Town Holds Line On '67 Mill Rates

Winchester village will be holding the line on its 1967 mill rate. 1966 figures of 83.8 residential and 91.9 commercial will probably be within tenths of a mill of the new rate to be finalized probably by this week-end.

It was with an air of jaunty relief and confidence that council sat down Monday evening. The atmosphere being directly opposite to that of only one week previous when a possible $25,000 increase in the secondary school rate loomed heavily over the heads of the five council men and their Clerk. The change in atmosphere was easily recognizable and the reason for the joy instead of desperation was again the high school rate. It was going up, but only a comfortable $9,000.

Coupled with the new look high school rate, an increase of about $3,000 in the Public School levy and $11,000 for the county, the jumps were looked upon as reasonable and able to be handled. Last week's conception of the high school rate as forwarded to council happily proved in error and the miserable hours of chopping and pruning the budget and worrying about a possible giant mill increase were forgotten in the moments of making ends meet. Ends did meet on the budget laid on the table Monday evening and a few thousand dollar cushion is anticipated in the budget planning for additional municipal projects.

A generality apparently lead the high school figure astray and upward to $25,000. Pressing to include the last item in the budget, council queried the secondary school auditors for a probable increase. The basis of the estimate forwarded at that time was not actual school figures but a generality referring to secondary schools as a whole stepping up their budgets. Happily for council and ratepayers in the school area the North Dundas Board proved to be an exception to the up twenty-five per cent. club and stymied their increase to the village at $9,000. With Winchester paying 23.787 of the school load the overall budget increase on the high school level will be in the neighbourhood of $36,000 across the area. A substantially less figure than the $100,000 that would have materialized if the earlier figures had become fact.

Although the high school rate is up with the county rate jumping to $37,000 from $29,000 and the public school up $3,000 to $29,000 increased assessment, new per capita grants and other income sources have been confirmed as being able to offset the upward levies, thereby making possible the static position of the mill rate. A steady mill rate, however, does not mean the taxpayer will not pay more money. He will. Increased assessment has pushed the mill from almost $1,800 to almost $2,000 thereby increasing the amount of taxes to be collected on the same mill basis. Estimated tax revenue in 1967 is $165,828.00 against a 1966 estimate of $144,000.00.

In the item of per capita grant can be found the delay of official presentation of the mill rate. Village auditors must make final adjustments to the mill rate and compute into it the new $1.50 per capita grant that is now available. This would have effect on the residential rate only. Final adjustments are expected to be complete by the week-end and figures very close to the 1966 total rate.

Williamsburg Cracks Down On Tax Arrears

Williamsburg Township is cracking the whip on collection of tax arrears three years or more. Council instructed Clerk K. C. Schell to take all necessary steps to collect the tax monies owing. This means that all persons in arrears of taxes prior to 1965 will face registration against their property.

Contact will be made with the Department of Transport re: the cleaning of Department property south of the hamlet of Mariatown. Condition of the area is degraded by the dead trees, brush and other unsightly objects on the property.

Necessary by-laws will be prepared for the construction of the T. A. Weaver Drain. Council also approved sale of land by Ted Van Morsel for residental purpose in lot 30. concession 4

Accounts passed for payment were: winter works, $296.67; roads and bridges, $3,349.61; relief, $43.00; fox bounty, $20.00; recreation, $1,667.90; fire protection, $66.10; drains, $931.72; court fees, $376.00; salaries, $322.70; health, $427.50; education, $499.50; supplies, advertising, etc., $110.53.

Up Mill Rate

Municipality of Kemptville upped the mill rate last week 9.1 mills residentially and 11.3 mills commercially. The new mill rate is 84.3 and 94.0 for residential and commercial, respectively. There was only a small decimal hike in the budget from 1965 to 1966.

Linda Rawlings OTHS Athlete To CAAU Camp

Linda Rawlings of Metcalfe, a Grade 13 student at Osgoode Township High School, will attend the Youth Athletes Camp at Edmonton, Alberta, from June 25th to July 1st.

Linda has just received word from the Canadian Track and Field Association of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada that she has been one of the ones chosen for this signal honour.

Linda's specialty is the 440-yard dash, and she won both the Quebec and Ontario championships last season. She also travelled to Vancouver to compete in the Canadian Championships and placed second, only 1.4 seconds behind Janet Maddin of Winnipeg, who later starred at the British Commonwealth Games in Jamaica.

Name Your Pleasure!

Name your pleasure? A walk into history at Upper Canada Village? A stroll amid the tradition and pageantry of the early Canadian military at Old Fort Henry? Camp for a weekend, a day, a week? Swimming? Fishing? Golf? Picnicking? Boating? Riding? Nature trails? just name it and the wonderful green lush world of the Ontario-St. Lawrence Parks will have the answer.

The giant parks system, Brown's Bay to Glengarry opens this week-end for another exciting or lazy summer of fun or relaxation. In the St. Lawrence Parks you can pick your own pace. There are hundreds of things to do, watch being done or just forget about. The land of the Great Ontario Adventure Vacations opens to-morrow, Friday, May 12. Over two million people visited the parks last year.

Two magnificent historic sites are part of the system. Upper Canada Village in the Crysler Battlefield Park, and Old Fort Henry in Kingston attracted almost one-half million last year and with the influx of Centennial visitors and travellers enroute to Expo 67 all facilities are geared for record numbers of visitors, campers, park users. The Village opens Saturday and Old Fort Henry Monday for the summer season.

Possibly less known than the tremendous camping facilities are some of the attractions in the Parks. The wild fowl reserve on Morrison and Nairn Islands with nature trails and displays provide hours of enjoyment and fascination of nature and its creatures. The youth camping areas in Morrison Island, Grenville, Brown's Bay and Adolphustown Parks.

Camping areas in thirteen parks of the St. Lawrence Commission provide fresh water flush toilets, picnic tables, supervision, firewood for sale, boat launching ramps and electricity for trailers. Water safety supervisors are on duty at ten beaches in the system.

A whole new world of golfing can be easily found on the water and tree lined Upper Canada championship course at Crysler Farm Battlefield Park. With eighteen holes of challenging fairways and giant greens, the big course can be golfers' paradise.

Hundreds of things and tens of thousands of people make the parks a summer to remember. Water ski shows, band concerts, military demonstrations and all the in-born wonders of the parklands add to the enjoyment. It all is available to you this week-end.

Parents Will Be Welcomed At Public and High Schools

Parents of school age children have two important events coming up within the week.

For the parents of the younger students it will be variety night and the official opening of the new auditorium to-night Thursday, at 7.30 p.m. To mark the opening of the new multi-purpose room, students have prepared a variety presentation.

Next Wednesday evening NDDHS throws open its doors for open house. From 7.30 until 9.30 displays in almost every classroom, lab, shop, and other departments of the school. Much of the new section of the school presently being completed will be open to inspection during the evening program.

Needless to say, everyone not just parents has been invited to attend both important functions.

Centennial Day Clean-Up Program

Winchester is starting to shape up for Centennial Day May 20. Several items that will add to the general appearance of the village have been completed. New convenient sized garbage drums have been located at several strategic locations replacing old large type containers.

Council and Chamber of Commerce have co-operated to have a fresh coat of white paint placed on all centre town utility poles to a height of about six feet. Regular maintenance saw hydrants in the village receive a fresh coat of red and white paint also.

On the subject of clean streets for May 20, one action has been tried and proved moderately successful. Firemen hosed down Main East last week. Inquiry has been made to the hiring of an automatic sweeper pick-up to visit the village and give main thoroughfares a once over. The project with the automated sweeper could be completed in one day. Day selected, if possible, Wednesday, May 17, when most streets are free of parked cars, at least in the afternoon.

In the community park preparation of several flower beds is underway. To keep with the brown and yellow park theme, marigolds will be the flowers planted in the beds. Already up in the park is a large Centennial emblem and a new park sign will be appearing in the park shortly and a complete clean-up in the area is underway.

First item of sidewalk construction will also hopefully be completed next week. New sidewalk has been authorized on Main West from the east entrance of the park-pool area to a location in the vicinity of Howard on the south of Main.

Tractor-Trailer Hits The Turf

An unloaded tractor-trailer owned by Evans Turf Farms of Toronto was involved in a freak highway mishap on Highway 31 about two miles north of Winchester at about 11.30 p.m. on Tuesday evening.

Raymond Lacroix of R. R. 1 Perkinsfield, driver of the truck, suffered lacerations to scalp face and arms but was not seriously injured. Constable G Schultz of the Winchester Detachment of the O.P.P. investigated.

The truck coming over the crest of Durant' Hill veered off onto the shoulder and into the east ditch, scraping a tree and coming to rest on its side.

Revised Henderson Creek Cost Figures For Monday Meeting

A revised assessment of costs for the cleaning of the Henderson Creek Drain through the village of Winchester will add interest to the public meeting concerning the project. The meeting of ratepayers affected by the plan has been called for Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Town Hall.

Questioning the assessment of costs, which total over $10,000, council learned Monday evening the cost division was dependent on a 1948 survey of the Creek and the assessment included in that report. The village at that time was considerably less developed and many properties of to-day were non-existant and hence in the original cost divisions were accepted as agricultural land of low assessed value. The result was the costs specified in the report of 1967 were felt to be unfair and badly distributed among benefitting property owners. Council requested the report be brought up to date.

Hence, the updating was underway Tuesday and should be complete for the information of interested ratepayers for the Monday meeting. The effect should be to include all property owners benefitting from the ditch and allow for a more equal distribution of costs of the project.

The public pulse will be felt at the meeting Monday evening to ascertain the willingness of the majority to go ahead with the project or to set it aside at this time. The report will be explained as read, by the engineer James Morrison to the meeting. A later date may then be set for a court of revision to hear questions on the costs delegated to each property holder. Private citizens will pay for about two-thirds of the project through the village. However, the village will complete under maintenance any culvert installation or road repair that may be necessary.

Parking Prohibited

Official Parade Route Announced

Official routing of the May 20th Centennial Parade through the village has been released, the parade will form north on Ottawa Street. From parade headquarters it will travel a double route over Main, May Mill and Victoria-Cameron Avenue. The heavy lines on the diagram represent the parade route.

The whole of the parade will function for traffic purpose only on the east side of the village. Provision has been made for the detouring of through traffic. Parade watchers would be wise to select a location early along the route. There will be no parking along the parade route whatsoever all vehicles being cleared away by 1 p.m. until the completion of the parade.

And never say farewell.

—Husband and family. 1c

MUNRO—In loving memory of a husband and father, Hector G. Munro, who passed away on May 7, 1966.

He is gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year;
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o're us,
Many think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies in the heart concealed.

—Sadly missed by wife and family. 1p

What About Parking ?

In the central business section of the village several theories related to the parking regulations and their enforcement have their own merits and drawbacks. Be it here established that the village has on the books a parking by-law that can regulate all parking if it is posted and enforced in whole or part.

Only one primary section of the code remains virtually unused. This with regard to the parking on the west side of St. Lawrence Street from Main south to Clarence. This can be designated as a no parking zone under terms of the by-law. In the past, at the request of business and professional people in the area, the section had not been enforced. The question of enforcement has arisen again and this time action may be taken at the municipal level to institute the regulations.

Restriction of parking on the west side of St. Lawrence would accomplish one main thing. It wound permit easier and safer flow of the ever increasing amount of traffic local and through that travels the streets that doubles as the combined route of Highways 31 and 43. Several times each day the area commonly known as the Post Office corner becomes a no man's land for driver and pedestrian. The daily ten o'clock jaunt to the Post Office virtually limits traffic flow to one lane in the area as cars line both sides of the street in this general location. The scene is repeated once again at noon and on a slightly lesser scale at the five p.m. hour. These are the three regular shifts on the Post Office that can tie up traffic with only two cars parking parallel on opposite sides of the street.

From heavy commercial to pleasure traffic, Police Chief Whitteker will give evidence of the worst hours of the weekend Sunday morning when cars line both sides of St. Lawrence for an hour or slightly more during the services in church. The long extended lines of parked cars on both sides of the street at that hour present a challenge to any driver passing through no man's land, even if meeting a bicycle coming from the other direction. This scene is repeated each time a funeral or wedding is scheduled.

Cessation of parking on the west side would do much to alleviate the problem. Side street parking is readily and easily available for use at the hours of worship or service in the churches. And parking would still be allowed on the east side of Main directly in front of the United and Anglican churches thereby not interfering with the actual services when immediate accessibility might be necessary to the front doors of both churches.

Only serious order of complaint that could be heard would be in loss of the nine parking spaces in the Main-Church block. There the spaces are used for business purposes primarily. Almost all recognize the need for more parking availability in the village and in this instance it is suggested deleting, for the sake of safety and convenience of traffic, nine parking locations for customers. This in turn would add walking distance to the potential customer's shopping trip if he or she could not locate on the east side of St. Lawrence.

The argument is valid but not a swaying factor in this case when a check was made last week of the parking space available and how it was used in the centre town section. Replace these nine particular spaces would be a quick reply. It could be done quite easily.

Replace the lost spaces with the locations that are almost daily occupied by business people and their employees. In this case whether the parking regulations remain the same or the no parking is enforced, business people should somehow arrange off-street parking for their vehicles and those of their employees. In a jaunt through the business section last week eight of the nine spaces that may be questioned could have been recouped. Essentially the filling of available parking which is a habit of many who work behind the cash register is the same as keeping the money from going in the same cash register.

The case cannot be stated against each employee or employer but a knowledge of who owns which car last week illustrated that only a few are not guilty of this infringement, at one time or another if not all the time, on their own profit.

Somebody's Mother

(A favourite poem about "Mother" taken from an old school book by Gerald Hill, Marvelville)

The woman was old, and ragged, and grey,
And bent with the chill of the winter's day;
The street was wet with the recent snow,
And the woman's feet were aged and slow.
She stood at the crossing, and waited long,
Alone, uncared for, amid the throng.
Of human beings who passed her by,
Nor heeded the glance of her anxious eye.
Down the street, with laughter and shout,
Glad in the freedom of "school let out"
Came the boys, like a flock of sheep,
Hailing the snow, piled white and deep.
Past the woman, so old and gray,
Hastened the children on their way.
Nor offered a helping hand to her,
So meek, so timid, afraid to stir,
Lest the carriage wheels or the horses' feet
Should knock her down in the slippery street.
At last came one of the merry troop—
The gayest laddie of all the group;
He paused beside her and whispered low:
"I'll help you across if you wish to go."
Her aged hand on his strong young arm
She placed, and so, without hurt or harm
He guided the trembling feet along,
Proud that his own were firm and strong.
Then back to his friends again he went,
His young heart happy and well content.
"She's somebody's mother, boys, you know,
For all she's aged, and poor, and slow;
And I hope some fellow will lend a hand
To help my mother, you understand,
If ever she's poor, and old, and gray,
When her own dear boy is far away."
And "somebody's" mother bowed low her head
In her home that night, and the prayer she said
Was "God be kind to the noble boy
Who is somebody's son, and pride, and joy."

The Seventh Column

Close to 600 Winchester and district (with emphasis on the district) Sunday afternoon church goers attended the impressive interdenominational Centennial service at North Dundas District High School auditorium last Sunday afternoon. It was an excellent service with a mixture of good speaking and good music, and it went off without a hitch. A project of the Centennial committee in co-operation with the Ministerial Association, the Centennial Service was looked on as an important part of the Winchester Centennial year program. Apparently someone forgot to mention this to a great percentage of the town population which was conspicuous by its absence. The breech was filled, however, by the surrounding district. The thought remains, however, that with Centennial Day coming up in just over a week the enthusiasm of the townspeople, so urgently needed for an event of this kind, must start to become evident now if the village is to be decorated and, indeed, if the big day is to be the success predicted by the Centennial committee.

Still at the Centennial service, the new North Dundas District High School Band under the capable direction of music director Mr. St. Louis, gave a preview of things to come. The band, with less than a year of experience, is coming along fine and should add a great deal to the forthcoming Centennial Day when it will make its first big appearance.

Judgment on the Stephen Truscott case was handed down by the nine Supreme Court judges last week. And regardless of whether or not you agree it is our democratic principle to respect this decision. This is the highest court in the land and, excepting one judge, the decision was unanimous. Nevertheless, the thought still persists in the minds of thousands of Canadians as to the handling of the original trial, more particularly as to the act itself and how it could be committed under the existing circumstances in the matter of a few minutes. Except for what we read, most of us do not know the actual circumstances. But many of us have doubts, and, perhaps, the only person who really knows if Truscott is guilty is Truscott himself. Regardless of what happens now, the arguments will continue for a long, long time. And one argument which will come to the fore will be the abolishment of capital punishment in this country. It seems evident now that the hangman's noose is just about a thing of the past, and abolition could very well become an act of parliament in the next session. It was a strange, unusual and unprecedented hearing before the Supreme Court. One of the experts appearing for the prosecution was a renowned London pathologist who concurred with the findings of the pathologist at the time of the original trial. He was quoted as saying that in the last 30 years he had performed 100,000 autopsies. Breaking this down to get the true significance of the picture, it means that on the average for EVERY day in those 30 years he had to perform nine autopsies. Quite a busy chap to say the least.

No, we are not going to let the opportunity slip by without mentioning a word or ten about the immediate past Stanley Cup finals. You all know where Lord Stanley's mug is this week. It's being hugged to death by those old men from Toronto who call themselves the Maple Leafs. C'mon, what do you say this week? They knocked off the highly rated Black Hawks in six, and then, just to prove it wasn't a fluke, they polished off the high flying Canadiens also in six. Not seven games but six! And when a lot of other fans were writing them off, guess who called them to win all the apples? How sweet it is to call a winner, even though it only happens once or twice every 15 or 20 years. But this one is particularly nice. Remember, a month or so back when a few of our devout readers were telling us we had holes in our head for calling the Leafs. But we never faltered. Indeed, after the second game we called the series in six, and believe it or not we also called the last game by two goals. Of course, we picked the Rough Riders to win the Grey Cup last November. But, hec, that was six months ago. The Leafs won last week and that's the one we remember best. Come to think of it, we'll call them again next year. In the meantime, if the crow wasn't too tasty give us a call and we'll let you in on our secret on how to call a winner. Now to get our campaign rolling to have "The Maple Leaf(s) Forever" our national anthem.

Did someone mention baseball? Okay, the Detroit Tigers will win the American League and then go on to trim their opponents in the World Series. Remember where you read it first. Dum-dee-dah-dah . . . Tra-la-la-la-la . . . .

To all the mothers everywhere . . . Happy Mother's Day!

Departmental estimates continue to wind their way through the Sessions of the Legislature with a slow but sure action. Those of the very controversial Department of Labour, guided quite expertly by the new Minister, Honourable Dalton Bales, Q.C., received much less opposition criticism than was the case in the past few years. This would seem to indicate that the new personnel and policies introduced by the former Minister, Honourable H. L. Rowntree, Q.C., are now bearing good results in the labour-management areas of our provincial economy.

The estimates of the Department of Reform Institutions got off to a noisy beginning as the Minister, Hon. Allan Grossman is not one to take opposition jibes with equanimity and always enters a verbal fray with great relish. In this Department also the winds of change are blowing strongly and the Minister's report and estimates indicate new treatment methods, more modern facilities and a continuing emphasis on rehabilitation of the offender.

The Minister of Municipal Affairs presented to the House a statement which you all undoubtedly have seen in the daily press, that a provincial interest-free loan up to $150.00 per year would be available to property owners over 65 years of age who otherwise would not be able to pay their municipal taxes and remain in their homes. When the property in question is sold these deferred taxes would then be payable and in this fashion other taxpayers would not be subsidizing their elderly neighbours and their heirs. It remains to be seen whether this is an answer to what is a very serious problem for our older retired folk.

Ever since the report of the Carter Royal Commission on Taxation was released, there has been much discussion everywhere in our land on its implications. I would quote here some of the comments of Prime Minister Robarts on the problem which seems to me to outline the problem and the complexities of any proposed solution:

"We must all recognize there is a limit to the ability of the taxpayer to dig ever more deeply into his pocket for more money.

"Your government believes that each level of government, whether it's federal, provincial or municipal, must accept the necessity of carefully considering all expenditures. To ensure the taxpayer is not overburdened, there must be close co-ordination of the federal-provincial, and the provincial and municipal levels, so that money supplied by citizens for the common use of all is efficiently used for the greatest good.

"Taxpayers are asking how much longer tax increases can continue . . . and they are not alone in asking this question. Those of us who have the responsibility of government are also taxpayers, and we are concerned about the imbalance of the taxing powers of the various levels of government, and the legal burden on each level to provide costly services.

"Today, we are on the threshold of a new era of public finance. Your Ontario Government is fully aware that our municipalities are facing grave financial problems and we are sympathetic to these problems and to the ratepayers. As a matter of fact we have steadily boosted financial assistance to the municipalities to ease their burden. As an example, this year the Ontario Government increased the unconditional grants to the municipalities by $1.50 for every resident of the province. That works out to more than $10 million in extra assistance to municipal taxpayers this year. But, it is clear the solution is not, as Premier Robarts said, "to simply get some more money and give it to the municipalities."

"I am confident that we stand on the threshold of a new era of public finance in Canada. I anticipate that many positive changes in our tax structure will be implemented."

Sugar and Spice by Bill Smiley

It's not the regular work week that gets me. No. I come from hard-working peasant, puritan stock, and know that you have to work hard to get rich and/or to heaven. It's the other week piled on top of it that makes me come out an 80-hour loser, red-eyed, surly, frazzled and fractious.

It's when they expect me to be, in addition, as a bonus, a culture vulture, a social butterfly, a dedicated community worker, a fine husband and father, and a general handyman, that I rapidly become a dam' old grump, as my daughter succinctly puts it.

Last week was a doozer, and not untypical. Monday, rush home, write column, then straight off to music festival. Sat on hard chair from 7.30 to 11.30 p.m., when daughter played. Worth it, when she took highest mark in the festival, but had sore bum all next day.

Tuesday, taught my own classes and gave guest lecture. Grade 10 is "doing" the invasion of Normandy in history, since I was the only available living relic of the battle, was asked to tell them some highlights. Like how our air force bombed our troops at Caen. Like how my squadron dive-bombed a German bridge three days in a row, 60 tons of bombs, three aircraft lost, and never knocked a chip of concrete off the thing, though we did kill a lot of fish in the river below.

This is known as living history and I had to do an encore the next day with another grade. A pack of "old sweat" lies, but they ate it up. It wasn't in the book.

Did you read in the paper recently aboout some drug, developed by a Rumanian lady doctor, which keeps you young? Apparently it works wonders. Old Konrad Adenauer, who packed it in not long ago, well into his nineties, was a regular customer.

Wish I could get my hands on some of that stuff. In fact, don't be surprised if you learn that I'm off to Rumania this summer. It's appalling what they expect us old guys to do these days.

When I was 30, I knew I couldn't keep up the pace much longer, and looked forward to life beginning at 40. When I hit 40, I found myself running faster than ever, still in circles. Now I'm wondering whether they let you out of the rat race at 50, or whether you just keep going until you run all those other rats into the ground or fall flat on your foolish face. Dead.

Trouble is, there are always new / young rats joining the marathon, which makes it rough on us mature rats, even though we've got our second wind.

After school, acted as judge in speaking contest. Wednesday night, final concert of music festival winners. Kim picked up an armful of silver cups, which helped ease another raw rump from three hours on wooden chair. Thursday night, Library Board Meeting. Friday afternoon, presented prizes to winners in speaking contest. Friday night, school band concert, with daughter playing drums and another hard chair. Pain in rear slightly eased by post-concert party which produced pain in head.

Saturday, Open House at school. English department display in my room drew much attention. Ketchup on floor indicated last scene of Hamlet, which we did in the fall, and small pile of ashes on floor indicated remains of Saint Joan, which we finished last week. Visitors deeply impressed with new realism in teaching of English.

Saturday night, fought all evening with wife and daughter. Latter wanted to go to teen dance, despite fact she had trouble staying awake because of afternoon and evening rehearsals all week. To every one of which I drove her and picked her up.

Spent all day Sunday looking for receipts to send with income tax return, one week late.

Here it is Monday and column night again. And the lawn isn't raked. And tomorrow night I have to play for the Russian Billiard Championship of the curling club, which closed three weeks ago.

And hours to go before I sleep. And hours to go before I sleep. Please pass the Rumanian Gerovital or whatever.

Meditations . . . by REV. CECIL W. TUININGA

Romans 13:3—"For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil."

One of our most pressing national problems is crime. Law enforcers warn us that crime rates are bound to rise. They have already reached alarming proportions. What can be done about this serious crisis?

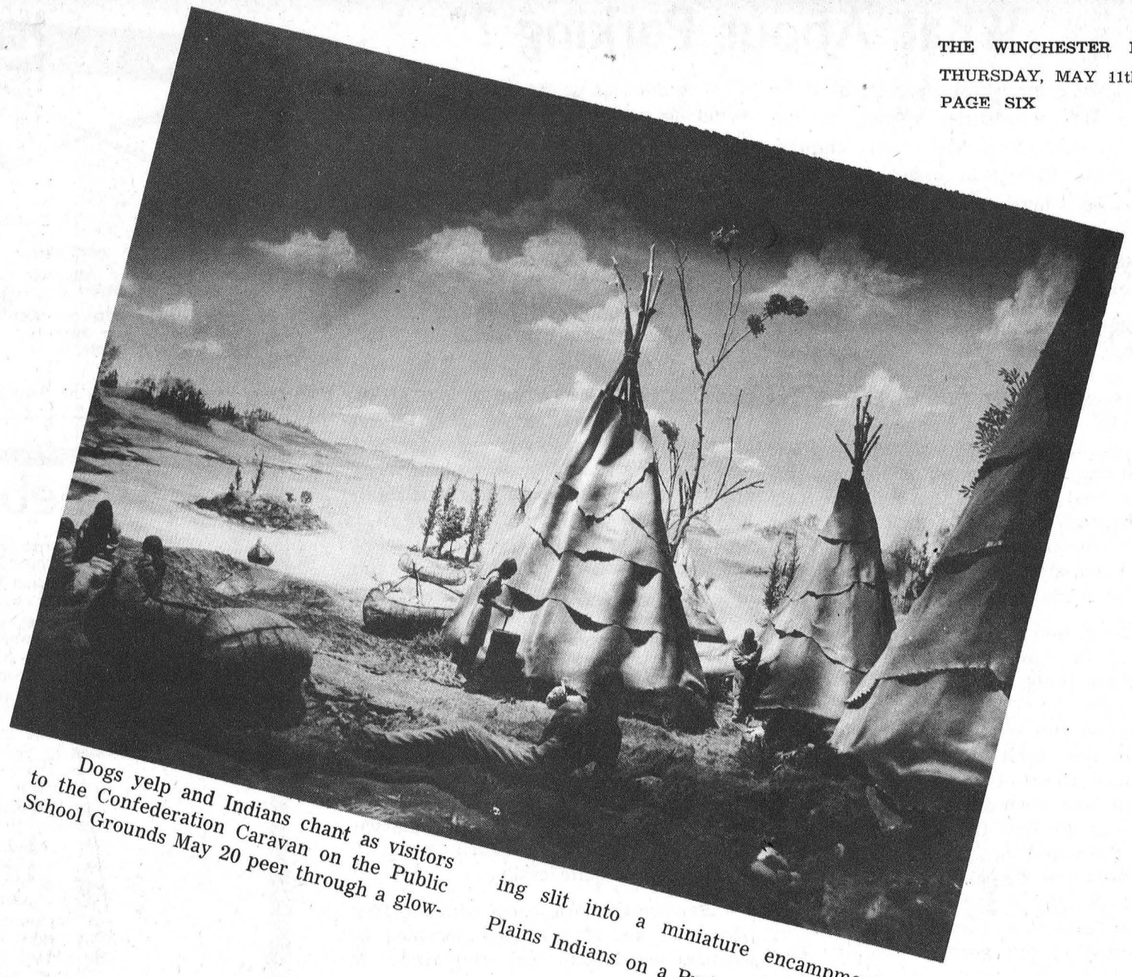
To find a solution demands an analysis of the cause. Many are trying to analyze this problem and to come to its underlying cause. Some suggest it is our afluent society that is to blame. We have too much money, too much free time, and too many conveniences. Others think it is our modern rushed uncertain, and dangerous times that bring men to stupid acts, motivated by frustration or fear Whatever analysis we may have, none can help unless it gets at the root of the matter. It is true that many factors play a part in our crime problem, but at the bottom it is ungodliness that causes it all. That ungodliness begins in the home and works out in society, bearing its fruits.

Crime diminishes where godliness increases. Those who truly serve God will not commit crimes. Crime proceeds from the heart of man. That heart is evil due to the fall of man. Scripture says it this way, "For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts false witness, blasphemies . . ." It is the heart of man that needs changing if the crime rate is to be changed. That change comes by way of faith, for Scripture says, "For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." — Romans 10:10. Only true faith can change our crime problems. Men must turn to God and serve Him.

Our present crime problem finds its roots in ungodliness. This begins in the home. Ungodly parents lead and train their children in ungodliness. A fruit of this is that children do not learn to know or fear God and hence cannot learn to respect authority. True, that authority is not taught in many homes, but even where it is taught, it has no foundation unless it is taught from God's Word. Only Scripture gives us the origin of authority. It declares, ". . . there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God." It naturally follows, that no young person is going to obey and respect authority just because mom and dad say so. There has to be a deeper basis for that kind of obedience. Only the fear of God will bring the true response of respect for all in authority, for then one sees God as the supreme Authority and we obey for His sake.

In our critical times it is very urgent that we give serious thought to this matter. Many of us seem to think that we can ignore God and His laws, that we can serve self and sinful lusts, and not reap the sad consequences. But all wickedness comes from hearts lost in sin, and to that there is but one answer. Only by faith are we saved. When we repent of our sins and seek our salvation only in Jesus Christ, the only Saviour, are we again able to forsake our evil ways and serve our God thankfully. Here alone is the answer to our problems. Are we reary to use this answer?

Thousands of immigrants travelled to Canada's western plains on the dark panelled railway coaches of the kind in the Caravan. Iron floor plates at the entrance jiggle as though the visitor is walking between two coaches.



Dogs yelp and Indians chant as visitors to the Confederation Caravan on the Public School Grounds May 20 peer through a glowing slit into a miniature encampment of Plains Indians on a Prairie river bank.

It's Coming

The Confederation Caravan

The Confederation Caravan opens its one day exhibit in Winchester May 20th, bringing to Canadians the story of the nation and her people in a way it has never been told before. You'll know the caravan's coming when you hear its mighty claxon blaring out the first four notes of "O Canada" as the eight giant tractor-trailers roll through town to the exhibition site on the Public School grounds adjacent to the Memorial Hospital grounds.

The Caravan has been on the road since May 1, and its visit to Winchester on the 20th will be the major attraction of Centennial Day in the village. It certainly won't be the only attraction as there will be something for everyone from 10 a.m. until the later evening hours.

It's not a museum or an art gallery or a history lesson. It's more like a time machine trip to visit the people of all walks of life who lived and worked laughed and wept in Canada from the beginning of our land.

Eight identical caravans were produced in four years from idea to fact to criss cross the nation, while the similar Confederation Train crosses east to west, generally stopping, at larger centres of population. Visitors to the show find the trailers—the biggest ever made in Canada—arranged in a quadrangel, with an entertainment stage near the entrance and towering triadetic displays inside the formation. The triadetics tell in sound and light and photo the development of this region of Canada. Several of them have cranks so the visitors can activate miniatures shows himself.

clatter of a Prairie bound steam engine, the shriek of bomb and shell in war.

When you leave the Caravan and sign the guest book you will feel you know a little more about Canada and the people who passed this way before.

With the Caravan doors swinging open at 11 and remaining open until 11 in the evening it is hoped that everyone in the area will have ample opportunity to visit and admire. All the while there will be dozens of other activities with a parade, games of skill and chance, band concerts, chicken barbecue, teen-age dance, Centennial costume party-dance fireworks, official opening of the Centennial Swimming Pool beard growing competition and visit from Miss Dominion of Canada.

May 20! And it's all in Winchester with everyone invited.

The main show is inside. The tales are told with still and movie pictures, life-size mannequins that move, intricate miniature figures and scenes reproductions of full-size rooms and outdoor settings as well as hundreds of artifacts. You experience life as it was lived in the Indian villages, a tailor shop of Lower Canada, the Gold Rush days, the Roaring Twenties, and the Great Depression.

You see the Ming vases and fine silks the explorers were seeking when they found Canada by mistake; tiny sculptured figures of the Fathers of Confederation, a rifle and a face mask of one war and bomb fragments of another, a stock ticker rattling through the '29 crash. And the sounds of the times are all around you — the chant of the voyageurs probing the heart of a continent, the garrulous laughter in a tavern of Upper Canada, the puffing and Caravan visitors slip through a beaded curtain from the trenches of World War I into the garish light and frantic pace of the Roaring Twenties and try out some dance steps to the hits of forty years ago blaring from a victrola.

The frantic gaiety of the roaring twenties came to a jarring halt as the newspapers and chattering ticker tape tell the story of the '29 crash, soon to be followed by the Great Depression.

World War II brings the heart stopping thunder of bombs. Caravan visitors will listen to the whine of the wind through the fins of a 500 pound bomb aimed through a bomb bay doors at a city far below. Bomb fragments frame photos of war scenes on the walls.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Brisbois Celebrate 45th Anniversary

Children, grandchildren, relatives and friends gathered at the Sergeants' Mess of the Governor General's Footguards in Ottawa to celebrate the 45th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Brisbois of Metcalfe.

It was in the year 1922, at St. Catherine's Church in Metcalfe with the late Rev. M. J. Gorman officiating, that Roger Brisbois of Winchester and Anna Palmer of Metcalfe exchanged vows. The bride was attended by her sister, Ethel (who was present at the celebration) and the late Eddie Dignard (cousin of the groom), was the best man.

Son-in-law Elwood Pollex of the Ottawa Police Department was Master of Ceremonies, and the couple were presented with flowers and a beautiful 7-piece Chrome set.

Besides their three sons and five daughters and their families, the guests included Rev L. Frappier, P.P. and Rev. W. Hulliger, as well as friends and relatives from Utica, N. Y. Cornwall, Morrisburg, Iroquois, Williamsburg, Russell and Metcalfe.

Afternoon Group Vernon Baptist Mission Circle

The afternoon group of the Vernon Baptist Senior Mission Circle met at the home of Mrs. Jas. Ferguson with nine ladies present. The president presided and opened the meeting with a Meditation entitled "Because you passed this way."

A hymn was sung, followed by prayer. Bible reading was taken from II Kings 4:1-7 speaking of race relationship and that Christ saw all races as human beings and all men as brothers. Prayer for the realization of these conditions was offered at this time, following the reading of the topic given by Miss Jessie Campbell.

Some discussion was held regarding the sending of food parcels to India, as well as White Cross work. Cards are to be sent to patients in hospitals.

No Imports In South Carleton Ball Loop

Alf Taylor of North Gower was re-elected President of the South Carleton softball loop at the reconvened meeting at the Manotick Fire Hall. It became necessary to reschedule the meeting when some of the teams were unable to send representatives on the first call.

Keith Russel of Russell was re-elected vice president, and Jack Armstrong of Manotick will again fill the secretary-treasurer's post. Two delegates from each team complete the executive.

The residence rule, always a thorny problem for rural leagues, was reviewed. The five-mile radius rule always created a certain amount of overlapping, and from this meeting came an amendment to the constitution which completely eliminates the individual team residence rule, and instead a boundary will be drawn around the entire league, and players residing in this area may play for any team in the league. The only exception here being that clubs be allowed to protect the players signed from the 1966 season.

With this new rule in effect absolutely no imports will be allowed.

It is expected the schedule will be released this week and play will get underway by May 19th. Games will be played on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, and the play-offs will get underway the first week in August.

CORNTROL 862 OIL
...proven by Ontario Corn Growers
Publication 75—"1967 Guide to Chemical Weed Control"... published by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food states...
"Oil Water Emulsions provide greatly improved postemergence activity of ATRAZINE and ATRAZINE/SIMAZINE mixtures, especially on quack grass and annual grass species."
CORNTROL 862 is an emulsifiable light mineral oil that acts with your ATRAZINE, ATRAZINE/SIMAZINE mixture, or LINURON herbicides, to provide effective postemergence chemical weed control. CORNTROL 862 with your herbicide saves time... frustration... and money. Here are four ways it helps reduce your crop production costs:
1. Improves control of annual grasses and quack grass
2. Extends the period of effectiveness against broad-leaf weeds
3. Increases "kill" during periods of hot, dry weather
4. Provides a better weed kill than your herbicide and water alone

"My Responsibility As A Canadian" by Peter Barton

My chief responsibility is to be proud to be a Canadian. To have pride, is to have an overweening opinion of one's own qualities, merits, or status; it may even be a sense of arrogance or exhaltation. But the fact remains that it is a feeling of honour — an honour that I should possess because I am a Canadian.

What is a Canadian? That may easily be answered; yet it is impossible to answer. A Canadian is an inhabitant of Canada, either native-born or immigrated and sworn. It is a sorry fact that this is all many Canadians are — simply inhabitants. It is not known what a real Canadian is, for surely he must have an English father, a French mother, an Italian uncle, an Indian aunt, or relatives of Eskimo and Chinese background. A real Canadian must be quiet and conservative at a political meeting; yet rowdy and brawling in a hockey game. He must be rich and happy in Ontario's business world; yet experience hunger and loneliness in a deserted mining town or a barren wasteland to the north. It would be hard to find a true Canadian if we looked for all the traits which are an integral part of Canada itself. A real Canadian is therefore not only an inhabitant of Canada, but a proud, nationalistic, patriotic inhabitant of Canada. It is my responsibility to be a real Canadian.

My responsibilities as a Canadian are as countless as the snowflakes that fall from the sky and cannot be listed superficially like a series of do's and don'ts. They are something deeper than that. My patriotic feelings do not reach a fever pitch and carry me to protests and useless riotings against what our government is doing. Instead, they make me see what can be improved upon and what the next generation — our generation can do. I belong to the younger generation of a country which will be running that country forty years from now. That alone is a great responsibility. I can look forward to the days when my vote will count, my opinion will be listened to, and my decision may make a difference. But I don't want this to happen until I am ready and responsible enough for my vote to be counted, and for me to be proud of it.

One might say, "Why bother? Why worry about a responsibility at all?" Well, I worry about it because soon enough this maturing generation of "teeniebops'" and go-go dancers will be in charge of the second largest area of land in the world. It could be drastic if this next generation shirks its duty and leaves Canada to flounder as it has been doing for years. It is an honour to know that I may play a minute part in its development. It is my responsibility to have pride in, and a desire to help prepare for, the future.

Secondly, my responsibility as a Canadian is to maintain and support Canada's peace role in the world. I have ample reason to be proud, at present, and in the past, of Canada's preservation of freedom. Canada does take sides and will fight to her last man if it comes down to that. But is it not much better to remain neutral and attempt with all sincerity to obain peace? Total cessation of war around the globe is virtually impossible for fighting is simply a part of man. The task is to keep this fighting to a minimum. Canadians today are doing this in Cyprus and in West Germany. They play an intricate part in the United Nations itself. They are trying, along with the Polish and the Indians, to arrange a legitimate peace in Viet Nam. Canada's foreign aid policies save thousands every day from hunger, bankruptcy and death. A great deal of responsibility lies on the shoulders of our great nation because of its increasing importance in a world of mounting tension. Canada, today is striving for more Canadian ownership of industries, banks and resources. Her trade is growing to cover the four corners of the globe. Natural resources are, to a great extent, untapped. Security and prestige are becoming a part of Canadian life as we come of age in this, our Centennial year. We are hosting the world and showing them what Canada can do. For all these and many more reasons I feel a responsibility as a Canadian.

It is also my responsibilty to nourish and love the past and to build on it. Here is a pride which comes from the heart. Perhaps personal reasons take preference over all others. When I think of being a Canadian, I see Cartier and Champlain staking out the new frontier; I see the fathers of Confederation constructing a country of reputation, influence, and achievements; I see settlers fighting off the Americans at Queenston Heights and Crysler's Farm to protect what is theirs; I see army-clad soldiers storming the beaches of France and rushing from their trenches to die for freedom; I see scientists exploring the world of science and sending Alouette into space; I see great politicians debating in the splendour of the Commons and I see Expo 67 inviting all races of the world to come and see what we have done. Natural resources and beauty abound in our nation and we have only to bring them to our fullest use. From the towering peaks of the Rockies to the fishing shanties of Newfoundland, I see plenty to be proud of and realize how deep is my responsibility to nurture this pride. Canada's history has been colourful and succesful. Her present is an array of glamour and accomplishments under tightening strains. Her future promises to exceed the past and present and lift Canada to the heights that she deserves. I want to be a part of it. This is my responsibility as a Canadian.

Bruce Hutchinson has described the Canadian personality as being conservative, humble, close to the land, and proud. I believe also that ours is a nation of eager beavers "ready and rarin' to go." My responsibility as a Canadian is to accept this challenge, to promote change, and encourage developments not only within our own borders, but around the world. We, the young generation of Canada, must back her glories in the past and prove her greatness in the future. It is a great challenge and I want to accept it. Even if I can play only a small part in Canada's growth,, I will do it wholeheartedly and with all my pride. This is truly my responsibility as a Canadian.
