Farmers brace for new reality under GATT

Elizabeth Moreau
Record Staff

"The first generation of supply management will be behind us as of Dec. 31, 1994."

-Stormont-Dundas MP Bob Kilger

For years dairy farmers in Stormont-Dundas have worried about the future of their industry under a new world trade deal. After much speculation and uncertainty, on Tuesday they woke up to a new reality.

Canada's negotiators at the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade in Geneva Monday ended their fight to preserve import quotas, replacing them with tariffs which will be gradually reduced over time.

"It's obvious and evident now that we can't have our preferred position in the face of unanimous world view to the contrary," said Stormont-Dundas MP Bob Kilger in an interview Tuesday.

Of the 116 countries which voted on the agricultural text of the agreement Monday, Canada was alone in its opposition. Canadian negotiators had been pressing for the inclusion of a strengthened and clarified Article XI, a trade rule that allows the control of imports and is considered crucial to maintaining Canada's system of supply management.

Through marketing boards and production quotas, supply management has controlled the amount of milk, dairy products, eggs, chicken and turkey produced in Canada, allowing producers to count on reliable and stable incomes and markets.

"The first generation of supply management will be behind us as of Dec. 31, 1994," said Kilger. Tariffication is scheduled for implementation in 1995.

Many of eastern Ontario's 2,200 dairy farmers worry about how they will survive under the new system.

Winchester Township dairy farmer Gord Johnson said supply management is critical to maintaining the current standard of living enjoyed by dairy farmers, including the survival of smaller family farms.

"I don't believe there's any way possible for the Canadian government to buy up all the surplus that we're capable of producing and integrate it into the market like the Americans do," said Johnson, the local Ontario Milk Marketing Board representative.

The OMMB says the American government purchases surplus milk production at a fixed prices and dumps the surplus with taxpayer-financed subsidies. This system, the OMMB says, brings the subsidy level for U.S. farmers to about 34 per cent.

George Ennis, who runs a dairy farm outside Winchester, said while farmers have been preparing themselves for the possibility of tariffication, only time will tell just what kind of effect it will have on the industry.

"I'm not sure how many people will be able to make a living on tariffication. There's just so many unknowns," including world dairy prices and currency rates, Ennis said.

Johnson said he hopes federal government promises to safeguard supply management hold true.

"In the end, they are committed to maintaining some system of supply management," he said. "I guess that's the bright light at the end of the tunnel."

Kilger said the federal and provincial governments, marketing boards, and producers will have to work together over the next year to find a way to make the new system palatable to everyone.

"It's more than my optimism that leads me to believe that there will be a life for producers after Article XI," he said.

Video store owner readies for P.O.

Frankie Wheeler's Berwick video store will soon be a post office as well.

BERWICK — There will soon be a new feature at Frankie's Video in Berwick — but it's not a movie.

Owner Frankie Wheeler, who has been renting Berwick's former post office building from Finch Township for her video store since June, will offer full postal services starting early in January.

Wheeler has signed a 10-year contract with Canada Post to operate a franchise post office at the location.

"I think it will be interesting," Wheeler says of the upcoming challenge. "I used to work in the government and I've always liked things like that."

"Everybody knows this as the old post office - some even come in here for stamps."

Starting January 5, those who come in for stamps will find them, as well as a full array of postal services.

Wheeler says the postal operation will be more convenient for Berwick residents. The store is open 7 days a week, from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. Sunday to Thursday and until 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

The lock boxes have been back in the building since May 1992, but parcel pick-up and other services were done at the township office, which is not open evenings or weekends.

Wheeler, who is also trained as an interior designer, will receive 60 hours of on-the-job training from a retired postmaster.

And she also hopes that offering postal services will draw more attention to her store, where she sells greeting cards and candy as well as movie rentals.

"Once people know I have the stamps and mail-orders, it might bring a few more people into the store who'll say, gee, I didn't know this was here."

Berwick's post office has come full circle after it was closed by Canada Post in 1991. It was operated by Claire and Bert Gardner as a retail postal outlet until May last year, when they gave it up after finding it was too much work in conjunction with their gas station and store.

Finch Township clerk Arnott Empey agreed that the longer hours will benefit Berwick residents.

"It's going back to where it was and I think it will be better for everyone, really. Everything will be there for them."

A time to reflect, remember days passed

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

It's a time for family. It's a time for reflection. It's a time for cheer. The Christmas season brings joy and special happiness to different people in different ways. Family and fond memories are popular themes.

Chesterville Reeve and United Counties Warden Jim Cook says he enjoys seeing the Christmas spirit in those he meets.

"I think everyone seems to come up and be a little more friendly than they are during the rest of the year."

Cook says he always takes time to reflect on the true meaning of Christmas, the coming of the Lord.

"That's all part of it, where it started, and on Christmas Day I always stop and reflect on it."

And Cook says it is difficult for him to single out one Christmas in particular that stands out as the best.

"I count myself as fortunate to have had as many good Christmases as I have."

Chesterville grocer Mike Dean says he also finds people friendlier during the Christmas season, that they are slower paced and more cheerful.

Dean's fondest Christmas memories are from the newfound wonderment of his children's first Christmases.

"The Christmases that are the best ones are the first with your children when they're young, hands down."

Dean's children are now 11 and 13 years old.

"When your children are young you're Christmas stands out because it makes you feel young," he says, "and when they're young they just love Christmas."

Chesterville historian Clarence Cross enjoys the memories of his boyhood Christmases.

"It was a time for family get-togethers," Cross recalls.

But it was difficult to get people together in the winter, says Cross, 75, because there was no such thing as snowplowing. Relatives came to the Cross farm from Metcalfe by open sleigh, complete with bells.

"I have some recollections of some extremely cold rides in the sleigh." Cross says a stove-heated brick wrapped in newspaper in the bottom of the sleigh seat or a fresh baked potato in a mitten provided warmth. Buffalo skin robes also took away the winter chill.

"Off we'd go with our buffalo robes and our bells on the sleigh - it was quite picturesque."

• Please see CHRISTMAS on page 2

Christmas memories

Cross remembers his father 'retiring early' for the evening, only to emerge as Santa for the children.

"I was always rather surprised, because he made a rather good Santa even though he was rather shy in ordinary life," Cross says.

Christmas meals consisted of a goose or chicken from a neighbor's farm, and homegrown vegetables that had been canned.

"There wasn't very much in the way of exotic foods," Cross recalls. "Oranges were a very special treat. Only at Christmas would you get an orange in your stocking or on your plate."

Presents in most families were simple and practical items, like clothes.

"This is when you'd get your new sweater or socks, or skates, sleigh or hockey stick."

Christmas toys were often homemade by handy fathers. Also popular were miniature tea sets and dolls for girls.

The highlight of the school year was the Christmas concert. Parents would line the walls of one-roomn school houses to hear the children sing.

If a piano was available, that too provided entertainment. "There was always someone who could play, and we ended the day with a sing- song," Cross says.

"You made your own fun then, because there was no radio, no TV, and very little in the way of public entertainment."

But there's one thing about Christmas that hasn't changed, Cross says. "Everybody ate too much."

Osnabruck Township councillor and former schoolteacher Fran Laflamme fondly recalls the traditions of Christmas in a French-Canadian family.

"I think Christmas is a wonderful time to get us through the dark parts of the winter," Laflamme says.

Laflamme has special memories of the Christmas Eve reveillon, complete with tourtière and other goodies. Midnight mass was also a special event, Laflamme says.

"That always had a certain mystique as a kid."

Laflamme says her most memorable Christmas, but perhaps not the best, was celebrated by her family Dec. 7, 1941, the day of the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor by the Japanese.

Laflamme's family was celebrating early because a brother was leaving for overseas. Another brother was already there.

Her sister had the flu, and her mother was thinking about her boys overseas. Her father was "trying to make up for it but it wasn't working."

"Every other Christmas, for the most part, has been a delight to remember. But that one stands out because it was so awful. It stands out as the one Christmas that was a real downer."

Dairy farmers face new reality

For at least three years dairy farmers and other supply-managed producers have been concerned about their future under a new GATT deal. They launched advertising campaigns to gain public support for their position, and letter-writing campaigns to federal MPs to garner government support. In February 1992, more than 30,000 farmers from across the country rallied on Parliament Hill.

But Johnson said while he believes the producers did all they could, he's not sure it has made a difference.

"I think it was all in vain. I don't think anything has changed. I don't think we've influenced the outcome one bit," he said.

Ennis said he's not sure the Canadian public supports the producers' position on supply management. Critics of the system say it keeps prices of milk, eggs and other supply-managed products artifically high and allows inefficient operations to stay in business.

But Ennis said the system has benefits for both consumers and producers. Consumers, he said, benefit from a stable supply of products, made in Canada to Canadian health standards. And those high quality products, he said, are available at a reasonable price.

Producers, Ennis said, benefit from a reliable income, not subject to cycles.

"It's not an excessive income but because it's stable, people can plan ahead," he said. Ennis, who has three sons, said producers like himself will survive the next 10 or 20 years in the business but "will their kids want to do it? And if farm kids don't want to do it, then who will?"

Rewards of leadership are plenty, say Chesterville Guiding volunteers

Elizabeth Moreau
Record Staff

For more than 80 years, Girl Guides and Brownies have been a rite of passage for many young girls. Last year in Ontario alone, nearly 120,000 girls were enrolled in a Guiding program. Behind those programs are thousands of volunteers who plan activities, supervise meetings, organize outings, and who aren't often acknowledged. Until now.

In Ontario, Girls Guides of Canada have designated 1993-95 the Years of the Volunteer. All of the more than 20,000 volunteer leaders across the province will receive pins in recognition of their work. Leaders in the Nation Valley District, which includes Chesterville and Winchester, were honored last week at a meeting in Williamsburg.

"It's to recognize the volunteers for all the work they do, because, truly, we cannot do what we do without them," said Corinne Rubin, an executive assistant with Girl Guides in Toronto.

The Guiding programs provide both education and fun for girls aged 5 and up, Sparks for five-year-olds, Brownies for six- to nine-year-olds, Guides for girls aged 9 through 12, and other programs for older girls.

The adult leaders plan and organize the schedules and activities for weekly meetings and outings. The job requires creativity, energy, and a good amount of spare time. Leaders also attend monthly district meetings to share information and ideas with other volunteers, and relay that information to parents.

Because of that time commitment, some groups have had difficulty attracting volunteers. In recent years, some programs have been threatened with cancellation before volunteers have stepped forward.

That's how Toni Dingwall got involved three years ago. Her daughter, then a Spark, was ready to join the Chesterville Brownies. But without additional volunteers, the group wouldn't have been able to accept new members.

Dingwall said the Brownie group provides the girls with a variety of learning experiences, from public speaking and cooking homemade soup, to learning about fire prevention and first aid. And all of that, she said, requires hours of planning on the part of the volunteers.

"If you're working, I can understand why people aren't so eager to volunteer," she says.

But Dingwall adds that she usually has as much fun as the Brownies she supervises.

"(The girls) enjoy it so much that you come away from the meeting saying, 'Wasn't that wonderful? Didn't we have fun?' That's what keeps you going," says Dingwall.

Wendy Hollands, herself a former Guide, recently began her ninth year as a Guiding leader. She says the program offers girls more now than it ever did. Sports, games, crafts, conservation activities, camping are all part of the Chesterville program. At a convention this year, which brought together Guides from more than 100 countries, activities included welding, mountain climbing and motorcycling.

"Back when I was a Guide, the girls didn't do very much," Hollands says. "It was a man's world."

Hollands says she spent up to two days planning for the weekly meeting. She says she'll continue with the movement even when her children are no longer involved.

"I like working with kids, I think that's the main reason," says Hollands, adding that many of the field trips are also first-time experiences for her. "I get a lot out of it too."

Cathy Hunt, who runs the Chesterville Sparks program, says most of the activities for the five-year-olds are designed to let them have fun.

"They teach you good values," says Hunt of the Guiding programs. "We try in Sparks, but they're more interested in playing games. But that's fine. As a five-year-old, that's part of life."

Hunt, who is planning a career as a teaching assistant, says the work involved in organizing the program has its pay-offs.

"I really like this age group of kids," she says. "I enjoy working with them There's times when it's frustrating, but it's not often."

Residents want 4-way stop

CHESTERVILLE — Residents of Queen Street say a stop sign may be the ounce of prevention needed to prevent a collision at the corner of their road and Main Street North.

In a letter to village council, Jim Sullivan said he's witnessed four near-collisions at the corner, currently a three-way stop. The letter was signed by three other residents along the street. Speeders are also a problem, Sullivan wrote.

The residents want council to erect a stop sign on Main Street North.

But because the road is part of the United Counties' system, council members referred the request to the county road engineer.

Some council members wondered whether another stop sign on Main would help or hinder traffic. Last year the corner of Main and King was turned into a four-way stop.

"Aren't county roads supposed to be for moving traffic and not slowing traffic?" asked Coucillor Roger Cole, adding an additional stop might prove annoying to the many tractor-trailer drivers who use Main to make their way through the village.

Patience, please

Animals like these kittens at Cornwall's OSPCA shelter will have to wait patiently until after the holidays for adoption. The shelter will not offer animals for adoption between Dec. 17 and Jan. 3 to discourage spur-of-the-moment pet buying.

Pets don't belong under Christmas tree

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

There's hardly an empty cage at SD&G's animal shelter in Cornwall. But if you want to adopt a pet, you'll have to wait.

The Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (OSPCA) shelter in Cornwall, like most shelters, will not offer animals for adoption at Christmas time. Adoption will cease between Dec. 17 and Jan.3.

"We're not adopting out Christmas presents," shelter superviser Debbie Boulerice says. "It's not a good time to introduce a pet into the house."

Pets, especially dogs, do not make good Christmas presents for several reasons, Boulerice says.

She says Christmas can be hectic enough without a young puppy or kitten running around. An animal needs a good two weeks to adjust to a new environment, and a house full of relatives and Christmas bustle can make for a bad start.

"We get people in here Christmas Eve to adopt a pet and you know this is strictly to have something under the tree Christmas morning," she says.

> "We get people in here Christmas Eve to adopt a pet and you know this is strictly to have something under the tree Christmas morning."
> -Cornwall OSPCA shelter superviser Debbie Boulerice

"They're not going to see the true animal on Christmas morning. They're going to see a nervous, frightened animal and it's usually not a positive experience. The animal's not getting a fair chance," she says, adding that the experience can often end up with a bite or scratch.

Stopping pet adoption at Christmas is something that most, if not all shelters in Ontario, do.

"It's something that's always done, just like we don't adopt out black cats at Halloween - we do get requests for them."

Boulerice is familiar with pets given as Christmas presents because they often wind up at the shelter when children are back in school.

There are legitimate reasons that animals come to the shelter, she says, but too often it is because someone didn't think before they bought a pet.

"A lot of what we see in here after Christmas are animals that were given as gifts."

Many of these animals come from "backyard breeders," who Boulerice says have no trouble selling pets at this time of year as long as the pets are cute and cuddly.

Boulerice says not enough people are aware when they buy a pet at Christmas that pet ownership is a long-term commitment that requires attention, responsibility, caring and money.

They do not realize that a kitten in six months will be in heat and that an animal that is not fixed will produce offspring.

"They've got to think of tomorrow, not just today."

While putting a pet under the Christmas tree is a bad idea, there are alternatives for people who want to give the joy of pet ownership.

Boulerice says putting a leash or food dish under the tree, then looking for a pet after the Christmas rush is a good way to gradually introduce someone to a pet.

Another method is to give a book on dog or cat breeds for Christmas. The family can sit down and discuss pet ownership, including which breed is most suitable.

This is better, Boulerice says, than buying a "surprise" pet for someone. It might not be what they want or suit their lifestyle and schedule.

"If they're really interested, they can wait until after the holiday. They need to educate themselves as to what they want."

Families can also visit the shelter in January when it reopens and see what is available to suit their pet needs.

Boulerice says she has thought of offering gift certificates redeemable after the Christmas holiday, as some shelters do, but says she is not sure if that is a suitable alternative.

MAPLE RIDGE — Many people are familiar with Ontario's Legislature at Queen's Park in Toronto through televised sessions.

But Maple Ridge student Moira Klein-Swormink is much more familiar with it than most.

The 13-year-old from Winchester recently completed a 40-day session as a page in the provincial legislature.

"It was great, I had a lot of fun," she says. She was one of 25 pages who attended the 3rd session of the 35th Parliament.

She left for Toronto Sept. 25 and returned Nov. 6, and stayed with family near Toronto while there.

"It was interesting meeting all the politicians, especially (Premier) Bob Rae," she says. Moira asked Rae his thoughts on an upcoming federal election. But Rae was not all politics, she says.

"He wasn't just hooked on that. He said he missed his family when he went away." Moira also met Lieutenant-Governor Hal Jackman and enjoyed lunch in his "very fancy" suite.

As a page, Moira attended the house's afternoon sessions and performed six different duties including delivering messages, bringing water to MPPs as well as other clerical errands.

They had tests on the legislative process and were tested on their recognition of the MPPs' faces. They learned how bills become legislation and the jobs of certain people like the speaker, whips and clerks.

But it wasn't all work. Pages visited the Hard Rock Cafe at Toronto's SkyDome while the Blue Jays were practising - and on their way to a second consecutive World Series win. Moira says it was exciting to be in Toronto when the Jays won it all.

They visited the CN Tower, had two pizza days and spent weekends at Toronto's Eaton Centre shopping. Moira says while it was fun to visit Toronto, she wouldn't want to live there.

Winchester's Moira Klein-Swormink recently returned from Queen's Park in Toronto, where she was a page in the provincial legislature. Moira was given a scroll and photo of her with speaker David Warner as mementos.

"It was very busy, always busy. There was never a moment to spare. I don't think I'd like to live there, I like Winchester."

Aside from the first-hand lesson in government, Moira says she learned mostly about people and the different ways people go about things.

She made good friends with three of her page colleagues in particular, one from Nakina in Northern Ontario, one from Etobicoke near Toronto and one from Windsor. They have written to each other and are talking about visiting each other in the summer.

Pages had their own debate on the province's proposed graduated licensing system and Moira led the opposition.

"We really got into it, especially considering that we're getting near the age of driving."

When she first sat in on a sitting of parliament, Moira says she was surprised that some members were not exactly quiet and orderly.

"I didn't know they all yell back and forth at each other," she says. "I thought they would be in order. But it was more fun that way, I think."

Moira says she is grateful to SD&G and East Grenville MPP Noble Villeneuve, who she says was pleasant and helpful during her stay.

"Noble was very kind to me and it was great to have someone there to guide me."

At the end of her stay, Moira was presented with a scroll and photo of her with house speaker David Warner to commemorate her work as a page.

Support, respite available for Alzheimer victims and families

Liz Edwards
Special to The Record

WINCHESTER — Starting next month local victims of Alzheimer and their families will have a new way to cope with the degenerative brain disease.

They will be able to turn to the new Nor-Dun Seniors Support Centre in Winchester for respite, counselling and even recreation. Beginning Jan. 11 an adult day support program at the centre will offer once-a-week care from 10am to 2pm every Tuesday.

For a few hours a week, those afflicted with the disease can participate in social activities such as baking, crafts or exercise.

"Sometimes they don't get the chance to leave the home and get out and do anything so what we're trying to do is give them better quality of life, give them a chance to interact," says Lynn Siminoski of the Alzheimer Society of Cornwall.

"We also have an exercise program. We have an occupational therapist that helps individualize and target the needs of each client. It's a structured program and we try to keep the same routine every week."

The activities are geared to work with whatever skills the clients still has. Alzheimer's disease affects the brain destroying brain cells and along with it the ability to think, understand or perform even simple tasks. It has no known cause or cure.

"They lose a lot of skills," says Siminoski.

"Let's say a woman has been a beautiful knitter for 50 years and she will lose that skill but she might retain a little bit of her crocheting ability. We will work with that because there's no way we can teach her to knit because once the skill is gone it's gone so we try to build on the strengths and compensate for the weaknesses."

The three or four hours a week is also there to give caregivers a break, although they can stay for the program if they wish.

About 750 people in SD&G, Prescott and Russell counties are afflicted with Alzheimer's disease. The Alzheimer Society of Canada identified at least 19 of these victims in Dundas County when it proposed the program. Until now the closest program for those inflicted with the disease was offered at Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge in Cornwall.

For $15 a week, clients can be picked up at their home. The fee is $10 without transportation. Most of the costs of the program are paid for by the provincial government as part of its long term care reform, a plan to improve care and facilities for the aged across Ontario.

A similar program has been operating out of Ingleside at the Osnabruck Seniors Support Centre for more than a year.

Bev Warnock, a volunteer with the Ingleside program, says the program gives their clients some time away from their illness.

"In some cases people when their patience is getting very tired sometimes there is a need to rest or have a change of pace. We're there to provide encouragement and friendship basically and be a support. To share and talk with them," she says.

Anyone interested can contact Siminoski at 932-4914.

Cleaning up the countryside

Workers learn about hazardous site cleanup in Morrisburg

Elizabeth Moreau
Record Staff

MORRISBURG — Abandoned scrapyards and gas stations, tire fires, fuel tank spills, petroleum leaks, former mine sites — they can be found all across the country. And left untreated, they can contaminate groundwater, soil and vegetation.

More than 4,400 sites have been identified by the National Contaminated Sites Remediation Program (NCSRP) as "sites of concern," properties which can't be put on the market until they are cleaned up, says program manager Ned Lynch.

One-third of them are undergoing assessment and about 1,000 are currently being dealt with. And there may be many more contaminated sites in the country, Lynch said. An NCSRP survey on private sector activities showed that, based on data submitted by 142 companies, 5,862 sites underwent assessment and/or remediation in 1992 at a cost of $184 million.

But until recently, much of the cleanup was being done by American contractors. There has simply been a lack of qualified Canadian personnel — people who have the proper training to work on a contaminated site. Lynch calls it a "training deficit."

A new program being offered in Morrisburg hopes to cut that deficit. The Operating Engineers Training Institute of Ontario (OETIO) recently began offering training courses for workers who clean up hazardous contaminated sites. Last Thursday the facility opened its doors to federal and provincial officials, industry experts, contractors, consultants and others to explain and demonstrate the program.

Kingsley Cole, the OETIO's administrator of training, said the course will train a variety of workers and professionals, from heavy-equipment operators to construction site supervisors.

"There's a ton of cleanup to do in Canada," Cole said in an interview.

"What we're trying to do is put together a workforce to do it."

The two-week course, also offered by the operating engineers in Burnaby, B.C., has trained 150 people nationally, including 85 in Morrisburg since September.

Cole said among other things, the trainees learn about toxicology, industrial hygiene, site procedures and the proper use of protective gear. The idea, Cole said, is to train workers to clean up the site and leave the contaminating materials behind.

"Workers can't just go in there in their old clothes and clean up," he said.

Cole said 14 courses are already fully booked for 1994. Students come from as far away as Manitoba and Newfoundland and most, but not all, are members of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Cole said with the increased number of recession-related plant closures, which can leave behind contaminated sites, the demand for such workers is growing.

He said the cleanup of contaminated sites may very well become a new industry in Canada which helps create new jobs.

"It's important to the nation because it's part of the environmental cleanup we're endeavoring to do. It's important to the environment because it's work that's not going across the border," Cole said.

In November 1992 a hazardous waste workers training program was launched as a pilot project at the Canadian Environmental Workers Training Institute in Sydney, Nova Scotia, and 231 workers received training under the program.

But Lynch, of the remediation program, said most Canadian workers have had to take training courses in the United States.

Lynch says the NCSRP, initiated in 1989 by an intergovernmental group of environment ministers, operates on a "polluter pays" policy, although in some cases a responsible party either can't be found or is unable to pay the costs of the cleanup.

For such cases, the federal, provincial and territorial governments have committed $200 million toward cleanup of so-called orphan sites which are considered high risk. The program plans to deal with 30 such sites over five years.

Literary escapism

Gabrielle Roy's Tin Flute inspires students

Michelle Valiquet
Special to The Record

MAPLE RIDGE — Readers are used to being taken to other worlds through the magic of literature. But that form of literary travel took on a more tangible form last Friday when OAC French students at North Dundas held an Escape Fair.

The bilingual event presented those who attended with audiovisual and live displays which explored painting, popular culture, politics, restaurants and fashion trends from the Depression and World War II eras.

The students who hosted the affair had recently completed Tin Flute, a novel by Canadian writer Gabrielle Roy. As part of a class assignment they were instructed to pick some aspect of the book or the time period in which the novel took place (1935-45) as the subject of their displays.

The general public or invited guests could wander through the classroom which housed the displays on their own or accompanied by period-dressed tour guides. Carrie Swerdfeger, one of the Escape Fair tour guides, says the assignment allowed students to learn more about the history of the period in a way that interested them.

"When you can research something that already interests you, it's more fun," says Swerdfeger. "You remember it better too."

Swerdfeger says students took three weeks to develop their displays from conception to completion. "We had a dry run yesterday with students from other classes coming through and asking us questions," she notes.

"But I was still a little nervous today," admits Swerdfeger.

Rachel Heide, who created a display on fashion spanning 1900s to 1940s, says her investigation of the Second World War era revealed some unusual fashion facts.

"During World War II, the government regulated the amount of material used in dresses, but women got away from the official uniform style suits by making their own dresses," explains Heide.

"Men's clothing has changed little since the turn of the century to the 1940s or today even. What they wore in the 1900s can be seen in some form on men today," states Heide.

The idea for this literary Escape Fair was the brainchild of Toby Roach, who teaches the OAC French course to 25 students. She says she was pleased with the originality and research shown by the students' projects.

"They dug deeper than I thought they would," says Roach.

Chesterville welcomes Kris Kringle

Santa Claus, along with many brave local residents of all ages, endured a cold blustery Saturday to participate in Chesterville's Christmas parade. Some float participants had to bundle up, like these children (above), while others' costumes and other activities may have kept them warm enough, like on the Chesterville and District Loins Club float (below, left). Chesterville Public School's log house entry earned second place honors in the non-commercial category (below, right), and some parade participants did nothing but clown around (top right). Non-commercial winners, in order, were Trinity Sunday School, Chesterville Public School, and 1st Chesterville Beavers and Scouts. Commercial winners were, in order, Vanden Bosch Farms, Chesterville Hair Studio and Countryman Electric.

Notice to all Roman Catholic School Supporters

Further to Ministry of Education decisions that have had the effect of reducing the level of provincial support and in keeping with the Stormont, Dundas & Glengarry Catholic School Board's continuing efforts to decrease operating costs in order to direct more resources to school-related purposes as a result of decreasing provincial support, the following Plan has been approved:

A Plan of Consolidation of Board Operational Sites

- Moving:

a) Board Office operations from First Street East;
b) Board Maintenance and Stores Operations from Rosemount Avenue;
c) Board Storage and Repair Facilities from Pitt Street;
d) English-language administrative and professional service staff; printing services; resource center facilities from Campbell Street.

→ To a single site in the process of being acquired.

- Savings achieved through the Plan of consolidation are greater than the cost of acquiring a new site.
- The decrease in operating costs will free up resources that can then be directed to school-related purposes.
- Revenues from the sale of Board surplus properties will be directed to school-related purposes.

Avis à tous les contribuables catholiques

Suite à des décisions du ministère de l'Éducation qui ont eu comme effet de réduire le niveau d'appui financier à l'éducation et conformément aux initiatives du Conseil des écoles catholiques des comtés de Stormont, Dundas & Glengarry voulant réduire ses coûts opérationnels afin de diriger plus de ressources à des fins éducationnelles, le Plan suivant a été approuvé :

Un Plan de regroupement des sites d'opérations du Conseil

- Déménager:

a) le bureau du Conseil de la Première rue est;
b) les ateliers d'entretien et de magasins de l'avenue Rosemount;
c) les ateliers de réparations et d'entreposage de la rue Pitt;
d) les bureaux administratifs et de services professionnels de la Section de langue anglaise; les services d'imprimeries; le Centre de ressources pédagogiques de la rue Campbell.

→ À un site en voie d'être acquis

- Les épargnes obtenues dans le Plan de regroupement sont plus grandes que le coût d'acquisition du site.
- La réduction des coûts opérationnels permettra de diriger plus de ressources à des fins éducationnelles.

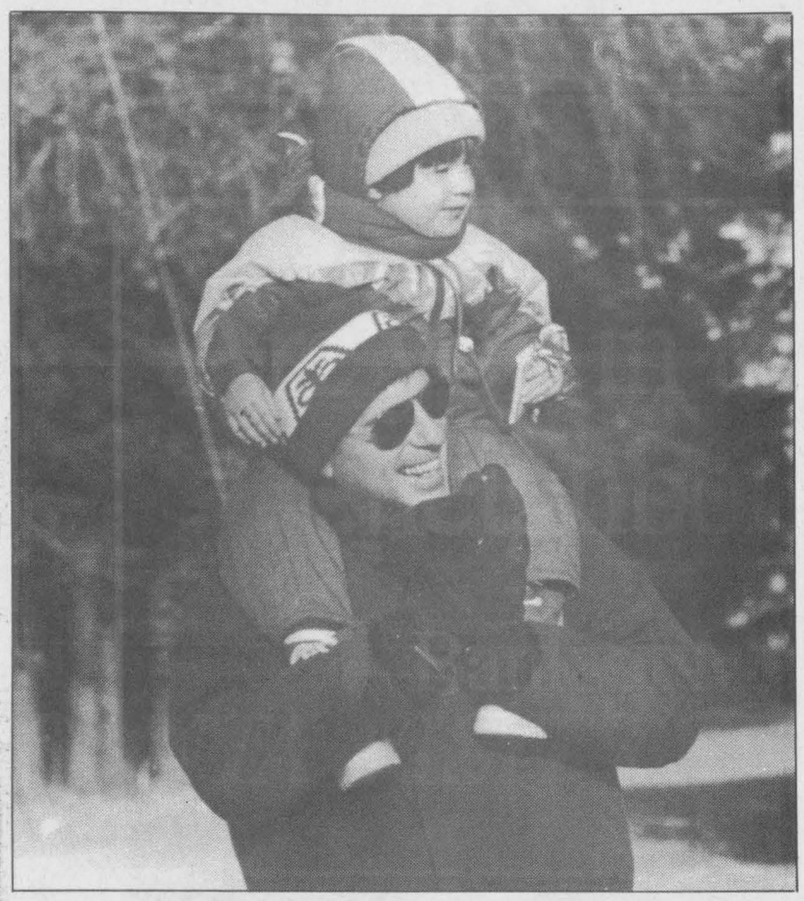
SANTA VISITS STORMONT



Santa Claus, as busy as he is this time of year, took time out to visit Berwick and Finch on the weekend. One young parade goer in Berwick Sunday (left) had to find higher ground to view the festivities. Children watching Finch's parade Saturday had to bundle up due to cold weather (below), as did those who sat on the floats (bottom right). Despite the cold temeratures, the Christmas spirit was evident wherever Santa visited.

EDITORIAL & OPINION

EDITORIAL

New approaches to an old holiday

It can be the best of times, it can be the worst of times. Whatever it means to you, the holiday season can stir up memories and emotions, generate financial and physical stress, and create a wealth of good times.

And while many of us get caught up in preparing the perfect meal, choosing the perfect gift, and decorating the most charming house, for others the season can be simply miserable. Ask anyone who is worried about whether they can afford to buy a turkey, or for whom the holidays represent the anniversary of the death of a loved one. This time of warmth and fuzziness can be terribly lonely and painful.

It is a time of year unlike no other, however, when we are called upon from all sides to look beyond ourselves. And if the holiday season has begun to lose its meaning, there is much that can be done to help get it back.

Donating to a food bank or other charitable organization is perhaps the most obvious way. But we should not lose sight of the fact that people are hungry all year long, not just at Christmastime.

The elderly can be especially vulnerable during the holidays, which may only serve to bring back memories of happier times with people who are no longer alive. If you know of someone who is alone, don't assume that they have plans. They may not come right out and ask if they can eat Christmas dinner with your family, but they would likely more than appreciate an invitation. And you might just find that their stories of Christmases past will make this holiday one you will remember.

Hospitals, homes for the aged, drop-in centres or shelters for the homeless usually hold Christmas parties before Dec. 25. On the actual holiday, there may be few staff members around, and even fewer visitors. A visit, however short, to someone who is confined during Christmas may make a world of difference.

The advantages of these random acts of kindness, as they have come to be known, are multifold. Spending any day of the year alone and lonely is difficult, and Christmas only intensifies these feelings. A small act can turn a dark day into a memorable one.

It is easy to succumb to the commercial pressures that turn Christmas into an annual, if temporary, economic recovery. This view of the biggest holiday of the year can also lead to a financial hangover and little satisfaction. It often takes no money and just a bit of creative thought to recapture the true meaning of Christmas. And you just might be surprised at how long the feeling lasts.

OFF THE RECORD

A lottery loss and the price isn't right

By Robin Morris
Sequestered Juror

The first time in my life I win a lottery and I end up losing money on it.The 649? Lottario? No. Jury duty.

Yeah, you guessed it. I made the cut during Monday's matinee in provincial court in Brockville and with 11 other lucky winners get to sit in judgment over one of my peers.

One hundred and 10 in the jury panel, I'm the sixth called, three ahead of me are rejected and Bingo!, I'm a hall monitor; Sir Alf Ramsay with the All-England Eleven; a CFL All Star.

All for $13.92 a day, out of which comes my gas, parking and lunch. (Sorry, gotta take a break. The Dolphins just returned a punt for a TD to pull within one of the Steelers. If Miami pulls this one out, I win the office NFL pool and the $9 grand prize. Maybe the day won't be a total washout after all...I can't win for losing. Rod Woodson gets his eighth interception of the season to snuff out a Miami drive with four seconds to go and I can say adios con dios to my nine bucks.)

I know you're salivating at the prospect of reading my insights on the workings of the judicial process from a juror's point of view but I've been warned that loose lips not only sink ships, they can get me a substantial stretch in the Stoney Lonesome so you'll just have to wait for the CTV Movie of the Week (and I'm open for bids on the book rights).

So what else will we discuss in our time together this week, gentle reader?

How about some retail sales legerdemain in which a 15 per cent discount magically turns into 13 per cent, when it could have been 17 per cent? And of course you, gentle reader, get euchered in the process.

What I'm talking about is the "we pay the GST and PST and you save 15 per cent" sale. They're everywhere as desperate retailers try to salvage some sales out of an otherwise disastrous recession (thank you Michael Wilson and may your gold card turn to lead).

Sounds okay, doesn't it? I mean, a seven per cent PST plus an eight per cent GST adds up to 15 per cent, right? So on every dollar you spend you save 15 per cent, right?

Wrong.

Let me and good buddy Jethro Bodine use our guzzintuhs to demonstrate the fallacious nature of these assertions (as Jethro would say).

Let's take your $1 purchase. Adding the PST and GST makes the total $1.15, of which you save 15 cents. But 15 cents is 13 per cent of $1.15.

Now if retailers really wanted you to save 15 per cent, they'd knock that amount off the original price and then tack on the two sales taxes.

So then your $1 would go down to 85 cents and with the taxes added on, you'd pay 98 cents. That's two cents less than the "we pay the taxes" price and 17 cents less than the original pre-sale price (with taxes included).

While it doesn't amount to a row of pins at the Anything For A Buck Store (What can you get for two cents? A pack of matches. If you're a non-smoker, your two pennies will end up in the little courtesy tray beside the cash.)

But calculate it on a $100 purchase, and you'll save $2.25 by asking for a 15-per-cent discount rather than have the retailer pay the taxes. And on a $1,000 purchase (a good refrigerator or a stereo system, for example) you'll save $22.50, almost enough to take the trouble and strife out for supper, or just about the right amount to get a copy of my new book, Trial by Ire: Robin Morris as Juror.

And your total saving off the pre-sale price will be $72.50, a little more than I'll make this week as a juror, but not as much as I would have made if Steve DeBerg could learn to throw to guys in the same color shirts.

Reader questions Sikhs' turban tactics

There will be few, if any, of the Sikhs who presented themselves at Legion Halls who seek membership or attendance at Legion functions once the "turban drama" dies down. This is primarily because Sikhs do not have the reputation of being mixers. Their main purpose was to stir up a desired level of attention over their claims of religious rights. The Sikh community won the battle of the R.C.M.P. dress code and moved on to another battlefield.

Regardless of the varying viewpoints of our Canadian society, it appears that the basic argument revolves around the Sikhs' appeal for public sensitivity toward their beliefs —an appeal that is supported by our government leaders, the media and, recently, the Dominion Command of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Would it not have been considerate of the 15 per cent of orthodox Sikhs to have shown some sensitivity toward other Canadians by asking the remaining 85 per cent who do not wear the turban to do so...before ramming it down the throats of 25 million Canadians?

THE FARMER'S WIFE'S

By Wyn Thompson

Serene and quieting, a blanket of snow transforms the earth into a winter wonderland. Out of this quiet storm came a friend for a visit and a cup of tea.

We talked about the Christmas celebration which was fast approaching and what it meant to each of us. "Christmas for me," said my friend, "is a time for remembering the first Christmas of so long ago and our own cherished celebrations down through the years."

I agreed, remembering that there comes a time every December when, letting up on the preparations, you become aware of the specialness of the month — the Christmas feeling, I guess it is.

It hits you at different times, but most people if they look back can remember those times for dozens of years. Sometimes it comes late, when you are tired and discouraged and behind in all your projects and out-of-step with the festivity which is circulating around you.

My friend laughingly agreed. "Once when it hit I was on a city bus trying to handle two Canadiana footstools I hadn't thought I'd be able to buy. Another time it arrived when we unpacked the tree ornaments and looked at those well-worn and well- loved things."

"For me it usually arrives with the Christmas tree," I recalled.

"I'll never forget one year," continued my friend, "when I was in the middle of many projects and problems, I decided I'd have to fake the Christmas spirit. Get through it someway, I thought resignedly, do what is necessary, act happy, but don't count on choking up with joy unconcealed.

My grandkids, now grown and away from home, were young enough to have to be picked up after school and taken for their music lessons.

I was asked to get them one drizzly, grey December day when their parents couldn't get home from work in time, and I arrived just in the nick of time at the schoolhouse door where they waited. I felt rushed and tired, my mind on other things. They climbed into the back seat of the car and spied a Christmas box that was on the seat."

"It's open," the older one reported happily. "Can we look?"

"I suppose so," I said, my mind on the increasing traffic and the slick pavement under my wheels.

I heard a substantial inrush of breath from one, and then the other one cried, "Nests! Real bird's nests for the Christmas tree!"

"There was one for each of them —from a friend of mine who collects and disinfects a few nests each year —little twig nests, with a gold string attached to hold it to the Christmas tree, milkweed silk for lining, and a bright plumaged bird with two, tiny, speckled eggs on each nest. There was a note on each which said:

Especially blessed
And happy is he,
Who finds a bird's nest
In his Christmas tree.
- Old Swedish Proverb.

It took them most of the journey to decide on the bird they wanted. In fact, they agonized over the decision but finally each cradled their choice.

Then they began to sing, not the same song, of course. It was "Jingle Bells" from one and "Silent Night" from the other. I suggested they sing one song at a time and so we started over, "Silent Night, holy night..."

Suddenly that December night was calm, the darkness approaching had a soft look. The voices of the grandkids were sweet although off-key. Christmas, I decided, it's here!"

"You are so right," I continued, "for Christmas is such an intensely personal experience that we can only describe it as it has happened to us.

For me Christmas is set in Eastern Ontario where I remember, not only with the usual five senses but with the sixth of Christmas as well —the delight in little kindnesses shown, the excitement of childhood, and the yearly hope for peace and goodwill."

We talked of how we enjoy the heritage of Christmas traditions. The Christmas tree, for me, has to be natural with steadfast lights, not ones that blink on and off like a movie marquee.

I still like to drive along the concession roads or walk the town streets to see the trees in the windows of other homes. I enjoy the new tastes that have come to our countryside from other countries.

There's marzipan shaped into brightly colored fruits and vegetables, a gift from Switzerland, the smoky taste of roasted chestnuts bringing memories of England, barley candy, and wonderful hunks of Belgian chocolate from which I break a bite to savor with a cup of coffee.

My friend talked of the seasonal sounds she has enjoyed through the years. She recalled that people laugh more, that the Salvation Army bell- ringers are such a welcome sight, that the amplified Christmas carols fill the caverns of shopping centres and spill out-of-doors.

"But what I miss in the city," she continued, "is the near silence in Eastern Ontario on Christmas Eve, when we look out on the snowy fields, moonlit, and still, as though the whole world were waiting for Christmas morning."

We concluded that the smells of Christmas in Eastern Ontario were very special —the turkey, the wonderful fragrance curling upward from the slit in the mince pie, or a Christmas pudding made from a mother's or grandmother's recipe, all the smells that make the description of Cratchits' Christmas dinner the delight of 'A Christmas Carol.'

And of course, through all the house the fragrance of cedar and pine!

Resource centre adds new tool to help jobless explore career paths

Elizabeth Moreau
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — When Paul Melki visited the Dundas Human Resource Centre last week, he had a new tool at his disposal to help him in his job search.

The job centre recently acquired a computer, donated by Nestle Canada in Chesterville, for use with the Discover computer program, designed to help users explore new career paths.

Employment counsellor Linda Swerdfeger says the program is user-friendly, and while it's not designed to replace people like herself, it does allow the user to work at their own speed and on their own time.

The program has two functions: One is to provide users with information about various jobs and careers. It provides details on work tasks related to a particular job, work setting, related occupations, skills, education and personal qualities needed, salary potential, and hiring outlook.

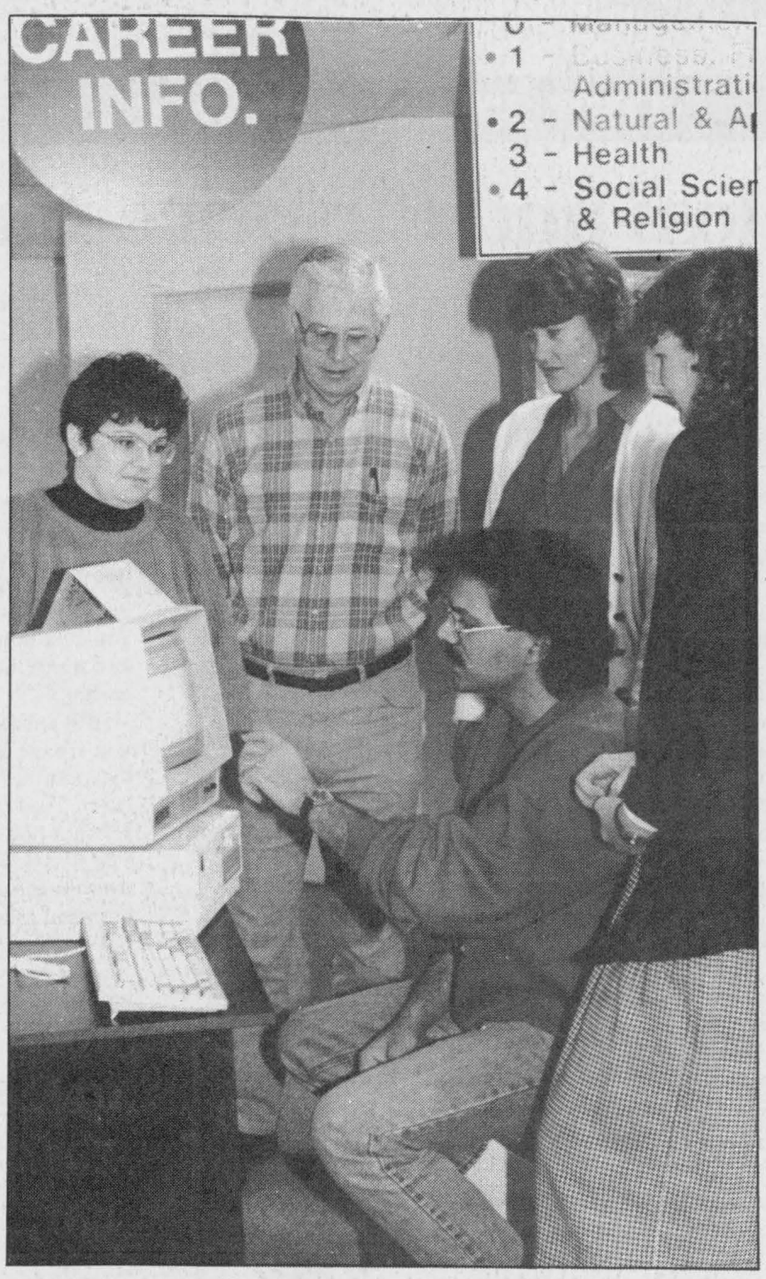
The program also has information about vocational, technical and business schools, community colleges, universities, and available financial aid.

For people who want to change their career path but who aren't sure exactly what direction to go in, users can also work with the Discover program's aptitude and interest tests. Based on the user's responses, the computer will list careers and jobs related to their interests, skills and past work experience.

"For people who aren't sure about what they want to do, it helps give them some ideas," says Swerdfeger.

Other aptitude tests require a counsellor to administer, says Swerdfeger. The computer program simply walks the user through all the steps.

The program compliments the centre's career library, which contains printed information on thousands of occupations. Both are available free of charge to anyone who wants to use them. The resource centre is located at 17B Industrial Drive in Chesterville.



Paul Melki, seated, tries the new Discover program at the Dundas Human Resource Centre. Looking on are Nicole McIntyre, Nestle factory manager Jim Cummings, centre co-ordinator Cynthia Whetter and employment counsellor Linda Swerdfeger.

CARD OF THANKS
The family of the late Kim Beckstead wish to express their thanks to everyone including friends and neighbors of Marty and Krista, for flowers, cards, donations and lunch served by U.C.W. Thanks again.

CARD OF THANKS
A very special thank you to the kind stranger who left the note on my windshield Dec. 9, 1993. Thanks to your information the person who hit my car and left the scene has been traced. The time and effort you extended has saved me a great deal of trauma as I no longer have to worry about collision, deductible and higher insurance premiums. A kindness given is like a ripple in the water and I hope it is returned to you many times over.
Thank you again,
M. Laplante

Kings' goalie posts shutout

After a 4-1 loss to the Gatineau Ambassadors Thursday night that halted a three-game winning streak, the Rideau St. Lawrence Kings regained their touch with a 3-0 victory over the Frontenacs in Kingston Saturday.

Goalie Matt Humphrey earned the shutout in the major peewee "AA" contest as the Kings ran their ODMHL record to 10-4-4. Shane Peters scored twice and Dusty Kingston added the other.

Gatineau pulled the rug out from under Rideau St. Lawrence Thursday night with three late third- period goals. Both sides played to a 1-1 draw for most of the contest. Josh Dixon scored the lone Kings' goal.

Titans topple Seaway Rapids

The Ottawa Valley Titans dealt the Seaway Valley Rapids a 4-1 loss Sunday, splitting the minor bantam "AA" team's card.

Earlier in the week, the Rapids defeated the Rideau St. Lawrence Kings 3-1.

Seaway Valley held the ODMHL league-leading Titans to a 1-1 draw until the last six minutes of Sunday's tilt. Stuart Rutherford scored the Rapids' marker in the second period.

Stephane Loyer sank a pair of third-period goals, one shorthanded, and Pierre Tranchemontagne tallied a powerplay marker in the first in the win over the Kings.

ND loses two by same score

The Kemptville Royals and the Morrisburg Lions dealt the North Dundas peewee "C" team a pair of 3-2 losses last week.

The Royals upended the Demons Sunday night in Kemptville while the Lions posted their win Friday night in Chesterville.

The two losses dropped North Dundas back below .500 at 4-6-2 in the Upper Canada Minor Hockey League.

David Lee finished the week with three points, scoring once against Kemptville and nabbing a goal and an assist against Morrisburg.

Joey Geertsma netted the other goal in the loss to the Royals, and Barret Brundige tallied against Morrisburg. Leonard Murphy, Dean Kerr and Todd O'Brien drew assists.

Kelly lifts Pucks to win over NGS

Kevin Kelly scored three times to lift the Jurassic Pucks to a 6-3 UCMHL novice "C" win over the North Glen Stor Braves Saturday in Finch.

The victory squared the series with NGS at a game each. The Braves took the first match by a 4-3 count.

It was a 1-1 game after a period and 3-3 after two frames. North Dundas broke it open with three unanswered goals in the final period.

Colin Bowie, Kyle Kloosterman and Kyle Holmes supported Kelly's three-goal effort. Mike Zubatuk, Josh McLean, J.J. Cayer, Bradley Morris and Kloosterman all earned assists.

Coach Bill Brannen was particularly impressed with the play of Holmes, who scored the winning goal at at 11:20 of the third period and added one assist.

Last Thursday in Chesterville, goalie Adam Sylvester gave up just one goal, to Metcalfe's Kyle Foubert at 4:14 of the second period, as the Pucks defeated the Jets' 4-1.

It was the Pucks second straight 4-1 win over Metcalfe.

Kloosterman tucked in McLean's relay at 4:09 of the first period, and Holmes and Kelly took turns setting each other up in the second. Bowie added an unassisted goal with 8:50 left in the game.

North Glen Stor was quick to smother most Kemptville scoring chances in the final (left); Randy McLeod helped the Demons into the "B" final (below) while Francis Briere provided the scoring punch for the Braves (bottom).

Braves win ND tournament

Chris Thatcher
Record Staff

Francis Briere scored three goals and set up one to lift the North Glen Stor Braves to a 4-2 win over the Kemptville Royals in the championship final of the North Dundas Midget "A" Hockey Tournament Sunday.

The Braves swept through the one-day affair at the Chesterville arena with barely a scratch, beating the host North Dundas Demons 5-3 and the Embrun Panthers 7-1 to qualify for the final.

North Dundas reached the consolation final of the seven-team event, but lost 2-1 to the Char-Lan Rebels in a shootout.

The four-point performance was merely the peak on a mountain of goals for Briere, who finished the tournament with 11. In fact, Briere was involved in all but three of the Braves' 16 markers.

"I had a good feeling going into the tournament," said NGS coach Tony Briere, Francis' brother. "We were coming off a good win (12-3 over Kemptville, ironically). And Francis and Julien (Benoit) played well."

With two wins over Kemptville already under his belt, Briere was glad to see the Royals in the final and not Char-Lan.

Kemptville sent the Rebels to the consolation round with a 4-3 win in overtime during round-robin play.

"I was only worried about Char-Lan," Briere said. "Kemptville gave us a good game, but I knew we could beat them. It got pretty bad on the bench for a while, though. The guys got on each other until Francis scored the second goal."

Briere broke open a 1-1 game in the last 30 seconds of the second period, beating Kemptville goalie Scott Officer on a breakaway after picking the puck off a defenceman's stick. The Braves were shorthanded at the time.

Obviously deflated, the Royals gave up another to Briere, also unassisted, three minutes into the third. Ryan Benton added an insurance marker with 1:56 left, tapping in a centering pass from Briere.

Mike Wetzel scored both goals for Kemptville, the last one with 11 seconds remaining. If the 7:30 starting time for Sunday's first game was hard on some players, it had no effect on Briere. The winger buried two goals in the first frame and two more in the second as NGS downed North Dundas.

He also combined with Benoit, who finished with four assists, to set up Benton at 2:25 of the third after the Demons had cut the difference to 4-3. Barry Bell tallied twice for ND and Shawn Johnson chipped in one. Brent Barkley, Kirk Liscumb and Steve Cross drew assists.

Embrun robs Express of two points in overtime

Chris Thatcher
Record Staff

It took a blown call, a bad penalty and a couple of mistakes, but the North Stormont Express managed to turn a 6-4 victory into a 7-6 overtime loss Thursday night in Finch.

Stephane Dicaire scored with 33 seconds left in the extra five-minute period to give the Embrun 72's their second win over the Express this season.

North Stormont entered the contest supporting a two-game winning streak, and a victory over the Eastern Ontario Junior "C" Hockey League's top team would have proven to coach Peter DeRooy that the 7-12-0 Express had finally turned the corner.

Fortunately for DeRooy, the players didn't let the loss get to them. Friday night in Russell, they took it out on the winless Lions, pounding them 17-5.

The result leaves the Express six points behind the fifth-place Rockland Nats and 16 points behind Embrun. However, North Stormont has two games in hand on Rockland.

Embrun, which boasts more firepower than any team in the league, stole the victory Thursday by coming back from a 6-4 deficit in the last three minutes.

Bill Lacombe scored with 2:27 to play and David Ryan buried a powerplay goal with seven seconds left in regulation time to send the game into overtime.

However, just seconds earlier, Jamie Cooper was hauled down while trying to catch up to a loose puck in front of an empty Embrun net. The 72's, already on the powerplay thanks to a high-sticking penalty against Francis Briere, pulled goalie Rusty Vachon for a two-man advantage. Cooper poked the puck off the stick of an Embrun defenceman but was held as he attempted to catch up with it.

The goal would have given the Express a 7-5 lead with less than a minute remaining.

"If I was Embrun, I wouldn't feel I'd won that game," DeRooy said. "They should give (referee Scott Davis) a Christmas present because he sure as hell gave them one. After the game, (Davis) admitted he made a mistake, but he can't turn the clock back. That's the way our luck's been."

The loss spoiled one of the best outings this season for North Stormont goaltender Andrew Barton, who turned aside 30 shots after coming in to replace Martin St. Denis in the first period. St. Denis, in his first game back since suffering an ankle injury six weeks ago, allowed the first two goals.

In the last meeting between the two teams, Embrun pasted North Stormont 16-3. In the rematch, the Express struck first and never trailed until overtime. They were tied 3-3 after one period and led 5-4 after two.

Briere, who made his return to the team after being cut two weeks ago after a dispute with DeRooy, scored three goals. Defenceman Dan McMillan, also in his first game back since breaking his foot in the first week of the season, scored once and assisted on Briere's first goal.

North Stormont's Mike Marleau ties up Embrun centre Pat Daniels (15) in second-period action Thursday.

Ryan Winter opened the scoring at 15:56 of the first, unassisted, and captain Chris Leroux buried a shorthanded goal at 13:59 of the third.

Lacombe, an affiliate player with the 72's, netted a pair and Martin Gignac, Eric Lalonde and Pat Daniels added the others. Gignac also drew three assists and currently sits second in the scoring race with 57 points, eight behind Dicaire.

Briere led the route in Russell, scoring three goals and adding six assists.

AROUND THE LEAGUE

Embrun is still in first place, despite a 7-4 loss to the Casselman Stars Friday night. Cassleman also beat the Rockland Nats 7-1 Sunday and are now within three points of the 72's.

The St. Isidore Eagles moved back into third place, two points behind the Stars, after a 7-0 win over Rockland Thursday and a 10-6 win over Vankleek Hill Cougars Sunday.

The Cougars beat Russell 11-1 Saturday and trail St. Isidore by one point.

Defenders bowl to Top Six title

Chesterville Lanes hosted the annual Top Six tournament recently. Top, the women's division winners (front, left to right): Debbie Linton and Judy Flemming. Back: Cathy Lalonde, Cathy Louise Koenjer and Liz Spiller. Missing is Claire Hubbard. Men's division winners (left to right): George Baker, Gary Scott, Mike Deschamps, Piet Kerkhof, Lyle Beckstead and Allan MacKenzie.

The Defenders recorded a score of 4094 to win the women's division of the Chesterville Bowling Lanes Top Six Tournament recently, narrowly edging out Wednesday Afternoon.

Williamsburg topped the men's division with a 4291 total, 184 points ahead of runner up Winchester. Thirteen teams competed in the women's divison and 11 participated in the men's.

Dianne Hoogeveen finished with the high single (301) and the high triple (760). Ila McElheran was second with 292 and Virley Edwards placed third with 285.

Jack Hoogeveen won the men's high single with a 293 total, three points ahead of second-place Fraser McMillan. Mike Deschamps took third with 286. He also won the high triple with 791.

Currie 'amazing' in Sr. novice win

Chris Currie drew the praise of coach Tom Mellean following his effort in the nets against the Smiths Falls Bears last Thursday.

Currie turned aside everything as North Dundas improved its UCMHL senior novice record to 8-3-0 with a 4-0 victory on home ice.

"Chris played just a super game. He was amazing," Mellean said.

Currie was solid again on Saturday as the Demons battled the North Glen Stor Braves to a 1-1 draw.

North Dundas took a 1-0 lead at 7:10 of the first period when Eric Toonders snapped home a Matthew Baker relay. NGS tied it up at one at 2:20 of the second frame on Pierre Lacomb's unassisted goal.

Currie and the Braves' Luc Lajeunese were unbeatable in the third period.

North Dundas dominated the first period of Thursday's meeting with Smiths Falls. Bruce Hamelin and Mike Thompson staked the Demons to a 2-0 lead. Fady Mahfouz and Terry Morrow set up Hamelin at 6:34 and Kyle Stewart fed Thompson at 6:16.

Chris Kelly made it 3-0 on an unassisted play with 3:38 left in the second and increased the margin in the third when he tapped in a Mike Thompson pass at 4:11.

Rebels stop Lions' Jr. B winning streak at six

The Char-Lan Rebels put the brakes to the Morrisburg Lions' winning streak Friday night, shading the Lions 5-4.

The top team in the Eastern Ontario Junior "B" Hockey League's St. Lawrence division also downed the Brockville Tikis 6-2 Saturday night to hike its record to 17-7-0.

For the Lions, the loss on home ice snapped a six- game winning streak. However, they still retained a two-point lead over the Winchester Hawks in the battle for second place.

On Thursday night in Winchester, Morrisburg defeated the Hawks 7-3 and now sport a 15-9-0 mark.

Winchester is 13-10-0 with a game in hand, after downing the fast-falling Alexandria Glens 9-4 Friday. The Glens, expected to be among the top three in the St. Lawrence division this season, have lost their last eight starts.

Char-Lan wins consolation final in shootout

The Braves scored five goals in the second period to eliminate Embrun in the semi-final tilt. Benton, Shawn Arsenault and Josh Graham netted singles to complement a pair from Briere, who also scored first- and third-period markers. Benoit assisted on two.

DEMONS BEDEVILED

Jason Corput spoiled North Dundas' bid for the consolation crown when he beat goalie Ben Flanagen in the shootout.

The Rebels and Demons skated to a 1-1 draw through regulation and overtime. But in the shootout, Rebs' netminder Ryan Derry stopped captain Jason Desormeaux, getting a pad down to block the low, stick-side shot.

Char-Lan struck first with 35 seconds left in the opening period, but Brent Barkley answered for North Dundas at 3:09 of the second. Wally Cinnamon assisted.

The Demons advanced to consolation round with 6-3 win over Embrun. Desormeaux netted two second-period goals and Bell and Barkley scored in the third as ND rallied from a 3-2 deficit. Jason Heuff and Cinnamon scored first-frame goals.

Dunbar extends streak with tie

Dunbar ran it's unbeaten streak to six games Saturday night following a 1-1 tie with Fontaine Concrete.

Dunbar, the Finch Broomball League's hottest team at the moment, has three wins and three ties in its last six games.

Fontaine's Jack Miner prevented the win, scoring with 1:29 left in the second period. Roch Lacombe had put Dunbar on the board just four minutes earlier.

In other action at the Finch arena, Brownlee's ESSO battled McCormick's Sewing Centre to a 2-2 draw; the Bush Bandits hammered Emard Lumber 8-2; and Smith Cartage upset top-ranked Alexandria Honda 2-1.

ESSO 2, MCCORMICK'S 2

Rob Leroux scored at 9:40 of the third period to give Brownlee's a much needed point.

McCormick's took a 2-0 lead in the first frame on two goals by Jason Norman, but Lewis Morris cut the lead in half in the last minute of the second, finishing a pass from Shawn Watson.

BANDITS 8, EMARD 2

Frank Bols netted a hat trick and two assists and Dave Bols added two goals and two assists to pace the Bandits to their second straight win.

Bill Nyenkamp, Lance Bowman and Bill Fisher scored the other goals for the second-seeded Bandits. Mike Derouchie and Jason Marsolais replied for Emard, currently 2-7-1.

SMITH'S 2, HONDA 1

Dennis Sullivan's goal at 3:58 of the third period broke a 1-1 stalemate and lifted Smith's to its fifth win of the season.

Alexandria's Rob Waldroff and Smith's Larry Shaver traded first period markers. Gerald Eby, who assisted on both Cartage goals, moved into second place in the scoring race with five goals and eight assists.

CORRECTION

Last week, Rob Waldroff was mistakenly identified as a three-goal scorer for Alexandria Honda. In fact, Greg Cooper scored the hat trick in the 5-1 win over Emard Lumber.

Knights nab third win

After losing their first six games of the season, the Black Knights have finally hit their stride.

The Knights posted their third straight win Wednesday, downing the first-place Green Machine 3-2.

Dan Moriarty netted the winner for the defending champions with 14 seconds left, tipping in a pass from Mark Smith.

Meanwhile, the Red Devils recorded their second consecutive victory of the Chesterville Town Hockey League season with a 7-3 decision over the White Lites to hike their record to 4-3-2, second overall.

After a scoreless first half, John Guy and Tony Frazier scored goals five minutes apart to give Black a 2-0 lead. Smith and Chris Guy set up the first and Kent Young and Moriarty assisted on the second.

Daryl Robinson and Barry McShane replied in a 45-second span starting at 8:10. Pat Kelly assisted on both.

The win gave Black a 3-6-0 mark while Green remained atop the league with a 5-3-1 record.

RED 7, WHITE 3

Darrell Shelp hiked his league-leading point total to 32 with four goals. Shelp has 21 goals and 11 assists, first in both categories, in nine games.

John Luimes added a pair and B.J. Fawcett collected a single marker while Kevin Byers drew three assists.

Dennis Ouellette, Greg Sullivan and Jerrold Boulanger for the Lites, now 4-4-1 on the season. Don Marcellus chipped in two helpers.

Warriors ride three-goal third

A three-goal second period was the difference as the Warriors doubled the visiting North Dundas bantam "B" Demons 4-2 in Brockville Thursday.

The Demons had just come off a two-game sweep of the Smiths Falls Bears and were looking for a second win over the Warriors, but the offence just wasn't there.

Wes McLeod gave North Dundas a 1-0 first-period lead when he completed a play by Zach Gauvreau at 12:15.

Brockville's Adam Tyman tied it up with his first goal at 14:22 of the second but the Demons responded at 11:06 when Ryan Swerdfeger fired in a pass from Jennifer McDonald. But the lead didn't last long.

Tyman scored at 10:51 to tie it at two. And then Brockville's Will Van Bridger came through with the winning goal with 49 seconds left in the second. Van Bridger figured in the scoring again when he helped Steve Campbell with 4:45 left in the game.

TWO OVER BEARS

North Dundas piled up back-to-back wins over the Bears, beating them 5-1 in Winchester on Dec. 2 and 6-3 in Smiths Falls on Dec. 4.

Darryl Beck missed the shutout in the first encounter when Dave Morris scored at 7:07 of the second frame. North Dundas led 3-0 after a period and 3-1 after two.

Andrew Roach led North Dundas' scoring with two goals and two assists. Ryan Filion and Derrick Gates each had a goal and one helper. Brock McBain hit the net once.

Netminder Brian Slowey posted a 6-3 win in the rematch in Smiths Falls, giving up three goals to Dave Morris, who scored in each period. It was a 1-1 game after one and 2-2 after two periods.

Prescott Road dethrones Vikings

Jim Fling and Dave Holmes scored second-half goals five minutes a part as the Prescott Road Black Knights dethroned the Morewood Vikings Sunday.

Steve Petersen and Glen Petersen set up Fling at 14:54 and Chad Benoit and Jeff Hope fed Holmes at 10:00 as the Knights beat the Vikes 2-0 to take over control of first place. Goalie Bruce Morris earned the shutout.

The Knights entered the game trailing the Vikings in the standings by one point and are now 9-1-1 on the season. Morewood slipped to 9-2-0.

Elsewhere in the Winchester and District Broomball League, the Newington Knights put the brakes to an 11-game losing skid, battling the Mountain Mountaineers to a 2-2 draw; the Winchester Raiders blanked the Manotick Merchants 3-0; and the Ormond Cloverdales downed the Toyes Hill Roadrunners 5-2.

KNIGHTS 2, MOUNTAIN 2

Steve Whitteker's goal with 1:30 left gave the Mountaineers a draw with the last place Knights. Scott Beauregard had staked Newington to a 2-1 lead just 49 seconds earlier.

Paul Seguin put the Knights on the board at 16:37 of the first half and Lloyd Newton replied for Mountain at 11:42 of the second.

RAIDERS 3, MANOTICK 0

Netminder Brad Pringle turned aside everything fired in his direction as the Raiders posted their sixth win.

Ron Van Koppen, Darcy Last and Ira Gibson beat Manotick's Chris McEvoy to hike Winchester's record to 6-5-0, fourth overall. Manotick dropped to sixth at 4-8-0.

ORMOND 5, TOYES HILL 2

Jamie Nolan scored his ninth and 10th goals of the season and Paul Downy added four assists as the Cloverdales handed the Roadrunners their third straight loss.

The four points improved Downey's league-leading total to 23 while Ormond improved to 9-2-0, tied for second with Morewood.

Trevor Dean also scored a pair for the Cloverdales and Dan McDiarmid netted a single. Paul Velthuis and Ted Bongers tallied for the Roadrunners (5-7- 0).

FITNESS FORUM

Changing attitudes

Jennifer Gregoire, Reg. N. N.D., B. Sc. Nu.

Medical and nutritional professionals have been subscribing more and more to the theory that the loss of five pounds may virtually insure the later gain of six, so that dieting - the major "treatment" for obesity - may also be a major "cause". In other words, rigid dieting may have the exact opposite effect on our weight from the one we'd intended.

It also appears that "regained" weight brings with it a higher level of fat tissue than before the weight was lost, even if the gain is back to the starting weight. Fat tissue requires less energy (calories) to exist than lean muscle tissue does (one reason why men, with a far greater proportion of lean muscle tissue to fat tissue than women, can consume many more calories per day than women can). The more fat tissue we have, the lower our basal metabolic rate, or BMR (the amount of calories we need to maintain our bodily functions without expending energy).

If regained weight brings with it more fat, the amount of calories we can consume and not gain weight decreases, which in turn will make it harder to lose weight the next time, because we'll have to cut back even further on calories.

The provocative "Setpoint Theory" of weight regulation is intertwined with such findings. In 1972, experts proposed that each individual is biologically programmed to maintain a certain weight (the Setpoint), which in some cases may be well above what society and/or medicine decrees to be normal for their height and body build. Thus, someone who appears to be fat may in fact be at his or her setpoint - or even below it.

The Setpoint doesn't just regulate weight, but also the amount of body fat. Fat is contained in specific cells in the body, and the number of these cells that each individual carries is presumably set early in life. Fat cells increase in number at particular periods of childhood development; by the beginning of adolescence, their number has basically become fixed. Once our fat cells have been set, we can never get rid of them - one reason why overweight children usually continue to be overweight throughout life.

However, our fat cells will shrink when we lose weight, and expand when we gain. According to Setpoint Theory, if we force our fat cells to shrink by dieting, they will fight back by demanding to be filled up again. This demand may be experienced as the drive to binge, or it may be expressed by slowing our metabolism so that remaining fat is conserved. So, if we start out with a lot of fat cells, our struggle to become and remain slender will be that much more difficult.

My Silent Achievers this week are all of you who remain loyal to your regular exercise schedule, even though this is the most time-consuming and demanding of seasons. You will be the winners in the long run.

We are so very lucky to be able to do it for ourselves.

Vikes give senior Devils first-half scare

Chris Thatcher
Record Staff

Never underestimate an opponent. It's easy to say but hard to do, especially if your last encounter with that opponent was a relatively easy 39-28 win.

The North Dundas Devils, favoured by many to win the SD&G senior boy's basketball "AA" division, got a first-half scare from the General Vanier Vikings Thursday before claiming a 66-45 victory on home court.

The Vikes rallied from an early 9-4 deficit to post a 17-14 lead in the first quarter, and started the second half with a 29-28 edge.

North Dundas beat GVSS a week ago at the Cornwall Collegiate Tournament and since then, the Vikings made very few changes to their offence. But the Devils missed a lot of shots in the first half and failed to contain the Vikings with a newly instituted full-court press.

"I could tell by the warm up that they were thinking they were going to walk away with it," North Dundas coach Deanna Corbett-White said. "I don't think our heads were in the game in the beginning."

The Devils finished the first half in a 26-26 tie and received a tongue-lashing from Corbett-White in the dressing room.

The effect was instantly noticeable. Less than a minute into the half, guard Ryan Buske hit his second of three field goals to put the Devils into the lead for good.

Buske, who hit the rim five times in the first half, finished with 17 points, 12 in the last two quarters.

"We just didn't get into it," he said to explain the slow start. "They played a zone and we struggled against the zone. We just couldn't get (the ball) to drop. And they were nailing everything."

"I've got to give GV credit," Corbett-White said. "In the first half they were playing good defence and their shot-percentage must have been in the 80s. We realized we had to play as a team and we went out and did that in the second half."

The Devils outscored the Vikes 40-19 in the second half. Centre Rod Merkley kept North Dundas close in the first, hitting 12 of his 19 points. Forward Sean Hache finished with 11 and forward Chris MacDonald added 10, eight in the second half.

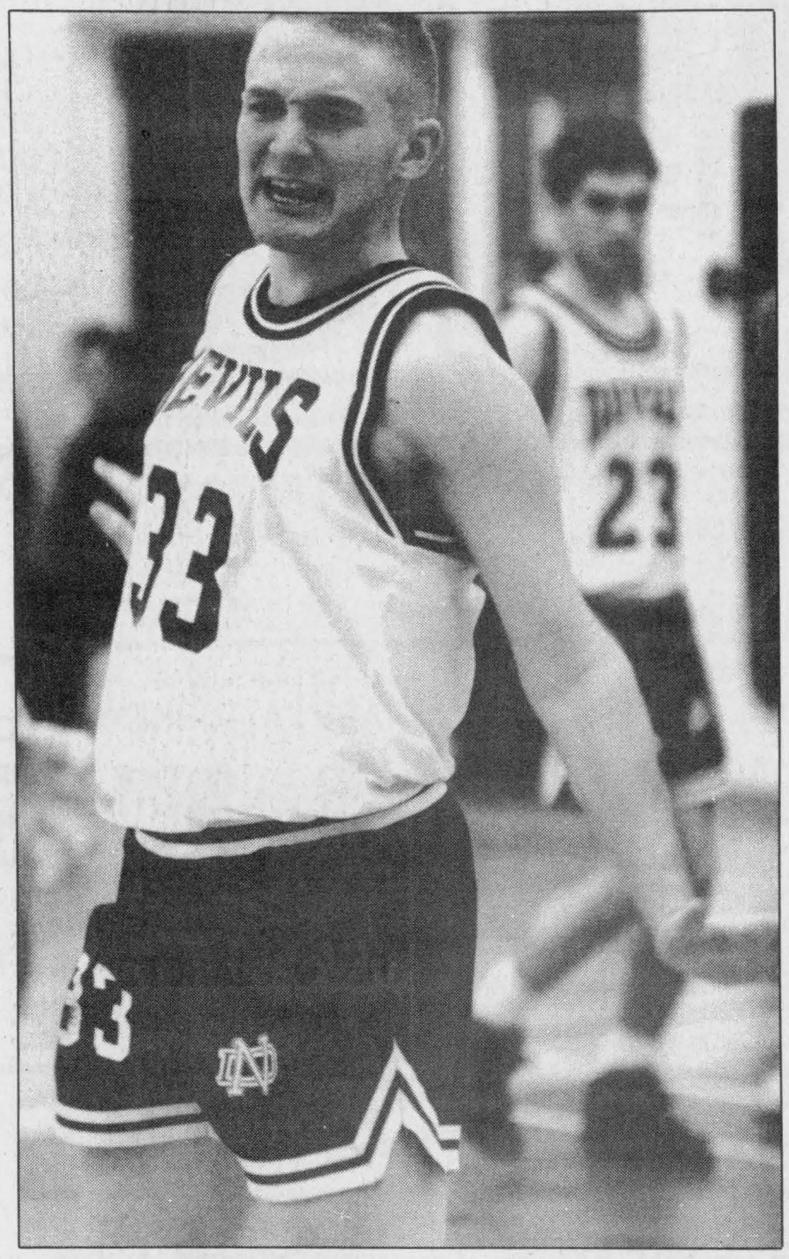
JUNIOR

General Vanier had few problems in the junior tilt, coasting to a 78-23 win over North Dundas. The Devils have now lost two straight. Alex Lukenda and Craig Larson led the Vikes with 17 points each.

MIDGET

The North Dundas midget team gave General Vanier an 18-point advantage before it started playing basketball. The Vikings took a 26-8 lead in the first half enroute to a 49-2 win.

The Devils outscored GVSS 11-9 in the third quarter but gave up 14 points in the fourth. Aaron Lannin topped the Devils with 10 and Kurt Smith added six.



Chris MacDonald hit for 10 points in the Devils' win over the Vikes.

SD&G Basketball

Senior Warriors aim for top of "A" division

Chris Thatcher
Record Staff

Two down, one to go.

The Tagwi senior boy's basketball team knocked off the second on three SD&G "A"division opponents Thursday with a 48-41 victory over the Seaway District Spartans in Iroquois.

The win sends the Warriors into the Christmas break with a 2-0 record and only Char-Lan to beat for first place in the "A" division. Last week in Ingelside, they bounced the Rothwell-Osnabruck Lancers 55-42.

Like the game against R-O, Tagwi ran into fourth- quarter foul trouble and spent most of the final eight minutes trying to prevent a Seaway comeback.

"We have a very aggressive team and we start ending up in foul trouble in the second half," Warriors' coach Sean Lee said. "We built up a bit of a lead in the second half and basically managed to hold onto it."

Tagwi held a 28-18 lead at the half but it didn't feel like a 10-point cushion to Lee.

"That first half was closer than that," he said. "Seaway's got a good young team. They've got more height than us but, in some ways, they're a lot like us."

The Spartans' offense is built around twin towers Jamie Helmer and Clint Blok. Lee put centre Peter Jack on Helmer for the first three quarters and used a combination of players in the fourth after Jack got into foul trouble. Helmer finished the game with just 10 points, well below his usual mark.

"We knew enough about them to key on Blok and Helmer," Lee said. "Helmer's got the size and he likes to drive. We don't really have anyone with his height but (Jack) is very aggressive and plays strong defensively."

Todd Stelmach paced the Warriors with 18 points and Jack added 14.

JUNIOR

Troy Stelmach drained 13 points to lift the Tagwi junior team to its first win, a 43-34 decision over Seaway. Sean Little contributed 12.

MIDGET

A 10-point effort from Jeff McKercher helped the Tagwi midget boy's team to its second straight win as the Warriors edged Seaway 21-20.

Sr. Panthers stop sweep

The North Dundas Devils took two of three matches from the visiting St. Joe's Panthers last Tuesday to launch the 1993-94 SD&G girl's high school volleyball league season on a winning note.

Patti Hall's senior team was the only one to lose on opening day. The Devils lost 2-1 to St. Joe's after winning the first set 15-11. The Panthers bounced back to take the remaining two 15-8 and 15-13.

"We were up 8-5 in game three and could have, and should have, won that one," Hall said. "The girls played well for their first game of the season. I think we will do well this season."

In the midget division, the host Devils posted a 2-1 win after losing the first set 15-4. Under the coaching of Lisa Prentiss, North Dundas rallied with for 15-13 and 15-5 victories.

The North Dundas junior team also turned in a 2-1 scorecard, winning 15-9 and 15-5.

"We had a super day. We should have won all three games," said coach Kelly Durant. "I didn't realize there was a cap on the scoring and was caught off guard when they called it a game at 17-16. I thought it had to be a two-point difference."

First-quarter injuries don't stop junior Lancers

Despite the loss of four players during the game, two of them starters, the Rothwell-Osnabruck junior boy's basketball team posted its second straight win of the young SD&G season.

With starters Rob Beckstead and Shawn McEachern sidelined with ankle injuries for most of the contest, the Ray Glenn-coached Lancers still managed a 47-44 win over the Char-Lan Crusaders in Ingleside Tuesday.

Both players suffered in the first quarter and neither returned until the fourth. But they left the Lancers with a 19-8 first-quarter lead, draining seven points each. Both finished with 11.

Char-Lan trimmed the gap to 27-20 in the second quarter.

R-O also had two players foul out in the fourth.

SENIOR

Jason DeMary scored 23 points to lift the Rothwell-Osnabruck senior team to its first win. DeMary hit for 11 in the last quarter as the Lancers downed the Char-Lan Crusaders 60-56.

R-O held a 15-6 edge in the first quarter and a 31-28 lead at half.

Steve Telewiak drained 16 points and Steve Iwachniuk added 12 for the Lancers. Chris Lumley (18), Mike Bissonette (12) and Derek Runions (9) led the Crusaders.

MIDGET

The Rothwell-Osnabruck midget team suffered its second loss Tuesday as Char-lan stole a last- minute 33-30 victory.

Jason Zeran pumped in nine points for R-O while David Frost and Jeff Julien hit for seven and six, respectively. Kent McDonnell drained 16 for the Crusaders.

Goalie McLeod earns shutout

Goalie Kevin McLeod was unbeatable as the North Dundas peewee "A" Demons shut out the North Glen Stor Braves 5-0 in Winchester Saturday.

North Dundas' victory improved its UCMHL record to 5-4-0. The Demons have won three of their last four games, defeating the Cornwall Royals 8-2 and the South Stormont Flyers 4-1. They also lost 6-2 the Char-Lan Rebels.

After a scoreless first period, Mike Davidson broke the game open with a goal at 3:47 of the second. Joey Hillis and Shawn Stewart assisted.

Joey Hillis tapped a Stewart rebound at 9:32 mark of the third and Davidson netted his second 23 seconds later. Stewart and Hiliis drew the helpers.

Demons' captain Colin Fossitt snapped in an unassisted goal with 2:03 left and Dave Summers capped the rout with 1:46 to play with an unassisted marker.

Hoy nets winner

Tyler Hoy scored with two seconds left on the clock to give the North Dundas atom "A" Demons a come-from-behind 4-3 win over the Kemptville Royals Friday night in Winchester.

With the win, the Mike Deans Superstore Demons improved their UCMHL record to 7-3-0.

North Dundas led the Royals 1-0 after a period on Patrick Hamel's first goal. Bryce McBain set up the play at 9:18.

Kemptville dominated the second, scoring three unanswered goals. Cory Taterciuc netted two and Ben Juneau added the other. He also assisted on both of Taterciuc's markers.

North Dundas goalie Alexander Last silenced the Royals in the final frame and Hamel and Dean Byvelds pulled the Demons even. Hamel scored at 6:50 on a pass from Will McLean and Byvelds netted the equalizer at 4:15 on a feed from Hoy. Bill Henderson set up Hoy for the winner.
