C.H.S. Commencement held Friday night

Scholastic shield winners were presented with their prizes last Friday night at Chesterville High School commencement. We show them here with their principal in front of the stage decorations, the work of the Sinclair brothers. From the left is Thomas Vilmansen, with the Dr R. G. Dodds Shield presented for academic proficiency in Grade 10; August Van Kats, standing in for his brother Nico who won several awards including the O. L. King Shield for Mathematics proficiency, Grade 12, the McPherson Shield for academic proficiency, Grade 12, and the $100 award of Chesterville Legion Ladies' Auxiliary for the same; Lorna Casselman won the Allison and Gillard Shield for proficiency in Grades 9 and 10; Mr Graham, principal; Joyce Bugden, the Fulton Bros. Shield for academic proficiency in Grade 9, and Mark Hart, the Dr A. Clayton Shield for proficiency in Industrial Arts, Grades 9 and 10.—Record Photo.

Hon. F. M. Cass guest speaker many awards presented

Chesterville High School students staged their annual commencement in Community Hall Friday night with a very large and interested audience in attendance. The evening ended with a school dance to Frank Morgan's orchestra.

From the opening words by head girl Nancy Moore to the closing statement of head boy Ernest MacMillan, the whole program was much enjoyed. Featured speaker F. M. Cass, Minister of Municipal Affairs, used his speaking time to good advantage to point up some of the modern innovations and improvements in education. He stressed, however, the constant need of students to apply themselves with vigour and interest to their scholastic programs. Only in that way, the minister noted, could they hope to compete in today's highly trained and competitive fields of employment.

Principal Allison Graham was chairman for the evening. He was assisted by members of his staff in the presentation of diplomas, awards and crests.

Mari Vilmansen gave the valedictory address.

C. of C. calls special meet

Chamber of Commerce president Brian Coyne has called a special meeting for tonight in the theatre. His group is hoping a large turnout of merchants, organization members and others interested will attend to discuss the Santa parade.

This year new management is needed to handle the annual Santa arrival in the village. Ladies of Chesterville W.I. are willing to help. They feel they cannot undertake the full responsibility of the whole affair as in other years.

Much planning and discussion needs to be done. Mr Coyne hopes a good number of the interested people of the village will attend the gathering tonight and be able to offer some worthwhile suggestions about the parade.

Paul Anderson, son of Mr and Mrs Henry Anderson, Finch, was the final winner at the Stormont Public Speaking Contest recently held at Ingleside. Paul is eleven and in Grade 7. He had won his local contest at the Finch school and then cleaned up at Ingleside. Next stop is at Merivale School at Ottawa for the finals when a winner will be chosen from the 10 Eastern Ontario counties in the joint H.E.P.C.-School Trustees' Association speaking contests. — Record Photo.

Chesterville girls in speaking contest

The annual competition in Public Speaking for the Public and Separate Schools of Dundas county is in its final stages with two Chesterville pupils among the nine finalists.

In choosing those who would compete in the finals, each room of grades 6, 7 and 8 held school eliminations and then area eliminations until the five large schools of the County each had one representative, and the four townships had one winner each.

These nine speakers meet at Morrisburg Public School, when judges will declare a County winner, who will become the first holder of the new W. J. Stewart Trophy, which the teachers of the county have purchased in honour of Mr W. J. Stewart, long-time inspector of public schools in this county.

The local winners form this district are Shirley Cuff, Chesterville, who represents Chesterville Public School and Martha Moriarty, representing the schools of Winchester Township.

Friends and families of both girls are welcome to attend the Friday night event.

Local nominations Friday

High School News

At a students' council meeting last week the class representatives were given school Christmas cards to sell to the students. The school crest in colours black and gold are printed on a white background. A very lovely greeting for a small charge.

Friday night was a big occasion in the school year, the annual Commencement Exercises. Nancy Moore, head girl, opened the programme with words of welcome. Intermediate certificates were presnted to those pupils who had successfully completed Grade Ten. Nineteen students received their Graduation Diplomas. Honor Graduation Diplomas were presented to three students.

ONDAA crests were given to all those who took part in the ONDAA meet this fall. The sports day trophies were presented also. Many individual awards were presented during the evening: To Lorna Casselman for proficiency in Home Economics, the Allison and Gillard Shield; to Mark Hart for proficiency in Industrial Arts, the Dr. Clayton Shield; to Thomas Vilmansen, the Dr. Dodds Shield for academic proficiency in grade 10; to Joyce Bugden for grade 9 academic proficiency, the Fulton Bros. Shield; to Nico van Kats for mathematics proficiency, the O. L. King shield and the McPherson Shield for grade 12 academic proficiency. 75 and Over Club Crests were presented. Through an error, Gary Jordan was not given one which he deserved. Billy Cross also missed out on getting his ONDAA Crest.

The guest speaker for the evening was the Hon. F. M. Cass, Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Chesterville High has some very talented young Misses who performed for us during the programme. They were Mrs C. A. Graham's sextet and Margaret McMillan and Lois Robinson who each played a piano solo. Carol Merkley and Gloria Bowman played a piano duet.

The valedictory address was given by Mari Vilmansen, a student in Grade 13 this year. Ernie McMillan thanked Mr Cass and announced a dance to the orchestra of Frank Morgan.

The date of the Christmas exams has been set and notice given to the students. They will begin December 14.

This is the year for the election flags to go up for Winchester township, the first since the two-year term was declared. Nominations will be held in the township building from one to two in the afternoon, up on the Ridge. The boys have been guarding their intentions very closely as to their ambitions. This newspaper has little to report on what is in the wind, in the way of changes.

Chesterville council and school board members will be in the public eye Friday night. Nominations will be held from seven to eight in the evening. After that reports will be heard and discussed. Here again there is considerable rumour as to present council and board members and their intentions. This newspaper can speak with certainty regarding at least one council member, but he declines to be quoted at the moment.

Chairs ordred for the school last spring arrived last week. They are now being used in the Home Economics room.

New store here temporarily closed

Woodhouse Ltd. store that opened here in the Gillard block a couple of weeks ago has temporarily closed its doors, and all stock has returned to the parent store in Cornwall. The transfer took place last Friday afternoon.

This newspaper received a visit at the first of the week from Henry Bloom, comptroller of Woodhouse stores in the Eastern Ontario district. Mr. Bloom explained that a special audit of the Cornwall store and its affiliate, the Chesterville store, had to be undertaken right away. It was necessary, he said, to remove all stock back down to do this. In answer to questions, he stated he hoped the company would soon open the Chesterville store again. He could give no definite date. This newspaper has not been able to contact the former Chesterville manager, Leonard Tunnicliffe.

Hunters' gathering planned for Saturday night

Something new in a social evening is to be tried this Saturday night at Legion Hall. The local Legion group are sponsoring a hunters' home-coming and social evening for all adult hunters, fishermen and club members of the district. Carling Breweries will be present with entertainment and other pictures will be shown by guests. The sponsors hope any hunters with photos and slides will bring them along to help make the evening a real get-together. The affair is due to get underway at 8.30 p.m. and will be restricted to adult members of the district.

CRUMBS from Graham's Loaf

This is the time of year we watch the Castle take on a harried look. Any time after the middle of November the v.p. develops a furtive look, we feel an accustomed strain on the bank account, and Christmas presents begin to fill the conversation. Our helper of the Castle keep usually has a mess of ideas ahead for the multitude of presents she plans to buy. Each year we are led to believe she supports the Canadian economy to a large degree by her generous ways. But this year her idea mill has almost ground to a stop; that accounts for the harried look.

For some reason or other, lists remain unlisted, ideas remain unjelled and here it is nearly the end of November. Such a pity, and the child and this scribe have to listen to the wail of frantic frustration at frequent intervals. Ourselves, now, we have no problems to speak of. As a matter of fact our problems are usually unspeakable in the public prints when it comes to the important things. Matters like Christmas presents are relatively simple.

Years ago, while we still had teeth and coloured hair, we developed a workable system. It goes like this: Leave all Christmas buying until the day before Christmas. Then go shopping. What is left in the stores makes choosing easy; if you don't like it, order it for delivery any time in the new year and explain it was late in arriving. Then rush to your favourite jeweller, grab a handful of trinkets and ear-rings, give them to the child to gift wrap and go to bed.

We must be honest, though, and adimt there is an occasional bit of hostility shown on the part of the working stiffs in the stores. Some pointed remarks occasionally are overheard, such as "those people who loaf around for weeks and leave everything to the last minute." We are quite sure the sentiments are meant for someone else, but in case they are aimed at these shell-like ears, we will now make a public vow: This year we plan to have no gift problems at all. As a matter of fact our Christmas shopping is all done and that's that.

It came about this way. We had a small expedition into the north woods a week or so ago and came back refreshed, heartened and badly bent. One of the first things that greeted our red-rimmed (sunburned) eyes was a comparatively new machine squatting and gulping and refusing to do its job. Before the dust had settled from our arrival we had spent all the profit of the season on a new machine. It arrived in three days, $1,075 had gone the way of all new machine money and we are fresh out of Christmas pelf. This year the lady in charge is giving this Crumb a half share in a new stitching machine. Our present to her will be the other half. We will both sob in unison with the child over the bare and desolate Christmas tree.

There is a rumour abroad the editor of this family journal is about to return to the ranks of amateur bird watchers. He says he is not going to be a contender for village council in 1962. Interesting, if true, and we will wait, like the cat who ate the cheese, with bated breath, to see what happens Friday night at nominations. Five will get you six he will have changed his mind again. His wife says he is like a new bride with a recipe for cake, afraid if he stirs anything up, the whole thing will fall flat. We will see.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express a sincere "Thank You" to everyone who was so kind to me with cards, letters, treats flowers and visits while I was a patient in Winchester Memorial Hospital. Special thanks to Dr Howard Justus and all the nursing thanks. Thanks also to Rev A. Williamson, Rev Mr Esmond, Rev Mr Gordon, Rev Ken Van Allen and Carl.

OPINIONS . . . OURS AND OTHERS

An open letter to the Prime Minister

Mr Diefenbaker, there are a few things we would like to discuss, and because you are the most important official in our present government, we will have the temerity to address you through these columns.

The other week this countryside rumbled to the passing of jet planes on missions in Tocsin B. The radio programs of the evening hours were a peculiar mish-mash of warnings and hopeful directions for survival because nuclear bombs were an imminent possibility. Finally with an imaginary soundless thunderclap, one arrived over Ottawa, and you, sir, were evaporated along with the thousands.

Out here in the country, Mr Prime Minister, we were more fortunate. We passed a quiet evening making out our sales tax returns and never heard a thing. And that, to us, seems nothing short of stupid. Just what use is the Tocsin exercise if only government members are in a position to get out of danger; and what use are government members if their total, only and absolute head, yourself, willfully stays in the zero area? What use is it to us outside the target areas to know our P.M. is evaporated along with all the privates? What about direction for all the privates who are left? As far as we can determine, it is your generalship that runs this present government. If and when the time of survival ever arises, we would think one real good general can do a great deal more to maintain order and morale than a bunch of corporals at Camp Petawawa. Or were you planning to recall George Drew from London and have him to do his diplomatic best to get things back on an even keel? As an afterthought, George is a built-in menace anyway, he might better be left at Point Zero. He would make a noble sacrifice.

The countryside is important, sir, and not all believe with our old friend Macdonald of the Glengarry News that we are doomed to live in a rat hole. Survival in any war has always meant a readjustment of habits. Ultimate figures of enclosure in shelters and safe places should not be used as weapons to hinder the barest preparedness. Rather should we think and be conditioned to believe that most of us will survive outside the target areas and be able to help those not so well off. That surely means the prime minister of this country has a duty to his office far above that of being a cipher on a casualty list. Captains maintain their command on a ship to the last to deliver the best service to their owners. Heads of government need to be in a position to do the same. The primary requisite is to be alive, Mr Diefenbaker. You had better head for the hills with the rest next time the sirens wail. It will be better for Canada.

Nomination night, 1961

It only seems a few months ago, we warmed up the typewriter and took a look at the year's work of Chesterville council. Probably because some rather momentous things have happened in the old town, the time has whipped along.

There was a time not so long ago when this village was short of water, short of a good street program, short of good lights and generally being just a good average small town beset with ordinary problems.

Times have chaned somewhat. We still have problems, but some of our troubles have been taken care of, even if larger ones have risen to take their place.

Chesterville's water system came into operation last January, right on schedule. Users of the service have been generally pleased with the product from their taps; more continue to add their homes and businesses to the water lines until today there are just 200-odd buying water from the town .There is no reason to think that number will not be nearly doubled in another three or four years.

Chesterville council has continued its program of good lighting with several new installations this year and South Street is scheduled to get a brightening in the near future. We can say with considerable pride we get "lit" every night of the year.

The city fathers have had practically no luck at all in keeping taxes down. General government costs have remained nearly static; other costs have continued to rise. Schools and county government costs are matters of unwilling acceptance and council has only to make the best of the matter and accept the accounts and budgets. Council members recognize kindred souls in school boards and county members; regardless of intentions, hard economic facts dictate services must be paid for. Public governing bodies have to listen when the public orders.

Chesterville has yet to see tenders called for its promised LCBO package store and brewery warehouse. The reeve of this village has been assured by the proper authority, though, the matter is in process. The land is purchased and a winter works program will soon see the building rise at the western limits of the town. We imagine the liquor store will be built before the high school question is settled.

Speaking of schools, Chesterville council has had several skull-cracking sessions in that matter. Meetings started early last winter with a view to build a new school here in Chesterville for North Dundas High School District. Another one was planned for Winchester village. This village went on record and backed the words with action in the form of a resolution to spend $332,000 on the erection of a new high school. That was June 12. Other plans developed and the local council became involved in a larger development to build a central school at Winchester Springs with technical wings to embrace the new look in Ontario secondary school education.

That plan has yet to reach a final stage. There has been a great deal of hard talk and loose planning, but to date the council's board representative has reported little but conflicting ideas. In the meantime Chesterville's council waits word on its money by-law to build a school in Chesterville.

Queen Street received a face lifting early in June in time for the official opening of the new post office. At about the same time a new sidewalk was laid up Joseph Street and considerable grading and maintenance done on other streets. There still remain some repairs to be done to remedy complaints received after the water pipes were laid. Council has been held up to some extent by not having tradesmen immediately available.

All in all, the year has been one of importance to this town. The capital worth of the village has been increased immensely. Thanks to an enlightened program of money-lending by the Ontario government, the village has an actual debenture debt of less than $5,000. That makes it one of the most solvent towns in all Eastern Ontario. Our water system indebtedness is self-liquidating and government supported.

Friday night is nomination night. It is to be hoped the citizens of the village will turn out in large numbers to nominate and hear annual reports.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

Women in this country have come a long way in our fight to be recognized as the equal of men. We have won the right to dive into the mainstream of life. But mostly we've been content to sit along the shore while a few hardy members of the species waded in to test the temperature and the depth.

As I said last week we've had a few women in Canada brave enough to wade into the political arena winning names for themselves in municipal, provincial and federal affairs. We've had a sprinkling of women doctors and lawyers. A half dozen have entered the realm of real estate. Some have got into insurance. Only recently two women hit the headlines by being appointed as bank managers.

Largely, however, women have stuck to women's jobs. We're teachers, nurses, clerks and secretaries — positions that were considered to be women's work since we first ventured outside the realm of the home. And when we ask High School students what they plan to do when they graduate their choice is usually one of the above.

I wonder why. Are girls not aware of the careers that are open to women today or do they lack the gumption and the spirit of adventure to enter a relatively unknown field?

Why for instance should clothes be men? Why should a name like Christian Dior dominate the world of fashion? Why not Christina Dior? Women should know best what looks well on women and what women will wear. Why should some sissified, little character with an elegant moustache and a name like Francois or Andre be entrusted with the task of styling Madam's hair? It is positively ridiculous.

Why don't we have women architects? Houses are built for women. We live in them and work in them. They are supposed to reflect our personalties. Yet we are content to sit back and allow some mere male to draw up the plans for a house into which we shall sink our last dollar. And judging from the appearance of some of the flat-topped machine sheds men are designing these days we don't let them do it because they've cornered the market on ability. We drive most of the country's cars. It's about time we took a hand in designing them.

Women know what we want in home appliances. We want some gadget, for instance, that will remove the dust from our homes before it has time to settle on the floors and furniture. We want a vacuum cleaner that will follow us around without bumping into the doors and chair legs. We want more and better no-iron fabrics. But how many women are preparing themselves through apprenticeship or educaion to help solve these problems?

Women are naturals in the field of obstetrics and pediatrics. We know by instinct what men need months to learn but how many women are working on M.D.'s today?

Now there was a reason for this a few years back. Intelligent girls went to High School then got some training to hold down a job between graduation and the time they got married.

They probably worked at their professions for four or five years.

That has all changed now. Girls are still geting married, of course, but the majority plan when the babies get in school they'll go back to work. That may not be easy in the future. Machines are replacing the clerk and the secretary. School teachers are becoming more plentiful than class-rooms. Unskilled labour is a thing of the past. Before long if a girl wants a career that she can carry over into later years she will need a university education. Perhaps very soon girls will be forced to rush in where female angels have feared to tread. Maybe in a few years we shall have more women architects, scientists, doctors, professors, engineers, designers, politicians and such.

And it seems very fitting that women play a larger role in the business and financial life of our country as well. By the simple habit we've developed of outliving men we've come to dominate the lists of our nation's shareholders. It's about time we learned a bit about Bay St. and St. James and acquired a little imagination in investing our great wealth. We spend about 85% of the country's pay cheques so we certainly need some training in handling our cash too.

Yes we've reached a plateau in our climb towards complete emancipation, and that plateau is in the process of becoming overcrowded. Women very soon have either to get brave again and climb higher or be pushed back down the abyss from which they came.

The BIBLE TODAY . . .

An appeal for more Scriptures for Indonesia made recently provided a moderate increase. The supplies secured in San Francisco and carried by the S.S. Hope were nearly exhausted by the time the ship arrived at Honolulu. The remaining New Testaments are already spoken for and will be distributed when the ship returns to Djakarta.

The last of the available New Testaments were given out in Ambon and replacement of supplies is a major problem.

Added to the shortage is the difficulty of delivery when the ship is constantly moving from port to port. Replacements have had to wait for the arrival of the ship at Singapore.

In many placts where the "Hope" called the local mission schools could have used all available copies of the Scriptures.

English is a second language in Indonesia, required in schools above the fifth grade. Many Indonesians use English, a few quite well.

The Bible Society must use great discretion in trying to distribute the available Scriptures wisely.

HOW TO PROTECT ROSES AGAINST WINTER INJURY

Now is th time to protect your roses against winter injury, advises Professor J. C. Taylor of the Horticulture Department, O.A.C. A little care now will pay dividends in the spring.

Start by drawing up the soil around the base of the bush to a height of several inches. Then, after the ground is frozen, add an additional covering of straw or leaves. On top of this, place some cedar brush, twigs or branches. To avoid mice invasion, be sure that the ground is frozen before adding these materials.

The covering catches the snow which drifts among the brush and gives good protection against frost. The snow will also remain longer than it would on bare ground.

Frost heaving which occurrs in the spring often causes root damage. Protective covering not only provides shade but helps to overcome this trouble.

You may be in an area where the winters tend to be severe. If so, try completely covering the bushes with soil.

Climbing or rambling roses are more difficult to protect. Tie the canes together and bend them as close to the ground as possible without damaging them. Then fasten to a stake and carefully cover them with soil.

If this cannot be done, wrap the canes with straw and burlap and leave them attached to their support.

MERCHANTS GRIPE IN ONTARIO

After nine weeks of collecting Ontario's new 3% sales tax, expected to yield $150 million a year, the merchants are still unhappy because they claim there's an inflexible attitude among senior civil servants. Officials of a number of trade associations say the new book-keeping and tabulating burden forced on them "unduly increases costs of doing business", says The Financial Post.

The charge of rigidity was refuted by one senior Ontario government official: "If I were a merchant, I'd want to keep record to prove that the taxes I remitted were correct.

After all, he said, "we're right until the businessman proves us wrong."

And here's a footnote on the honesty (or obedience) of Ontario citizens. For September alone Ontario residents have sent in $78,000, as tax due on $$2.6 million of private purchases in and outside the province.

Grantley W.A. holds meeting at Merkley home

The November meeting of the Grantley W.A. was held at the home of Mrs Clifton Merkley on Wednesday, November 1, with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs Albert Winters was in charge assisted by Miss Bessie Shaver, secretary.

The meeting opened with hymn 669, followed by scripture reading by Mrs Earle McMillan, Lesson thoughts by Mrs Dwight Tupper.

The same officers were re-elected for the coming year. A short discussion was held during the business period. Hymn 502 was sung.

A short program was held, A reading, "A prayer of Gratitude" by Miss Bessie Shaver. "Give Thanks" a reading by Mrs M. O. Robinson.

The meeting came to a close with prayer by Mrs Albert Winters.

A contest of missing words was won by Mrs Dwight Tupper. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs M. O. Robinson, Mrs Jas. Hesson, Mrs Earle McMillan and Mrs W. A. Robinson. A social hour was spent by all.

APHIDS IN STORED POTATOES

The leaf-roll virus may possibly be spread by aphids that overwinter on stored potatoes, states N. M. Parks, a potato specialist with the Genetics and Plant Breeding Institute, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Last spring a severe infestation of aphids was found on small sprouts in a batch of potato tubers stored at 40 degrees F. in Ottawa over the winter.

Three weeks before planting they were placed in shallow trays in lighted storage at 70 degrees F. for green sprouting. When the sprouts were one-half inch long they were found to be infested with both winged and wingless forms of the aphid Myzus persicae.

These aphids, Mr. Parks points out, are known to spread the leaf-roll virus. Outdoors they may become infected from diseased sprouts and, in storage from the sprouts of infected tubers.

Producers of certified foundation seed potatoes, he warns, should keep a close watch for aphids in their storage rooms. Aphids may enter the storage with the potatoes when harvested and remain dormant all winter. Winged aphids can enter the storage when it is opened in the spring.

Because aphids can enter the storage on other vegetables, Mr Parks does not recommend use of the potato storage as a common storage. He also believes it is important to clean the storage thoroughly during the off-season so that no vegetable matter remains.

Former Stormont M.P. honoured at banquet

A memory that goes back further than most in Eastern Ontario was drawn upon last week by Frank T. Shaver of Ingleside in responding to speakers at a dinner given in his honor at Ingleside.

Numerous lifelong friends of Mr Shaver crowded St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church Hall for the occasion. They included members of the Stormont Progressive Conservative Association with which Mr Shaver has long been associated.

"I remember when I heard that Sir John A. MacDonald was dead. It was in June, 1891, and in those days nobody in our district took a daily paper. We only got the mail twice a week in the back part of Osnabruck, where we lived. But someone had gone to Aultsville, and either seen a daily paper or heard talk about the telegraph message for there was a telegraph in the store at the time. The next day at school, the teacher reviewed briefly the career of that great man. I was ten years old at the time," he said.

"I remember my father taking me to a nomination meeting at Newington when I was very young," he continued. "It was a fine summer day and the meeting was held outside, with the speakers addressing the people from a wagon box.

"The village was crowded with horse and buggy rigs. There were three candidates, J. G. Adams, for the Patrons of Industry, an important party then; Dr. Derby Bergin for the Conservative Party and J. G. Snetsinger for the Liberals. My old friend Will Duval will remember that day.

"Right then I decided that some day I would be a candidate for the House of Commons in Stormont. I never told anyone about this ambition, not even my own family. but I am happy that the people of Stormont made it possible for me to achieve that ambition." Mr Shaver was Member of Parliament from 1930 to 1935.

"I do appreciate all the kindness shown to me, here tonight and on other occasions. I am proud to be able to say that I have friends not only in the Conservative party, but many who are Liberal in politics and many who are members of the New Democratic Party and in the Social Credit party as well," he said.

Mr Shaver was presented with a painting by Mrs Grace Roberts on behalf of the association, and Mrs Shaver was presented with a corsage by Mrs Allan McDougall, president of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association.

Guest speaker for the evening was Hon. Earl Rowe, MP for Dufferin-Simcoe, one of Mr Shaver's former colleagues in the House of Commons. Mr Rowe prefaced his address by saying that he did not intend making a popular sort of talk, but that he would make the sort of speech he felt Frank Shaver would make if he were still in the House of Commons.

"I think we have come to a turning point," Mr Rowe said, a point when we shall have to pause and consider what we can do in the field of social security, for instance, at the cost of higher taxation. I think it is a shame and disgrace that good factories in places, like Cornwall, and elsewhere, should close while we are importing goods and paying out a billion dollars in unemployment benefits."

Turning to more personal matters, Mr Rowe recalled the day back in the 1920's when the late A. C. Casselman suggested that Mr Shaver be approached as a candidate. Recalling Mr Casselman's words, Mr Rowe said: "Mr Casselman told me that Frank Shaver is one of the finest men in Stormont, and if he will stand for office I don't think he could be beaten."

Mr Rowe was introduced by Grant Campbell, MP Stormont, and thanked by O. Villeneuve, MP Glengarry. Master of ceremonies was John Steer, president of the Progressive Conservative Association. Robert McGuire was chairman for the dinner arrangements.

The presentation to Mr Shaver was made by Fernand Guindon, MPP Glengarry. Letters of regret at being unable to attend were received from Mrs Jean Casselman, MP Grenville-Dundas and Hon. F. M. Cass, Minister of Municipal Affairs in Ontario.

With Mr Shaver for the occasion were surviving members of his family Charles Shaver of Ingleside, Herbert Shaver and Miss Evelyn Shaver of Chesterville.

BEEF CROSSBREDS GAIN FASTER

Comparision of the gains of beef breeds and crossbreds is under study at Canada Department of Agriculture experimental farms.

Dr. L. A. Charette of the Kapuskasing, Ontario, experimental farm drew the tentative conclusions that crossbreds from some beef breeds gain faster than purebreds and some crossbreds gain faster than others.

Purebred Shorthorn cows of CDA herds at Kapuskasing, Lennoxville, Que., and Ottawa were bred artificially to Charolais, Hereford and Angus sires, and to sires of their own breed. At 196 days of age the average weights of the progeny were 485, 438, 403 and 383 pounds and the daily gains from birth to weaning were 2.03, 1.99, 1.81 and 1.76. Thus the Charolais-Shorthorn crosses gave the highest and fastest gains and the purebred Shorthorns the lowest and slowest gains.

The experiment is being continued by mating the crossbreds with sires of the four breeds. First calves were dropped in 1961 and information on their rate of gain will be available later.

SCIENTISTS PROWL FOR JOBS

At least 3,500 Canadian engineers, chemists and scientists want different jobs. So says the placement agency set up by industry to recruit technical brain power, reports Terence Robertson in The Financial Post.

Four hundred vacancies are listed. Canadian business mostly wants chemical and electronics engineers, sales engineers and time-study experts. Search for chemists has extended to Europe because Canadian universities don't produce enough. Roughest competition for Canadian brains comes from U.S. industries which are still luring away a seriously high number of Canadian-trained technicians.

EMO group set up by Memorial Hospital

The Winchester District Memorial Hospital board recently voted in favor of forming a special emergency measures committee to work in conjunction with the Emergency Measures Organization of the United Counties.

The committee, made up of hospital administrator John Davis, Dr. W. M. Byers and W. R. Workman was formed because of the strategic location of the hospital in time of nuclear attack. It will also look after peacetime needs, should a disaster occur in the vicinity.

The committee will gain as much knowledge as possible and will make recommendations to the board from time to time regarding the hospital's position in time of attack or peace time catastrophe.

The hospital board also learned that finances of the hospital are in good order and it is expected $50,000 for the sewer system will be paid to the village, as well as $50,000 owing to the contractor.

In receivable grants, the hospital expects to realize $162,000 by the early part of 1962.

Evangelism Mission at Williamsburg

"Centennial Thanksgiving" is the title of the first sermon to be preached by the Rev Mark H. Innes during the Evangelism Mission at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williamsburg, November 26 to 28. As guest missioner, Mr Innes comes from Welland, Ont., where he is pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church.

The Lutheran Synod of Canada, founded in 1861, is celebrating its Centennial by holding preaching missions in many of its local congregations. Other themes to be presented by Pastor Innes are "Rededication to Whom?", "Who am I?", and "Stewards of the Gospel." The mission services will be held on Sunday at 11 a.m. at St. Peter's, 2.30 Sunday afternoon at St. Luke's, Dunbar, and at St. Peter's again at 8 p.m. on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Pastor Innes was married to the former Hely Timberg of Sault Ste. Marie and is the father of two children.

New Democratic leader speaks at Finch

Donald C. MacDonald, Ontleader of the New Democratic Party, speaking at a public meetheld at Finch recently, criticized the Ontario government for using rural Ontario as the basis of its power while at the same time neglecting farm problems and needs.

He charged that when Premier Frost announced the formation of an economic council to deal with economic difficulties in Ontario, just before he retired, no farm representative was included on this body, despite the fact the agricultural sector of the economy is faced with more serious problems than any other.

"On the economic front, farmers have traditionally fought a losing battle in their efforts to get a fair income from corporations to which they have to sell their produce," he said.

Mr MacDonald continued by saying that since 1951, agriculture has been caught in a ruthless cost-price squeeze with income stabilized while costs of production continued to climb.

"The net result is that today farmers who comprise 12 per cent of our population are receiving only six per cent of our national income," Mr MacDonald said.

The Ontario NDP leader told the meeting that living standards of the rural population reflected the extent to which agriculture has not shared in the progress of the war and post war years.

Using census figures gleaned in 1951, Mr MacDonald pointed out that these figures revealed that 54 per cent of homes in rural Ontario had no inside piped water and this rose to 59 per cent in the case of farm families. He said the figures also showed that 68 per cent of homes in rural Ontario had no bathroom or shower and this rose to 74 per cent for farm families, and also that 62 per cent of homes in rural Ontario had outside toilets and this rose to 70 per cent for farm families.

"These conditions, in the city, would be known as a slum," he said. "They are not only tolerated in the country, but because of persistent lower incomes, rural Ontario must suffer their lower living standards in silence."

He said a government can and should do something about this, that the New Democratic Party would do something and "research committees of our Farm Committee are working on details of such a program.

'WORK TAX' SPREADING?

Some communities in Prince Edward Island have found a cunning — though hardly popular — new way of adding to revenue, reports Neville Nankivell in The Financial Post. They slap a special tax on non- residents working within their municipal boundaries. The term "non-resident" doesn't simply apply to foreigners or seasonal workers from another province.

The tax hits everyone who lives outside the municipality but works within it. Someone in Charlotteown, for example, who has a job in the neighbouring suburb of Parkdale, has to pay $15 for a Parkdale work permit. It costs someone living in Parkdale $25 to work in Charlottetown. In smaller communities, the work permits cost as little as $5. This licence to work is not just for trademen and peddlers — a practice fairly common throughout most Canadian municipalities — but for everyone, regardless of their skills and talents.

Gibraltar, smallest British Crown colony, has a civil population of about 25,000 with its own stamps and police force.

Liberal Women's Clubs have been reorganized

"Liberal Women's Clubs at Brockville and Gananoque have been reorganized, have been inaugurated in the Rideau Lakes District". Mrs Lillian Allison told members of Grenville-Dundas Liberal Women's Association at Morrisburg.

Presenting her report of attendance at the Ontario Association's semi-annual meeting at Toronto, Mrs Allison, third vice-president, said that the organization convenor had spent the summer months in Leeds County. Her report covered the afternoon session of O.W.L.A. when she was chairman of an interesting and stimulating panel workshop and the dinner address given by Maurice Sauve, President of Quebec Liberal Association, an outstanding speaker who told of the recent campaign in Quebec.

George E. Beavers of Morrisburg was guest speaker at the regular November meeting of the Grenville-Dundas Association held in the kindergarten of the Public School. He presented a travelogue with pictures covering his 40,000 mile trip to 14 countries in the Far East. In every country he found the people with whom he came in contact spontaneously kind and good.

He said, "In business as in politics one must be an optimist with a constructive plan". He pointed out that "many people do not realize that there are three billion people in the world, two billion are colored. The white man was once considered king but that condition is changed. In fighting against Communism we need friends among these people, many of whom are educated and have vocations".

Mr Beavers regretted to say "Canada's good reputation under St. Laurent and Pearson "had changed, because of the type of leadership we are getting. This is most unfortunate".

Travelling on 16 different airlines in new jets designed and built in Britain or United States, only five were staffed by white crews. "We are living in the jet age of travel, war and trade", the speaker continued, "Liberalism stands for the breaking down of barriers to world trade, making friends and improving international relations".

Lions' Clubs and Rotary Clubs, Mr Beavers found "prominent throughout the world, doing an outstanding job of selling Democracy".

Interesting features illustrated in the discourse were: Hindu Temples where the religion is not one of participation but of silent meditation. There is no service. Family laundry is the work of the man of the house in India. There are community washing areas built where soap and water are applied to the clothes, they are then vigorously beaten against concrete partitions, spread to dry and carried home in a pack on the back. In Bombay barbers ply their trade on the streets.

Singapore and Hong Kong are enterprising and prosperous cities. There is a great amount of poverty in Hong Kong because of the hordes of refugees fleeing from Red China.

In Thailand the young people are neat and clean and interested in receiving an education. In every country in Asia except in the Phillipines cars are driven on what we consider to be the wrong side of the road. One-half of the dentists in the Phillipines are women.

Mr Beavers was introduced by Mrs Edna Baker, President, and thanked by Mrs Lillian Allison.

The United States patent office at Washington was established by Act of Congress on July 4, 1836.

EGGS BIGGER SHELLS HARDER

What happens to a highly selected flock of laying birds when selection ceases?

A. P. Piloski of the Canada Department of Agriculture's experimental farm at Indian Head, Sask., reported that fewer eggs were produced but the eggs were larger and the shells thicker.

This was one of the changes observed when two strains of highly selected White Leghorns were bred without selection for five generations. Albumen quality remained unchanged but the number of eggs dropped rapidly at first and egg size and shell thickness increased with each succeeding generation.

The occurrence of blood and meat spots varied in the two strains, these being peculiarities which are not influenced by selection for egg production, said Mr. Piloski.

Poison ivy may still flourish in late fall and even after leaves have dropped. Contact with any part of the plant may result in

There are 7,000 bridges in regular service on CNR routes.

The factories, producing entirely for prison and government use, will open new fields of training to prisoners. Returns from the factories can also pay part of prison costs.

SOUND OF THE PAST?

The clickety-clack of train wheels may fade if CNR tests with concrete railway ties are successful, says The Financial Post. The noise is actually caused when train wheels cross joints in the rails. Concrete ties (more stable than wodd) mean longer sections of rails, therefore fewer joints, and these can be welded more easily.

Latest agreement to include this provision was signed by Canadian International Paper Co. for three mills. But company isn't likely to go over to seven-day work this year. More mills are expected to get agreements next year when contracts come up for negotiation. Both management and labor are reported satisfied with seven-day work agreements signed thus far.

FRIEND TO SMALL FIRMS

A new company with different ideas is shattering the traditional cautious outlook of small business in Quebec, writes Lauchie Chisholm in The Financial Post. So far, at least 13 family-owned companies, who never before had attempted to raise funds publicly have borrowed money on the market. Plants producing a variety of items from jam to popsicle wood sticks are in the midst of expansion.

In each instance, the loans have been guaranteed by Corporation d'Expansion Financiere. Corp. Er. as it is known, has introduced, in addition to its role as guarantor, a new concept of the management and holding company in the small business field in French Canada. Up to now, Corp. Ex. has been the guarantor for about $3 million in bonds, or direct bank loans, to small businesses.

REAL POTATO FLAVOUR

I HAVE NOTHING AGAINST INSTANT FOODS and indeed I use many of them. They are wonderful time savers. But I do draw the line at instant potatoes. I like the flavour of fresh potatoes so much better and I feel the extra time required is well worth while.

The Information Branch of the Department of Agriculture tells us that this year's potatoes are of excellent quality and go on to say that no other food gives so much in food value for so little cost.

Potatoes contain important B vitamins, Vitamin C, and iron, as well as supplying valuable energy.

To get the most food value from potatoes, bake, boil or steam them in their jackets. The minerals lie just beneath the skin. Scrub the potatoes just before cooking. Potatoes that sit in water lose many nutrients. To boil potatoes use a small amount of boiling water. Cook potatots just until they are tender to a fork and serve immediately. Over-cooking and sitting desroy food value and flavour.

Fried Potato Cakes

2 cups left-over mashed potatoes
1 egg
1½ tbsps. flour
⅛ tsp. baking powder
1 tbsp. chopped onion
Dash garlic salt

Mix all ingredients and beat well. Drop by spoonfuls onto hot, well-greased frying pan. Brown on both sides.

Potato Cornflake Balls

2 cups cold mashed potatoes
1 egg yolk
Butter
Salt and pepper

Mix cold, mashed potatoes with beaten egg yolks and shape the mixture into balls. Roll in crushed cornflakes, place in a greased pan, put a small piece of butter on top of each ball and brown in oven.

Stuffed Baked Potatoes and Cheese

6 large baked potatoes
2 cups grated cheese
1/3 cup hot milk
2 tsps. salt
Paprika

Cut baked potatoes in half, lengthwise, and scoop out the centres and mash thoroughly. Add grated cheese to hot milk and beat until smooth. Mix with hot mashed potatoes; add salt; beat until light and creamy. Refill potato shells; dust lightly with paprika; return to a hot oven to brown on top.

Candied Sweet Potatoes

Sweet potatoes are at their best now. Try some prepared as follows and serve with baked ham.

Boil sweet potatoes in their skins until tender, about 30 minutes. Combine in a heavy frying pan ¼ cup butter, 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup orange juice, ½ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. cinnamon. Boil about two minutes. Peel potatoes and cut in ¼-inch slices. Place slices in syrup. Simmer at least 10 minutes, spooning the syrup over the potatoes frequently.

Left-over baked sweet potatoes may be done in the same manner.

IN MEMORIAM

WAGNER—In memory of my loving husband, Bernard Wagner, who passed away November 28, 1959.
The dearest husband, the kindest father,
One of the best whom God could lend,
Loving, thoughtful, kind and true,
Always willing a kind act to do.
Wife and Family.

IN MEMORIAM

WAGNER—In loving memory of our dear son, Bernard Wagner, who passed away November 28, 1959.
Two years have passed
Since one we loved was called away;
God took you, oh, so quickly!
And we all in gloom were thrust.
In the prime of manhood days,
In the bloom of life death claimed you,
But in our hearts that loved him
His memory lingers always.
Dad, Mother and Family.

IN MEMORIAM

HEAGLE—In loving memory of my dear wife, Abbie Heagle, who passed away November 28, 1958.
Three lonely years have passed
And there is always a silent tear,
Also always precious memories
Of the days when you were here.
It's lonesome here without you
And sad, the weary way,
For life is not the same to me
Since you were called away.
I remember you in silence
And make no outward show;
What it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
Lovingly remembered by husband Joe Heagle.

The second week hunters returned from the bush over the past week-end. Almost without exception they report small kills, and hard hunting for what game was hung.

Third Egan Lake hunters had to settle for three bull moose and two deer and the Clear Lake crew had only the first week kill to show, three deer and the calf moose. The best luck we have heard is that of the gang in Crysler who came out with seven deer. To contrast that, a Mountain gang including Frank Latoural, saw only one fawn in two weeks at Stonecliffe, north of Chalk River.

BIRD PSYCHE DISTURBER

It doesn't "poison" pigeons, but soft plastic materials squeezed from a tube onto the birds' favorite ledge, exerts a slight clinging pressure on their feet when they land. This "sets up a feeling of insecurity", and makes them fly away quickly, says the manufacturer.

Among the flags of the United Nations, only that of Cyprus bears a map of the country.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank my many friends for their cards, calls, letters and gifts while I was a patient in the Ottawa Civic Hospital.
David Gow.

IN MEMORIAM

WARNER—In loving memory of a dear Dad, Willis Warner, who passed away November 25, 1960, and a dear mother, Mrs Willis Warner, who passed away December 19, 1938.
Looking back with memories,
Upon the path they trod,
We bless the years we had with them
And leave the rest to God.
The Family.
