Nominations Held and Elections Slated For Municipal Offices

Fancy Footwork Flashed Friday As Reeve Dawley Holds Fort At Township Nominations

Winchester township nominations were held Friday in the Presbyterian Hall at Morewood. Nearly a hundred members of the township were on hand to nominate and hear the reports. Out of it all there emerged an acclamation for reeve Basil Dawley and deputy-reeve A. E. Smith. Councillors must be elected as Cecil McNabb and J. V. Fetterly qualified along with two of the old councillors, Gerald Holmes and Garfield Baker. J. Frank Casselman, a councillor last year, was nominated for both councillor and reeve but by qualification time decided to run for neither.

Jake Steen, township clerk, was chairman for the nomination meeting. He called on Basil Dawley to open the speeches, if any. Reeve Dawley immediately became the target for numerous questions and criticisms and for over an hour he was very busy.

As is usual in a township with a network of roads, many of them gravel, the loudest beef was over the condition of certain of the roads. Some taxpayers felt their sections had been neglected to the advantage of other sections and were not at all loath to present their case. The embattled reeve welcomed the chance to answer the questions and fielded the criticisms with an excellent show of good temper. Mr Dawley stated he intended to qualify again this year for reeve, any other reports to the contrary, and he felt the record of the past couple of years would stand him in good stead.

Other speakers included A. E. Smith, J. Frank Casselman, Garfield Baker, Gerald Holmes, Cecil McNabb, C. H. Smith, Jas. C. MacGregor, Ed Wheeler and J. V. Fetterly. They had all been nominated for councillor except A. E. Smith who received an acclamation as deputy reeve.

School trustees nominated were Angus Smith, Willis Robinson, Lorne Thompson and Keith Carruthers. Keith Carruthers failed to qualify and the first three named remain on the school board.

Elections will be held on Monday, December 2, and the places of polling are as follows with the name of the deputy returning officer:

Poll No. 1, Jas. Moran house, DRO, Johnson Ouderkirk; 2, Jas. Bowman house, DRO. Jas. Bowman; 3, Frank Cross house, DRO, Irwin Cross; 4, Roy Annable house, DRO, Roy Annable; 5, Mrs J. A. Cumming house, DRO, John Reoch; 6, Presbyterian Hall, DRO, Laura Moffatt; 7, S.S. No. 10, DRO, Hulbert Cross: 8, Arthur Adams house, DRO, Elburn McIntosh.

NATURE'S FIRST-AID

An example of "Nature's first-aid" was seen at Port Arthur, Ont., when a hunter brought in a bear he had killed which was found to have been shot through the body some time before.

The bullet had not struck a vital part in its passage through the body and the bear evidently had applied first-aid to itself to stop the blood gow. Each wound had been coated with spruce gum which had dried black and hard and the wounds had healed perfectly.

CANADIAN CLUB TONIGHT LAST IN OLD HALL

Morrisburg and District Canadian Club will meet Thursday, November 28, at 6.30 p.m., in the Music Hall, Morrisburg. The guest speaker will be Alex Edmison of Queen's University. Mr Edmison is a gifted and humorous speaker.

This will be the final meeting in the old Music Hall. It will soon be torn down to make way for the hydro project. Motorists this month to the club meeting will find Highway 31 open again to old No. 2; waterworks construction has moved on west of the highway.

DR DUANE JUSTUS RECEIVES FELLOWSHIP

Dr Duane Justus, son of Dr and Mrs Howard Justus, of town, has been notified he has received a fellowship into the Royal College of Surgeons of Canada. Village Voters to Make Choice Nominations Call for Election Of Council Slate Monday

Nomination night Friday evening offered few surprises. About 40 persons were on hand to hear reports and make the nominations. At the close of the meeting all the old councillors had qualified again and one new name had appeared. Chas. McMillan was in again as reeve by acclamation. The only name to appear against him on the list was councillor Carl Merkley but he withdrew his name when Mr McMillan qualified.

The list of names that will appear on the ballot Monday will be headed by Frank Arnold, truck driver; Allan Butcher, chief engineer; Carl Merkley, dairyman; Erwin Merkley, farmer, and Harold Sharkey, foreman.

Mr McMillan was handicapped by the loss of his notes, but he thanked his mover and seconder, told a humorous story and promised to do his best next year, especially on road work problems.

Carl Merkley carried the ball for both the reeve and councillors in a full report of the year's work. He outlined the work that has been done in the fire hall, the continuing road work and told of a promise that had been made to the members of council that Main Street would get the business next Spring; he said it could be started now except that it would be left in an unfinished condition for the rest of the Winter. Mr Merkley outlined the new assessment picture, and the problems of water supply.

The other councillors spoke briefly and hoped for the support of the voting public in the forthcoming election. Mr Butcher also said a word of thanks to his mover and seconder and stated he intended to let his name stand in nomination.

Elections Monday will find the polling booths in the usual places. Poll No. 1 in charge of Deputy Returning Officer Jack Doering, with Mrs Anna Marcellus as poll clerk will be in the clerk's office and will receive all voters west of Main Street, north and south. The other poll, No. 2, will be in charge of Ronald Lynch with Al Kilby as poll clerk. It will take the voters who reside east of Main Street, north and south.

Ceremony of Institution Held at Winchester For Rev Robert Strachan

St. Matthias Church, Winchester, had a large congregation Wednesday evening last for the Institution of the new rector, Rev Robert Strachan, by the Bishop of Ottawa, the Right Rev Ernest S. Reed. The choir of Holy Trinity Church, Chesterville, with Mrs Hosea Droppo as organist and choir leader, had charge of the music.

Rev Ralph W. Smith, Iroquois, conducted Evening Prayer, and the sermon was preached by the Rev Canon Howard Sadler, rector of St. John's Church, Smiths Falls.

At the ceremony of Institution the Rev L. J. F. Macmorine, Rural Dean of Stormont, acted as Bishop's Chaplain and read the Licence which was represented to the Rector by the Bishop. Taking part also were the church wardens representing the parish which includes St. Peter's, South Mountain—Fred Gibbons, Charles Acres, Harold Marriner, Hosea Droppo and Cecil Canning.

Following the service there was a reception at the Rectory on Victoria Street, where guests were welcomed by Rev and Mrs Strachan. The Guild presidents, Mrs Charles Acres, Mrs Edna Droppo and Mrs Arthur Marriner, were in charge of refreshments. Ladies pouring tea were Mrs Fred Gibbons and Mrs Charles Acres, Winchester; Mrs Hosea Droppo and Mrs Harold Marriner, Chesterville, and Mrs Byron Ostrom and Miss Marjorie Black, South Mountain.

The Bishop spoke a word of greeting during the social hour which closed with a group singing "Bless This House."

OPINIONS . . .
Ours and Others

Buy at Home

Every year at about this season we take a little time to point out the need to do as much as possible of our Christmas shopping here at home. It might seem rather superfluous to carry the torch for that idea for so long, but the matter is too important to be forgotten.

Merchants in our town have to keep their shelves and bins supplied with the goods that are in daily demand. They have to order every day items that are asked for, and the public usually can wait until the scare or out-of-stock material is replaced; ordinarily, that is, until about Christmas time. Then it is that the urgency for Johnny's skates cannot wait until the next shipment comes to the store; a fast trip is made to the big town and the skates are purchased and several other things at the same time.

It is to be hoped that the buying public will patronize the local stores during this coming Christmas season. All year we have been faithfully served by our merchants; surely we can depend on them to supply us with the majority of our holiday needs. Price-wise we will save money; quality-wise it is only a question of the sense of touch and feel, something that is difficult to do with a picture in a catalogue.

This Christmas season, shop at home and be better satisfied.

Election Coming Up

Unhappily we were almost right in our prognostications last week; we muttered rather sullenly there would only be a handful at the nomination meeting and that things would be cut and dried. The handful was on hand, mute and at the back of the hall, the reeve, Mr McMillan, was returned by acclamation but an extra name appeared in nomination for councillor, so we will have an election on Monday, December 2.

The newcomer to the lists is well known in these parts. He is Allan "Al" Butcher, chief engineer at the Nestlé plant. Al is a cheerful, well-liked member of the community and we wish him well in his venture into the municipal duckpond. Regulars for the past couple of years around the council table will fill the ballot. They are Frank Arnold, Erwin Merkley, Carl Merkley and Harold Sharkey. Four councillors are needed to fill the bill, so in the words of a so-called song: "Somepin's Gotta Give."

The voting public here will have the chance to use their municipal right to vote the first in quite a long time next Monday. It is to be hoped the turnout will prove worth the effort. Nearly 700 persons are entitled to make their marks on the black bordered papers to elect four councillors for next year. Present members of council are all in office by acclamation and it will be interesting to see what the voters say when they finally have to decide between the various candidates.

A Contrast

Winchester township has returned the reeve and deputy-reeve by acclamation; there will be an election for councillors with Cecil McNabb and J. V. Fetterly running along with two of the present councillors, Garfield Baker and Gerald Holmes. J. Frank Casselman, councillor last year, was nominated for the reeveship and councillor but declined to run for either by the time Saturday night qualification time had closed.

We sat through the meeting and felt considerable envy. Envy is perhaps a strange word to use, but the give and take of questions and answers at the township meeting made two hours pass like magic. The reeve, Basil Dawley, had the critics hot on his neck, but he proved more than equal to most of the questions, and didn't even get a red neck from the heat. The matter of pit-run gravel did cause some comment, and the sample of the gravel on hand led to the reeve's remark that it seemed a little coarse. The stones in question were larger than good sized pumpkins.

Chesterville voters are not quite so outspoken as some of the township counterparts. Monday night a couple of questions were asked, and after a bit calm settled again and in half an hour it was all over and everybody went to the union bingo. It was evident that most of those present were eiher well satisfied or didn't give a tinker's dam whether the ship swam or sank.

We do know, though, the assessor had to run for the woods when the new assessments came out. Next year, it might be a good idea to either bring in the new mill rate or the new assessments at nomination meeting. That might get some interest going in our million and a quarter dollar business that is called the municipality of the village of Chesterville.

SHE MAKES CAREER HUNTING BIG GAME

Officially recognized by the British Columbia provincial game department as a predator hunter, Mrs Ada Arnold, of Boat Basin on the west coast of Vancouver Island, has shot 62 cougars and more than 80 bears in 40 years.

She is about 65 years old, and her right arm is partly paralyzed but she is an expert shot. As the cougar trouble-shooter for her area, she gets double the bounty for a kill. In 1955 she killed 10 cougars and earned $400.

Mrs Arnold arrived with her husband in 1915, and they worked to clear 118 acres of virgin land. When her husband became ill, she cleared the land with mattock and axe.

They built a log cabin, brought in goats, rabbits and chickens, and began to cultivate land to grow stock.

Mrs Arnold, over the years, was married three times. She had eight children. Her last husband, Essau Arnold, died last year and now she works the land alone.

Her sons and daughters live elsewhere.

"I love to meet a cougar if I have a gun," she said. "But if they would leave my goats alone, I would leave them alone."

The last cougar she shot had killed nine of her goats.

A fellow who had a few too many was driving the wrong way, against the traffic, on a one-way street.

"Where do you think you're going?" growled the cop.

"I dunno," answered the fellow, "but I must be late. Everybody's coming back!"

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

I am sure you have all heard about going around the world in eighty days. Well, I did it Saturday afternoon in two hours and stopped in every continent except Australia.

It's quite a while now since a friend said, "You ought to see Cinerama, Lillian. It's wonderful!" But somehow Cinerama and I just didn't get together. Not until my aunt and uncle in Leamington said they would take me to Detroit to see the "Seven Wonders of the World," if I would like to go. I didn't need much coaxing.

Now I wasn't just sure what to expect to see in this new-type motion picture show. I'd read that the pictures were taken with several cameras to give width, that the screen was curved for depth, that a lot of loud speakers changed the sound but the idea I had conceived was slightly cloudy.

I knew Cinerama was very different, though. "You'd swear you were right there at the scene," someone had told me. "I screamed once," a lady had said, "for I was sure I was on the roller coaster." "Once I looked back to see if the choir wasn't really behind me," I had been told. So I knew I was about to see something spectacular. And I wasn't disappointed, except at the first.

Almost the entire front of the huge theatre was hidden by gorgeous wine-coloured drapes that hung from a track that curved in. We sat in soft chairs and waited expectantly to see what was concealed behind them. Suddenly the music began and the curtains parted to reveal a large square screen. A man who seemed about the size of a man and a half stood in a plush office and introduced himself as Lowell Thomas. He talked a lot about Cinerama and about the ancient Greeks' idea of the seven wonders of the then-known world. He showed us pictures of them as artists imagine them. And I thought: Now what's so wonderful about that? That isn't any better than the shows we used to see in Chesterville on the wide screen.

Then Mr Thomas explained hay he'd set out to find the wonders of the present world and to show them to us in Cinerama. "And now we're off," he said with a sweep of his hand. With that there was a loud crash of music, the wine curtains zipped back revealing what I'd guess to be a forty-foot curved screen and New York City as big as life.

We were going up the East River by plane, Lowell Thomas told us. And we certainly were. There on the right were the giant skyscrapers of the Manhattan skyline with more city on the left connected to it by a huge suspension bridge. The bridge got closer and closer and bigger and bigger. Suddenly there was a roar of the plane motors and we realized our plane had gone under the bridge, And you couldn't believe how real it seemed—unless I told you that I ducked my head.

On we went to Rio de Janeiro —one of the world's most fabulous cities. I felt I was right there in that plane looking in three directions as far as my eyes could see. Then a quick jump and we were in Japan where lovely geisha girls entertained us with the most colourful of dances. We crossed to India and saw the huge elephants, the Taj Mahal, street scenes and a wedding parade (with the bride left at home.)

We dashed on to Africa to the jungle, the big animals in their natural habitat, the desert, the world's largest waterfall—Victoria Falls. And all the time Lowell Thomas with his very powerful and pleasing voice was describing for us the scenes we were seeing and explaining the customs of the people.

Our flight took us to the camel caravans and the oil wells of the Arabian sands which pay King Saud a million dollars a day. We went through the Holy Land and saw Bethlehem, Jerusalem, Nazareth, the Jordan, as the land itself was unrolled for us. Greece, Naples, Rome were on our sched-

United Co-Operatives Buy Perth Creamery

Purchase by United Co-Operatives of Ontario of the Land-O-Lanark Creamery in Perth, Ont., with a rated annual capacity of 1,000,000 pounds of butter, was announced last week by Mr Art Musgrave, president of U.C.O.

Purchase of the Perth creamery brings U.C.O.'s annual butter production in Eastern Ontario up to 2½ million pounds annually. This is approximately 20 per cent of the total butter production in Eastern Ontario and makes United Co-Operatives the largest single producer of butter in the area. In all of Ontario, United Co-Operatives produces approximately 25 per cent of the province's annual butter production.

United Co-Operatives present Eastern Ontario milk and creamery operations are at Renfrew, Cobden and Arnprior. These three plants along with the newly purchased Perth plant will be placed under the management of Mr Jack Finnegan, former owner of the Perth plant. When arrangements are completed it is planned that Mr Finnegan will manage U.C.O.'s our eastern creamery branches from Perth.

The Advisory Board of Directors, which now assists United Co-Operatives in its management of the combined operations at Renfrew, Cobden and Arnprior will be enlarged to include representatives of producers in the Perth area, Mr Musgrave said.

Traffic cop (stopping motorist): "Mister, your wife fell out of the car three blocks back."

Motorist: "Thank heavens, I thought I'd gone stone deaf."

BRIEF ENCOUNTER

Dick Costello, 36, of Scarboro, a suburb of Toronto, caught a fox in a sack recently but couldn't keep it.

Costello said he chased a fox into a culvert, lit a fire on one end and waited at the other with the sack. When the fox came out, Costello grabbed it by the neck. The fox opened his mouth and growled. Costello ran one way and the fox the other.

To the Electors of Winchester Township

I have been persuaded to let my name stand for the election on December 2 as a Councillor for Winchester Township. I wish to take this opportunity to solicit your support and will assure you of my best and earnest efforts if elected.

Cecil McNabb.

To the Electors of Chesterville

Having served on your council for the past two years, I have decided to let my name stand on the ballot as Councillor for the year 1958.

Your support is solicited and if I am elected I will serve you to the best of my ability as I have tried to do in the past.

If you wish transportation to the polls, just call 897.

Carl G. Merkley.

To the Electors of Chesterville

Having served the electors of Chesterville for the past three years, I feel I can be of service to the town again. My name will appear on the ballot as councillor for 1958 and I earnestly solicit your support. If elected I will do all in my ability to serve your best interests.

Harold Sharkey.

More than a million customers now bank with the BNS. They deposit their money for a host of reasons—to meet business and household needs . . . as a retirement fund for the future . . . or to finance a college education. Our customers place these funds for safety and convenience in current and savings accounts, personal chequing accounts, and such special accounts as the Bank's unique PSP.

$19,780,600 Letters of credit.
This is the extent to which the Bank has guaranteed the credit of our customers buying from suppliers, particularly those in foreign lands. Business at home is thus encouraged to expand abroad . . . another way the Bank serves as a partner in Canada's progress.

$4,964,680 Other liabilities.
This represents money set aside to cover expenses which must be met but are not yet due . . . such as our 1957 Income Tax.

WHAT THE SHAREHOLDERS CONTRIBUTE

$70,004,090 Capital paid up, rest account and undivided profits.
The shareholders—the real owners of the Bank—contribute these funds which protect the interests of the customers. They thus ensure the strength and stability of the BNS, and help make possible the Bank's increasing role in a growing Canada.

This is like cash in the Bank's till to service the cheques which BNS customers draw on their accounts.

$318,852,943 Investments.
This amount (mostly Canadian Government Bonds) helps finance varied Government activities such as the St. Lawrence Seaway; the National Harbours Board; Wheat Board payments; our National Defence needs. Other investment funds go into the building of schools, highways, new plants and equipment—to make available for us all more of the good things in life.

$141,498,363 Call loans, secured.
This money, lent to investment houses, is subject to immediate recall if required.

$659,702,434 Other loans, less provision for estimated loss.
Our customers in Canada and abroad borrowed this amount for all kinds of personal and business purposes. These loans help finance the purchase of materials and the sale and distribution of goods . . . from the cutting of trees in the forest to the sale of refrigerators . . . from starting a business to improving a farm or home. Loans of this kind are the lifeblood of Canada's growth—the Bank's most important service to the community.

$19,780,600 Customers' liability under letters of credit.
This is the amount customers are pledged to repay the Bank for funds it may pay out under "Letters of Credit" (see this heading under "Liabilities").

$21,980,814 Bank premises and other assets.
Most of this sum goes into a continuous programme of improving our branch facilities so that customers can do their banking more pleasantly and easily.

Tender First Vessel Through Iroquois Lock
Transport Minister Hees Pulls Control Switch

The 155-foot Government tender Grenville looked extremely small, like a toy vessel in a bathtub, as she became the first ship to pass through the 768-foot Iroquois Lock of the St. Lawrence Seaway near Iroquois last week.

Capt. Oscar Morphet, of Prescott, skipper of the buoy tender, summed it up this way "This is just a nutshell. Wait'll they get the big 700-footers in here. Then it'll be a tight fit."

Marking another step in man's $900,000,000-plus battle to create a water highway for ocean monsters into the heart of North America and harness the electrical horsepower might of the now-dry Long Sault Rapids. Transport Minister Hees formally tested and approved the $16,000,000 lock, most westerly of seven linking the Atlantic to the lakehead.

The minister flicked an electric switch in a partially-completed concrete control house—still without glass windows—to lift an access bridge leading across the 80-foot wide lock to what is left of Iroquois Point. The Grenville then steamed between the 30-foot deep concrete walls of the lock chamber and tied up.

Mr Hees, who had alighted from a helicopter minutes earlier a hundred yards from the giant lock, after flying from Ottawa, pushed a second button to close the steel lock gates.

Gates at the opposite end slowly opened. The Transport Minister and his party boarded the Grenville and waited 10 minutes while 20,000,000 gallons of cold, green St. Lawrence River water roared into the lock to raise the vessel six feet up to the level of the river at the westerly end.

"It's great—and it's cold," declared Mr Hees rubbing his gloved hands to warm up. The Grenville with the official party—including Seaway Authority President Chas. Gavsie, G. W. West, member, and Transport Department secretary F. T. Collins—was locked through a second time after sailing five miles upriver to Cardinal and returning.

Preliminary testing of the intricate machinery which operates the lock, first navigation structure to be completed in the 135-mile system of seven locks and canals between Montreal and Prescott, has been going on for weeks. Last mass concrete was poured August 28 to complete the chamber and its 3,200-foot upper and 1,700-foot lower approach. Construction was begun early in 1955.

The seaway gate to the 35-mile-long power pool, to be flooded next July to provide partial electrical production at the Barnhart Island power dam at Cornwall, the lock will carry ships around the nearby Iroquois Control Dam.

The new lock, with the American-built Eisenhower and Robinson Bay Locks 30 miles downstream near Cornwall, will be used next Summer by 14-foot-draught river freighters navigating the north shore canal system.

The 27-foot seaway, a dream of Canadian and American engineers for at least 50 years, will be open for ocean-type navigation in the Spring of 1959.

Queen Elizabeth is to open the completed project during her planned 1959 visit to Canada.

BNS Total Assets Reach New Record

The annual statement of The Bank of Nova Scotia for the year ended October 31 shows that, largely as a result of an upsurge in deposits, total assets reached a new record of $1,355,000,000. The increase in assets of $85,219,000 was the second largest in the bank's 125-year history, being exceeded only in 1955.

Last year the savings of BNS customers rose by more than $83 million, as total BNS deposits climbed to a new high of $1,260,-600,000. The increase the previous year was $56 million.

Personal savings during the year rose by $21 million. Another $14 million was transferred from "personal savings" to "other deposits," following a change made in the official classifications of deposits in this category. On the basis of last year's classification, therefore, personal savings actually rose by $35 million, a gain of slightly more than 6 per cent. The increase last year, on the same basis, was 4.3 per cent.

The remainder of the Bank's increase in deposits was mostly in currencies other than Canadian.

Loans rose by $73 million, representing mainly the employment of the foreign currencies abroad.

Shareholders increased their investment during the year from $68 million to $70 million, reflecting in part the completion of the purchase of 300,000 shares of new stock offered by the bank on May 31, 1956.

After providing $1,763,000 for depreciation on bank premises, and $4,325,000 for taxes, there was a net profit of $4,744,000.

Dividends to shareholders, including an extra distribution of 10 cents declared for the quarter ended October 31, amounted to $3,772,-000, or $2.10 a share. The amount of $972,000 added to undivided profits brought the balance in this account at the year-end to $1,604,-000.

WELCOME SIGN

Where else but in a town named Hope would a game-seeker find a sign saying: "Welcome cold, tired hunters. Sandwiches, doughnuts, hot coffee served anytime. Chairs to sit on.One-eighth mile straight ahead."

Mr and Mrs Arthur Harriman explained they like company and take a dim view of other, more frequent, signs in the area which read "No hunting, no trespassing."

FROGMAN'S SUB

A man-carrying "submarine" for frogmen who prefer to ride rather than swim beneath the surface is being built by Derek Rigby at Victoria.

A sheet-metal worker by trade and skin-diver by preference, Mr Rigby spends much of his time under water.

About four feet long and 12 inches thick, the sub is powered by a rewired generator from an old car, run off a 12-volt battery.

It carries the rider pick-a-back at between one and two knots an hour. It is steered by altering the position of the rider's feet and a switch stops the motor if the rider falls off or leaves the sub.

First application for patent was rejected due to slight similarities with other existing patents, but Rigby now is building an entirely new body and shell which he hopes will give more speed.

The torpedo-like sub is highly manoeuvrable. It can loop the loop, roll, dive and climb.

CAN AFFORD COOK BOOK

Mrs Eileen Childs, of London, was awarded £4,700 damages after testifying her injuries in a road accident made her forget how to cook, including her husband's favourite steak and kidney pie.

The husband got an additional £750 compensation.

Manitoba's honey production in 1956 was valued at $896,000.

Iroquois Seaway Lock Tested Very Carefully Multitude of Intricate Parts Must Be Checked

The first St. Lawrence Seaway lock to be opened is a multitude of intricate parts, each one carefully checked to ensure the safety of the valuable and desired shipping which will pass through.

Testing the machinery that will operate Iroquois lock, first navigation structure to be completed on the St. Lawrence Seaway, was one of the most carefully performed operations of the entire building program.

Senior authority engineers, under the direction of C. W. West, A. G. Murphy, chief engineer, and S. Hairsine, mechanical-electrical electrical engineer, all of the Authority, and the professional staff of the various contractors involved, worked night and day at this phase on the job to ensure testing was completed before the snow arrived.

The structure has a 1,200-foot long chamber and a 3,200-foot upper approach wall and 1,700-foot lower or downstream approach wall.

As well as the eight 47-foot-high gate leaves of the two double sets of sector gates, an access bridge was constructed over the lower end of the lock, and gate fenders are rigged to protect the gates against a ship which might go out of control.

A set of 10 stop-logs at each end of the lock keep out the St. Lawrence waters which lap at each end of the chamber.

The Iroquois lock will provide access for ships between that part of the Seaway channel which is being dredged from Lake Ontario down through the Thousand Island and the waters of "Seaway Lake," or power pool downstream. This pool is being created by the Iroquois control dam, nearby, and the Long Sault control dam and the Cornwall Barnhart Island powerhouse, some 35 miles downstream.

From the time the Galop Canal is flooded and during the navigation season of 1958 shipping was scheduled to use the Iroquois Lock. However, because certain shoals have not yet been dredged, it appears shipping will not be able to use the lock until midway in the 1958 navigation season.

The St. Lawrence Seaway, with a depth of 27 feet for its entire length, from Montreal to Lake Erie, will not be officially open until the spring of 1959. At that time all seven locks along its route will swing into action and accept shipping of up to 24 feet in depth.

Due to the control of the St. Lawrence above and below Iroquois lock, the lock will operate at a head of from six feet to around one foot. This latter figure will be achieved gradually over a period of several years.

Water level in the power pool will be initially 238 feet above sea level, while that in the river upstream from Iroquois lock and dam will be from 244 to 248 feet above sea level.

For the first two months of next season, however, the sector gates haxe been designed for and will probably operate against a head of 22 feet of water—believed to be the highest head of free flowing water against which sector gates operate anywhere on the North American continent.

Unplugged, some 20,000,000 gallons of water flow quietly in the giant lock's chamber.

Figures, often very involved, are interesting to show the miles and quantity of material used. In the base of the 47-foot-high concrete wall, over a quarter of a mile of cable gallery runs the length of each side of the lock chamber.

Here, like immense boa-constrictors, black-coated electrical cables weighing nine pounds to the foot, lie in steel racks along the concrete tunnel walls.

Some 60 horsepower of electricity from conventional means will operate the lock. An alternate arrangement in two blue-black Buda eight-cylinder diesels stand ready, 24 hours a day, to generate the required amount of power, should they be required.

At each end of the lock's south side stand two control houses, equipped with panels for the electrical power required in operation. An administration office stands midway between the houses.

Below is installed the operating machinery in concrete machinery rooms, protected from the weather, and with heating apparatus to keep the atmosphere at the proper degree of dryness for the best operating condition.

Each intricate piece of machinery has been tested to the last degree. It must be. Costly shipping, cargoes of inestimable value and the safety of crews are at stake.

STORE POTATOES UNDER PROPER CONDITIONS

Potatoes retain more food value when they are stored under proper conditions. Also the flavour and cooking quality will be maintained for a longer time.

Store potatoes in a cool, dark place with high humidity. The best storage temperature is 38 degrees to 40 degrees F. Higher temperatures cause shriveling if the air is dry, and sprouting if the air is humid. Lower temperatures cause a sweet flavour and less favourable cooking quality. Both daylight and electrict light will eventually turn stored potatoes green and bitter.

An unheated basement or a small room insulated from the heated portion of a basement offers the best storage conditions for potatoes in many homes. Regulate the storage temperature, when necessary, by ventilating with cool outair. Sprinkle water on the floor for humidity. Store the potatoes in crates or small bins raised slightly from the floor to permit air circulation.

Cub reporter: "What should I say about the two peroxide blondes who raised such a fuss at the ball game last night?"

Editor: "Why, just say, 'the bleachers were wild'."

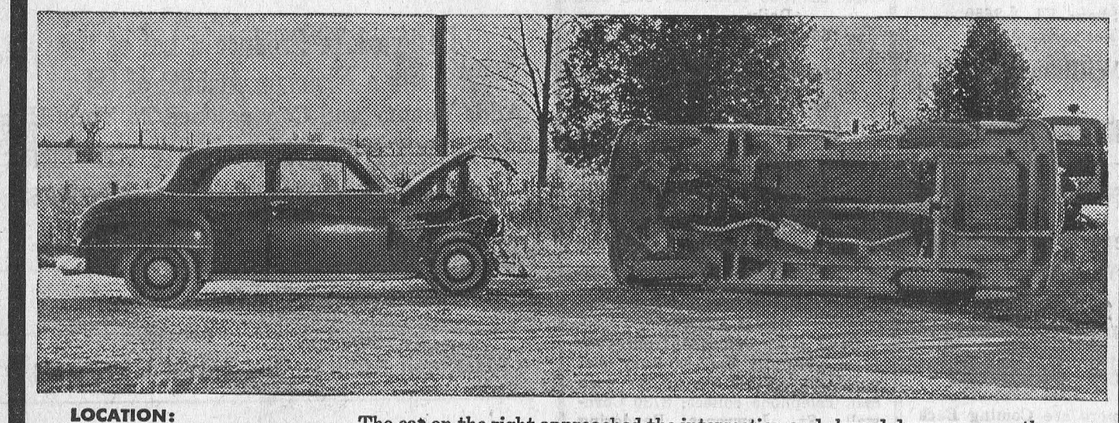
INDECISION

. . . caused this fatal accident



LOCATION: Rural intersection, nr. Orillia

TIME: 4:15 p.m.

ROAD SURFACE: Gravel. Dry

RESULT: One killed. One slightly injured

The car on the right approached the intersection and slowed down, apparently to wait until the other car had passed. But, suddenly, the driver changed her mind and began to accelerate . . . no doubt thinking she had time to cross the intersection. The other driver braked immediately, but couldn't stop in time. His car slammed into the other broadside. The indecisive driver died in hospital. Indecision has been the cause of many serious and fatal accidents. Remember this every time you drive.

Tribute to a Schoolmate

A tribute to the late Annie MacMillan, of Finch, Ontario.

"The light of the whole world dies when" death crowds in, but the loss to those of us who knew and who loved Annie have memories to enrich our reflections.

The opening lines of Wordsworth's "To a Highland Girl" might well have been written about our old schoolmate, sister of the late Doctor John MacMillan of whom Finch, Stormont, Ontario and the Dominion of Canada can recall with just pride and reverence for his surgical skill.

And Annie was proud of little John. In recent years in our old age we often talked of the 1890's when we attended the little red schoolhouse and were enrichel in mind under the teaching of Annie's older brother, George. It seems but yesterday that we stood in line before him in recitation of choice lines of poetry. Even today —the day Annie left us—I seem to hear him read:

"Can storied urn, or animated bust,
Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
Can Honor's voice provoke the silent dust,
Or Flattery soothe the dull cold ear of Death?"

—Gray (1716-1771), Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard.

Annie was just fourteen when we studied "To a Highland Girl."

Thinking of Annie as she was then, words at my command would be a poor substitute for the picture the poet painted somewhere between 1770 and 1850. Could it be he had a vision and he wrote about pretty Annie cofing into full bloom in the 90's:

"Sweet Highland girl, a very shower
Of beauty is thy earthly dower!
Twice seven consenting years have shed
Their utmost bounty on thy head."

Before many years passed Annie left the little red schoolhouse and her home down on the hill for Cornwall High School. That institution equipped her for competition in the business and professional world. Eventually she became a part of a clinic associated with the medical profession.

Years passed there in useful service. All too soon her work was interrupted. Her only sister became ill. Annie returned to the home on the hill. The years passed. Bella died. Only brother Donald and Annie remained in the pioneer home. More years passed and Donald passed on suddenly. Doctor John urged her to come to his home in Montreal. After his death George pleaded with her not to stay alone in the old home but to come to him in Alberta but she clung to the place and its memories. The love-memories that some people say may have hastened her sudden death as she, in the frailty that eighty years can claim, watched over the shrine that she and her illustreous family had created.

She is buried in the family plot in the MacMillan Cemetery—the first burial place in the Township of Finch.

Annie had an uplifting influence in the community. One incident of her youth I recall: The members of our Sunday School class were promised a prize, by the late F. D. MacNaughton, for memorizing the Shorter Catechism. Annie was one who won.

In recent years her Church was obviously, perhaps, her greatest interest as evidenced by the support she gave it. She was one of the largest contributors.

—A Schoolmate of the 90's, Kate MacKinnon (Mrs W. J. Sutherland).

ule and in Rome a spectacular view of Pope Pius as he blessed the throngs in St. Peter's Square.

Then it was back to New York, Niagara Falls and some of the wonders of the U.S.A. And I had almost to move over as the blue-blooded American lady beside me began to swell with pride at the sight of scenes from her own land.

Throughout were laughs and thrills I can't explain here. An Italian chap with his wife and child raced through the streets of Rome on a motorcycle with a side-car, always arriving a little late to see the Pope. There was a toy-sized train climbing the steep hills of India. When the crew and passengers had to get off to shoo an elephant off the rails the train began to back down the mountain. I was a little dizzy when it reached the bottom and the crowd was almost wild with excitement.

I only wish each one of you could see this Cinerama picture for yourself. The colours, the photography and the music were superb. "Choose your own favourite wonders," Lowell Thomas advised at the end. But that would be impossible. The world I saw in those two hours is simply jammed with wonders. And Cinerama itself is not one of the least of them.

FIREPROOFING FABRICS

A new fabric went through fire unburned in London, England, the other day.

Demonstrators deliberately put matches to nightdresses and children's party frocks. At the same time a lighted taper was held continuously against the new material, which suffered nothing more than a mere singe.

The treatment, called proban, is the latest development in the textile industry. It gives a permanent finish and makes garments flame and smoulder proof.

Firms using proban claim it is proving valuable, too, in protecting industrial workers exposed to fire hazards. If it's all that it's said to be, it should prove an excellent preventive against accidents in the home.

WINTER SALADS

THIS IS THE TIME OF YEAR when it seems most difficult to have variety in salads. It really shouldn't be too difficult though, when you stop to consider all the foods available for salad making, such as oranges, bananas, grapefruit, fresh pears, apples, celery, lettuce, cabbages, radishes, green peppers and so on just to mention some I have noticed recently in our grocery stores. Also you might try some new combinations of fruits and vegetables in moulded salads.

Ever Popular Waldorf Salad

2 cups diced unpared apples
1 cup celery slices
¼ cup broken walnuts
¼ cup diced loaf type cheese
Mayonnaise to moisten
Lettuce

Mix first four ingredients together lightly. Moisten liberally with your favourite mayonnaise or salad dressing. Pile in a salad bowl lined with lettuce.

Banana, Orange and Nut Salad

Make individual salads as follows:

On a lettuce cup place three overlapping slices of orange. On the orange slices place one half banana which has been cut in three pieces which have been rolled in mayonnaise and then in finely chopped walnuts. Top with a sprinkling of chopped maraschino cherries.

Cream Cheese and Pear Salad

Use fresh or canned pears for this salad.

Milk
Pear halves
Cream cheese
Lettuce
Red food colouring
French dressing or mayonnaise

Blend a small amount of milk into the cream cheese to soften. For each portion put two pear halves together with a filling of cream cheese. Rub a very small amount of red colouring on outside of pear. Place on crisp lettuce and garnish with parsley or water cress. Serve with French dressing or mayonnaise.

Moulded Beet Salad

A colourful salad for dull November days.

1 pkg. lemon-flavoured gelatine
1 cup hot water
¼ cup cold water
¼ cup orange juice
½ cup mayonnaise
Salt and pepper
1 cup diced cooked beets
½ cup diced celery
1 tbsp. finely chopped onion
Lettuce
½ cup shredded cabbage

Dissolve lemon gelatine in hot water. Add cold water, orange juice and mayonnaise, salt and pepper to taste. Blend with a rotary beater. Pour into refrigerator freezing tray. Chill in freezing unit 15 or 20 minutes, or till firm around edge and soft in centre. Turn mixture into bowl and beat until fluffy. Fold in vegetables and pour into one-quart mould or individual mould. Chill until firm and then unmould on crisp lettuce. Serve with extra mayonnaise if desired.

First public showing of Thomas Edison's "kinetoscope" at New York was in 1894.

Papyrus paper was invented about 4,000 years ago, replacing the heavy clay tablets then in use.

IN MEMORIAM

MUNRO—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs Calvin S. Munro, who passed away December 2, 1956.

There are some who miss you sadly, Mother,
And find the time long since you went;
There are some who think of you always
And try to be brave and content.
Dear Mother you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still memories linger with us
As always they were before.
Sometimes its hard to understand
Why some things have to be
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.
He gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it cost to lose you
No one will ever know.

Sadly missed by husband Calvin and family.

IN MEMORIAM

LISCUMB—In loving memory of a dear son, John Dayton (Doc) Liscumb, who passed away November 25, 1949.

Eight years have passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away;
God took him home, it was His will,
Within our hearts he liveth still.

Never a day goes by I do not think of you, dear Son.

Mother.
