"BIG DOUG" IN A NEW ROLE

Many local and area people are being used as "extras" in the filming of the famous Tom Sawyer Story at Upper Canada Village and in other areas like Riverside Park and Morrison Island. This photo (by Smith) shows "Big Doug" Casselman, looking very different without his hockey or fastball gear, in which he is more familiar to his fans. It is the "Pic-Nic" scene, and Doug is keeping his eye on some local youngsters who are acting also.

Warden Entertains at Annual Banquet

Carlton F. McInnis, reeve of Morrisburg, and Warden of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry this year, was host on Friday evening last at the annual Warden's Banquet held at the Canadian Legion in Cornwall.

A steady rainfall failed to damp en the enthusiasm of the several hundred guests, gathered to pay a well deserved tribute to the retiring Warden.

Mr. McInnis, with his wife, Isabel, welcomed the guests at a reception prior to the banquet, attended by fellow councillors from the three counties, many political figures, and hundreds of friends.

Speaking to his guests at the banquet, Mr. McInnis made special mention of the importance of our traditional system of government, which is being eroded by directives of senior levels. The Counties Council, in particular, he said was important to the democratic ideal, because it kept the government close to the people. He referred to earlier description of council by the Cornwall daily paper as a "dying form of government", and believed that the implied criticism was unjustified. He cited the accomplishments of Counties' Council this year, and in recent years, and stated: "if county councils die, it will be because they are arbitrarily killed by a senior level of government. They no intention of committing suicide.

Mr. McInnis had a special word of thanks for Gerard Massie, the chairman of the counties' finance committee, and in the tradition of council, next year's warden whom he described as a good and useful friend during the year. The Warden also introduced his parents, family, and several friends. He noted that it was Morrisburg night for the United Counties, because the guest speaker, George E. Beavers, a former reeve of the village was guest speaker, the entertainment was by the Seaway Singers, and music for the dance which followed the banquet was by Del & Rog, a popular Morrisburg group. He had a little advice for his guests, "Keep your government close to the people. A dollor spent by your municipality gives you a far greater value than dollars spent by senior governments.

Guest speaker for the evening was George E. Beavers, Morrisburg industrialist, recently returned from the Trade Fair at Peking in The Peoples' Republic of China. Mr. Beavers was introduced by Mrs. Lucien Lamoureux substituting for her husband who had been scheduled for the introduction, but was suffering from laryngitis.

In his remarks, Mr. Beavers told of his impression of the Chinese people, whom he described as above all, a happy people, totally dedicated to their cause, and to their form of government. They are superbly organized, contented in their daily life, and yet ambitious to push forward to what they consider their destiny as one of the world's foremost nations.

The speaker felt that further expansion of trade with China is possible, not only in basic foodstuffs, as recent huge wheat sales indicate, but also in manufactured goods. For this to come about, he said, we must be willing to accept the Chinese for what they are.

Thanks to the speaker of the evening was expressed by Keith Graham, reeve of Chesterville, who presented Mr. McInnis with a copy of "Croil's Dundas" the first history of the county, written by James Croil, and recently reprinted by a new process.

Morrisburg Travellers Enjoy European Tour - Part One

Twenty-five young-at-heart travellers led by Gordon and Marny Thom on Sept. 10 set off from Morrisburg for Dorval Airport. A crowd of well-wishers waved us on. The flikht across the ocean to the International Airport, Paris was smooth and restful. Most of Monday we spent resting and getting used to the change in time Our tour of Paris passed many buildings—the one where the Viet Nam peace talks were being held. The Notre Dame Cathedral rose windows are out of this world. That night we ate in the Chevalier a la Ronde built underground in the time of the Crusades. Next day we went out to Versailles and visited the Palace and saw the Hall of Mirrors where the treaty was signed on June 28, 1919. That night some visited two night clubs, the second Moulin Rouge where beautiful costumes, dancing girls, a magician and dolphins in a pool were very entertaining.

Away nex morning, Sept. 14 through country lands of France to the Swiss border. Switzerland's majestic mountains, valleys and chalets we loved. Our hotel was in Lucerne. There we had a walking tour over Chapel Bridge and Mill Bridge, past the Lion Monument to a famous watch store. That night we had a boat trip on Lake Vulsteuterzer. We ate cheese fondue, heard Swiss yodellers and a horn blower with horn about 15 feet long and saw ladies dressed in striking costumes of different parts of Switzerland. Here, too, we had a delightful surprise when we met the Jack Greers and family from Morrisburg who were visiting at Lars, just across the border. Next day, we climber turn after turn to St. Gotthart Pass, about 7.000 ft. high. Our driver, who was excellent, from Holland thought we might have to put the bus on the train for there was snow in the Alps and he had no chains. However, we made it and threw snow at one another when we reached the top. On our way south we passed the monument to William Tell and across the border to Italy where we took the Autostrade, a marvellous high way to Melan. The beautiful Milan Cathedral was being repaired so we didn't enter. The flat country along this excellent highway to Rome is splendid farming country — fruits, grapes and vegetables. At last we reached the city of seven hills, Rome. Our tour on Monday took us to many famous sites — the square of the People, palace of justice, the Pantheon, the Capitol hill steps built by Michaelangelo, the Forum where all meetings were held, the Coliseum where all the sports were held and last of all beautiful St. Peters. his you have to see to enjoy and appreciate. That night we celebrated the Thom's wedding anniversary.

Next day some of us went south to Naples and by hydrofoil to the Isle of Capri. It was a beautiful sunny day. We landed and climbed by small buses over a winding road to the Europa Palace Hotel where we had lunch. The blue grot to was an enchanting spot. We sat on the floor of small boats, went through an opening in the rock and went around the grotto where the water is blue as can be and twenty-five feet deep. We went back to Rome by way of Sorrento and Pompeu and visited a cameo factory. Here we will leave you and go north next week.

"The Cost of High Living"

"Consumers are plagued not by the high cost of living, but the cost of high living", says Gordon Hill, President of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

In a Farm and Country editorial, he said "Housewives who blame their over-budget grocery bill on farmers, do not understand the farmer's situation".

Hill is convinced many consumers live in a fool's paradise. They expect pay raises, themselves, but refuse them to the farmer. "It does not work that way," he says. "Approximately 93 cents of each dollar that a farmer earns goes to cover costs. The other seven cents is his return for invested capital and labour".

The farmer is lucky to get a penny out of the consumer's dime, claims Hill. He is convinced that if consumers understood they would not ask the farmers to sell food for less than it costs to produce.

"The penny a farmer does get is not enough to cover escalating input costs. Each time steelworkers get a raise, machinery costs go up". Today a farmer pays five times more for a 3-plow tractor than he did in 1946.

"But has he really passed this on to the consumer? No—In 1955, one hour's wages would buy 2½ dozen eggs. Last year one hour's pay bought 7.4 dozen". In 1949 a man had to work 20 hours to feed his family of four. Last year, the same family could eat better from 11 hours pay.

"Farmers are people too. Their families deserve as high a standard of living as the plumber's and the teacher's".

Hill charges Mrs. Consumer with inflating her own grocery bill. She is gullible, often spending more on the sophisticated processing, fancy packages, gimmicks, and advertising than the food itself. "This is where the dollars go", he said.

One terms which has been used freely in both the current election campaign and that of 1968 is "Trudeaumania".

In Webster's Universal Dictionary, the word "mania" is defined as "madness . . . mental derangement". To suggest that the many thousands of Canadians who supported or voted for Mr. Trudeau in 1968, who are supporting him and will vote for him in 1972 are the victims of "madness or mental derangement", is to our mind, insulting and unworthy of the leader of any party.

COMMENDABLE HONESTY: This sign was on the door of a shoe shine parlour in Charleston, W. Va.: "Closed Today — boys drunk"!

Death Penalty Rejected

The United Church of Canada is against bringing back the death penalty for murdr. Any murder.

Capital punishment was one of the more controversial issues before General Council. The main question, however, was not the death penalty in general. Council was overwhelmingly against it. Only a few agreed with C. S. Yule, Waterloo, Ont.: "I am a retertionist . . .The only way a law can be a deterrent is through th certainty that a penalty will be exacted".

However, many questioned the wisdom of removing the death penalty for killing policemen or prison guards. Council decided to ask the government to find alternatives to capital punishmnt as a deterrent to the killing of those involved in the maintenance of law and order.

Those church members who agree with the Council's stand were asked to write their MPs about. It decided not to ask all church members to do so. "I have a younger brother who is a policeman. We have discussed this and we disagree on it", the Rev. Ralph Donnelly, Winnipeg, said. "We both are members of the United Church. I cannot in all conscience, ask him to write and ask for abolition of capital punishment".

Many of the commissioners who voted almost unanimously against capital punishment, were influenced by a moving statement by the Rev. Hans Gruppe, Hamilton.

"I am probably the only person here who has been condemned to death", he told a shocked assembly. "I was a member of the German Navy who opposed the policies of the Nazi government. If you support capital punishment, you probably would have to support the legal right of that government to kill me. Perhaps you can imagine the agony of knowing you have to die in five days. I am alive today only because the war ended a few days before my executiondate".

It is really very surprising how far we can look or think back over the years, sometimes, and recall an old song, for instance. We can remember the melody, perhaps all of the words or most of them, and then the feelings of nostalgia very nearly overwhelm us with memories of long ago.

I expect, like me, that you will know and love the song and words of "When you come to the end of a perfect day," and I think it was written about 50 or 60 years ago by an American lady, but I am afraid I have never remmebered or maybe never known her name.

Most of us have known the two verses, but very few know that she wrote a third verse, but it was never published. The story goes that soon after she had written the song, her husband, greatly beloved by her, pased away, and in memory of him she wrote:

"Though we part at the end of a perfect day
And years since we met intervene,
We can cherish the joy of that perfect day
As we think of what might have been;
While God knows best why our paths must part
And one takes the lonely way,
Still we pray, hand in hand in that perfect land,
We may walk in God's perfect way."

I have noticed in the last recent days that there have been many who have passed on to their rest, from the scattered communities around and including Morrisburg, and they do indeed leave a gap. Folks miss seeing them. To those who have been closest, it is and must be a real comfort to know and feel where their loved ones have gone. In spite of the first agony of parting, life has to go on around us, and we learn slowly, indeed slowly, to smile again.

This third, unknown verse is a beautiful farewell of faith and thanksgiving . . . and I am proud and privileged to be able to pass it on to you, at this thanksgiving time in Canadian life.

Bonds Available on Payroll Savings Plan

For the 27th consecutive year Canada Savings Bonds are again being offered to employees in over 5,000 Canadian business establishments through the Payroll Savings Plan. Last year, Canadian employees purchased a record amount of Canada Savings Bonds through this plan.

This wide popularity bears out the suggestion that Canadians in all walks of life believe in a planned savings program. They have found that one safe and sure way to reach their financial goals is a planned savings program. They have found that one safe and sure way to reach their financial goals is through the purchase of Canada Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan where they work.

This plan has proven to be an easy and painless way to save money by having a few dollars deducted from weekly earnings and watching it grow into a lump sum that materializes in the form of a paid-up Canada Savings Bond For less than 30c a day an employee can buy a $100 bond. It is expected that this year the demand for bonds by employees in many factories, offices and other establishments will exceed last year's record.

In addition to adding a major degree of stability to their own economic program, Canadian employees will be sharing in Canada's continuing growth and development by providing an important segment in the Federal Government's debt management program.

This will mark the 27th anniversary of CSB, and during the period 1946-1971 inclusive, nearly $5.5 billion worth of the bonds have been purchased through pay roll savings plans.

Last year, for example, more than 675,000 employees of over 5,000 establishments bought a record $328-million worth of Canada Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

A growing number of industries and establishments have instituted this plan for their employees as an easy and convenient way for them to reach a savings target and invest in a safe and profitable security.

The employee simply places an order with his employer for the amount of Canada Savings Bonds he wishes to purchase. Each payday, a specific amount of money is deducted from his wages or salary to pay for the bonds. These payments are usually spread over a 12-month period.

An attractive feature of Canada Savings Bonds is that they can be cashed at any time by the holder for their full face value plus earned interest.

The new series, provides an annual average yield of 7.30 per cent if held to maturity in 12 years. The annual rate of interest is 5.5 per cent for the first year; 7 per cent for the second year; 7.50 per cent for each of the next four years and 7.75 per cent for each of the final six years.

A compound interest feature is again incorporated providing for 3 extra interest certificates during the 12 year life of the bond. The purchaser of a $100 bond will receive $233.25 when it matures, November 1, 1987, if he holds all interest coupons and compound interest certificates uncashed until then.

If an investor holds his $100 bond, and its first seven regular coupons uncashed until November 1, 1979 a first compound interest certificate becomes payable on that date for $11.75. Similarly, if the $100 bond and the five remaining coupons are held uncashed until November 1, 1984, a second compound interest certificate becomes payable for $6.00. If he holds his bond until maturity without cashing any of the regular annual interest coupons or compound interest certificates, a final compound interest certificate also becomes payable for $26.50. This brings the total proceeds at maturity of a $100 bond to $233.25.

During the 1971 CSB campaign, more than 232,000 employees in establishments in Ontario alone purchased a record total of more than $117.5-million worth of Canada Savings Bonds.

Women Authors, Past and Present

"Most women writers — past and present — have had to fit their work in somewhere between the cleaning, the feeding of their children and the dishes," says author Seon Manley. They've always faced obstacles, she adds, not the least of which were the men in their lives. Mrs. Manley describes some early writers in her new book, "Oh, Those Extraordinary Women, or the Joys of Literary Lib" (Chilton). She find that today's woman writer continues to have much in common with them.

Women writers, according to Seon Manley, have always had to give top priorities to their household chores. The letters of the Bronte sisters, she points out, are filled with such comments as, "We must stop and peel some potatoes now." Men, on the other hand, Mrs. Manley notes, generally had the assistance of their wives, who took care of their comfort at home, as well as their manuscripts The wife, she explains, would often type the manuscript and then deliver it to her husband's publisher.

Domesticated Creatures

Many of the early women writers were quite "domesticated creatures," according to Seon Manley. "They had large, often enormous families and interestingly enough were terribly well-adjusted." In her view, being a wife and a mother gives a woman more structure and continuity in her life. Running a home, she believes is a "mollifying and comforting" thing for women writers to do. "When you drop the writing and do even the most routine household chores, it takes you very much from the inside to the outside world," she says. "This is very good for creativity," she adds.

A number of early women writers, Mrs. Manley observes, were under the influence of "irascible" fathers during their growing-up years. "We would not have had the really great flowering of such women novelists as George Eliot and the Brontes," she maintains, "without the repression of these Victorian Papas." (Creativity, she believes, "goes hand in hand" with repression.) At the same time, these repressive fathers were supportive, Seon Manley points out. "They encouraged the literacy of their daughters by giving them plenty of access to books and magazines."

Long Struggle

When these women began to publish, however, they had to be surreptitious, Sean Manley reports. "Publishing wasn't proper for a woman, so they generally kept it from Papa." Yet they went to "extraordinary lengths" to get their work in print, she says. Some wrote children's books or translated the works of others to get into publishing. A number wrote under "noms de plume" — using masculine or ambiguous names—to hide the fact they were women. "After a long and difficult struggle," Seon Manley reports, "they finally got their own names on their own work."

"I don't believe there has been a writer yet who didn't want to publish," Mrs. Manley asserts. But today's woman, she adds, isn't held back the way her predecessors were. "If a woman wants to write, there's bound to be someone — perhaps a publisher or a teacher — who will be more supportive of her than people in the past even were."

Guides to the Lifestyle of A Gentleman Adventurer

GUIDES to the lifestyle of a "Gentleman Adventurer" were made available for the first time this week, when the Company of Gentlemen Adventurers held its innaugural meeting.

The Gentleman Adventurer's lifestyle epitomizes that of a larger group of "active young achievers" discovered during a nation wide survey of people and attitudes.

The active young achiever was found to be young in outlook, progressive, slightly unconventional, but extremely discerning.

Mr. Don McGiverin, Managing Director, Retail Stores, Hudson's Bay Company said: "Although his income is higher than average, money is not his prime objective. He is concerned with issues and people. He has an insatiable appetite for knowing and understanding what is going on in the world. He has an unbounded curiosity and a desire to experiment . . . and we decided to name him "The Gentleman Adventurer".

At the launch of the Company of Gentlemen Adventurers, Mr. McGiverin revealed details of the opening of 20 new department stores, 11 in Ontario, and of a new campaign for Hudson's Bay F.O.B. Whisky.

Cocktails, with names like Flamingo Over Barrie, Fistfull of Bliss, and First Outa Bed were created and mixed for the occasion by Canada's top barmen.

Flaming Crepe F.O.B. was prepared and served by Jean-Claude Terrier of L'Omelette, and guests played sophisticated graphiti games allowing for the display of their wit and imagination.

There were Girl Adventurers too, in outfits designed for the event by Pat McDonagh, one of Canada's leading designers . . . outfits, which are likely to be seen at many G.A. get-togethers in the coming party season. Every guest received hand inscribed, elegantly boxed, personal identity gifts carrying the new G.A. seal.

And for future reading, there were five Gentleman Adventurer Guides to: Stylish Entertainment, Great Parties, Dinner for Two, the Ups and Downs of Toronto, and, of course, Cocktails.

The Guides and information on the Company of Gentlemen Adventurers may be obtained by writing to The Company of Gentlemen Adventurers, Box 7052, Adelaide Street Post Office, Toronto.

DENTAL -TOPICS-

Supplied by The Canadian Dental Association

Although they have tested their machine only on animals so far, its inventors believe it may also eventually prove effective in the hands of dentists. However some teeth, especially those that have twisted roots or are displaced, will always have to be taken out in sections rather than whole; so dental forceps are not going to become obsolete. Also, the new instrument must be tested on patients before its value can be properly assessed, but it does promise to be a useful adjunct to dentists.

Many primitive people have a much lower rate of tooth decay than do Canadians, Americans and western Europeans.

For instance, the Eskimo was almost completely free from decay until introduced to modern foods such as sugar and other refined carbohydrates.

Apparently what makes the difference as far as the decay rate is concerned, is not the degree of civilization — but the foods eaten.

Primitive people usually eat foods low on sweets and so have less decay. Also, the so-called primitives eat many "detergent" foods that require thorough chewing, resulting in natural cleansing of the teeth and gums.

Modern man, because of his diet requires additional effort to help keep his mouth clean. He must also strengthen his muscles used for chewing through exercise.

Among the adjuncts or tools that can be used to help modern man are tooth brushes, medicated tooth picks, water sprays or irrigators, dental floss or wool, tooth pastes and the most recent innovation — chewing gum.

POWER POLLUTION

Everybody is for motherhood and apple pie but against air pollution. Or is everybody?

Apple pie is holding its own but even motherhood has its opponents these days. As for air pollution, a study of private power companies across the country concluded they are lagging far behind in the fight to combat pollution.

The year-long independent study released by the Council on Economic Priorities — a nonprofit organization financed by foundations — focused on 124 plants that generate one-quarter of the nation's electric power. Among these plants, the report said, nearly half continue to burn high-sulphur oil or coal, pumping huge amounts of sulphur dioxide into the air. Sulfur oxides can dissolve marble and eat away iron and steel. They can limit visibility and cut down the light from the sun. Even low concentrations can injure the delicate tissues in our lungs.

In addition, 81 percent of the plants had no controls at all for emissions of nitrogen oxides, the gases that help form smog. And only a third of the power plants had adequate controls for soot. According to the study, most companies were spending only a fraction of one percent of their combined gross operating revenues on antipollution research and development.

Spokesmen for the power plants have strongly criticized the study, predicting that the price of electric power could more than double by 1990 and blaming environmentalists as one cause of actual or threatened power shortages.

Fighting pollution is a complicated and serious business. A business everybody should begin. To find out more about how to do it, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.

THE CITY LOVES TAXPAYERS LIKE THHIS ONE

One of this City's largest taxpayers, The First Church of Christ Scientist, in Boston, has cooperated with the City by paying in advance more than $1.5 million in property taxes.

The Church, which serves as the international headquarters for the Christian Science denomination, presented $1,506,586 to the City on September 29, more than $300,000 above what it paid last year.

The City asked a few large taxpayers to pay their taxes in advance to alleviate a potential fiscal crisis caused by the freeze of school aid funds by the State Board of Education.

This was the second consecutive year that the Church has paid property taxes in September which were not due until November 1.

For many years the Church has paid taxes on all property which is not used for actual worship purposes. This includes The Christian Science Publishing Society building, the Administration Building, and other property around the Christian Science Center.

Donald G. Lannamann, acting for Church Treasurer Roy Garrett Watson, presented the advance payment to the City. Last year, the Church paid $1,195,460 in taxes.

THANKOFFERING MEETING HELD BY U. C. W. HERE

The Thank-Offering meeting of the United Church Women took place last Thursday evening, October 5th at Lakeshore Drive United Church hall. Representatives of other Ladies' Church groups locally in Morrisburg were invited also. Mrs. Isabel York, President of the General U.C.W. of Lakeshore United Church, welcomed the Ladies and all visitors, and was in the chair for a brief business session.

Miss Alice Cameron conducted the Thank-Offering Devotional and was responsible for the well thought out address also, and this included the short-time Thanksgiving scene portrayed on the stage in the background. Music was provided by Mrs. J. Harvey, and the guest soloist was from the Anglican Church.

The Rev. Arthur, of the Leprosy Mission, Ottawa, addressed the meeting, after being introduced by the Rev. G.W. Bruce. Some thought-provoking and very poignant scenes were shown, with Mrs Bateson at the projector. Books and literature were for sale, and the proceeds were to be placed in the hands of the Mission for the continuance of the tremendous work and the discoveries of cures which are happening today, of this fine work .

The meeting closed with Prayer and Benediction by the Rev. Bruce; then refreshments were served by a willing band of ladies. Altogether, a very well spent evening.

CAMPBELL ANSWERS QUESTIONS

The following "press release" came from Grant Campbell's Progressive Conservative headquarters this week:

In an effort to clarify the situation, Grant Campbell, PC candidate for Stormont-Dundas, had this to say this week when asked the following questions:

What can a Speaker do for Stormont Dundas?

Mr. Campbell: I think Gordon Blair, incumbent Liberal in Grenville Carleton best summed it up when at his recent nomination meeting he referred to the role of an Independent in the House of Commons as "pretty forlorn and unproductive".

What can't a Speaker do for Stormont-Dundas?

Mr. Campbell: He cannot formulate new and improved legislation to help solve our problems. He cannot coerce reluctant officials to correct an injustice by threaetening to expose them on the floor of the Commons. He can not ask searching questions before a watching Press Gallery to force an embarrassed government to take corrective action. He cannot instigate a caucus lobby of fellow MPs to bring assistance to his riding.

Is a vote for Mr. Lamoureux a vote for the Trudeau government?

Mr. Campbell: Largely. Although nominally independent, is not Mr. Lamoureux's campaign financed and supported to a great extent by members of the Liberal party? And was the Stormont-Dundas Liberal Association not put in a most awkward position after Mr. Lamoureux's last minute decision to run? Certainly the question remains whether or not Mr. Lamoureux is running as an Independent or a Liberal? He most certainly is not running as a representative of the Progressive Conservative party.

Is a vote for Mr. Lamoureux a vote for a Speaker, a back bench independent, or what?

Mr. Campbell: If Mr. Trudeau wanted Mr. Lamoureux to continue as Speaker, where, indeed, he was admired by members of all parties, would he not have honoured his commitment to appoint him to this position permanently? After all, in 1968, Mr. Trudeau's word was accepted in good faith that this would take place. It did not, and now we are being asked to be conned into the same hoax again. If Mr. Lamoureux wished to continue as Speaker, would he have delayed so long his decision to run? Indeed, if Mr. Lamoureux had seriously desired to seek re-election, would he have waited until the very last minute? It is common knowledge that Mr. Lamoureux insisted on more than one ooccasion that he had no intention of seeking re-election, nor did he wish to continue as Speaker. Why then, the sudden switch if unusually sever pressure has not been placed on Mr. Lamoureux from members of the Liberal government and Mr. Trudeau? Where, really, is Mr. Lamoureux going . . . to the Speaker's chair, to a diplomatic appointment, to a seat at the back of the House relegated to Independent members? And where does this leave Stormont-Dundas? Robert Stanfield, Grant Campbell and the Progressive Conservative party promise Stormont Dundas one thing, no strings attached. And that is good, solid, real representation. Isn't that what we really want in Stormont-Dundas?

EDITOR'S COMMENT

Mr. Campbell's organization, which sent out the above release, has, it seems to us, done their candidate a disservice.

You may have noted that the release does not state who (if indeed anyone) was really asking these questions.

You may have noted also, as we did, that Mr. Lamoureux did NOT, as stated "insist that he had no intention of seeking re-election. You may have noted that in all of Mr. Lamoureux' appeals to the people, he has appealed on his record. He has made no appeal to be returned as Speaker, only as the representative of his riding.

The release, downgrading the ability of a Speaker to fully represent the people of his riding, is also offensive to many of the people of the provincial riding of Grenville-Dundas who were well-represented at Toronto for some years by Hon. Fred Cass.

Speaking personally, the editor has first-hand knowledge that Mr. Cass could and did "correct an injustice", and Mr. Lamoueux could and did do likewise whenever such injustice was brought to his attention.

COLONEL-IN-CHIEF FOR WEIGHT WATCHERS

Mrs. Adelaide Daniels, colonel-in-chief for weight watchers, is the first to try the kernels now permitted on new Canadian Family Meal Plan for Weight Watchers.

The 2nd FORTY

Husband Says No

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I get so depressed some times. At the beginning of each month—after buying our groceries and paying the bills—we have so little money left. There's hardly any thing for clothing and shoes. I wanted to get a job, but my husband says no. He claims that my going to work would mean he cannot keep us. As it is, he works very hard, sometimes as much as 65 hours a week. What can I do to make him change his mind about my working? I've been thinking about going to a psychiatrist, but cannot afford one. R.O.

Dear R.O.:

Some men are still living in the stone age. They think they're fear less hunters who singlehandedly must feed and sustain their families. They overlook the fact that a substantial number of women today are working outside the home. (About 33 million women are currently in the labor force; with the majority between the ages of 45 and 54.) Half the women who work, the Labor Department says, do so out of urgent financial need. Others work to provide their families with "extras" or for personal reasons. You might bring these facts to your husband's attention. You might also point out that your general morale would improve considerably if you had a job. (If your husband wants to "keep" you, he should show some interest in your state of mind.) Perhaps he should think about himself a little too: in this day and age, 65 hours is a pretty rough work week.

Awfully Late?

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'm 52 years old and married. I'm rather worried as I still have my periods. Most of my lady friends claim I'm awfully late. Maybe it's because I've never had a family. I'm really concerned about this. C.M.

Dear C.M.:

Don't be concerned. A generation ago, many women (whether they had children or not) went into the menopause when they were in their early 40's. More recently, however, the late 40's and early 50's seem to be a more characteristic age. And of course, there are individual differences as well.—Some women start younger; some later. In any case, it's always a good idea for the woman over 40 to see her doctor for regular check ups. Then, when her menopause begins, should there be any difficult symptoms, these can be dealt with. If these problems are of a hormonal nature, many physicians may prescribe estrogen replacement therapy to alleviate them. Why not see your own doctor about that checkup? And you might also inform your lady friends they're way behind the times.

Canada is a young nation which needs proper cultivation for a healthy growth. We must respect and give credit to our forefathers for that which has been given to us. However, it is imperative that constant improvement be made, that values be re-assessed and that opportunities be made available. It is here that Canada's young people must come forth and shoulder some of the responsibility, provide new ideas and certainly to become involved.

Just for starters the unemployment mess must be cleaned up, taxation must be revised and the general economy must be revitalized to provide jobs, not welfare.

Young people, 18 years and over who are voting for the first time in the election on October 30th have a real choice to send a conscientious and capable representative to Ottawa who possesses an urgency to work for the people of Stormont-Dundas, who will provide a fresh, new approach through the office of a sitting member, NOT an Independent.

IF YOU'RE INTERESTED IN THIS KIND OF A CANDIDATE WE INVITE YOU TO

In a secluded area of Morrison Island near Upper Canada Village the words "Quiet . . quiet everyone . . ." were heard and a mammoth movie camera went into operation filming a sequence of the forthcoming production Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. This Hal Roach Studios International picture jointly produced with Universal Studios, filmed entirely at Upper Canada and vicinity should be completed this fall to be nationally televised on CBC network and later released to theatres throughout the world.

Earl A. Glick, Executive Producer and President of Hal Roach Studios reported that a search was made throughout United States and Canada with the result that "Upper Canada Village was chosen as the most beautiful place that could be found to fit the situation".

13 year-old Josh Albee of Hollywood was born in Germany where his father, a colonel with the United States Army had met and married his mother. Upon his father's retirement when Josh was three years old the family moved to Hollywood. He appeared in T.V. commercials as a very young child and has made six segments of Lassie, Gunsmoke, Cade's County with Glenn Ford, Matt Lincoln with Vince Edwards; Smoky The Bear with Dennis Weaver and The Saga of Jeremiah Johnson as Robert Redford's son Kaleb. He has recently signed a contract with Universal Pictures.

Jeff Tyler who plays Huckelberry Finn has appeared in Bonanza, F.B.I., Gunsmoke, Adam 12, Green Acres, and many others. In answer to a question regarding the boys' schooling Josh's mother said, "A teacher who is also a social worker is required by law to travel with the young people.

Since Hal Roach Studios is a subsidiary of a Canadian Company with headquarters at Toronto there are very few Americans in the production which will employ up to ninety people. American stars are: Jane Wyatt of "Father Knows Best" as Aunt Polly; Neville Brand as Indian Joe Buddy Epson as Muff Potter and John McIvor as Judge Thatcher.

Karen Pearson of Toronto will play Becky with Dawn Greenbaugh portraying Mrs. Thatcher. All extras are Canadian.

Earl Glick said that should Tom Sawyer prove as successful as expected a sequel "Huckleberry Finn will follow and possibly a series with Upper Canada Village as the setting.

Tom Sawyer is the second of a group of ten pictures to be made in Canada. Film number one was produced earlier this year in British Columbia.

DUNDAS Farm News

Household cleaning — a common fall chore. Have you ever stopped to think about the factors that affect your own way of cleaning? Where you live, the type of home you have, the type of furnishings you have, and most important of all, you and your attitude to housework are all factors that determine your individual standards of housecleaning. If you have a job, a large family, or a lot of special interests, you won't have time to keep your house clean and tidy at all times.

Most of you have probably some system for cleaning. Perhaps you thoroughly clean one room at a time; or you go over the whole house, doing one job at a time, such as cleaning floors or windows. Perhaps you decide what parts of the house need to be cleaned frequently and what only needs occasional attention.

Whatever your cleaning system always look for new and better ways of doing your cleaning jobs; investigate new products; and, especially, try to do the most work with the least effort so you will gain time for other activities.

One product in most homes is petroleum jelly, or vaseline. This is a handy lubricant and protective film to help with your household cleaning supplies. It makes a good protective coating for the barbeque grill, outdoor furniture, equipment or tools.

Use vaseline when painting around windows and mirrors. Put a thin film over the glass and you will find that after the paint dries it will be easy to remove any drips or splatters by simply wiping them away with a cloth.

Or when your cupboard doors or draperies don't run smoothly in their tracks, try some petroleum jelly on the track or use it to eliminate the squeaks from hinges, casters or wheels.

Because vaseline is safe around food, use it to lubricate the gears of your blender, electric can opener or other small equipment, or to protect your kitchen shears from rusting.

Do you sometimes have difficulty removing the lid from a jar with sticky contents, or the cap from a tube or glue? Clean off the thread and coat it with vaseline and the next time it should open more easily.

This is only one common household item that can have many uses. Why not check out your cupboards and find ways to make your housecleaning easier?

Scientists have come up with a new high-speed instrument which may eventually help dentists to extract teeth better and faster than traditional methods.

The new device rotates a tooth in place for only one tenth of a millimetre in cycles ranging from 100 to 500 per second. It thus detaches the tooth from the socket with less damage and blood loss than traditional extraction methods produce. The clean, unbroken tooth can be lifted easily without damage to the jaw bone and surrounding tissues, the scientists explain.

The experimental device consists of an assortment of sockets to grasp variously shaped teeth, and a handle slightly larger than that of the usual dental drill. In the handle is a gearbox and an oscillating head. The instrument is pneumatically driven by either air or nitrogen under pressure.

Using the oscillating instrument, some teeth reportedly come out in less than two seconds, while big teeth with long or curved roots may take almost two minutes. This is nine times faster than extraction of similar teeth with hand forceps. Also, there is no bruising and no effect on neighbouring teeth.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Anglo-Saxon in descent, Tommy, 14 years old, is a good-looking lad with blonde hair, blue eyes and fair skin. With that coloring you would expect a few freckles and he has them. He is careful about clothes and grooming.

Tommy is a most likeable boy, normally cheerful and good-natured. He is popular in his age group and gets on well with younger children. He especially enjoys adult company because he is a good conversationalist. Logical in his thinking, he likes to have reasons for expected behavior explained to him.

Tommy is enthusiastic about camping. A special interest is art and he has above average ability in it and handicrafts. He likes to play the recorder. In most areas, Tommy does average work in school but he has a poor memory and his reading is below par, so he is repeating Grade VII this year. However, his reading is showing improvement.

Tommy needs parents who will appreciate his special gifts and qualities and will not pressure him for academic achievement. It will be ideal if he can be the only child in his adoption home but that is not vital. The important thing is that he have warmth, security and permanence, with or without brothers and sisters.

To inquire about adopting Tommy, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information, please contact your Children's Aid Society.
