LT.-COL. J. F. McKINLEY, JUVENILE JUDGE, PASSES AT OTTAWA

Lieutenant-Colonel John F. McKinley, officer in charge of food and conservation of by-products, under the directorate of the director general of medical services, judge of the Family Court at Ottawa, and chairman of the Ontario Parole Board, died suddenly late Monday night at his home, 68 Park Road, Rockcliffe.

Judge McKinley was well-known in Winchester, where he presided over juvenile courts on several occasions, and where he was guest speaker quite frequently at social functions.

His interest in the welfare of underprivileged children and his good judgment in settling Domestic Relations cases, will stand as a monument to his memory.

He leaves an aged father, a wife and two sons.

Wesleyan Y. P. S. Annual Conference

The annual Wesleyan Young People's Convention was held in the Winchester Tabernacle August 21, 22 and 23. The speaker for the Convention was Rev. John Woodhouse, of Dayton, Ohio, and music was provided by the Dayton Youth Evangels, composed of Rev. and Mrs. John Woodhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone Woodhouse and Miss Irene Musick.

The conference president, Mr. Eddie Wilson, of Ottawa, was in charge. An address of welcome was given by Mr. Arthur Summers during the Friday afternoon session. Rev. John Woodhouse brought messages both afternoon and evening.

The Saturday morning session was opened with prayer and praise service, conducted by Rev. Mr. McCorriston, of Inkerman. The theme for the Convention was "The Place of Christian Youth in this World Crisis." Topics dealing on this theme were given as follows: "Youth and the Challenge of Pentecost," by John Connelly, of Cornwall; "Youth and the Life of Prayer," by Miss Laura Bronson, of Cornwall; "Perils of Modern Youth," by Rev. Dwight Deeks, of Newington; "Preserving our Christian Sabbath," by Miss Nellie Dunbar, of Newington; "Maintaining Our Church Standards," by Mr. Arthur Summers, of Winchester. "Maintaining Our Spiritual Atmosphere," by Mrs. Lawrence Helmer; "Wesleyan Youth's Sacred Trust," by Miss Ebus Sheppard, of Ottawa; "Youth and Temperance Today," by Miss Audrey Lyall, of Ottawa.

These topics were very well delivered and each one proved a source of spiritual help to all those present.

Rev. John Woodhouse spoke each evening and at the three services on Sunday. The chalk drawings by Miss Musick, and musical numbers, both instrumental and vocal, given by members of the Woodhouse Party, were certainly appreciated by everyone.

During the Convention, ribbon badges were given to 300 who registered at the office, in charge of Misses Idena Jones and Hazel Jackson. The sleeping accommodation in the dormitory was filled to capacity and many meals were served in the dining hall, under the supervision of Mrs. Herman Summers and Mrs. L. Belway.

The Conference Committee responsible for the arranging of the Convention programme, was composed of Mr. E. E. Wilson, President; Mr. A. Summers, Vice President; Miss Nellie Dunbar, Secretary, and Mrs. D. L. Deeks, Treasurer.

Much of the success of the Convention was due to the prayers of the committee in charge, as well as the members of the Young People's Societies. The Holy Spirit was prevalent from the opening service to the final service Sunday night, and many received help that will only be fully known in Eternity.

Aerial Target Site Being Surveyed North of This Village

According to information received by the Press, a section of the swamp area, north of Winchester, will shortly become a machine-gun target centre for R.C.A.F. planes. During the past week government engineers have been surveying the site and as soon as their reports are turned in, it is expected the area will be transformed into a target range. This is not an expensive undertaking and will not necessitate the erection of large buildings, as some people are led to believe. Aside from fencing the area, posting danger signs and placing the targets in their proper places, a small temporary structure will be erected for the convenience of the target crew and score-keepers during target practice. Definite details on the project have not yet been announced and it is not known whether the work will be completed this fall or next spring.

When the target range is in operation, the "rat-ta-tat-tat" of the aerial machine guns will be easily heard by residents of this district. At present, the proposed site of the range is being used as a summer pasture for young cattle.

Speed Fiend: "It's great speeding along like this. Don't you feel glad you're alive?"

Passenger: "Glad isn't the word, I'm amazed."

PLAYING WITH DOG, BOY IS DROWNED IN ST. LAWRENCE

Throwing pieces of wood into the river for a small dog to retrieve, Luther Casselman, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Casselman, of Morrisburg, stepped into deep water shortly after the noon hour Friday last, and was drowned. The mishap occurred close to the cheese factory, three miles below Morrisburg, where the boy's grandfather, G. T. Bowman, is cheesemaker. The boy could not swim, neither could another boy who was with him, but the latter raised an alarm. Twenty minutes elapsed before the body was taken from the water.

Dr. Shennett, Morrisburg, was summoned, but found resuscitation impossible. Dr. Louden, Morrisburg, was called as coroner, and, after enquiring into the circumstances, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Luther Casselman was the youngest son of the sorrowing parents and his death was the first break in the family circle. There are two brothers and one sister. The boy was an exceptionally bright one whose tragic end causes regret throughout the community.

The funeral was held from the home of the boy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Bowman, Morrisburg, on Monday.

Mrs. Alex Cameron Passes In 89th Year

There passed away at her home, 3835 Wellington Street, Montreal, on Monday of this week, a former well-known and highly esteemed citizen of this place, in the person of Mrs. Alex Cameron. She had been in ill-health about one month prior to her passing. Born in Marlborough Township, Carleton County, 88 years ago, deceased was the daughter of the late James Reddick and his wife, Matilda Goldie.

Following her marriage, she took up residence in Winchester where her husband operated a tailoring business for many years. Shortly after the passing of her husband in 1912, she went to Montreal to reside with other members of her family.

During their residence here, the late Mr. and Mrs. Cameron took an active part in all phases of community life. Mr. Cameron was one of the Elders responsible for the building of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, while Mrs. Cameron took an active part in the several Ladies' Societies. She was a charter member of the Ladies' Aid Society and the W. M. S. Many of the older citizens will remember Mrs. Cameron as a kind and loving mother, friendly neighbour and staunch friend. Her passing will be mourned by a wide circle of friends, both here and in Montreal.

Surviving are three sons, Donald, Hector and Norman Cameron, and one daughter, Miss Ethel Cameron, all of Montreal; also three sisters, Mrs. Dan Eager, of Ottawa, and Mrs. W. V. Putney and Mrs. Fred MacDonald, of Akin, Minn. The late Colin Cameron was also a son, and the late Dr. Reddick, for many years a practicing physician here, was a brother of the deceased.

The funeral service was held in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Winchester, yesterday afternoon, with the pastor, Mr. Allan Thomson, B.A., officiating. Interment was made in the family plot at Maple Ridge Cemetery. The pall bearers were, Messrs. A. G. Suffel, George Wilson, Geo. E. Fraser, Walter Moffat, Ernest Christie and R. M. Elliott.

Three Young Men Feted Yesterday By Hart Melvin

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Hart Melvin, proprietor of Melvin's Garage, entertained about 60 guests at a dinner party, held at the Allison Tourist Home, Morrisburg, in honour of three of his employees, who leave on September 1st to go in training with the Royal Canadian Air Force. They are Messrs. Melvin Scott, Hubert Summers and David Melvin. The guests included members of the garage staff and their families, relatives and business associates of Mr. Melvin, and a number of Winchester citizens.

During the dinner the following address was read by Mr. Albert Johnston:

Winchester, Ont., August 26, 1942.

Members of the Staff and Guests:

This dinner, as you know, is in honour of three young men, Melvin Scott, Hubert Summers and David Melvin, who are leaving our midst to don the most glamorous uniform in His Majesty's Service—that of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

David, you have grown from boyhood among us and we all know by your charming ways and the efficient manner you display that you will perform your duties successfully wherever called.

Since Hubert joined our staff eight years have elapsed, and during this time he has proved to be both energetic and capable, and we feel confident that he will carry these characteristics with him into his new endeavour. While Melvin has not been with us so long, he has, nevertheless, convinced us that he possesses those qualities of efficiency necessary in the Air Force.

When Hubert started working for us eight years ago, Hitler was only a name and no one realized that the Austrian paper-hanger would become the scourge of the world.

When Melvin joined us four years ago we still believed Hitler would back down when Chamberlain called his bluff.

In these three years we have seen unbelievable things happen — the Fall of France — Dunkirk — a score of countries run over — Russia invaded — the United States brought wholeheartedly into the war by the treacherous attack on Pearl Harbour. Every passing month has made us realize that the war is touching every home.

In the face of our national danger these three young men, David, Hubert and Melvin, are leaving us to join the Air Force. There, if they show the same energy and co-operation which they have displayed, the Sergeant-Major will be 'kissing them good-night' and 'tucking them in their little beds,' or else, they will be giving orders to him as commissioned officers.

David, Melvin, and Hubert, we ask you to accept these small gifts, not for their value, but as a token of remembrance and good luck.

Signed—Members of the Melvin Staff.

* * * *

The presentations, which included gold identification bracelets to Messrs. Summers and Scott, and a gold ring with airforce crest to David, were made by Mr. Melvin.

In replying to the address, all the boys expressed their appreciation for the gifts, and spoke of the pleasant associations they had had during the years they had worked for Mr. Melvin.

The afternoon was a very enjoyable one and all present were appreciative of Mr. Melvin's thoughtfulness in giving his employees such a pleasant send-off.

Don't Be A Knocker

Don't be a knocker. If there is a chance to boost your town, boost it. Don't go around with a face long enough to eat apple sauce from the bottom of a milk can without a spoon. Put on your best smile. Be hopeful. It may be cloudy today but the sun is almost sure to shine to-morrow. If business is dull at times that is no reason why you should be dull. Be jolly. No one cares to live in Blueberg. Get inoculated against discouragement and then rub in the oil of optimism.

"Turn trouble into victory,
Don't let your courage fade,
And if you get a lemon
Just make the 'lemonade'!"

Bury your hatchet. When a stranger drops into your place of business, tell him that this is the best town of its size in Canada. It is. So boost it every chance you get. Don't knock the reeve or any of the town officials. Help the Board of Education all you can. Don't grumble about the taxes. Be loyal to your Canada. Hitler, we're told is trying to stamp out religion. Don't you be one of his helpers. The Christian religion is the only hope of the world. Don't knock, rather boost the church. You need it, the community needs it and the world needs it. The gospel is the only cure for war.

If you have heard a good joke, pass it along. Most people enjoy a laugh. Here is one: "What's the trouble, old chap? You look angry enough to fight." "O, I'm sizzling. It took me almost an hour to button my wife's waist in the back, and when I was nearly done I told her a joke, and she laughed so much the buttons all flew off."

We all need a good laugh now and then, especially NOW when there is so much to make us sad. We should all use the broomstick of optimism much more than we do. We should swat the blues, also the knocker. Both should be sent reeling down the dark alley of oblivion.

When you have trouble do as the earth does. Keep turning around and you will find sunshine somewhere.

"We know when we're knee deep in trouble,
We know when we're suffering pain,
We know right away any hour of the day
When we've reason to groan or complain.
We know when the fates are against us,
We know when we're losing a fight,
But we don't seem to know,
As the days come and go,
When everything's really right."

Everything is not really right in Winchester, or any other place, just now. Still conditions could be very much worse. So cheer up. A robust gentleman at a health resort remarked to one of the visitors, who was in poor health, "Why, madam, when I first came here, I hadn't strength enough to utter a word intelligently. I had scarcely a hair on my head. I was too weak to walk across the floor, and had to be lifted from my bed." "You give me hope, sir. How long have you been here." "I was born here."

Whether you were born here or not, be loyal to your town. Nobody ever gets stuck on a knocker. Don't you be one. Boosting pays good dividends.

DUKE OF KENT KILLED IN AEROPLANE CRASH

Air Commodore, The Duke of Kent, brother of His Majesty, King George VI, was killed, along with other members of the crew of a Sunderland Flying Boat, which crashed in the north of Scotland, enroute to Iceland on official service, according to a press despatch published yesterday. The Duke of Kent was an officer in the Royal Air Force and was on duty at the time of the accident. His wife was a former Greek Princess, and he leaves three children, one born only a month ago.

S. D. & G. Company Headquarters Moved To Morrisburg

During the past week some changes have been made in No. 1 Company of the S., D. & G. Highlanders (R). When this battalion was formed about three years ago, recruiting was carried on in Chesterville, Winchester and Morrisburg, under the direction of Capt. F. M. Cass, then Commanding Officer of No. 1 Company. Headquarters for the Company were set up at Winchester with Q.M.-Sgt. J. H. Keyes in charge of the stores which were located in the Arena. When Sgt. Keyes was transferred to Cornwall, his duties were taken over by Q.M.-Sgt. "Bud" Utman, who was later succeeded by Q.M.-Sgt. Hubert Summers, who has relinquished the post and will shortly go in training with the R.C.A.F.

With a new Quartermaster to be appointed, the Company's equipment was all moved to Morrisburg on Saturday, where, we understand, the post of quartermaster will be taken over by ex-Lieut. Gordon Foulds, of that town.

The command of the Company has also been changed. Lieut. Fred Broder, of Morrisburg, a veteran of the World War, has been given the appointment, replacing Lieut. D. E. Beggs, who had been acting C. O. for the past three months, succeeding Capt. Cass, who went overseas several months ago. Lieut. Beggs will still retain his rank as commanding officer of the local platoon.

Needless to say, the members of the local platoon were disappointed to see the Company's Headquarters leave Wincnhester, and are at a loss to understand why the change was made in commanding officers just when things were going well for all concerned. They fail to see why Morrisburg should have been favoured in this instance, especially when that community has taken a lesser interest in the S., D. & G.'s than either Winchester or Chesterville. Prior to going to camp, Winchester had the largest platoon in the company, Chesterville was second and Morrisburg lagging in third place. In last week's issue, the Morrisburg Leader came out with a headline, "Reserve Army Platoon Here Is Smallest in Three Counties."

The local officers hope that the changes will have no bad effects on future recruiting for the S., D. & G.'s here, and will endeavour to keep the Winchester platoon at the highest peak of efficiency.

ADVICE TO MERCHANTS

(Amherstburg Echo)

The fact that supplies are increasingly hard to get, should put the small merchant on his toes and make him realize that to get his share of the business, and to keep citizens from moving to where prices are more attractive, he should advertise his wares persistently and consistently. There is an old saying that people will shop where they are invited and the merchant who advertises will get and hold the business. that slips from the slipshod. That is the only way to combat the growing trend toward the larger centres and large businesses.

District Fairs Being Held Next Week

Two district Fairs, which should command the patronage and wholehearted support of the residents of Dundas County, are being held next week. They are the only two Fairs in the County—Chesterville on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 1st and 2nd, and South Mountain Fair on Thursday and Friday, September 3rd and 4th. Both exhibitions will present features which should be highly educational, as well as entertaining. They deserve your support.

Chesterville Fair.

The Chesterville Fair will feature live stock exhibitions, sports, horse races, band music and dancing. Excellent prizes are being offered in the Cattle, Horses, Poultry and Grain Classes. There will be farm machine demonstrations and competition for several special prizes. The horse races will include a Free-For-All, 2.22 and 2.28 class, with $300.00 being offered in purses. For prize lists and other information, application should be made to H. E. Durant, President, or Eric Casselman, Secretary.

Mountain Fair.

The Fair at South Mountain is sponsored by Mountain Township Agricultural Society and is the Fiftieth annual exhibition held in that community. Liberal prizes are being offered for competitions in the following classes: Horses, Cattle, Swine, Poultry, Grain, Garden Vegetables, Fruits, Flowers, Field Crops, Baking, Cooking, Dairy Products, Ladies' Fancy Work, etc. In addition to the Society prizes, there is a long list of specials, many of which have been donated by Winchester business men.

There will be two horse races, a Free-For-All and a 2.25 Class, with purses of $150.00 for each. A military band will be in attendance during the last day, and in the evening an entertainment will be presented in front of the grandstand, followed by a dance, featuring Wiill Gaylord and his Orchestra, from Cornwall. For prize lists, etc., apply to W. E. Graham, President, or R. E. Robinson, Secretary.

WEDDINGS

MILLER—GILROY

St. Andrew's United Church, Sudbury, was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony, recently, when Ruth Helen Gilroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gilroy, formerly of Winchester, became the bride of Sgt. Frank Patrick Miller, of Debert, N. S., son of Rev. and Mrs. J. Wesley Miller, of Keremeos, B. C. Gladioli were used effectively to decorate the church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. R. Cragg, while the wedding music was played by Mr. E. B. Beattie. Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at Nickel Range Hotel, Sudbury, and later Sgt. and Mrs. Miller left to spend their honeymoon in Montreal. The bride is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gilroy, of this place, and spent a few days here, prior to returning to her home in Sudbury.

RHOADES—FRASER

The bride's birthday was chosen for the wedding day of Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Fraser, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Campbell Fraser, of Ottawa, formerly of Winchester, to Sergeant Pilot Ernest Elford Rhoades, only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rhoades. Very Rev. Dr. John W. Woodside solemnized the marriage in Chalmers United Church, Ottawa, on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. The wedding music was played by Mr. Wilfred Coulson, and Sergeant Phillips, R.C.A.F., was soloist.

A long white bridal gown combined taffeta and net. The long-waisted bodice in taffeta had a sweetheart neckline and sleeves forming points over the hands. Layers of net made the skirt very full and edging the hem was a flounce. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a scalloped halo, trimmed with clusters of lily-of-the-valley. Composing her arm bouquet were pink roses.

Attending the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, were Miss Inez Miller and Miss Isobel Meabry. Miss Miller's gown of peach organdy had a round neckline, fitted waist, full skirt and bishop sleeves. Her Dutch hat was of the organdy. Pastel blue chiffon on similar lines with self-embroidery was worn by Miss Meabry and she also had a matching Dutch cap. Colonial bouquets of harmonizing roses and summer flowers were carried.

Following the reception, which was held at the home of the bride's parents, 358 Lisgar Street, the bride and groom left for Moncton by plane. Mrs. Rhoades travelled in a golden wool dress and brown felt hat and accessories.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. A. Handcock, Miss E. D. Handcock and Mr. and Mrs. G. Harbert, Montreal; Mrs. E. J. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Fraser, Lachute; Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Payne and Miss Mary A. Empey, of Winchester.

DIEPPE—TOWARD A SECOND FRONT

Not an invasion, not a rehearsal, but a test—an extremely important, fruitful and promising test: this seems the most accurate available description of the Dieppe raid, observes the Christian Science Monitor.

Such an appraisal leaves out, of course, a number of dramatic aspects of a very dramatic operation. No report on Dieppe would be complete unless these intangible factors were included. For example, the hordes of planes sailing out from Britain for the Continent remind one of the days when the Nazis were singing "We're sailing for England." They never made the crossing. The forces that landed at Dieppe had an experience the Nazis have long hungered for.

Another touch of the dramatic—on the side of comic relief—were the Nazi broadcasts that described the raid as an "invasion." It must have looked pretty big to the Nazis. It must have looked as if it was made up of a force intending to stay. In that case the jubilation with which the Nazi broadcasters announced the "defeat" of this "invasion attempt" is understandable. As a matter of official report, the raiders stayed exactly six minutes longer than they meant to.

From the reports of damage inflicted on enemy installations—which does not seem to have been extensive—we may gather that the objective of this raid was experience, knowledge of enemy strength, fuller understanding of the problems of landing large forces with heavy equipment, appraisal of enemy air power and of the effectiveness of our own air umbrella. Had destruction of enemy installations been the main objective, it is likely a less well defended point than Dieppe would have been the target.

That Dieppe is reportedly in the heart of one of the most strongly defended sections along the French coast indicates the raiders were intent on finding out the worst about the problem of opening a second front. What they learned is an official secret. We do know, however, that they must have uncovered valuable information about enemy resources, the points from which the enemy might bring up reinforcements to meet an invasion threat (it is fortunate the Nazis mistook the raid for the real thing), what centers our planes should attack to prevent concentrations and movement of enemy power.

Moreover, we know, and many of the French now know, and the Nazis at least suspect, that military forces with heavy equipment can be landed on the Continent. Despite the Germans' boasts, the Continent is not yet their oyster. The size of the air forces engaged shows that this raid was staged against determined opposition from a foe that thought much more than the success of a raiding party was at stake.

The figures on air losses show that landing on the Continent will not be easy. One question probably still unanswered is how an invading force is to be supplied and supported. This will be answered as these raids increase in scope and duration. Apparently Dieppe was planned as one in a sequence of bigger and bigger raids, the climax of which will be a full-fledged invasion with its problems in a large measure already solved. The lesson of Dieppe seems to be that, with proper preparation, a second front can be opened and that what the Nazis could not do in the Battle of Britain, the United Nations will do in the battle of the Continent and of Germany.

HAS WINCHESTER BEEN LET DOWN?

The Press deeply resents the decision of the S., D. & G. command to transfer the headquarters of No. 1 Company of the battalion from Winchester to Morrisburg. Not that we have anything against Morrisburg, but owing to the fact that Winchester was more central for the stores, and because the local platoon was the strongest of any outside of Cornwall. It would appear, on the surface, that the battalion heads at Cornwall are not appreciative of the local platoon's efforts to encourage recruiting. No advance notice was given that the headquarters were going to be moved, no excuse for the transfer to Morrisburg was offered—the decision was made without any thought of what it might mean to Winchester. This may be the military way of doing things but, in our opinion, the method lacks principle. If the S., D. & G. Command at Cornwall expects co-operation from Winchester and district in keeping its ranks up to strength, a little more consideration will have to be shown than that displayed last week.

Not only do we consider it unfair to have the company headquarters taken away from Winchester, but we do not hesitate to register our disapproval of changing Commanding Officers of the Company. A few months ago, when it was impossible to get a man to take over the office, so efficiently filled by Capt. Fred Cass prior to going overseas, Reeve D. E. Beggs, of Mountain, was pursuaded to head the Company. He was given to understand that he would retain the office permanently, and since his appointment had been taking courses leading up to the necessary qualifications for Lieutenant. Without being given any further consideration, he has been relieved of the Company Command. His successor is Capt. Fred Broder, of Morrisburg. And please don't misjudge us. We firmly believe that Capt. Broder will be a very efficient O. C. He is a veteran of the Great War and is deserving of any recognition the military authorities can bestow upon him. But we do not think Lieut. Beggs was used fair in the matter. He is a busy man—he sacrificed his work to build up the local platoon and go to camp with the boys for two weeks. He lived up to his part of the agreement but the higher-ups at Cornwall have not. This is to be regretted in view of the fact that it is bound to decrease the prestige of the S., D. & G. Battalion in this district—and just at a time when new recruits were being sought to bring the platoon up to strength.

As things now stand, Morrisburg has the Commanding Officer and the quartermaster stores, Chesterville has the Company Sergeant-Major, while Winchester has only an ordinary platoon.

The Press has taken a leading part in supporting the S., D. & G. Battalion ever since it became active as a reserve unit. We have helped to build up the local ranks through publicity and free advertising—the staff even signed up with the ranks—that is why we feel so keenly the loss of the Company Headquarters to Winchester.

If the S., D. & G. headquarters at Cornwall want to leave Winchester out in the cold when there are any plums to be passed around, it stands to reason that the attention of the boys will be directed to units closer to home, which are anxious to enlist their services and which, no doubt, would show some appreciation of their efforts. As it is, the local platoon, the Municipal Council and others who are interested in Winchester's welfare, feel that they have been mistreated.

In the interests of economy, the stores should have been left in Winchester. We are all urged to save gasoline, but this change will mean added miles to get equipment. Here's the way it works out. When the stores were here—Chesterville only had to come 8 miles, now it will be 20 miles. The mileage for Winchester will offset the mileage Morrisburg had prior to the change.

Even though the local platoon feels that it has suffered an injustice at the hands of Battalion Headquarters, it has no intention of folding up. It will continue to function and will endeavour to bring its ranks up to strength as soon as possible—and the Press will give the boys all the support possible in this endeavour.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Only one cup of tea or coffee may now be served at one meal in a restaurant, but there is no such restrictions on the number of glasses of beer which may be served. Why, asks one of our exchanges?

It's nice to read all those tales of devotion and bravery by the Canadians at Dieppe, but after all, that is what can be expected of Canadians when it comes down to a real fight. That was proven during the last World War.

We hate to mention it, kiddies, but in just a few more days that old school bell will be beckoning you back to the class-room. We trust you have enjoyed your summer vacation, and hope that mother's nerves are not completely gone after keeping you out of mischief for the past two months.

Time is one of the gifts of God. To each He has given the same amount, twenty-four hours per day. To be slothful, tardy, and late is to misuse time. Time is opportunity for doing worthwhile things. Congratulations are extended to the editor and staff of the Stirling News-Argus on the 64th anniversary of the founding of that paper. The News-Argus is one of the liveliest and most interesting weekly newspapers published in Ontario, and Stirling may well be proud of it. It is a welcome visitor to this office each week and we class it among our leading exchanges. We wish it every success in the years to come.

It's tough when you discover that somebody who seemed very special, is really less wonderful, less wise, less kind than you thought. But it really isn't the other person's fault. It's your fault for trimming him (or her) in those heroic qualities. If the trimmings don't fit, blame yourself. If you must think every goose is a swan, you mustn't feel affronted if, one day, you find yourself rubbing your eyes, and seeing that the supposedly glamorous creature is just a prosaic waddler. And here's a tip. A swan may seem more inspiring. But a goose can be more lovable!

Those lengthy casualty lists, published following the commando raid on Dieppe, are just a forerunner of what is to come when the United Nations start an invasion on the European Continent. When the name of a district boy is listed as killed, wounded or missing, it brings to all of us a realization of what war really is. Casualty lists are the aftermath of every battle. They spell sacrifice, heroism, and heartbreaks for the next-of-kin—but wars cannot be fought without the loss of life, and in spite of the sadness and sorrow that is brought to many a home—we'll all have to keep our chins up until the final victory is accomplished and peace is restored to the world.

An order has gone forth by the powers that be—the Post Office Department in this case—that newspapers may no longer be sent to soldiers overseas by individuals. No order has as yet been received prohibiting newspapers from being mailed to regular subscribers so far as we know, so that it is still possible to forward papers if they are mailed direct from the office of publicataion. We have been informed that one of the reasons advanced for the prohibition order to the general public was because bulky packages of week-end papers, the kind many people carry home on Saturday for their Sunday reading, were sent to the soldiers and airmen overseas, papers which, in many cases, did not carry a line of home town news.

We Cnaadians can rightly be proud of the fact that we are a peace-loving people. That our aim as a nation is to strive to improve human welfare, with freedom and justice for all. Such a people is always slow to anger, tolerant, and patient. But when patience is exhausted, a peace-loving people can turn its peacetime skills into weapons of fierce and righteous wrath. There is only one way such a nation could be enslaved. That would be through propaganda that misleads; through lack of knowledge, and of truth. Canada's greatest strength is . . . freedom of the printed word . . . to give the people truth, truth that builds freedom of thought, and of word, and of vision. This great freedom tempers the steel out of which a nation and a people can forge mighty swords.

THE PRICE CEILING

(Tweed News)

What happened to price ceilings with the announcement of the new cost-of-living bonus? It would look as though Donald Gordon's program back-fired somewhere.

A STATION TO AVOID

(Perth Courier)

Those of us who are accustomed to listen at times to one or other of the stations on the Mutual Broadcasting System would do well to remember that the dominant station of that system is Chicago's WGN which is the powerful station of Col. McCormick's Chicago Tribune. Quite often the stuff liberated through the air from that station and chain is of the "flag-waving, down with the British, remember Bunker Hill" type.

GERMAN HUMOR

(Almonte Gazette)

If there were a place for humor in the dreadful war now raging, the Germans would deserve a leather medal—not because they have any sense of humor, but because they lack a sense of humor to such an extent that they are ingenuously funny. For instance, imagine such barbarians complaining about "unfair attacks" by the Russians on their lines of communication. In any other race but the German, such a smug expression could be accepted as a sure indication of insanity.

HE MEANS BUSINESS!

(Brockville Recorder & Times)

The Oil Controller is obviously one gentleman connected with Canada's wartime set-up who means business and whose orders are not to be trifled with. His closing of 223 gasoline stations because they accepted loose gasoline coupons or coupons issued for cars other than those supplied with gasoline carries its own warning to the whole oil trade. If other wartime officials were equally as "tough," there would be greater realization of the fact that this country is not only at war but fighting for its very existence.

AND SOME CALL THIS "SACRIFICE"

(Barrie Examiner)

Someone in Ottawa has suggested that Canadians should be willing to make the "sacrifice" occasioned by the rationing of tea and coffee. "Sacrifice" is hardly the word. Surely we haven't gone so soft that a small matter like tea or coffee rationing may be termed a sacrifice. The term "sacrifice" should be reserved for those men and women who are shedding their blood for Canada, and not applied to those of us who remain at home and suffer the small inconvenience of not having as much tea or coffee as we would like.

The day is coming when we are going to have to surrender more things than the mere luxuries of tea and coffee, and the sooner we realize this the better for us all.

Tea and coffee rationing is a trivial matter, and one that we believe the people of Canada will accept in right good spirit and without much grumbling. After all, we have no right to expect brave men to risk their lives to bring us the things we can easily do without.

JUST A HEADACHE

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

Between now and the end of the first week in September, employers of labour will be wearing out lead pencils figuring just how much tax to take out of their employees' wages under the new taxation law. We have studied the tables and yet we don't know half of what we would like to know, and must know, before that September day when we start to collect. We still think that this sort of thing could be figured out better and the employer could be told about it in simpler language.

RELIEF NAMES SHOULD NEVER BE PUBLISHED

(Carleton Place Canadian)

We note in several of our exchanges the reports of township council meetings, the copy being supplied by the municipal clerk whose name is signed. In some of these cases the clerk has not kept himself posted on the regulations as set out by the Department at Toronto. It has been ruled that where relief is supplied to individuals or families, these names should not be given out in the council minutes, and yet it is being done meeting after meeting as they are reported. There seems to be no sound reason for publishing these names and advertising the fact to all and sundry that they are the recipients of relief. It is bad enough to be so poor as to be unable to support a family without public assistance, but it is downright humiliating to have it rubbed in by advertising to all the readers of the newspaper.

A PASS FOR M.P.'S SON

(Essex County News)

According to R. M. Harrison's "Now" column in the Windsor Star last week, a certain Essex County M. P. evidently knows the ropes when it comes to getting passes. It is reported that for the past two or three years he has been able to get his son a free pass from Toronto, where he is attending University. And the son has been home every week-end for the last two seasons for the play-off games in the North Essex League.

We do not know who this M.P. is, but if this story is not true, he should come forward and refute these statements. If the story, however, is the facts, then this member should feel the full power of public criticism, when it is considered that the boys in uniform, who are prepared to make the supreme sacrifice, must pay their own transportation in order to see their loved ones at home.

For Your Health Book

Variety In Vegetables.

Harvest season brings a rich profusion of vegetables, but whatever the season, Canadian markets are filled with an excellent variety of vegetables. Eat them every day, cooked and raw, two or more kinds daily. Learn to eat new kinds, cooked in new ways.

Why Different Kinds.

First on the list—dark green leaves, as kale, chard, spinach, beet and turnip tops, dandelion and mustard greens—rich in iron and vitamins.

Lighter green leaves—as lettuce and cabbage eaten raw—crisp and fresh—good for vitamin C.

Yellow vegetables—as squash, sweet potatoes, yams, carrots and pumpkin—fine for vitamin A.

Dried peas, beans, lentils—don't forget that they contain protein and can be substituted for meat once or twice a week.

Other vegetables—as green beans, green peas, lima beans, onions and celery—give you less minerals and vitamins but are good for you and are a change.

How To Buy Vegetables.

Buy vegetables in season—they are cheaper and fresher.

Choose bright, firm, well formed vegetables.

Buy beets with fresh green tops thus having two vegetables for the price of one.

Buy by the pound rather than by the bunch, as carrots and broccoli; it is less expensive.

Vegetables with little waste, as string beans and spinach, are cheaper than green peas or lima beans, even though they may cost a few cents more a pound.

How To Cook Them

Wash thoroughly, particularly leafy varieties, but do not soak in water, for this removes some of the vitamin and mineral content.

Cook in the smallest possible amount of boiling salted water. Leafy vegetables usually have enough water clinging to them from the washing; for others about one-half inch in the bottom of the kettle is enough.

Vegetables are better undercooked than overcooked. Most people overcook. When you get used to undercooked ones you'll prefer them.

Whenever possible, cook vegetables in their skins; skin protects the mineral and vitamins.

Never add soda to vegetables; it destroys vitamins.

Save the water in which vegetables are cooked as an appetizer, mixed with tomato juice, in soup or gravies. It contains much of the vegetable's mineral and vitamins, particularly the B family and C.

A postal request to the Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, Ontario, will bring you a free vitamin chart and a booklet "Canadian Vegetables for Every Day."

FARMERS' FEDERATION

Winchester, Aug. 24, 1942.

To the Editor:

I read with interest the advertisement of the Federation of Agriculture in your issue of recent date. While admittingn that I do not take any interest in farm organizations, I wonder if there is any necessity for this Federation. I always contend that farmers should stay at home and stick to the business of producing food stuffs, leaving our elected and paid government officials to see that we get a fair deal in the marketing end. We have always been farmers and have managed to make a living, and expect to be able to continue to do so.

As for this municipal health idea, we have never had much sickness in our family and have been able to pay our own doctor bills without much difficulty. The ways of the world may be changing, but I don't see why that should affect farmers.

Thanking you for this space in your paper.

Stay-at-Home Farmer.

Not frowns and tears and sadness,

Smile then, for that's a magnet
To bring them to your door,
The things you're wishing for.

INKERMAN SAILOR HONOURED

On Wednesday evening, August 19, about 100 neighbours and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hutt to say farewell to their son, Dwight Hutt, A.B., S.D., home on his last leave for a year.

The evening was spent in games and music. About 10 o'clock Dwight was called to the floor and the following address was read by Mrs. W. J. Fawcett, while Mr. Geo. Casselman presented him with a kodak and a purse of money.

Winchester, Aug. 19, 1942.

Dear Dwight:

We, your friends and neighbours, are gathered here to-night to honor you, as one of the boys of the navy, and to express our appreciation of the many sacrifices you are making on our behalf.

We have always found you, Dwight, a cheerful friend, one ready to help in any community activity, whether social or agricultural, and although we miss you, we realize your King and Country need you. So we wish you the best and look forward to meeting you again when the clouds have all rolled by.

But then, we know that this life has its compensations, too, for we hear the girls singing:
"There's something about a sailor,
That is fine, fine, fine."

And again, " All the girls love a sailor." Then these stories of a girl in every port do have a way of getting around. So: "To sigh, how vain!
On onward strain,
Brave boys! In light, in darkness too,
Through winds and tides one compass guides,
To that, and your own selves, be true."

And now we ask you to accept this small gift as a token of our good wishes.

Signed on behalf of the community, George Casselman, Harold Francis, Ewen Gannon.

Dwight made a suitable reply, thanking his friends for their gift. Then all joined in singing, "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow."

A bountiful lunch was served, complemented by delicacies from the home of the Hutts.

Dwight returned to Sydney, N. S., on the early train Sunday morning to resume his duties as Submarine Detector.

JAM JARS ON THE ASSEMBLY LINE

Hello Homemakers! Now is the time when those who have fruit in their own gardens or who buy it in large quantities will be thinking about conserving it by making it into jam. You can make use of the fully ripened fruit and put your jam into odd jars without tops since you will be using the inexpensive method of covering with melted wax.

To prepare the fruit, just pick the fruit over, then wash it. Weigh the sugar. To draw the juice out of the berries, cover them with the sugar and allow to stand overnight. When heated in this sugar-juice mixture until a syrup is formed and the berries are hot through, they absorb the syrup and tend to "plump up." That is what you want. Then leave your berries in the syrup to cool—to help this process. The mass can then be cooked or slowly concentrated in an electric oven set at a temperature of 250 to 275 degrees.

A quick method of making jam is the following: Prepare fruit, weigh, then crush with a wooden potato masher. Blue berries and hard berries may be run through the food chopper. A short cooking with the addition of a small quantity of water—before the sugar is added—helps extract the pectin from the fruit. Add sugar (3-4 lb. to 1 lb. fruit, or substitute 3 cups light corn syrup for two of the cups of sugar), stirring into the boiling mixture and cooking until a good jelly test is obtained. If the fruit does not contain pectin or acid, either may be added as in jelly or preserves.

Commercial pectin directions are easy to follow and this method saves both time and cost of fuel.

RECIPES
Damson Plum Jam
(Requested)

Wash 4 lbs. plums and cut in half, removing the pits. Break a few pits and add kernels to the fruit. Pour 3-4 cup water over every 1 lb. plums and heat slowly to boiling point. Cook gently for one-half hour. of sugar. Simmer one hour and pour Measure and add an equal quantity into sterilized containers. Seal at once.

Ripe Gooseberry Jam.

1 qt. ripe gooseberries, 3 cups sugar and one cup cold water.

Wash gooseberries and remove stems and blossom ends. Add water and cook until skins are soft. Add sugar and cook rapidly until thick and clear. Pour into sterilized containers and seal when cold.

Pear Marmalade.

To every pound of peeled and cored pears which have been sliced very thin, add 3-4 pound of sugar, 1-2 ounce of green ginger root, scraped or grated, and half a large lemon.

Place the pears in the preserving kettle in layers, sprinkling each with sugar, lemon juice and grated ginger root. Allow to stand 2 to 3 hours, then heat slowly to the boiling point. Cook until clear and thick. If preferred, the ginger root may be erushed and placed in a little bag which can be removed from the mixture before pouring into glasses.

TAKE A TIP

1. Because of the chemical nature of honey, syrups tend to froth easily at boiling point; therefore use a large saucepan.

2. Grass stains may be removed by rubbing in thick hot soapsuds. If a stain remains, bleach with javelle water or hydrogen peroxide. If the material is not washable, sponge with wood alcohol.

3. Surface mildew may be removed with javelle water. Deeply grown mildew is almost impossible to remove. Try soaking garment in soured milk and spread on green grass out in the sun. If the material is not washable, apply potassium permanganate until mildew is removed and then apply oxalic acid.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. R. T. asks: "Why cannot honey be used to can raspberries and cherries? Is it possible to use all honey to can peaches?"

Answer: Honey has the tendency to take out the colour in these fruits and make them slightly tart. Experiments prove that most people prefer to substitute 1 cup honey for 1 cup of every four cups of sugar required.

Mrs. S. M. asks: "What will remove sticky fly paper from a rug?"

Answer: Scrape off as much as possible, rub with kerosene or carbon tetrachloride, then sponge with a cloth wrung out of warm water.

Mrs. J. B. says: "Jelly which was made from juice that had been divided and put into two kettles, turned cloudy from the liquid made of the first batch.

Answer: Cloudiness may be due to having cooked fruit too long before straining off the juice, and the light particles of the skin would be floating in the liquid made from the top liquid. Stir liquid constantly while making jelly on your electric range.

MONTREAL'S POETESS

MRS. DOROTHY SPROULE

It is given to but few mortals (especially those associated with the arts) to receive anything like a full complement of praise or honour from their contemporaries while they are still living. However, Dorothy Sproule, who has published seven books of poetry, has received unstinted praise, in reviews. by Canadian, American and English critics. Several of her poetic friends have compiled a brochure, "A Garland of Orchids," which they presented to her. The Coronation Medal was her reward from His Majesty for her "Coronation Ode," and she won the World's Fair Gold Medal for her poetry.

Mrs. Sproule is a member of the Poetry Society of London and of the "Modern Bards" of America. She is Associate Editor of The Crucible, Toronto, and Canadian Editor of The Notebook, Cleveland, Ohio.

Her poems have been read over the radio several times by Ted Malone, Christopher Ellis, Winston Currie and others.

Lloyd C. Douglas, author of "The Magnificent Obsession," "The Green Light," etc., wrote an eulogistic introduction to her book, "Poems of Life," and Lady Tweedsmuir contributed the frontispiece to "Earth and Stars," and the late Sir Andrew Macphail fully endorsed her work. Letters from the late King George V, Queen Mary and the present King have been received, expressing grateful appreciation for these books.

Mrs. Sproule is a pioneer Club Woman, having been first President of the Notre Dame de Grace Women's Club, and of the Women's Conservative Club of N. D. G. She was a former executive of the Local Council of Women, the Big Sister Association and several other organizations. She is a member of the Executive of The Canadian Authors' Association and Chairman of its Essay Group.

Her portrait, painted by the Russian artist, Oscar de Lall, was chosen for the Spring Exhibitionn of the Art Association by the Committee of 1940. Mrs. Sproule was one of the "Dorothys" who helped to bring the "Dorothy Spitfire" undertaking to a successful issue.

Violet Graham, artist and composer, has written the music for the poem, "Canada Marching," which is being featured by the Grenadier Guards' Band on the CBM Station. A thousand copies of this song will be released shortly, the frontispiece showing an attractive picture of the Band.—The Montrealer.

THE UNITED CHURCH

A very interesting service was held in the Sunday School rooms on Sunday morning when Rev. T. A. Halpenny gave a helpful message on "Life's Law of Service," which he illustrated with a blackboard drawing and also with a branch of maple leaves.

Beginning at the lowest level, which is nature, he went up to, animal, then human, and then the highest, Christ. Above this was written—He saved others. The purpose for which service is given is the final test. If our service is for others, it is worthwhile.

A number of familiar hymns were heartily sung by all, with Mrs. Scobie at the piano.

A violin solo by Miss Donna Suffel, of Inkerman was much appreciated.

Next Sunday's service, which will also be held in the S. S. rooms, promises to be interesting.

TIPS TO GARDENERS

Tulips.

What treatment should Tulips in the garden receive?

Tulips should be taken up every three years and the clusters divided, the smaller bulbs being separated from the first grade size and kept apart.

Experiments indicate that it is best to cut the Tulips when they are in their prime of blooming, before going to seed. For this reason it is a mistake to buy choice Tulips, allow them to bloom and then go to seed. Seed production takes much food away from the leaves which are building up a good bulb for another year.

If you haven't divided your tulips, do so at once.

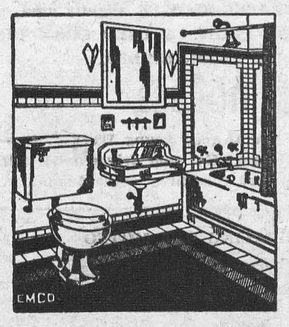
DURO WATER SYSTEMS DEALER

We have to face Changed Conditions

THIS year will be a difficult one for your friend, the Duro Dealer. He is not able to supply the demand for Duro Pumps because present stocks are limited and shortage of materials curtails production. Besides, our factory facilities have been diverted to a great extent to war production.

Your Duro Dealer may be able to supply a few Duro Pumps to those whose farm production can be increased with running water — but he will be mainly interested in servicing pumps now in use to keep them in the best possible running condition.

Remember that your Duro Pump brings water, under pressure, right into your kitchen, bathroom, laundry and barns. It saves many steps, much time and energy. Keep it in good condition by having your Duro Dealer check it over and replace worn parts. He will gladly estimate the cost of putting it into first class condition.



EMCO Quality Plumbing Fixtures are still available to meet your requirements.

Gallant Sea Officer Honored

CAPTAIN PERCY AMBROSE KELLY, Chief Officer of the Canadian National Steamship "Lady Hawkins" when that vessel was sunk by an enemy submarine on the evening of February 19, 1942, was recently honored by the Dominion Government for conspicuous gallantry shown on that occasion. The testimonial took the form of a silver tray on which the following inscription was engraved:

"Presented by the Government of Canada to Percy Ambrose Kelly, Chief Officer, R.M.S. Lady Hawkins, for meritorious conduct when the vessel was sunk without warning by an enemy submarine on the night of February 19, 1942."

The presentation took place in the Nova Scotian hotel at Halifax, Captain Kelly receiving the government's token at the hands of C. H. Hosterman, Marine Agent for the Department of Transport at Halifax, representing Hon. C. D. Howe, Acting Transport Minister.

In the photograph Captain Kelly is seen holding the silver tray, and on his immediate left is Mr. Hosterman. On Mr. Kelly's right is Captain Charles Waterhouse, Superintendent of Pilots, Halifax. In the centre background is W. G. Miller, Halifax manager, Canadian National Steamships, who represented R. B. Teakle, General Manager. Standing in the foreground next to Mr. Hosterman is Arthur Randles, Director of Merchant Seamen at Ottawa.

A message of congratulation from Mr. Teakle said: "Mr. Kelly throughout the trying period displayed the high qualities of those who go down to the sea in ships."

Captain Kelly was in charge of a lifeboat containing 76 persons which was afloat four days before being sighted by a rescue ship. The official account of the event cites that "Captain Kelly showed gallantry in staying to assist in the lowering of other boats after his own was safely away. His judgment in all things was above discussion. His leadership and friendly discipline were first-class. His seamanship was good. Not one person in the lifeboat ever criticized him. All considered him deserving of honor."

KEEP PUMPING SYSTEMS IN GOOD CONDITION

Difficult as it now is to secure new Pumping Systems and equipment for Domestic Use, the situation will gradually become worse, as more and more material is required for War Purposes and further restrictions are placed on manufacturers for home use.

It is now almost impossible to secure any water Pumping System, unless you can prove it is absolutely necessary for farm use and necessary for increased production of crops.

Manufacturers of these time and labour saving devices, recommend that owners of Pumping Systems have their pumps thoroughly checked from time to time. Owners can check their own systems. The pressure switch can be checked to make sure it is cutting in and out at correct pressure by observing the readings on the pressure gauge. A fluctuating switch means wear and tear on the contacts. A worn diaphragm will also cause trouble.

Check the oil in the crankcase as you would the oil in your automobile. Lubrication of parts makes them last longer.

Your dealer should be called in the moment any small knock or anything else appears to be wrong with it, so that any small trouble can be corrected at once. It is far better to have any part corrected or repaired, as there is real difficulty in procuring replacement parts at this time.

Manufacturers urge that the control switch and motor have a periodical examination by a competent plumber.

Even though you find your pump to be in good condition now, keep it that way by having your plumber service it regularly and watching it carefully yourself.

PARAPHRASE OF THE 23rd PSALM

Mackenzie King is my shepherd
I am in want
He maketh me abide by his fallacies
He leadeth me into troubled waters
He polluteth my soul
He leadeth the country into destruction
For his Party's sake,
Yea, though I walk in the valley of oppression,
I anticipate no recovery,
For he is with me,
His diplomacy and his policies they frighten me
He prepareth a reduction in production
In the presence of mine enemies
He anointeth my salary with taxes
My expenses runneth over
Surely a willynilly complex shall follow me
All the days of my life
And I shall live in the shadow of Quebec forever. — Contributed.

REGISTER WOMEN GROUPS 20 TO 24 ON SEPT. 14th.

Object of the forthcoming inventory of womanpower is to direct single women into essential war industries rather than to have employers build up huge staffs of married women with small children, Mrs. Rex Eaton, assistant director of National Selective Service, said in an address recently.

Addressing representatives of 21 national women's organizations at a one-day conference at Ottawa, Mrs. Eaton said the registration will start Sept. 14th with the listing of the 20 to 24-year-old groups.

"The registration will show us exactly how many single women we have available to meet increasing shortages of workers in our war industries," said Mrs. Eaton, who called the conference.

"Then we will have a pool of single workers from which to draw when an employer asks for additional staff, and single women can be supplied immediately. We shall, as far as possible, keep married women with children out of employment. We have up to now, let married women drift in because we haven't had any known reservoir of single workers."

Outlining the procedure of registration to be carried out by age groups over the next few months, Mrs. Eaton said it will be compulsory for both married and single women, but that there will be no compulsion about women taking positions. National Selective Service will be purely directive.

Women working in insurable industries this spring have already registered and will not be asked to report again, she added.

Answering questions from conference delegates as to why there was necessity of a third registration, she replied that voluntary registration and the 1940 national registration had given valuable information which had been used, but had not given the type of information which was required at the moment to meet the changing needs of Canada's war effort.

CANADIAN INDIANS VOLUNTEER FOR ARMY SERVICE

Sons and daughters of Canadian Indians are volunteering for service in the Army. At left is Private Mary Greyeyes, 21, of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, Cree Indian maiden from the Muskeg Reserve near Leask, Sask., who is receiving the blessings of Harry Ball, Cree Indian who lost a leg at Vimy Ridge in the Great War. At right are: 26 Cree Indians and an army sergeant who introduced them to the ways of army life. The Indians travelled more than 400 miles by boat from Norway House to Winnipeg where they were inducted. All were fishermen, trappers and guides in the Norway House and Cross Lake areas. They were the first Indians to join the Army as a group. One of their number, John R. Robertson, first in second row, served in the last war with the Engineers.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Drying Clothes.

Clothes dried slowly will always be whiter than those that are dried in a hurry.

Discourage Flies.

Kerosene applied to the window and door screen will discourage both flies and mosquitoes.

Perspiration Stains.

To remove perspiration stains from clothes, soak the garments in a strong salt water solution before laundering.

Painting Metal.

Before painting metal, wash the surface first with soap and water. This will make it much easier to apply the paint.

Greasing Cake Tins.

Never grease the cake tin with butter; use lard. The salt in the butter often causes the cake either to burn or stick.

Grass Stains.

Dip the portion of an article which has grass stains into molasses, and wash out in clear water. Alcohol applied to the spots will also remove them.

Olive Oil.

Be sure never to keep olive oil directly on the ice. It freezes readily and is difficult to use in salad dressings, as it is liable to cause the dressing to separate.

Peeled Peaches

Peeled peaches will discolor unless handled rapidly. Canners claim that this discoloration can be removed by blanching the fruit in boiling water for a few minutes.

Nails in Plaster.

Nails can be made to stay more firmly in plaster walls if, after driving them in; they are pulled out, wrapped with a little steel wool, and then driven in again.

A Secure Hem.

When hemming a skirt, take a double stitch every inch or so. This will make such a firm hem that if you rip a few stitches, the rip will not extend for more than an inch.

Hot Plates.

When hot plates are desired, and the summer heat is too intense to light the oven, try placing the dishes in a pan of boiling water for a few minutes before serving the meal.

Scorched Linen.

When a piece of linen is scorched while ironing, make a paste of raw starch and water immediately, cover the scorched place with this paste, and place in the sun for about two hours.

To Pit Cherries.

Cherries may be pitted by using the round top of a new wire hairpin, pressing it into the fruit at the stem and down beneath the pit, which can be lifted out with the loop without mashing the cherry.

Cooking Preserves.

When cooking preserves, place an asbestos mat directly over the burner and under the preserving vessel. The housewife can then do her other work and know that the preserves will not stick and burn.

Furniture Polish.

The finish on furniture may be renewed and small blemishes concealed by applying equal parts boiled linseed oil, turpentine, and white vinegar with a bit of wool material, and polishing with a silk cloth.

Red Ants.

Red ants can be driven away by pouring liquid corrosive sublimate on pieces of cotton and laying the cotton where the ants are likely to travel. Another effective remedy is alum dissolved in boiling water and applied with a brush.

Testing Jelly.

Jelly is done when a very little poured from a spoon forms a single large drop and breaks away quickly from the spoon. This is a more satisfactory method of testing than the common way of pouring a little jelly on a cold plate and waiting to see whether it will "jell," because during the time of waiting the jelly may overcook .

With the R.C.A.F.

By Flt. Lieut. T. C. McCall, R.C.A.F.

Sport enthusiasts from one end of Canada to the other were interested to learn that Lionel Conacher—"the Big Train" of other years—had joined the Royaal Canadian Air Force and is to take full charge of sports organization within the service. For many years Conacher was by far Canada's outstanding athlete, excelling at hockey, baseball and football, and since his retirement from active sport he has been chairman of the Ontario Athletic Commission. His organizing genius and thorough knowledge of athletics will be put to good use in the service in which physical fitness, keenness and alertness are number one requisites. He joins an ever-growing band of Canada's athletic heroes in donning Air Force blue.

Canada's Minister of National Defence for Air, Major the Honourable C. G. Power, M.C., is now a Pilot of the Polish Air Force. Recently the strikingly-designed "Wings" which adorn Poland's fliers were pinned on him in recognition of the services he has rendered Poland in the training of her airmen in this country. Also to receive the badges were Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, D.S.C., Chief of the Air Staff, Air Vice Marshal J. A. Sully, D.F.C., and Air Vice Marshal G. O. Johnson, M. C. Speaking in halting English, Group Captain Stefan Sznuk, head of the Polish Air Mission here who single-handed was responsible for the escape of the Polish Air Force to Rumania in September, 1939, observed: "Only in one instance does a Polish airman speak English distinctly and with the proper accent. It is when he speaks to the enemy, using the eloquent language of the English-made machine-guns of his fighter plane."

Grimly determined to do their share, a large contingent of Canadian airwomen—members of the R. C. A. F. Women's Division—recently landed at an R. C. A. F. station in Newfoundland. They are the first group of Canadian airwomen to move into a theatre of war overseas, and as such are proud of the "Canada" badges which they are now permitted to wear on their shoulders. Stationed at a remote continental outpost, they will replace men in a number of important ground tasks necessary to "keep 'em flying."

Flight Sergeant Harry Hamilton, of Beamsville, Ont., is pretty keen about his big Wellington bomber. Three times it has brought him back safely to his base in Great Britain with only one motor functioning. The last time it happened, the ship fought along on one motor for more than two hours after the other had been disabled by enemy action. In the same squadron is Flight Sergeant Neil Erskine, of Monkton, Ont., a navigator, who has 20 trips over enemy territory to his credit, his crew mate being Flight Sergeant B. L. Schauenburg, of Assinaboia, Sask., who, as an air gunner, has more than 30 sorties chalked up. Both fliers have been on all the big raids. Other Canadians with the squadron are: Flight Sergeant Jim Francis, Windsor, Ont.; Sgt. Allan Gibson, St. Catharines, Ont.; and Sgt. Wilf. Peacock, Everett, Sask. Francis recently made his 13th trip as a pilot with the German U-boat plant at Duisburg as the main objective. With the squadron are also Flight Sergeant George Allan, of Imperial Sask., and Flight Sergeant Bill Crimmins, of Guelph.

Pat and Bill were pushing a heavy handcart up a hill. Pat was doing his best, but Bill was doing more leaning than pushing.

Presently they stopped for a breather, and Pat mopped his face with a handkerchief.

"Some push, Pat," said Bill, as he looked down the hill.

"And some don't." replied Pat tartly.

"Decided where you'll spend the summer?"

"No. I'm going to let my wife decide this year. She used to wake me up in the middle of the night last summer to remind me that I picked the place out."

MODERN ETIQUETTE

1. When you have a tennis partner who is far less skilful than you are, shouldn't you cover more than your part of the court?
2. When a man lifts his hat to a girl, shouldn't he remove the cigarette, cigar or pipe from his mouth?
3. What is the correct position of the bread and butter plates on the breakfast or luncheon table?
4. If a girl is secretary to a business man, and while dancing in some public place she sees her employer and his wife at a table, what should she do?
5. How should a wife introduce her husband to another man?
6. Is it necessary that a telegram of congratulation received at a wedding be acknowledged?

Answers.

1. No. Allow your partner to play the balls that come to him, even if he is less skillful. It is exceedingly rude and poor sportsmanship to cut in front of him to play balls that are directed at him.
2. Yes, always.
3. At the upper lefthand sides of the plates.
4. Smile and bow to them if she catches their eye, but allow them to make any further advances.
5. "Mr. Johnson, this is my husband."
6. This does not necessitate the note of thanks required by a gift, but the first time one meets the sender of the telegram, a few words of appreciation should be expressed.

VERNON WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The August meeting of the Vernon Women's Institute was held in the Hall there on Wednesday last with Mrs. W. G. Porteous presiding, assisted by the Secretary, Mrs. Ed. Lanoue, and with Russell, Kenmore and Metcalfe branches as guests. Roll call was responded to with "What constitutes a good neighbour," and the motto for the month was very capably given by Mrs. Dan Hill. A letter of thanks for sympathy extended was read by the Secretary. The usual business was dealt with, following which a variety program by the visiting branches was enjoyed. Vocal numbers were rendered by Miss Aynslee MacEwen and Mrs. Shanks, of Russell; an appropriate paper was read by Mrs. W. J. W. Woods, and two selections by the Ladies' Quartette from Metcalfe branch; while Mrs. K. M. Dalgleish, accompanied at the piano by her grandson, Bruce McLachlan, recited two recent poems by Dorothy Dumbrielle.

Expressions of thanks were voiced by the various branches, and wartime refreshments were served.
