Nat. Historic Park Supt. Gave Interesting Talk to Can. Club

"We believe that a nation which remembers its heritage and is conscious of its past is a nation that will endure," said Dr. John Lunn at a recent meeting of the Morrisburg and District Canadian Club. Dr. Lunn, park superintendent, Fortress of Louisbourg National Historic Park, gave an interesting and enlightening address which he accompanied with a slide presentation on the history and restoration associated with the fortress. This is Canada's larg est national historic park and covers 20 square miles in Cape Breton.

Commenting on the thought that the basic philosophy of any historic site development must be to make the public aware of the significance that the past holds and to add a new dimension to the study of history, Dr. Lunn said "Louisbourg needs to be talked about as the marvelous sites are here".

"This project in Cape Breton which is the most ambitious reconstruction project going on in the world to-day was begun in 1961", stated Dr. Lunn, noted historian, who is also a graduate in engineering and archaelogy. Com paring the reconstruction to the development at Upper Canada Vil lage he said that Louisbourg was a mixture of civilian and military and the project is five times as difficult as the artifacts of 250 years ago have gone and are not even available in museums.

"Louisbourg was unique in being not once, but twice, the scene of epic struggle between two of the great founding nations of the Americas. This great fortress had a life span of only forty years", he commented. Dr. Lunn pointed out that the fort was built by the French to stop the British from sailing down the St. Lawrence, to protect French fishing interests on the Grand Banks and to act as a port of transshipment for goods on their way to France from Quebec and the West Indies. "The fort which was first settled in 1713 had a brief history but it was illuminating."

Dr. Lunn described the result of the restoration project as "trying to bring back a moment in time prior to 1745, the date of the first seige." He said that the project was started as an "economic exrcise" to combat the unemployment of displaced coal miners in Cape Breton. Visitors to the site have brought many thousands of tourist dollars to the area, comarable to the situation in the area of Upper Canada Village.

Approximately a quarter of the original town and its nearby defenses are being re-created in their entirety in ordr that visitors might experience an eighteenth - century environment in depth. Completely restored to date is the Citadel which includes the King's Bastion and the Chateau St. Louis. During the past month there has been both fire and hurricane loses to this area amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars.— Over 200 artifacts have been ruined as well as buildings extensively damaged.

Among the intersting slides shown were pictures of artifacts found in the excavation. Included in these artifacts, which in many cases show the trade routes of the time were building hardware, glassware, dinnerware, a porringer, toy boat, baby shoe with tied lace, wooden chair slat, pieces of cloth, etc.

In conclusion Dr. Lunn stressed that he has a dedicated staff of specialists in many fields who are being successful in depicting the period realistically, and not in the "antiseptic version." Many skills are being utilized and the results are for all mankind. "This makes one feel truly a Canadian and that is what it's all about".

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Graham Houze, president and thanked by Bill MacDonald. It was announced that the next meet ing on November 20 would hear Rev. Robert Rumball, Toronto.

The 2nd FORTY

Aged Driver

My mother is active at 70, and continues to drive a car in the quiet, rural community where she lives. Recently, she informed me that she and a friend plan to take a long trip by automoble. My mother hasn't driven on a highway in years. I'm worried. How can I discourage her without offense? R. L.

Dear R. L.:

If you can't convince your mother and her friend that travelling by public transportation will be more relaxing for them, you will then have to tell your mother you doubt that she is able to stand the long drive .

Confirmed Bachelor

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

What do you think of a middle-aged bachelor who, after courting a mature woman for five years, tells her he isn't ready for marriage yet? I'm the woman M.M.

Dear M.M.:

I don't think much of him, but you're lucky he didn't wait 10 years to give you the news.

Dangerous Age?

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'll be fifty next month and I'm scared silly. Isn't that when menopause begins? Is it dangerous? I've heard about it for years, but I don't really know what's supposed to happen. Will I get all kinds of symptoms? A.L.

Dear A.L.:

It's natural for a person to fear the unknown, but your concern is unnecessary. There are several good books available at the library which explain menopause clearly (we'll send you a reading list if you wish). In her excellent book, "The Seven Ages of Woman," Elizabeth Parker, M.D. writes: "Menopause is not a dangerous age. There is no special threat to her (a woman's) mind, her emotions, her health, her beauty, her efficiency or her capabilitеis if the menopause is properly understood and handled, mostly by the woman herself, but with medical help when necessary Control of all symptoms of the menopause is both possible and safe. Hormones and other properly selected medications are effective and safe".

SEAWAY SERVICES MEETING HELD

At a general meeting of the Seaway Community Services held at the Womens Institute Hall at Riverside Heights Monday evening reports were received from delegates to the recent Educational and Political Conference of the Ontario Anti-Poverty Coalition held in Toronto. Reports also were received from the Committee on Summer Camps. Other subjects of discussion included finances, government aid, programs and facilities and certain school problems in the area. It was noted that the concerns of the organization go beyond the immediate scene — that a substantial donation of goods and supplies had been sent to Honduras.

The meeting was opened with prayer offered by the Rev. E. Earle Eaton. Refreshments were served by a local committee in charge of Mrs. Nugent.

Mrs. John Corbett, president, chaired the meeting. Delegates to the Toronto conference included Mrs. Bessie Cornut, Mrs. Mary Hunsinger, Asel Marvell and Mr. Eaton.

It's always Halloween for the neighborhood lush—he communes with the spirits every night.

New Crop Developed

Through a unique collaboration of government and industry, a new strain of high-protein oats has been researched and developed in Canada and brought to the consumer market as a breakfast cereal.

Called Hinoats (pronounced — 'high notes'), the new strain is the result of 11 years' work by scientists at Agriculture Canada located on the Central Experimental Farm. Through the initiatives of General Foods, Limited, Hinoats are now in commercial use as the basic ingredient of Post Alpha-Bits cereal.

"When Agriculture Canada developed the seed, it was made available to all food processors in Canada," said Dr. Vern Burrows, Chief of the Cereal Section at Agriculture Canada's Ottawa Research Station. "We were delighted when General Foods accepted the challenge and the risks involved including the financing of the first commercial crop on some 3,000 acres.

"It is important that the food industry learn how to use and diversify the uses of oats more effectively in human food," Dr. Burrows said. "Oats are an excellent nutritional source because oat protein is of high quality with a good amino acid balance." As protein levels are increased in oats through breeding, the quality does not change; however, the nutritional value of wheat, barley and corn declines as protein levels re increased."

General Foods approached Agriculture Canada to obtain quantities of the new oat strain for processing tests on a commercial scale. Agreements between Agriculture Canada and General Foods, and between GF and selected farmers, resulted in the growing of Hinoats for both seed and commrcial use during the summer of 1973 in Ontario and Saskatchewan.

The protein levels in the test crop oats proved satisfactory and the way was cleared for General Foods to bring an improved oat cereal product to the market in the late summer of 1974.

Agriculture Canada will continue testing the growing characteristics of the crop as they relate to the farmer. General Foods will continue testing the qualities of the strain in commercial production.

Dr. Vern Burrows, Chief of the Cereal Section at Agriculture Canada's Ottawa Research Station, with a crop of Hinoats. Dr. Burrows and Agriculture Canada worked with General Foods, Limited in developing the high-protein oat, which is now being offered to consumers as a breakfast cereal.

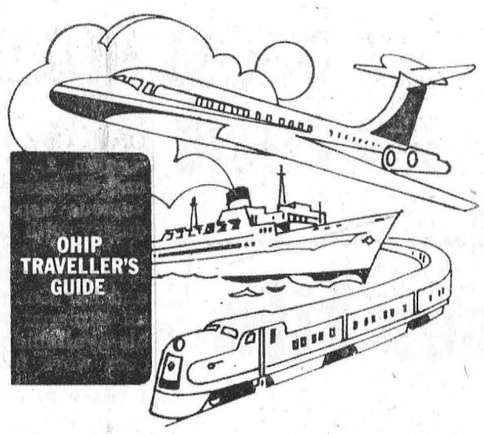
What happens if you get sick or have an accident while you're travelling?

This is what Ontario is doing to protect you away from home.



Your Ontario Health Insurance Plan (OHIP) is designed to help you anywhere in the world.

In case of injury or sudden illness outside Ontario, OHIP will pay the cost of standard hospital accommodation.

For non-emergency services, it will pay up to 75% of the cost for the type of hospital service normally covered under your Ontario Plan.

Medical fees will be reimbursed to you at 90% of approved services as set out in the Ontario Medical Association Schedule of Fees.

But bear in mind that medical costs in some countries are often higher than in Ontario. So avoid being faced with a bill considerably higher than the amount OHIP can repay you, by doing four things:

1. Know what benefits OHIP provides before you leave home.
2. If you consider that your OHIP coverage may be insufficient, you can obtain supplementary coverage from private insurers for out of province charges.
3. Always carry your OHIP card with you.
4. In a financial emergency, ask the hospital to phone or write OHIP to confirm your coverage.

Remember, you will usually have to make payment on the spot for treatment outside Ontario. But OHIP will reimburse you for insured services if you submit itemized receipts within 6 months of the date of service.

Describe why you were outside of Ontario—vacation, business, etc.—and provide complete personal information plus details of the medical or hospital service performed. Include name and address of physician, hospital, fee for each service and dates. And always state your OHIP number.

A free booklet called "The Traveller's Guide to the Ontario Health Insurance Plan" explains everything you need to know.

4-H Review

It doesn't seem that long since I was sitting down writing a special edition for 4-H week last year. Yet the months have flown by, and the faces have changed. The program this year was filled with ups and downs, yet the basic county program was very successful.

This year we added a new club to the roster, and the Animal Husbandry club became our 12th. The membrship was up with some one hundred and thirty members and 192 projects starting the year. Of note, I believe is the fact that the age of the members was younger as the younger brothers and sisters took up the families 4-H colors.

Highlights of this year's program were:

—Debbie Baker attends Provincial 4-H Conference, Guelph.

—Dundas County 4-Hers attend Regional Conference, Ottawa.

—4-Hers enjoy bus trip to Montreal and Expo Ballgame.

—Dundas County 4-Hers enjoy Inter-County Exchange with Huron County.

4-H Members enjoy two day camp at C.C.E.A.

—Chesterville Fair, hosts 4-H Achievement Day. —Henderson, Jansen, Erratt, and Cross take top honors.

—Dundas County has excellent showing at Ottawa Winter Fair—Kevin Henderson, Grand Champion Junior Holstein; Mary Jansen, Grand Champion Junior Ayrshire; Cathy Cross, Grand Champion Charlois Steer.

—Dundas County 4-H Awards Night, November 26th, North Dundas D.H.S.

Yes, another successful 4-H year draws to a close, as we prepare to celebrate National 4-H Week. Unfortunately we haven't the space nor the opportunity to mention everyone's name. I would like to say that all of the members who participated and completed their project, should consider themselves as winners. I would also like to call upon all 4-Hers in the county to take the opportunity to tell someone who has no experience with 4-H, about the program, what it has for young people, and why you are in it. This would make an excellent 4-H project.

We would also like to take this opportunity to thank all the sponsors, and other people who co-operate with the various local programs. An extremely large 'Thank You' must be extended to all the 4-H leaders. Without these men and women, who volunteer their time freely, and graciously there would be no 4-H program.

4-H Members Score At Winter Fair

by J. A. Anderson
Ass't. Agric. Rep.
Dundas County

Each year the Ottawa Winter Fair hosts the Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec 4-H Championship Show. It has almost got to be like the history of the fair, that the 4-H members from Dundas County put on a fine show. This year we had 14 calf club members, 7 steer competitors, and one showman competing at the fair. I might also mention that as an interesting sidelight this year's county representatives were on the average, the youngestgroup ever to be sent to the Ottawa Winter Fair from D ndas County.

The age was no measurement in the showing, and the youth pulled through with honours. I believe that I can honestly say that all members from the county program can justly be proud of their representatives. Each and every member did an excellent job. — Some of the more exciting results were the following:

James Fawcett, Division 'I'— Junior Holstein Champion.

Dianne Baker, Division 'I' Junior Holstein Reserve Champion.

Kevin Henderson, "Division 'II' Junior Holstein Champion.

Kevin Henderson, Grand C an-pion Junior Holstein.

Cathy Cross, Grand Champion Charolais Steer.

Kevin Henderson, James Fawcett and Dianne Baker — Reserve Champion Group of 3 Junior Holsteins.

I realize that the worst part is that there was only one champion and therefore anly one name is mentioned. I wish that we had the space to list everyone's name but that would be impossible. I would like to comment to the members themselves, that we are proud of your accomplishments.

Judy Casselman and Mary Goalen finished first and second respectively in the portrait section as did Allison Rutter and Cheryl Erratt in the symmography division. Penny Hall received an award for her special fire poster. Congratulations to all the prize winners and to Mrs. Margaret Holmes who organized the school's exhibit.

In other school news, all the students will be participating in a special Remembrance Day Program today as the official holiday is next Monday. The bookmobile returns next Friday, November 15th.

CONSEIL D'EDUCATION DES COMTES DE STORMONT, DUNDAS & GLENGARRY COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION—

PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION

At its meeting held on Tuesday, October 22, 1974, The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education adopted the following statement of Philosophy of Education:

K. FRASER CAMPBELL, Chairman
T. R. LEGER, Director of Education

PREAMBLE

The Philosophy Committee recognizes that the Provincial responsibility for education is implemented, in part, through a system of County Boards of Education governed by Acts and Regulations. To these Acts and Regulations are added geographical, financial, and human constraints of a more local nature.

A statement of philosophy of education may state what is ideal in the minds of the members of a particular educational community, but must also reflect that which is possible in relation to the optimum use of all available resources. This, in turn, relates to a statement of acceptable responsibilities for schools which bears in mind the important and necessary contributions of the home, church, other community institutions, and society at large.

This is the initial philosophy of education of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education. It is subject to review and change. Contributions towards improvement will be most welcome.

WE BELIEVE: EVERY PERSON INVOLVED IN THE EDUCATIONAL PROCESS — PARTICULARLY THE CHILD WHO IS CONSIDERED THE RAISON D'ETRE — HAS RIGHTS, PRIVILEGES, NEEDS, AND A BACKGROUND WHICH IS UNIQUE.

THE AIM OF THE EDUCATIONAL PROCESS WILL BE THAT EACH STUDENT SHALL DEVELOP HIS POTENTIAL TO THE FULLEST, AND MAKE HIS UNIQUE CONTRIBUTION TO SOCIETY.

(N.B. It should be noted that the words "school" and "student" are used in their broadest terms, and that PHILOSOPHICAL CONCEPTS are set in black face type while EXTENSIONS AND EXPLANATIONS are set in light face type.

THE STUDENT

The student shall be considered as an increasingly responsible person with an active and accountable part to play in his own education.

SCHOOLING may be considered as the acquisition of knowledge and skills through formal training.
EDUCATION adds the dimension of proper use of knowledge and skills towards the development of the individual, his contribution to the well-being of his fellow man and the development of society. Education should be a continuous striving towards intellectual, moral, physical, spiritual, and social betterment.

The goal of the schools is the education of the student, and the main emphasis, organizationally and financially, should be placed upon student development.

The student is the prime consideration.

Student development includes:

a) the promotion, to the fullest extent possible, of the intellectual, physical, spiritual, emotional and social development of each person;

b) student understanding and appreciation of his cultural heritage and the Canadian heritage;

c) student knowledge of, and respect for, his environment;

The aim of student development is a well-adjusted, socially responsive Canadian citizen, in a democratic society, who is willing to accept personal or social responsibility for continuing development, improvement, and advancement of this nation, both for the benefit of Canadians and mankind in general.

Provisions both in facilities and staff shall be made for special students with special or unique needs.

Individual differences in students or areas decree that there will always be students who require special measures in order to meet their needs.

For many students with special needs, integration within the general school setting is appropriate and to be recommended. For some other students, circumstances may warrant semi-segregation, or even complete segregation.

The provision of special facilities and special staff shall aim at the maximum development of student potential, through enrichment or remediation, and the stimulation of individual talents.

There are implications which relate to class size regulations and to the specialist-type qualifications and capabilities desirable in the staff of such classes.

EDUCATIONAL COMMUNITY

There should be a degree of involvement which will use and develop the resources of all members of the educational community to ensure total commitment to the provision of quality education.

An educational community includes students, educators, administrators, trustees, parents, community organizations, and society at large.

Members of an educational community should be able to co-operate by contributing to decision-making.

Co-operation can best be affected in an organizational climate which has mutual support, which uses the team approach and consensus, and which permits and encourages a humane approach to the solution of educational problems.

There should be a firm commitment, on the part of the educational community, to the optimum development of the potential of every student, related to the best possible use of all available resources.

OPERATIONAL CONSIDERATION

There shall be provision for equality of opportunity in gaining an education.

Equality of educational opportunity relates particularly to the environment and cultures of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Counties, and generally to Ontario, to Canada, and to the Global Society. It does not necessarily mean that the same programmes and facilities should be available in every school, it means rather that programmes and facilities shall be adjusted to meet the needs and abilities of students.

There shall be a firm commitment to the provision of the best possible educational programmes, personnel and facilities.

Every endeavour shall be made to employ teachers who are educated persons, professionally competent, exemplary in character, empathetic, supportive, mature, interesting and interested.

Appropriate balance shall be a consideration in the staffing of schools.

There shall be flexibility in the organization; in the programmes; and in the provision for student needs so that these relate to community ideals and changing social conditions.

The programme devised to provide learning experiences must be relevant.

Relevancy relates to:

a) the needs, abilities, and interests of the students;
b) the total life environment of the student (in and out of school);
c) the concerns and aspirations of the parents;
d) the needs and constraints of society.

Programmes shall be provided which will develop student abilities in basic learning skills.

Programmes shall be provided which will develop student interests and abilities enabling them to contribute to society.

Learning environments and activities shall be provided which will assist in fostering in the student a healthy self-respect and concern for others; reverence for life; an inquiring mind; a desire for personal development; and a reasonable pride in achievement

Programmes shall be provided which will allow the student to develop a personally meaningful and socially acceptable philosophy of life.

Advances in science and technology have solved many of the problems related to man's material and physical existence. Such advances, however, have done little to help solve, and may have increased, man's personal and interpersonal problems.

Most of the problems which face students are personal or inter-personal. Close identification with such problems provides the student with a built-in motivation towards their solution.

All students shall have the opportunity to learn from a broad range of studies dealing with the philosophy of man, such as:—

a) Man as an individual;
b) Man and his fellow man;
c) Man and his environment;
d) Man and his Creator.

There needs to be a balance between personalization of the programmes to develop each person as an individual and the provision of social experiences to develop social skills and meet social needs.

There shall be alternatives to in-school learning.

The school is only one agent in the general learning experienc of the child. Thus every effort should be made to take advantage of opportunities to involve students in out-of-school learning experiences. Also, every encouragement should be given to the use of non-school persons who have educational experiences to offer which will augment or enrich the in-school programme.

NEW ONT. BEEF CALF LOAN PROGRAMME

A new Ontario Beef Calf Loan Program and certain amendments to existing programs of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food were announced by the Minister of Agriculture and Food, the Honourable William A. Stewart, in the Legislature on Friday, October 25, 1974.

Under the new Beef Calf Loan Program, guaranteed bank loans will be provided for producers of beef feeder calves who reside in the Province of Ontario. Loans may be used to pay operating expenses such as mortgage payments, taxes, rent and to purchase feed, seeds, fertilizers, pesticides, farm supplies and any other material used in beef cow-calf production.

The loans will be available from December 1, 1974 to March 31, 1975, with the term of the loan being for three years, repayable at any time, but the payment of full principal and interest required when the loan is due. Loans will be based on the number of calves produced by a farmer and in his ownership, on or after August 1, 1974, up to $75 per calf to a maximum of 100 calves. The current commercial lending rate plus one percent will apply to the loans. Should the current commercial rate subsequently drop, the farmer's interest payment will decrease accordingly; however, he will not be required to assume any increase in the cost of interest that might occur after the date his loan is made.

In making the statement, Mr. Stewart said: "I hope this guaranteed loan program will encourage beef-calf producers to hold their calves over, where possible. I also hope beef producers will retain their best breeding stock, but cull out and dispose of any undesirable beef cows, replacing them with quality beef heifers. This loan program should assist producers to meet obligations that could have been taken care of if beef feeder calf prices had been more in keeping with cost of production.

"We believe this program will assist farmers to maintain and upgrade the Ontario beef cow herd during this period of depressed feeder calf prices -- thereby reducing the possibility of a beef scarcity developing in the next few years."

During the statement, Mr. Stewart announced certain amendments to the Ontario Beef Heifer Loan Program originally introduced in 1972. Under the amended program, the interest-only period will be extended to three years instead of two and the term to eight years instead of seven. This will allow the producer entering the third year of the program to delay payment of the principal for another year. After that period, it is hoped he may be in a better financial position to honor his commitments.

Mr. Stewart concluded his statement by announcing a Hay Assistance Program for the Kenora, Rainy River and Dryden areas. Shortages of hay and grain have resulted in these areas because of unfavorable conditions. The Government of Ontario will make funds available to the local Agricultural Committee to assist in transportation costs to locate adequate sources of hay and, if hay is not available, hay equivalents, in the form of grains to meet the demands of livestock producers in these districts.

"Through the program I have just outlined, I feel confident that farmers of this province will now have a more solid footing from which to make production decisions that will assure Ontario consumers of an adequate supply of beef in the future," said Mr. Stewart.

Report From Queen's Park: BY HON. DON IRVINE

The efficient and effective delivery of health care services to all people in this province has always been, and will always be of major concern to the Ontario Government. Every member of the community—rich or poor must have the right to prompt and proper treatment for any sickness or injury. But as in any government-run programme, we must direct our attention to achieving a high standard of health care delivery through means the province can afford.

Health costs have been spiralling in the past five or six years. As these costs continue to rise each year, they consume a larger and larger portion of the provincial budget — a budget which must be used to cover all the province's essential services.

Twelve months ago, our health costs in the province averaged out at approximately $275.00 for every man, woman and child. Today this total is close to $325.00, and with the settlements which have been concluded, there will be another major increase in 1975. The effect of such a spiral coupled with inflation could result in our provincial health care budget increasing from $2 billion to $11 billion in ten years.

Naturally, a major part of the cost increase is due to higher salaries and wages. There are, however, other causes such as the increased use of hospitals and declining productivity. Perhaps one of the most significant causes of cost spirals lies with the individual citizen.

In the past, we have placed great emphasis on the need to create a health care system serving the public interest. This entails meeting the desires and needs of the people. But we have failed to direct our attentions to the other side of this theory — the responsibilities of the public for health care. Too few people are making an effort to improve their own health. Too many people have developed a dpendence on the health professions, and rely little on personal responsibility for developing and maintaining basic health standards.

The increased costs for health care delivery have not resulted in overall mprovement in the health of our citizens. Certainly, the Government's health insurance programme has essentially reduced the individual's concern for the cost of health care. It has, however, had the detrimental effect of reducing the individual's responsibility for his own health. It has further promoted a dependence on the quick cure of low-cost, readily-available health care. A change in attitudes and behaviour patterns would do far more to improve the health of Canadians than any reliances. Changes in attitudes and behaviour would also be instrumental in reducing the cost of our health care bill.

We must direct our efforts now to changing life-styles which prove to be injurious to our physical and mental well-being. Among these life-styles are the excessive use of alcohol and drugs, the consumption of foods which are high in fat and cholesterol content, the lack of physical exercise and the increase of heavy smoking. The lack of personal responsibility for health care coupled with an acceptance of detrimental social behaviour results in major health problems.

We must place more exmphasis on the merits of preventative health care. For example, if we were able to eliminate the damage caused by alcohol, we could cut down our annual health bill in Ontario by several hundred million dollars. Heavy drinking is a major factor in highway accidents in the province, and these accidents are the biggest cause of injury and death in Ontario. In a study which was recently released, it was found that 56 per cent of all drivers killed in automobile accidents had been drinking. More than 60 percent of all drivers killed between the ages of 15 and 19 had been drinking, and this percentage did not drop until the drivers were in their late 50's. This is not a medical problem, but rather a problem of personal behaviour.

The problem of ever-increasing costs of health care delivery is disturbing. Many people believe that OHIP premiums meet all the costs of their health care. But these premiums only pay a fraction of the province's total health bill. One answer to the problem could be found in returning more responsibility for the health care system to the community. A District Health Council has been introduced in Ottawa-Carleton and a second council has been established in Thunder Bay. These District Health Councils could be implemented to co-ordinate and integrate health services at the local level. The councils would also be responsible for assessing how well the health programme meets the total health needs of each region. They might further be instrumental in drawing attention to the need for changes in detrimental life-style and habits.

Certainly the government must make every effort to ensure that each citizen is provided with efficient, readily-available health care. But we, as members of the community, must now direct our attentions to resolving the broader health problems which effects us as a group. We must look on health care as a personal responsibility.

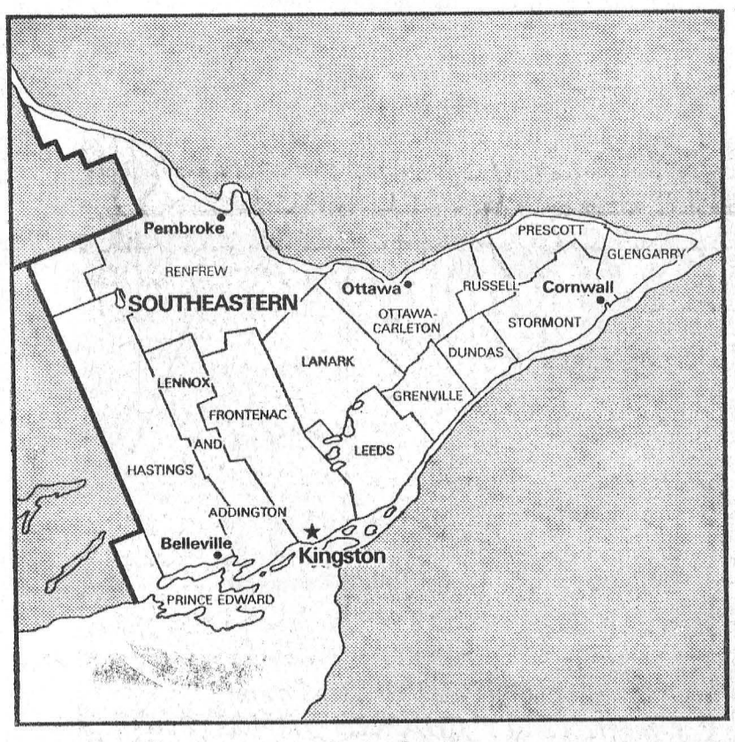
Environment Ontario goes local.



6 new regional offices to serve individual communities better.

In a province the size of ours, it can take two days just to drive from one end to another.

It's that big, it's that spread out. And looking after the environment for such a vast area is one of the most complex tasks that the Ontario Government has.

For years, we've been working from Toronto, working at long distances from many of you.

That's all changed now. The Ministry of the Environment has come to you.

Environmental matters are now being looked after in six Regional Offices throughout the province. There are also 23 district offices to help keep a closer eye on environmental services – air, land and water.

Each region has a Director, someone whose only job is to care for the environmental needs of that specific "piece" of Ontario. The Regional Office for Southeastern Ontario, which extends east from the western boundaries of Hastings and Renfrew Counties is in Kingston. The Director in charge is Mr. C.E. McIntyre. District offices are already established in Belleville, Cornwall, Ottawa and Pembroke.

Erv McIntyre

Erv McIntyre is a professional engineer who has had many years experience working in environmental management. He's familiarizing himself with the environmental needs of the Southeastern Region – as part of Ontario's new policy to place environmental control closer to the source.

Ministry of Natural Resources

WEEKLY REPORT

The Cessna four - seater hangs in the clear night sky a thousand feet over Prince Edward County. Around the revolving horizon rim glimmer the lights of Kingston, Desoronto, Napanee, Belleville, and to the west, the wink of the searchlight of CFB Trenton. Even the glowing lights of American cities on the opposite side of Lake Ontario are visible — Watertown, Oswego, Rochester.

But in the light plane's front passenger seat, ministry of natural resources spotter Jim Ives, walkie - talkie mike in hand, is more interested in something going on in a large patch of black countryside immediately below.

"FYH to 2149. Have a couple of vehicles off the road north of Fish Lake. Looks like they're in a field. Should be a side road a quarter miles west of you," says Jim. The pilot cuts down speed and starts a long, slow turn.

"We'll check it out," crackles the answer from a conservation officer's cruiser down below. Another set of lights moves into the area.

After several minutes comes the answer: "49-FYH. Jim, it was a corn harvester working late. The farmer he's working for was out here checking things with the driver. He says there's been a few deer shot in here. Over."

"Though we had something that time," sighs Jim.

For three cruiser-loads of conservation officers below and the spotting plane above, the corn harvester was the closest they came to a poacher during a night time surveillance "blitz" held last week in the Napanee natural resources district.

Objects of the exercise: protect district deer herds from the time-honored poaching tradition of jacklighting. Using a sudden burst of high-powered light, a poacher can transfix a deer long enough to squeeze off a well-aimed shot.

And that's where the plane comes in.

"If there's any jacklighting activit ygoing on it's easy to detect from the plane at a thousand feet" said Hans von Rosen, Napanee district fish and wildlife supervisor.

Earlier that evening Mr. von Rosen and the other "midnight raiders" went over a flight plan at the district office. By 10:30 the cruisers were strategically located across the county and by 11:00 p.m. the spotting plane was off the runaway at Picton airport and on its first sweep. In the next two hours it completed three sweeps over the northern part of the "island", the western shore and over the miles of bush and field around Point Petre.

On the following nights the air-to-ground blitzes covered the countryside north of Brighton and the bush and lake district north of Kingston.

A total of 30 vehicles were stopped and searched for uncased, loaded firearms. One car, stopped in the countryside at two in the morning contained firearms, but verythign was in order.

'Actually we were quite satisfied," said Mr. von Rosen. If anything these latest blitzes indicate there's not as much activity as we sometimes think, even though we know there is a certain degree of poaching going on. Every now and then deer guts or other signs of a kill are found out in the bush."

"It's a very inexpensive method of finding out what's going on, covering a huge area thoroughly and letting people know we're around and we're not fooling," he said.

Mr. von Rosen said other blitzes would be staged whenever violations are expected to be most frequent, for instance during the fall cold snap when deer begin to move around mare.

"Or at any other particular time we choose," he added, smiling mysteriously.

The idea of using a spotting plane at night that was in radio contact with cruisers on the ground was developed by Napanee district's senior conservation officer Jack Stewart.

DEER JAWS A GOOD CAUSE

You shouldn't argue with success. That's why the ministry of natural resources in eastern Ontario will once again swap "Successful Deer Hunter" crests for the lower jaw of deer taken by hunters this season.

Fish and Wildlife staff were pleasantly surprised last year when the idea of giving hunters a crest if they turned in the complete lower jaw of their deer triggered a flood of approximately 900 jaws.

The jaws allow ministry staff to get the inside story on the condition of deer herds. Analysis of the jaws reveals the age of each animal and the numbers of each age group in the whole herd.

Information about the township sex and date when the deer was taken is also gathered when the jaws are turned in.

Crests marked "Successful Deer Hunter 1974" will be given out for jaws brought in to natural resources district offices until December 15, 1974.

The jaw program is not to be confused with another program to reclaim part of the hunter's spoils. Hunters who turn in deer or moose hides at a local natural resources office receive a ticket on a draw. The prizes are saft leather vests, jackets, mukluks, mitts and slippers covered with intricate Indian beadwork. The hides go to Ontario Indian artisans for crafts manufacturing.

TREATING THE HANDICAPPED

A dentist would try to treat a handicapped person almost as he would a normal patient.

The dentist must know that the patient is handicapped well in advance of any appointment and he should be briefed on the patient's medical background, says the Canation Dental Association. The dentist should make his own examination as well as rely on information from the patient's physician.

The doctor will have a good idea how much dental stress can be tolerated and will advise the dentist on various drugs and procedures that the patient cannot take.

Many mentally retarded and physically handicapped persons can be treated in a dentist's office. Others, however, need a general anaesthetic merely to be examined and may have to be treated at a hospital as an out-patient.

Close co-operation between dentist and physician is needed when an epileptic is involved. Anti-convulsant drugs may have to be administered. Appointments should be carefully scheduled and the patient should not have gone without food for several hours before the appointment.

Cardiac patients must be careful of even the smallest infections. Those with a history of rheumatic heart disease should receive an antibiotic before any oral surgery is undertaken.

Arthritic and cerebral - palsied persons often don't have the muscular control to sit quietly. Where treatment can be given without a general anaesthetic, appointments should be short. The physician can also be of much help in treating the apathetic aged or chronically ill.

Even the allergic patient should tell his dentist about his medical history. He may get strong reactions to such things as certain anaesthetics and filling materials.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

One glance tells you Julie is a happy baby. At 19 months, healthy and invariably sunny-tempered, Julie has no idea she is a little girl with a problem.

Julie was born with Downs Syndrome (commonly known as mongolism). Because of this condition, she has developed more slowly than average and will probably require special schooling as she gets older. However, she is considered well within the educable range.

Not walking yet, Julie is a speedy crawler. She isn't talking but is quite vocal and expressive, leaving no doubt in anybody's mind about what she wants. Though behind in these two areas, she is animated and responsive and appears to have a good deal of drive and energy.

Julie shows a lively interest in things going on around her. She enjoys her toys and handles them well. She is a good eater and sleeps right through the night with a couple of daytime naps.

Julie needs a mother and father who will appreciate her appealing personality and who can accept whatever limitations she may have. People considering adopting a child like Julie will find government programs and parents' groups all over Ontario to help in bringing up below-average boys and girls.

To inquire about adopting Julie, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, consult your Children's Aid Society.
