Little Girl victim of Appendicitis

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jno, B. Merkley, was saddened on Saturday last, in the death of their seven year old daughter Fannie Pearl Aldine, which occurred in Cornwall General Hospital on Saturday morning. A week previous she had been taken their suffering from appendicitis, and for which she was apparently successfully operated on and was thought to be well on the way to recovery, but complications arising on Friday she quickly grew worse and passed away the following morning. The funeral took place Monday afternoon from Trinity Methodist Church and was largely attended. The sympathy of the community is extended to the sorrowing family.

Chesterville, Ont.

Dear Sir :—

Enclosed find the sum of $2.00 in payment of my subscription to The Record, as per your notice of recent date.

We always look forward to its receipt, and must compliment you on its general make up, as I find it the best small town local sheet that I get among the several that I receive from all parts of Canada.

Yours truly,
H. Bingham.

Arrangements have been made for the establishment of a skating rink in Chesterville this winter. With the object of supplying healthy out-doors exercise and a place where the younger generation can find amusement other than on the streets, it has been arranged to have a rink made on the tennis grounds next to the Presbyterian Church, where as soon as weather permits a sheet of ice will be prepared and opened for skating every afternoon and evening. The playing of hockey will not be encouraged, therefore making it safe at all times for anyone to indulge in the pleasure of skating. The running of the rink is not a money making proposition in any way and besides the necessary expenses no one will receive any money from it and any profits will be turned over to the Red Cross Society at the end of the season. Season memberships are now being sold—one dollar for children, one-fifty for the larger girls and boys, and two dollars for the ladies and gentlemen and five dollars for a family ticket. Mr. Geo. Black will be in charge of the rink and will have it ready as soon as possible. Statements of the finances will be published at intervals to show what is being done with the money.

Mrs. E. L. Droppo Passes Away

The Reno, Nevada, Evening Gazette of Nov. 9th, has the following, which refers to the wife of a former resident of this section, Mr. E. L. Drappo brother of Mr. Simion Drappo, and who one day prior to the death of his wife was elected County Commissioner on the Republican ticket

"Following an operation yesterday morning Mrs. E. L. Drappo, wife of County Commissioner-elect E. L. Drappo, died last night at a local hospital.

Mrs. Drappo was one of the best known women residents of Reno. She was one of the leaders in the Woman's Relief Corps and took an active part in charitable work. Besides her husband she is survived by two sons. Claude M. Wheeler and Leslie Drappo of Reno: three brothers, Justice, Seth and Joy Taylor, a sister, Mrs. Azelia Gee of Taylorsville, Cal.

She was born in Taylorsville, Cal., and was 52 years old.

The funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at the Methodist Church. Rev. Harry Sheldon formerly pastor of the church, will officiate. Interment will be in Mountain View cemetery."

Junior Epworth League Anniversary.

On Tuesday night of last week the Sunday School Hall of Trinity Methodist Church, was filled by the parents and friends of the Junior Epworth League to participate in an entertainment, which was carried out by the youthful members of the organization, under the management of Mrs. (Rev.) H. E. Warren, the Superintendent, who was assisted by the two assistant superintendents, Misses Arlie Durant and Myrtle Bogart. It was the first anniversary of the organization, which has grown from 28 charter members to a present membership of 62. The meetings are held on Sunday mornings at 9.30. An interesting part of the programme consisted of the annual reports of the ten departments of the League. The membership covers those not old enough to join the Senior Epworth League and is limited to 14 years. In addition to the weekly meetings, which are conducted by the young members themselves, quite an amount of benevolent work is carried on, viz. the Missionaries of the Methodist Church, The French Home in Montreal, The Fresh Air Fund for the destitute children of the large cities of Canada, etc. The total receipts for all purposes during the year were $25. There was a very interesting programme of vocal and instrumental music, dialogues, etc. rendered. A beautiful Attendance Shield for automatically registering an attendance up to 100 members was for the first time exhibited. At the close a treat was given of chocolate to all the Juniors, in addition to a chocolate treat to all the gathering of parents and friends the surprise of Reeve Hamilton, who gave a brief address, followed by closing remarks by the pastor, Rev. H. E. Warren. The Superintendency for the current year will be under Mrs. Warren, with Ruth Simser as President, who takes the place of William Warren. The other officers elected at the recent annual meeting are as follows:—

Vice Pres.—Wilfred Helmer.
Secretary—Lera Fetterly.
Treasurer—Keith Merkley.

The assistant superintendents are Misses Arlie Durant and Myrtle Bogart.

Letters From Our Soldiers Overseas

A Diary of the Trip Across the Ocean

By Irvine H. Beckstead of the 154th Battalion Canadian Highlanders, who left Halifax on Oct. 25th for overseas.

Somewhere on ocean Oct. 25th, 1916.

Left Halifax Oct. 25th about 12 p.m. wakening up about 4 a.m., found out the boat was on the move. Getting up in the morning, on going up on deck, we find out, we are out of sight of land.

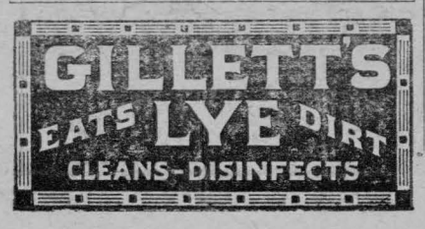
During the day of Oct. 26th—Quite a breeze blowing and sea rolling, but not enough to make the boat roll very much. Grub is very good, I am as hearty as can be, feeling fine. This is a regular den, every person is talking, and seems contented and happy. Decks are kept in total darkness, no smoking allowed out on deck.

Friday, Oct. 27—Still feeling fine and dandy, everything going grand. Day foggy. Towards evening getting quite cold. Every person is supposed to wear life-belts. Had a bath today in salt water. Several are sea sick. We are now running thirty-two miles an hour. Passed our first steamer today, about 3 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 28th—This has been a fine day on the ocean, only the sea had more of a dead roll, which has caused the boat to roll considerable. I found out there are thirty-five hundred soldiers aboard besides the crew. Shortly after noon hour today the cannons, of which there are three, were tried out and the soldiers on hearing the shots rushed up to the deck causing some panic, they, not knowing what it meant. There are also four propellers which drive the boat ahead, and today she lost one, which caused some delay, and also we will make poorer time from now on. She also has two propellers in front to back with. We turn our watches on a half hour each night. I am going to sleep on the floor tonight, instead of in a hammock, with my clothes on, as it will not be long until we will be nearing the danger zone. We keep our life belts with us all the time. Today we were allowed beer for the first, but not to any great extent. The boat is certainly rolling at the present time, which is six-forty by our time it being about three-thirty at home. The boat looks like a big black monster going along in the night, without a light on her, and no person is allowed to smoke on the decks, or they will be punished, they are very strict.

Sunday, Oct. 29th—This has been a dull day, at times it being quite foggy and then clearing up. It rained this morning and is raining quite hard tonight, which makes it quite dark, especially on the deck, you can hardly see at all, all you can do is to feel your way along. We are in dangerous waters tonight. Some of the fellows feel quite nervous, but it has not bothered me at all because I have tried to pack up my troubles in my old "kit bag." We had service aboard ship this morning, Mr. Keough of Elma being the Chaplain. Spent most of the day reading, it being "Until Seventy Times Seven," it is very good. We had chicken today for dinner, some o it being quite rare. I have not been the least bit sick yet. They are shutting up all main passage ways leading out on deck and having to take a different course tonight I got lost and had to be shown my way. Imagine the crooks and turns and decks, etc., if we are not careful we would get lost at any time. She is some boat.

Monday, Oct. 30th—We have had a very nice day, but last night and today we have had bigger seas than since we started. It was hard to even walk on the deck, it being wet. Several soldiers near- stood on their head. The sea rolled ntains high. We went through to- hat they call the Devil's Hole. s supposed to be no bottom there. w o first sight of land today wo o'clock, it being the first we l since early Wednesday evening. rson was glad to see land and it make some difference among . We went over the same as the Lusitania, when she aight out from a light-house are flashing all along the nt colors, and this is cer- s water, although we ex- et in some time tonight and to land at Liverpool. The Captain on here is the same Captain who was on the Lusitania when she went down. We are getting ready our things to get off the boat. Several have got lice on them since they came on board but I think I am alright. I think every person will be glad to get on land again although we had a good trip, never getting a bit sick.



Some fellows seem to be careless in lighting matches up on deck, I wish I was on guard I imagine I would scare them some anyway. Last night the sea knocked a life boat off and smashed the heavy platform where the cannon on the stern were sitting, so you can see it was some sea. Everybody is happy.

The night passed off very quietly, many sleeping up on deck and many not sleeping at all, but I went down and crawled up in my hammock the same as usual and slept the sleep of the just. In the morning we heard the chain of the anchor running out so we knew we must have arrived, and on going on deck we find we are anchored out in the centre of the River Mersey and the boat lying quite at ease which has been quite an unusual thing for the last few days. We can also look upon the city, with its high spires, etc., but cannot see enough of it to say anything about it, only it looked very good from the water front, with its high docks on account of the tide. Boats pass by with passengers and the women seem glad to see we Canadians, by the way, they wave their handkerchiefs, etc., the Captain blowing his whistle continually, while passing. It seems we are very welcome to its shores. Some are odd looking boats and some are powerful looking tugs. We also saw a British submarine which looks to be some classy boat, when running along, raising and lowering continually in the water. We leave the boat about nine-thirty o'clock, every person anxious to get off. This, our trip across the ocean, I have given to you as nearly correct as possible. We all enjoyed it, never at any time did I feel anyways sick. Some sailor, eh!

We are now at Bramshott camp expecting we will get worked good and hard here and that is what we want, so that when we go into the trenches we may be physicially fit to endure the hardships and to do justice against our enemies. We feel a little lonesome you may be sure, in a strange country, and not yet settled, but hope we may be before long. Keep this diary or copy it so it may not get lost or rubbed off. Will write as often as I can. Mother has the rest of the letter. You may read it and let the rest of the family read it. With greatest of love, I remain, Pte. I. H. Beckstead, No. 63405, B. Co., 154th Batt. Canadian Highlanders, C. E. F., Bramshott Camp, London, Eng., Army Post Office.

Pte Fred Beckstead Thinks Soldiers Used Better in England.

Bramshott Camp, Eng.
Nov. 2nd, 1916.

Dear Mother,

A few lines again to you though I just wrote recently, but I suppose you will not refuse another so soon. I am real well, and thoroughly enjoying our camp life. This is a real nice place, situated on a great hill just where our camp is, but our drill ground is quite level, with a steep incline at the east, leading down in a great valley—a very pretty landscape. One can look over a great scope of country with great hills rising in all directions here and there. It is sure a very picturesque country, but we have rain two or three times daily and three or four times daily we have sunshine, very peculiar weather I assure you. I have done no drill yet, only fell in for roll call, and spent the rest of my time as I seen best. We have a fine Y. M. C. A. here, and a very pleasant place to spend the time. We have a piano, a pipe organ and gramaphone, so we have plenty of music. There are all kinds of games suitable for a Y. M. C. A. Many tables to write on and easy chairs. We also have a canteen to get our little nick nacks, here is where we mail all our letters and get our stamps, etc. There is a concert going on tonight and it is rather hard to write and listen to it too.

Lyle, George and I went to the movies last night and saw the Battle of the Somme, taken right from the front in France, it was certainly terrible but it don't scare us one bit.

I am Sargeant cook for the Sargeant's Mess, and George is Sergeant waiter, and Lyle second waiter, so we are all three together for all.

We have a most lovely kitchen, with electric lights, hot and cold water, big range with two ovens, very large, two wash sinks with draining boards, concrete floor with cesspool and sewer so one can scrub the floor easily and it runs right away. There is a big store room right off the kitchen. There is an ally between the kitchen and dining-room about five feet wide and on the right hand side as you enter a wide hall, is the canteen. At the end of this hall to the left is a large dining-room and to the right a lobby with one door going outside and another leading to a lovely reading room where there is a nice coal stove and a dandy piano. You can sit in the reading room and call at a little wicket and get your dainties from the canteen. Oh! it is just lovely, so we are in very favorable quarters. There is a nice sized yard at the back of the kitchen walled up high with brick, for a dump yard and garbage cans, also our latrines with water works installed, we cannot kick a bit. They treat the soldiers much better here than in Canada I must say in every respect.

George and I expect to go on our pass soon, we were inspected this morning, with good satisfaction and was told we could have a 6 day's pass in a few days. I will be very glad for I want to see London and other places so badly. George is just fine to me and is much different than before. There is so much I could write to you about I hardly know how much to write. I must tell you about the railway cars here. The passenger coaches are about one-third as large as yours, with four different compartments with the doors swinging outward on each side of the coach, each compartment comfortably seating 8 people, and the guard as you would call the conductor, is in a coach at the back end of the train, and does not come through the train for there are no doors to go through and no tickets to collect. The engine is only about one third as large as yours, but they run at an awful rate. The wheels are high and about 8 or 10 spokes in them. The freight and coal cars are built the same in proportion. They do look too funny for anything. One of the lads asked the engineer what that was, he said an engine. The lad said he used to run one like that as a toy around the parlor at home, and the engineer didn't seem to like it very well.

We have some great jokes with their money here, but I understand it all pretty well now and handle it all right. Pte. Fred Beckstead, No. 633340, 154th Batt. Canadian Highlanders, B. Co., Army Post Office, London, Eng., care of Sergeant's Mess.

Gunner Webb Awaits Father and Brother.

The following letter has just come to hand to Mrs. Ernest Webb from her son Horace "Somewhere in France" although addressed to his father Pte. Ernest Webb of the 154th Batt. the latter had already left for overseas. Horace was in the Canadian West when war was declared and immediately left for England where he enlisted. Another son is in the 156th Batt. making three of the family now overseas.

1st Nov. 1916.

Dear Dad;—

It is exactly one month since I received your letter and replied to it, but I am sorry to say we happened to be in an extra big push, and I had forgotten it until I saw it today.

Since I wrote you last I have become a gunner, so put G. Webb in the address of your next letter. I enjoyed your description of the meals you boys get. It would sure surprise us if we sat down to a meal like it, but of course we don't expect it, for the transport is busy enough carrying necessities without bothering about any extras. I wish, with you, that I was over there, instead of you being over here, but I suppose you would think your work wasted if you didn't get a chance to see the firing line. As you say, it's just as well Hubert got his discharge for we must have some one at home, for if all four got knocked out, there would be no one left, and it would be a mess. I had a letter from Hubert in which he said he had been discharged, but he wasn't very pleased, for he had set his mind on going to the front I think. What's up with Walter? I have never had a letter from him yet, it would be fine if he was out here and I didn't know it. I want to find out when he expects to come and what division he is in,

I think there will be plenty of Germans left for you when you get here, so don't worry.

We sure do have lice, but rats are worse for it's impossible to stop them from running over you in the nights, and if you kill one, they send a platoon next day to bury it.

I suppose you are just starting to get snow now, and I wish I was there to get it instead of this rotten everlasting rain.

I wonder if we will ever all get together again? It will be luck if we do, but still stranger things have happened.

Well, Dad, I must close but wishing you the best of luck, I am, your loving son.

Horace.

SLEEVE VALVE MOTOR

Puts Everything Else In The Shade

Nothing in motors touches the Willys-Knight — it dominates by performance that puts everything else in the shade.

And your senses tell you nothing of its performance--

Except that you have effortless --almost supernatural--control of motion at any desired speed.

Of course such a quiet, smooth, soft performance means absence of wear.

Willys-Knights actually get better as they grow old and are virtually everlasting.

April 20th, 1915.

"In my opinion, no other medicine in the world is so curative for Constipation and Indigestion as "Fruit-a-tives". I was a sufferer from these complaints for five years, and my sedentary occupation, Music, brought about a kind of Intestinal Paralysis—with nasty Headaches, belching gas, drowsiness after eating, and Pain in the Back. I tried pills and medicines of physicians, but nothing helped me. Then I was induced to try "Fruit-a-tives", and now for six months I have been entirely well.

I advise any one who suffers from that horrible trouble—Chronic Constipation with the resultant indigestion, to try "Fruit-a-tives", and you will be agreeably surprised at the great benefit you will receive". A. ROSENBURG.

Proved to be Master

A servant girl was looking for a situation in the outskirts of Edinburgh. She had heard that the mistriss was a rather strict disciplinarian, and was doubtful about applying.

On entering the gate she saw an old man working in the garden and plucking up courage, told him her fears, and asked him his advice.

He advised her to see the lady, saying, "I've been with her for a long time an' we get on verra well."

In a short time the girl emerged from the house smiling.

"I like her looks," said she, "an' I'm ingaged, Come an' I'll stan' ye a dram."

"Eh, ma lassie, I daurna," replied the old man, "the mistress micht smell t and she wad be angry."

"Nae fears," returned the maid. "I'll gie ye a sweetie an' that'll hide the the smell."

However, the old man resisted the emptation.

Having been in the house for some days the girl was wondering why she had not seen her old friend the gardener again, but to her surprise, one afternoon she saw him coming downstairs in evening dress.

Grasping a fellow servant by the arm she gasped. "Who's the mon?,'

"Oh," replied Mary, reassuringly "that's the mister!"

Loss of Memory.

Sandy Rogers was an old station master in Scotland. He was a pious man, but, like many other railroad men, he was at times a little profane. Sandy attended a dinner of the Burns Society one evening, and arrived home after midnight in a decidedly mellow condition. He undressed himself with some difficulty and went down on his knees beside the bed, where he sent forth some incoherent mutterings that awoke his wife.

"What's the matter, Sandy?" she asked. "Are ye no' feelin' well?"

"I'm feelin' a' right," replied Sandy, "but I canna mind a damned word o' ma prayers."

WINTERING IDLE HORSES CHEAPLY

Below are given some results obtained at the Experimental Station, Cap Rouge, Que., in the cheap wintering of idle horses. The methods followed and the feeds used were such as to make the plan applicable to, and worth a trial in, practically all parts of the Dominion.

MORE HORSES ARE REQUIRED;—Help is scarce, high-priced, and oftentimes unreliable, so that large implements and more working tools have to be employed. It is not always possible to buy a good team at a reasonable price in the spring, while it is often hard to get a decent figure for the same animals in the autumn. It would thus seem advisable, when the ground freezes, to lay aside, as it were, for the winter, all horses which are not absolutely required and to feed them as cheaply as possible without impairing their future usefulness.

A CHEAP WINTER RATION—To gather data upon this subject, an experiment was started at the Cap Rouge Station in 1911 and has been continued during five consecutive winters, with mares and geldings, some nervous, others quiet aged five to eighteen years. It has been found that they fared well on a daily ration of one pound mixed hay, one pound oat straw, and one pound carrots or swedes for each one hundred pounds of their weight. Not only did they gain an average of twenty-nine pounds during the five months of the test, but they showed the following season, that they had lost no vitality nor energy, CHANGES MUST BE GRADUAL—The rule generally followed was to gradually cut down the work, also the feed, from November 1 until November 15 when the animals under test were placed in box stalls. They went out, during the winter, with the exception of an occasional drive of a mile or so. On April 15 easy jobs were given to them and a small quantity of concentrates was allowed until by May 1 they could be under harness ten hours a day and were on full feed. These are important points not to be forgotten; to lower and raise the ration little by little, and to leave the horses practically idle.

DETAILS ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS—If horses due to a hard season's work, are in low condition, they should be fed up to their normal weight before being left aside for the winter, and enongh exercise should be allowed during that period to prevent stocking. Another good thing is to give a purgative so as to clean out the system before the long rest. One should also remember that some animals are more restless than others and dissipate more energy, which means that more food will be required, so that the above mentioned quantites should be increased or decreased slightly, according to circumstances.

NOTES ON DIFFERENT ROUGHAGES—Mixed hay, for this purpose, can be of any grass or weed which horses will eat, must not be mouldy or musty, and should not be worth more than half of Timothy. Roots may be carrots, mangels or swedes though the first are always liked, and the two latter are sometimes refused at first, which requires skill on the part of the feeder to have enough eaten. If roots are not given, bran should form part of the ration, as animals at rest will soon get costive and will not thrive very well on dry roughages alone. Oat straw should be used, as it is more palatable than other sorts.

HOW TO FEED—It would probably be well to chaff at least half the hay and straw, but as the idea is to lower expenses, there seems no doubt that the cost of cutting these roughages would be greater than that of the extra feed necessary to supply the energy used in masticating them. The roots were sliced, most of the time, for the experiments, and it seems better to give them this, though it is not absolutely necessary, as long as they are not of such sizes as to be swallowed whole, when there may be danger of choking,

WHEN TO FEED—It was noticed at Cap Rouge that the legs of horses kept in box stalls, and fed as previously described did not stock up. If there is on box stall, it is advisable to turn the animals out every day, when the weather permits, so that they may take some exercise. In this case, it is probable that somewhat more feed will be needed, to make up for the lost energy and heat. As to the number of times to feed, it seems that a day is sufficient, and that about the same quantity can be given both morning and evening.

From Bramshott Camp.

Nov. 1st, 1916.

Dearest Mother and Father:—

No doubt before you have received this letter you will have heard that we arrived here all O. K. I kept a diary of the trip across the ocean, and I will send Ross that, and then you will know, just what occurred each day, and what we did and etc. But, Dear Mother, on the whole we had a fine trip, we fared very well in every respect, although, we were all glad to put our feet, on good solid soil once more.

We will have to admit, crossing the ocean at these times, when the different countries are at war with each other and the enemy lying in wait in the waters, you never know where, to sink the boat probably you are on, with all on board, isn't all sunshine either, and you can bet they would glory in it if they could send a troop ship to the bottom, and so each night we ran with never a light on her, going at a rate of over thirty miles an hour, her four funnels continually belching out the black smoke.

One night, we narrowly escaped running into a much smaller vessel. She just cleared us in time, or we would have cut her in two, probably damaging us some, but I do not think it would have been enough to have endangered us very much because this Mauretania is around eight hundred feet long, ninety feet wide and draws when loaded, so they say, sixty feet of water so you could imagine the weight she would be. Before we left they put three coal boat loads of coal, into her hold.

I hope you received my cards, I sent you along the road, from Kingston to Halifax. I would have liked to have sent you a card the morning we embarked, but there was so much to do, I really did not have a chance, or you would have received one. I did not think much of Halifax and at night, its streets are all kept in darkness, which makes it so much worse. We went aboard the ship, Wednesday morning about nine-thirty o'clock and laid just outside of the harbor all day until twelve o'clock that night when they pulled anchor and we started on our voyage across the briny deep, but of course we were all in dreamland at that time, probably dreaming of our dear friends at home, so we did not know we were on our way until we awoke and found the boat rolling from one side to another and then we knew we were leaving fair Canada behind.

Well, we arrived at Liverpool on Tuesday morning, I imagine about four A. M. anyway, the droping of the anchor, in the River Mersey told us of our arrival, so in getting out of our hamocks and going on deck we found out we were out in the centre of the river quite aways from shore, so about eight o'clock tugs came out, and took us into the dock, the same as we used to do at Fort William. Well after we got off the boat we lined up and then they called the roll, of course we were all there, as no person had "deserted",

Well, we were not long in Liverpool till they had us on the train, and 400 hundred miles of country to cross before we got to this camp. The train is of such comical looking cars, having to get in at a side door, into an apartment partitioned off from the others, each apartment holding ten men and close quarters at that, not saying anything about our baggage. They are a light put up car and look very funny to we Canadians, couplings and everything, and also the engines are oddly put up, but believe me they can run some. I never travelled so fast in all my life. Mother, we came through some swell country yesterday. I never saw such beautiful scenery before It would do any person good to see it. I never believed things could be made so beautiful and this is where they appreciate a soldier. We were gladly welcomed, while waiting to be put into the dock by ferry boats passing to the other side, loaded with passengers, the Captains blowing their whistles while passing and you can bet, we returned the compliment. This is a grand country, no wonder Englishmen are proud of it, and we should be proud of it. I tell you, it is worth fighting for, what would it ever be though if the Germans ever got a footing here and also in "Good old Canada." No wonder we respond to the call and are willing to do our bit. Well, we landed here at Bramshott Camp last night, about nine o'clock or a little earlier, anyway, it was black dark and then we had a march of four miles, an officer directing us with a lantern. We then landed in a big hut, where we were given supper. Things tasted pretty good you can bet, the first we had had since we left the boat except a couple of sandwiches we had along the road. After we had eaten we lined up again and had half a mile further to go, and did it rain. It just poured down in torrents and we often went over our shoe tops, in mud and water. But we landed at last at our huts, putting thirty men in each, although, we had lots of room so we took off our packs, spread our blankets on the floor and slept our first night on English soil, and would you believe me on wakening up in the night I thought I was still on the boat and imagined we were still rocking backwards and forwards. They say it has rained here for forty days and I guess it has and is still raining today which makes it quite dull. We have not had much to eat today as we have not got settled yet, and then we are not sure of remaining here at this camp for sure, but it does not matter much as it may be just as good here as anyother place. There are little villages close around and not so very far from London. If we get a few days off. Harold Ault and I are going to take a trip in to see the city, which I hope will be soon.

I tell you some of the boys are pretty lonesome, but I have not minded it very much although I often think of home. We were a little tired you can imagine after our trip, but I feel fine and dandy to-night only hope dear Mother and Father you may both be feeling as well. I hope you are not lonesome and try to make the best of it, as that is what I am going to try and do, to take the bitter with the sweet as we may expect hardships, but we are all looking forward to return some day, to welcome each other again, as in times that have passed.

So Dear Mother be glad we have arrived here safe and sound all feeling as well as we are. I will always try to write as often as I can, but tell the rest of them to write and not wait for me, We find it awfully hard to get used to there money here, I have naturally made a study of it and think I will win out, by and by.

This Y. M. C. A. is full of fellows writing home tonight, not saying, but I suppose many wish they were there themselves.

Well, I guess I will have to bring this to a close, hoping you may all be enjoying the best of health and contentment, as this leaves me never better in my life. Will now say goodnight with best love. Pte. I. H, Beckstead, 634015, B Co. 154th Batt. Highlanders, C. E. F, Bramshott Camp, Army Post Office London, Eng.

Musicians Were German Spies.

In the summer of 1913, it will be remembered, a four-piece German orchestra visited Barrie and discoursed sweet music on our streets. The musicians raked in many dimes and nickles during their stay here, and none of our citizens realized that in the quartette were two clever spies in the pay of the German Government, who were touring Canada as itinerant musicians, and at the same time compiling information of importance for the Fatherland. Recently an American paper published a rather lengthy history of the quartette, together with their pictures. The information was also given that both were arrested in Europe, one by the British authorities and the other by the French, the latter in the vicinity of Paris. The report states that both were promptly executed, as valuable documents had been found in their possession. These men it is also claimed, were former members of the celebrated U. S. Marine band for several years and were highly educated—Barrie Examiner.

Newspaper Laws

If any person orders his paper discontinued he must pay all arrears or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until payment is made.

Any person who takes a paper from the post office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not is responsible for the pay. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post office, removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facia evidence of intentional fraud.

Sheep Judging Competition

In order to encourage Sheep Breeding in Dundas County, the Ontario Department of Agriculture have arranged to present a flock of six Shropshire Sheep to the young man who stood the highest in a sheep Judging Competition to be conducted in the County. The Competit- for this valuable prize in Dundas was held at Mr. W. Morrison's, Hulbert, on Nov. 15th. Mr. Morrison has a flock of pure bred Shropshire Sheep of excellent type and quality which gave the Competitors some good stock with which to work. About twenty-five were present at the Competition and eight young men took active part in competing for the prize. Their work was uniformly good. It was only possible for one to win this y[illegible] The others who took part have no reason to be ashamed of their work. The scores were quite close and it will give them some practice for next year's Competition. Mr. Leroy Berry, South Mountain wins the flock of sheep this year. The standing of the Competitors is as follows.

Economical Cooking of Potatoes a Great Saving.

While boiling vegetables the nutrients soluble in water may be dissolved out and lost. The nutrients liable to be lost include protien compounds, mineral constituents, and sugars. The Minnesota and Connecticut Experiment Stations have conducted interesting experiments in connection with this subject. The first experiments were made with potatoes, which were boiled under different conditions, and the loss determined. When the potatoes were peeled and soaked for several hours before boiling, the loss amounted to 52 per cent of the total nitrogenous matter and 38 per cent of the mineral substance; when the potatoes were peeled and put into cold water, which was then brought to the boiling point as soon as possible, the loss amounted to about 16 per cent of the nitrogenous matter or protein and 19 per cent of the mineral matter; potatoes peeled and placed at once into boiling water lost only about 8 per cent of the nitrogenous matter, although the loss of mineral matter was about the same as in the preceding case; when, however, potatoes were cooked with the skins on, there was but a trifling loss of matter, either nitrogenous or mineral. In the baking of potatoes there is practically no loss other than the very little which may escape in the moisture given off.

To obtain the highest food value potatoes should not be peeled. When peeled, there is least loss by putting directly into hot water and boiling quickly. Even then the loss is considerable. When potatoes are peeled and soaked in cold water the loss is very great.

It has also been found that considerable losses occur in the boiling of other vegetables such as carrots, beets and parsnips. The loss in the mineral matter is serious, as vegetables furnish mineral materials from which teeth and bone are formed. Vegetables should be boiled in large pieces and in as small a quantity of water as possible.

To prevent the serious loss which occurs when the water in which vegetables have been boiled is thrown out, the water should be boiled down and used in the making of the sauces which are to be served with vegetables.—F. C. N.

Weather Likely to be Cold

Washington, D. C. Nov. 18—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent Nov. 18 to 22, warm wave 17 to 21 cool wave 20 to 24. This will be preceded by unusually warm weather and followed by a cool wave. The storms will be unusually severe and all are urged to be prepared for bad weather following the warm wave. The storms will materially increase in force, or intensity near Nov. 26 and some of the worst weather of the Fall months will continue until about Dec. 5.

Our first complete forecast under our new and completed system was for October, 1916. We have closely verified the chartered forecasts for St. Louis, Mo. as published in the St. Louis Journal of Agriculture. The forecasts averaged 95.5 per cent good. For rising or falling temperatures they were 74.20 per cent good; for above or below normal temperatures 80.85 per cent good; for warmest part of the part of the month—11 to 24—100 good; for monthly average 100 good for severe storms near 4, 16, 25 and 28, each 100 good; for hurricane in West Indies 100 good. The U. S. Weather Bureau throws all its forecasts together as we do above to get its average percentage. No person or institution ever made so good a showing for 24 hours in advance forecasts as we made for October, 1916, for 15 to 45 days in advance.

Next warm wave will reach Vancouver about Nov. 26 and temperatures will rise on all the Pacific slope. It will cross summit of Rockies by close of 27, plains sections 28, great lakes. Ohio valleys 29; eastern sections 30, reaching Newfound- about Dec. 1. Storm wave will follow about one day behind warm wave and cool wave about one day behind storm wave.

This will be the most severe storm of the month. Temperatures will go moderately above normal near Nov. 29 and be followed by a cold wave that will inaugurate a long spell of colder than usual. From near Nov. 3 to 27 about normal precipitation is expected, most of which in northern sections will be snow.

Christmas weather will be stormy on the Pacific slope and the severe storms will reach the central valleys and eastern sections during the holidays. When these storms reach your section they will put a damper on the joys of Christmas tide.

Letter of Condolence

Chesterville, Ont.
Nov. 13th, 1916

Mr. Thos. Forward,
Chesterville, Ont.
Dear Brother;—

At the November meeting of the Quarterly Board of the Methodist Church the undersigned were appointed a committee to convey to the family of the late Mrs. Thomas Forward the testimony of the Quarterly Board to the great loss sustained by the congregation in her death, and their sincere sympathy with the breaved family.

Mrs. Forward was long identified with the Church life and work in Chesterville. She was one of the mothers in Israel among us. These years bear unbroken testimony to her faithful walk and godly conversation. She did her part well. In the pew, the prayer meeting until the years became a burden, in the choir, the Sunday School, the Ladies Aid Society, and the Women's Missionary Society, she was in "labors abundant," We can no more estimate her services to the Kingdom, than we can measure the glory of her Eternal Reward. Truly she rests from her labors and her works do follow her.

Our prayer shall be that her mantle may fall upon her companion in his increasing years, and upon the surviving sons and daughters, who arise up, and call her blessed. Yours in Christain Sympathy. Signed on behalf of the Quarterly Board:—Walter Bogart, Cornelius Cross, Thomas Hamilton, H. E. Warren.

The Wholesale Depletion of Poultry Laying and Breeding Stock not Warrented Under Present Conditions

Judging from the unprecedented heavy deliveries of poultry on the central eastern markets so early in the season, it would appear that farmers and producers generally are not only depleting their flocks unwarrantably but also rushing them to the market in an unfinished condition. As a result, the current price of chickens is much below normal value at the present time, in comparision with the prices of other meats. This is directly due to the overloading of the market.

With the brisk inquiry for Canadian poultry from Great Britain, it is expected by exporters that the demand for well-finished, good quality stock will be very keen during the coming winter. Besides, there will be a good demand for home consumption. The price tor well-finished birds continues firm, but with so much poor stock arriving wholly unsuited for either storage or export, many buyers have recently reduced their quotations for all low grades.

The presence of pullets and young fowl has also been noted in many shipments. This is most unfortunate considering the price of eggs. The very firm prospect for the profitable marketing of all poultry products points to the necessity of conserving in every possible way all suitable laying and breeding stock. Unless this is done, there will be but little poultry left in a short time on the farms in the central eastern portion of the country. Even though feed is scarce and high, it would pay farmers well to finish the birds before offering them for sale and spread their deliveries over a longer period.

Current receipts to date have consisted mainly of live poultry. The season is now sufficiently advanced, however, to warrant more liberal shipments of dressed poultry. In light of the fact that there will be a considerable movement of Canadian poultry to Great Britain, it is of the utmost importance that all poultry killed on the farm, in addition to being well-finished be properly killed and dressed. The British market, in fact all large markets prefer poultry bled in the mouth and dry picked. While killing by dislocation may be preferred by some, the presence of blood in the neck and the resultant discoloration make it unsuitable for storage or export purposes.

Proper and complete bleeding is most essential, Sometimes the arteries of the neck are not completely severed, the bird fails to bleed properly, with the result that the carcass takes on a reddish appearauce. With proper attention to details, a useful reputation for Canadian poultry can be established on the British market this year. It is of the greatest importance, therefore, that all poultry marketed be well-finished, well bled and dressed and packed in the most attractive manner possible.

ESSAY ON SUNRISE.

Some Things About Which, Perhaps, You Knew Nothing.

Sunrise is what people are always sentenced to be shot at.

In some cases this is the first time the victim has ever either seen the sun rise or been shot at.

If he has been half shot the night before he doesn't see the sun rise.

Being shot at sunrise isn't such an awful fate for some folks.

Many people would just as lief be shot as to get up in time to see the sun rise.

Those who have seen the sun rise speak very highly of it.

But we do not let them fool us.

Associating with the sunrise is poetically presumed to make men better.

But look at the milkman!

Getting up with the sun is a much overestimated stunt.

To begin with, the sun is neither benefited nor impressed with our efforts.

It doesn't help him get up to have us rise at the same time, and he goes right off and leaves us, anyway.

For our own part, we think it is excruciatingly bad taste to stand and rubber while anybody gets up.

The orb of the day has little enough chance for privacy, as it is, with everybody gawping while he goes to bed.

What about the golden rule business?

His Secret Died With Him.

One man gave up his life in the search for a new explosive a few years ago. He was a scientist named Wartenberger. He had spent years of his life in the midst of awful perils in search of a new explosive. He found one at last which the experiments of the United States government experts satisfied them was even more powerful than dynamite. The government offered Wartenberger $1,000,000 for his invention, provided he could perfect a method of firing the fearful stuff by means of electricity instead of a fuse. While he was engaged in these experiments an explosion occurred which killed the unfortunate inventor.

Cattle In Paraguay.

Although various estimates place the number of cattle in Paraguay all the way from one to four million head, the cattle industry, with untold possibilities, is scarcely out of the stage when the animals are slaughtered for their hides alone. While all the world is clamoring for meat, cattle in Paraguay sell for but little more than what their skins will bring.

Hanging Them Up?

London children certainly get some quaint views of life. An instance of this recently occurred in an East-end Sunday school, where the teacher was talking to her class about Solomon and his wisdom.

"When the Queen of Sheba came and laid jewels and fine raiment before Solomon, what did he say?" she asked, presently.

One small girl, who had evidently had experience in such matters, promptly replied:

"'ow much d'yer want for the lot?"

Making Himself Solid.

Mr. Jollier—Not very. I'd do the same thing myself if I got the chance.

"Well, you never go anywhere with me," was his wife's somewhat ambiguous retort.

"The wise thing to do nowadays is to invest your money in a going concern."

"Yes, and it's also a wise thing to first find out which way the concern is going."

WHY I should select a Mutual Policy!

FIRST -Because in a mutual company the assets are the sole property of the Policy-holders.

2—Because in a mutual company ALL of the profits go to the policy-holders.

3—Because in a mutual company the executive is directly responsible to the policy-holders: ALL the directors are policy-holders' directors.

4—Because mutual companies hold the record for stability.

5—Because mutual companies have all the "safety-first" features of stock companies with mutuality thrown in.

6—Because the largest American companies are already mutual or seriously considering mutualization, and already more than one-half of legal reserve insurance is mutual.

7—Because mutual companies are not built up in the interest of the FEW, but of the MANY.

Therefore I will take for mine

COME TO US

Bring in Cement Bags

On account of the difficulties we are having in getting prompt deliveries from the factory, we ask our customers to co-operate with us as much as possible by returning promptly all good CANADA cement bags they may have on hand. If you will give this your attention it will be appreciated.
