan in Iroquois

The wonderfully wacky world of Gilbert and Sullivan will be brought to life by the Western Savoyards of Vancouver, on the stage of the Seaway District High School Auditorium in Iroquois for the Iroquois Public Library on Monday November 21 at 8 p.m.

Harry Mossfield, the distinguished Australian-Canadian baritone star of the Tyrone Guthrie Stratford and New York Gilbert and Sullivan productions, will head a talented company of four in this delightfully-mounted musical show.

The visiting Vancouver ensemble, organized by Mr. Mossfield, will perform vignettes from many of Gilbert and Sullivan's best-loved works, including highlight from the Mikado, HMS Pinafore, Iolanthe, the Pirates of Penzance and The Gondoliers.

What keeps Gilbert and Sullivan alive? Is it the stinging wit - the sly humour - the sometimes brazen satire - the deadly aim at the British class-conscious society. Or is it the froth and bubble of sullivan's music with delightful take-offs on English madrigals or Italian opera of Verdi or Donizetti? We must agree with Sir Tyrone Guthrie: "I consider Gilbert and Sullivan without doubt the most magnificent theatrical material; and it should be encouraged to live in our present-day theatres - to bring utter joy to our 20th century audiences as surely and delightfully as they did when Gilbert 'raved' backstage and Sullivan 'waved' in the pit on their first opening night of "Trial by Jury" in 1857".

All adults and boys and girls of high school age are invited to attend this exceptional show free of charge at 8 p.m. on Monday, November 21 in the Seaway District High School Auditorium in Iroquois. The program is sponsored by "Outreach" Ontario, the Ontario Arts Council and the Eastern Ontario Library System.

"A MATTER OF CONFIDENCE"

Confidence seems to have reached a new low in the ability of Canada's Post Office to carry out its appointed rounds. We were contacted by a teacher employed by the S.D.&G. Board of Education who had been told by the board office that the Canada Savings Bond she had bought through the payroll savings plan could not be sent through the mails to her. Instead, she was told she would have to go to Cornwall and pick it up.

We checked with the board and were told that only if a teacher sent a letter of authorization would they release the bond to the registered mail service, following some unpleasant experiences in years past. There's something in all this that is just not right. Either the board is being overly cautious or else the Post Office needs some serious investigation.

When the Post Office can't be trusted to deliver a simple $100. bond a distance of 35 miles, someone needs to start asking questions.

WE LIKE LETTERS, BUT.....

From time to time, it seems necessary to re-iterate our policy on the printing of letters to the editor. A letter to the editor is not different than an editorial written by an employee of the newspaper except that the letter was unsolicited and the author isn't likely to be paid for his efforts.

In deciding whether to print a letter to the editor, an editor applies the same criteria that are used on material written in our own office. First of all, are the statements of fact true? A newspaper has moral and legal responsibilities not to print libellous material and false statements. A letter to the editor is usually a combination of statements of fact mixed liberally with some opinions--opinions that are at least strong enough to move the author into action.

We like to present an interesting and balanced forum of opinion. Some of this we provide ourselves in our editorials. We look upon our readers to provide reactions and balance. As we suggested, letters to the editor are just unpaid editorials. To be interesting to our readers, and therefore printable, they should be based on fact and concern for common interests.

To ensure the good faith of letter writers we rely on signatures. It's not foolproof, but demanding a signature on letters that are sent to us deters a lot of people who would otherwise perform public mischief with lies or half truths. If you would like your letter published with just a pen name or initials, we will respect that but it is imperative that the editor know who has written the letter.

But unfortunately, letters to the editor, no matter how cute, clever or thought-provoking will go in the garbage, unless they are signed.

We're not dead yet

by Bill Smiley

This has been the age of the young. Rock music, drugs, drop-outs, dirty denim, unisex, swinging singles, discos, and now punk rock. You name it and we've been assaulted by it.

It all began with the Beatles, I reckon, this adulation of youth. And now its The Fonz, a portrayal of a young hood, that gets the headlines.

To be over 40, in the last couple of decades, has been just this side of being dead, as the media, the entertainment world, and business, salivated over youth.

Well, it's kind of nice to see that a lot of the old timers are still in there pitching, despite the deluge of juvenilia.

It was a bit of a jolt to hear of the sudden death of Bing Crosby recently, at age 74. But the Old Crooner was still giving some class to the shoddy world of show biz right up to the end.

Octogenarian John Diefenbaker has published another book of his memoirs. Haven't read it yet, but it's said to be as delightfully malicious and wrong-headed as the first volumes.

Morley Callaghan, well into his 70s, recently published a new novel, to critical acclaim. Callaghan, one of our finest writers, isn't getting older, he's getting better. Ignored or sneered at for years by fellow Canadians, he just kept hacking away at his vocation of being a first-class writer.

Just finished a novel, The Intruders, by Hugh Garner, and although parts of it are bad, when the dialogue becomes polemical, he still has the sure touch of realism, an ear for the talk of ordinary people, and the ability to tell a good story. Garner is no chicken either. Must be in his 60s, about half way.

Scott Young, another cracking good writer, has abandoned a daily column of trivia, with which even he was becoming bored, and has gone back to writing what he does best - honest sports stories. He's over 60.

Pierre Trudeau is not yet an ancient combattant, but he had his 58th recently, and is certainly no pushover for the young blood-thirsty wolves in the political pack, as anyone who watched the opening of Parliament could see.

And how about the Queen. She is no teenager, and she's beginning to show it, but when it comes to poise and grace and charm, very few of the young chicks can hold a candle to her.

One of my colleagues, a former officer in the German Army, is into his 60s, but could out-ski, out-swim, and out-walk most of the staff members 30 years younger.

I have another friend, about 70, who could think, out-drink, and out-swear 98 per cent of men in their 20s.

My father-in-law was a little disappointed to learn this year that a by-law had been passed stating that retirement was compulsory at 65, and he'd lose one of his jobs.

He's 85 and is quite bewildered when he hears talk of young fellas in their early 60s who can hardly wait to retire.

Played golf with an old gray-haired geezer a few weeks ago. He is retired, but only because of a heavy heart attack. He plays 18 holes a day and then knocks back a few whiskies before dinner. His score was 88, mine was 108. He swims all summer and bowls twice a week in the winter, as well as working like a navvy around his home.

I don't really know what I'm getting at here. Maybe I'm just sick of the youth-worship cult to which we've all been exposed (including the young) for far too long.

Maybe I'm tired of living on a continent and in a culture in which the very people who were the salt of this country's earth are shuffled off, without honour and without shame, into places that are called things like Sunset Rest, Final Heaven - everything but Last Chance Saloon.

Maybe I'm fed up with the interminable excuses, sloppy service and half-assed work we receive from so many young people whose grandparents and parents gave full measure, and believed in such hoary adages as "A job worth doing is worth doing well."

I sometimes wonder why we are so eager, in this country, to slough off the wealth of experience and wisdom our elders have to offer in our society.

Why aren't the older tradesmen used a teachers, at a decent remuneration, to pass on their skills to the half-baked young tradesmen we so often encounter when we want a job done?

There is a crying need for more day-care centres in this country. Why aren't they filled with volunteer grannies, who could love and pet and teach the children, as only they do so well?

Nope. It's easier to sweep them under the carpet: into lonely rooming houses, nursing homes, senior citizens apartments, or, in extreme cases, the Senate.

We don't want to see wrinkles and white hair and trembling hands or mouths. We want everything to be the way it is on TV.

Well, don't try to shuffle this ole boy off, when the time comes. I intend to go right on being arbitrary and obnoxious.

Unless I'm offered a seat in the Senate.

100 LINES

by J.M.

By now, you're no doubt wondering about the little teaser in last week's column making reference to someone who faints at the sight of blood. I could just gloss over the whole thing claiming complete innocence but since the story has made its rounds by word of mouth, it might as well go down in the annals of history. The teaser at the bottom of this column last week was added to the page long after the editor had shuffled off into the night after having laid out the paper. It makes reference to a story elsewhere in the Post concerning a home kidney dialysis machine being used by Ron MacKinnon. Those who enjoy this column will be pleased to know that the writer is in no danger of leaving to accept a position as medical editor of Time magazine. Nor is he about to leave the Post to become a para-medic, a butcher, or a dental assistant. In fact, he's darn lucky that he'll never even have to be a mother.

Having already bitten the dust at a couple of Red Cross blood donor clinics, I should have been suspicious when I volunteered to do a story on Ron's kidney machine. In spite of the fact that the machine is really interesting and perfectly harmless, the sight of that much blood, even in plastic tubing is a bit disconcerting for those who pale at the thought of a Big Mac that is less than well done. About ten minutes into the interview I began to fear that perhaps I hadn't outgrown the old chicken-liver syndrome. Before I could do anything about it, I found myself waking up on the floor, a less than ideal position from which to conduct an interview. Anyway, it's all history now; the story is written, my pride is healing quite nicely; and the MacKinnons were as gracious as any hosts could be with a writer lying flat out on the floor.

The situation makes an interesting comparison with the disaster exercise held at Winchester Hospital several weeks ago. The same writer joined cohorts from the Winchester Press and Chesterville Record to view the proceedings and was unmoved by a seemingly endless procession of "victims" who would have put a war to shame. It all proves that it's mind over matter, but when the mind says that's enough, the body hits the floor.

Now that Remembrance Day and Hallowe'en are behind us, it's time to get thinking about Christmas and from the looks of the Iroquois Shopping Plaza, local merchants are already in the spirit. The Business Association has been behind a promotion to decorate early and to sponsor a promotion to encourage local people to shop at home and it looks as if the members are really taking it to heart. A walk through the plaza will reveal some of the most impressive jobs of Christmas decorating ever undertaken in Iroquois stores and if you glance at the ad in this week's Post you'll see that there are some pretty spectacular prizes being given away as incentives to spend your money locally. The Girl Guides are getting into the spirit of things too, with free babysitting offered for two Saturdays and one evening during the Christmas shopping season. It should all add up to an interesting holiday season in Iroquois.

Kangaroo ?

by JIM SMITH

The first European explorers were roaming through the backlands of Australia, guided by a handful of Aborigines. A strange animal came bounding across the plain, stopped in front of the explorers and hopped away. "What do you call that?" the astonished Europeans asked their guides.

"I don't know," one of the guides replied in his native tongue. And that's how the kangaroo ("I don't know," in Australian Aborigine) got its name.

"Socialism", "capitalism", "communism" and all the other "isms" are basically like kangaroo. What each of them means is "I don't know" for various branches of socio-economic thinkers.

Jargon has overwhelmed us, inundated us with words that really have no meaning. "Communism", for instance, certainly meant something different to Marx than it means to contemporary Russian leaders. The trouble with jargon, you see, is that it prevents us from communicating effectively.

If it weren't for jargon – which results in us arguing about whether Canada should have more or less "socialism" when we can't even agree on the true meaning of "socialism" – we could get down to the significant question of defining our exact socio-economic objectives in concrete terms.

Cut through the political jargon of any nation and you'll find one elementary truth: each country has developed its own "ism". There's Americanism. There's Germanism. There's Japanism, Brazilism and Italianism. The "ism" can't be solidly defined (although, in some nebulous sense, it represents the degree of government intervention); the "ism" exists in the attitudes and actions of the people rather than in any textbook guidelines.

But Canada doesn't possess a genuine Canada-ism. Instead, we have a spillover from the United States that can probably best be described as American branch plantism. And, if there is anything worse than being hung up on jargon, it must be the failure of a country to own anything worth lavishing jargon on.

American branch plantism has not been without its rewards for Canadians in years gone by. But, in the modern setting, it is tremendously threatening. More and more branch plants are finding that it is cheaper to manufacture in the low-wage areas like Korea and the Philippines than to operate in Canada. Within the next decade, we could find that the manufacturing side of branch operations in Canada will have moved to other countries, even though we might still be psychologically dependent on those branch plants.

Canada needs her own "ism" based on natural domestic industry, hard work and an expanded sophistication in dealing with international competition. We need to develop our own technology rather than depending on handouts from the U.S. This is the message of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business: we need to develop our own innovative companies to create our own "ism".

It's time, in other words, to have a good answer when people ask "What's wrong with Canada?" Kangaroo simply won't do anymore.

Meeting Wed. to discuss site for power plant

Another meeting is scheduled for this Wednesday in Brockville in the continuing dialogue on the selection of a site for a hydro generating station in eastern Ontario. The day-long session is to get underway at 9 a.m. at the Skyline Hotel in Brockville with the presentation by Hydro officials of the final map of "possible sites".

Also to be presented is the results of "factor weighting" a procedure that lists various criteria for evaluation of each potential site and the pros and cons for that site. In an effort to complete this phase, the potential site selection, further sessions have been scheduled at the Skyline for the weeks of November 28th and December 5th.

Meetings of the generation Working Committee have been going on for almost a year in an effort to choose a powerplant site that will have the least impact on the surroundings and still offer the most advantageous site from a power production and distribution standpoint.

There has been no decision yet on whether the plant will be fuelled by nuclear power or by fossil fuels (oil or coal). Members of the committee recently visited the Pickering nuclear station in an effort to learn more about the layout and safety of such a plant and to see first hand how it blends into the community where it is located.

There are four potential sites in the Iroquois - Matilda area, in addition to the Edwardsburg land bank site which is also being considered. There are 16 potential sites already chosen and these will be narrowed down until one is chosen as the final choice for the plant.

Because of their proximity to the city of Kingston and the tourist attractions of the 1,000 islands, the sites west of Brockville are not, in the opinion of many local people, likely to be considered very seriously. Much the same could be said for those sites near the St. Lawrence Parks Commission parks. Also considered is the fact that sights in the Cornwall area are on a fault line and are subject to earthquake damage.

In contrast, the Iroquois area sites appear more viable as locations for a power plant. According to the techno-economic evaluation inventory prepared by Ontario Hydro, conditions at the local sites are quite favourable for the construction of an unrestricted energy centre.

For instance, the height to which the cooling water would have to be pumped, the length of the intake tunnel and discharge tunnel all offer advantages over other sites. The only deterrent is the existence of the old Galop Canal, which is thought to be a factor in dispersion of the warm water from a plant.

All the Iroquois area sites have potential for the delivery of fuel, either by rail lines leading right through the site or by ship, with docking areas close at hand.

Two of the Iroquois sites are north of the village, while two others are located just east of the village and to the west, along the Edwardsburg Township boundary. The depth to bedrock of any of the sites is a maximum of 15 metres, compared with up to 30 metres at the Edwardsburg landbank site.

Also favouring the Iroquois sites is the fact that excavation of land needed will be considerable less than sites near Prescott and at Edwardsburg. An added plus is the fact that there is a gravel pit on the site at the Iroquois west location. The site also exhibits a possibility of finding marine clay on the land, a slight deterrent which is shared with the Iroquois east and Morrisburg north sites.

The location os the site is expected to be decided by mid 1978, but several local politicians have already gone on record as being in favour of its construction in their area. Reeve A.C. Casselman of Cardinal has been vocal in his campaign to have the plant located in Edwardsburg Township near Cardinal and Iroquois Reeve Frank Rooney has stated that he feels the plant would be a shot in the arm for the local economy no matter where in the area it was located.

"Doc Charlie" Marcellus buried at Iroquois

Funeral services were held at the graveside in the Iroquois Point cemetery on Sunday afternoon for Dr. Charles Marcellus, a well known Iroquois doctor who practised here for more than 30 years before retiring to Kingston in 1972. "Doc Charlie" as he was affectionately known died suddenly on Friday, November 11th at Kingston. He was in his 74th year.

Charles Rogers Marcellus M.D., C.M. was born the son of Dr. Ethan Marcellus and his wife, the former Blanche Rodgers. He taught high school for a number of years before going into medicine and began his practice in Iroquois in 1939. He worked for a year with his father before the elder Dr. Marcellus passed away in 1940.

In his more than 30 years of practice in Iroquois, "Doc" made many friends and was one of the last such men to operate a one-man office which was open virtually 24 hours a day for emergencies.

Dr. Marcellus is survived by his wife, the former Rhoda Blackwell, and by two children Dr. Edward Marcellus of Oshawa and Elizabeth (Mrs. P. Sweetnam of Stittsville. He also leaves to mourn his loss a sister, Dorothy Marcellus of Toronto and four grandchildren. He was predeceased by a brother, Dr. Jack Marcellus.

Helping Hands hear of missionary work

The Senior Citizen group "Helping Hands" held their monthly meeting on Wednesday November 2nd in the Brinston United Church basement with our President Mr. T. Zandbergen in the chair and Mrs. Ruth Coons at the piano.

Attendance was very good, plus some local visitors. Besides our business, birthdays and anniversaries were honoured in the usual way.

Our oldest member Mrs. T. Harbers presented a silver tray with inscription to our ex-president Mrs. Lieverdinck as a token of appreciation for the work she has done in the past three years.

Our afternoon meeting was combined with the Canadian Bible League meeting. Mrs. Jessie Geurkink presided. Mrs. Mary Perry played the guitar and sang gospel songs. Rev. Thomas from Ottawa showed slides and spoke about bringing the gospel to the chinese people.

It was decided to have our December "Christmas meeting on Wednesday December 14 in the church basement at Brinston.

Seek release of land

the policy adopted by Ontario Hydro in regard to releasing Hydro owned land within the village for sale. Negotiations have been going on for some time, with representative of the provincial Ministry of Industry and Tourism involved and more meetings are planned in an attempt to arrive at a solution that will make land available for sale to industry.

Village works superintendent, Ray Delegarde reported that the white lines had been painted in the parking lot of the shopping plaza. It was suggested that council consider the possibility of angle parking in the plaza in front of the stores, similar to the procedure in Morrisburg. Council will put forth the idea to members of the Iroquois Business Association for comment before anything is done.

Council also decided to apply more stone dust to some of the shoulders of village streets before the cold weather sets in. A number of streets have been paved, leaving the old shoulder far below the level of the pavement, and creating a hazard for traffic, particularly on bicycles.

In an effort to relieve some of the parking congestion at the civic centre, council is considering the possibility of extending the driveway at the back of the building and making a parking lot there for a number of cars. Daytime events at the civic centre have been causing a traffic hazard at the corner of Dundas Street and Elizabeth Drive, so council agreed to go outdoors and look at the location before the start of their next meeting, after which some recommendations can be made.

It was noted that piles have been driven at the local beach this fall to which the floating dock and raft can be anchored. Permanent 6 inch concrete filled piles were installed for less than $500., according to Mr. Delegarde, and he estimates that they will permit a substantial saving of time each year when the equipment is put in and taken out.

During the local waterworks meeting, held as a part of the council agenda, it was decided by council to install a second water line to the medical clinic. This was done on the recommendation of Mr. Delegarde who reported that there is a problem with water pressure in the dentists's office when the air conditioner is functioning. The cooling equipment uses a large quantity of water and for that reason, another line will be put in specifically for the air conditioner.

It was noted that the budget for the local waterworks department is in very good shape as we head into the last six weeks of the year.

At the meeting of the hydro commission, held the same evening, council was asked to consider new policies for the collection of deposits for hydro service in the village. Several proposals were discussed and each member is to give the matter some thought and report back next month. It was noted that Iroquois Hydro has been stung several times by people leaving town with an outstanding hydro bill and that the present $25 deposit is not sufficient, particularly if the property involved has electric heat.

Hydro superintendent Ray Delegarde presented his proposed 1978 budget which is considerably higher than this year's figure, but is designed to include all the meters, transformers and secondary wire for the 12 new lots on Island Park Drive. Council agreed that the money spent on electrical equipment for this area must be kept track and included in the selling price of the lots and paid back to Iroquois Hydro.

Mr. Delegarde also reported that he hopes to be able to purchase ten new hydro meters each year to help cut the cost of inspection and calibration of older ones. Representatives of the weights and measures branch of the federal government annually insist on checking a certain number of meters and he is hoping that by having newer meters going into service each year, it will be possible to cut down the number of inspections as they are now costing about $14 each.

First snow hits area

The first snowfall of the season arrived in Iroquois and area on Saturday night, and despite forecasts that it would be gone by Sunday, it was still very much in evidence late Monday.

The total accumulation ammounted only to a couple of inches, but high winds created some drifts and made visibility difficult.

Most area motorists were caught without snow tires, and this combined with the slippery condition of some area roads, caused several vehicles to end up in the ditch.

Remembrance Day services were held in Iroquois under grey skies with snow on the ground, the first time in a number of years that there has been snow for the occasion.

The white stuff should serve as a warning that there is lots more where that came from and that Christmas is not too far off.

William McILveen, a WW 1 veteran, and Jack Crawford, a current member of the Canadian Armed Forces, exchange stories at the Remembrance Day reception held at Branch 105.

Age makes no difference

Learning not to Quarrel

Post feature by Dent Tillotson

Last week in conjunction with Remembrance Day, and Cardinal Legion Branch 105's 50th anniversary, the Post interviewed three members of the Cardinal Legion.

Also interviewed were students from Benson Public School, who had just would up a week long program aimed at informing the students on the meaning of Remembrance Day.

Each person or group was asked to give their views and feelings on the subject of Remembrance and it significance.

First, let us take a look at the people from Branch 105.

William McILveen was president of Branch 105 in 1932. Born in 1888, he served in the war that was to end all wars, World War 1.

1916 saw him landing in France, and what he was to fact would later go down in history as "trench warfare".

It involved an endless waste of land, termed as "no man's land". Indeed it was just that scarred by craters left behind as a result of continuous bombardment of both opposing sides.

Long periods of silence were broken by the shattering of shells and raids from the enemy. Another enemy, perhaps more of a pest, were the lice and fleas the mud attracted. The mud then became caked to clothing, and thus was transmitted to the human body.

Restrictions on the amount of ammunition and the rationing of food were constant reminders of how ill prepared for War the Allies were.

Now a life member of the Legion, Mr. McILveen recently received a 50 year member medal. He is one of the charter members of Branch 105.

Mrs. Sally O'Brien met her husband during the second war. Married in Edinbourgh, her husband left the day after their marriage to go to Sicily. It would be a year before she was to see him again.

Active then as she is now, Mrs. O'Brien endured the war in Scotland while her husband fought to preserve their freedom and to hopefully escape the constant threat of death and return to start a life with his bride.

At one point during the war, Mrs. O'Brien did not hear from her brother for over 10 months and finally learned of his existence in a prisoner of war camp.

Upon coming to Canada, her energy in helping others did not lessen at all. As she did during the battle of Britain, she poured her resourses into the community. Active in the Guides and Brownies, she also remains a driving force behind the Legion as Public Relations Officer.

Jack Crawford is married and has one child. Although he has never been involved in a conflict such as the two people above, he has been trained to defend his country, and would do so if it became necessary. Now in his 3rd year with the Canadian Armed Forces, he works in the section that is responsible for the production of maps in various areas the forces are to be involved in.

Now that you have some insight into the background of these three people, here are the questions we put forth to them, and their responses.

Our first of two questions was, "What does Remembrance Day mean to you?"

William McILveen, "I recall things of the past, and it is a mixture of both good, and bad feelings."

Mrs. O'Brien, "My father was a WW I vet, and my father-in-law was killed in France during that same war. I grew up quickly during WW II, but there was a sense of helping each other and people seemed more thoughtful. At one point we lost contact with my brother for 10 months. Plus, during the war I met my husband."

Jack Crawford, "It is a sacred thing to me. My father was in WW II and it is a day to remember those who sacrificed thier lives so we could be free."

Our second question we put to these three people asked them if they had changed their outlook towards Remembrance Day since their younger days.

All three said no, stressing the point that we should walk in gratitude for those who died so that we may be free.

Jack Crawford did raise one question, and that was he felt that people his age did not seem to hold the same value as he about the importance of Remembrance Day.

To take us further down the road of age, we now look at the students at Benson Public School. The students were asked to volunteer and the response was overwhelming. Levels 1 to 8 were all asked the same questions and were broken into three groups, each one individually asked their feelings.

The first group consisted of levels 1 to 3.

Asked on what they thought Remembrance Day meant, responses such as the following were heard. "It's a serious day, an important day when soldiers died"; "A sad day"; "A day you put flowers on graves".

Our second question concerned why they wore poppies; "Remember people who died in the war"; "Poppies grow in Flanders where soldiers are buried"; "Soldiers fought where poppies grow"; and "Blood is red, as are the poppies."

They all agreed that Remembrance Day was a good idea, and that on November 11, they all took part in some event to mark the solemn day. Some of the group took part in the parade to the Cenotaph, being part of the Brownies, Guides, Cubs, or Scouts, while others were involved in the week-long events at the school.

The second group of students consisted of levels 4, 5 and 6.

When asked what they thought of Remembrance Day, a variety of answers were given; "Remember people who died for us"; "We should be sad"; "Stop and think about it"; "If they didn't die for us we wouldn't have what we do today"; "We wouldn't be here"; "Greatest thing a man can do is give up his life for others".

We then asked them why they wore poppies, "To show you know people died in the war"; "It's a symbol of Remembrance"; "Where people are buried poppies grow".

Their views on whether Remembrance Day was a good idea brought these responses, "If we were ever in a war them people would remember"; "So we won't fight again, so we won't quarrel"; and "They died for us, so we remember the peace they gave us".

Their participation on Remembrance Day ranged from carrying the flag, observing the 2 minute silence, ceremonies at the school and Cenotaph, and singing of songs and verses.

Our third and final group of students were from the 7 and 8 grades.

"A time for remembering the ones you loved"; "People who died for us"; and "They died to give us freedom and peace"; were the responses from this group on how they flet about Remembrance Day.

Asked why they work poppies, they answered with "Poppies show that you remember"; and that "Poppies are symbolic of blood".

They all agreed on Remembrance Day as being a good idea, and some of the events that they took part in included one youngster whose family have a Remembrance Day dinner in which their grandparents come over for.

Going back a bit, you will recall that Jack Crawford stated that he felt a lack of concern about Rememberance day and it's meaning in people his own age (he is in his twenties).

One question which was not asked the other two levels was the following. We asked the 7 and 8 grade students if they had changed their views on Remembrance Day since their younger years, and the following answers were put forth, "I used to think it was a holiday, but now I understand the meaning of it"; and "We used to think of it as a day off school, but we stop and think about it".

Different people, with ages ranging from 6 to 89. Some had seen death, others lived with it closely, and yet many of those who escaped the war alive have lingering memories. November 11 has passed for another year but even as it does, the media constantly brings us reminders that war is not a thing of the past, but of the present even if it does not touch on our shores.

William McILveen, Mrs. Sally O'Brien, and Jack Crowford have either been involved in armed struggles, or are prepared to help divert them. The students from Benson P.S. have learned the importance of Remembrance Day, and it is best experessed in the response given in the second group who said "Remembrance Day and poppies are good ideas so we will remember not to fight again, so we won't quarrel".

Cardinal Branch 105

Service in war or peace

Post feature by Dent Tillotson

Thursday November 10, the Cardinal Branch 105 of the Royal Canadian Legion celebrated it's 50th anniversary.

Previous to World War 1, an organization called the Great War Veterans Association (GWVA) was formed. This was the forerunner of the Legion.

About 1927, a British general, Earl Haig, was forming an organization which we now know as the Royal Canadian Legion.

Locally, a veteran from the Boer War, Herb Brindle, and Rev. Booth of the Anglican Church, were instrumental in the organization of Branch 105.

Membership varied in number from the first day the Legion was formed June 27th, 1927. It ranged from ten to fifteen, and the number of locations where they met varied even more.

The local Branch had it's first meeting in what was known as the Sample Room, then moved on to the Town Hall.

In the thirties, various homes were used, and it was in 1931 the Branch joined with the Village Council and held the first Armistice Day Service in the town.

With the outbreak of the Second World War, the Branch helped the men serving overseas by sending supplies such as cigarettes.

Shortly after the war, the Branch was still leading a nomadic existence in it's meeting places. 1948 saw the purchase of the R.J. Pearce building on the river bank. Remodelling of the building produced club rooms, and saw the surrounding land made into a community park.

The coming of the Seaway necessitated a move to the present site. Dodge Construction were the builders, with architects supplied by Ontario Hydro. As part of the agreement, the Branch was given a sum of money for compensation, and the deed to the land.

Membership continued to grow and soon after the completion of the new building in 1957, an expansion of almost 50 per cent of the banquet hall was made.

Present membership now totals 257. Broken down into categories, they are 9 life; 172 ordinary; 58 associate; and 18 honourary.

Thinking ahead into the future, the Legion foresaw that a decrease in members coming out of the services could be anticipated. They therefore started to invite people who were related to members of the Legion, or the Armed Forces to join their organization.

These members became known as associate and honourary members. Together they work as a team to help the community and those veterans who are now in need of assistance.

Branch 105 plays a major role in the support of many local events.

83 wreaths were laid at the Cenotaph in Cardinal which saw a large turnout despite the damp and cold weather who paid there respect to those who died in past wars.

N. Edwardsburg observes

Students, parents, staff and other members of the North Edwardsburg school community participated in a Community Remembrance Day Service Thursday, November 10, 1977 at the school.

With flags shared from Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 604, Spencerville, and memorial comments and prayers by Rev. Lawrence Cowper, pastor of the Spencerville Presbyterian Church, students joined with parents, grand-parents, and other members of the community in remembrance of those who had died so that others could live in peace.

A Colour Party consisting of Becky Bass, Tammy Perrin, and Lisa Earl lowered flags after the playing of 'The Last Post'. The service was organized by Mrs. Gustava Welch, a teacher at North Edwardsburg Public School.

Primary and Junior students read short essays they had prepared, and all joined in singing 'No Man Is An Island'.

Rev. Cowper pointed out the importance of Remembrance DAy and particularly noted the contributions of Lt. Col. John McCrae, author of 'In Flanders Field'.

Jim Morrison, principal, noted that through learning to work together in friendship we can help make our world a better place to live, so that men and women who died fighting for peace will not have died in vain.

This program, was part of a continuing involvement of the community in assisting students to relate more to the world around them.

This was followed by bugler Verna Fader playing Taps and 2 minute silence.

Matilda Hall Board reports successful drive for funds

Members of the Matilda Township Hall Board report that their fund raising drive has reached the $17,130 mark, a figure that represents 33% of their goal of $52,500. The latter number is the amount that is needed to qualify for the maximum Wintario grant of 107,000.

Board members have stated that they are overwhelmed with the response that they are receiving from private individuals, business establishments and organizations, not only within the township but also from neighbouring communities.

With the deadline for Wintario grant applications being three years, pledges are being received from many organizations for what they feel they can raise and donate during that time.

A canvass that has been conducted within the township over the last couple of months is almost complete, but board members feel that there are, no doubt, a few cases in which no one was at home when the canvasser called. Anyone who would like to make a donation is urged to drop in or mail a cheque payable to the Matilda Township Hall Fund, in care of the clerk's office, Brinston.

A series of twice monthly half and half draws has been implemented to raise funds for the new building. The most recent of these, held last Saturday at Dundela, John English of R.R. 2, Iroquois was the winner of $510.90.

The next draw will be held on Saturday, November 26th.

Ron McKinnon spends 4 hours three times a week on this artificial kidney machine located in his Ellis Drive home.

Kidney machine in local home

Post feature by Jim Millard

Most of us are fortunate enough to have two healthy functioning kidneys, and it's a fact that we rarely think about. Ron MacKinnon of Ellis Drive in Iroquois is not that fortunate and as a result has been plagued with kidney problems for the past 12 years.

A hereditary kidney problem has resulted in him having two transplants, the second of which lasted more than six years. But last April that, too, failed and Mr. MacKinnon was forced to go on an artifical kidney machine at the Ottawa General Hospital.

For a time, he went to Ottawa twice a week for six hours each time. He drove himself, after finishing work or went to the hospital before he began work on an evening shift.

Now, thanks to OHIP, the MacKinnons have an artificial kidney machine in the back kitchen of their home and with the help of his wife Geraldine, Ron undergoes dialysis at home three times a week for four hours each time. Mrs. MacKinnon has undergone a training program to learn how to use the machine, which is valued at $5,000. Ron has had a teflon vein grafted into his arm, enabling him to be hooked up to the maching while he lies on a bed. He feels no pain or any other sensation while undergoing the treatment.

The machine and its associated equipment are loaned through OHIP by the Ottawa General Hospital. According to Mrs. MacKinnon the value of the machine, the training program, and other equipment has been estimated at $18,000. per year, all of which is paid for by OHIP.

Mrs. MacKinnon knows of only one other person in the area, a lady in Winchester, who is involved in home dialysis.

She admits to having been nervous about the machine at first, and still is very careful in its operation, but has had no serious problems. She has a detailed instruction manual that explains each step carefully. Her husband has had to go into the hospital once when the artificial vein clotted, but other than that, it has been smooth sailing. There is also a telephone hotline in Ottawa which she can call at the first sign of any problem with the machine. Skilled and experienced people at the General will then talk her through almost any crisis.

A power failure could spell trouble for the MacKinnons if it lasted long enough. If Ron happened to be on the machine when the power went off, Mrs. MacKinnon explained, she would have to find out quickly how long the outage would last. If it was going to be any length of time, the machine has a hand crank to enable the family to pump the blood through the machine by hand until the tubes could all be disconnected. Then it might be necessary to drive to Ottawa if the failure was of any duration.

The machine consists of several parts. There is the artificial kidney itself, a monitoring system, a pump and water purification system. Water from the tap is purified by cylinders, each valued at $400., and is then mixed in a ratio of 34 to 1 with a concentrate to make the dialysate, a liquid that combined with the blood enables the artificial kidney to remove the impurities in the blood.

The monitoring equipment keeps close tabs on the pressure and flow rate of blood out of the body and back into it. It also monitors the temperature of the blood and sialysate, and checks for leaks. A warning beep can be heard if anything goes wrong. Two tubes run from Rons arm to the machine. One is from an artery that carries blood out of his body, and the other a vein taking the purified blood back into his body.

The machine was delivered and set up by people from Ottawa and if any problems develop they will come and do service work.

It's not an ideal life, but Ron MacKinnon isn't complaining. Having the machine, no matter where it is located, is a blessing compared to what was available as recently as a decade ago.

Lois Hanes chosen for Adult Protective Service Worker

Mrs. Lois Hanes has been appointed to the position of Adult Service Worker for Dundas County. The announcement was made at the recent meeting of the Board of Governors of Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Hanes who holds a Bachelor of Arts degree and a Bachelor of Social Work degree is the wife of Lee Hanes, a native of the Matilda Township hamlet of Hainsville. Mr. and Mrs. Hanes are living in Chesterville.

In her new job, Mrs. Hanes will be working with the adult retarded and their families in Dundas County to ensure optimum use of services and facilities available in our area and thereby ensure that the retarded are able to lead as normal and useful a life as may be possible under the circumstances.

In other hospital news, it was noted that all arrangements had been finalized for the president and the vice president of the board and the chief of staff to attend the annual convention of the Ontario Hospital Association at the Sheraton Centre in Toronto from November 6 to 9. Several members of the hospital staff will also be going to this concention and they include the administrator, the director of nursing and the business manager.

2. Details of the Disaster Exercise held on October 1, 1977 were given to the Board, but in view of the fact that not all of the reports in this regard have been received, it was decided that a further detailed discussion of the various aspects of this exercise be had by the Management and Finance Committees once a complete analysis of all the reports becomes available.

The renovation program, including the installation of the new X-Ray equipment, has now been completed and it was decided to ask the Public Relations Committee to further review the matter of possible arrangements for an official opening and open house in connection with this program and make recommendations to the Board in this regard.

The renovation program, including the installation of the new X-Ray equipment, has now been completed and it was decided to ask the Public Relations Committee to further review the matter of possible arrangements for an official opening and open house in connection with this program and make recommendations to the Board in this regard.

No further information was available concerning the eventual establishment of a District Health Council for our area (S.D.G. Counties and the Counties of Prescott and Russell), other than certain items of general information gleaned from the area weeklies and the recent issues of the O.H.A.'s "For Your Information" pamphlets.

The matter of the planning for a daycare surgery unit is still being studied and no further reports were available to the Board at this time.

Arrangements were made for the acceptance of the previously approved quotation for the performance of an insurance appraisal by Coopers Appraisal Ltd., and the Board was informed that this company would start its work in late October or early November.

The report from the Medical Staff, signed by Dr. G.N. Houze, the Chief of Staff was read to the Board by Mr. H.P. Stel, Administrator. In his report the Chief of Staff made mention of the decision to allow the nursing staff to wear uniforms to and from work,

Cardinal Legion

They sponsor the Boy Scouts and Cubs in Cardinal; contribute financial support to the junior hockey and fastball teams; and the Minor Sports Association; and make donations to all charitable organizations seeking funds for their recent work.

A recent effort was during the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystropy Annual Labor Day Weekend Telethon which saw $645.70 raised. An added effort was put in by one of the members who auctioned off his shirt, socks, and shoes that day.

Perhaps their biggest effort comes when they stage the "Clearwater Regatta". This is an international event that involves the effort of many people over a long period of planning.

A note of thanks is always appreciated and Branch 105 is always grateful to it's members for the effort they produce in making their Legion a successful one.

So, when a note of thanks was received from the members of the team that was recreating the 1681-82 Lasalle Expedition this past summer, no doubt the kindness of the Branch membership had been spread by these 25 young men from Chicago who succeeeded in accomplishing their task. It was made that much easier because of the Cardinal Branch.

Helping veterans, involving itself in the community, by supporting both physically and financially, the Legion Branch stands as a pillar in community spirit.

Many will automatically pass the Legion building and see or hear about all the parties, dances, and get-togethers that occur there.

But as the present President of Branch 105 C. Levere stated in his annual report for the year of 1977, "by this you can see that the Legion does more than just hold bingos and drink beer" and by the long list of accomplishments, they hardly have enough time.

All those parties, dances, and get-togethers are events that benefit the community and it's members. It is an organization the community of Cardinal should be proud and grateful to have within it's area.

Present executive of Branch 105 is: President C. Levere; 1st Vice President B. Patrick; 2nd Vice President C. Farmer; Secretary Wm. Lilligan; Treasurer Ray Hall & Lloyd Sherman; Sgt. at Arms Wm. Crafts; Welfare Officer Fred Byers; Past President Reg. Farmer.

A plaque commemerating those who died from Cardinal was recently erected on the Cardinal Branch. It is in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice.

They are: World War 1 - George Leo Amell, Percy Amer, Wm. Armstrong, Percy Barton, Freeman Barton, Clinton Biccum, Cameron Coyle, Charles Hanophy, John Hughes, David Ingram, Gordon Levere, James Levere, James Monroe, Paul Reid, Walter Scott, John Tyo, Charles Watts.

World War 2 - R.B. Aitken, O. Bass, F.J. Casaubon, R.N. Casaubon, A. Halliday, J.G. Kavanaugh, H.M. McKeon, C.A. Sayeau, D.T. Serviss, W.M. Wallace, C.H. Wilson, H.J. Wilson.

Senior's complex opened at Morrisburg

Official opening ceremonies were held on Thursday for Morrisburg's senior citizen's apartments, located on Highway 2 east of the shopping plaza. The residents of the complex, which has been inhabited since early this year have chosen to name the building the Morris-Glen Court. On hand for the occasion were representatives of the Ontario Housing Corporation, CMHC (who provided the majority of the financing) and federal and provincial members of parliament. Osie Villeneuve MPP for S.D.&G. and Ed. Lumley M.P. for Stormont-Dundas listed Morrisburg as only one of their stops in Dundas County as the group moved on to open similar units in Winchester and Chesterville last week. Reeve Bill Dillabough of Morrisburg was on hand to present the residents with a colour TV as a gift from the village of Morrisburg. Taking part in the ribbon cutting ceremony were (left to right) M.P. ED Lumley, Morrisburg Reeve Bill Dillabough, Mrs. E. Byford and Mary Johnston, residents of the complex, and MPP Osie Villeneuve.

C.C. Hart attends international conference

Clifford C. Hart B.A., B.Ed., M.Ed., Principal of Seaway District High School represented St. Lawrence Valley Chapter No. 1162 as Past President and Voting Delegate of Phi Delta Kappa International at the professional fraternity's 36th Biennial Council and Third Conference on Educational Issues, held at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., from October 20 to 23.

Planning an action program for PDK's international headquarters in Bloomington, Ind., and 500 chapters located chiefly in the U.S. and Canada, 800 delegates and officers studied a list of 19 issues facing education and chose to focus heavily on five of them in the next two years.

In view of the continuing financial troubles in education, the council also resolved to set up a commission on finance.

Officers were installed in closing ceremonies Sunday to lead Phi Delta Kappa during the next two years. The fraternity now has approximately 112,000 dues-paying members.

Charles McInnis was important figure in organized agriculture

One of the most prominent men in the early days of Ontario organized agriculture, Charles W. McInnis died on November 7th at Winchester District Memorial Hospital. Mr. McInnis had been in failing health for some years, but had been in hospital for only a few days when he died, at the age of 81.

He was born on August 11th, 1896 in Matilda Township, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Colin McInnis. He spent his entire life in Matilda Township until four years ago when he and his wife moved to Morrisburg to retire.

Mr. McInnis was associated with the Ontario Hog producers, as chairman of their organizational committee from 1941 to 1943 and then president of the association until 1960. He was presented with a specially framed tribute from that group in 1961.

On May 30, 1917, he was married at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Williamsburg to Ethel. V. McIntosh who is left to mourn his loss. Mr. McInnis was associated with a large number of organizations beyond the scope of agriculture. He as a staunch member of the White Church in Matilda Township, until its closing and then later of the Iroquois United Church. In later years, he was a member of the Lakeshore United Church in Morrisburg.

In addition to his devotion to his church, Mr. McInnis was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star as well as the Oddfellows and Masonic Lodges. He was an Honourary President of the Senior Citizens Association of Morrisburg and was a life member of the Senior Citizens Association of Ingleside. Mr. and Mrs. McInnis were honoured earlier this summer on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary.

As well as his wife, Mr. McInnis is survived by two sons, Landon of Matilda Township and Carleton F. (Mike) of Morrisburg, and two daughters: Ruth (Mrs. J.O. McConnell of Winchester, and Thelma (Mrs. Gordon Metcalf) of Baie d'Urfe, Quebec. Another son Erle predeceased him. There are 22 grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren surviving as well. Mr. McInnis was predeceased by two sisters, Margaret in 1925 and Grace in 1975.

Funeral services were held on November 10th at 2 p.m. at Lakeshore United Church in Morrisburg with Rev. Brian Gee of Iroquois United Church and Rev. Charles Massey of Morrisburg officiating. Burial was in Iroquois Point Cemetery.

Bell - Adams united in candlelight ceremony

Brinston United Church was the scene of a pretty candlelight double ring ceremony at 6:00 p.m. Saturday October 8th, 1977 when Sharon Elizabeth Adams youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Adams, Brinston, was united in marriage to Jim Gordon Bell son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bell of Ottawa. The wedding was solemnized by Dr. Lester Joyce.

The church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli, yellow and white mums, large bronze mums and cattails: traditional wedding music was played by the organist Anita Gilmer, cousin of the bride. Miriam and Valerie Adams sisters of the bride and Loretta Fleming of Belleville sang The Wedding Song and The Wedding Prayer.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride looked lovely in a gown of knit jersey, banlon empire waistline with chiffon inset at the neckline, bodice outlined with guipine lace and a short train at the back. She wore a white mohair hat overlaid with a chiffon lace band and satin streamers. She carried a bouquet of talisman Roses and baby's breath.

The bride was attended by Lorna Strader, close friend of the bride as maid of honour. Nicole Roberts of Calgary, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Both attendants wore identical gowns of camello crepe fatinee with flowered matching capes: The maid of honour wore a brown mohair hat with matching floral trim. The flower girl wore floral ribbons with matching flowers in her hair. Both attendants carried bouquets of bronze mums, woods flowers and cattails.

The groom was attended by his brother Jeff as best man. The ushers were Jim Adams, brother of the bride and Jean Paul Tremblay, brother-in-law of the groom. The groom and his attendants were attired in cinnamon tuxedoes with ecru ruffled shirts. The groom wore a boutonniere of roses matching the brides bouquet. The attendants wore boutonnieres of yellow mums.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of dusty rose knit polyester and a corsage of pink carnations and yellow baby roses with matching accessories.

The groom's mother wore a floor length gown of shrimp coral crepe polyester and a corsage of white carnations and yellow baby roses with matching accessories.

Following the ceremony the wedding reception was held at the I.O.O.F. Hall, Brinston, catered to by the U.C.W. The toast to the bride was proposed by Percy Gilmer of Brinston, uncle of the bride.

For travelling the bride chose a royal blue Gaucho suit with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The happy couple are now residing at Apt. 908, 838 Pinewood Crescent, Ottawa.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honoured at a shower given by friends in Kingston, and at Brinston a miscellaneous shower given by Betty Casselman and Ruth Coons.

Seaway reports go out this week

Special events at Seaway recently have included Remembrance Day, for which last Friday was a holiday from school and upcoming this week is everyone's favourite — report cards.

This year instead of the old reliable chocolate bars the students council has launched a new type of fund raising event called a label drive. The labels are personnel address labels which can be used for letters etc. This is a new type of drive and to this point it has enjoyed very little success. It can work if YOU the students and public will help support our school. Money raised goes to worthwhile causes such as commencement.

The senior girls basketball team under the coaching of Mr. Stevens placed first in their division and are now in the league finals. The junior girls did not fare so well but under the coaching of Miss Sisty they played well and finished a respectable third.

Recently our school sent a junior and senior team to the E.O.S.S.A. cross country meet. The participants proved they could stand up to anyone with Doug Kennedy placing 34th in a field of over 200.

After school on Thursday October 27 the Christian Fellowship group got together for a supper meeting. Many people were willing to help decorate for the occasion. The group also made enough money from the sale of cookies and popcorn balls to send $30.00 to the United Nations International Childrens Emergency Fund alias UNICEF.

Awards night held for Iroquois junior golfers

On Thursday October 27, The Junior Golfers closing supper was held at the Iroquois Golf Club.

A fine hot supper was prepared by the mothers of the junior golfers and served by Mrs. Betty Styles, Hazel Ace, Mary Bueley and Mrs. Lapier. Thanks were extended on behalf of the Junior Golfers by Ralph Kennedy to all the mothers and a special thanks to the ladies who served the meal.

The head table was introduced by Wayne Styles, consisting of Club President Russ Fader, Club House Chairman Len Scott, Junior Golf Convenor Ed Edgar, and our Guest Speaker Mr. Dick Proulx, a well known golf and hockey sportsman in the Cornwall area. A golf film was shown to the boys and, a question and answer period was presided over by Mr. Proulx, who also talked on some of his hockey experiences, particularly when he played in the European hockey league and with the Cornwall Hull Flyers when they went to the Finals of the Allen Cup. He was thanked by Wayne Styles on behalf of the Juniors.

2 Man Team - Juniors - 1st - Wayne Styles and Ralph Kennedy; 2nd - Kevin Whitteker and Ken Lapier. Presented by Russ Fader.

Tombstone Tournament Winners: David Ace and David Daisley. Presented by Russ Fader.

A surprise presentation of a beautiful wallet and card was made to Ed Edgar by the Junior Golfers. The presentation was made by Wayne Styles.

Ed Edgar thanked the club president and the executive for the marvellous support given to the Juniors during the season, and thanks to the Juniors for their fine co-operation during the season, unfortunately our President of the Juniors Kevin Fader was not present as he has gone into the armed forces. We wish him all the best in his new career.

A funny film was then shown to top off the evening, while some of the boys enjoyed a game of Bumper Pool.

TIPS ABOUT TOWN

This week, Joy Parks takes over the Post's "Tips About Town" column, a weekly offering of news about groups, organizations, social activities and "people news". Joy is no stranger to residents of Iroquois and area, having lived here all her life. She is an accomplished writer as well with several of her poems and essays having been published in New York and Toronto literary magazines. If you have any news that you think would make an interesting addition to Joy's column, call her at the Post at 652-4806 or at home at 652-2268.

This week, dispite its seemingly silent cover of first snow, we find Iroquois still humming with activities for both young and old.

To all young basketball wizards, why not turn those skills into cash and prizes? How? It's easy! On Saturday, November 19, beginning at 9 a.m. (and lasting all day), the Knights of Columbus will be sponsoring a Basketball Free Throw Championship, in the gym at Seaway District High. It's open to both boys and girls, ages 11-14.

It works on a 4-step system, beginning at the local level, climbing upward through District and Regional competition, finally ending at a State Championship play-off. Last year, approximately 20,000 Ontario children participated, and this year, 10 area schools have been notified of the competition. There are four chances to win, as prizes will go to the top scoring boy and girl in each age group.

These winners will move up to the next catagory and continue to represent this area in district competition. So come out and shoot a few baskets for fun and prizes. For more information, contact Ed Edgar, or any Knights of Columbus member.

Later on in the evening of November 19, the Parish Council of St. Cecilia's - St. Mary's will hold a Parish Dance, at the Iroquois Civic Centre, from 9 till 1. Tickets are $5.00 per couple, and available from any member of the Parish Council, or at the Iroquois Royal Bank.

We are pleased to announce that four ladies of the local Legion Auxiliary, Cora Easter, Mable Roberts, Doreen Bailey and Edna Hagarty will be travelling to Smith Falls to participate in a Regional Euchre Tournament, for Zone G-3. Very best of luck, ladies, in this special tournament.

The Iroquois Brownies have been hard at work in the past few weeks preparing for their official enrollment exercises later this year. We've been informed that the entire pack is made up of tweenies who are in Brownies for the very first time, and have to work especially hard to learn all the Brownie laws and promises, before they can become true Brownies. All the best girls, and have fun.

For light opera fans, the magic of Gilbert and Sullivan will be presented by "The "Western Savoyards", a trio of entertainers who bring to the stage, vignettes of such famous works as "The Mikado", "Trial by Jury", "The Gondoliers" and "Iolanthe". Curtain time is 8:00 at Seaway District High on Monday, November 21st.

And best of all, it's free

That just about wraps it up for this week. Don't forget, if your club or organization is doing something special, or if you know something that might be of interest to the community, share it with us, and let us help you spread the word.

IN MEMORIAM

COLLIGAN - In loving memory of a dear son and brother Dale who passed away November 16, 1973.
It doesn't seem like you've been gone
Four years ago to-day
But Dale your love and memories
Are with us here to stay
When someone loses such a son
Their hearts just break in two
And no one knows but only us
How much we loved you
There are many words we could say
That we hold within our hearts
But to put it down in writing
We'd know not where to start
So we'd like to say just one more thing
To parents everywhere
Cherish your son while he's alive
It's so sad when he's not here.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Mom and Dad, brothers and sisters. 22-1p

Iroquois & Cardinal combine 'B' teams

Due to low registrations in both Iroquois D.M.H. and Cardinal M.H. both organizations decided to combine their B systems. Lasts season the B teams played exhibition games which proved too trying in finding teams to play and lack of players on some teams.

This year we will combine that Atom B, Pee Wee B, Bantam B, Overflow Midget players have been released to Cardinal by the O.D.M.H.A. The ice time will be provided equally by the two towns.

Their will be a coach from each town for each B team whenever possible. This will be a league for the B teams made up of the Prescott house league and Edwardsburg house league, and combined teams of Iroquois and Cardinal.

We, as an executive hope this will be a league for the B teams made up of the Prescott house.

We, as an executive hope this will improve our B system. The executive hopes that all boys and parents will co-operate to make the 1977-78 a most successful season for all the players concerned.

What good thing can be said of November? The first "measureable" snow (as they say at the weather office) has come already, and seems inclined to stay around for a while. There are even a few icy patches which must be approached with caution; it is almost more than one can cope with after that beautiful Indian Summer.

However, the bright spots in this whole situation have already put in an appearance, with the arrival of the Bluejays. They have been around for some weeks, but it takes the snow and cold to bring them to the feeders. We watched two of these beautiful birds as they took turns at emptying the small feeder which holds sunflower seeds.

Actually the little coconut feeder is supposed to be for Chickadees only, but on a first come first served basis, the Sparrows and the Jays have made quite a hole in the seed bag. Evening Grosbeaks are cruising around, but have not yet come to the feeder. They are the world's champion sunflower - eaters.

During the mild weather, the sparrows had become quite fond of bathing; they had almost ignored the water in the summer with this new activity going on, we left the bath in its place, and it is now overflowing with snow. Those crazy Sparrows have now come up with a new routine - a "drink" of the fluffy white after a hearty meal of mixed seed. Sparrow - watching can be a very interesting past time while we wait for the regular winter birds to come.

Snowstorm results in local accidents

The first snowstorm of the season on the weekend resulted in several accidents, according to OPP at Morrisburg. At least three minor accidents can be traced directly to the slippery roads, with the most serious resulting in minor injuries to several people and $1,300. damage to two vehicles.

A southbound vehicle on Highway 31, operated by Thomas McLean of R.R. 3 Chesterville skidded on a patch of ice and hit a northbound car operated by Tymen Vantfoort of R.R. 1, Chesterville on Sunday. Barry Casselman of Williamsburg and David Byers of R.R. 3 Chesterville suffered minor injuries in the accident.

In other OPP news, officers at the Morrisburg detachment are searching for a 1975 GMC pick-up truck stolen from the home of Peter Groenendyk of P-G Marine in Morrisburg on Saturday night.

The detachment also reports the theft of a CB radio from a vehicle parked on Lakeshore Drive in Morrisburg. Officers at Morrisburg have recovered a car stolen from Montreal recently.

Good Companions see slides of Alaska

The Good Companions senior citizens group of Iroquois and Matilda held their regular meeting on Tuesday November 8th. Four birthdays and one wedding anniversary were recorded.

The group voted a donation of $100. to the village council for the repair and replacement of chairs and tables at the Iroquois Civic Centre.

Rev. Myron Maxted of Winchester presented pictures and commentary of his trip to Alaska. The slides were of excellent quality and were enjoyed by all. The commentary was appropriate and well presented.

The group is working on plans for a bus trip on the 18th to Ottawa to see the Mum show at the Experimental Farm and other points of interest.

TV TALK

A few weeks ago, I mentioned that this year television was taking the two Godfather films, adding some out-takes and coming up with a four-part series entitled The Godfather Saga. If my memory serves me correctly, I even mentioned CTV in my prediction. And now you're wondering why CTV has simply run The Godfather and The Godfather II while NBC is running The Godfather Saga. Well, it seems that CTV is running both the movies and the saga. The edited saga will appear on the Canadian network later in the season.

WHAT'S COMING - The Godfather II, Part 1 is broadcast on Wednesday night at 9 p.m. on Ch. 13. Ch. 18 runs another Flash Gordon film, "Mars Attacks the World", at midnight. Ch. 13 offers the 1940 comedy, "The Philadelphia Story", starring Katherine Hepburn and Cary Grant. That's also at midnight.

On Thursday at 10 p.m., Ch. 5 presents a one-hour special featuring Neil Diamond and his music. Ch. 18's Thursday night comedy classic is the 1938 film "If I had a Million", starring Gary Cooper, George Raft and Charles Laughton. That's at midnight.

On Friday at 9 p.m. Ch 7 offers "The Three Muskateer's" (the 1974 version) starring Michael York, Raquel Welch and Richard Chamberlain. At midnight, Ch. 11 runs "The Hindenburg", starring George C. Scott.

Saturday afternoon offers football. At 1 p.m., Ch. 4 covers the College Bowl from Varsity Stadium in Toronto. And at 2 p.m., Ch. 13 carries the CFL Eastern Final from Montreal. At 7:30, Ch. 4 presents a half-hour documentary, Nor-Way to Broadcasting, on the birth and growth of broadcasting in Norway, a commemoration of 51 years of broadcasting in that country. And at 8 p.m., the Boston Bruins meet the Toronto Maple Leafs on Ch. 4.

On Sunday at 4:30, Ch. 4 covers the CFL Western Final game from Edmonton. At 7 p.m., Global presents a one-hour special with Buck Owens taped at Ontario Place. At 8 p.m., Global presents a three-hour special in tribute to Elvis. At 8:30, the CBC presents the first of the Imperial Oil specials, The Newcomers, on the people who came to settle Canada. This first episode is a prologue, looking at the Tsimshian Indian people of BC who were the last to come into contact with the European settlers. This is the first of seven parts broadcast on Ch. 4. At 9 p.m., Ch. 13 runs the conclusion of The Godfather II. At 10 p.m., Ch. 4 looks at the history of the Canadian Film Awards, interviews some '77 ETROG winners and shows clips of top films in All About the Canadian Film Awards. At 10:30, Ch. 18 runs the Mae West film, "Goin' to Town".

On Monday night at 8 p.m., Ch. 13 presents a Lucille Ball special, with guests Gale Gordon and Vivian Vance. At 9 p.m. Superspecial pays a tribute to the Beatles. Guests include Melanie, David Clayton Thomas and Blood Sweat and Tears, Frankie Valli, Melissa Manchester and Ritchie Havens. That's on Ch. 4. At 10 p.m., Ch. 4. presents Airplanes at War, an examination of the battle over lower passenger airline rates, particularly being waged by Feddie Laker

"But," Mr. Comtois added, "the board must reserve the right to offer this increased program only where it proves to be feasible".

The Iroquois school does not now have the Core program as it is outlined in the proposal. If the proposal is accepted by the board and approved by the parents, the Core program would increase, one grade each year, from the present 20 minutes per day to 40 minutes. The program includes conversational French up to grade 3 and then the introduction of written French.

A number of those in the audience put forward the proposition that youngsters graduating from school could do well to have more instruction in the basic '3 R's' rather than more French instruction.

Mention was made of an experimental program now underway at Nationview Public School where senior students are taking Geography, with French as the language of instruction. The principal there has been quoted as saying that the youngsters are learning French in Geography class, but are not learning Geography in the French language. Mr. Comtois countered by saying that the students in that class did not have the basic grounding in French that was necessary for such a program, but that it was a pilot project in any case. He added that there was a possibility that the course would be offered in French next year at Seaway High so that those youngsters could pursue the subject further.

In answer to criticism that the French that was learned in school was not geared to helping students cope on the street and in the factory, Mr. Comtois admitted that he was not happy with the amount of conversational French that was being taught and added that he was hopeful that the emphasis could be taken off written French.

Hospital board meets

which hitherto had been discouraged from an infection control point of view, while he also mentioned that Dr. E. Duke of Ottawa will be lecturing to the Medical and Nursing Staffs on November 15, 1977.

In addition, Dr. Houze reported that extensive reports had been received from the Medical Records Committee, the Joint Conference Committee and the Disaster Committee.

Copies of a proposal to purchase a new obstetrical table was also distributed to the Medical Staff for study, review and comment.

The report from the Admission and Discharge Committee showed average lengths of stay of 8.1 days and 46.1 days for active and chronic care and a decrease in patient days of approximately 1300 days as compared with the budget for the period ending September 30, 1977.

Mrs. Irene Wallace, the President of the Auxiliary, provided details of the recently held Annual meeting of the Auxiliary and she informed the Board that all offices of the Auxiliary Executive had been filled and that committee membership would be dealt with at a meeting of the Executive and Unit Directors, which is to be held on November 3, 1977.

Mrs. Wallace informed the Board that she and Mrs. Norma Hill and Mrs. Olive Cass would be attending the Annual Convention of the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, Ontario from Nov. 6-9, 1977 and that a Fashion Show is to be held at the Winchester Community Centre on November 14, 1977.

Mrs. Wallace also informed the Board that the Auxiliary would soon start working on its plans for the construction and operation of the tuckshop in the main lounge of the hospital, the details of which will then be submitted to the Board for its approval.

The administration reported that Staff awards for longterm service were awarded to Mr. John Gray, Chief X-Ray Technician for 15 yrs. service on October 1, 1977 and to Mrs. Susan McMillan, R.N., for ten years service on October 2, 1977. The Administrator also reported that Mrs. Lynda Delorme, Staff Physiotherapist spoke at a luncheon of the Brinston Senior Citizens Group, "Helping Hands" on the topic "Physical Fitness for Senior Citizens".

Except for indications that an approximate 5.9% increase may be available to the hospital for the fiscal period April 1, 1978 to March 31, 1979, no further information has so far been received by the hospital from the Ministry of Health with reference to the preparation of the budget for the 1978-79 fiscal period.

The Administrator reported that official presentation had been completed with the Rotary Club of Chesterville (Therapeutic Chair - $250.00), and the Nationview Public School (900.00 towards the purchase of a new emergency crash-cart and related equipment), while the Riverside Heights Women's Institute has pledged $299.99 to cover the cost of a new wheelchair.
