Child's Bank Stolen From Dental Office

When Dr. Hutt returned on Monday morning to resume his practice after a three weeks' illness at his home in Berwick, he found that he had been a victim of a sneak thief who had entered his office during his absence and extracted from a child's bank the contents amounting to eight dollars. The bank was forced open and parts of it thrown out the back window while other parts and telltale evidence was left in the office which will lead to an arrest unless restitution is made at once.

Hess-Pickering.

A quiet marriage was performed on Wednesday, Aug. 22nd, at 3 p.m., by Rev. H. E. Warren, at the home of Mr. J. C. Merkley, town, when Mr. Clifford Hess of Nation Valley, was united in marriage to Mrs. Retta Pickering of Chesterville. The bride and groom are both well and favorably known and we join with their many friends in wishing them happiness and success. The bride was becomingly dressed in grey silk crepe-de-chene, with Miss Leila Merkley as bridesmaid, dressed in King's blue taffeta. Mr. Arthur Steinburg of Morewood assisted the groom.

The happy couple left on the afternoon train for a short trip, the bride travelling in a suit of Burgundy serge, with large white hat. They intend leaving shortly for their future home in Red Deer, Alta.

Why Help was not Forthcoming

Mr. J. W. Brock, field Secretary of the organization of Resources Committee, when in town on Monday, ran into somewhat of a hornets nest. Sometime ago another representative of the Committee was here soliciting applications from farmers for the help they required for haying and harvest. Reeve Bogart was given the forms of application, and after advertising this fact in The Record, had twelve or fifteen farmers make application on the assurance that they would be supplied at the time the labor was desired. The specified time arrived but no laborers and neither has any explanation been made until the arrival of Mr. Brock. In apportioning the territory to be looked after the Committee at Ottawa was supposed to take care of the ten eastern Counties of Ontario but they fell down badly on their job. When the men were expected at the different places this Committee found all they could do was to supply a few men within a radius of twenty-five miles of Ottawa. Mr. Bogart was not advised of this arrangement and of course could not give the applicants any satisfactory reason why their applications had not been filled. Mr. Bogart felt his position keenly and we are glad to be able to make this explanation for him.

Explosion Blew Whole Village to Pieces Near Rigaud. Last Saturday Morning

Just what happened will perhaps never be known. According to some of those who were working in the nitrate house at the time, the man in charge of the vat in question lifted the cover, flames shot up, a warning was shouted, and all ran.

In the building in question were six tanks of a capacity of 5,000 gallons each, and six other tanks of a capacity of 12.000 gallons each. It was a matter of but an instant when these took fire, and the first explosion occurred.

At first, it was not thought by the foreman in charge of the nitrate house that the matter was serious, and at this juncture occurred an incident which nearly cost the lives of many.

The workmen at the plant were under instructions to endeavor to put out any fires which might occur, but to run for their lives in the event of an explosion. In this case, practically all took to their heels, running towards the village The company's guards closed the gate at the exit, blocking the only avenue of escape. In their panic, many of the men attempted to jump over the wire fence which surrounded the plant, to receive a shock which threw them to the ground, as the upper wires were heavily charged with electricity, with the aim of keeping intruders out.

It was not until a runaway team of horses madly galloped down to the gate, and plunged into it, breaking it down, that the exit was opened to the fleeing men.

From the nitrate house, the flames quickly spread, and the first serious explosion occurred but a few seconds after the outbreak of the fire. From then until one o'clock, it was one explosion after another. Fanned by the breeze, the flames leaped from one building to another, until the whole area was burning, and the high explosives went off—one following another. Altogether there were some 26 explosions, of which six were terrific.

Men and women, children in their arms frantically rushed for shelter—behind buildings, into a nearby marsh, up to the hills. No matter where they went the explosion followed them. Shock followed shock, and from the coppor-colored pall which overhung the country showered down huge pieces of boiler plate, sections of machinery and other of the debris, which was hurled for miles by the powerful explosives.

Two miles out from the plant, a tank weighing over two tons was found today. Little damaged, it had been thrown, as a scrap of paper. Nearby, imbedded two feet in the ground, was found a section of one of the pieces of apparatus used in the plant.

Windows were shattered as far away as Valleyfield, some thirty-five miles away. In Rigaud dozens of houses were shattered, over thirty windows in the College Bourget alone being broken.

Shortly before ten o'clock was performed the bravest deed of the disaster, with Engineer "Billy" Griffith and Fireman C. Broom, both of Ottawa, as the heroes. Arriving in Rigaud at 9.11 o'clock, the "Soo" train, of which they were in charge, was held up owing to the explosions. After some wait, the suggestion was made by R. J. Smith, of the office staff of the Curtis-Harvey Company, that an effort be made to remove from a siding four cars loaded with the high explosive which is designated by those familiar with it as "T. N T."

The trainmen agreed, and they made a trip which has few parallels in the history of railroading. Making the run to Dragon, they took the siding, opened the throttle, and plunged into the midst of burning buildings filled with one of most deadly instruments of the war. Through smoke and flames they proceeded until the cars were reached, made the coupling, and then hurriedly returned, removing what would. had it been touched by the flames, have provided a more terrific explosion even than the many which did occur.

The conductor in charge of the crew was Harry Dunham, and the brakemen were W. S. Black and M. Chapman, all of Ottawa.

School Fairs in Dundas and West Stormont, 1917.

School Fair time is again drawing near. Perhaps in no district in Ontario are the School Fairs being supported and backed up by the people to the same extent as in the district mentioned above. The Township Councils, School Sections, and individual subscribers have made generous donations. This has made it possible to offer suitable prizes to the children as a reward for their work. The movement has a wider field of usefulness than is often credited to it and deserves the support of all interested in the progress and educational development of the children in the Rural Schools of the County. The dates set for the School Fairs in the County are as follows: —

Williamsburg Tp.—Sept. 17th.
Matilda Tp.—Sept. 21st.
Winchester Tp.— Sept. 25th.
Mountain Tp.—Sept. 27th.
Finch Tp.—Oct. 3rd.

Catatrnal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reached the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed oondition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result. Unless the the inflamation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will b destroyed for ever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed con dition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system,

School Shoes & School Clothes

The boy who is clothed and shod satisfactorily at this store to-day will shortly be a man and it is the man's trade we want eventually.

School Shoes require to be of the best material to stand the wear and tear that they get, but the makers are tempted and some of them fall to making them of the spongy, scrappy stock.

But not for us, thank you.

We know these shoes and know they will give the most wear for the least money, not only for the boys but the School Girls as well.

Boys' Clothes get the same attention and we are well fixed to fit your boy for either High or Public School.

The Horse Show.

Tho Chesterville Driving Park Association is evidently not on favorable terms with the weather man. Last year and again this year he turned the taps and spoiled what would otherwise have been red letter days in the history of the association. On Thursday things were pretty fair and the first day's programme was pulled off as advertised, but the second day is always looked on as the big one and with about twenty horses stabled in town for the races and the track as fast as any one could wish it was thought a record crowd would be on hand. Everything was all right until about one o'clock when a tornado struck the Driving Park, scattering everything moveable and laying low the booths and tents ready for the afternoon's business. It was accompanied by a deluge of rain and before one could tell it the track was mud inches deep. Shortly the sun appeared again and a crowd of about a thousand put in an appearance and the judging of the harness horses proceeded.

After working hard to get the track in shape, about five o'clock the 2.35 class, trot or pace was called with six of the seven entries facing the starter. The race proved interesting and five heats were necessary before a decision was reached. In the second a dead heat was announced when Forest Boy and Amber Hal shared the honors of coming under the wire together.

2.35 Class. Purse $100.00

Black Maud	1	5	4	1	1
Night Rider	5	3	1	4	4
Amber Hal	2	1	3	3	3
Forester Boy	3	1	5	5	5
Lady Cecil	4	4	2	2	2
Little Clip	6	6

The 2.50 class had seven starters but was taken by Cecil Custer in three straight heats in fine style.

Cecil Custer	1	1	1
Fred D. Jr.	2	2	2
Claus Appleby	4	3	3
Lady Rex	3	6	6
Crysler Girl	5	5	4
Little Clip	6	4	5
Iroquois	7	7

In the 2.20 class with four entries the old rivals Ellis Pointer and Dan Forrester furnished the excitement and although the latter took the first two heats he could hardly be counted seriously in the three following as Ellis Pointer could apparently win as far off as he pleased.

Ellis Pointer	2	2	1	1	1
Dan Forrester	1	1	2	2	2
Forester Boy	3	3	3
Amber Hal	4	4

The free for-all was not called as the drivers would not risk the footing on the slippery track.

The evening programme was evidently as attractive as that for the afternoon, as standing room only was available when Tom Marks Company put on "Bringing Up Father."

The assembly after the show proved a most enjoyable affair in which about a hundred couples took part.

The horses this year were of an exceptionally good class and in most cases the competition was keen.

Sixty-five Buildings in United Counties Struck by Lightning in one Day

Sixty-five buildings in the district were struck by lightning in one day and more or less damaged, according to reports that are being received here. Between Russell and Finch, no fewer than twelve buildings were hit in the early hours of one morning.

Forty buildings in the vicinity of Maxville, in Glengarry county, and Chesterville, were hit. The damages done were more or less serious. Within a few hours one house and two barns at Crysler were destroyed. Embrum and Russell villages were also the scene of fires through lightning, but the damages were not heavy.

A barn on the farm of the Misses Hamilton, near Berwick, was struck, just as the tenant of the farm, Eli Swerdfeger, and his wife were driving in with a load of grain. The barn and contents were destroyed and Mr. and Mrs. Swerdfeger narrowly escaped with their lives. They backed the horses out as soon as they saw the bolt strike and thus saved themselves, the horses and the load of grain.

The storms act peculiarly this season, seemingly going in streaks and while severe in one section, perfectly calm weather prevails a few miles on either side.

Only Signature of Duke Needed

The Military Service Bill only awaits the signature of the Duke of Devonshire before becoming the law of the land. On Saturday afternoon the Honse of Commons' with less than fifteen minutes talk, concurred in three minor amendments attached by the Senate, and the bill is now through all its preliminary stages.

Canadians Defeat Four Divisions of Famous Prussian Guard.

Canadian Headquarters in France, via London, Aug. 17.—In fair, stand-up hand-to-hand fighting on the eastern slope of Hill 70 last night our men beat off two more counter-attacks, in which the last available battalions of the Fourth Prussian Guard division were broken and destroyed as a fighting force.

In my despatch of Thursday night the story was told of the impetuous charge by which our line was pushed forward east of the hill. Prisoners state that at the very moment when our assault was launched the guards battalions were assembling to attack Hill 70. They came under our barrage, and suffered severe losses in their positions in Bois Hugo and Cite St. Auguste.

Notwithstanding this punishment, they proceeded to the trenches from which their attack was planned to come, and shortly after seven o'clock they advanced with such determination that our forward posts were driven in, and for a time the enemy secured possession of our advanced line. At nine o'clock another and more serious assault was undertaken against our men in the newly-acquired ground, accompanied by very heavy shelling.

It failed utterly, and our men once more went forward on the heels of the enemy, and re-established their outposts on the former advanced line, which thus remained in our possession after five hours of the most determined fighting experienced by the veteran troops of the original expeditionary force, who took part. By midnight affairs had quieted down, and this morning Hill 70 is an extinct volcano, with our incomparable infantry in undisputed occupation.

The struggle was renewed on that part of the front south of St. Laurent, at four o'clock this morning, when an Ontario battalion went forward to attack a strong position along the railway embankment, which now forms the boundary of the enemy line west of Lens. Strong opposition was encountered. After bombing their way into a nest of trenches our men were themselves bombed out. More troops were put in and the area of the attack was extended to the north by participation of another battalion. For several hours the struggle went on, and the Canadians finally won their objectives, which were three trenches from which observation could be secured upon the recently won front.

The feature of today's struggle was the free use of airplanes by the enemy in support of his infantry. Taking a leaf out of our book the German airmen flew low over the trenches and engaged the occupants with their machine guns. There were aerial fights between these enemy airmen and ours.

The number of prisoners, wounded and unwounded, now totals well over a thousand. The enemy's killed and wounded must number at least five times as many. Three enemy divisions, the Seventh, Eleventh Reserve and Fourth Guards, have ceased to have any fighting value as the result of their great losses.

As the battalions which took part in the battle get into touch with headquarters tales of the fighting, both grave and gay drift back. One battalion mourns a very gallant young officer, a Quebecer, who was wounded in the face and after having his wound dressed insisted on going on with his men. He had advanced only a hundred feet further when he was hit, and fell dead at the head of his company.

He—I suppose you think I'm a perfect idiot?

She—Oh, dear, no. We're none of us perfect.

Father Fleming's Big Picnic at Wolfe Island.

(Kingston Bulletin)

Although Wednesday last was not a very favorable day for outside amusement a large number of people attended the Wolfe Island picnic in aid of the new church of the Sacred Heart. The Committee who had charge of the arrangements carried out the programme in an excellent manner and had the beautiful grove adjoining the Church, decorated with flags and bunting for the occasion. On the grounds were many of the clergy from different points and also many prominent citizens. The ladies of the congregation looked after the inner man, and no finer supply of eatables were ever displayed for many years at any similar picnic. Rev. Father Fleming, the pastor did everything possible to please and entertain the patrons of the picnic, and all were loud in their praise of his kindness and hospitality on this occasion. But, the big feature of the day was the two splendid addresses delivered by Mr. C. J. Foy, K. C., of Perth, and Mr. J. J. McGlade, of Brockville. In introducing the speakers, Dr. Wm Spankie, the Chairman, said that it was indeed a pleasure for him to be present on such an occasion. He declared that Rev. J. P. Fleming and his parishoners had much cause to be proud of the results of their efforts in the erection of the new Church of the Sacred Heart. It would be a credit to Wolfe Island and to the Province of Ontario, and in concluding, he remarked that in no place in Canada or the world is there greater peace or harmony or good will than in Wolfe Island. There has been no religious controversy here in the 34 years that I have been a resident. Let Canada think on this and take Wolfe Island as an example on the whole of Canada.

Speeches were delivered by Mr. J. J. McGlade and Mr. C. J. Foy, K. C., on the subjects uppermost in the minds of the people of Canada today.

In the evening a splendid concert was held in the C. M. B. A. Hall, which was crowded to the doors and which was a fitting conclusion to one of the finest gatherings that has ever been our pleasure to attend on Wolfe Island.

Over 1,000 dollars was realized on the drawing of the piano. The honor of selling the largest number of tickets goes to Miss McGlynn, who sold $450 worth. The sum of $250 was realized on other articles, including fancy work, making the total proceeds over $2400, a good round sum when the inclement weather is taken into consideration. It was indeed a grand success and a genuine tribute to pastor and people.

An Important Statement

Last September we made the following statement:

"We have been requested by our Shorthand and Secretarial graduates to issue a statement relative to the comparison between the enrollments and graduations.

Our records show that up to June, 1912 the number of students who entered the senior Shorthand classes, but who failed to graduate, was a very considerable loss to these classes in the College. During the year 1912-13 the proportion of graduates increased, and so from year to year. The year just ended shows the best record in the twenty years' history of the school, for the number failing to graduate as compared with the total enrollment has been reduced to a negligible minimum, and in the majority of these cases the student accepted a situation and would not stay to graduate.

To a great extent this is due to the fact that all Willis teachers since 1912 have been keen, enthusiastic and intelligent workers; that the atmosphere is refined and home-like; and each student knows that the Principal and all the Staff are interested in his or her individual progress."

This year is even more gratifying, for without any exception and giving everyone his just dues, we are able to say that the results obtained are far superior to those of any previous period in the history of Willis College.

When you combine thoroughness of training with a helpful atmosphere, you get results not otherwise obtained.

If you are interested in a GOOD course of Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping or Civil Service, write today for our prospectus

On a Torpedoed Ship.

This portion concludes the description under the same heading which appeared in last week's Record, written by a former pastor of Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming of Morewood, and recently received by them.

After a great shipwreck there is much exacting work to be done. The scattered survivors have to be accommodated and refitted with needful things. The casualties have to be attended to as far as possible. Records have to be made up in circumstances of great difficulty. In all this the military and civil authorities of the Italian city where we landed gave us unstinted help, and heaped most generous kindness upon us. The news of our disaster quickly spread through northern Italy, and inquiries, with offers of assistance, came in thick and fast. The people of the city were all anxious to be of service.

I went out in the evening to make some necessary purchases, for none of us had anything but what we stood in, and these things mostly ruined by sea-water. By accident I met the representative of Lloyds, who asked if he could do anything for me. I was glad of his help, and he took me to various shops, where I obtained the things immediately essential. In the first shop I went to the good lady of the place would not accept a farthing. I assured her I had money to pay. "No! no!" she said, "Naufrage." From a shipwrecked mariner she would accept nothing. I thanked her, as best I could, with a lump in my throat. In every other shop they gave us things at bed-rock prices. They are simple, kindly folks in— Few of us will ever forget the kindness and sympathy they lavished upon us.

The same evening I visited the hospitals to see our sick and wounded. They were lodged in four different hospitals, and in all alike received the utmost consideration and attention. There were some who had been wounded in the explosions, others had suffered injury in getting off the boat, or had been crushed against the ship when the torpedo-boats came alongside. We had a long list to start with, but most of these men were soon moving about again, tolerably fit.

The commanding officer asked me to undertake the work of identification, and to enlist the services of the other chaplains. It was a very difficult task, and for five days I spent seven or eight hours a day searching dead bodies for the means of identification. The bodies had been cast up at various places along the coast of Italy, and the Italian officials had carefully removed all identification discs and papers from the bodies, and had made these up in little parcels. The result was to multiply our labors enormously. We could not tell to which body any disc or papers might belong, so we had to search pockets and underclothing for any marks or indications of identity. The work was at last accomplished, and of the eighty-one bodies recovered most were completely, and almost every one sufficiently, identified. A brass plate was nailed on each coffin, with the number of the grave in—Cemetery engraved on it. A piece of ground in the cemetery was set apart for the British dead, and a carefully numbered plan has been drawn up. There are many folks at home who will be glad to know the exact spot where some one dear to them has been buried. I took infinite pains about this work of identification—I had passed through the awful agony and suspense of having my own boy posted "missing," and I was most anxious to save even one home from the misery of not knowing definitely what had happened to a husband or a son.

On Sunday a great public funeral was arranged by the municipality of——. We buried 15 bodies on that day, including those of the Captain of the ship and of the major who had given his life for his men. A guard of honour, consisting of 100 British soldiers, 100 Italian Bersaglieri and 100 Japanese sailors, marched in front. Then followed the surviving chaplains, a great waggon filled with wreaths, waggons bearing the bodies, the mayor and municipality of —, the troops, and the different societies of the city. Such magnificent wreaths, in such overwhelming profusion, were surely never seen! Every public or semi-public body had sent a wreath of the most exquisite beauty, and private citizens vied with one another in doing honour to the dead. We had three miles to walk to—Cemetery, and we walked through an endless crowd. It was not mere curiosity that brought every citizen of—to gaze on the spectacle. It was genuine, warm-hearted sympathy. Many were openly weeping; you could not raise your eyes without seeing how deeply the people were moved by the disaster which had happened so near their coast. They are a peculiarly beautiful people in northern Italy, often with features of the most perfect classical type. They are doubtless very emotional. They are certainly infinitely kind and sympathetic. None of us will ever be able to forget those miles of warm hearted Italians, all bearing some sign of mourning, all so reverent and so generously sympathetic.

At the graveside I conducted the funeral service, assisted by the other chaplains. Then "The Last Post" was sounded, and three volleys were fired over the graves

The Campo Santo at— is very beautifully laid out, as all Italian cemeteries are. It has not the vast lines of magnificent sculpture you see in the Campo Santo at Genoa, which is world-famous. But it is arranged on a similar plan—with long colonnades adjoining the sepulchres. Many of the monuments are the work of distinguished artists.

On Monday I went out to—to bury some bodies that had been cast ashore there. I had arranged all details of the burial, and took with me a firing party of thirty men. But the mayor of the town had arranged for a public funeral the next morning. In vain I told him that our arrangements were already complete and that we British folks were just as pleased with a quiet and simple ceremony. "Through the providence of God," he said, "these bodies have been placed in my charge, and the municipality of—wish to provide coffins worthy of British soldiers, and to honour them as they deserve." What could I say? I replied that his kindness touched us deeply, and we could only leave matters in his haud.

So the service was postponed till next morning, when a great procession was arranged by the municipality to—Cemetery. The entire population of the town took part in the obsequies, with every possible manifestation of reverence and sorrow. All the school children, many bands of maidens, and the numerous societies of the town followed in the cortege, bearing wreaths of exquisite loveliness. The day will be long remembered by the inhabitants of the neighborhood.

The bodies had been placed in the church of—, and a request was made to me on Monday afternoon that the people might be allowed to view the bodies and pay their respect to the dead. I knew it was not vulgar curiosity they felt, else I would have refused. I posted a guard of soldiers at each door, and a long line of people passed through. Their behavior was reverent in every way. Every one, man or woman, knelt for a moment beside the dead and said a short prayer, often with tears streaming from their eyes. We in Scotland have little faith in the efficacy of prayers for the dead, but I must confess to have been affected by the simple, earnest devotion of these people.

One of the dead men found at—was a Roman Catholic, and as we had no Roman Catholic chaplain, I suggested to the military authorities at—that the priest of—might be asked to take part in the service. "Oh!" I was told, "you don't know what it means to bring in the ecclesiastical authorities in Italy. They will give you infinite trouble." "No, they won't," I replied. "You leave it to me, and I will guarantee the matter will come off all right." "Well, they will want candles and crucifixes, and all sorts of ceremonies." "Let them do as they please," said I, "we won't mind." So the priest was invited to take part. He had a service in the church, and afterwards stood beside me during our service at the grave. He was a worthy, kindly old man, very modest, and very anxious not to push himself forward. I had to take his arm and put him at my right hand during our service, or he would have retierd amongst the people for fear of being thought interfering.

We left—on Thursday. The station was absolutely crowded from end to end. The people overflowed on the railway. It was a tremendous send-off. Amongst the crowd I saw a great many folks who had been extremely good to both officers and men during our stay. One lady had offered to do anything I suggested for either officers or men. She sent me a large parcel of shirts and socks which were a godsend. She asked me to find some of the nurses for her, and, when I found them, she fitted them out with all the clothing they needed. I visited her castello one afternoon, and spent a very pleasant hour with the signora and her family.

There were six chaplains aboard, and of these two went down with the boat. One was a young Church of England chaplain—a most attractive young man—going abroad for the first time. The other was a U. F. minister, a fine strong Scotsman, manly and robust in every way who had already done good service in Salonika. A medical officer of great ability, who constantly associated with our chaplains' party, is also amongst the missing. The proportion of officers lost is very large. They attended to their men before they thought of themselves, and stuck to their posts to the very last. Many of them paid the price of their heroism, but unless they had been absolutely unselfish, the casualty list would have been terrible.

On one of the men we identified was found a postcard, ready to be sent off the moment he reached his destination, saying "My journey is finished." One could not but be moved by the pathetic truth of the last message. His journey is indeed finished. His warfare is accomplished, and now his body rests in one of the most beautiful spots on this fair earth of ours.

Before we left Italy the commanding officer of th esurvivors conveyed to the various municipalities and to the people generally the sense of profound gratitude felt by all our officers and men for the splendid tribute paid to our dead, and the generous hospitality extended to ourselves. The various funeral processions were amongst the most impressive sights we have ever witnessed, and no one present can possibly forget them. A great crisis reveals men to themselves and to one another, and our whole experience in northern Italy, tragic and painful as it was, has been also, I feel assured, a very potent means of bringing into a closer, more affectionate association, and into a better, more permanent understanding, the relationship between the peoples of Great Britain and Italy.

Five Large Phonographs Given as First District Prizes in

Bread-Making Contests

At Rural School Fairs in Ontario

More than $2,000 worth of prizes for bread making will be offered at the Rural School Fairs this fall. Among the prizes are five large cabinet phonographs, fifteen Canuck bread mixers, and many attractive books. These splendid prizes will make the contest the most stirring ever held at rural school fairs. Every girl between the ages of 12 and 18 should read all about this fine opportunity, and should begin now to prepare for it. The prizes, under the conditions explained below, will be awarded for the best loaves baked with the hard wheat flour that is guaranteed for bread

—the flour that you will want to use always, once you have given it a good trial. We want you to know for yourself that it makes splendid big loaves of the lightest, most wholesome bread that good flour can bake. That is why we make it well worth your while to try it, by offering these attractive and costly prizes.

For this contest we have divided the Province into five districts, each with several counties. In each district we will give a large cabinet phonograph, a set of Dickens' Works and three bread mixers. These are called the District prizes and they are to be given in addition to the prizes offered at the local rural school fairs. (See list of districts below.) Be sure to compete at your local rural school fair. If you win first prize there, you will then automatically become a competitor for the phonograph and other district prizes.

The Prizes, remember, are offered for the best loaf of bread baked with Cream of the West Flour. No other flour will do. For local prizes we offer a number of valuable books. By local prizes we mean those given at the fair.

1st Local Prize.—"Girl's Own Annual," a great big beautifully bound, illustrated book with 800 pages of stories and articles about people, art, animals, gardens, sewing, crocheting—everything that particularly interests young girls, older girls and their mothers. This is a wonderful prize that you can treasure for years.

2nd Local Prize.—"Stories of Famous Men and Women," heavily cloth bound with gold titles, many beautiful pictures in colors, entrancing life stories of Florence Nightingale, Grace Darling, Flora MacDonald, Jenny Lind, the late Queen Victoria and others.

3rd Local Prize.—"Britain Overseas," a big handsomely bound book with many colored pictures, interesting stories and descriptions of the countries and the peoples of Britain's world-wide Empire.

4th Local Prize.—"The Queen's Gift Book," a book of stories, pictures and special articles by Britain's best writers; the proceeds from the sale of this book are for the benefit of disabled soldiers in England.

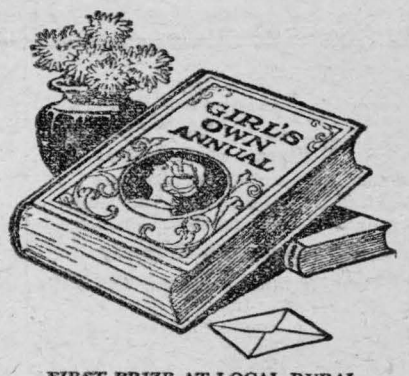
NOTE.—Unless the entries number six or more only first and second prizes will be awarded. Unless the entries number ten or more no fourth prize will be awarded.

The District Prizes.—The winner of the first prize at each local fair automatically becomes a competitor for the following District prizes. One-half of the first prize loaf will be sent to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, to compete in the District Contests. (See conditions below.)

1st District Prize.—The "Pathephone" is the name given to the fine big mahogany phonograph we offer as first prize. It will give you endless pleasure and entertainment for a lifetime. It has special reproducer attachments and needles, enabling you to play all kinds of flat disc records of no matter what make. The Pathephone reproduces band music, orchestra music, songs and funny pieces perfectly; with it goes a dozen of the famous Pathe records. Total value, $150.00.

2nd District Prize.—Set of Dickens' Works, 18 splendidly bound volumes with many illustrations. Among the books in the set are "Oliver Twist" and "Old Curiosity Shop." These are two of the most entrancing stories ever written.

3rd, 4th and 5th Prizes.—"Canuck" Bread mixers. This simple, yet well-made, machine takes the hard work out of bread making. Instead of laborious kneading of the old method, you just put in the ingredients, turn the handle and the dough is thoroughly and more evenly mixed.



FIRST PRIZE AT LOCAL RURAL SCHOOL FAIRS

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST

Every girl may compete at the rural school fair in her district, whether or not she attends school, providing that her 12th birthday occurs before November 1st, 1917, or her 19th birthday does not occur before Nov. 1, 1917. One loaf of bread must be submitted baked in pan about 7 x 5 inches and 3 inches deep, and divided into twin loaves so that they may be separated at the fair. The loaf must be baked with Cream of the West Flour. One-half will be judged at the fair. The other half of the prize loaf will be sent to Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, to compete in the District Contests. The judging will be done by Miss M. A. Purdy, of the Department of Breadmaking and Flour Testing. The local contest at the fair will be conducted under the same rules as all the other regular contests at your fairs.

The Standard by which bread will be judged will be as follows:

1. Appearance of Loaf ..... 15 marks
   - (a) Color ..... 5 marks
   - (b) Texture of crust ..... 5 marks
   - (c) Shape of loaf ..... 5 marks
2. Texture of Crumb ..... 40 marks
   - (a) Evenness ..... 15 marks
   - (b) Silkiness ..... 20 marks
   - (c) Color ..... 5 marks
3. Flavor of Bread ..... 45 marks
   - (a) Taste ..... 25 marks
   - (b) Odor ..... 20 marks

Important.—Each loaf must be accompanied by the part of the flour bag containing the face of the Old Miller, and an entry form must be signed by the girl and parents or guardian stating date of birth, P.O. address, and giving name of dealer from whom Cream of the West Flour was purchased. The form will state that the girl actually baked the loaf entered in the competition. The forms will be provided at the time of the fair. The decision of the judges is final. Not more than one entry may be made by each girl and not more than one local prize will be awarded to the same family.

Which District is yours? This list shows you which counties you compete against if you become a competitor for the District prizes:

District No. 1.—Counties of Glengarry, Stormont, Dundas, Grenville, Leeds, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington, Carleton, Lanark, Renfrew.

THE RESULTS of the contests at the fair will be made known in the usual way as in the case of all the other regular contests. The District results will be announced as soon as possible after the conclusion of the Rural School Fairs in the Province.

DO NOT MISS THIS GREAT OPPORTUNITY: Every girl between 12 and 18 years should compete. What a splendid way to stir up increased interest in breadmaking! Get a supply of Cream of the West Flour at your dealers and practise using it as often as possible to increase the chances of winning. If your dealer cannot sell it to you, write to the Campbell Flour Mills Co., Ltd., Toronto, and we will promptly tell you the nearest place to get it.

NO COMPETITIONS IN COUNTIES NAMED BELOW: The competition is open to all parts of the Province where Rural School Fairs are held, except the Districts of Rainy River, Kenora and Thunder Bay. These districts are the only parts of the Province where school fairs are held by the Department of Agriculture in which this competition will not be a feature. There are no district-representatives of the Department of Agriculture in the Counties of Huron Perth, Wellington, Haliburton, Prescott, Russell or Lincoln, and no rural school fairs are held in these Counties by the Department of Agriculture. There are, however, a few local school fairs held in these seven counties, and we are opening the competition to these fairs. We will announce later the districts in which each of these Counties will be included.

Taking Time to Think It Over.

A Tragedy in Real Life

A Mutual Life insurance agent urged a certain man to sign an application for $5000 Insurance protection. The man replied—"Give me Sunday to think it over." Instead of thinking it over on Sunday, the young man went away on a motorcycle trip and, meeting with an accident, lost his life.

Leaving the signing of the application 48 hours cost his dependent relatives $5000, a sum which would have been a wonderful blessing to them.

Life is just as uncertain during the days of procrastination as later. Insure now, and do not make your family take chances for another day.

Mutual Life Policies afford protection at minimum cost. Nearly fifty thousand Canadian homes are protected by means of Mutual Policies.
