SERVICE, to Us IMPLIES MUCH

Among the things that characterize our service are personal attention to every detail of the funeral arrangement, and little acts of thoughtfulness that serve to lessen the trying strain of the hours before and during the funeral. Quiet efficiency and smoothness are the result. That, we believe, is the kind of service that wins approval.

HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

PROPOSITION TO ENLARGE RIDEAU GROUP HOCKEY

At a meeting of the Rideau Group hockeyists called for to-night in Finch the proposition will come up of enlarging the league to a seven club circuit with the addition of Cornwall, Brockville and Russell to the Finch, Chesterville, Perth, Smiths Falls group of last year, each club playing home-and-home games, giving six home games during the season for each club. This looks like the best proposition in the interests of Eastern Ontario hockey to come forth in some time. There is too much of a sameness to a double schedule being played out in a four club group.

Chinaman Killed Bride On Their Honeymoon

Chinese when abroad are a law-abiding people, whatever may be their habits at home. Except for their national passion for gambling and sometimes an addiction to drugs, they give the police little trouble. It is therefore all the more remarkable when one of them is convicted in an English court of murdering his wife. Unless the Court of Criminal Appeal grants him a new trial or the Home Secretary intervenes Chung Wi Miao stands but a short distance from the scaffold. He has been convicted of murdering his wife, Wai Cheung Miao at the side of a country road in the pisturesque Cumberland Lake country. The condemned man is twenty-seven years old, a doctor of laws of Chicago University, and known to be in receipt of a weekly allowance of $200 from his father in China. The dead woman was highly cultured and shortly before her marriage took a teacher's course in New York. She was an heiress, being the possessor of not less than $100,000 from her father's estate, in addition to several thousand dollars' worth of jewels which she carried with her. Both husband and wife were plentifully supplied with money when the crime was committed.

Educated and Wealthy.

Miao has spent several years in the United States acquiring an education, and he met his wife when as Miss Wai Cheung Siu she, too, was a student. Her father had made a fortune in precious stones and lived at Macao, a Portugese island near Hong Kong. At the Wembley Exhibition he was one of the three Chinese Commissioners, and the daughter was in charge of his exhibit. It was while the exhibit was being given that the father died and Wai Cheung, as the eldest daughter, was appointed trustee of the fortune. By this time she had become a Christian, and she returned to the United States to qualify as a teacher. She and the young Chinaman seemed to exert an instant fascination for each other, and after a short courtship they were married on May 12. A month later they arrived in Glasgow from Montreal to spend their honeymoon in England, which the groom had never visited. On June 18 they were quartered at the Barrowdale hotel at Grange, not very far from Keswick.

Wife Found Strangled.

On the fatal day they left the hotel together and strolled about the lovely country taking photographs. At 2.30 they were seen by witnesses near a memorial fountain. At four o'clock Miao was seen walking alone, and at five o'clock he returned to the hotel and had tea. He explained that his wife had continued her walk to Keswick, where she desired to purchase some warmer undergarments for herself and some medicine for him. Later in the evening, his wife not having returned, he retired to bed, only to be aroused at 11 o'clock by the police, who told him that his wife's body had been found at 7.45 in a footpath near a fissure of rocks between the edge of the river Derwent and the highway. Jewels she was known to have worn were missing. Round her neck were several pieces of cord, and an autopsy proved that she had been strangled. Her clothing was torn, suggesting, as the defense argued, that an assault had taken place. Miao seemed terribly upset when the police proceeded to examine his effects. They found keys to his wife's jewel case in the man's clothing, and an examination of the spools upon which the camera films turned revealed the missing diamond rings.

Denied His Guilt.

Miao was arrested but strenuously denied his guilt. His last words to the judge who sentenced him proclaimed his innocence. The theory of the defence was that Mrs. Miao had been robbed, murdered and assaulted by two mysterious foreigners who had followed the pair. Witnesses were called who testified to seeing two mysterious fellows, either Chinese or Japanese, in the neighborhood on the afternoon of the murder. A railroad porter said that he had seen them on a train bound for Carlisle two days afterward. But the jury seemed to pay little attention to this evidence, though we cannot imagine that Japanese and Chinese were very common in the neighborhood. The great defect in the prosecution was its inability to suggest a motive. Judge Humphreys pointed out that many great crimes had been proved in which the motive remained in complete obscurity. He also said that Miao who entered the witness box in his own behalf, was a very clever man.

Promptly Convicted.

His charge was strongly against the prisoner, for once the possibility of the two foreigners being implicated was removed there seemed to be nobody but the prisoner to commit the crime. He was the last person seen with his wife. While her clothing was torn and disarranged, her body was unmarked, so the suggestion was that the murderer had arranged matters so that an assault might seem probable. The fact that there was no trace of blood on the man or his camera or clothes was not important when medical testimony was to the effect that there would be little bloodshed in strangulation. Nor was any cord of the kind used in the murder found in his room though several pieces were found in the hotel and might easily have been taken. Many juries might have hesitated to convict on the evidence, but not this jury, which was recommended by the judge for a proper verdict.

WHAT A BOY MAY READ

The editor of a Kansas City newspaper was besought by an anxious mother for advice as to how to stop her 12-year-old son from reading everything he could lay his hands upon. The editor's wise counsel was, "Do nothing."

In these days when the movies lure boys and girls away from the reading of books, a mother ought to give thanks that her boy wants to read and will read practically everything he can find.

The rising generation knows little enough, as it is, of good books. The movies sometimes offer what pass for transcriptions of literary masterpieces. These sketchy screen stories are usually twisted out of all resemblance to the original. But, told in an hour, they make the slow perusal of the original a bore.

Any boy or girl, therefore, who is susceptible to the absorption found in good books is destined to acquire that fullness of learning which always is marked in the language and life of the well-read person.

Proposed New Highway Montreal To Toronto

Bob Low in the Automotive Section of Saturday's Mail and Empire has the following suggestions for linking up a new highway between Toronto and Montreal:—

"Why isn't the ground work started for a second highway from Toronto to Montreal by developing a line from Actinolite through to Perth, Smiths Falls, Kemptville, etc.?

As matters now stand, Highways 12A (designated 12A on Government map but call No. 28 on Government road bulletins) and 7 join up at Peterboro. This looks after the country from Peterboro west to Sunderland where there is a hook-up with Highway No. 12, and south to Port Hope where there is a hook-up with Highway No. 2.

From Peterboro to Actinolite we have an ordinary gravel road running through Norwood, Marmora, Madoc, etc. Due east of Actinolite no development work has been done at all. To hook-up a road from this point in line with, say, Arden, Sharbot Lake, etc., would bring some pretty country in touch with Highway No. 15 (Ottawa to Kingston) through Perth. We admit there are some real hills to cut down, but that's all in the game—a la Nelson Hill, Clappison's Hill, Ancaster Hill, etc.

As Smiths Falls is on the same highway as Perth it would only be necessary to get a good road between Smiths Falls and Kemptville to have another tie-up with Highway No. 16, (Prescott to Ottawa). There is certainly sufficient traffic between Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston, and Montreal, apart altogether from opening up tourist country, to warrant the continuation east of another road paralleling the Kingston Road, Highway No. 2.

The line through from Kemptville to Winchester to Chesterville, Finch, Alexandria, etc., could be developed as warranted. Carrying the road east as far as Kemptville, as a starter, taps the big points (next to Montreal)—Ottawa and Kingston.
