Rec Budget A Surprise

By Tom Workman
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — Despite these days of soaring interest rates and high inflation the town's recreation board has asked for less money from the village this year than it requested in 1979.

The pleasant news for village council came last week when they met with the board that oversees the town's community park, arena and athletic events. Speaking at a regular council meeting, board spokesmen said they were able to keep this year's proposed budget at the same level as last year because of expected increases in income that should offset any increases in expenditures.

Bill Sherwood, a member of the board, said the proposed budget will need $39,985 from the council to break even. However, later in the meeting the board rounded this figure off to $38,500.

This is $725 less than last year's budget estimate of $39,225.

The $38,500 is seen as a short-fall amount between recreation revenues and income. The unaudited figures Sherwood quoted are based on 1979 statistics.

Recreation expenditures this year are expected to take in an activities deficit of $13,750. This is made up of a minor hockey deficit of $5,750, an injection of $4,000 to balance the figure skating account and an additional $4,000 to keep the swimming pool program in the black. The town's various ball leagues are expected to break even.

Maintenance for the community park is expected to cost $3,000 for the pool, $1,500 for the green belt in the park and ball diamonds and $34,000 for the arena. The plant and maintenance cost totals $38,500 and brings the total cost to $52,250.

Wages for full and part-time employees headed by Recreation Director Frank Morgan will almost equal this figure at $51,873. An additional debenture of $7,462 is needed to pay off the mortgage on the community centre. The combined wage and debenture expense is tabulated at $59,335.

This boosts the costs of the recreation board to $111,585.

The Recreation Board predicts this will be partially offset by revenues from the arena, ball diamonds and pool. The arena is expected to take in $68,000 while an extra $15,600 may be raised through other means. This total of $83,600 would be used to cover expenses and leave a deficit of $27,985.

Along with the operating deficit the board asked council to approve $12,000 in capital expenditures. The ball park is in need of repair and funds were slated to pay for repairs to the fence and backstop last year, but repairs to the roof of the ice plant were made instead. The board predicts it will cost $4,000 to bring the diamond up to standard.

The arena is also slated for some repairs, including $500 to complete the interior painting of the building started last year. Another $1,500 is budgetted to fix the front of the arena building and $1,000 for landscaping.

The final $5,000 is planned for a storage building at the north side of the arena to house the Olympia ice cleaning machine or the tractor used to cut grass. The ice plant now used to store the ice cleaning machine is only big enough for one tractor and the board wants a hut to store its extra machinery in.

Council members expressed the opinion that since the storage shed would likely be put out to tender a lower cost may be realized.

Adding the capital budget and operating deficit together and the board came up with its $38,500 (with minor cuts in capital and operating costs) cost to the village. This, however, may end up several thousand dollars less than the board has predicted.

Extra revenues at the arena last year made for a lower deficit than predicted and the town only had to subsidize the board to the tune of $30,500, much less than the $39,225 asked for a year ago. A large number of rentals of the community centre hall, use of the ice surface in the summer months and the weekly roller skating program accounted for much of this windfall.

The board also asked council to consider expanding the paved portion of the parking lot in the 100 Club Park. Parking areas to the north and the south of the arena building are dirt lots and this can create problems in wet weather, Morgan said.

"Paving the two lots would keep the rink cleaner and people wouldn't have to walk through the mud when they're all dressed up," he said.

Council said any decision on what areas of the village will be paved will have to wait until the road budget is set, but it would consider the board's request.

Final approval of the recreation budget will come when the town's budget is passed in council. That is expected to happen at the next meeting on Monday evening.

Along with receiving a budget from the board, council asked the committee for a recommendation on the radio campaign now being pushed by several local businesses. The co-operative venture is being used to promote the town and the municipal government was approached to be one of the sponsors of the advertisements.

Council deferred the decision and asked the recreation board for its opinion on the scheme.

ROADS

In other business last week councillor Mel Vice said the portions of town streets that will be paved this year have not been decided yet, but he thought Centre Street between Main and Queen should receive a high priority. The town stated last year the road would be rebuilt in 1980 and it should live up to this commitment, he said.

Council also received a request from the ministry of agriculture and food to pave the dirt shoulder in front of its Main Street office.

Sewage Proposal Revised

By Deborah Irvine
Press Staff Reporter

WILLIAMSBURG — A revised plan to flush away Williamsburg's sewage disposal problems will be presented to township council sometime this month.

Ministry of environment (MOE) officials, who have been studying the village's problems for the past three years, first presented a report outlining three solutions to the council and local taxpayers last October.

However, the report, which was prepared by A. J. Graham Engineering, needed some minor modifications and was sent back to the drawing board. Although it was supposed to be ready by November, it still hasn't been completed.

Gerry McKenna, of the MOE's Cornwall office, told The Press the hold-up stemmed from the inability of the engineering firm to do soil testing in the winter months. The testing was needed to supply information for two new alternatives in the plan which revolve around the use of a sewage treatment lagoon.

McKenna said the soil testing has now been completed and the report should be finalized by mid-May or at the latest, early June. He added that it would then be presented to township council and a public meeting would probably be called.

The three original solutions to the problems were designed to provide ways for local homeowners to dispose of their waste. The sewage problems were first detected by the ministry of transportation and communications (MTC) three years ago as it made plans to reconstruct Highway 31 through the village. MTC found that at least 30 homes were dumping raw sewage into the storm sewer system.

Scheme A developed by A. J. Graham called for the building of tile beds and septic tanks where possible and the installation of holding tanks on the lots where there wasn't enough space for septic beds.

Scheme B was a modification of A. It planned to combine lots with holding tanks and some of the lots that need raised tile beds into several large systems serving two to 32 lots.

Scheme C planned the installation of a municipal sewage system with each house connected to a main and a central treatment system for the effluent. If this system was built land would have to be purchased for a lagoon or large tile bed.

Initial costs plus 20-year operating costs put the price tag for the first alternative at $785,000, the second at $716,000 and the third at $671,000.

Lions To Build Jungle Gym

Annual Meeting May 5th

Officials of Winchester's minor softball program will hold their annual organizational meeting this Monday at 7:00 at Winchester and District Community Centre. All former coaches and interested parents should attend the session so teams, coaches and playing times can all be established.

Osgoode Task Force Valuable

The recently organized Osgoode Township Task Force, designed to help senior citizens, is already proving valuable. Acting as a co-ordinating force between young people and senior citizens finding it difficult to handle routine chores the idea is rapidly gaining popularity. The idea is for students, interested in employment doing odd jobs on a part-time basis, to dial one of the Task Force phones (Vernon 821-2539 or Metcalfe 821-2712) stating the type of work preferred and the hours when available. "There are," suggests one organizer, "many, many older people eager to have help with such chores as lawn raking, grass mowing, window washing or just plain housecleaning." Senior citizens should also note the above number to assure the plan's maximum efficiency.

Two people were killed and three others injured in a two-car accident near Chesterville on Friday.

Edward and Annie Jahn, both senior citizens, were heading east on Highway 43 when their car collided with one driven by Doug Barkley of R.R. 1, Chesterville. Above, the Jahn vehicle sits in a ditch following the accident.

Quadeville Couple Killed In Accident

CHESTERVILLE — A Quadeville, Ont. couple were killed on Friday following a two car accident just south of here.

The accident occurred about 3:45 p.m., police report, when the two cars collided in the intersection of Highway 43 and County Road 7. Edward Jahn, 67, was eastbound on the highway in his Plymouth Horizon while Doug Barkley was heading south on the county road in a Chevy Nova.

It was raining at the time and the two cars collided at the intersection, with the Horizon ending up in the southeast ditch by a farm dealership.

Jahn's wife, Annie, 66, died as a result of the impact and her husband later died in the intensive care ward of Ottawa Civic Hospital. Both of the Jahns apparently died due to internal injuries.

A second passenger in the car, Angaila Kauffeldt, 67, was seriously injured. She is listed in critical condition with internal injuries in the Civic.

Barkley, of R.R. 1, Chesterville and Patricia Stearns, his passenger, received minor injuries.

Constable Bryan Helmer investigated.

He would like to thank the witnesses who came forward and the passer-by who assisted following the accident.

Quadeville is on highway 515 southwest of Eganville and northeast of Bancroft.

Kindergarten Fight Only Beginning

WINCHESTER — Leaders of school committees at Nationview and Winchester Public Schools have vowed they won't give up their fight with the province for funding of full-day kindergarten.

Nick Zrymiak of Nationview and Barb Berry of Winchester say they will continue to demand that the ministry of education provides equitable funding with urban areas. They also say they will push for more French language instruction in the schools if that's what the parents want.

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Board of Education was forced to pick up the $300,000 tab for full-day kindergarten this year, after the province decided it would only fund half-day programs. The board for the past seven years had been using full-day kindergarten as a means to introduce its popular French immersion program to its largely English-speaking student body.

"I really commend the board for taking that decision," said Zrymiak. "That $300,000 probably accounts for 50 per cent of the money the trustees have a direct influence over. Transportation, plant costs and salaries are pretty well fixed."

He further pointed out that the trustees who were against the board paying for the program did not question the value of French immersion, only its cost.

Both Zrymiak and Berry feel the ministry of education is avoiding its responsibilities by throwing the problems of funding French immersion directly in local school boards' laps.

The main crux of their argument revolves around the ministry's decision to fund both half-day junior kindergarten and half-day senior kindergarten programs. The school committee leaders say the plan sounds equitable in theory, but in practice it's biased toward urban areas.

Zrymiak explains that junior kindergarten isn't readily available in rural areas such as Dundas and wouldn't be practical even if it was offered because of transportation problems. He says the fair thing for the ministry to do would be to provide

WI Curator Traces Roots At Annual

DIXONS CORNERS — More than 300 members of the Dundas Women's Institute recently gathered at this crossroads village to celebrate the organization's 75 years of involvement in rural life.

All living past presidents and secretaries of the Dundas W.I. (except two who were absent because of illness) were ushered in the hall by a bagpipe procession led by piper Ed Bush of Cardinal. Messages from various dignitaries congratulated the women on their dedicated service for "home and country."

Members from towns and villages throughout the county took part in the celebrations by performing plays, spoofs, or as in the case of the Williamsburg W.I., a "parade of presidents" attired in fashions ranging from the 1900's to the 1980's.

Featured guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Arnold Wilson, a librarian with St. Lawrence College in Brockville. Mrs. Wilson recently received her degree in theology and is a minister of the Wesleyan congregation.

One of the highlights of the evening was a history of the Dundas W.I. which traced the roots of the organization to the present. It was compiled by Mrs. Isabel Forward, district curator.

The first Dundas County branch was started in 1902 in Chesterville just five years after the very first Women's Institute was organized in February of 1897 by Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless of Stoney Creek.

CONSEIL D'EDUCATION DES COMTES DE

STORMONT, DUNDAS & GLENGARRY

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

Clarifies Its Position In Regard To Programs And Organization At

GLENGARRY DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL

The Board of Education has scheduled a Special Meeting at Glengarry District High School on May 21, 1980. This meeting is in response to a signed petition or request. It is hoped that clarification will be provided in response to briefs to be received at that time regarding both program and organization at Glengarry District High School.

However, some concerns are being raised within the community over statements attributed to Vincent Caron of the Ministry of Education in the April 16th edition of the Glengarry News. Mr. Caron saw fit to comment on possible or probable organizational changes at Glengarry District High School.

The Board of Education takes strong exception to the comments made by Mr. Caron and in fact wishes to state its position.

The facts of the matter are as follows:

1) It must be emphasized that the Board of Education's position in regard to instruction at Glengarry District High School remains unchanged. Despite Mr. Caron's statements, the Board of Education will continue with the current programs at Glengarry District High School whether it receives special funding or not.

2) The Board of Education has applied for funds for renovations at Glengarry District High School. These funds are made available by the Government of Ontario to schools where programs are offered in French and in English and where such schools are more than 20 miles from any other French language school. In this regard Glengarry District High School qualifies to make application. This has been done.

3) The application for these funds and the receipt of these funds if such are granted will in no way mean that the Board of Education will change its organization or its programs for Glengarry District High School.

It is emphasized for the benefit of the community and for the benefit of students that any student at Glengarry District High School may follow either all his courses in English, or all his courses in French, or some courses in English and some courses in French, as he chooses.

Your attention is particularly drawn to the following letter issued by the Assistant Deputy Minister of Education, Province of Ontario, which letter clarifies Ministry policy and endorses the position of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education in regard to programming at Glengarry District High School.

Mr. T. R. Leger
Director of Education
Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry
County Board of Education
902 Second Street West
Cornwall, Ontario
K6H 5S6

Dear Mr. Leger:

Subsequent to our April 18, 1980 meeting I have had an opportunity to discuss with Mr. Caron, Mr. Doyle and Mr. Comtois, not only the present organizational structure of Glengarry District High School, but also the question of whether or not that organizational structure falls within the intent of the Minister's policy statement of October 5, 1979 with respect to French Language Education in Ontario.

Given that the French language school situations vary considerably across the province, a fundamental concern of the Ministry in the development of this policy has been to avoid imposing in each and every case a rigid and uniform pattern. Flexibility, therefore, is an essential element in the application of our policy.

It is the belief of this Ministry that the establishment of French language homogeneous entities is an effective way of providing an environment conducive to preserving linguistic and cultural identity. However, local conditions and concerns may indicate alternative arrangements.

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Board has done a great deal to meet the expectations of its French-speaking community. The decision to appoint principals with specific responsibilities regarding English and French programs and institute appropriate staffing mechanisms predates the Minister's October 5 statement and is obviously in support of its principal objective. The 1980/81 organizational structure for Glengarry District High School appears to be such that the Board is now eligible to make application for additional funding.

I understand that an effective liaison relationship with the Eastern Ontario Regional Office has been established. If you feel that it would be helpful to have further clarification with respect to the Ministry policy, Mr. Doyle and Mr. Comtois are prepared to participate in whatever follow-up activities may be required.

Yours sincerely,

G. R. Podrebarac

Historic Landmark Comes Down For Repairs

Although obviously there were none around to confirm the tales, old-timers watching in amazement were unravelling yarns of how the towering spire has been sturdily constructed nearly a century and a half ago.

Our Lady of the Visitation Roman Catholic Church at South Gloucester, according to those very senior parishioners, was constructed on a high parcel of land along a trail leading from the "marshes" of Osgoode Township to Bytown shortly after the first boats navigated the newly excavated Rideau Canal.

Those watching along that "trail" (now Highway 31) last Thursday admired the daring of steeplejacks preparing the towering landmark for "lift-off," but at the same time they were envisioning what must have been the remarkable skill and courage of those pioneers who pushed that spire heavenward above primeval forests of that era.

As photos so vividly portray, modern technology makes such tasks relatively simple — simple that is for men of courage. The giant crane, securely fastened to the cross, stood in readiness as men in the belfrey worked with chainsaws to sever the eight supporting columns. Then, with apparent ease the crane operator gingerly lifted the weather-beaten tower from its mooring and, ever so gently, lowered it to the ground.

When repairs have been completed the landmark that has stood as a silent guide to travellers for generations will be lifted back into place — hopefully, as a symbol of Christianity, for many generations to come.

16 Room Renovation For Embrun High

EMBRUN — Parents here have won a battle with the Prescott-Russell Board of Education to increase the size of renovations planned for the town's high school this year.

Original plans for the renovations, expected to cost $2 million, called for the finished building to house 323 students in 14 classrooms. This would work out to more than 23 students per class. The board proposal also called for grade 13 students to be bussed to other facilities.

This didn't sit well with Embrun residents and a group of parents backed by community organizations, requested the renovations expand the school to 16 classes. They also said that if the school is renovated there is no reason for the senior students to be bussed outside the town.

Embrun's residential district has expanded rapidly in recent years and this has placed an unforseen burden on local schools. The parents said they wanted the 16-room renovations since in the long-run new families moving into the area will fill the facility.

Director of Education Fernand Lortie said the plans were based on the actual student enrolment of the school and not on the long-term projections used by the parents.

However, after several meetings with the parents, the board changed its mind and accepted the Embrun group's requests.

Work is expected to be complete by September 1981.

Piped Water Wanted For South Gloucester

SOUTH GLOUCESTER — Fresh water may soon be piped into this community, but local residents remain tainted towards the proposal.

Monday night Gloucester Township council passed a resolution asking the regional government to extend water mains into the village. Council hopes that a $420,000 grant from the ministry of environment towards the mains will sway the region in the township's favor.

Piped water into the area is expected to cost at least $1.25 million.

However, village residents called the resolution a "sham."

"This is exactly where we were a year ago," Colin Brown said. Brown, a spokesman for the 300 residents of the village, was referring to an earlier request made by council to the region.

When that request was made the region said it would only pipe water to the Highway 31 and Regional Road 8 area if there are plans for future growth. This led Brown and other spokesmen to ask council what its plans for the area are. A draft plan now being circulated by the township zones the area rural. On the regional plan the area is zoned rural and mineral reserve.

About a year ago the ministry said it would pay 75 per cent of the cost of drilling wells in the village. The estimated cost of the project was $660,000.

South Gloucester residents are looking for new sources of drinking water after heavy metal contaminants were found in the water table a few years ago.

On the south side of Regional Road 8, in Osgoode Township, residents are also concerned about their water supply.

Two years ago water samples contained arsenic, but recent samples only contain kaline, which is coming from road salt.

However, the homeowners are not convinced that the pollution has stopped and believe their water table is still being polluted from area slag heaps.

The residents met with Osgoode council in February but council said its hands were tied until Gloucester made a move. Most of the contaminated wells are in Gloucester Township.

Under the first proposal by the ministry each well drilled would cost about $4,800. Government grants would cover 75 per cent of this, with each property owner having to pay $1,200 for a new well.

English Visitor Overturns Vehicle

An English visitor to Canada received a rather unpleasant surprise late Friday night when a car he was driving rolled over on a given road in Mountain Township.

Police report Gerald Francis Nile of England was driving about 2:00 a.m. on Saturday when the accident occurred. Damage to the car was estimated at $3,000.

Francis Nile was charged. Constable Bryan Helmer investigated.

Winchester OPP also report William Belcher of Chesterville received a $50 fine for possession of an unregistered weapon.

In other court business a charge of possession of a stolen car against Vincent Van Wallegham was withdrawn.

Graham Ball was fined $150 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident and another charge was withdrawn.

Ralph Meldrum failed to appear on a charge and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. Murray Wilson also failed to appear and a bench warrant for his arrest was issued.

Clifford McCooeye was sentenced to 15 days in jail after pleading guilty on two charges.

Van Damaged

MORRISBURG — A quiet week in southern Dundas is reported by the Morrisburg detachment of the OPP.

Only one traffic accident was investigated and damage was reported at $700.

Police also report that vandals caused $300 damage to a van owned by a band, The Crayons, that was parked at the Pioneer Hotel in Williamsburg. The damage occurred last Tuesday night.

Constable T. Mason investigated.

Police add that glass in one of the doors at the Bank of Montreal was broken on the weekend. Damage is estimated at $200.

Constable G. Maktelow investigated.

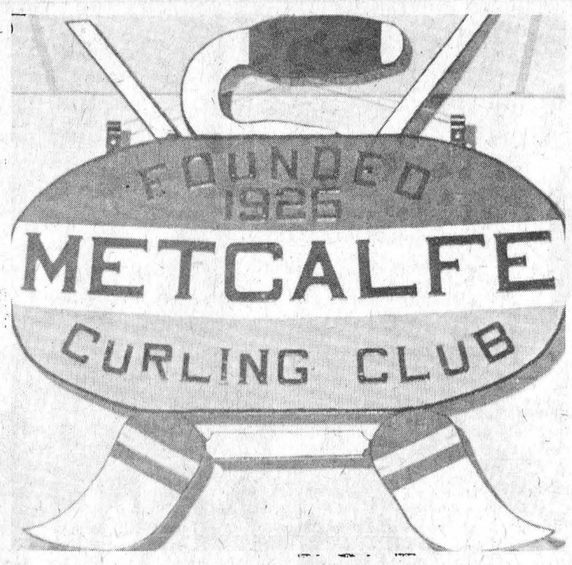
Genuine Old-Timers. The four skips pictured were honoured as the clubs most senior active members with a grand total of 140 years of curling. Left to right: Gordon Boland (32 years); Donald Palmer (27 years); Carman Blair (56 years); Bill Woods (25 years).



When the club moved to the present location nearly a quarter century ago two members (Mac Cooper and Joe Rowan) designed and presented the enlarged (4' x 4') logo sign to be erected over the entrance.

It was later removed and for several years was stored away. The colourful trademark was recently repainted and placed in the rink.

METCALFE — Metcalfe curlers have hung up their brooms and at a gala awards dinner, declared another successful season officially over.

President Adrian Ross expressed appreciation to executive members and congratulated fellow curlers on their successes both "at home and away" during the long and exciting season.

Mr. Ross told a packed house at the community centre that no definite plans have yet been approved for the anticipated renovation program to bring the 25 year old structure to the standard demanded by government officials.

Heather Bellinger, president of the ladies' division, also reviewed the season's successes which included both mixed and ladies' spiels.

OLDTIMERS HONORED

It was a time to pay special tribute to the club's real oldtimers and Mr. Ross praised four men who played major roles in the club's long and illustrious history.

Carman Blair, who was an active charter member when the club was formed in 1925, received a standing ovation when he modestly accepted a 56-year member pin from President Ross. Others honored by Mr. Ross, on behalf of the club, were Gordon Boland (32-year member); Donald Palmer (27-year member); and Bill Woods Sr. (25-year member).

Head table guests were piped to their places by piper Bill Stewart and the program was efficiently directed by master of ceremonies Don Gamble.

Prior to presentation of awards Mrs. Bellinger paid fitting tribute to those who had served the ladies' division as presidents vince the club was formed in 1937. President Heather praised the efforts of her predecessors and read their names from the club's honor roll: 1937-38 Margaret Runnells; 38-39 Etta McGirr; 39-40 E. M. Cameron; 40-46 Ethel Rolston; 46-47 Margaret Runnells; 47-50 Ethel Rolston; 50-51 Evelyn Kirkpatrick; 51-56 Ethel Rolston; 56-58 Erma Morris; 58-59 Gladys Croskery; 59-61 Joan Cain; 61-63 Kay Scrivens; 63-64 Lee Ring; 64-66 Bessie Carson; 66-67 Beryl Woods; 67-68 Phyllis Anderson; 68-69 Beryl Woods; 69-70 Dorothy Boland; 70-71 Freda Scrivens; 71-74 Ruth Wright; 74-75 Jean Shields; 75-77 Joan Ross; 77-79 Pat Stachon; 79-80 Heather Bellinger.

Following the interesting program the balance of the evening was spent dancing to the popular music of the Westburg Union boys.

North Dundas Student Takes Second At Queen's

KINGSTON — Roger Cherton placed second in the senior boys' 800 metre race in the sixth annual Queen's University Alumni Track Meet here on Saturday.

Roger, a senior at North Dundas District High School who resides at R.R. 2, Winchester. He was part of a 14 member North Dundas track team competing at the exhibition meeting — an event track coach Hugh Conlin has called, "One of the best in Ontario."

Dundas' 14 athletes were pitted against top competitors from 53 different high schools across the province and pulled down a fifth-place ribbon to accompany Cherton's second.

Andrea Beeching finished fifth in the junior girls' 800 metre with a time of 2:38:3. Cherton's time was clocked at 2:05.

North Dundas got their track season into full swing today — Wednesday, April 30 — with their high school meet. Qualifying athletes from the Wednesday competition will go on to represent their school at the SD&G meet in Cornwall at General Vanier High School (no date available).

Those who qualify at the SD&G level will then advance to EOSSA in Brockville on May 22nd.

The Tri-County Seaway Invitational Relay meet was run today (Thursday, May 1) in Iroquois at Seaway District High School.

Saturday's Alumni meet at Queen's is an event that North Dundas has always had excellent results at and it was illustrated in several old records.

At this year's competition 23 records were smashed as Toronto's Micheal Powers High School swept to the overall title of 298 points — taking both the male team — 145 points and female 154 — enroute to the championship.

One of those 23 records falling by the way was a 1977 mark established by Winchester's Julie Holmes. Holmes set a 59 second time in the senior girls' 400 metre in 1977 and it has stood until this spring when Alexis Paul-McDonald dropped it to 58.5 seconds. Alexis Paul-McDonald attends G. W. Jeffries High School in Toronto and was selected as one of the meet's top performers.

The only senior mark left in tact is one set by Winchester's Kathy Workman in the senior girls' 100 metre hurdles in 1978.

Local schools finishing high in the final standings Saturday were Brockville CI — second in overall standings with 100 points and third in the male placings with 67 points. South Grenville of Prescott was third in female ratings with 64 points.

Forty-nine of the 53 schools taking part in the meet managed to earn points.

Banquet Winds Up WCC Season

WINCHESTER — Winchester Curling Club winds up a very successful season with its closing banquet and dance this Saturday (May 3) at Winchester and District Community Centre.

The club's Spring Annual Meeting was held a week ago with the year end financial statement showing a successful season with a $3,883.13 surplus in operation — an increase of $675.65 over 1979.

Treasurer Gwynn Holtby's report also indicated that membership remained steady at 187 and the club's bank loan had been reduced to $5,000. Weekend rummage sale held in the club room at the west end rink was the best ever swelling the coffers by $1,200.

Keeping up with inflationary trends the organization increased public liability and insurance on their building by $50,000.

The property committee reported it is considering three tenders before letting a contract for the construction of a utility building at the west end to the rink.

Officials also adopted a new system of arranging local club bonspiels with particular individuals taking charge of each event. Doug Vasey — club secretary — will head up the new Barton Annual Bonspiel; Bill Casselman will oversee the Dairy; Stephen Workman the Cass; with Hugh Eadie and Ran Wylie chairing the Countryman.

The executive is also planning to move the opening date ahead 10 days this fall to accommodate dates for the various bonspiels being scheduled.

When the fall meeting rolls around WCC will have several samples of club sweaters on hand for those members interested in ordering for the new season.

Marion Charleson enlightened the meeting with a summary on the ladies' division activities while Hugh Eadie reported for the bar committee and Ran Wylie spoke for the property committee.

Gerry Holmes presented the nomination committee's list of officers for the coming season as follows: treasurer, one year, Gwynn Holtby; auditor Keith Henry; property committee Ran Wylie, Charles Anderson, Ron Rutley and William Casselman.

Directors, three years, James Beattie, Dora Smith, Jerry Holmes, Graham Hardy; two years Ran Wylie, Hugh Eadie, Marg Anderson, William Casselman.

One year Marion Charleson, Wally Jennings, Sheldon Cameron, Ed Boyd.

Past Presidents All. The ladies division of the club, formed in 1937, has been directed by a very dedicated group of girls. A total of 20 have sat in the president's chair over the years. Three are deceased and 11 of the remaining 17 were present to accept recognition of their contributions to the welfare of the club.

OPP Urge Bike Checks

Once again it is the time of year for bicycles.

Local OPP officers wish to remind the public that a bike that is in good working order is the safest kind to ride.

If you can check the following points correctly you pass. If you can't, then it is time to have your bike overhauled:

Lubrication — Check the front hub head bearing, coaster brake and crank bearings. They may all need grease.

The chain and pedals may need light machine oil.

Bell — Make sure it sounds loud and clear.

Seat — The seat should be the right height for you. Too high or too low and you lose power.

Lights — For night riding you must have a light on the front of your bike and the front forks must have reflective tape at least 10 inches long. At the rear you need a reflector or light and red tape at least 10 inches long on the back fender.

Brakes — Keep them properly adjusted and in good working order.

Chain — Check the tension, for weak links and keep it oiled.

Tires — Cuts and bruises in the rubber can cause a blow-out. Don't drive with bald tires and keep the pressure at the proper level.

Wheels — Check for bent or missing spokes and keep axle nuts tight.

Steering — The handle bars should be straight, tight and the right height. Make sure the grips are snug and keep the bar nuts tight.

And, remember that if you aren't using your bike keep it locked up. This is also the season for bicycle thefts.

Vankleek Hill Takes Honours

Young athletes from public and separate schools throughout the district enjoyed their annual basketball competitions staged at Osgoode Township High School gymnasium last weekend. Boys' teams competed on Friday while the girls took over the courts on Saturday.

Russell Public School edged Metcalfe in a thrilling final in the boys' division on Friday evening and on Saturday it was nearly 8 p.m. when the final gong sounded with Pleasant Corners Public School (Vankleek Hill) leading Russell Public School by only four points.

The Friday event placed an extra strain on Metcalfe Public School coach Mr. Thornton who was forced to "work late" on Friday despite the fact he had rather special plans on his Saturday agenda ... he was getting married.

Floor Hockey Teams Announce New Rosters

WINCHESTER — 1980 will feature new players, new team names and colors as Winchester's Floor Hockey league opens its third season.

The four team captains met Monday night to draft the teams which will commence action next Tuesday, May 6.

Game one that evening will see the defending championship squad led by Dan Lecours take on Lloyd Fawcett's Flyers (formerly Brown Bruisers) at 8 p.m.

Game two at 9 p.m. will feature last year's pennant winning Donaldson's Demons (formerly High Rollers) battling Darrell Shelp and his new Senators. Last season Shelp was top scorer in the circuit counting 10 goals and 15 assists for 25 points as a member of Donaldson's High Rollers. In 1980 he has taken on the former Fireball club as the league's only new captain.

The league will consist of 14 regular season games played at Winchester and District Arena every Tuesday evening at 8 and 9 p.m. with the regular slate closing out on Aug. 12 with a two hour long all-star game — a new feature this season.

Playoffs — best of three — will commence on Aug. 19 with the first-place team playing the fourth and the second-place finisher taking on the third-place team in the two semi-final series.

Championships for the "A" division — Legion Branch 108 Trophy and the Consolation Award will get underway on Sept. 9 and finish by Sept. 23rd.

Once again the WFHL will sponsor a tournament, which will be played at the arena on Saturday, Sept. 6. The annual awards banquet has been booked for Friday, Oct. 10.

Last season Donaldson's High Rollers dominated regular season stats finishing first while placing five players in the top five scoring positions. The hottest combination over the season — Darrell Shelp, Terry Cross and Doug Coleman has been disconnected with Shelp taking on the captaincy of the Senators.

Doug Coleman remains with Donaldson and the Demons as do the number four and five shooters for last year — Dwayne Fawcett and Dave "Gunner" Holmes.

Terry Cross follows Shelp to the Senators, teaming up with Dale Hutt and Pete Marriner — both good scorers.

Lloyd Fawcett and his Flyers have a couple of new faces in the league with Metcalfe Jet star Thom Racine and Town League goalie Kevin Baldwin signing up. Doug "Minnow" Byers of Morrisburg Golden Knights fame is also on the roster as is Don Simpson.

Barry Casselman, Dan Lee and Bill "Moon" Mullins look like hot prospects to the Shelps' Senators while Dan Lecours and his Lumberjacks have a core of returning champions with Larry Moore, Dan Hogaboam and the Last brothers being new additions.

Junior B Hawks placed rookie netminder Dave Spence, hard-working Mike Moran, defenceman Marty Little, Glen Mackler, Doug Coleman and captain Al McLean all on Donaldson's Demons.

League officials have made helmets manditory this year and will stress the highsticking penalty — all infractions will be three minutes. There will be no body contact within three feet of the boards and fighting will mean a one game suspension.

1980 TEAM ROSTERS

Driving a sluggish car can be costly

Rough Idling
If your engine is idling poorly, the longer you ignore the problem, the more one part will affect another. A clogged air cleaner, incorrect choke operation, or faulty high-tension wiring can result in fouled spark plugs

Stalling
There are numerous reasons why a warmed-up engine stalls. Incorrect idle setting and inoperative emission controls are two. Sometimes the problem can't be serviced on the spot and you end up paying towing charges

No Passing Pep
When you step on the accelerator to pass another vehicle on a two-laner and your car responds like a winded pack horse, you can figure it needs a tune-up-after you count the new grey hairs

Frustrating Starts
Unless the temperature is extremely cold, a properly-serviced vehicle should start up first time, every time. Time consuming, Frustrating starts can mean defective battery, starter, solenoid or automatic choke, to name but a few causes

Poor Mileage
Find yourself visiting the pumps more ofter, even though your driving habit s haven't changed? Poor mileage can be caused by fouled plugs, bad timing, dirty filters and loose drive belts, to name but a few causes.

South Mountain's Intermediate fastball team has been taking part in dryland training exercises for over a month working on fitness and endurance exercises every week at Nationview gym.

South Mountain Edges Pypers 7-6

KEMPTVILLE — South Mountain Intermediates continued to tune up for the Grenville-Dundas fastball season defeating Kemptville Pypers 7-6 in an exhibition contest here Sunday afternoon.

Although a few rules were bent to accommodate both teams for easier substitutions coach Doug Boyd was very satisfied with what he saw — especially his pitchers.

Kemptville Pypers left the Grenville-Dundas circuit — which will play an interlocking schedule with the Dundas Senior league — to join the highly-rated Ottawa Metro league and have really bolstered their lineup.

South Mountain assistant coach Bill Williams explained that his club used three pitchers in Sunday's contest and 13 players in all.

"Both teams agreed to wave substitution rules for the game so we both could get a good look at all our players," he commented.

Williams said although South Mountain came out winners, he is sure that with the talent Kemptville has, like Dave Dixie, Jack Martin, Doug Barnett to name a few, they should be a threat at all area tournaments this summer.

Kemptville started Charlie Burley then went to former Brockville Commercial star Dave Dixie before using home-brew Doug "Torchy" Barnett on the mound.

South Mountain countered by starting veteran Murray Hyndman for three innings before going to former Mountain flame-thrower Dan Hogaboam for the middle three frames. Steve Plummer finished the game giving up a homerun to Jack Martin. That run closed the gap to 7-6 in the ninth but Plummer worked himself out of trouble preserving the one run, 7-6 decision.

Although no complete scoring details were available, Williams thought Hyndman may have given up four runs and Plummer two, while Hogaboam tossed shutout ball.

Grant Levere — moving over from Williamsburg Dodgers to South Mountain — went two for three at the plate.

The team continued its fitness program Monday night in the Nationview gym and will try to get an exhibition game in against Williamsburg Pioneers this Sunday, May 4.

The fitness program has been underway for a month with gym instructor Janet Levere prescribing exercises for the players. Team management felt the sessions were very evident in Sunday's game and are pleased with the shape the players are in.

Manager Williams went on to say that a finalization of their roster should be made next week and his club will play their opening game on May 8th. That date may change because the schedule had to be completely revamped now that Brinston has expressed wishes to join the league.

Meanwhile the first annual South Mountain Spring Intermediate Fastball tournament is taking shape with teams starting to return their entries.

Officials told The Press that there will definitely be some top notch teams taking part in the event with several coming in from Western Ontario.

Play will start May 29 and run through until the finals on Sunday, June 1.

A total of $2,200 in prize money is up for grabs.

BOTH GOOD CAUSES — LET'S GIVE A HAND

Next Friday and Saturday, that's May 9th and 10th, we will be hosting two big dances on the ice surface at the arena and they both will help in a big way in areas that have a very human aspect. On Friday night the Winchester and District Hospital Auxiliary are bringing in the Metcalfe Oldtime Fiddlers for a big country dance that will feature country music for round and square dancing and, of course, their profits go to the good work that the ladies have carried out over the years at the hospital. On Saturday night the friends and neighbours of Jim and Lorraine Fawcett are holding a dance to try and lend a hand to a young couple who have had more than their share of medical expenses, including a costly trip to Mexico which hopefully will help their young son along on his brave fight. Please be a good neighbour and buy a ticket.

HAWKS AND CURLING CLUB HOLD WIND-UP DINNERS THIS WEEKEND

Well it's that time of year again and all of the local winter sports enthusiasts are winding up their activities and presenting their awards for outstanding performance over the season. On Friday night the hall will be filled with those lively supporters of this year's Hawks hockey club and although a couple of expected pieces of silverware will be missing I'm sure that the evening will come off first rate and attending persons will wonder who did come out the champs. On Saturday night the members and guests of the local Curling Club will take over for their big evening of presentations, good food and dancing. Two good parties for another great weekend.

SOME UNFINISHED MINOR HOCKEY BUSINESS

It's a big job to look after the equipment for all of the minor hockey teams and Percy Armstrong who has worked hard throughout the year as equipment manager has asked me to remind all of the coaches to please get their sweaters and equipment back to the arena so that he can get them ready for next year's activities. More equipment will be needed and also the stuff must be stored in a clean state. Please help Percy and get your equipment back this week.

ROLLER SKATING BEGINS THIS THURSDAY

I'm sure from the calls and anticipation of the younger set that everyone is aware that the popular sport of roller skating will commence this Thursday, but just in case you have not received the word we're off for the summer and that's every Thursday with the younger members from 6 to 8 and the older crew from 8 till 10:30. We expect a big opening night crowd so come early and join the gang.

A VISIT TO A NEIGHBOUR

I had the pleasure of meeting with the council members of Chesterville this Monday night and they are trying to organize a meaningful recreation committee to help with a big problem that has come to light over the last few months in the neighbouring town and that is a problem that is common in all areas; the cost of Recreation. Apparently their costs have gone completely out of a reasonable amount, much higher than is common in most areas. It all boils down to organizations trying to help themselves rather than depending on handouts that are getting out of control. Our volunteer programs that have been initiated and worked well in the last few years with our activities groups were much in discussion and we in Winchester know that they have saved our programs and kept them down to affordable levels. Chesterville have good programs and they are well supported by Moms and Dads who I am sure are willing to help if called on. You are off on the right foot folks; best of success with your efforts. I know that with some organization and co-operation you will be rewarded for your sincere efforts in wanting to help.

St. Isidore Wins Citizen Shield

ATHENS — Less than 400 people were on hand to watch the St. Isidore Eagles claim their first ever ODJBHL championship Sunday night, defeating Spencerville Bruins 4-3 in overtime.

Spencerville had eliminated Morrisburg Lions in seven games after knocking off Smiths Falls Settlers in the Southwest Junior B final. Morrisburg took out the Winchester Hawks in the southeast final.

St. Isidore took the northern championship eliminating the defending champions, South Ottawa Canadians and the Arnprior Packers along the way.

Eagles took game one of the championship 4-2 and game two 5-4 before Spencerville rebounded with a 7-5 overtime win. Eagles took game four and three to one lead winning 5-0 on Friday.

The Citizen Shield was presented to the Eagles after Sunday's 4-3 climax.

WI Smiles And Pays Dues

LEONARD — The Leonard Women's Institute held their annual meeting at Mrs. A. Nadon's recently. There were 15 members present.

The roll call "Smile and pay your fees" was answered by all.

The meeting was opened by vice president Mrs. Nooyen, assisted by Mrs. R. Moffatt.

Mrs. C. McNeely was picked as the delegate to the District Annual. She will be sent to the Officers' Conference at Waterloo.

After a short business meeting, Mrs. M. Lowe gave the report of the nominating committee. All offices were declared vacant with Mrs. C. Nooyen presiding over the election of officers.

The new officers are: past president, Mrs. Liz Kardulus; president, Mrs. C. Nooyen; first vice president, Mrs. C. Liptac; second vice president, Mrs. R. Moffatt; secretary, Mrs. R. Moffatt, treasurer, Mrs. J. Hemming; district director, Mrs. Liz Kardulus; branch director, Mrs. W. Birch; Tweedsmuir history, Mrs. M. Lowe.

This year's convenors are: agriculture and Canadian industry, Mrs. W. Birch; citizenship and world affairs, Mrs. C. Corry; educational and cultural activities, Mrs. C. McNeely; resolutions, Mrs. I. Moore; family and consumer affairs, Mrs. A. Nadon; PRO, Mrs. B. Heney.

Lunch was served by the hostess and during lunch Mrs. E. Liptac was honoured for her birthday. She was presented with a gift and birthday cake, her birthday being in April.

Guild To Make Banners

The Guild of St. Matthias Anglican Church in town has had a busy and interesting spring.

Barbara Savary of Morewood assumed the office of president in January and on behalf of the ladies presented outgoing president Shea Alton with a gift.

Major expenditures this year have been to install padded kneelers in the Church and to send money to the diocese of Keewatin to defray costs of running their two Cessna's. The group has also donated to the Christian Children's Fund to provide special treats to handicapped children, sent 'surprise' gifts to the families of several arctic ministers and given a birthday present to our adopted Smiths Falls boy now living in Ottawa.

Other activities include visiting shut-ins at home as well as those at Dundas Manor and Hillcrest Haven. At an A.C.W. meeting in Ottawa, members had an opportunity to discuss human rights, native land claims and the bishop's program "10 months of renewal."

Two banners will be made to enter in a diocesian competition with the themes — "Are we building God's kingdom or our own?" and "How is God's will and wisdom and grace made available to us?"

The Guild will hold a book-bake-plant and record sale in the Church Hall on May 31.

International Year Of Disabled Persons

WALTER BAKER, P.C., M.P.
REPORTS TO NEPEAN-CARLETON

In the flurry of the current political problems of the country, I thought I would write concerning the declaration by the United Nations of the year 1981 as the International Year of Disabled Persons.

The Hon. Walter Dinsdale, P.C., M.P. made the statement on behalf of Canada to the Third Committee of the Thirty-fourth Regular Session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York on November 27th, 1979.

In that statement, it was determined that the disabled can best be served within the context of the needs and experience of each country in the world and with overall co-ordination through the United Nations. In Canada a Bureau of Rehabilitation has been established in the Department of National Health and Welfare and in the last Parliament, a Select Committee of the House was established. Negotiations are still continuing between the Government and the Official Opposition with respect to the formation of a similar Committee in this Parliament. This Committee will examine the nature and scope of current federal policies, programs and services directed to the general public and those designed to assist disabled persons with such obstacles as entering public buildings, using washrooms and coping with street crossings, etc. There is always a danger that in competitions of various kinds, compensation is not made so that the disabled can compete on an even basis with those who are not disabled.

There was a report outlining the problems by the Public Service Commission during the 30th Parliament and I believe that there is a general commitment in the present Government as there was in the 31st Parliament, to advance the cause of the disabled. I hope that the federal public sector in Canada can set an example for industry and society to follow.

I believe that it is important that we advocate the development of mechanisms for information-sharing between countries in order to accelerate the attainment of our desired goal - quality of life for all. I hope that as we move towards 1981, the Government of Canada will continue the initiatives begun earlier.

In connection with the celebration of that year, the fourteenth World Congress of Rehabilitation is to be held in Winnipeg, Manitoba in June of this year. Some 6,000 leaders in the rehabilitation movement from around the world will be in attendance. This is an important Canadian initiative.

IN MEMORIAMS

BISHOP — In loving memory of our dear grandson and nephew, Bradley Ian, who entered into eternal rest May 5, 1977.
A silent thought, a secret tear
Keeps his memory ever dear.
—Sadly missed by Grandparents Emerson and Ruth Reaney
Aunt Dianna, Uncle Barry,
Aunt Valery and Uncle Keith 2c

BISHOP — In cherished memory of our dear son and brother, Bradley Ian, who entered into eternal rest May 5, 1977.
He has gone to be an angel
Secure in our Father's care,
And his dear little feet now patter along
The beautiful streets up there.
—Sadly missed Mom, Dad and Brent 2c

BARKLEY — In loving memory of a dear husband, Oscar W. Barkley, who passed away May 2, 1970, and a dear son, Lorne S. Barkley, who passed away April 9, 1979.
Since you've gone first and I remain,
One thing I'd have you do—
Walk slowly down the path of death,
For soon I'll follow you.
I want to know each step you take,
That I may walk the same
For some day down that lonely road,
You'll hear me call your name.
—Lena 2c

DOUGLAS — In memory of a wonderful lady, Mrs. Harvey Douglas, May 2, 1976.
Not just today, but every day,
In silence we remember.
—Harold and Evelyn Cowan 2p

CASSELMAN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Errington M. Casselman, who passed away May 3, 1977.
We will not forget you
Nor do we intend.
We think of you often
And will to the end.
Gone and forgotten
By some you may be
But dear to our memory,
Forever you'll be.
—Always remembered by Wife Dale and Family 2c

IN MEMORIAMS

HARTEN — In loving memory of a loving son, father and grandfather, Glenn Harten, who passed away May 6, 1977.
Come to my Heavenly garden,
And see in perfect bloom
The flower you loved so dearly,
And thought I plucked too soon.
Then you will know my reason
Though you know it not today,
Why in his promising manhood,
I took your son away.
—A Loving Mother 2c

HARTEN — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Glenn Harten, who passed away suddenly, May 6, 1977.
Many a day his name is spoken
And many an hour he is in our thoughts,
A link in our family chain is broken
He is gone from our home, but not from our hearts.
—Sadly missed Marian and Family 2c

HUTCHINSON — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Lorne Hutchinson who passed away April 30, 1979.
Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of him today
Are those who loved him best.
The flowers we lay upon his grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who lies beneath
Will never fade away.
—Sadly missed by Wife Beatrice and Family, Linda Barton, Diane, David and Grandsons 2p

HUNTER — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Joseph W. Hunter, who passed away April 30, 1978.
We have only our memories dear Dad,
To keep our whole life through
But they will linger forever,
As we treasure the image of you.
—Sadly missed by Drummond, June and Family 2p

HUNTER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph W. Hunter, who passed away on April 30, 1978.
Please forgive us a silent tear,
A constant wish that you were here,
Others are taken, yes I know,
But you were mine
And I loved you so.
With all my tears and heartaches,
There is one thing that makes me glad
That I had you to share with me
The wonderful years we had.
God knew that you were suffering
That the hills were hard to climb
So he closed your weary eyelids,
And whispered "Peace Be Thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some time, some day, we know not when,
I will meet my beloved there.
—Always remembered and sadly missed by his Wife Marguerite and Family 2p

ANDERSON — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, William Anderson, who passed away April 30, 1975.
—Always remembered Anderson Family 2p

TODAY'S CHILD
BY HELEN ALLEN

(c) 1980 Toronto Sun Syndicate

This contented little chap is Patrick, a happy boy who can make anybody smile back at him. Born with Down's Syndrome, which means his development is slow, he isn't ready to stand up yet although he is 18 months old. But he's anything but slow as far as his personality is concerned, and he's an easy child to care for because of his agreeable nature.

Patrick is in good health too, despite a heart murmur that isn't considered to be significant. He's in an infant stimulation program to help him develop as far as he can early in life, and it certainly seems to be doing him good. Patrick has a healthy appetite and enjoys any food he is given. He sleeps right through the night.

Twenty-two Down's children have been adopted so far by people who saw them in Today's Child. It's quite likely that captivating small Patrick will be the 23rd.

To inquire about adopting Patrick, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Service, Box 888, Station K, Toronto, Ontario M4P 2H2. In your letter tell something of your present family and your way of life.

Agreeable child.

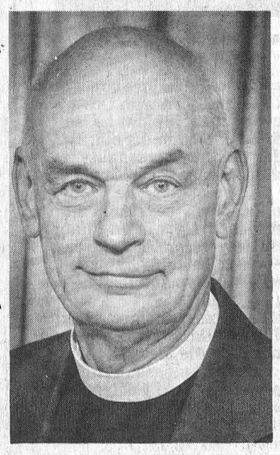
Presbyterian Moderator Guest At Centennial

MORRISBURG — As part of its 100th anniversary celebrations, the Knox Presbyterian Church here will have a very special guest minister at this Sunday's service.



Rev. McMillan

Rev. Kenneth George McMillan, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, will be a speaker at the May 4th service. Other events planned for the weekend include a 100th anniversary dinner Saturday night.

Dr. McMillan is a native of Mount Forest, Ontario, and is a graduate of University College and of Knox College of the University of Toronto.

In 1963 Knox College (Presbyterian) of the University of Toronto conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity (Honoris Causa). In 1974 the historic Anglican College, Wycliffe, Toronto granted him the degree of Doctor of Divinity in recognition of his services to all Canadian churches. In 1978 Acadia University, which is now a secular university but had its beginnings as a Baptist institution, also honored him with the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

In 1957, following pastorates at Burgoyne and Dunblane in Bruce County, in Drummond Hill Presbyterian Church, Niagara Falls, and in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Guelph, Ontario, he was appointed General Secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, succeeding Dr. A. H. O'Neill who left the position to become Bishop (Anglican) of Fredericton.

He is a Past Moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of Toronto and Kingston and served for many years on the board of World Mission, the Stewardship Committee and other national committees of the Presbyterian Church. He is vice chairman of the Toronto Institute of Linguistics, chairman of the Personnel Committee of the Canadian Council of Churches and serves on several Inter-Church committees. The Canadian Bible Society serves all Christian Communions and his ecumenical contacts have an unusual breadth ranging from Pentecostal Churches and Faith Missions to the Roman Catholic and Orthodox Communions.

Active in the United Bible Societies, the world body which co-ordinates the work of 65 national Bible Societies, Dr. McMillan was elected chairman of the General Committee of the world body in 1976, an office he presently holds.

On June 3, 1979 Dr. McMillan was elected Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, the highest honor his church can bestow on one of her ministers.

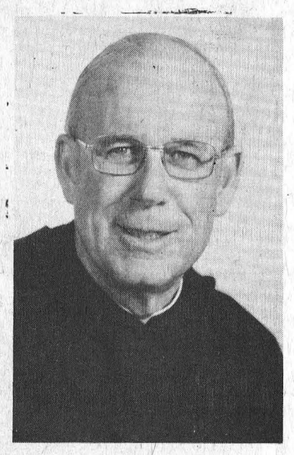
Laymen's Renewal At St. Catherine's

Reverend Robert E. Steinman, O.S.A., an Augustinian priest who hails from Reading, Pa., will be conducting a four-day Laymen's Renewal Mission at St. Catherine's Church, Metcalfe beginning next Saturday evening.



Rev. Steinman

Father Steinman was ordained in Washington, D.C. in 1950 and has a degree in philosophy from Villanova University and a Master's degree in mathematics from the Catholic University of America.

During the past few years he has travelled extensively conducting renewal programs throughout the United States and in the province of Ontario. Currently he is the rector of the Augustinian Preaching Band.

Of the coming Tridium, Father Steinman says: "Human contacts are the ways God has made heaven available for each of us, and preaching the word of God is an important human way to bring the message of Christ to an entire parish. That is why I am looking forward with great anticipation to share in the work which can be done through this renewal and dedicated involvement of both laity and clergy."

"Everyone," says parish priest Father Minvielle, "will be assured a warm welcome."

CWL Donates Walker

Dundas Manor was presented with a new walker last week by the Catholic Women's League of St. Mary's Church in Chesterville. On hand for the presentation was Sally Yourt, director of nursing; Dundas residents Cora Merkley and Mary Kerns and Jeanette Holmes, treasurer of the CWL.

Gamble Addresses WCTU Delegates

MORRISBURG — The 94th annual convention of the Dundas-Grenville Women's Christian Temperance Union was held April 18th in Morrisburg United Church Hall. The theme for the convention was "For God and Home." The afternoon session opened at 2:15 p.m. with President Mrs. T. Armstrong in charge.

Words of welcome were given by Mrs. Nina Woods, president of Winchester WCTU and devotions by Mrs. McDowell. Reports of the year's work were given by the different superintendents who also spoke on the money for relief work, bedding, clothing and other supplies.

An In Memoriam service was given by Rev. Marion Gilmer for three deceased members. Special solos were rendered by Mrs. Liz Lemon of Williamsburg and were much enjoyed by all.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Georgia Gamble of Russell. Taking the letters WCTU she said they must mean "With Coverage Teach Understanding." We cannot live without courage and must help the youth realize the effects of tobacco, drugs and alcohol. No one stands alone, so we must trust God to help us carry on the work He has for us to do. He drew up the blueprint for our lives and He will help us to follow His plan if only we place our trust in Him. We must pray without ceasing and let those who are slaves to these evils know that we still care for them and show them there is a better way, she said.

Rev. Eaton closed the session with prayer and a lovely dinner was served by the ladies of the church.

At 7:15 p.m. the evening session was opened by Rev. Massey. There were four medal contests held with 19 contestants. One group of Grades 3 and 4, two groups of Grades 5 and 6, and one group of Grades 7 and 8, were the contestants. The judges were Rev. Eaton, Mrs. Findlay and Mrs. Alguire. A number of participants were from the Timothy Christian School.

The winners were first group, Tany Morg; second group, Shannon Weaver; third group, Wilma Luimes; fourth group, Sharon Vardy.

A Christian Youth of the Year contest was also held with three contestants. The winner was Patty Watts. The judges were Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Fetterley and Mrs. C.A. Vancamp.

Musical numbers were given by Ian Adams and Eric Rosenquist. The session was closed by Pastor McDowell and a social hour was held.

WI Finds History For Roll

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — Let us remember when, was the motto for the South Mountain W.I. meeting held in the IOOF Hall last Thursday. Seventeen ladies answered the roll call as they brought in old photographs to be placed in the Tweedsmuir history book.

It was decided to donate to some organization when a close member of a W.I. member passes away. Other contributions are being made to the South Mountain Agricultural Society and the South Mountain Athletic Association for playground equipment.

Mrs. E. Richardson reminded the ladies of the district annual at Mountain May 28. Some of the ladies signed up for a trip to see the musical at the High School of Commerce May 23 and also for a boat trip of the Thousand Islands on June 9. A Common Sense Nutrition course at Morrisburg is also planned for May 13.

Mrs. Clobudge read a thank you letter written by Allan Moorehouse for the part the Institute played in helping to make the community aware of problems re: the French Immersion classes at Nationview, which the school board has decided to continue for another year.

Following the singing of The Queen and the Institute Grace, Mrs. B. Kenny and Mrs. H. Kirkby served a delicious lunch. A social hour was enjoyed by all.

Police Choir Thrills St. Andrew's Audience

HALLVILLE — "It's easier to sing well when there is a large audience of smiling faces," commented a policeman from the chorus.

And there was a room full of 275 happy people at St. Andrew's United last Sunday evening as the Police Chorus from Brockville put on a performance.

The evening was led by our minister, Jim MacFarlane. Special guests for the evening were about 40 members of MacFarlane's home Church, Wesley United in Ottawa.

The Brockville Police Chorus of 11 policemen, their accompanist, along with a lady soloist, thrilled the audience with such old favorites as "Amazing Grace," "In the Garden," "His Name is Wonderful" and "I Believe." The chorus rendition of "I'd Like to Teach the World to Sing," was popular but "Let There Be Peace," although new in their program, was perhaps the most meaningful and most enjoyed by everyone. From the opening "Hallelujah" to the closing "May You Always" the chorus will be remembered by the people of Hallville as the musical highlight of their Centennial Year Celebrations.

To continue St. Andrew's celebrations, a travelogue of England, Scotland and Ireland will be presented by Audrey (Hyndman) Sullivan this Sunday evening. Everyone is invited to hear Mrs. Sullivan and participate in our Centennial activities.

Kenmore Welcomes Refugees

KENMORE — The Refugee Family supported by the Castor Valley, Osgoode, Ormond Baptist and Harmony Community Churches arrived from Saigon last February. A house in Kenmore was rented for them and donors provided finances, furniture and clothing.

To allow their supporters to formally greet the mother and two daughters, a "Welcoming Dinner and Service" was held at the Kenmore Baptist Church last Sunday, April 20th. The family consists of Muoi, the mother, and her two daughters Jenny and Jennette. Only the daughters can speak English and recognizing the difficulty we Canadians would have in pronouncing their real names, they adopted North American names. They are presently seeking employment.

The service following the pot luck dinner featured Rev. Paul Lai, pastor of the Ottawa Chinese Alliance Church preaching in Chinese and Marcella Barkley of Osgoode, and formerly Hong Kong translating the sermon, sentence by sentence, into English. Edward Tri of the Alliance Church accompanied his English and Chinese songs with guitar.

About 75 people were present for this special evening.

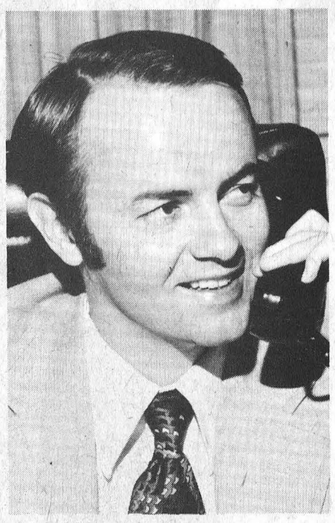
Civil Service Efficiency



NORMAN STERLING,
M.P.P.
CARLETON-GRENVILLE

In the next few weeks I will be writing about different aspects of the 1980 Ontario Budget. The first aspect which I would like to concentrate on is the size and efficiency of the Ontario Civil Service.

I am sure that most of you are aware of the recent report of Canada's Auditor-General regarding the productivity of Federal Civil Servants — in particular, his observation that the Federal Civil Service could be reduced by 24 per cent. While his report applies only to the Federal Government, I would like to offer some facts and comments about staffing in the Ontario Government.

To begin with, it must be noted that the size of the Ontario Government work force has declined considerably in the last few years. In 1975 it totalled 87,000. By 1979 it had decreased 5 per cent to 84,000. During this period the Ontario population grew 4.2 per cent, representing a good measurement of the increased work necessary to be performed by the Civil Service. Therefore, these two factors combined, total staff levels, and total population to be served, suggest that we have improved the productivity of our Civil Service by 1.8 per cent a year.

In order to achieve these reductions we did not take the easy route. Rather, the cuts were concentrated in the management group level. The 5 per cent cut includes a 15 per cent cut in permanent senior management positions. All reductions, of course, were made through attrition and retirement.

While I want to resist a "holier than thou" attitude, I find it distressing that the Auditor-General's report (although applying only to the Federal level) adds to the public impression that Government cannot operate efficiently. I believe that Ontario's Government, to a large extent, has proven that public dollars are being spent effectively.

Maintaining the Government work force at a moderate, but effective size is part of this Government's overall attempt to lessen the burden of government on society, while maintaining a just level of social services. Indicative of the policy is the fact that the Ontario Budget represented 17.2 per cent of the gross Provincial product in 1975. In 1980 it will only be 15.7 per cent of the Province's total product.

Concerning the Farm Tax Reduction Program, I would like to pass on some information to our local farmers. Because of the more detailed examination of this year's applications, some of the cheques have been delayed. However, I would like to advise that this delay should last only a few weeks.

Separate Board Cuts Kindergarten

CORNWALL — Lack of financial support from the province has forced separate schools in the area to cancel full-day kindergarten programs at the end of this school year.

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Separate School Board last week voted unanimously to offer only half-day kindergarten programs this fall. The move is a result of the ministry of education's decision earlier this year to cut funding for kindergarten from full-day programs to half-day.

A tax increase of 9.4 mills would have been required if the board was to keep the seven-year-old program going. The trustees made their decision reluctantly only when it was discovered that it would need $718,000 a year to make up the loss in provincial funding.

Trustee Ron Bergeron accused the province of hampering the separate school board unfairly since it does not have all the financial resources the public school board has.

Faced with the same provincial decision, the local public school board which has a much broader tax base, voted two weeks ago to maintain their full-day kindergarten program out of the board's own revenue. The decision will cost taxpayers about $300,000.

The separate school board's decision to cancel full-day kindergarten will force the board to eliminate 21 teaching positions.

As for exactly how the new half-day kindergarten program will be run, the decision is still up in the air.

English separate school boards had been offered a bilingual French immersion program within the full-day program. The board has agreed to let the administration decide if half-day kindergarten will offer a 40-minute core French program or if it will continue with the 50-50 program.

It has also not been decided if kindergarten this fall will be implemented on a half-day, everyday basis or on alternative full days.

Like the public school board, the separate school board is hoping that Education Minister Bette Stephenson will reconsider her decision regarding funding of kindergarten programs. Trustees urged parents not to give up the fight.

Fight For Full-Time Kindergarten

grants for full-day kindergarten instead, so rural schools would be on an equal funding basis with urban schools.

"The junior kindergarten program started in Toronto, it blossomed in Toronto and it is better suited to that area," concludes Zrymiak. "It almost provides a babysitting service for parents. It's an urban phenomenon where 55 per cent of the students live in Metro Toronto.

"Why can't the ministry give us full-day funding to match the two half-day funding grants for kindergarten that schools get in the city?" he asks.

Berry says although Nationview has been the most vocal school fighting for French immersion, other schools such as Winchester and Inkerman are just as supportive.

"If French immersion stops, French in primary schools is dead," she says.

Zrymiak agrees. "I get so distraught when people say children can only learn one language in school," he says.

Zrymiak adds that he thinks the best way to get positive action on the problem is to have a grassroots movement among area schools lobbying for provincial funding.

"In some ways the ministry's decision is discouraging," he says. "But we're going to keep writing letters and keep going public until we get results.

"We're not worried about the cost. We're willing to pay the price of French immersion because it's of educational benefit."

Both Zrymiak and Berry say its MPP Osie Villeneuve's responsibility to ensure Education Minister Bette Stephenson knows that the parents are looking for an equitable program. They say it's also his responsibility to help them attain their goal.

The school committee leaders feel if the support from other parents is there, more French should be encouraged in higher grades as well — perhaps even an entire subject taught in the French language.

Although they say their lobbying action won't be done on a political basis, they don't rule out the possibility of it being a campaign issue in the next provincial election.

Williamsburg Sewage

Under the MOE program, the province pays 75 per cent of the cost of fixing up the village's sewer system. The actual cost for Williamsburg taxpayers ranged from $180,000 to $416,000 over 20 years.

The two new alternatives being studied by the engineering firm deals with how the effluent would eventually be disposed of if a sewage treatment lagoon was made.

McKenna said one plan calls for the effluent to be discharged into Hess Creek, while the other suggests a spray irrigation system be used to discharge it over land. He added that there are still some difficulties with the first plan in that the flow of the creek may not be fast enough to dispose the waste.

McKenna said preliminary costs of these two alternatives had been made, but were not finalized yet. He said he could not recall what the preliminary costs were.

The original plans to reconstruct Highway 31 are still pending. However, McKenna said he doesn't believe MTC will do any work on the road until all the sewage system is finished so road crews don't have to run the risk of tearing the highway up twice.

CONSUMERS' BEAT

Self-Improvement Schemes

Now that spring is here, people's minds are turning to their bodies and shaping up for the warm months ahead. Wouldn't it be wonderful if you really could become a perfect physical specimen by exercising 10 minutes a day for the next four weeks. Or if you could learn to dance like John Travolta in just 10 easy lessons.

Better bodies, better minds, a better life. Teaching people to improve themselves is big business: dancing schools, career expansion programs, social clubs, health spas, take your pick. But while many such courses and techniques can upgrade the quality of your life, others are simply high-powered sales schemes that exploit people who feel lonely or insecure.

Many consumers, after an effective selling pitch, commit themselves in a burst of enthusiasm. But six months down the line, when they've completely lost interest, they're still paying monthly installments.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

Avoiding unethical sales traps can be tricky. Here are some suggestions to prevent your self-improvement dreams from turning into nightmares:

- Check the reputation of the business by talking to friends and neighbours. You should also ask the company for a list of previous customers, If you're still in doubt, contact the Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce.
- Comparison shop. Check the cost of the same or a similar course at a local school or YM-YWCA.
- Keep down payments to a minimum: 5 or 10 per cent. Limit memberships and contracts to a year at most.
- If mail-order buying, pay cash on delivery.
- Know what you can afford. Don't get talked into borrowing large sums of money to finance a program.
- Weigh the advantages with the disadvantages. Determine whether you really need the product or service.
- Any unusual diets or strenuous activities should be checked by your doctor, especially if you have health problems.
- If you have difficulty coping with aggressive sales people, take a friend along for moral support. The friend can also act as a witness if necessary.

Keep in mind that the best protection is still your own common sense and an awareness of the Ontario laws designed to protect you.

READ CONTRACTS BEFORE SIGNING

Most self-improvement plans require you to sign a contract. This document is designed to protect you as well as the business by setting out the exact sums of money to be paid and goods or services to be provided.

Under The Consumer Protection Act, the following details must be included in such contracts:

- name and address of buyer and seller
- details of the transaction including an itemized price and description of goods or services
- statement of warranties or guarantees; if none, this should also be included
- credit terms including interest charges.

In addition, make sure any verbal promises are clearly stated in writing and be certain there are no blank spaces on the contract.

Before you sign, take time to read the entire document either on your own or with your lawyer. Make sure you understand every word. Be wary of vague generalities or a salesperson's reluctance to provide more details.

Remember, once a legal contract has been signed by both parties, it's binding. In most cases, the vendor is under no obligation to cancel just because you've had a change of heart.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

There is one exception, though. Under The Consumer Protection Act, you're allowed a cooling-off period in which you can break a contract of over $50 that was signed in your home. Simply send a registered letter to the seller or deliver it personally within two days of receiving your copy of the contract. A telephone call won't do.

Consumers who feel a salesperson has used a false or misleading sales pitch have further recourse under The Business Practices Act. This legislation clearly states unfair business practices and gives a straightforward method by which you can claim redress if you've been victimized.

For free information on either of these acts, contact The Consumer Information Centre, 555 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario M7A 2H6, tel: (416) 963-1111. Also available is a free information sheet titled "Beware, the dream merchant who promises a new you," which suggests ways to avoid overpriced self-improvement courses ranging from disco dancing to losing weight.

Being a wise shopper is your key to avoiding problems. The more you know about consumer protection, the less your chance of being sold a bill of goods.

Federated WI Offers Scholarships

TORONTO — "Prevention and rehabilitation" was chosen as the theme for 1981, "The Year of the Handicapped" at the semi-annual meeting of the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario.

The board directors and executive met here this week to make decisions that will affect the 28,000 members in Ontario as well as other parts of the world. With 1980 being proclaimed "The Year of the WI" the members were urged to be a strong force for the good of the communities.

Mrs. C. Diamond, the provincial president, along with the secretary, Mrs. J. Van Sickle, led the deliberations and decisions. Mrs. V. Maluske, as resolutions convenor, presented the results of previous resolutions with disappointment in the action regarding the advertising on TV of the feminine hygiene products. The members are urged to express their disapproval by writing to Susan Cooper, Advertising Standards Council, 1240 Bay St., Suite 302, Toronto, Ont. M5R 2A7.

Other resolutions that were sustained related to nuclear waste disposal; Bell telephone measured service; use of SIN cards and a request for complete instructions for use on prescribed drugs.

In her report as Director of the Home Economics Branch of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Molly McGhee was high in her praise of the support and increased attendance at the courses that are presented throughout the province by her department. The participation in the 4-H clubs and the quality of work done by the young people was very gratifying.

With education as an important part of the WI there will be 20 scholarships made available at the Family and Consumers Studies, Guelph University this year.

Margaret Zoeller and Hilde Morden were enthusiastic about the plans for the future of the Erland Lee (Museum) Home at Stoney Creek. It is owned by the WI.

The next special event will be WI Week, June 2 - 6. Visitors are invited to view this beautiful home and its artifacts from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on week days and the home will be open on weekends during July and August.

The Federated Women's Institute of Canada urged the members to study and support Canadian Unity with programs wherever possible. The Adleaide Hoodless Homestead at St. George, the birthplace of the founder, welcomes support and visits from the members.

The Agricultural Museum at Milton will open on May 12 with a special day on June 1 when there will be the first unveiling of portraits at the Ontario Agricultural Hall of Fame. Tribute will be paid to those who contributed greatly to our province. Among those so honored will be Dr. Ethel Chapman, a nominee from the Women's Institute.

The FWIO will have the rest area at the Royal Winter Fair from Nov. 14 to 22.

Delegates from across the country are making plans for the world convention in Hamburg Germany in May.

Mrs. Hugh Coons, Provincial Board Director for Dundas, Stormont, Glengarry, Prescott and Russell Counties attended April 21 - 25.

Restaurant Officially Opens

Elegante is the name of a new dining lounge in Morrisburg and elegant is an excellent description for the Italian restaurant and steak house.

Morrisburg Reeve Bill Dillabough officially cut the ribbon to open the restaurant on Sunday while the new owners looked on.

Standing to the reeve's left is his wife Phyllis. Flanking them are the new owners of the Loyalist Motel where the restaurant is located: John and Janine Guaragna, Frank and Nina Campisi and Mary Cicurella. Joe Cicurella is absent from the picture.

Board Calls Meeting

Petition To Save GDHS

ALEXANDRIA — A petition opposing the splitting up of Glengarry District High School along language lines is now being circulated in Glengarry County.

The petition is being pushed by the Committee Against Separation at Glengarry District High School, a group of parents and students who want the two-language school to continue under its present format. The petition is designed to show the ministry of education that the students and parents of the school are opposed to any changes at the secondary institution.

The school is now equally divided into French and English sections with a policy of parallel programs for both groups of students. Earlier this year the board applied for a $649,000 grant to renovate the building, but some Glengarry residents fear the money will be used to build a separate school for French students.

Board officials denied this and said the money was made available by the ministry of education to schools that offer instruction in two languages.

But two weeks ago the Glengarry News reported a ministry of education spokesman said the logical end to the situation at the high school would be to create two separate schools.

Karen Dicaire, a spokesman for the Anti-Separation Committee said the idea of physically and psychologically splitting the students along language lines is abhorrent.

Despite board assurances to the contrary the citizens' group sees the proposed addition as a threat, Dicaire said, and plans to air its grievances at a special meeting at the high school on May 21.

The comments in the News led to another press release from the board of education this week. In it, board administrator Rosaire Leger said he takes "strong exception" to the comments made by the ministry spokesman.

The comments also led to half page advertisements defending the board's decision being placed in newspapers in the United Counties this week.

The ad states students at Glengarry can take all their courses in English, all of them in French or mix their courses at their own discretion.

The ad also defends the board's position as unchanged.

"It must be emphasized that the board's position in regard to instruction at Glengarry District High School remains unchanged ... The board will continue with the current programs at Glengarry District High School whether it receives the special funding or not," the ad states.

The meeting on May 21 is to clarify the board's views on the high school, the ad says.

the way we see it

Highway Safety

Friday's fatal car accident on the south side of Chesterville, punctuated by a similar accident on the west side of the town last year, points out the need for greater safety features on our highways.

Specifically, flashing red lights should be installed at the two intersections to give motorists a further warning of oncoming traffic. As it now stands, stop signs in tandem with flashing lights are used at the southern intersection of Highways 43 and 31 and where St. Lawrence Street meets Highway 31. Any motorist using these roads knows that the lights make drivers more aware of the intersection and more alert to approaching traffic.

While installing the lights cannot guarantee that future accidents will be prevented, chances are that accidents such as last week's may not occur. In order to make those chances as slim as possible, the government agencies involved — ministry of transportation and communications, counties road crews or the regional road department in Osgoode — should survey intersections of heavily travelled roads. Then, if there is any evidence to show a light would make the corner safer, it should be installed.

Perhaps this is already being done, but if so the requirements for installing the lights are too severe. If a survey was taken, lights would soon be blinking at Queen Street and Highway 43 and County Road 7 and the highway in Chesterville and at Main and Highway 31 in town.

Hindsight is always 20-20 and it is easy to say now that extra warning beacons are needed in Chesterville because of the car accidents. But if traffic engineers installed lights at the intersections of county roads and provincial highways, our roads would be much safer. And the public wouldn't have to complain after the fact for more safety measures.

Halt For Crosswalk

Winchester village council certainly earned its pay last week when it voted to rescind a motion to move the St. Lawrence Street crosswalk. Their decision, although somewhat belated, should be welcomed by the entire community.

The decision means the village will not have to spend an extra $20,000 this year (about seven mills) to finance a project that may only provide a marginal improvement in pedestrian safety on the street. It also means that public school students will not have to learn a new method, and location, to cross the road.

However, while council reversed a decision it made 10 months ago, it failed to come up with an alternative. In other words, the problem is back where it was last June when the original motion was made: how to make the crossing as safe as possible.

The village had a golden opportunity last week, after the old motion was rescinded, to come up with a new solution for the crosswalk controversy. This decisive action would have ended the problem once and for all. But, by failing to do so, council has left itself open to attacks by town residents and the chance that this already too long debate will continue through the spring.

One solution the town should consider is to hire a crossing guard. As stated in an editorial in The Press last November, hiring an adult to supervise the use of the crossing appears to be the most equitable solution. This method is used in Chesterville and Iroquois with few complaints from students, teachers or parents. It would cost about $2,000 a year, which compares favorably with the cost of moving the lights.

While council has in the past taken its time in making such decisions, it will likely not have the luxury on this issue. School committee members have said they will press the village for further action on the issue and they will attend every council meeting from now on until the debate is resolved. The committee's next request is slated for Monday night's council meeting.

Council should flash a green light on hiring a crossing guard. This would end a debate that has dragged out far too long and return the issue to its original goal; of protecting the students who use the crosswalk. This is far more important than much of the bickering that has been going on for more than a year.

A Man, A Ladder, And God

By Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

"I have a dream," he said. This was the remarkable thing about Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. His career was scarcely the stuff of which dreams are made. All of his life he was exposed to the calculated insults of a racist society.

And yet Martin Luther King had a dream "that one day, sons of former slaves and sons of former slave-owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood." The dream is coming true.

I am reminded of another comparatively young man. History regards Jacob as one of Israel's patriarchs. In Genesis 28, we see him entering the highlands as evening came. He toiled up a trail that bore a striking resemblance to a staircase. He had to stop for the night. He took a stone for a pillow, made the ground his bed, and used stars for candles. As Jacob slept, he dreamed. And what a dream he had!

It was so vivid and meaningful that, in after years, he never tired telling his children about the ladder between earth and heaven, of the transcendant God who changed his life at Bethel. No wonder the story was eventually woven into the annals of the Hebrews.

The end result of man's "conquest" of nature is boredom. Life becomes increasingly flat and uninteresting for multitudes of people. It is the lack of a sense of the holy, rather than an instinct for violence, that accounts for much of the upheaval in society.

Further, the misuse of artificial stimuli (such as alcohol and drugs) offer fake awe and excitement. But these will not satisfy. So, some folk take to courting danger and others jump on the band-wagon of any protest movement. In pursuit of liberation, they are being enslaved.

Would you open a mother's heart to understand the love that she has for her children? Too many Canadians, brainwashed by professional skeptics, will not rest until the last ounce of reverence that inspired their forefathers has disappeared under the scalpel of scientific examination.

Thus they are restless, to put it mildly, since, to explain a mystery, does not explain mystery away.

When, on entering retirement, Dr. Albert Einstein was interviewed, he said, "I want my peace. I'm not interested in this or that phenomenon, in the spectrum of this or that element. I want to know God's thoughts. Everything else is secondary."

Let us cherish our sacred moments and ideals. Rumors on the streets of Memphis, stones at Bethel, the shadows of Calvary; today's struggle, tonight's temptation, Sunday's worship, discoveries, prayerful concern for the needs of mankind - by such rungs on the ladder of experience we ascend to God and God descends to us.

Spring Has Sprung

By Bill Smiley

Spring actually sprang this year, instead of limping in with a bad cold, its customary wont, in these climes.

Usually, in this country, we don't really have a spring. We leap from the lingering frigidity of a cold and wet April, rather similar to an English winter, into a hot spell in May that leaves us dizzy, stunned, stupefied.

And before we know it, we're into a humid June, complete with mosquitoes and things, including young ladies, busting out all over.

This year, after one last wild blizzard near the end of March, Spring decided to live up to her name. A sunny winter, a mild March, and suddenly, one looks out and there is no snow on the picnic table.

One hurls one's clumsy rubber boots into one's closet. One disrobes from the massive, blanket-like contraption in which one has hidden one's frozen bones for the past five months. One skims one's hat into the top corner of the closet. And one comes down with one's annual spring cold, snuffling and sniffling toward summer, that apogee of the Canadian psyche.

Deep in that Canadian psyche lurks the suspicion that possibly, just possibly, this year the winter will never end, and that we shall go through a summer of frozen branches etched against a gray sky, frozen ground under foot, not flowers, no foliage, no hot summer sun to peel the skin.

At least that's the way I feel, and I'm an average (my wife would say ordinary) Canadian in every way.

Perhaps that's the reason Canadians go winging off to hot places all winter, at phenomenal costs. When it comes to getting away to the sun, we have no equals on earth, except perhaps the Scandinavians.

I know couples who, if they were having you for dinner, would argue about whether to give you the hamburg barbecue or the tuna casserole, the cheap plonk or the expensive wine with a body. Yet they'll blow a couple of thousand dollars for a week in the sun, living and letching and drinking and browning for seven days, and returning to the gray, grim landscape they left. It's insane.

But then there's something insane about all Canadians, when they feel they are escaping, once again, the icy talons of winter. They go cuckoo.

Just the other day, I saw an old lady, wrapped to the ears so that she could scarcely move, out raking leaves, simply because the sun was shining, and the calendar, though not the temperature, told her it was spring. She should have been in by the fire.

Before the snow has even begun to melt, our department stores have packed away their winter stuff and are flaunting bikinis that would make a stripper blush.

Boats are hauled out before the ice on the bay has begun to melt. Ardent curlers stash their brooms and dig out the golf clubs, though they would sink to the hocks on the fairways.

Trout fishermen, who have been chained to the arduous ice-fishing for perch during the past few months, get a wild gleam in their eyes, go out and buy a small fortune's worth of new tackle, and rush like lemmings to the choice spots on Opening Day, elbowing and struggling with thousands of their ilk to get a line in the water.

Kids go goofy. They like winter, but spring drives them right around the bend. Puddles to splash in. Mud to tumble into. Exploring to be done into all those secret corners that the snow had kept hidden.

Housewives go hairy. Their well kept homes, dusted and vacuumed and polished to within an inch of their lives all winter, are suddenly, as the suspicious spring sun peers in, "shabby, filthy, disgusting," and they launch into an orgy of cleaning and decorating that drives their men simultaneously up the wall and into debt.

Old people behave oddly. With a sort of glint in their eye, they realize that they've licked the old graveyard one more time and go out and get terrible cricks in their backs planting flowers and gardens.

And young people! Well, we all know what happens to them when Canada occasionally enjoys a real, legitimate Spring. They stand on street corners, after school, bunting each other like young calves.

They strip to beach-wear on days that would freeze the brains of a brass monkey. They fall wildly in love with someone they hadn't even seen all winter, except as a sniffling, snuffling stripling across the aisle in Grade 10 English.

They go wild with the sheer delirium of being young in springtime. The boys drive too fast and recklessly. The girls have strange fancies and dream of sex and summer and secrets.

What do aging school teachers do in the spring? They're just as nutty as the rest. They look with aching longing to their long summer, wishing their lives away.

They try to retain their dignity, while they feel like kicking up their heels, running off with a Grade 11 girl, or boy, shooting golf in the seventies, catching a whopping rainbow trout. And, dreading retirement.

It's a grant madness that seizes this nation, come Spring. Long may it continue.

7th column

By Joe Rowan

This is without doubt one of those weeks for "remembering." Last Thursday morning we received a call from Tom Cahill down Gloucester way advising us that a huge crane was already in place, and within the hour the towering steeple of the age-old Roman Catholic Church would be coming down. Naturally we hustled over Highway 31 and, as anticipated, several old-timers were assembled in the church yard gazing up at the grey, weather-beaten masterpiece that had withstood the ravages of time for nearly a century and a half. One had to admire the courage and skill of those "steeplejacks" who appeared not at all concerned that a slight error in judgment could plunge them to the concrete nearly two hundred feet below. But as modern chain saws sliced through the eight supporting pillars, leaving the steeple and its giant cross hanging on the towering crane, all watched in wonderment as the ancient church crown was slowly lowered to the ground. But even as they marvelled at wonders of modern technology they were reminiscing. How, they mused, did early settlers, encouraged by their abiding faith, ever manage to construct such a marvellous masterpiece on a knoll in the primeval forest of Gloucester Township one hundred and forty-six years ago. And as they gathered around the steeple, now resting serenely on the ground, they examined the architecture that had so long withstood the devastating elements yet still proudly held high the symbol of christianity that had served as a guide for early travellers and, even today, is often considered an influencing factor by airline pilots descending to the landing strip at Uplands only a few miles distant. Sure, Ambrose Cahill was there, and so was Jim Quinn and Andy Shields. But then those "youngsters" who were baptized in the church early in the 20th Century could only re-tell tales related by their grandparents of how, thanks to men of steadfast faith, stones and timbers had been hauled great distances; talented craftsmen had given freely of their time and had seen the beautiful edifice completed at a cost of $10,000. Ironically, replacing those faulty columns and lifting the spire back to its place in the clouds, will cost parishoners much, much more, but a few weeks from now the renovated, ornamental structure will again stand out against the skyline beckoning the faithful of future generations.

You're most likely a member of "The Good Old Days" group if any of the following memories send you reeling back through the mists of time. We find it sort of relaxing to relive, on a lazy spring afternoon, those beautiful carefree days before humanity went wild in its relentless quest for wealth. Days when "strike" was a baseball term and ..... Ladies wore bustles .... Monday was washday ... Nobody worked but father ... Saturday night was bath night ... Only little girls wore short skirts ... Only little boys wore short pants ... Whiskey was 50c a quart ... Beer was a nickel a glass ... Women wore bathing dresses, not undresses ... A girl was mostly bustle behind, not hustle ahead ... Everyone went to church on Sunday ... Girls set their caps, not their "knee-caps" for a man ... Ladies all wore corsets [we think] ... The family Bible and family album were always on "parlor" table. And we might add, you can rest assured you belong to the club when you hear a grandson talking about HIS "Old Man."

Since "Memories" seem to have set the tone this week perhaps we might be forgiven for yet another ..... this time on the grand old game of curling. (We have to say all these nice things because each year the sports fraternity treats us to a delicious free meal with all the trimmings.) But then, because we participated in the winter fun for so many years it would be almost impossible to write other than "nice things" about the lads and lassies who so beautifully combine competition, sportsmanship and fellowship as they carry on the traditions so nobly established by sportsmen of old. Recently we watched with interest as winners reaped their rewards at both Russell and Metcalfe clubs, and it was indeed encouraging to see young, enthusiastic club members honouring those whose dedication had assured their club's continuous growth. It was at Metcalfe that ladies honoured all past presidents and paid very special tribute to long-time members of the men's division. "Youngsters" like Gordon Boland, Bill Woods (Sr.) and Don Palmer must surely have felt just a bit out of place joining draw-master Carman Blair as official members of the "Old-Timers Club." The three "kids" have only been tossing rocks for slight more than twenty-five years, while Carman has been "drawing to the button" since he tossed his first 60-pound "iron" in the new rink on a cold January night in 1925. And don't be too surprised if he continues those uncanny T-weight shots for many years to come. Congratulations friend, and may the future treat you as kindly as you have treated the past.

Press veteran Ran recently demonstrated his golfing skills down south. After a hot afternoon "session" he turned to his caddie and asked: "Well son, how do you like my game?" Wiping beads of sweat from his fevered brow the lad replied: "Well, Sir, guess it's alright - but I still like golf better!"

High Interest Deflates Farmers

BRINSTON — Local farmers remain optimistic the government will announce plans to help farmers cope with high interest rates, despite receiving few assurances at a rally in Ottawa last week.

About 40 farmers from the area, along with 800 other farmers from across the province, crowded into the ballroom at the Chateau Laurier for the rally. Sponsored by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA) the rally was organized to show the federal government how concerned farmers are with high interest rates.

The meeting was attended by about 15 MP's including Stormont-Dundas MP Ed Lumley and John Wise, the former minister of agriculture.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan reiterated his government's position on high loan payments but didn't come up with any new proposals.

Anna Smail, a Brinston farmer, said she was disappointed in the politician. She said he didn't say anything new and took up most of his time with a speech so farmers couldn't ask very many questions.

"I didn't learn anything new," she said.

Smail said the major concern of farmers is that farm costs are going up faster than farm income. Add to this the high cost of borrowing money and many farmers are on the verge of bankruptcy, she says.

In this area many people are relatively well off because they receive a monthly milk cheque. Cash croppers, in comparison, have to borrow money for seed and fertilizer and don't receive any income until the harvest is in.

Smail said one thing she realized at the rally is that farmers need a strong lobbying voice in parliament.

"We need a good strong voice or they'll walk right over us," she said.

As for government schemes to shoulder some of the interest rate burden, she said she will "wait and see." The OFA, on the other hand, is optimistic about government assistance.

OFA President Ralph Barrie said the federal and provincial governments are aware that a problem exists and that it is widespread. He met with the provincial cabinet last Wednesday and with federal representatives Thursday morning, just before the rally.

"Farmers are frustrated and are not in the mood for buck passing. Our politicians have received that message loud and clear. What we need now is action," he said.

The OFA has asked the province for a $25 million program to subsidize interest payments and the federal government to defer for a year principal and interest payments on Farm Credit Corporation loans. It is also demanding an increase in funds to the FCC and a lowering of the short-term loan rate for working capital from the FCC rate to 12 per cent.

Ontario Agriculture Minister Lorne Henderson met with OFA delegates on Tuesday and Whelan was to meet with his cabinet this week to discuss the interest rate problem.

Ontario Dairy Princess Charlene O'Neill and Dundas counterpart Connie Vanderlaan were surrounded by kindergarten students when they visited Winchester Public School on Monday.

The stop was part of the Ontario princess' two-day visit to the county. While at the school she told the pupils the importance of drinking milk and eating other dairy products. Her colorful talk included descriptions of vitamins as football players and how if the children ate properly they would grow up to be big and strong. Press Photo—Workman

Dairy Princess Promotes Nature's Perfect Food

"Why do cows make milk?"

"Because it's their job," one kindergarten student answered. Telling people about milk is Ontario Dairy Princess Charlene O'Neil's job and it entails travelling around the province and having conversations with all ages of people, including the kindergarten student from Winchester quoted above.

Charlene, who lives near London, was in Dundas County at the start of the week visiting local farms and industries and meeting hundreds of area residents. Monday morning she toured Ault Foods in town and found out how raw milk is refined into skim and whey milk powder and turned into a variety of cheddar and specialty cheeses.

After picking up a few pounds of cheese to hand out during the rest of her visit, Charlene and Dundas Dairy Princess Connie Vanderlaan visited Winchester Public School students for the rest of the morning. The afternoon was spent at Chesterville Public School and in both instances O'Neil gave an informative talk on the nutritional value of milk.

Monday evening she was the special guest of the Winchester Girl Guide troop and spoke to guides from all troops in Dundas at the town's United Church.

Tuesday she made a swing through the southern townships of the county, including a stop at Iroquois Public School and a visit with Williamsburg seniors in the afternoon. Her final official function of the two-day visit was a speech at the Canadian Club on Tuesday evening.

Her speech coincided with the annual Women's Night of the club. The dinner and speech was held in the Morrisburg Civic Centre.

Charlene, 19, was named the province's Dairy Princess during the Canadian National Exhibition last summer. Following her year as a spokesman for the OMMB, she plans to study history and journalism at the university of Western Ontario in London.

Researcher Weans Profits From Heavy Calf Program

By Deborah Irvine
Press Staff Reporter

KEMPTVILLE — As more and more farmers worry about how high interest rates will affect their future, students and teachers at Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology (KCAT) are quietly researching a program which may open up new avenues in agriculture.

The heavy calf program (HCP) holds a special appeal for young farmers who are eager to start their own operations. First developed by an American feed company about 15 years ago, its popularity has surged in recent years. The high cost of dairy farming and the fact that it is a profitable system for using dairy bull calves are two of the reasons why.

Lumir Drevjany, a lecturer who has raised 350 heavy calves at the college, says KCAT is now in touch with about 160 farmers across the country who are involved with heavy calf production. They are constantly being updated on the latest research done by the school.

Basically, the aim of HCP is to wean calves at an earlier age and get them on to solid grains. Besides saving money on milk costs and decreasing the danger of scours, an early transfer to HCP can positively influence the overall feed conversion.

The existing HCP, which has been developed and made available to farmers by large Canadian feed companies, is based on the feeding of whole shell corn and pelleted protein supplements as the only components of the diet for Holstein bull calves from 60 to 230 kilograms.

KCAT has found that by starting calves on this program at 65 kilograms, more advantage can be taken of the early efficiency rate which feed converts to gain in young calves. When the HCP is accompanied by growth promoting levels of antibiotics and the calf is implanted with sex hormones, the average daily gain increases up to 40 per cent.

Drevjany points out that the cost of feeding a calf milk is about $1.60 per kilogram of gain, while grain only costs between 50 to 80 cents per kilogram of gain. A grain diet is not only cheaper, but it cuts down on the chances of the animal developing scours which he says is the main killer of young calves. Hormones further improve the calf's health and appearance.

Although farmers could easily buy an already weaned calf and start it on the program, it would be more expensive. KCAT has found that the HCP is most efficient when the animal goes on it right from birth.

Under their program, a calf is injected with vitamins (A, D, E and selenium and vitamin E) and fed milk replacer twice a day at four days old. At seven days old, the milk replacer stays at the same level, but is cut back to one meal a day. This keeps the calf relatively hungry and forces it to look for other nutrients. A grain starter and fresh water are offered.

When the calf reaches between 21 and 28 days, it is weaned when the amount of starter intake exceeds 450 grams for three consecutive days. At 42 days, the calf enters a transition period where it is given a choice of starter as well as a 1:3 ratio mixture of protein supplement and shelled corn. It is also implanted with sex hormones and the feed is top-dressed with growth promotants.

At 56 days, the starter is discontinued, but the calf is given fresh water and minerals. After 77 days, the ratio of shelled corn continues to be gradually increased until the calf is ready for market at 150 days old. Growth promoters are no longer added after 135 days.

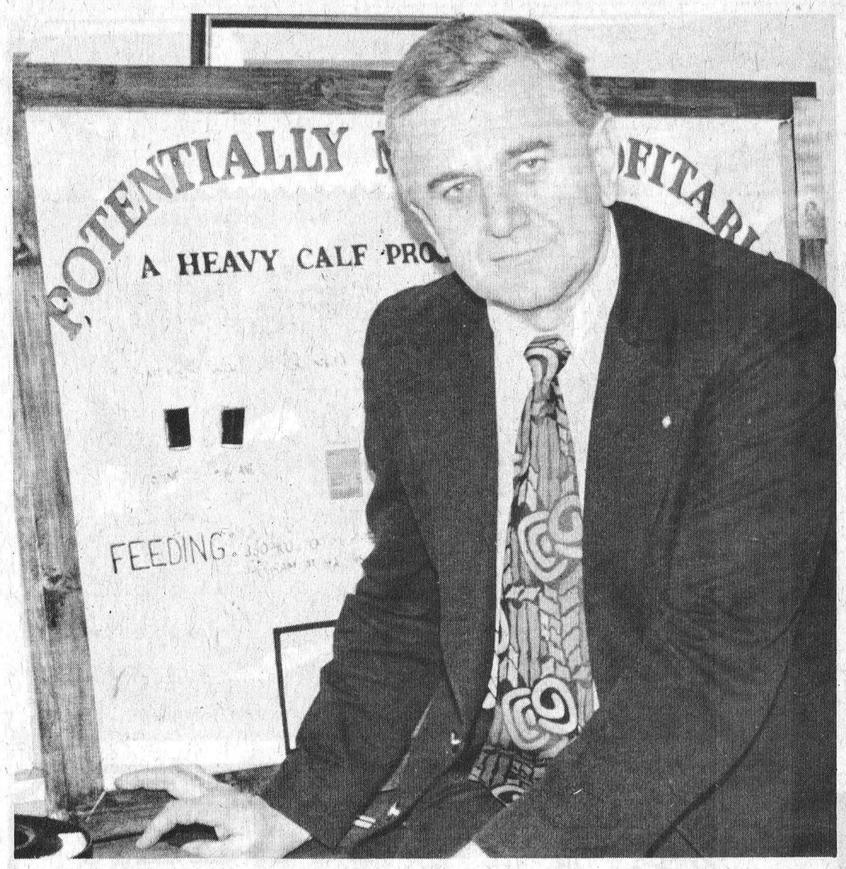
Drevjany estimates that the average calf on the program when it reaches 500 kilograms at market time will be 80 or 90 kilograms heavier than a six-month-old calf not on HCP. Last year the calves fetched $2 per kilogram at market.

As far as Drevjany is concerned, the benefits of the program are many. He started off his own operation last year with a rented barn, a bathtub to hold the feed, a couple of pails and a shovel. Not only is the low investment attractive, but also the number of working hours involved.

"The turnover of your money is very quick," he says. "Within 150 days you have it back. Since you don't have to worry about milking the calves, you're much less tied down to the farm. It's not an all-year-round operation so you can afford the time for holidays."

As for the meat of the calves, Drevjany describes it as "superb." Although many Canadians won't eat it because it doesn't look like the red, juicy beef they're used to (the meat is pink and marbled with red colors), it's popular with the ethnic communities in Toronto. Drevjany believes the future of the animal lies with exporting the meat abroad, especially to countries like Japan.

It is doubtful that heavy calf production will ever replace dairy farming in this region, but it can be an attractive alternative. For the young farmer who is hesitant about investing $300,000 in a dairy operation, dairy bull calves can be a new source of income. With a little help from the research going on at KCAT, it could even be a whole new career.



Lumir Drevjany, a lecturer at KCAT, is convinced that the heavy calf program is a viable alternative to dairy farming for young farmers who want to start their own operations. Drevjany has raised 350 heavy calves at the college and 70 heavy calves of his own.

Safety Film Released

GUELPH — Tractors are responsible for improved agricultural efficiency, but they are also responsible for more fatal accidents than any other type of machinery on the farm.

A study conducted by the Farm Safety Association of Ontario (FSA) shows that 73 people died in tractor-related accidents between 1975 and 1978.

Recognizing the need for improved public awareness of tractor safety, the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food (OMAF) recently released a new tractor safety film. The film was produced by the ministry's information branch for the FSA.

The ten minute color film, Why Did Tommy Die? is a sensitive yet powerful treatment of tractor accidents. The film is aimed at young people, who are often the victims of such accidents, but there are several lessons to be learned by adults as well.

Through the films characters, John and Merriam, the film explores the principal causes of tractor injuries — power takeoff and tractor roll-overs. As John says, "You can flip a tractor in less than two seconds; it's easier than falling off a log."

"The film graphically brings home many of the problems associated with tractor safety," says Larry Swinn, public relations co-ordinator for the FSA. "We plan to use the film as part of our Rural Ontario Safety Kit, a program that will be introduced to elementary schools in ten jurisdictions in the 1980-81 school year."

Farm safety consultants also plan to use the film at farm conferences, fairs and shows. Also, the Community Services Branch of the Ontario Provincial Police plans to use the film as part of its school program.

Groups may order the film from the Film Library, OMAF, University of Guelph, Ontario. N1G 2W1.

Ormond 4-H Club Tours Ault's Plant

Ormond Calf Club members transformed their regular April meeting into a conducted tour of the Ault milk processing plant at Winchester. Steve Ault graciously guided the group through the busy manufacturing centre and explained uses of the ultra-modern equipment and the various stages milk passes through during the manufacturing process.

A brief business meeting followed and members were reminded the next meeting will be at the home of Bruce Porteous.

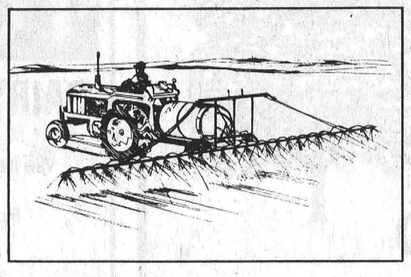
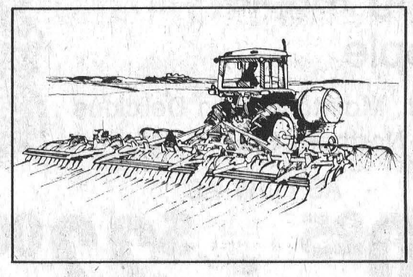
Surface application or shallow incorporation.
It's your choice with Lasso®.



Surface application



Shallow incorporation

Lasso® herbicide by Monsanto is usually surface applied before the crop emerges. Some farmers, however, prefer to incorporate their herbicides, and Lasso fits the bill.
"Shallow" is the key word.
Lasso should be shallowly incorporated, prior to planting corn or soybeans. First, broadcast Lasso; then thoroughly incorporate it into the top two inches of soil. To make sure the incorporation is shallow, set your disc or cultivator to work the soil to a maximum depth of four inches. Shallow incorporation of Lasso plus atrazine suppresses yellow nutsedge in corn.
To suppress yellow nutsedge for six to eight weeks, shallowly incorporate Lasso plus atrazine (mixed at new labelled rates) before planting. Suppressing yellow nutsedge with Lasso plus atrazine gives your corn the chance to become established without nutsedge competition that can hurt your yield.

Whether you surface apply or shallowly incorporate, you get outstanding grass control with Lasso.
Lasso consistently controls annual grasses in corn and soybeans. With excellent crop safety. And no carryover. And you can surface apply Lasso or shallowly incorporate it. Because it's your choice, with Lasso.

Dr. Bryan Kennedy estimates that about 90 per cent of his veterinarian practice deals with livestock. A graduate of the Ontario College of Veterinarians at Guelph University, he decided right from the start of his studies that he wanted to work with large animals. Here, Kennedy discusses a cow belonging to Con Pemberton of Inkerman which is suffering from mastitis. As the economic importance of preventive medicine among animals grows, Kennedy is devoting more and more of his time to fertility work. Sometime within the next month, he hopes to be performing embryo transfers on cows in the area.

CHESTERVILLE — The rather dubious profession of journalism shares in many ways all the surprise elements of being an army private in wartime — you never know where you're going to be posted next. It is this unexpectedness that often saves the job from the mundane monotony of meetings and press conferences.

Researching how others earn their bread and butter has led me into many questionable situations.

Terrified, I have flown a helicopter over the Peace Tower. With only a shade less trepidation I have rode a garbage truck for a day, submerged myself in a hot tub and accepted the position of city councillor with nary a vote in my favor. A treasured memory of mine is when I tried to appear intelligent while interviewing an IBM theoretical physicist on what he did for a living. ("I think," was the reply.)

On Monday morning, at 9:30 a.m., in the name of duty, I watched a dog being castrated.

The scene was Dr. Bryan Kennedy's office on Church Street in Chesterville. The victim was of an undetermined breed (to me anyway) whose only fault seemed to be that he had a penchant for the ladies. I think if a show of hands (or rather paws) had been taken among his colleagues sympathy would have been on his side.

Although I don't consider myself particularly squeamish, operating rooms are not my favorite milieu. My only wish when I was asked if I wanted to observe was that my notebook could have been larger to hide my very green face. But for Kennedy and his wife Helen, who assisted him, the operation was a breeze. Within six minutes it was over and luckily my breakfast was still intact.

Things weren't always that easy. Helen recounted how one of their first patients for such delicate work was a cat which had come out of the anesthetic early. In response to the situation it found itself in, it clawed a very pregnant Helen across the stomach. Thankfully no damage was done and today, modern drugs have eliminated most problems.

"The drugs make it so much easier nowadays," explains Kennedy. "The only thing we had then was barbituates and you always ran the narrow line of the animal dying on the table or coming out of the anesthetic."

Compared to those early years, the Kennedys now feel they're practically spoiled. Eleven years ago, when Kennedy had just graduated from the Ontario College of Veterinarians at Guelph and set up his Chesterville practice, there were never enough hours in a day.

With a laugh, Helen recalls how at times she felt she needed roller skates to keep up with it all. Besides assisting her husband in his office, she was raising four small children next door. All this from someone who as a kid hated the sight of blood.

For Kennedy, who was brought up on a farm in Dunrobin, being a vet was something he decided upon in Grade 13. There were only two conditions he imposed upon himself: one, that he would work with large animals and two, that he would work in Eastern Ontario because it was home.

Today, Kennedy has a lot of help with his practice which covers Dundas and the western edge of Stormont County. His brother Robin, a veterinarian, and Dr. Keith Schneider both work out of the Chesterville office. Not only does their presence help out with the night and weekend work, but it also cuts down on travelling costs which Kennedy says is the largest expense of a country practice.

Mondays and Fridays are the doctors' busiest days, with Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday running a close second. Until 9 a.m. the phone in the office rings off the hook. Patients are split up and then it's a day out on the road with enough time for lunch if you're lucky.

The difference between a country and a city vet is like day and night, admits Kennedy. On a farm, animals must be regarded strictly from an economic viewpoint. If that cow is costing more to treat than it's worth, then at some point that treatment has to stop, he says. On the contrary, Kennedy explains that with pets, you're dealing mainly on an emotional level.

After he's performed the surgery on the dog, and I'm sufficiently recovered enough to hope that no one has noticed my queaziness, we're ready to make the rounds. In the last few years, Kennedy has gradually specialized more and more in fertility work with cows. It has now come to the point where he estimates it takes up 80 per cent of his cases.

First stop of the day is at the farm of Con Pemberton in Inkerman. One of his cows, which was giving 110 lbs. of milk a day, is down with mastitis. Antibiotics are administered and another cow is checked for pregnancy. Conversation ranges from the weather to the number of Swiss farmers interested in buying property in the area.

From Pemberton's, it's on to Ralph Fawcett's farm where Kennedy advises me that I'll be seeing some of the best prize Holsteins in the area. Once in the barn, the doctor, with the help of farm manager John Ferguson, checks several cows to see if they're pregnant. Another cow is given an antibiotic since it has retained the afterbirth from a calf.

Across the road at Charlie Holmes' farm, some cows are checked for pregnancy, while others are examined for uterus infections. Just as preventative medicine has become very popular among humans, it has become increasingly more important in animals.

Kennedy explains how studies at Guelph have proven the economic benefits of having a vet make routine examinations. However, he says persuading older farmers that calling him in before the animal is sick makes just as much sense as calling him afterwards is not always easy.

Keeping up on the latest research and drugs available is sometimes a hectic job in itself. Every six months, Kennedy says he is usually away at some conference or annual meeting in pursuit of new knowledge. When one-day seminars are held within the region, at least one of the office's veterinarians tries to attend.

A pet project that Kennedy is looking forward to being involved with is embryo transfers. Describing the procedure as "trying to get more eggs from the golden goose," he plans to start performing the transfers in the area within the month. The basic aim is to flush out fertilized eggs from a prize cow after it has "superovulated" and implant them in heifers which may be of a lower quality.

After the stop at the Holmes' farm, it's back to Chesterville for lunch. The afternoon schedule calls for surgery on cows with twisted stomachs. Do I want to observe?

Well ... no ... actually, I have this very big afternoon ahead of me. And quite frankly, after Con Pemberton told me that even he can't quite stomach watching it done, I really don't think I'd be much better — regardless of where my duty lies.

Head Smut Found In Ontario Corn

ESSEX — In 1979, an outbreak of head smut, a corn disease which destroys the entire ear of an infected plant, was found on 34 farms in Oxford, Elgin, Middlesex, and Perth counties.

The frequency of infected plants varied from only traces on several farms to as high as 35 per cent in one field of one farm. Head smut may be present on other farms as well and also may have occurred in previous years, although it was not positively identified in Ontario until late in the 1979 growing season.

Head smut differs from common smut in that the entire ear is replaced by the smut gall and often the tassel also is covered with smut. In common smut, on the other hand, the galls can occur anywhere on the plant and, if on the ear or tassel, affect only a few kernels on the ear or portions of the tassel.

Head smut is a soil-borne disease and likely overwinters in contaminated fields. It does not spread rapidly, but spores can be carried by combines, trucks, tractors, etc., and, to some extent, by the wind. Once a field is contaminated and if conditions are favorable for the disease, the frequency of diseased plants may gradually build up over a period of years to a significant level. For the first year or two of contamination, a low frequency of diseased plants is expected.

Recently, Agriculture Canada plant pathologists found trace amounts of head smut spores on some seed lots of seven corn hybrids. The four seed corn companies involved have been directed to withdraw these contaminated seed lots from the marketplace, including seed already distributed to farms. However, the time remaining before planting has not permitted examination of all seed lots of all hybrids sold in Ontario. Therefore, it must be assumed that some contaminated seed lots have not been discovered. Sweet corn is also known to be affected.

No seed treatment has been registered for control of head smut spores on corn seed. However, Vitaflo-280 liquid suspension is registered for use on corn seed to control damping off and seed decay. It also controls smuts in other cereal grains and there is some preliminary data which indicate that it may control head smut in corn.

Although there can be no guarantee of the effectiveness of Vitaflo-280 liquid suspension to control seed-borne head smut, farmers may wish to consider treatment of their seed corn with this chemical as a potential preventive measure for avoiding introduction of this disease into their fields. Directions for treating corn seed are on the label. Safety precautions should also be noted.

Researchers are investigating potential control measures both for seed-borne spores and for fields that already have been contaminated. Resistant hybrids have been identified in other areas where the disease occurs. Hybrid screening trials are planned for Ontario in 1980.

Focus on Farming

By Howard Giles,
Associate Agricultural Representative
for Dundas County

IT'S YOUR LIFE

Most of you will be getting anxious to get the crop planted during the next three or four weeks.

However, this period is particularly hazardous for you. Long hours on the tractor, hurrying to get the chores done, frustration with down time due to breakages, getting equipment stuck, etc. all take a toll in a farmer's ability to avoid accidents.

Farm safety must be uppermost in everyone's mind right now. Take time for a cup of coffee during a mid-morning and mid-afternoon break. Take a 10-minute sleep when you get drowsy. REMEMBER — one slip can put you out of commission for a day, week, month, year, or even forever!

BEWARE OF TRACTOR CAB DANGERS

A word of caution — TRACTOR CABS CAN BE LETHAL during spraying operations! The high volume of air forced into the cab by the air-conditioner can concentrate the chemical you are spraying. Be SURE the FILTER in your air-conditioner will remove dangerous chemicals. If you are not sure, check with your dealer. There may also be other precautions you can take.

ACCESS PROJECT

The Ontario Government has initiated a project which is designed to make government offices more accessible to the public. The new telephone directory has all Federal and Provincial Government telephone numbers in a special blue section immediately after the white pages.

Residents living in the Iroquois (652) and Morrisburg (543) telephone exchanges can now call the OMAF office in Winchester toll free. Simply dial "0" for the operator and ask him/her for Zenith 33190. If you have any difficulties, phone us at 774-2313 and let us know what the problem is.

Residents in the Kemptville (258) exchange still cannot reach us toll free but we hope to have their exchange added soon.

MANURE IS VALUABLE

Fertilizer prices have increased up to 37 per cent this spring. Using average prices, nitrogen is presently worth about 73c/kg, phosphorus 82c/kg, and potash 33c/kg. These prices vary somewhat since many factors influence actual costs.

Using these prices, every tonne of dairy manure you put on your corn crop this spring before planting is worth about $4.50. The general recommendation is to apply about 30 tonne/ha (covered immediately).* That will supply about 90 kg/ha nitrogen, 30 kg/ha phosphate, and 135 kg/ha potash.* This can save you $135 in commercial fertilizer.

Remember, spread your manure on corn, grass hay and pasture which have a high nitrogen requirement. Avoid legume hay fields and soya beans, which produce their own nitrogen and which are discouraged from doing so when too much nitrogen is already present.

About 10 to 25 kg/ha of nitrogen can be saved by covering the manure immediately after spreading. Most nitrogen loss to the air occurs in the first week after application.

* To convert kg/ha to lbs/ac subtract 10%; e.g. 90 kg/ha equals 81 lbs/ac
30 tonne/ha = 13 tons/ac
66 bu. manure = 1 metric tonne (approx.).

Howard Giles is Associate Agricultural Representative for Dundas County.

Inflation Hits ROP Rates, Jump $3 Per Dairy Cow

OTTAWA — Rising costs have forced an increase in the fees charged to farmers enrolled in the federal Record of Performance program for dairy cattle.

Effective July 1, farmers will be charged $7 a cow per year, with a minimum of $140 per herd. The old rates, in effect since 1978, were $4 per cow and a minimum of $100 per herd.

"Enrolled farmers now pay about 17 per cent of the cash cost of the program. If you include room and board that they provide for ROP inspectors, farmers now are paying about 35 per cent of the cost," Doug MacKechnie, chief of the program in Agriculture Canada's headquarters here said.

Under the program, Agriculture Canada inspectors go from farm to farm weighing the milk produced by each cow in the herd. Milk is also analyzed for butterfat content.

Normally one evening and one morning milking are checked to get an average day's production.

Each farm is visited about 10 times a year, and there are occasional extra visits to verify the accuracy of the information.

"With more than 4,500 herds enrolled in the testing program, our 230 inspectors have to perform more than two million tests a year. Our resources are stretched pretty thin," MacKechnie said.

He added that there are about 110 farmers on a waiting list for the program.

MacKechnie said the program's main attraction is that it provides objective information on the milk and butterfat produced by each cow in a herd. This is the basis for a sound breeding program.

"The information is also expressed in terms of breed class averages which were established for each breed using 1949-1952 performance levels.

"For example, in 1978, the best Guernsey cow in the program was Silverdale Rita, owned by Martin Splinter of Simcoe, Ontario. She had a breed class average of 250 for milk, and 213 for butterfat. In other words, that cow was more than twice as productive as the average ROP Guernsey when the standards were set in the early 1950's."

"Test results are also used to compare dairy sires, and this information is valuable for the operation of artificial insemination units," MacKechnie said.

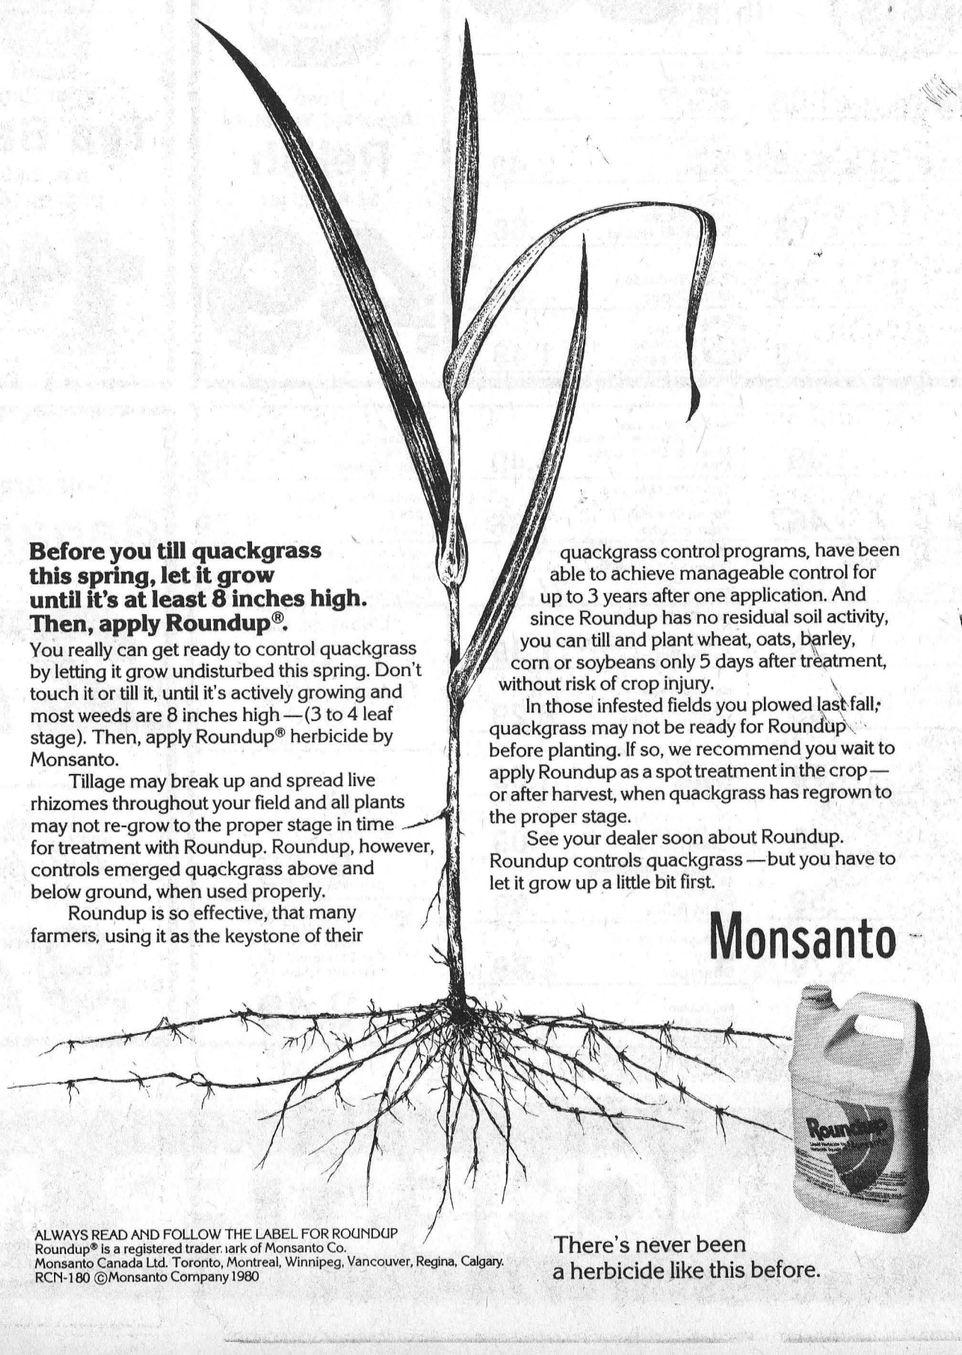
To keep quackgrass down, you have to let it grow up.



Before you till quackgrass this spring, let it grow until it's at least 8 inches high. Then, apply Roundup®.

You really can get ready to control quackgrass by letting it grow undisturbed this spring. Don't touch it or till it, until it's actively growing and most weeds are 8 inches high—(3 to 4 leaf stage). Then, apply Roundup® herbicide by Monsanto.

Tillage may break up and spread live rhizomes throughout your field and all plants may not re-grow to the proper stage in time for treatment with Roundup. Roundup, however, controls emerged quackgrass above and below ground, when used properly.

Roundup is so effective, that many farmers, using it as the keystone of their quackgrass control programs, have been able to achieve manageable control for up to 3 years after one application. And since Roundup has no residual soil activity, you can till and plant wheat, oats, barley, corn or soybeans only 5 days after treatment, without risk of crop injury.

In those infested fields you plowed last fall, quackgrass may not be ready for Roundup before planting. If so, we recommend you wait to apply Roundup as a spot treatment in the crop—or after harvest, when quackgrass has regrown to the proper stage.

See your dealer soon about Roundup. Roundup controls quackgrass—but you have to let it grow up a little bit first.

Dundas Homemakers Complete 4-H Project

By Mary Michels,
Home Economist

MAPLE RIDGE — Another very successful 4-H Homemaking project drew to a close last Thursday evening at Maple Ridge Senior Public School.

The current project was "Your Corner of the World" and dealt with macrame and interior decoration. The members also looked at how they could improve their personal space, namely their bedrooms.

Each member was required to keep a project manual, do two macrame articles and set up a design collection. These were all on display for the audience to see on Thursday evening. The macrame articles included wall hangings, plant hangers, and a few lampshades. It is hoped that all of the guests present were able to get some good ideas for their own macrame projects.

The evening program was chaired by Ellen Blaine, from the Hallville-Mountain club. She welcomed everyone to the program, and introduced the various skits and exhibits as each club presented them. There were four skits presented on a variety of topics.

Winchester No. 1 club gave the audience an interesting look at the topic called "All Tied Up in Knots;" "Color My Corner" was the theme of the Ormond Club skit; Winchester Springs presented the topic "Getting the Hang of It;" and the final skit was entitled "It's In Here, Somewhere" and was presented by Williamsburg. All members of the various clubs participated in their various club presentations.

Six clubs presented exhibits on a number of different topics. Riverside Heights with Sherry Campbell as commentator presented "Revive the Rainbow;" Julie Lamb as spokesman for the Hallville-Mountain club used "Super Storage Suggestions" as her theme; "Wonderful World of Wallpaper" was the topic Brenda VanDellen of Morewood spoke on; Jill Murphy from the Matilda No. 3 club presented "The Art of Arrangements;" Chesterville's Angela Geertsma commented on "Picture Perfect;" and "Moving Along with Macrame" was Rhonda McKee's theme and she represented the Winchester No. 2 club. A terrific job was done by all the members on their various presentations. The audience should have gotten some good ideas for their own interior decoration and macrame.

The evening also included the presentation of some County and Provincial Honor Certificates and Pins. One Provincial Honor pin and certificate was presented to Brenda Henophy from the Riverside Heights club for having successfully completed 12 clubs. There were several County Honor pins and certificates also awarded.

Ten Dundas County members received their pins and certificates for having completed six clubs. These members were: Lori Dubois from Chesterville, Marthe Milne and Paula Rhyndress both from Hallville-Mountain, Linda Toonen from Ormond, Arlene Armstrong from Matilda No. 3, Pattie Carruthers from the Morewood Club, Hope Guy and Lisa Guy both from Winchester No. 1, Jane Porteous from the Winchester No. 2 club, and Jennifer Sluiskes from the Winchester Springs club. Congratulations is extended to all of these recipients and it is hoped that many of them will continue on in their 4-H work.

Each leader and member was presented with a silver spoon for all their hard work and time spent on this project.

Mary Michels, County Home Economist, commented on the work handed in by the members and on the skit and exhibit presentations of that evening. She stated that she was pleased with what the members had accomplished in the past few months. The project for the fall is entitled "Food for Friends" and should prove to be very interesting.

The preparation of party food is used as a means of discussing energy conservation and the wise use of small appliances. Members will be exposed to many modern party foods such as crepes and tacos, and a wide variety of small appliances. All young people who are 12 by Sept. 1 are invited and encouraged to attend this fun-filled cooking project. Watch for further information as the month of September approaches.

Ellen Blaine closed the evening by telling the audience what 4-H means to her. She led the guest and 4-H members and leaders in the 4-H pledge, thus closing a very interesting evening.

Hallville and Mountain homemaking clubs had two of the dozens of displays at the 4-H Achievement Night at Maple Ridge Senior Public School on Thursday.

The evening was well attended, with about 250 people showing up for the awards presentation.

The winter project, Your Corner of the World, dealt with macrame and interior decorating.

Bikers Ride For Ultrasound

Ultrasound scanning is a major new development in medical diagnosis; Winchester and District Memorial Hospital requires one; and on Saturday May 10 cyclists will be riding the picturesque Long Sault parkway in an effort to help finance the valuable equipment.

The Bike-A-Thon is being sponsored by the Osnabruck-Ingleside Rotary Club, but many other service groups are pitching in to help make the project an unqualified success.

MORE ON THE SCANNER

Basically the scanner functions like radar but instead of sending out electromagnetic waves to bounce off objects, it sends out a very high frequency sound wave, which can penetrate tissue and fluid. The sound wave is then bounced back to a receiver which in turn transmits the returned wave to a T.V. screen in the same proportion it received it. An image is created (a bit like an X-Ray) and interpretations of the part of the body being assessed can be made on the basis of the image seen.

The scanner allows moving objects to be visualized, whereas older machines were only capable of viewing relatively immobile objects. Unlike X-Ray no harmful effects of these sound waves have yet been demonstrated and therefore it can be used frequently, even on sensitive tissues, babies and even the unborn fetus.

Consequently it will be of great value in obstetrics where it can determine the number of babies (e.g., twins), the position of the baby, whether the baby is alive or dead, the size and age of the baby, certain fetal abnormalities, etc. However, it can also be used to locate hidden tumours and cysts as in the thyroid gland, pancreas, kidney, and liver in addition to following their size to see whether they are growing, remaining static, or getting smaller.

In addition it can sometimes be useful in distinguishing between benign and malignant breast lumps and also in determining whether the heart valves and major blood vessels of the body are normal.

Doctors associated with the local hospital anticipate an enthusiastic response to the bike-a-thon fund-raising endeavour.

"Sponsors," notes promoter Dr. Gerry Rosenquist, "will receive tax deductible receipts from the Hospital."

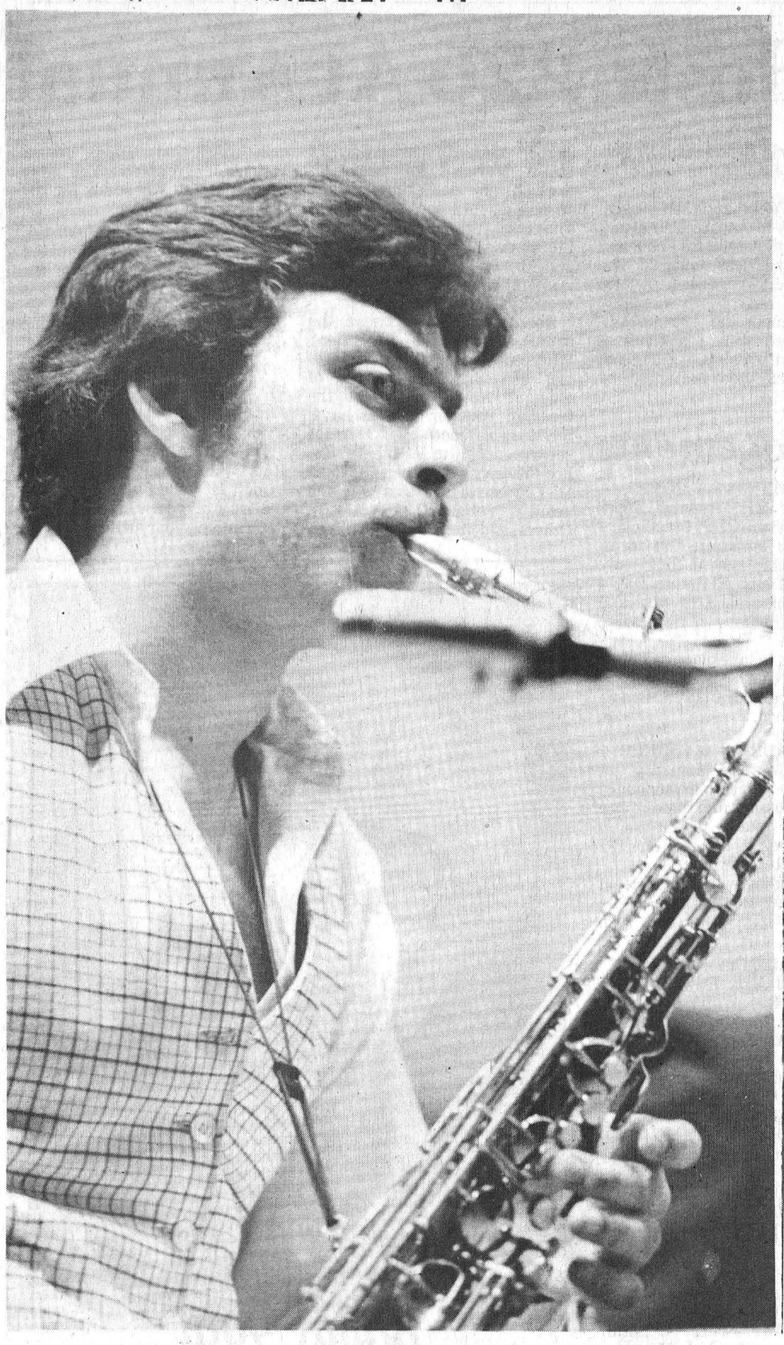
MOTHER'S DAY, MAY 11th



John Leone concentrates on his music as he pipes out a few notes on his Tenor Sax.

Leone is one of the 30 members of the Harrison High School Jazz Band. The band performed for about two hours last Wednesday evening as the climax to an exchange trip between the school and NDDHS. Press Photos—Workman Vocals for the Children of Sanchez performance by the Harrison Jazz Band were provided by Mike Cirincione. He accompanied himself on the guitar in the performance of the song that describes the need for hope in man's life.

Cirincione also soloed on the Theme from Rocky, Take Two and Two O'Clock Jump.

The faceless musician is Frank Moizio, one of the lead trumpet players in the Harrison High School Jazz Band.

In this number Frank was performing a solo of Children of Sanchez, a Chuck Mangione tune for a documentary of the same name. The jazz band's performance was highlighted by several solos by the young musicians.

New York Band At NDDHS

MAPLE RIDGE — It was, in the words of one spectator, "The best local concert I've ever been to."

That may sound like a bit of hyperbole, but judging from the reaction of 400 people at North Dundas District High School last Wednesday, the praise is pretty close to the mark.

The concert was performed by the Harrison High School Band from Harrison, New York. It was on an exchange trip with NDDHS musicians. The American group visited the area for five days last week and climaxed their stay with a two hour performance in the high school gym that had the audience giving the band repeated standing ovations.

In the New York education system, students attend band class every day for concert rehearsal and once a week have a special rehearsal for each instrument section. Individual lessons are usually tutored after class. This is almost the exact opposite of the Ontario system where theory and instrument lessons are taught in class and band practice is held afterwards.

Under the direction of Pat Contardi, the 60 member band performed five pieces including a medley of Hollywood songs and America the Beautiful. Then two songs, one conducted by Contardi and the other by North Dundas leader Norman St. Louis, were performed by the massed bands of the two schools.

Following an intermission the school's best musicians performed. The 30 member Jazz Band played a variety of popular hits from Children of Sanchez to the big band sound of In the Mood. Every performance was highlighted by several solos and the audience usually responded with standing ovations for the young musicians.

The Harrison students toured Ottawa and local industries during the five days. Following their departure on Friday, they planned a one night stop in Niagara Falls.

North Dundas' Senior Band is heading for Harrison (about 40 minutes from New York on Long Island Sound) this Tuesday. They return on Saturday and their visit includes a tour of the Big Apple and tickets to the Broadway musical Annie!

Hy Shy Nigh Band Entertains

Hy Shy Nigh Band, Choir and Orchestra members entertained South Mountain, Mountain and Hallville Senior Citizens to a six o'clock dinner on Friday evening. Later they played several familiar numbers while the choir sang. The Hy Shy Nigh orchestra played for dancing the remainder of the evening. Euchre and shuffleboard were also enjoyed.

The door prize was won by a guest, Mr. Prins.

Judge Visits New Citizen

Fran Pearl, a native of Australia, has for several years, been the popular teacher directing educational activities in the "Special Ed" class at Metcalfe Public School.

Recently she applied for Canadian Citizenship and, as is the custom, was summoned to appear at Citizenship Court, and because she considered this one of the major elements in her life she took her class with her on that eventful day in February.

Returning to school she had each of her pupils pen a letter to Judge Yvonne Kerr thanking her for being so kind to their teacher and also adding a warm and sincere invitation to visit the school.

It goes without saying the children were more than delighted when the acceptance letter arrived, and last Friday will be long remembered by the youngsters who went "all out" to assure their new friend a genuine rural welcome.

Much to the delight of their teacher the class assembled in the Home Economics room in the morning to prepare delicacies that proved indeed not only fit for a queen, but also fit for a judge.

Iroquois Hosts 226 At Annual

IROQUOIS — An excellent turnout of 226 members attended the annual Seaway U.C.W. Presbyterial at the United Church here recently.

Now in its twelfth year, the day started off with a film strip, "Visions, Gifts, Deeds." Linda Hawley then led a sing-song with her accordion.

Following a report of the nominating committee by Ruth Alguire, the new executive was named: past president, Jean Scott; president, Christine Judge; region 1 vice president, vacant; region 2, Amy Pollock; region 3, Margaret Maxted; region 4, Edith Jenkins.

Recording secretary, Muriel Eastwood; corresponding secretary, Alice Hughes; treasurer, Marion Peterson.

Convenors: Christian development, Nancy Dulmage; stewardship, Alice McLauchlan; church in society, Phyllis Noble; world outreach, Libby Vipond; communications, Joan Oakwell; literature, Jean Casselman; assistant literature, Betty Forward and Irene Merkley; nominations, Jean Scott.

Evelyn McOuat, president of M&O Conference U.C.W. brought greetings and also a humorous report of past summer events.

Linda Kubelka, co-chairman of 1980 Summer Event, then gave a brief report. This year's event is at Kemptville College with a theme of "God's Garden."

Marion Logan, Associate Secretary Division of Mission in Canada, Ministry with Adults (women) was the guest speaker. Her topic was "From old Things to the New" as spring is a time for shedding old things.

She said we need to be aware of a changing world, to reach out for new relationships to a new understanding of God and His call to us as church women. We want a better world for our children as 1980 will be a stressful time to all of us.

Miriam Woodland then presented Scrolls to Ann Webber, Ruth Alguire, Linda Lubelka and Beryl Bruce for services rendered. The Lit. lighters reviewed several new books.

After dinner the evening session opened with a pageant of music and worship. "Along the Road" was then presented by Jasper and Easton's Corners U.C.W. Marion Logan again addressed the gathering with a speech on "All the New Things That I See," concerning Women's Lib. She said Jesus is still working to end the "bent over women." Some of her thought-provoking questions were:

Does women's lib mean the same as women's liberation? Where did I get my attitude to women's lib? Am I afraid of change? Am I afraid of the freedom younger women have, am I threatened by it? Am I secure enough to let others who are different stand close to me? Do I choose to profess a "Me and Jesus" religion or "Jesus, Others, and Me.?"

In conclusion "Have You a Vision" for yourself? You have the Gifts. Are you ready for the "Deeds and Actions?"

Ingleside-Newington had largest attendance with 27 members present. For this they won the Lillian Allison Banner, "Faith is a Journey." Forty-four U.C.W. were represented from 26 pastoral charges.

The presentation of the banner by Marguerite Frappier of St. Paul's, Cornwall who was last year's winners.

Previous to the Benediction by Rev. Brian Gee a word of advice, "Don't let your Culture stand in the way of your Christianity in determining your attitude."

Fight Against Alcoholism Waged At St. Raphael's

WILLIAMSTOWN — Alcoholics desperately trying to kick the booze habit may have a better chance for recovery in the near future.

A newly-formed non-profit organization, the Mount Carmel House Association, is planning to renovate the now vacant Iona Academy building at St. Raphael's and turn it into an in-patient treatment centre for alcoholics.

The centre, which is due to open before the end of the year, is badly needed. Ray Billard, who is president of the association and runs the local chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous in Winchester, said many patients now have to travel hundreds of miles to receive alcohol addiction treatment.

Mount Carmel House will serve all of Eastern Ontario and in particular the United Counties. It will lend a helping hand to the already overtaxed treatment centres in the region. By being readily accessible to alcoholics within the area, follow-up treatment will be easier and families of drinkers will get a chance to share in the help process.

Permission to use the old stone academy has been granted by Rev. Dugene LaRocque, Bishop of the Alexandria-Cornwall Diocese. Although extensive renovations are needed, the exterior and structure of the academy is architecturally strong and the association believes its rural setting will enhance the treatment process.

The central portion of the building was built in 1808 and was the residence of Upper Canada's first bishop, Alexander Macdonnell. Since it is of historical significance, the Ontario Heritage Foundation has indicated that it may be able to help with the cost of renovations.

The Mount Carmel House Association wants to assist any person who will voluntarily ask for help to battle alcoholism. Besides providing treatment services to the drinker and his family, the house will offer accommodation and meals. Although it is not directly affiliated with any other organization, treatment will follow along the lines of Alcoholics Anonymous.

For those who want to be members in the association, the only requirement is having a genuine interest in the aims of the group, said Billard. He noted that many people in the community have already extended their support.

The association grew out of an idea formed by a few people last January. After four meetings, they have developed not only plans, but also a constitution to help them meet their goals. Presently two volunteers are meeting with local industries and businesses to enlist their support.

Billard said he hopes the treatment centre can work closely with employers who have to cope with alcoholism among their workers. He believes Mount Carmel House can be an alternative to firing the employee and in the long run, save costs for the whole community.

Anyone interested in the work of the association or who would like to become a member are asked to write P.O. Box 1481, Cornwall, Ont. K6H 5V5 or phone (613) 938-2952.

The late Mr. Hess is survived by five brothers: Carl. Chesterville; Lyle, Williamsburg; Keith, Elma; Roy, Brockville; and Glen, also of Brockville. He was predeceased by brother Ray.

A member of the Lutheran Church the funeral service at Fairbairn Funeral Home, Morrisburg, was conducted at 11:00 a.m. on April 14th.

Pall bearers were Anthony Toonders, Lyle Baker, Clare Garlough and William Kirkwood.

Interment was at New Union Cemetery, Williamsburg.

Fitness Club Members To Run In Marathon

A dozen runners will be trying to make the distance from Chesterville to Winchester this Saturday in the annual run for young children marathon.

The 12 km course shouldn't be too tough for members of Winchester Fitness Club since they've been a familiar sight for several years, running in foul weather and fair.

Four of the runners will be using the event as a "warm-up" for the 26-mile Ottawa marathon next week.

Wayne Burns, Jim Riddell, Dale McNaughton and Alvin Runnells will, no doubt set the pace in the grueling run.

"We have a lot of fun running the event each year," said Burns, "since we usually can't all run at the same time and this provides an excellent opportunity to benefit the nursery school."

Burns says he hopes to complete the course in 60 to 65 minutes, but another runner - Runnells, who has been training up to 180 miles a week, plans to leave a "vapour trail" as he streaks over the course in less than 50 minutes.

The Happy Days Nursery School hopes local residents will cheer the runners along the route and at the finish line (Winchester Community Centre) when they arrive at approximately 10:30 a.m.

Those desiring to sponsor a runner are invited to call Bert Hill (774-2047); Mary Hutton (774-2918); or Jan Clapp (774-3565) — or any of the parents involved in the nursery school.
