Loyalists Can Wind up Series With Another Win Tonight

Morrisburg Loyalists took a 2-0 yeald in their semi-final series over Brockville, with a clean-cut 6-1 decision on Wednesday night.

Jack Duncan scored at 6:42 of the first period to give the Loyalists a 1-0 lead; Mel Tomalty added another at 8:11 of the second with Wayne Ellis of Brockville, making it a 2-1 game seconds later. After two minutes, John Hutton got the Loyalists 3rd goal to end the period.

The Morrisburg team counted 3 unanswered goals in the 3rd period by Jack Duncan, Big Doug Casselman and John Hutton.

The game was clean with only 5 penalties, 3 to the visitors, two to the Loyalists. Reg. Whiteland played in the net for the Stars, with Rick Droppo for the winners.

The 3rd and possibly last game of the series will be played in the Brockville arena on Friday March 24th. If a fourth game is necessary it will be in Morrisburg on Sunday afternoon. There is also a possibility that the finals may begin in Morrisburg on Sunday afternoon.

Still on his scoring rampage, 5 foot 2 inch Jack Duncan added 3 goals and 3 assists to his growing point total when the Morrisburg Loyalists outscored Lanark Merchants 10-5. This gave the Loyalists the best of 5 ODHA Intermediate B quarter finals 3 games to none.

The first period ended a 3-3 tie with Fred Harper giving the Loyalists a 4-3 lead in the only goal scored in the 2nd period.

In the 3rd period, the Loyalists came alive and scored 6 straight goals before Jim Nolan scored Lanarks last 2 goals. Loyalists scorers were: Mel Tomalty, 2 goals, 4 assists Bill Dillabough a pair and singles by Bill Lawlor and John Hutton. Lanark scorers were: John Renwick 2, and Mike Brazeau 1.

Brockville Stars is the next team to face the mighty Loyalists. Some of these Stars attending the last game between Lanark and Morrisburg, stated that they would give Morrisburg competition and would even go so far as to defeat them. But the Stars failed to tell Jack Duncan their plans; as he scored 5 goals and assisted on 2 more, as the Loyalists fired 10 goals past former teammate Ernie Metcalfe. Loyalists Rick Droppo had 26 shots fired at him and only 2 got in. Metcalfe faced 51 shots.

The Stars opened the scoring at 13:24 on a goal by Wayne Ellis. Jack Duncan tied the game at 15:43. In the 2nd period goals by Ron Alguire, John Hutton and Jack Duncan gave the Loyalists a 4-1 boost. Former Morrisburg Combine and Syracuse Star, Jim Forrest scored the Stars last goal before Mel Tomalty scored to end the 2nd period 5-2 in favour of the Loyalists.

The Loyalists hypnotized Metcalfe in the 3rd period, and slipped 5 unanswered goals past him. Duncan a hat trick and singles by Bill Lawlor and Little Doug Casselman. The Stars feature several ex Combines: Forrest, Bill Craig (who tried to put Lawlor through the boards 3 times), Morley Hunt, Lyle Ellis, Roy Pyke and ex Loyalists, Metcalfe and Don Snyder.

John Shepherd took an instant dislike to Loyalists Fred Harper and a feud was started, resulting in a minor and a major to each in the 2nd period. Tempers refused to stay in check and at 19:18 of the final period a battle royal resulted in Shepherd picking up 2 minors, 1 major, a 10 minute misconduct and a game misconduct. Harper received a major and a game misconduct.

These 2 teams meet in Morrisburg, Wed. March 22nd at 8.30 and in Brockville March 24th. Can Jack Duncan keep up his fantastic record? In 6 playoff games he has 27 goals and 14 assists.

Well known throughout the area, he was born at Inkerman, July 1st, 1890, a son of the late Robert and May Crowder. Mr. Crowder spent the early part of his life in the Inkerman area, in Morrisburg and Williamsburg, and later moved to Cornwall, where he was a projectionist at the Capitol Theatre.

Besides his wife, the former Valetta Torrance, who mhe married in 1911, he is survived by one son, Trevor, of Morrisburg. He also leaves two grandchildren: Mrs. Douglas Casselman (Betty Lou) of Morrisburg, and Mrs. Jack Nicholson (Rhea) of Shape, Belgium and one great granddaughter, Tricia Nicholson of Shape. Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Stanley Rennick (Violet) of Winchester, and a brother, Russell, also of Winchester.

Seaway Variety Night Is Well Received

The several hundred people who attended this year's Seaway Variety Night program found out that there is more to school than the curriculum laid down by the Ontario Department of Education. The two-night program "Reflections" dwelt on the past, present and future, and include skits, one-act plays, musicals and a film on the people and communities in our area.

Taking into consideration that the presentation was by amateurs, the show had a touch of professionalism in both its presentation and programming. Taking over two hours, with an intermission, the program kept the attention of the audience throughout and provided a fine evening's entertainment for the residents of the area served by the school.

Directing the program were Mrs. Rena Soper and Mr. Lionel Chartrand with hosts Miss Judy Hough and Mr. Tom Beckstead and compliments on a fine job are deserving to the foursome.

Chris Styles presided at the piano for the opening with O Canada and after an introduction of the number, the first musical presentation was of a cabaret in the 1920s and 1930s, with duets and chorus filling in the program.

"The Happy Journey", a one-act play, was well presented, and as with all parts of the program, had staff advisors helping the students.

With an army air, "The Canteen 1940s", presented musical numbers of that era, bringing back many memories of the war years and the songs of the time.

An amusing act, "The Voice of the People", started part two of the program, followed by a Camera Collage of the people of the people of the district and its communities. This was well done and a credit to the ingenuity of the students and staff.

A gymnastics display gave evidence of the expertise of the students in physical training in the school. Gary Gates provided a solo that was also well presented and appreciated.

The entire cast got together for the finale to end an enjoyable programme.

A word of thanks should also be voiced to those people who handled the behind-the-scenes jobs from the costume people, the staff, make-up, sound, lighting, TV closed circuit, set building, stage crew, promotion and advertising, ushers, scenery, programmes, accompanists and the students who made the door prize.

MAPLE SUGAR CAMP IS OPEN FOR THE SEASON

During the past 8 years over 120,000 visitors to the Crysler Maple Sugar Bush have enjoyed the fun and excitement of one of Ontario's oldest industries.

A few decades ago maple sugar shanties were a familiar sight across the province however during recent years their numbers have sharply decreased.

For young visitors to the Sugar Bush it is an interesting new experience and for those who can look back a few years a very nostalgic one.

Crysler Maple Sugar Bush is located 6 miles east of Morrisburg just off Highway 2. Old and new methods of collecting and processing sap are illustrated and everyone enjoys the "sugaring off" taffy ladled on fresh snow.

2000 trees are tapped and weather permitting the operation will be underway after March 20th.

There is no charge for visiting the Sugar Bush, where maple sugar products are sold, and on weekends a horse-drawn vehicle carries visitors to and from the sugar camp The camp is open every day through out the sap run which usually ends around April 10.

Films on making maple syrup and maple products will be shown during the operating season in the Upper Canada Cafeteria for groups of school children. Teachers intending to take groups of school children should write in advance to the St. Lawrence Parks Commission Box 340, Morrisburg, stating the number in the group, date of visit and expected time of arrival

At the Upper Canada Village Entrance Store Snack Bar maple syrup with pancakes and sausages is available along with snacks and hot drinks.

Bring the children for an enjoyable and interesting family outing.

Bell Spent 38 Gs In Morrisburg

Bell Canada spent $38,000 in Morrisburg in 1971 to keep pace with customers' current telecommunications needs and to meet foreseeable, short-term requirements, Ken Menard, Bell manager said this week.

Mr. Menard was elaborating on Bell's annual report, which is being mailed to the company's 345,000 shareholders. The report shows that Bell's capital spending in 1971 was $471.6 million throughout the area the company serves in Ontario, Quebec, Labrador and the Northwest territories.

Throughout the year, 202 telephones were connected and 150 dis connected in Morrisburg for a net gain of 52, he said. The report shows that in the entire area served by Bell, 1,594,036 phones were connected and 1,306,324 disconnected for a net gain of 287,712. To meet the service needs of a mobile population the company has to install six phones to gain one.

The report, signed by Marcel Vincent, chairman of the board of directors, points out that the capital costs of disconnections and re-installations involved in customer moves, combined with expenditures to replace worn or damaged plant and equipment, accounted for nearly one-fifth of the capital budget.

By far the largest part of the $471.6 million budget — more than two-thirds — was for new plant and equipment to meet current customer demand resulting from new or expanded residential, business and industrial developments.

About 12 per cent of the capital budget went for modernization and innovation.

In Morrisburg the company paid $6,444 in municipal taxes. This was part of its total tax bill of $174,352,000 for the year.

"In this business" the report states, "capital must be spent in advance of customer need — well ahead of the time when revenues may be realized from the investment — to ensure that service will be available and when required."

"A conutinuing, orderly and progressive program of construction is needed to maintain current levels of service, to meet rising demands for telecommunications services, to take advantage of opportunities to serve better through technology, and to keep costs as low as practicable.

Local Students Visit Upper Can. Village

by Kevin Keyes

On February 16 and 17 the pupils of Grade 7 from Morrisburg Public School journeyed to Upper Canada Village. There we were involved in such activities as the blacksmith shop, the craft house, the broommaker's shop and the cabinet maker's shop.

We arrived at Upper Canada around 9:30 a.m. where we went to the schoolhouse. There Miss Barbra Snyder showed us how the school was operated back in the 1800s.

While at the schoolhouse we made up 5 groups. Two to go to the craft house to learn to spin, weave, and make candles. Others went to the blacksmith shop where we made spikes. Do you know how many spikes George York makes a day? He makes approximately 200 a day! Some went to the broom maker's shop and were shown how to make brooms. The rest went to the cabinetmaker's and made various little wooden ornaments.

At around 12 p.m. we all went back to the schoolhouse and ate lunch. After lunch we would have free time to 1:20. Some stayed at the school and played cards and others just nosied around the village.

In the afternoon we went to different places that we had gone in the morning. The bus couldn't come to get us until 4:00 so we took a sleigh ride.

To sum it up for you we had the time of our life—a matter of fact some pupils had never been there in their life. While we were having fun we were learning a lot too.

GORDON BLAIR'S OTTAWA REPORT

OPPORTUNITIES FOR ALL

Last summer's Opportunities for Youth and other federal programs employed more than 69,000 students. This winter, the Local Initiatives Program provided employment for 90,000 people. Federal Summer '72 programs are expected to create 75,000 student jobs of which approximately 29,000 will be in Opportunities for Youth projects.

SUCCESSFUL PROGRAMS RAISE QUESTIONS

Provincial governments, notably Ontario, have established parallel projects for winter works and summer student employment. Serious questions are raised and people are disturbed when they read of a handful of hare-brained or wasteful projects even though it is generally agreed that these programs have been useful and successful. After consultation with many responsible people I feel that the program of last summer and this winter did achieve their purpose of providing employment in this riding to almost all able-bodied people registered for it. But beyond the irritation of specific projects, serious questions arise. Why do we have these programs? Are they necessary? Are they doing a proper job for the community?

SPECIAL PROGRAMS NECESSARY IN CANADA

Ever since the depression there has been a built-in prejudice against government "make work" projects. The Government has acted to provide employment on a broad economic plane, namely by fiscal, monetary and other economic policies designed to keep the economy running in high gear. But these broad economic policies are not totally effective in maintaining unemployment in any western country. We face special problems of unemployment in Canada. The most obvious type is the cyclical increase in unemployment, such as has occurred in the last year arising from general economic conditions. In addition, because of our climate many industries are seasonal and traditionally we have had a seasonal unemployment. There is a tremendous surge into the work force each summer as students are released from school and university. Because of our population the problem of student employment will be important of some years. The factors which create year to year and seasonal variations in employment are now too well known to be treated as if they were unexpected emergencies to be dealt with by special programs. We need a permanent policy designed to level out employment opportunities and available to be implemented as required each year or each season to meet employment problems as they develop.

COORDINATED CONTINUING PROGRAM REQUIRED

While the emergency programs of the past year have been generally successful, they now show signs of strain and cannot endure much longer in their present unstructured and relatively uncoordinated form. Public policy must recognize that emergency employment measures are going to be with us for some time to come. This being so, we must realize that they can only be successful if they are based on plans worked out for several years in advance in considerable detail, both as to their immediate physical object and their method of financing. Such programs have to be of a "stop and go" character, capable of being activated fully in times of emergency and withdrawn or slowed down in times of full employment. They need not be stodgy, bureaucratically-designed projects and they can relate to all aspects of our life. One correspondent more than a year ago provided a list of such projects as follows:

"roads, bridges, parks, jails, public galleries, art studios, sports arenas, playing fields, public beaches, community centres, camping sites, youth hostels, tourist trails, game reserves, zoos, canoe routes, ski hills, hospitals, nursing homes, health clinics, day care centres city housing, Indian housing, Eskimo housing, schools, university buildings, court house, fish hatcheries, fish ladders, canal improvements, forest planting, sewage treatment plans, air strips, historical monuments, industries for the handicapped, scientific research laboratories."

Pre - eminently such programs should be aimed at improving the quality of life - this is the ultimate justification for the expenditures involved. Beyond this, properly conceived, these plans could make tremendous appeal to our national pride and patriotism.

There are many straws in the wind indicating the adoption of these policies. The recent meeting of federal and provincial ministers of finance at Jasper discussed long range plans for coordination of these programs. The Prime Minister in a recent address broadly hinted that new plans were afoot for putting such programs on a permanent basis. There is increasing evidence of public understanding of the problem. Such programs properly developed should not serve only one age group or part of the population. They should apply to benefit all parts of Canada and all age groups and provide "opportunities for all".

Yours Sincerely . . .

BY MRS. WELLWOOD ADAM

During my more serious reading I came across the word "missionary" and, I must confess, my immediate reaction was a mind picture of a small hospital building, roofed with palm branches under a blue and tropical clouded sky. Not forgetting the trained medical personnel going forth to work for "the heathens" in a far-off foreign land.

Now this certainly does not under-estimate the thousands of very dedicated men and women who have done just that, spending their lives away from their own beloved homelands, for this kind of wonderful work is still being carried on in a few places left on this earth.

However, the word "missionary" hasn't quite the same meaning in thes emodern days; especially now that the time of the indigenous Church is with us. Missionaries of today work with people, rathern than for people, and this has become a new way of thinking. Instead of just medical and religious missionaries, we have, with them, teachers, child welfare workers, farmers of all kinds, engineers, well-diggers, etc.; all men and women of God, doing in, and with His spirit what they put their hands to do.

A favorite writer of mine wrote that God's frontier "is to be define dnot in terms of geography, but of belief . . . it is crossed whenever and wherever belief becomes faith". Quite a wonderful quote, in my opinion, and I think this can just as easily be applied to everyday life in this modern world, especially when one is earning a living.

You know, we can mix with some very agreeable and nice people, young and old alike, who are not, strictly speaking, men and women of God. hey can be found here and there aroun dus, in the offices, the stores, schools, colleges and universities, in the world of politics, hospitals, etc., etc., even in the churches. There are others who try very hard to live a Godly life in 'their daily tasks and common round', and sometimes find it hard, but surely worth the trying.

I have gradulially learned that the world is really one, in spite of so much that we read and hear about it. We all enter it the same way, live under the same sun, and in our deeper hunger of body, mind and spirit, we are all alike, east or west.

So that missionary activities are no longer looked upon as merely happening in the isolated corners of the earth . . . they are here, and all around us. It is now a very essential part of right living wherever you and I may chance to live. The way we live and talk and think is felt. in some way, by those we brush up against in the day, even when phoning, and always for good or for bad. When I say 'for good or for bad', I really mean this, for it can bite both ways, in this matter of being a missionary, even in your home town, or anywhere else we may happen to be. What do you think about this?

SCHOOLS OF THE OLDEN DAYS

by Eric Stevens

The schools long ago were crudely made,
And the teachers were very lowly paid.
The children came from near and far,
They travelled by foot and not by car!
The schoolmaster was wise
but tough and mean.
There was no fooling that could be seen.
The children thought hard using their head,
They studied so hard they felt they were dead.
The only advantage they had over us,
They didn't have to go to school and we must.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Morrisburg Leader,
Morrisburg, Ontario.

Sir — One assumes that articles appearing on the editorial pages of a newspaper are meant to be thought-provoking, but seldom in The Leader do we see letters pro or con of such articles. Perhaps you do get letters, but for one reason or another they are not published. Surely the people in Dundas County do not all think alike. What a dreary existence that would be.

In your issue of March 10th last, you published an article which originated in The Ottawa Citizen and was titled: "Can Stanfield Stop The Bigots". Upon reading the article there immediately came to mind two questions. Firstly: Was the article written with a view to justifying the Prime Minister's loss of 'cool' and 'dignity' in publicly applying the term 'Bigot' to another public figure. Secondly: Was the article meant to be a condemnation of men in public life who expressed themselves, not so much as anti-bilingualism as anti-method adopted.

While in no sense a politician, my vocation afforded me the opportunity of criss-crossing my native Canada many times and working in her various Provinces. This has been an education in itself and I have not learned that the country possesses many bigots - in the sense that people are totally intolerant. Certainly there is plenty of political bias and for various reasons which can be understood. As for racism this is predominantly confined to Quebec, or at least was until recently. If it existed to any extent in other parts of Canada, it must have been lying dormant until aroused by the enactment of legislation, the desireability of which seemed to be that of making the country bilingual in a great hurry at great expense, whereas many not opposed to bilingualism feel the better approach would be through our schools where youth is at an impressionable age. The ethnic groups in Canada can be cited as a good example of this idea, many speak more than one language, but not necessarily English or French.

It is entirely wrong to call a man a 'bigot' simply because he differs with your viewpoint. The integrity of men is nurtured in a moral code coupled with honesty. Few men of integrity have much use for the man who would sacrifice or surrender his convictions for self-gain, whether it be votes or otherwise.

Obviously the matter of creating a bilingual Canada hinges on the case of Canada's duality, otherwise two languages would be unnecessary and it is taken for granted that this is what Mr. Stanfield was trying to put across in his recent speech made in Montreal.

What Canadians should fear more than bilingualism, is a Federal Government composed of splinter groups. Perish the thought, that we should become like some other nations, because of instability are governed by compromise.

FINISH KITH A FLOURISH

If the psychologists are correct, most of us who spend our working hours in offices have formed a more loving attachment than we realize to—of all things—our desks.

They are close friends, places of refuge, the keepers of valued possessions such as pictures of the family, and most important, the one place in the office that we can call our own. Piled with papers or neat as a pin, a man's desk is often his castle.

But for some personnel in the Kemptville District of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, loving your desk was often a hard thing to do. Many of the desks were the old wooden ones turned in by various Provincial Government Departments who moved from their old office buildings to the new quarters in the modern Queen's Park complex. The remaining district furniture was used furniture obtained from Government storage sheds.

The furniture was actually quite attractive and still very serviceable. The beauty was just hidden years of accidental coffee spills, dust, nicks, and gouges. Drab furniture.

Then came the "Renaissance" — a four man winter works program based at the Larose Forest workshop in Russell County. Gaetan Menard is in charge of the restoring operation that has revived valuable old furniture and delighted the office staff.

Under Mr. Menard's eye, Raoul Belanger and Fernand Dube unload the desks that have been trucked in by Jean - Paul Martel from offices throughout the District, and begin the stripping process.

Old varnish and layers of grime are soaked with remover and the resulting scum scraped off. The wood is sanded by machine and hand. The last operation is the application of polyurethane, a plastic liquid that resists yellowing with age.

It's a modest operation with very pleasing results. The in-coming desks are dull, chipped and scarred from many years use. Once old varnish is removed, the rich grain of the wood begins to come alive. Careful sanding removes most of the scars. After the final polyurethane coating, the old desks have become warm, glowing pieces of wood.

It's the little touches that really make the difference. Drawers are sanded or planed so they slide effortlessly. Legs suffering from drunken wobbles are made sober and broken handles are mended. The cigarette burns are often third degree making treatment more complicated since the desks are really covered with a layer of oak one thirty-seconds of an inch thick. Too much sanding will suddenly reveal the cross grain of the poplar or birch underneath.

When this happens, or if the desk is severely gouged, Mr. Menard mixes a filler paste of glue and sawduse taken from that particular desk to ensure the wood tone matches. After patching, he finishes the job by drawing in the grain of the wood with a small brown pencil.

Part of the lure of refinishing is the possibility of discovering a valuable piece of furniture disguised by old coats of paint. The "find" this winter for the Larose refinishers came in the shape of a small book case painted dull brown. Underneath was a piece of knotty white pine that might hold its own beside many French-Canadian antiques of the same material.

More than forty pieces of furniture have been restored this winter and the truck brings more every day. The 20 year old desks would now cost at least $220 apiece to buy.

Besides being a thing of beauty, the restored desks with their clear rich wood grain are a wonderful advertisement for wood — part of the business in which Lands and Forests is engaged.

ORDER TREE NOW

Many landowners in Eastern Ontario planted trees last year. Many have already completed their planning for tree planting and have ordered the seedlings for this spring. No doubt, many more landowners have thought about planting, but only very casually and before they realize it, it will be too late.

We urge you to complete your planning now and fill out the proper application form supplied by the Department of Lands and Forests. Applications are available at the field office of the Department and from your local Agricultural Representative.

Some species are already out of stock for this spring. These are white cedar, Jack Pine, Norway Spruce, black spruce, tamarack, basswood, white ash and Carolina Popular.

Anyone owning 2 acres or more of land, exclusive of buildings may purchase seedlings from the Provincial Nurseries of the Department of Lands and Forests. The cost is $14.00 per thousand for Scotch pine and $10.00 per thousand for other species. Trees may be used for a variety of purposes, viz, timber production, Christmas trees, recreation, wildlife habitat improvement, aesthetic beauty and protection against floods and soil erosion.

The choice of species to plant depends upon the site factors such as soil type, moisture, exposure, degree of shade as well as the intended use of the trees. When choosing trees for planting, select the one or two species best suited to the growing conditions present and the objective in mind.

AUDITORS' REPORT 1971

FOR THE CORPORATION OF

THE VILLAGE OF MORRISBURG

March 8, 1972

The Reeve,
Members of Council, Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Village of Morrisburg

I have examined the 1971 financial statement of the Corporation of the Village of Morrisburg and its local Boards, which are listed on the attached Index. My examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Corporation of the Village of Morrisburg and its local Boards as at December 31, 1971 (with the exception of the Hydro Electric System which will be reported upon at a later date), and the results of their operations for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles, generally accepted for Ontario Municipalities, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

THE BEGINNING OF A FOREST MANAGEMENT PLAN

In this age of increased social and economic demands, management planning of our natural resources has become extremely important.

That means all natural resources. Too often in the past, land management has involved only single use planning. Today, an effective plan must be governed by a multiple use concept - management of timber, wildlife and recreation not being separate or possibly conflicting, but together in one co-ordinated plan.

Work on a plan of this nature began in mid-December of 1971 for the 60,000 acres of Crown land in the Lanark Division.

The first step was initiation of a forest inventory cruise to determine precisely what natural resources exist. This type of cruise is the working basis for any management plan, and therefore a phase requiring considerable time and care. Cruisers transecting each area are carefully gathering all pertinent information about timber, wild life and recreation conditions so future management decisions can be made soundly.

To date, the inventory has been carried out only in Lavant Township which is generally unsuitable for agriculture, but has exhibited immense potential in other regards. There is plenty of wildlife, good supplies of timber and many possible recreation sites.

One major consideration in the Lanark management plan will be urban dwellers since the Ottawa-Hull area, a population centre of more than half - a - million, is 50 miles away. It's a ready supply of customers for any recreation ventures in Lanark.

Forest management planning is a complex involving your natural resources. The foresters, biologists, resource technicians and the general public must co-operate before that plan can be effective.

O.P.P. REPORT

DRIVING THE EXPRESSWAYS

Every year hundreds of accidents occur on our expressways. Some of the causes of these accidents have been found to be attributed to improper passing, improper lane changing, speeding and driver inattentiveness. The following driver procedures for driving on the expressways could prove beneficial to you:

When entering the expressway adjust your speed and position to permit steady accelerations so that you can safely merge into a gap between cars. Your speed when entering the expressway off the ramp should be close to that of the posted speed limit on the expressway.

When changing lanes and passing the driver of the passing vehicle should first check ahead and behind using both inside and outside mirrors. He should signal his intention to pull out into the left lane, and then check again to make sure he will not interfere with any other traffic. After passing, he should check to make sure he is well past the passed vehicle and then signal right before pulling back into the driving lane.

Maintain a safe driving distance between you and the vehicle in front of you. It is suggested that you leave one car length for every 10 miles of speed between you and the vehicle in front of you.

While driving on the expressways you should always "drive ahead" being alert for any vehicles which may pull out on the highway from a merging lane. If this occurs, look behind, signal left and pull out in the passing lane to avoid conflict. After passing, check your mirror, signal right, and pull back into the driving lane.

The expressway characteristics reduce obvious necessity for constant alertness producing monotony and boredom. The driver must remain alert to recognize the signs of drowsiness or sleepiness you should allow yourself a ten minute break for every two hours of driving.

Complex expressway interchanges make specific lane use imperative. The overhead guides are designed for proper lane use and will assist you in making your l a n e change early.

When leaving the expressway, know where you will exit well in advance. Signal, and move into the correct lane as soon as possible. Move into the deceleration lane as soon as possible and then slow down only after entering the deceleration lane. Observe posted limits on the exit ramp and be ready for sharp curves.

By following these procedures, you will be much safer when travelling on expressways.

Remember, the key to safety is "YOU"

Ontario Provincial Police in Dundas County patrolled 12,108 miles while working 1,048 hours. During this period officers laid 37 charges and issued 55 warnings under hte Highway Traffic Act of Ontario.

Officers from Morrisburg and Winchester Detachments investigated 2 thefts, 2 disturbances and 22 miscellaneous complaints.

Five persons were charged under the Liquor Control Act of Ontario while one other person was charged with impaired driving.

Officers were kept quite busy on area roads investigating 12 property damage accidents and 2 personal injury accidents, in which 2 persons received minor injuries.

Provincial Court was quiet with officers spending 18 hours in court while registering 64 convictions.

THE RIGHTS OF THE NONSMOKER

Nonsmokers are learning how to defend themselves.

Remember just a few years ago when airlines passed out courtesy cigarettes? No longer. Today they're just as busy setting up no - smoking areas for complaining customers.

Cigarette smoke is more than an annoyance to nonsmokers. It can cause physiological distress in healthy individuals as well as in those with asthma and other respiratory illnesses. New reaserch indicates, in fact, that the nonsmoker is affected by cigarette smoke in much the same damaging way as is the smoker himself.

Recent experiments at Texas A & M University and elsewhere indicate that even 30 minutes in a smoke - filled environment significantly increases the non-smoker's heart rate, blood pressure, and the amount of carbon monoxide in his blood.

A team of researchers at the University of Cincinnati Medical Center reported that smoke drifting from the burning end of cigarettes, cigars and pipes carries with it more cadmium, a metal poisonous to man, than the smoke inhaled by the smoker through the unlit end of the cigarette. Large doses of cadmium can cause acute poisoning in man. In lower doses it has been implicated in hypertension, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema.

Your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association urges nonsmokers to speak up and say "Yes, I do mind if you smoke." Defend yourself. It's a matter of life and breath. Yours.

Sun Oil Company Aids Olyimpic Fund

Sun Oil Company Limited is throwing its full promotional support behind Canada's Olympic endeavours.

While aiming to boost gasoline sales and increase public interest in the 1972 Summer Olympics, Sunoco is launching a major fund-raising drive on behalf of the Canadian Olympic Association.

Over a 17-week period Sunoco will give away a series a 21 unique Canadian Olympic medallions to motorists (one with each $3.00 purchase of gasoline). Each medallion bears the official Canadian Olympic Association crest on one side, and the offical symbol of one of the 21 Summer Olympic events on the other.

Sunoco will kick-off its Olympic Game promotion with a $20,000 donation to the Canadian Olympic Fund. The company will then sell collectors' cases for the medallions for $2.99 — with a 50-cent donation going to the Canadian Olympic Association for each case sold.

In addition to providing support for our amateur athletes and Olympic Teams, Sunoco is running a contest to enable ten entrants to win an expenses-paid trip for two to the Summer Olympics in Munich.

Sunoco worked on the development of the heavy metal medallions in close co-operation with officials of the Olympic Trust of Canada.

While colorful mounting cards will be available free from Sunoco dealers, the company hopes to raise a substantial sum for the Olympic Trust Fund over and above its initial $20,000 donation, from the sale of deluxe collector cases. Made of steel, these high quality cases have a simulated leather cover, and open up to display the medallions on a soft green background with gold imprinting.

Each purchaser of a case will receive an official, personalized certificate acknowledging his or her support of the Canadian Olympic Team.

In addition, trips for two to Munich will be awarded every two weeks, with the first draw March 29 and the final draw on July 12.

According to W.G. Cline, manager, retail marketing services, the Sunoco Olympic Game promotion is the largest in the company's history. While extensive advertising and point-of-sale material is planned on behalf of Sunoco's 1,200 dealers in Ontario and Quebec, the commercial element has been completely eliminated in the design of the medallions and cases. Cline predicts they will become collectors' items.

One man's Mistake

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'm writing this at my office as the men I work with are going to their nice, warm, pleasant homes where a nice warm meal is waiting for them. And I sit here wondering what restaurant I'll eat at tonight. I once had a lovely home and a sweet loving wife. Although we didn't have any children, we were happy. We had our ups and downs, of course, but I suppose every couple does. Then, on our 25th anniversary, I asked my wife to divorce me because I had found someone younger. Oh, how my wife cried. She aged so much in just a few months. She begged and begged me to give the other woman up, but I was either too stubborn or too foolishly in love (I thought at the time) to do that. Three months later, we were divorced. You can believe this, or not, but I sure worke up in a hurry. That nice, sweet-voiced young woman turned into a gabby, never-stop-nagging witch. From the good-looked meals at home I used to have, I found myself getting canned soups and sandwiches. (Is this what a working man is supposed to thrive on?) Then, there was her 12-year-old daughter. She always had the radio blasting away so loud, it could deafen you. On other days, that girl and her friends would run in and out of the house, slamming the doors like crazy. I told her mother I'm not used to all of this. She said: Well, it's too damn bad. Get used to it. And from the time I came home from work until the time I went to bed, all she did was nag and accuse me of things I wouldn't have thought possible. She nagged me about the kind of lawyers I had because my "old lady" (as she referred to my ex-wife) got everything. She used to throw this up to me so much that I got mighty sick hearing about it. Is love really that blind? How foolish can a man be? (I sure was lucky I didn't marry her.—Something was mixed up somewhere and she couldn't get a divorce from her husband . . . I never bothered asking.) After five months, I just took my clothes and ran as far as I could. A few more months of that and I would have ended up permanently in the booby hatch. I wish other men who read this would think twice before they leap into something they may regret for the rest of their lives. Men, the grass is never greener on the other side. It only looks that way. When you get there, it's full of weeds. I realize now that I still love my wife. (Although I hurt her so much her love for me has probably turned to hate.) I made a bad mistake, but don't you think I deserve another chance? If it wasn't for my good-standing job, I'd turn out to be a bum although I don't drink or smoke. I'm 50 years old and feel like I'm 80. My ex-wife is 48. She sold our home and moved to Michigan with her sisters after the divorce. I wonder if I should write and ask her to forgive me and give me another chance. I need her so much. I'm broken-hearted.

M.K.

Dear M.K.:

Twenty-five years is a long time for two people to invest in a marriage and perhaps some of that investment can be salvaged. However your ex-wife has been so humiliated, she may not have much compassion for you, at this point. Yet you should write her by all means. But perhaps it would be best to proceed slowly. (She's been burned once and will be wary of any approaches you make.) Why not drop her a casual note to ask how she's doing with herself, etc? Then maybe you can follow up later with a request for a meeting. And later still, there might be some mention of a possible reconciliation. If you were to indicate to her now how desperate you are, she might be strongly tempted to hurt you as badly as you've hurt her. And that wouldn't do either of you much good.

THE FLYING DENTISTS AND THE ESKIMOS

Four flying dentists with a portable high-speed drill are spearheading an attempt to save the teeth of the Eskimo children of Baffin Island. These dentists, who are attached to the federal government's Northern Health Service working out of Frobisher Bay are making a programme available for residents of remote settlements to see their dentist twice a year.

Until 35 years ago the Eskimos in this area demonstrated an enviable level of dental health. As development and habitation of the northern regions spread, the Eskimos' contact with the white man and his diet grew accordingly. Their teeth, which had never before been exposed to a diet rich in sugar and refined carbohydrates, began to suffer and thus needed more dental care.

The new programme, began last year, emphasizes prevention of tooth decay. Visiting a settlement, dentists fill cavities and paint the teeth of grades 1 and 2 children with a fluoride solution that helps prevent decay. A new grade will be added each year as children enter the school system so that eventually all children will come under the scheme. The familiar advice, "brush twice a day and don't eat too many candies" is also dispensed.

Through the use of aeroplanes, modern equipment and modern technology these Eskimos of Canada's northland are getting the dental health care they so urgently need.

Fix-It Tip

Learn some elementary plumbing. Otherwise, you will find yourself paying a high minimum service charge to a plumber to replace a five-cent washer or fix a drain you could have cleared yourself in two minutes. You'll need only a few simple tools, such as a medium-sized monkey wrench, a screwdriver, a pair of pliers, a spring-steel plumber's "snake" and a "plumber's helper"—a rubber suction cup fitted to a wooden handle.

Dundas Farm News

Much has been said and written over the past year about "Basic Herds". The flood of recent applications at the District Taxation Office is evidence thats has been heeded. Yet from day-to-day conversations with farmers, we are concerned that some eligible people may not realize there is still a chance and that it might be to their advantage.

While the new tax legislation does away with the basic herd principle, it is still possible up till April 30th to establish a basic herd under certain conditions when you file your 1971 income tax returns.

What is so good about having a basic herd? What is so good about saving money on future income tax payments? The amount you can save will be in direct proportion to the number of animals in your basic herd. Don't forget this only applies to people who keep livestock for breeding purposes and can't be used for livestock being fed for slaughter.

As an illustration, let's say you have a herd of 80 head of which 40 are mature and 40 are young cattle. The number of animal units in your herd is calculated as one for each mature animal and one-half for each immature one. In this case, you would have 60 animal units. Let's say, too, you have established a basic herd of 50 animal units.

It now becomes important that your herd has been valued on Valuation Day. You set up the value of your basic herd on the average value of the animal units in your herd on Valuation Day. If you go only by the sales from your herd in 1971, you might only be reflecting the value of cows that were sold for beef. So we are suggesting you list each animal in your herd with date of birth, estimated fair market value, and a record of production, classification, and anything else that serves to say why any particular one might be above average Of course, if you have a very commercial herd of average value, you can use an across-the-board figure the same for each one. For someone with some really valuable production records, it is better ti list them individually and support your claims with evidence.

The idea is to come up with a total fair market value of the total herd, and to divide this figure by the total number of animal units on the farm to get an average Valuation Day of your herd.

Let's now say for our purposes, you arrive at a $500 average figure. Suppose you sell the herd of 80 head (60 animal units) a year later and come up with an average sale price of $500 per animal unit. Your total livestock returns of 60x$500 or $30,000 becomes income for tax purposes that year. If you had a basic herd of 50 animal units, you could deduct their Valuation Day value of 50x$500 or $25,000 from this and pay income tax on $5,000 instead of $30,000.

Basic herds are being phased out over the next ten years. You will be able to reduce your basic herd by up to 10 percent per year without actually reducing the number of animal units in your herd. There are conditions attached to this voluntary privilege but it could mean starting in 1972, you could reduce your taxable income in this case by the value of 5 animal units or $2,500 if it was to your advantage to do so.

Now, for some people there is a lot of confusion as to whether they do in fact have a basic herd. If you have a letter from your District Taxation office on hand granting you a basic herd of a certain number of animal units, it is certain. If someone told you they would apply for one for you in the past and you have seen no visible written evidence, you should check it out. You could place a telephone call to the District Taxation Office at 360 Lisgar Street in Ottawa (telephone 992-2976) to inquire.

If you haven't got one and might wonder if you are eligible, your County Agricultural Representative's office should be able to advise you how to find out. Remember, too, if this is a year in which your business provides no taxable income, it could be a real advantage to increase your basic herd, if you already have one.

Buying A Used CAR

The old adage of kicking the tires of a used vehicle before purchasing it, may be satisfying for the novice, but a more knowledgeable car purchaser when looking at a used vehicle as a prospective customer is likely to inspect the engine compartment.

When contemplating the purchase of a used vehicle take a few minutes and open the hood so that you can inspect the inside, and more importantly — the ground beneath.

Take a look at the pavement directly underneath the engine and radiator to see what is there. A few spots of oil underneath the car is not sinister, but a lot of oil under the car is.

A leaking radiator could mean that a new radiator is required — which not necessarily a cheap operation. If the leak appears to be coming from a deteriorated water hose then replacement is a simple matter and will not cost a great deal of money.

If a customer is in doubt he would be wise to have the vehicle taken to the garage of his choice so that the garage operator or his mechanic, can inspect the vehicle and assist the prospective purchaser in determining the general condition of this vital area of the automobile.

Another simple process of checking a used car's condition is to bounce the car at all four corners. This is checking the suspension. When the vehicle is released the car should settle at once at a balanced position. If it continues bouncing of its own accord, you can anticipate purchasing new shock absorbers for it.

Contrary to general opinion shock absorbers must be kept in good condition and they are, particularly at highway speed, a vital safety component of the automobile.

ADELAIDE DANIELS  SAYS

HELP YOUR TEENAGER LOSE WEIGHT

If your teenagers have a weight problem, they've probably tried everything by now — exercisers, miracle diets, crash diets, fad diets, starvation diets, diet pills, in other words they've run the gamut and nothing has seemed to work — at least not for long!

These reducing schemes probably all appeared to be giving promising results at first but then something happened along the way and the whole idea collapsed. The trouble with almost all reducing schemes is that they cannot do the one thing that is really effective. They cannot permanently change bad eating habits.

To be fat is to be out! Thin is "in". Slim boys and girls in movies, television and fashion magazines are idolized and imitated. Teenagers who are plump often become the butt of cruel jokes by the "in" group.

The overweight teen loses pride in personal appearance. Those snappy young styles are not usually made for big girls. Boys, too, have difficulty finding anything more flattering to wear than belted slacks. The fat teen soon learns to loathe the sight of himself.

A fat girl will avoid mirrors and try to put her appearance out of her mind as if to say, "If I don't see myself, nobody else will." And the fat teen often adopts a shrinking posture with hunching shoulders.

For the overweight boy or girl, a normal social life begins to seem like an impossible dream.

Mothers can help their teenagers lose weight — the secret lies in knowing how to use food properly to help their children grow and lose weight at the same time without having to live through the embarrassment of always being on some kind of diet. You can instill good eating habits without making weight reduction a nagging burden.

One of the first jobs is to make yourself aware of just how serious a problem overweight can be for a teen. My experience has shown that more than 25 per cent of teenagers weigh 20 pounds more than is considered healthy for their age, height, and type of build.

When you think of the enormous problems that adolescents have anyway and consider how many of them are also burdened with unsightly fat, then you realize how much misery excess weight causes.

And remember, a teenager is more sensitive to what is happening than an adult. Still insecure and still struggling for self definition and independence, the teenager has, at best, ambivalent feelings toward parents and discipline. You will have to keep this in mind as you begin a positive weight reduction programme.

TAX TIPS QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q. I am a garage mechanic and have to provide my own tools. — These cost me $500. When completing my income tax return, can I claim this expense as a deduction?

A. No. The cost of tools is not deductible from salary or wages; nor may you claim capital cost allowance on them.

Q. I know I should have received a personalized income tax return because I have filed a return for the past years. However, either I have not received it or I have lost it. What do I do now?

A. You should obtain a T1 form either from a Post Office or your District Taxation Office, and complete and file it. Be sure you obtain and file the proper form — T1 Short, for the majority of Canadians, or T1 General.

Q. My husband and I both work and I have to employ a housekeeper to look after the children. When filing my income tax form, can I claim the housekeeper as a deduction?

A. No. For the year 1971, the housekeeper's salary is not deductible for income tax purposes either by you or your husband.

Q. How much was the Old Age Pension in 1971?

A. If you were not in receipt of the guaranteed income supplement, the old age pension would have amounted to $80 a month. If you received it for the whole year it would have amounted to $960.

Q. My husband owns a boat and has to take supplies to the boat and also pick up some of his crew and bring them to the boat. At times when there is a storm he has to make several trips to and from the dock to make sure that the boat is alright. Is it possible for him to claim anything for car expenses?

A. As he is the owner of the boat, he can deduct expenses towards income. Taking provisions and crew to and from the boat would relate to that. In order to make his claim he would need to keep a record of the number of miles he drove for business purposes and the total number of miles he drove the car in a year. He would use this ratio of business to total miles, to calculate the business portion of his expenses for gas, oil, depreciation, tires, batteries, etc., which he may claim.
