WDMH Foundation executive director, board chair ousted

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

WINCHESTER – The Winchester District Memorial Hospital (WDMH) Foundation is in the midst of transition following the sudden departure of both its executive director and board chair.

Both Troy Cross and Arnold Scheerder were removed from their positions Fri., Oct. 31, although neither board members nor foundation staff will comment as to whether each man was fired or offered their resignations.

Anne Van Delst, now interim board chair, told the Winchester Press the "changes in leadership were not as a result of any tensions between foundation staff and the board."

The removal of Cross and Scheerder, however, comes just weeks before the launch of the foundation's annual Christmas Wish Tree campaign, which last year generated more than $100,000 for the purchase of new beds at WDMH.

However, hospital CEO Cholly Boland, when reached by the Press, said the leadership change has "no intriguing theme."

"Things change… We've had three or four years under the current leadership," he added. "It is a change of direction, a little bit, but not a changing in the stewardship of the funds [received]."

Holmes was one of several Kindergartners traversing the educational facility's yard during Take Me Outside Day. Created by a non-profit organization of the same name, people of all ages, throughout Canada, were encouraged to spend an extra hour enjoying nature Oct. 29. The organization's mission is to educate and create awareness among all Canadians about their connection with nature and time spent outdoors. Press Photo – Casselman

Counties expect $1M savings under new OPP billing model

WINCHESTER – The region is expected to benefit throughout the next five years following changes made to the province's billing model for OPP services.

In the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry alone, upwards of $1 million in savings is to be recouped in 2015 as the new formula lowers the counties output to $11.5 million (down from $12.5 million in 2014).

According to provincial government officials, the new billing formula is "fairer, more transparent, and easier to understand."

Beginning next year, policing totals will be determined by setting a base service cost for each of the 324 OPP-serviced municipalities, with a built-in measure of costs for actual calls of service.

As well, costs are to be an estimated 60 per cent of what a municipality will pay, with base service figures to be calculated per property, including seasonal and business locations (both commercial and industrial).

Not done yet: Lauzon to seek re-election in 2015

Guy Lauzon

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

WINCHESTER – Many months remain before the next federal election, yet the area's Conservative base is ready to set its nominee into campaign mode.

Late last week, the party's Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry riding association announced incumbent MP Guy Lauzon will be in the running for re-election, having gone uncontested throughout the nomination process.

"It has been a privilege and honour to serve the constituents for the past 10 years," he said. "I continue to have the same energy and passion as I did on day one. I enjoy the work that I get to do, and I am very proud of our government's record both locally and across Canada."

Canadians are slated to head to the polls in October 2015, yet the Conservatives, who formed a majority government three years ago, have been in constant campaign mode since that time.

Lauzon's nomination, meanwhile, gives some stability to the party's efforts, as a number of veteran MPs will not be seeking re-election in various ridings throughout Canada.

First elected in 2004, Lauzon's vote percentage has increased in each election he has run. In 2011, he captured 62.1 per cent of the vote, with a riding record of 29,538 ballots cast in his favour.

"I will run the next campaign like I always do – campaigning like we are behind by 10,000 votes," he said. "We already have a campaign team, fundraising is ongoing, and I am out every day talking with constituents and voters. We are more ready than ever before for the next election."

Lauzon's nomination has also quieted rumours that he was set to retire, and hand the reins to his longtime executive assistant, Eric Duncan. (Duncan, meanwhile, was recently reappointed as mayor of the Township of North Dundas, and has gone on record to say he will fulfill the four-year term that comes with it.)

In office, Lauzon has served as the national Conservative caucus chair since 2008. He has also been parliamentary secretary to the minister of agriculture and agri-foods, and was deputy government whip for the Federal Economic Development Initiative for Northern Ontario.

Lasting tribute

There is, perhaps, no tribute more fitting to the memory of Diane Annable. The longtime community ambassador, who succumbed to cancer earlier this year, was an ardent supporter of development at the downtown corner lot in Winchester, which ultimately became known as Sweet Corner Park. She was an inaugural member of the village's revitalization committee, and helped, as best she could while battling against the disease, to make the green space what it is today. Now, her legacy will be lasting. A stone, marked "Diane's Garden," will be placed in the sidewall of the building (owned by Vince Zandbelt, a committee member alongside Annable) adjacent to the park. Local stone carver Danny Barber (pictured) created the piece.

In a joint press release, Van Delst echoed the CEO's sentiments. "The foundation board is very much invested in ensuring that we can – and are – making a difference in patient care, with every dollar received from our donors," she said. "We are working to solidify a collaborative and positive working relationship with both the hospital and auxiliary because we know that it's in our donors' best interest to work together."

Van Delst also denied comment when asked if Cross would be receiving a severance package.

Months before the leadership change, during the foundation's annual general meeting, concern was raised about the continued rise of employee salaries compared to the dwindling donation revenue being brought in the hospital's fundraising arm.

In 2013, a total of $858,588 in direct revenue was realized, yet foundation board members projected a decrease for 2014, with $784,373 anticipated. Comparatively, throughout that timeframe total salaries would jump $4,000 (from $322,989 total in 2013 to $326,928).

The drop in revenue was attributed, at that time, to the finalization of two major capital campaigns – Renewing the Vision and Care Close to Home. Municipal government allotments, annual donations, and solicitation of area residents also ceased.

In SD&G, the OPP provides policing for 65,000 residents, with an average cost of $459 per household.

Meanwhile, calls for service costs are estimated to be about 40 per cent of what a municipality pays, and are to be based on the individual usage level.

"This is great news for taxpayers… The municipal sector has been working with the province for many years to develop a new costing formula that is consistent and fair," Dennis Fife, chair of the counties police service board, said. "The new model is a great step forward."

Warden Eric Duncan, meanwhile, noted the change is a positive for SD&G's bottom line.

"The reduced expenditures on policing will allow county council more options during budget time, which is great news as we continue to be faced with increasing demands for service and enhanced infrastructure," he said.

CCAC funding not meeting needs: McDonell

WINCHESTER – A local provincial politician is fighting mad about recent reduction of homecare services, with some having been eliminated altogether.

Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry MPP Jim McDonell, during a recent address at Queen's Park, called on Ontario's health minister, Liberal MPP Dr. Eric Hoskins, to address the changes.

"Your government came to power with a promise to focus on homecare and delivering more of it to Ontarians… Instead, Ontarians are seeing quite the opposite," McDonell said. "Many residents have seen their services reduced… The funding formula has been changed so that seniors that were on a waiting list just a few months ago, no longer qualify due to new budget restrictions."

According to SD&SG's MPP, the Champlain Community Care Access Centre (CCAC), which oversees home delivery in a large portion of Eastern Ontario, has experienced a 12 per cent spike in demand, yet government funding has not been allocated to properly meet the needs.

Since the summer, many homecare recipients in SD&SG have seen their rate of service altered dramatically, forcing them to either pay for care services out of pocket or have their names added to a long-term care facility's wait list.

"Better and more accessible homecare is essential if we are to reduce the pressure on hospital emergency rooms and long-term care facilities, which in our region experience the worst wait times in Ontario," McDonell said.

He also targeted the Champlain CCAC's increasing contribution to the province's "sunshine list" of public employees who earn more than $100,000 annually. McDonell said the agency's listing has increased by 130 per cent since 2010.

Provincial Offences Act

Legislation proposed to stifle unpaid fines

WINCHESTER – Anticipated legislation changes could soon make it easier for municipalities to recoup money owed by those convicted under the Provincial Offences Act.

Since 2001, the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry (SD&G) has administered the law throughout the region.

The new guidelines, if approved, will allow the upper-tier government to deny licence plates for unpaid fines stemming from speeding, careless driving, and driving with no insurance convictions. The new legislation would also make it easier to pursue out-of-province drivers.

The united counties have a significant amount (in the hundreds of thousands) of outstanding fines on the books, some dating back more than a decade.

"This matter has been on our radar screen for many years... It is a cost-effective way for the province to give municipalities tools they desperately need to recover money owed by convicted offenders," Warden Eric Duncan said. "This money can be used to fund vital infrastructure, such as roads and bridges."

Bev Roy, SD&G's manager of provincial offences, echoed Duncan's sentiments.

"This is a win for local taxpayers, and will help ensure that justice is served," she said.

Other groups, such as the Associations of Municipalities of Ontario and Eastern Ontario Wardens' Caucus, have also been calling for changes to the system, allowing municipalities to easier collect unpaid fines.

A secondary part of the proposed legislation aims to enhance road safety through increased fines for drug impaired and distracted driving.

Valve check

A Badger Excavating crew dug deep under St. Lawrence Street Thurs., Oct. 30 to correct an issue with a below ground water valve. It is the second time in recent weeks digging has taken place as the Township of North Dundas pursues maintenance work in an effort to determine why a section of the east-west crosswalk is sinking. According to public works director Dan Belleau, crews will soon proceed with further digging to pinpoint the cause of the problem. Pictured is Badger employee Nick Wicks.

'Stache growing underway

NDDHS Notes

by Abby Fawcett

MAPLE RIDGE – It is now every male's favourite time of the year – Movember.

North Dundas District High School (NDDHS) will be raising money for men's health research with the popular month long fundraiser.

Each male staff member will be growing out their moustache throughout November, and students can donate money toward a staff member they would like to see keep their 'stache for an extra month and then removed publicly at the school's Christmas concert.

There will be jars with a picture of each staff members face outside of guidance at lunch all month long for students to donate their spare change. Students are also encouraged to join in and grow out their moustache – if possible – to raise awareness for men's health.

A huge thank you goes out to all students who supported our OSAID members by purchasing a candy apple last week, and those who donated spare change to Link Crew and Respect Ed's initiative to end hunger.

Club members will be attending the Ontario Student Leadership Conference (Mon., Nov. 10 to Tues., Nov. 11), and thank those who also purchased raffle tickets for the Halloween basket draw.

The school's volleyball and basketball seasons are nearing the end, but with that, along with winter-like weather, comes the introduction of new sports. A girls, boys, and mixed curling team will be offered this year, and anyone interested in participating is asked to talk with Ms. Richmire in room 133.

Hockey players, both girls and boys, should see Mr. Bell if they would like to suit up for the Devils this season.

The OUAC (Ontario University Application Centre) numbers are finally out, and all Grade 12 students can pick them up from guidance. A tutorial will be available for senior students to familiarize themselves with the application process. Good luck to those pursuing post-secondary studies.

Lastly, NDDHS will be hosting a Remembrance Day ceremony at 8:30 am Nov. 11. This year marks the centenary of the First World War, and our ceremony will feature stories of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry residents who fought for Canada.

Vernon remembers

One of the region's earliest Remembrance Day ceremonies was held at the Osgoode Township Historical Society Museum on All Saints Day. This year, along with the Royal Canadian Legion Osgoode Branch 589, the 2951 Leitrim Army Cadets participated in the Sat., Nov. 1 event, as they recently relocated from Carlsbad Springs to Vernon. Once again, the Grades 2-3 choir from Castor Valley Elementary School sang songs of peace in both official languages, and the names of those listed on Vernon's war memorial were read aloud.

How to Improve Life for Rural Canadians

Canada Post became a Crown Corporation to improve network services. The Canadian Postmasters and Assistants Association (CPAA) wants to ensure this multi-billion dollar public network remains viable and able to serve the public. We have found a way to make this sustainable.

A recent study shows that nearly half of post offices outside of Canada's big cities are in communities with no bank or credit union. In those communities that still have a bank or a credit union, many residents have to contend with limited, part-time banking hours. Our survey of Canada's 3,300 rural post offices: "Why Post Offices should offer banking services" is available for free download at: http://bit.ly/1r8U3fj.

Offering financial services in post offices would create a new revenue stream for Canada Post. Equally important, it would benefit numerous communities in Canada whose residents, in order to get to a bank or credit union, are forced to travel long distances. That costs time and money and stifles economic development. Many other countries similar to Canada, such as the United Kingdom, France, Switzerland, Japan, Italy and New Zealand, have very successful banking services right in their post offices.

We, at CPAA, believe that our study is significant because of the value of this public asset. Canada Post is uniquely positioned to offer financial services throughout rural Canada. When Canada Post can make more money and offer more services to Canadians who need them, we have a perfect opportunity. Let's not lose it.

Please Support Rural Canada. Write to Lisa Raitt, the Minister in charge of Canada Post, and ask her to make this happen. Her letter of suggestion can be found at: http://bit.ly/1pxhMVZ.

CPAA represents over 8,700 employees of Canada Post who work in over 3,300 rural post offices across Canada. These offices make up over 50% of all postal outlets. Our membership, consisting of 95% women, serves communities in every province.

Retracing the war, one letter at a time

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

METCALFE – In this modern world, accessibility has, without question, increased exponentially through the years, from the advent of electronic mail to smartphone technology in the palm of one's hand.

Yet, the process wasn't always so simple.

One-hundred years ago, a centenary of significant importance, the most crucial pieces of hometown news took days, if not weeks, to reach those soldiers on the frontlines of battle.

The First World War broke out in July 1914; the beginning of what would be a long march toward global progress. A great many, however, responded quickly and eagerly to the call of king and country.

In this country, then under the rule of the British empire, 620,000 Canadians enlisted or were conscripted into the expeditionary force, about a third of all men aged 18 to 45. Of these, roughly 60,000 were dead by war's end in November 1918, while another 6,000 succumbed to injuries following the armistice signing.

The death toll so staggering, towns and villages throughout Canada were wiped from the map as their populations were reduced, and those remaining could not sustain the great many needs.

Yet, for those sent overseas, and for those fortunate enough to return home unharmed, the war was a nightmare they lived daily.

Metcalfe's Elmo Sully was just 16 when the Great War, as it would become known, began.

By 1915, having been part of the village's brass band that performed at a number of rallies in support of the many local soldiers enlisted, Sully had made up his mind, he was going to leave school and join the fight.

Christmas of that year would come with disappointment for the young man, as it was discovered that like many recruits, Sully had lied about his age.

Sully's morose state continued throughout 1915 as more and more of his friends, those of legal age, were accepted into the service and sent to Europe to face off against the Germans in the trenches of the western front.

In April 1916, the now 18-year-old Sully wrote his final exams at the Metcalfe Continuation School before he and his two best schoolmates, Duff Crerar of Vernon and Ross Campbell from nearby Springhill, attended the Albert Street Barracks in Ottawa to enlist.

This is where the greatest journey of Sully's young life would begin. It was also at this time the young man, infatuated with a girl, as many of his friends were, began what would be constant correspondence.

The recipient? Frances "Fannie" Iveson, the youngest of eight children still living with her parents in their Victoria Street home. Her father, a harness maker, was also the township treasurer.

"Say Fannie; have you a snap-shot of yourself; if you have I should like very much to have one as it is about all I can carry with me as a remembrance in this business," Sully wrote in his first letter. "It is getting late and I am short of news so I must close for now. Write soon."

Crerar (left), Sully, and Bert Campbell in their black watch kilts and balmoral hats, the uniform of the Royal Highlanders of Canada.

It is these now century old letters that make up much of the recently published book, Private Sully Goes to War. The print collection complements an interactive website (not yet online) that is meant to help modern-day students connect with, in some cases, their hometown history.

Project leader Jane Cooper first got hold of the letters in the mid-1990s, and saw the makings of a book. (It was 1991 when Iveson, then 91, donated the complete letters to the Osgoode Township Historical Society Museum in Vernon not long before her death.)

"[Sully] writes as he speaks… Short hand, with a youthful flair," she said. "I mean, he was just a high school student in Metcalfe and then he was off to war, and his writing is from teen to teen."

The letters reveal a love story of sorts; with Sully sharing his day-to-day experiences throughout the many weeks he was enlisted. However, Cooper noted, there is much censorship in his writing, as he keeps from Iveson the true horrors of war.

He forgoes discussing the Battle of the Somme or Passchendaele, and instead focuses on town gossip and events, including how he no doubt expected to miss the Central Canada (Ottawa) Exhibition.

Sully's storytelling ran the gamut from who was dating whom, who had gotten the top marks in school, and, most evidently, who from home had enlisted.

"The letters are so human; that is what brings it all into real focus," Cooper said.

She also mused how the letters are really no different than today's teenagers connecting through Facebook or other means. This is where the idea for an online portal came about, as classrooms are changing and textbooks are becoming an outdated resource. Students are demanding digital content, and that pattern is becoming most noticeable in the classroom.

Cooper partnered with David Way, a teacher at Osgoode Township High School, in order to help Grade 10 students connect with Sully and his friends, and bring the letters to life.

"It is a simple story of going to war, and writing to a girlfriend," Way said. "But that's what draws the students in – it's a love story connected to Metcalfe."

Ultimately, Sully returned home to Metcalfe in the spring of 1919, reeling from shell shock, crippled mentally by things he had seen. He and Iveson drifted apart, as the pair could not recapture their youthful pre-war ways. Sully went on to great fame with the Ford Motor Company, retiring in 1958, and settling in Renfrew where he died in 1971.

Copies of the book, Cooper said, are to be mailed to high schools throughout the area by Remembrance Day (Tues., Nov. 11), while the website (www.warletters-forteaching.ca) will be launched at a later date.

The Elves are here!
It has become a tradition. Elves come visit us for a little while before going back to the North Pole where Santa awaits them on December 24 to prepare the Christmas gifts that will be delivered to all the children on the nice list.
Elves love to play and they want you to try to catch them. Frozen during the day, elves come alive at night to go looking for cookies or chocolate, their favourite candy, and to play tricks on those who cross their path. For the most adventurous of you, it is said that one can actually catch an elf with a trap and a bait made with a special cookie recipe.
Ask your BMR dealer to give you the perfect little elf hunter kit and, until Christmas, pay attention to clues, noises and steps in the snow. Who knows? An elf may be hiding near your home.

Is terrorism too strong a word?

The fear and loathing that encapsulated Ottawa the past couple of weeks has largely dissipated. With it, too, goes the notion that the deadly attack somehow shifted Canada fundamentally and forever.

What, however, will the aftermath of that tragedy, and the murder of a soldier in Quebec two days earlier, hold?

No doubt, this country is at a crossroads. But which path to take?

Head in one direction and Canada's federal government can use U.S.-style tactics: upping the threat of terror, increasing police powers, and the use of state snooping, tapping into phone lines and tracking Internet use. It's the ultimate stripping away of civil liberties.

But, what is needed is a more structured, calculated approach. Using the rule of law as the primary weapon will help authorities as they work to not only understand, but address the complicated cause of the two assaults.

What must be born from this tragedy is pivotal public debate. Yet, the battle of lexicon is already raging, and watering down the issue.

The federal government (mostly the prime minister) was quick to label Ottawa's attack, which led to the death of Cpl. Nathan Cirillo, as "terrorism." The response was clear and unequivocal, despite the fact the assailant, Michael Zehaf-Bibeau, appears to have been nothing more than a mentally ill vagabond with a lengthy criminal record, a history of drug use, and no clear association with any of today's known terrorist groups.

On the opposite side of the House of Commons, the opposition parties are jockeying with the label, as each leader differs on next steps and word association.

Meanwhile, Canada's top police force, the RCMP, has hinted a video exists that shows Zehaf-Bibeau suggesting his motivation was rooted in Islamic fundamentalism, but have thus far refused to release it.

So what is it Canada is dealing with?

Is terrorism a crime committed in the name of any manner of ideology, no matter how misled, confused, or irrational, and impacted by mental health? If so, is Justin Bourque a terrorist for hunting down and killing three RCMP officers in Moncton, N.B. in June?

As his criminal trial has recently come to an end, we now know that Bourque's murderous rampage was instigated by his need to rebel against what he saw as an oppressive and corrupt government.

This, in a nutshell, is what society has been led to believe serves as terrorism since massive airliners were directed at the World Trade Centre's towers (and the Pentagon) more than a decade ago.

Yet, 9/11, the sort of terrorism the public has come to fear the most, is much more than what Zehaf-Bibeau did or did not accomplish when he stormed the National War Memorial, and later rushed through the main hall of Centre Block on Parliament Hill.

What emerged that September day 13 years ago was a precursor to war, laid out following a deliberately conceived crime that emerged from and was supported by an organized network of like-minded people.

This is what makes terrorism such a comprehensive and suggestible word. It is flexible, and often (certainly throughout this decade and the one previous) used in blanket form, an attempt to rally the population around a government's plan to go to war and enact wide-ranging security measures.

But there is also no place for the word to be misused or ignored altogether. Undoubtedly, the attack in Ottawa shifts humanity's understanding. The semantics should not be devolved, however.

The real, pressing issues are thus far circling around the conversations that don't appear to be happening (at least not publicly): What is the larger threat the latest attacks represent? What can be done to stop them?

As Remembrance Day (Tues., Nov. 11) approaches, it is a time of reflection about the way the world was and the way it now is. Hundreds of thousands of Canadian lives were lost as this country, among others, took to the battle lines of the First and Second World Wars.

Now, we have a new generation dealing with war, and debate swirls around the use of a slippery word.

Yet, so long as terrorism is used linguistically to brand complex issues, the discussions Canadians, both the public and elected officials, need to have will not take place, casting further a shadow over what the country might become.

Remember when…

It was reported this week that Reeve J.H. Ross so vehemently opposed the Fire Department Bylaw put forth by Councillors Suffel and Bessin, he not only spoke out against it, but also excused himself from the final meeting and vote. The bylaw excused the longtime unpaid volunteer fire captain, and appointed a replacement at a cost of $100 per year.

Diane Harkin (left) of Winchester, the founder of Women for the Survival of Agriculture, was pictured on a poster in this week's edition in 1994, alongside Lorraine Lapointe, the first woman elected to the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, and Carol Rock, a founding member of the Ontario Farm Women's Network. The poster was one of 41 created to show the diversity of women in Ontario, and to give young girls and women role models.

In this week's "The Mixing Bowl" column by Hydro home economist Anne Allan, a recipe for Applesauce Betty was provided with instructions: "Mix cereal with sugar, butter, and cinnamon. Arrange applesauce and cereal in alternate layers in a casserole or baking dish, having a layer of cereal on top. Bake in an electric oven for 20 minutes. Serve with milk."

Postman John Maurice of North Russell brought a deflated balloon with the Capital Chevrolet (Montgomery, Ala.) insignia stamped on it to the newspaper's Winchester office this week: "Just how it got there has not exactly been determined, but [Maurice] thinks the small red balloon he found may have travelled more than 1,200 miles via floating power or with the help of Hurricane Hazel."

1964

Bruce Garlough and Anne Alguire of Williamsburg, members of the 4-H Dundas Farm and Home Electricity Club, won the annual 4-H competition held at the University of Guelph this week, where they gave a project demonstration on electricity, which showed various safety devices used in connection with electrical service in the modern home and farm.

1974

"The Ottawa branch of the Ontario Genealogical Society will be conducting their meeting at Vernon in the public school building," the Press announced this week. "The rate at which interest has grown is indicated by the fact that only five years ago the branch had a total of 18 members and today that number has grown to 350. [All in attendance] are invited to join in a guided tour of the school, which is now better known as New Horizons Historical Group Museum."

1984

Ray Robillard and Elburn Duffy of Finch, as well as Bill Murray of Chesterville were interviewed this week for a full page on the "forgotten soldiers" of the Korean War, where 26,000 Canadian soldiers came to the aid of South Korea between 1950 and 1953.

1994

Winchester Village politicians were pictured gathered around a well, testing the water this week. "This is it, this is what we've been looking for," Reeve Bruce Kerr said. "It's clean, clear, no odor. And the taste is better than the water that's coming out of our taps right now."

2004

In sports news: "Minor hockey action dominated the weekend schedules at both the Winchester and Chesterville arenas, as the North Dundas Minor Hockey Association hosted 28 Rep 'B' teams in its annual Mega Tournament."

They're here! Quick! I need my wallet!

From the Other Side
by Jeff Morris

Some people have anger issues.

I do not, but I certainly have a really bad case of sarcasm issues.

And nothing brings out venomous sarcasm more than a door-to-door salesman. The most annoying ones are the water heater people who try to barge into your basement to check your water heater to see if you need an upgrade. Really?

Or how about kids knocking on doors claiming they are collecting for Unicef. Really? Is this for the Unicef "Get Lick 'M Aid and Starburst at Bulk Barn Fund" that I have been hearing all about?

Every now and then, however, the doorbell rings and I have to pry myself away from watching football on the big screen and peel myself off of the Morris Centre for the Performing Arts couch to go answer the door. I Rolodex my sarcasm as I approach the door. I open it, and suddenly I'm defeated. I melt like a Dairy Queen ice cream cone dripping down your wrist on a hot, sunny day.

The Girl Guide at my doorstep, armed with a case of cookies, might get a word or two out… "Would you…"

"YES!!! I'll go get my wallet!"

I panic. Where is it?

"Don't move," I plead. "I'll be right back. Seriously. Don't go anywhere."

I Dick Van Dyke over the ottoman and face plant onto the hardwood floor, but I see it. I serpentine over to the table and grab it. The little piece of blue peaking over the top is my ticket to chocolaty goodness.

I obviously intend to share the cookies with everyone. Ten minutes later, the box is empty, and I have crumbs all over my face and my hoodie. And, I am strategically trying to place the empty box in the garbage so that the evidence is hidden. I don't want to get in trouble for not sharing them.

As stuffed full as I am, I wonder if the little girl is going to come back for a second round. If I was the Tawny Owl or whatever the Girl Guide leaders and purveyors of chocolate adroitness are called, I would totally have the girls do a curtain call at the houses that bought cookies... "Um, hello sir, I have a few boxes left. Would you like more?"

They would raise enough money from people like me to say, "screw the camping trip this year, we're going to Dubai."

Girl Guide cookies were first sold in 1927 when a leader in Regina baked a batch of cookies as a fundraiser. It was so successful that by 1929 they were selling Girl Guide cookies across Canada as the official fundraiser for the organization. The flavours have changed through the years, with the classic vanilla and chocolate cookies first appearing in 1953. They are still available during the spring drive. In 1995, the chocolaty mint cookies made their debut. They are the cookies that went on sale this week as part of the annual fall campaign.

Through the years, Girl Guide cookies have become an undervalued staple in Canadian culture. They are as Canadian as Don Cherry's suit jackets, or walking past the guy sitting in his old Ford Bronco and having a DuMaurier chased by a double-double from Timmy's before going into the rink, or singing along to Alanis Morissette while driving, and wondering who the little ball of hate wrote "You Oughtta Know" about.

In 1991, during the Gulf War, every Canadian soldier was given a box of Girl Guide cookies upon arriving in Saudi Arabia. I'm pretty sure that 10 minutes later, there were none left in the entire Middle East.

In 1992, Canadian astronaut Roberta Bondar, a former Girl Guide, juggled Girl Guide cookies in space.

Girl Guide cookies have also kept up with the times, meaning that the Marketing Owl has done a tremendous job. Since 2003, all classic chocolate and vanilla, and chocolate mint cookies have been produced in a peanut-free bakery.

In 2009, the trans-fat in the chocolate mint Girl Guide cookies was reduced by 90 per cent. Oh, really? I'll have five boxes, please.

The following year, the classic chocolate and vanilla cookies were introduced with zero grams of trans fat.

Marketing Owl also introduced a seller-initiative program, rewarding Girl Guides for being "Cookie All-Stars." If I were a Girl Guide's dad that would be one banquet I would be sure not to miss. There would be salad with chocolaty mint dressing followed by vanilla cream lasagna, and Girl Guide cookie cheesecake for dessert.

Girl Guide cookies have had their own Twitter account for the past three years. This year, the classic chocolate and vanilla cookies are certified as Kosher.

This year, if the Girl Guides don't make it to your door, Sears Canada is stepping up to help you out.

"Sears is very pleased to welcome Girl Guides of Canada to our stores at this special time of year," Vincent Power, the vice-president of We're All about to Gain 10 Pounds at Sears, said. "Sears supports programs that help young people develop into healthy and responsible members of society and guiding reflects long-enduring principles that help modern girls grow and contribute."

So, for the next couple of weeks, I'll just be standing by the front door with my wallet in my hand, acting all Linus-waiting-for-the-Great-Pumpkin.

And, a note to all other vendors, during Girl Guide cookie days, I am clearly not in the mood to have anyone ask me about my water heater.

Back to business at Queen's Park

From Queen's Park
by MPP Jim McDonell

TORONTO – As we got back to business at Queen's Park Thurs., Oct. 20, which was also the last week of our municipal elections campaigns, I was very eager to keep up to date with those running for office, and anxious for the results on Mon., Oct. 27 in Cornwall and Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry.

There are always a few surprises and this year was no exception as the incumbents squared off against new challengers. It's our democratic system at its best, and I would like to thank all who put their name forward and endured many weeks of hard work as they tried to get their message out.

I also want to congratulate those that were successful, and look forward to working with them throughout the next four years.

As we settled into our offices, we quickly saw the same old Liberal government practice of saying one thing and doing the opposite. After hearing election promises of open and transparent government, we had anticipated that Kathleen Wynne would let the justice committee hear the three remaining key witnesses in the gas plant scandal.

But, sadly, the Liberals repeatedly used their majority to ensure Laura Miller, Dalton McGuinty's deputy chief of staff; Peter Faist, her friend and computer expert; and Monique Smith, Wynne's transition team chair, will not appear to testify.

After introducing the Public Sector and MPP Accountability and Transparency Act in early July, it is apparent from their actions that it's all for show.

The Wynne government also used their majority power to limit debate and public consultation on two new bills: Bill 15, Fighting Fraud and Reducing Auto Insurance Rates Act and Bill 18, Stronger Workplaces for a Stronger Economy Act. While we support the bills in principle, key stakeholders need to be heard and amendments made to strengthen their impact.

The government also rushed the introduction of Bill 10, Child Care Modernization Act in an effort to deflect the severe criticism in the ombudsman report, "Careless about Childcare," released the following day.

Experts are warning the bill will increase childcare costs by up to 40 per cent, and result in the loss of 140,000 daycare spaces. The private childcare providers who supply 70 per cent of the daycare spaces have not been consulted.

With this Liberal government now enjoying a majority, it is essential for opposition members to hold the government's feet to the fire on their promises.

One promise many local seniors counted on was an increase in the delivery of home care. Instead, many saw their home care reduced or cut altogether. I raised this issue in Question Period, catching the minister seemingly off-guard. I also highlighted how the Champlain Community Care Access Centre, who manage home care in the region, have more than doubled the number of their employees earning more than $100,000 per year, while cutting clients off. I will continue to fight for our seniors and all Ontarians in need of good, accessible medical care.

As we enter the month of November, I look forward to the Remembrance Day ceremonies across the riding. Once again they take on a special meaning as we reflect on the recent events in Ottawa and Quebec.

We have freedoms that are unparalleled in this world, and we must stop to reflect and honour the many who have made the sacrifices that allow us to enjoy them.

Jim McDonell is the MPP for Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry and writes monthly columns for this newspaper.

Building on support for Canadian families

From Parliament Hill
by MP Guy Lauzon

OTTAWA – Strong families have always been the backbone of the Canadian way of life. That is why, since 2006, our Conservative government has provided significant tax relief for families.

In fact, we've cut taxes more than 160 times, saving the average family $3,400 every year. It's a record that I am very proud to say many families right here in Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry (SD&SG) and across Canada have benefited from.

For example, almost a million and a half families have taken advantage of the Children's Fitness Tax Credit. And approximately 1.7 million families with young children receive the Universal Child Care Benefit.

However, our government is always looking for new ways to help. That's why we're working to put even more cash back into the pockets of hardworking Canadian families. We're building on our record with new measures that will continue to help offset the costs of raising a family, such as childcare and sports activities.

First, we are introducing the new Family Tax Cut. Since we have had such success with income splitting for seniors, we are now offering a similar initiative for families. The Family Tax Cut will allow the higher-earning parent to, in effect, transfer taxable income to the other parent who is in a lower tax bracket, up to a maximum benefit of $2,000. This will enhance fairness by treating families with the same overall incomes in a comparable way.

We are also introducing an increase and expansion of the Universal Child Care Benefit (UCCB). We are proud that, since 2006, the UCCB has delivered choice for parents when it comes to childcare. We are now increasing the benefit to $160 per month per child under the age of six, or $1,920 per year. And we're delivering a new benefit of $60 per month, or $720 per year, per child aged six through 17. About four million families are expected to benefit from the enhancements to the UCCB, many right here in our riding.

We are also increasing each of the Child Care Expense Deduction dollar limits by $1,000. This is the initiative that allows child care expenses to be deducted from taxable income if the child care is due to the parent working, going to school, or performing research. The limits will be increased to $8,000 from $7,000 per child under age seven, $5,000 from $4,000 for each child aged seven to 16 (and infirm dependent children older than 16), and $11,000 from $10,000 for children who are eligible for the Disability Tax Credit.

Finally, our government has previously announced changes to the Children's Fitness Tax Credit. As you know we are doubling the amount parents can claim for enrolling their children in sports activities to $1,000. And as of the 2015 tax year, the credit will be refundable, increasing the benefit for low-income families who claim it that year and subsequent years.

Our government believes parents know how to best raise their children. The opposition parties do not agree with us or with our tax breaks. The NDP believe a $5 billion National Day Care program is the way to help families. And the leader of the third party has vowed to reverse our tax cuts if the Liberals ever form government. Based on the feedback I have received from the constituents of SD&SG, I am happy I am a member of the Conservative government.

Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry MP Guy Lauzon submits regular weekly columns to the Winchester Press.

Remembrance Day

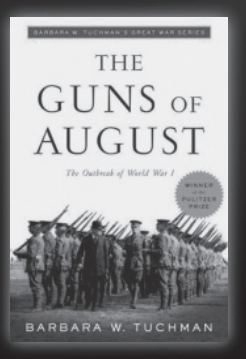
November 11 is a day we remember

World War One comes off the page

You might think the legacy of WWI hangs on by a tenuous thread — as sad as it is, there are no longer any living veterans of that war. But we have the red poppy pins, In Flanders Fields, and countless books and movies to keep the story alive and to remind us of what Canadians won and lost in the conflict of 1914-1918. Why not choose a book and read it together with your family as a way to bring home the terrible cost of wars? Here are a few of the reads that best recount the era, with all its glory and losses.

Youth fiction: Road to War: A First World War Girls' Diary, 1916-1917 is a fictionalized first-person account that makes it real. The author puts a young woman in an active role as a WWI ambulance driver on the French front.

Youth non-fiction: The Horrible Histories Handbook: Trenches: Would You Survive World War One? This is an engaging look at the stark realities of ground warfare with great illustrations.



Non-fiction: For a Pulitzer-prize winning overview, read The Guns of August: The Outbreak of World War I, by Barbara W. Tuchman.

For a contemporary re-examining of Canada's role in the conflict, check out military historian Gwynne Dyer's Canada in the Great Power Game: 1914-2014.

For an interesting twist, try Canadian anthropologist Wade Davis' sweeping account of WWI and what it meant for mountaineering; it's called Into the Silence: The Great War, Mallory, and the Conquest of Everest.

Novels: First published in 1920, Erich Maria Remarque's All Quiet on the Western Front has become a classic. For the romantically inclined, Birdsong, by Sebastian Faulks, has been on best book lists for the last 21 years.

Isle in the River Theatre Company

Steel Magnolias arrives in Osgoode Nov. 14

OSGOODE – Robert Harling's Steel Magnolias is coming to Osgoode's Isle in the River Theatre Company (ITR) this fall.

Set in northern Louisiana in the 1980s, Steel Magnolias is a story about the power of friendship through laughter and tears. Though it may best be known as an award-winning movie, it was originally written and staged as a play. The magic of live theatre is expected to make ITR's production of the famous play even funnier and more compelling than the screen version.

Audiences will have several opportunities to see ITR's version of Steel Magnolias, as it is set to hit the stage for a 7:30 pm production Fri., Nov. 14 and Fri., Nov. 21, a dinner theatre showing at 6 pm Sat., Nov. 15 and Sat., Nov. 22, and 2 pm matinées Sun., Nov. 16 and Sun., Nov. 23.

While the dinner theatre productions are all but sold out, there are a few single seats still available at $48 each. Good seats are still available for the Friday and Sunday productions, but tickets ($18 per adult and $15 per senior or student) are going fast.

A cash bar is available at the evening and dinner shows, while ITR is to provide complimentary tea, coffee and cookies during the matinée performances.

For more information, visit www.itrtheatre.com or call 613-860-1291.

Auditions set for Peter Pan

GREELY – Ever wonder what it would be like to fly?

The Greely Players' are set to offer the soaring opportunity to actors in its next high-flying musical production, Peter Pan.

An information night has been set for 2 pm Sun., Nov. 9 at the Greely Community Centre, where those in attendance will discover what is needed to become part of the play, and its twice-weekly rehearsals this winter. Auditions are to be set for Sat., Nov. 15 and Sun., Nov. 16 by appointment.

"We are looking for enthusiastic child, teen, and adult performers," director Tim Picotte said. "This is a musical, so we will be looking for people who are comfortable singing and learning some simple choreography. Flying experience is not necessary."

Picotte previously directed Greely Players' productions Once Upon a Mattress and Wizard of Oz.

Based on Sir James M. Barrie's 1904 play about a boy who refuses to grow up, the story begins in the London nursery of Wendy, John, and Michael Darling. The siblings are visited by Peter Pan, and with the help of Peter's friend Tinkerbell, the group takes a magical flight to Neverland.

It has been 18 years since The Greely Players performed Peter Pan, but the group is set to tackle the fairytale again when it takes the stage at the Greely Community Centre from Wed., March 25 to Sun., March 29.

Holly Villeneuve, president of the group, is to be the vocal director, while John Pohran is taking on the role of music director, who is to be joined in the orchestra pit by Canterbury Arts High School musicians.

"We try and include a few younger cast members in every production, and this year we will be able to accommodate quite a few," Villeneuve said. "Our production of The Wizard of Oz in 2013 featured many local children, and they thoroughly enjoyed the experience."

Loughlin's Country Store celebrates 20th anniversary

by Sandy Casselman
Press staff

Loughlin's Country Store in Hallville is celebrating 20 years in business. Owner Marg Loughlin, left, is pictured with a piece of village history, which is soon to be mounted in the shop's main area. At right, baker Sandy Lane, decorates cupcakes for a party.

HALLVILLE – It's been 20 years since Loughlin's Country Store opened its doors.

Although not originally part of the family's plan, the Hallville shop was a natural result of Gerald Loughlin's entrepreneurial nature and his desire to ensure Hallville had its own convenience store, wife Marg, owner of the shop, said.

The family, she added, can trace its history in the area back to before the hamlet had a name. A farming family, the Loughlin's adapted to the ever-changing world around them, all the while keeping their roots intact. While they continue to tend to their own land (1,000 acres), the family also runs a custom farming business, whereby they are hired by neighbouring farmers to perform various tasks, including harvesting.

This business, which is currently celebrating its 50th anniversary, evolved from the Loughlin family's desire "to help neighbours whenever possible," Marg said.

"It was born and bred into Gerald," Marg said. "In that work environment, you're up and out and help the neighbours. Then it became a business, providing services to neighbouring farms."

The Loughlin's got into the custom farming business because they had the equipment and there was a need, she said.

"Farming is a way of life and you've got to love doing that and our family, it's been bred into them from day one," Marg said.

Eventually, in response to the safety certifications required for his equipment, Gerald opened a garage at the corner of County Road 43 and County Road 1, hiring a full-time mechanic to not only work on the family's farming equipment, but to also service the community's cars and trucks. The garage eventually grew to include B&G Loughlin Tractors. The couple's son, Brett, and his wife, Jen, manage the business today, with Brett having recently won an LS Tractor Sales Award plaque for being the Ontario dealer with the most increased sales from 2012 to 2013.

Two years after launching the garage, the convenience store property came on the market. The store had been closed for two years by this time, Marg said, and Gerald felt "it'd be a good idea to have a convenience store in Hallville again."

They bought the building, tore it down, and rebuilt.

Marg attributes the longevity and success of Loughlin's Country Store to several things, including the family's longtime presence in the community, hiring local help, and constantly looking to provide what customers need.

Ten years ago, Marg's daughter, Stephanie, decided they should begin baking at the shop. She had recently graduated from Georgian College in Barrie, where she learned a lot about marketing.

Although Stephanie left the store to pursue a career at the hospital in Kemptville, the bakery is still going strong today with a new baker, Sandy Lane.

Marg said customers come from all over for the treats they provide, especially the many varieties of butter tarts, which have even shipped to Scotland and Europe.

"It is so rewarding to be able to see the same customers come back," she said.

In addition to providing a large assortment of grocery items, freshly baked goods, and a café of made-to-order meals, Loughlin's Country Store offers a catering service.

"It's such a pleasure dealing in this community and the township especially," she said. "Getting support from your locals, it's a wonderful feeling and it's nice to know your business is needed."

Marg added that the Loughlin's have received tremendous support from both the local community and the township throughout the years.

"[What is] the thing that keeps us going?" she asked. "To know that you've satisfied someone at the end of the day."

Morrisburg Lions spoil Hawks Minor Hockey Day

WINCHESTER – It was minor hockey day in Winchester. The hometown Winchester Junior Hawks welcomed members of the North Dundas Minor Hockey Association to attend their Saturday (Nov. 1) afternoon game against the Morrisburg Lions.

The Hawks admitted Demons players, wearing their team jerseys, free of charge and provided a complimentary hot dog and drink. There was a well-attended autograph session in the upstairs hall at the Joel Steele Community Centre where the Hawks players signed team photos for their young fans. The junior team also had the Initiation Program players entertain the crowd by scrimmaging between periods.

All in all, a great day for local hockey.

Lions roar

Unfortunately for the Hawks, Morrisburg dampened the spirit of the day hustling their way to a well-deserved 5-2 victory – their fourth in five Rideau – St. Lawrence Conference games.

Dale Lewis, the long serving trainer with Morrisburg's junior hockey club, told the Winchester Press the Lions are much improved this season noting there is good team spirit, the coaching staff is strong, the players are buying into the program and every practice sees a full roster on the ice. Lewis also reported he is retiring following more than two decades of service with the Lions, handing his duties over to Gerald Barkley.

Justin Lefevbre gave the Lions a quick 1-0 lead scoring at 10:25 of period one. The newest member of the Hawks, former Akwesasne Wolves forward Stevie Ray Adams, tied it at 17:31 finishing a PP set up by Kyle Richardson.

The Wolves were unable to provide an overage card for their top scorer [Adams] who led the team with 61 points (32-29-61) in 41 games last season, so Winchester GM Craig "JB" Smith, aware of the situation, immediately contacted and signed Adams.

Winchester gained their only lead when Mason Durant cracked his first junior goal converting a PP opportunity created by JD Samson and Richardson 2:40 into period two.

Three consecutive penalties left the Hawks shorthanded and cost them a pair of PPGs (Cole Fowler and Brodie Barkley), a 3-2 lead and eventually the game. While killing those penalties, Winchester's starting goaltender, Brandon Lowry, lost an edge on his skate and had to leave the game. Leif Hertz came on in relief and made seven saves. Lowry returned to action in the final frame and suffered the loss.

Sniper signed

The Winchester Junior Hawks acquired a talented offensive forward prior to Saturday's (Nov. 1) St. Lawrence Division game against the Morrisburg Lions. Stevie Ray Adams, seen here putting a backhand shot on Lions' goaltender Keiran Weir, cracked one of the Hawks goals in their 5-2 loss to Morrisburg. Adams, an overage player, led the Akwesasne Wolves in scoring last year netting 32 goals and 61 points in 41 games.

Press Photo – Van Bridger

Third-period tallies by Jacob Kendrick and Justin Rutley secured the Lions 5-2 victory.

Keiran Weir blocked 36 of 38 shots the Hawks fired at him for the win. Their victory moved the Lions (6-8-0-0) into a tie for fourth place at 12 points with Winchester (5-5-1-1).

Rally time

The Hawks have a golden opportunity to move back over the 500 mark when they play a home-and-home series with the last-place Char-Lan Rebels (2-9-0-0) this weekend. Friday (Nov. 7), the Rebels will be in Winchester for an 8:15 pm start. Saturday (Nov. 8), the Hawks will be in Williamstown (8 pm) for the return match.

Future Hawks

The youngest members of the North Dundas Minor Hockey Association, the Initiation Program players, put their talents on display during the intermissions of Saturday's (Nov. 1) St. Lawrence Division game between the hometown Hawks and the Morrisburg Lions. The prowling Lions spoiled the Hawks Minor Hockey Day party beating their hosts 5-2.

Minor midgets on a roll

SMITHS FALLS – A pair of goals by captain Jacob Robinson helped the North Dundas Minor "B" Midget Demons subdue the hometown Smiths Falls Bears 3-2.

Sunday's (Nov. 2) road win gave the Demons their third win in four days and stretched their undefeated string to 3-0-1. Overall, North Dundas (3-1-1) shares second place in the Upper Canada Minor Hockey League standings with the South Grenville Rangers (3-0-1) and Kemptville Panthers (3-2-1). All three teams have seven points, one less than the first-place NGS Braves (3-1-2).

Last night (Tues., Nov. 4), the Demons visited the South Grenville Rangers in Prescott and tomorrow (Thurs., Nov. 6) host the NGS Braves at 7:30 pm.

Demons 5 – Bears 1

North Dundas launched its week beating the Bears 5-1 at the Joel Steele Community Centre last Thursday (Oct. 30). Saturday (Nov. 1), they were in Alexandria where they edged the Glens 4-3. Sunday's 3-2 win in Smiths Falls finished their three-game slate.

Bayden Carr got the start in Winchester and gave up just one goal to Smiths Falls who took a 1-0 lead at 14:26 of the first period.

North Dundas rallied netting a pair of pucks before the period ended. Kyle Findlay (Robinson, Rhyce Sherrer at 9:29) tied it and Calahan Bilmer (GWG, Cameron Reid and Jack Messervey at 5:37) put the Demons ahead for good.

Period two was scoreless but the Demons pulled away in the final frame thanks to markers by Messervey (Mitchell VanBruinessen at 9:27), Reid (Jack van Kessel, Avery Holmes at 1:20) and Robinson (Bilmer at 47.9).

Demons 4 – Glens 3

Bilmer turned a pass provided by Edward Orendi into the GWG with 11:14 left in the game in Alexandria.

North Dundas led 2-1 after 20 minutes and the score was tied 3-3 with a period to play.

Robinson (Wade Hart, van Kessel at 7:23) and Sherrer (Jean-Guy Kronstal, Messervey at 7:01) scored in the opening period. Orendi (unassisted at 13:51) connected in period two and Bilmer cracked the GWG in the final frame.

Demons 3 – Bears 2

Robinson cashed in a pair of tallies handing the Demons a 2-0 lead in Smiths Falls. Bilmer set up the first at 11:51 while Reid and Sherrer engineered the second with 4:55 left in the session.

Bilmer completed a play set up by Reid and Orendi at 13:35 of the second period and it held up as the winner.

Aaron Turcotte and Carr share the Demons goaltending chores.

North Dundas Rockets, nip Nationals, move into seventh place

CHESTERVILLE – Liam Morrow buried a feed provided by Adam Douma and Perry Goulet at 11:57 of the third period as the North Dundas Rockets broke up a 2-2 tie and defeated the Rockland Nationals 3-2.

Saturday's (Nov. 1) decision, posted at the Chesterville and District Arena, enabled the Rockets (4-8-2) to gain sole possession of seventh place in the National Capital Junior Hockey League standings, two points behind the Cumberland Bandits (6-7-0) and Gatineau Olympiques (6-7-0).

This Saturday (Nov. 8), the number-two ranked Vankleek Hill Cougars (9-3-1) will visit Chesterville for an 8 pm tilt with the Rockets.

North Dundas coach Gary "Woody" Klein-Swormink feels the team is starting to shape up.

"At the start of the season, we struggled to put three lines together. Now we have enough bodies for five," he said. "I believe we have the talent to do well."

Two of those bodies are transplanted Winchester Hawks and both goaltender Daylon Courchene and forward Perry Goulet figured in the Rockets fourth victory. Courchene stopped 28 of 30 shots for the win and Goulet set up two goals, including the winner.

Kyle Adams pulled the Rockets into a 1-1 tie finishing a play started by Adam Douma at 15:28 of the second stanza.

North Dundas scrambled back into the game when Nick Wysman knotted it 2-2 after he had taken a pass from Goulet and captain Pete Klein-Swormink with 14:59 left in the final frame. That set the stage for Morrow to cash the deciding marker with 11:57 on the clock.

Demons blank Colts 2-0, Rebels 3-0

WILLIAMSTOWN – Backed by Toby Byrne's perfect shot blocking, the North Dundas Pee Wee "B" Demons blanked the hometown Char-Lan Rebels 3-0 and pushed their Upper Canada Minor Hockey League East Division second-place record to 2-0-3.

Curtis Bell rang up what would prove to be the GWG burying a feed sent to him by Xavier Leclerc with 14 seconds left in the first period on Wed., Oct. 29.

The count went to 2-0 when "AP" Max Paquette completed a play engineered by Bell and Leclerc 3:29 before the second stanza came to an end.

Adam Barkley's shot hit the back of the Rebels net at 10:23 of the final frame and completed North Dundas' scoring. Bell picked up his third point of the game setting up the play.

Kevin Bell, the Demons assistant coach, reported the team skated hard the entire game and battled hard on the boards.

Hobble Colts

Affiliate goaltender Liam Antille and the North Dundas Pee Wee "B" Demons were the first East Division team to defeat the first-place Cornwall Colts in the Seaway City on Mon., Oct. 20.

Antille, filling in for regular 'tender Toby Byrne, and his nine-man squad stymied the previously undefeated Colts 2-0. The result dropped Cornwall's record to 3-1-2 and improved the Demons' mark to 1-0-2.

Curtis Bell notched both North Dundas markers using a play created by Austin Rivet and Owen Richardson to record the GWG at 13:29 of the second period. He then rang up a 2-0 lead on an unassisted play at 11:09 of the same frame.

Carr cashes two

Mason Carr ripped home a pair of goals, including the tying tally, when the Demons rallied for a 3-3 tie against the Junior Braves in Brockville on Sun., Oct. 26.

North Dundas trailed 1-0 after the first two periods and was down 3-0 when Curtis Bell used a play started by Curtis Bowman to get his team on the board with 10:27 left in the game.

Carr then fired a feed from Leclerc into the Braves cage at 8:36 slicing the deficit to 3-2. His second goal came with 6:16 left in the game and knotted the final count at 3-3. Bell drew an assist on the deciding scoring play.

Byrne returned to duty and the North Dundas 'tender was credited with key saves, which figured in the Demons earning a point.

At home

The Demons will be looking to extend their undefeated streak tonight (Wed., Nov. 5) when they welcome the West Division's Perth/Lanark Wings (3-1-1) to the Joel Steel Community Centre for a 7 pm meeting.

Byrne hot

Toby Byrne was knocked out of action for several games due to illness, but has recovered and registered a 3-0 shutout victory over the Char-Lan Rebels and a 3-3 tie against the Braves in Brockville since his return on Sun., Oct. 26. "AP" Liam Antille was solid between the pipes while filling in for Byrne.

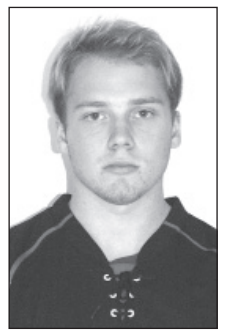
Meet the HAWKS



Shawn Simms

Forward

No. 19

Hallville's Shawn Simms is a second-year forward with the Winchester Hawks. Simms was named the winner of the Hawks Most Improved Player Award in his rookie year (2013-2014). In his first Eastern Ontario Junior Hockey League season, Simms played 38 games scoring 11 goals (3 GWG), 11 assists (2 PPA) and 22 points. He served one minor penalty. In nine post-season appearances, he collected five points (4-1-5). The North Dundas District High School senior has registered eight points (4-4-8), including a PPG and a GWG, in his first dozen St. Lawrence Division games. Annable's Jewellery and the Country Kitchen Restaurant co-sponsor his No. 19 jersey.

Susan Berndt claimed $2,140 in Saturday's (Nov. 1) Hawks 50/50 draw.

Friday's (Nov. 7) Hawks home game brings the Char-Lan Rebels to Winchester. Game time is 8:15 pm.

WDLHL's Stewart Trucking registers first win

WINCHESTER – Meghan Van Allen subbed in for Sam Faith and posted a 2-0 shutout helping the Stewart Trucking Company (STC) nip Andy's Foodland Reds.

Sunday (Nov. 2) morning's Winchester District Ladies Hockey League win was the first for STC (1-3-1) and kept them close to the fifth-place Country Girls (1-2-2). Andy's record (2-2-1) left them in a tie for third place with the Cooper Physio Pinks (1-1-3).

Ashley Middleton converted a play started by Natalie Brundige into STC's GWG at 17:55 of the second half of the 9 am game. An empty net goal in the final minute by Rochelle Perley made it a 2-0 final. Van Allen was player of the game for her flawless effort.

KC's 1 – Pinks 1

The first-place KC's Lawn Maintenance crew remained undefeated (2-0-3) battling the Cooper Pinks to a 1-1 tie in the 8 am encounter.

Amanda Rylaarsdam (player of the game) teamed up with Kelly Morrell to give KC's a 1-0 lead at 18:30 of the first half. Katrina Holmes used her fourth goal of the season to tie the game with 18:00 left in the second half. Lynn Lambourne set up the Pinks scoring play.

Kristie Wade (KC's) and Cashelle Baldwin were the opposing goalies.

Blues 2 – Girls 0

Carrie McCadden filled in for Sonja Bradley, the Annable's Jewellery Blues regular netminder, and earned player of the game honours for blanking the Country Girls 2-0.

Alyssa Wright's unassisted tally at 19:31 of the first half of the 10 am tilt proved to be the GWG. Courtney Barkley used a pass provided by Andrea Francis to make it 2-0 at 16:30 of the same session.

WTHL teams win three of four against Kemptville

WINCHESTER – Teams from the Winchester Town Hockey League played their first interlocking series against opposition from the North Grenville Industrial Hockey League and posted three wins in four games.

This is the first year there has been an exchange of regular season games between the two leagues and there are three more twin bills on the 2014-2015 schedule. The second will take place next month in Winchester (Tues., Nov. 18) and Kemptville on Wed., Nov. 19. Double dips are also slated for January and February.

Last week (Tues., Oct. 21) at the Joel Steele Community Centre, the Bush Leaguers bushwhacked Kemptville No. One 9-2 and Heuff's Carpentry Doggers hammered Kemptville No. Two 11-4. The next night (Wed., Oct. 22), the scene switched to Kemptville where Kemptville No. Three nipped the Chesterville Maulers 5-2 and the Red Roosters tripped up Kemptville No. Four 5-3 for their first win.

Leaguers 9 – No. One 2

Adam Schofield's hat trick helped the Bush Leaguers establish a 6-2 lead against Kemptville No. One in the first half. Dean Byvelds potted a pair, including the GWG set up by Steve Cameron at the 14:02 mark. Brady Bingley sniped the single before the intermission.

Steve Cameron, Byvelds and Corey Brown netted shots in the second half driving the final total to 9-2.

Cameron (5), Schofield (3), Byvelds (2), and Alex Krumins earned the assists. Matt Larabie was the winning 'tender.

Ryan Lesway (1-1-2) and Case Carswell (1-0-1) put Kemptville on the board.

Doggers 11 – No. Two 4

Heuff's Doggers bounded into an 8-2 lead in the first half and cruised to an 11-4 decision over the No. Two squad.

Matt VanDelst (3-2-5) and Mark Mitchell (2-3-5) each produced five points for the Doggers. Craig Christophersen (2-1-3), Justin Heuff (1-1-2), Michel Thurler (1-1-2), Jon Drew (1-1-2) and Kyle Sobering (1-0-1) supplied the remaining points. Colin Ion posted the win.

No. Three 5 – Maulers 2

Mitch Shay and James Kirkwood were the Chesterville marksmen in their 5-2 loss to the No. Threes in Kemptville.

Derek Crawford, Dana Schofield and goaltender Jesse Whyte engineered the Maulers scoring plays.

Roosters 5 – No. Four 3

Ben Wachoviak potted a pair of pucks for the Red Roosters in their first win of the campaign. Nik Paas, Clayton Kohn and Cam Shaw supplied the singles. Dwyer Penk (3), Paas (2), Chris Piquette (2), and Wachoviak provided the passes. Chase Beaudry was the Roosters' netminder.

Jets blast Gatineau 6-1

METCALFE – Jordan Malette struck for a pair of goals and Jean Pascal Sabourin gave up just one backing the Metcalfe Jets, who corralled the Gatineau Mustangs 6-1.

The Jets faced the top two teams in the Metro Division on home ice at the Larry Robinson Arena and earned three of a possible four points.

Friday (Oct. 31), they forced the first-place Ottawa West Golden Knights (10-5-1-0) into a shootout before losing 6-5. Sunday (Nov. 2) afternoon, the Jets destroyed the number-two ranked Mustangs (9-6-0-0) 6-1 and improved their third-place record to 8-6-0-1.

Metcalfe will be the location of the Jets' next two matches as they welcome the Clarence Beavers (5-8-0-0) at 8:15 pm on Friday and the Valley Division's Almonte Thunder (5-7-0-1) on Sunday (Nov. 9) afternoon at 2:15 pm.

Knights 6 – Jets 5 SO

Tanner Schroeder turned an opportunity created by Joey Farago and Geoff Hiebert into the tying goal at 17:19 of the final frame as Metcalfe erased a 5-4 Ottawa West lead and forced OT.

The Golden Knights outshot the jets 4-2 in OT but could not beat Anthony Salahor. However, Phil Edgar and Ryan DiMillo did put the puck into the Jets net in the shootout and picked up the two points.

Malette and Matt Borkowski shot for Metcalfe, but weren't successful.

First-period goals by Andrew Burke (Malette and Borkowski at 3:27), Farago (Schroeder, Wade Cass at 5:52) and Daniel Martin (SHG, Eric Turner, Jonathan Gillis at 13:22) gave the Jets a 3-0 lead.

Ottawa West closed the gap to 4-3 in the second session. Scott Mcilroy (PPG, Martin, Nick Rowan at 12:02) scored to keep the Jets on top.

Schroeder then sent the game into extra time.

Zach Cross (SHG), Dominik Lavergne, Phil Edgar, Connor O'Reilly and Robbie Pickard counted the Knights markers.

Jets 6 – Mustangs 1

Metcalfe held a 2-1 lead on Gatineau after 20 minutes and nursed a 3-1 advantage into the final frame before pulling away on the strength of a pair of third period snips by Malette (one PPG) and a single by Simon Martel.

Turner and Heibert (PPG) dented twine in period one while a shot fired by Andrew Burke struck string in the sandwich session.

Borkowski (2), Justin Brennan (2), Burke (2), Martel and Junau St-Germain engineered Metcalfe's scoring plays.
