District Election Round-up

Each district municipal election produced at least one new face to sit on civic boards in 1965. Good turnouts in excellent weather were highlighted by large numbers of voters turning out to the polls in Williamsburg, Morewood and Chesterville.

Ed. Hanson is a new Township of Williamsburg Councillor who led all council candidates at the polls in his first political venture. Incumbent Osgoode Township Councillor Stewart James topped all comers in the five-man race in that township. Malcolm MacGregor made the strongest showing in the Winchester Township elections for school trustees. Williamsburg Deputy Reeve John Whittaker beat his opposition by a goodly margin to retain his council seat. In Matilda Deputy Reeve John Thompson had a large margin as did new councillor Harry Smail.

CHESTERVILLE

Reeve Carl Merkley, already acclaimed to office, will have on his four-man council this year leading vote getter and newcomer Keith Graham, Garnet Droppo, George Laflamme and Harold Sharkey. Sitting as School Trustees will be Dr. Duane Justus, Leon McMillan and Jack Fulton.

MORRISBURG

Reeve Fred Hill retained his reeveship by acclamation. In an election for council positions Carleton F. McInnis, Dr. D. Robertson, Malcolm Wilson and Arnold Payment triumphed. Hydro Commissioners elected were Edwin Jones and John Thompson.

Results as tabulated for official release from neighbouring townships are as follows:

"*" denotes elected.

Winchester Township

Twelve candidates lined up to seek five positions on the new Township School Area Board. Clerk Glenn MacGregor reported a reasonable turnout at the seven polls with a 50% vote. 667 of 1150 eligible voters exercised their franchise.

Williamsburg Township

Township electors turned out in good numbers in Williamsburg Village with 280 voters reaching the polls. Only one new face appears on the municipal board, that being Ed. Hanson who had a 16 vote lead over his nearest rival for one of three council seats. Clerk Keith Schell reported 50% of 1701 eligible voters marked their ballots. Already in office is Reeve Don Kyle.

Second Call!

Nominations On Friday

Two Seats On Council Still Vacant

For the second time this year Winchester citizens are invited to attend a Nomination meeting. Made necessary by the failure of enough candidates to qualify for the four-man Council Board, the second Nomination meeting will be held this Friday evening in the Town Hall between the hours of seven and eight o'clock.

Up for grabs are two positions in council. Previously nominated and elected by acclamation are Reeve G. H. Reynolds. incumbent Councillor Don Christie and newcomer Arnold Dukelow. Two positions remain on the four-man board and at time of writing speculation is even slim. It is known that at least one former councillor is still considering the position and one or two others have intimated that they may be "interested." The story will unfold to-morrow night.

If more than two candidates qualify for council seats a municipal election will be held in Winchester on Monday, December 21st.

Winchester is the only municipality in the area where a second nomination meeting is necessary. Mountain Township returned a full slate by acclamation and all other district municipalities held elections on Monday for the various posts, and reported elsewhere in this issue.

Winchester Public School Board was also elected by acclamation. The Board includes: Raymond Annable, Ron Workman, Mrs. Irene Byers, Burt Hodgson and Ken Summers, all former members, and newcomer Keith Carkner.

Failure of a sufficient number of candidates to accept nomination again to-morrow night will lead to a third nomination meeting and certainly a municipal predicament as the newly elected council takes office on January 1 with oath of office on January 4th.

Ayrshire Breeders Stage Annual At Chesterville

Wm. McRoberts and Sons were top award winners at the annual banquet of the Grenville-Dundas Ayrshire Club. The McRoberts family took a total of six awards. Chesterville Legion Hall on St. Andrew's Night was the scene as President Herman Jansen welcomed 150 guests. Head table guests were introduced by John Seguin.

Club trophies were presented to various winners. The McRoberts farm received the Ault Trophy for Premier Breeder, awarded to Allen McRoberts by Sam Ault. The Fennell Feed Cup for type and production was presented to Wm. McRoberts by Ormond Craig. The B.P. Oil Trophy for Breeders' Herd went to the McRoberts herd and was presented to Harry McRoberts. The H. E. Biccum Award for best dam and daughter was presented to Allen McRoberts by Hilton Buckingham. McRoberts and Sons also won the Premier Exhibitor Trophy.

On behalf of the Ayrshire Association of Canada, Wm. McRoberts presented a silver seal certificate, a gold seal certificate and the certificate for highest herd production in the Club to Gerald Kittle of H. J. Kittle and Sons.

The Royal Bank Trophy for best uddered cow was won by Bruce Brothers.

Gold Seal certificates were presented to Wm. McRoberts and Sons and to Don Rose by H. Buckingham. Presentations to the 4-H members were made by secretary Hilton Buckingham.

Guest speaker for the evening was Rev. George Cawfield, of Winchester Baptist Church. With fine Irish humour and superb slides Mr. Cawfield took all present on an enjoyable journey to the British Isles and Paris. Entertainers for the evening were Mrs. D. Cross and Mrs. Langebeer who played Scottish selections on their accordions.

Greetings were extended to the Club from the Stormont Ayrshire Club by President E. Dingwall and D. Adams, president of the Dundas Holstein Club.

1600 Youngsters Greet Santa

Brisk, bright winter weather and more than 1,500 youngsters greeted Santa Claus on his 1964 visit to Winchester. The jolly old gentleman dressed in red was his usual fun-filled self and took time to talk to almost all the kiddies, young and old.

Snow conditions were almost perfect for Santa's arrival as the district was radiant in a fresh coating of white that made for easy going for Santa's wheeled sleigh. The bearded genius of the gift was made most welcome as he emerged from his covered auto sleigh near the Public School grounds to join the big parade that was to accompany him through the village. About one hundred youngsters were first to greet Mr. Claus before he could mount his sleigh float. Santa obviously had a good holiday this year as it took the assistance of his helpers, Donna and Rhonda Kenney, Judy Raistrick and Carol Holmes to get old St. Nick up the big step to the float prepared under the direciton of Chamber of Commerce President Gary Collins.

THE BIG PARADE

With Santa lodged solidly in his seat high atop the Chamber of Commerce float, the NDDHS Band struck the first note of Christmas music that entertained parade watchers all afternoon and with Jingle Bells and other seasonal offerings the long line moved off. The Blossom Park Majorettes held high their batons and then twirled them to the tune as they lead the first of more than twenty floats back St. Lawrence Street.

One float that was the centre of attraction was the striking NDDHS entry that boasted school Snow Queen Jane Casselman of Chesterville and Queen of Sports Sharon Holmes of Winchester, as well as attendants and the NDDHS Cheerleaders captained by Brenda Merkley. Adding to the fine display presented by the high school were the Junior cheerleaders dressed in clown costumes and they pranced up and down the street shouting merits of the Navy and White. Final addition to the parade from the high school was in the form of a school bus filled with members of the Glee Club who added their impeccable touch to the fun-filled trip up and down village streets.

Beautiful girls were a highlight of the parade as Noreen Stead, Miss Ottawa Rough Rider, with her friend, the furry and famous Ookpik, rode in an open convertible driven by Howard Fetterly. Miss Rough Rider, of course, was accompanied in the parade by CFRA's amiable Ken Grant. Many cheers and whistles along the route greeted Miss Rough Rider. Adding to the glamour of the parade were Miss Winchester, Judi Coons, and Dundas County Dairy Princess Carol Maxwell who also rode in open cars and waved happily at the smiling throngs.

The Winchester 5c to $1.00 Store float entry of a typical fireside room scene on Christmas Eve won the contest for the best float, sponsored by the Bell Telephone Company. Bell also had a float in the parade. Other floats that made the event so colourful and interesting came from Gale and Greer Motors, Winchester Fire Department, H. S. Lannin Limited, and other contributing parties.

Passing through the waving and cheering crowd the parade was assisted by Constables Les Whitteker of Winchester Police and Leonard Shane of Chesterville Police in passing along St. Lawrence to Church and up that street to Louise, then down Main to Centre and thence to the Community Centre. There the parade

Three Smiling Faces!

Three smiling faces that greeted Santa Claus on his arrival in Winchester were those of CFRA's amiable Ken Grant, Miss Ottawa Rough Rider Noreen Stead, and Ookpik, the Arctic Owl, that is fast becoming a Canadian trademark throughout the world.

The particular Ookpik shown here escorting Miss Rough Rider and guarded by Ken Grant was valued in excess of $200 and was making one of its first official appearances. Both Noreen and Ken were presented with miniature ookpiks as tokens of appreciation from the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources for taking such good care and introducing Ookpik to so many new friends in Winchester.

Noreen, Ken and furry friend were highlight visitors to Winchester's annual Santa Claus Parade last Saturday. The special guests were seen here checking into the pages of last week's giant size Winchester Press.—Press Staff Photo.

Flag Opponents Getting Names For Telegram

The fight to prevent the passage of the Red Maple Leaf flag for Canada's national emblem has gained added support in Winchester and district. After a Press feature last week 137 names have been affixed to a telegram to Right Honourable John Diefenbaker in the House of Commons, Ottawa.

Voicing their disapproval of the current flag design selection the group headed by Winchester businessmen Bill Collins, Lloyd Dixon, Walter Shadbolt and Harvey MacIntosh affixed the signatures on the following telegram:

"Because of the government's reluctance to hear the people on this flag issue, we urge you to continue your fight on our behalf to obstruct acceptance of the committee recommendation."

Vernon Baptist Mission Circle Holds Meeting

Vernon Baptist Senior Mission Circle held its December meeting at the home of Mrs. James Ferguson with 11 ladies answering the roll call.

A Christmas prayer and hymn opened the meeting under the chairmanship of the president. A talk based on the Christmas story was given by Miss Jessie Robertson. Her story likened the folks of to-day to the innkeeper who was so busy with extra guests that he could not make time for nor room for more important things. However, the shepherds were watching and the wise men recognized the sign and followed it to Bethlehem and were rewarded with being the first Gentiles to worship Christ.

Mrs. Bowen reported the latest missionary news. Many prayers were offered.

Topic, "Christmas on the Mission Fields of India" was given by Mrs. Harrison McDiarmid assisted by Mrs. A. Keeler. In poetic form the topic showed the real meaning of Christmas to all people.

Mrs. Keeler closed the meeting with prayer. Refreshments were served during an enjoyable social hour.

Character Reference

The Oxford dictionary defines the word "handicap" in this way: "Any incumbrance or disability that weighs upon effort." Such a definition certainly justifies the federal department of labor's slogan in regard to the employment of disabled workers, namely, "Everybody's handicapped."

Of course everybody is handicapped. A bank manager excelling in his job, would soon discover his inabilities if he tried to earn a living on a fishing boat off the Newfoundland coast. Contrariwise, so would the Newfounland skipper, who suddenly found himself put at the helm of a bank.

The full meaning of the word handicapped requires more than the bald dictionary definition. Most people are reasonably sound in wind and limb. What we mean when we say that a man is handicapped is that through some physical or mental disability, he has difficulty in finding employment.

But even that is not enough. Many, many people have handicaps to overcome when they are seeking work. Minor physical disabilities are commonplace — one man may suffer from colour blindness, another from giddiness at heights.

The point is that in such cases as these, the man is equipped to make the necessary adjustments for himself. The one who is colour blind does not seek a job as a locomotive engineer, nor does he who suffers from vertigo apply for a vacancy as a steeplejack.

When disability is more serious, the adjustment becomes more difficult. Some people need assistance and it is those whom we really envisage when we speak of the handicapped. But whether a man does the adjustment for himself or receives help from others, the process is the same.

The handicapped person may have a narrower field of choice, but in most cases a job can be found where he can work on equal terms with fellow employees. The main difficulty is finding the job and for this the wish is frequently father to the deed.

"Many jobs are not nearly as demanding as they appear," a Department of Labour bulletin points out. "With only simple modifications such as a raised seat or an extension handle on a machine, jobs can frequently be adapted to the needs of handicapped workers."

There was a time when some employers feared that handicapped workers would be liable to accidents at work or that their handicap would cause absenteeism. These were serious difficulties and seemingly insuperable. But they have not been borne out by experience.

"Unemployment insurance statistics," it was reported, "indicate conclusively that physically handicapped workers, generally speaking, are efficient from the employer's standpoint, have a sound attitude towards their jobs, have high morale, an excellent record in matters such as output, attendance and accidents and are highly regarded by their employers."

Nowadays, with the recognition of the great importance attaching to human qualities in the work force of an industry, it is small wonder that many employers consider that the greatest character reference a worker can bring is the fact that he has conquered a handicap.

Memorable Words

"The ways of democracy depend upon the conscious support of all citizens. The function of constitutional monarchy is to personify the democratic state, to sanction legitimate authority, to assure the legality of means and guarantee the execution of the public will.

"It is my ardent desire that no citizen in my realms should suffer constraint. To be happy a people must live in a climate of confidence and affection. But a dynamic state should not fear to re-assess its political philosophy. That an agrement worked out one hundred years ago does not necessarily meet all the needs of the present should not be surprising . . ."—Queen Elizabeth II, Quebec City, October 10, 1964.

"Jingle, Bells" Sings Of Snow and Sleigh

"Dashing thro' the snow, in a one-horse open sleigh;
O'er the field we go, laughing all the way;
Bells on bobtail ring, making spirits bright;
What fun it is to ride and sing a sleighing song tonight!

"A day or two ago I thought I'd take a ride;
And soon Miss Fannie Bright was seated by my side.
The horse was lean and lank, misfortune seem'd his lot;
He got into a drifted bank, and we, we got upsot.

"Now the ground is white; go it while you're young;
Take the girls tonight, and sing this sleighing song.
Just get a bobtailed bay, two-forty for his speed;
Then hitch him to an open sleigh, and crack! you'll take the lead."

REFRAIN:
"Jingle, bells! Jingle, bells! Jingle all the way!
O! What fun it is to ride in a one-horse open sleigh!"

Although it says not a word about Christmas, the song, "Jingle, Bells," is now a familiar part of the holiday season. The spirited description of "Dashing thro' the snow, in a one-horse open sleigh" conjures up visions of the old-fashioned Yuletide nearly everyone remembers—or likes to think he remembers.

Usually it is thought of as "Jingle Bells," but early copies of the song show that the title was really meant to be "Jingle, Bells" —with a comma added to make it a command to the bells to go into action.

Both the melody and lyrics were written by James Pierpont, who was the son of a minister and who ran away to sea at the age of 14.

Pierpont wrote the song in the late 1850's, according to Encyclopedia Americana. He was then living in the Boston suburb of Medford where, at the time, the only piano in the entire village was located in the parlor of Simpson's Tavern. It was there Pierpont picked out the "Jingle, Bells" melody.

THE GROWTH OF CO-OPS

I see where one small-town citizen wrote to the editor to complain that the Co-ops are practically taking over in that town. In my own lifetime, I have seen remarkable growth in the Co-op movement, and if it continues at the present pace I doubt that there will be any indepednent merchants left by the time my son is my age.

While it may be true that Co-ops are run by clever men, I wonder if they are that much smarter than their private competitors. I doubt it. It seems to me it is the tremendous advantage they have been given by taxation authorities that has accounted for their exceptionally rapid growth.

If I were a young man looking for a career, I would be very tempted to get into this business, at the top management level. I know of no other business which offers a greater chance to succeed. How, indeed, can a Co-op fail when it pays taxes at such a low rate while competitors are paying up in the 50% bracket?

Another big advantage, of course, is the declaring of patronage dividends, but not paying them out to the members; instead, the money is used for expansion, sometimes without interest, sometimes for long periods of time. Any good businessman or farmer, able to get such interest-free loan capital, could certainly grow by leaps and bounds.

The Co-operative principle is an excellent one. It started with a desire of good people to help each other. It pays local municipal taxes without complaint. I believe that it ought now, if it is to continue to be a highly-principled operation, undertake to pay its full share of the cost of running the country.

The burden of taxation is an onerous one these days. It seems unfair that powerful formations operatives, who do business with of capital, such as the big Co-all-comers, should escape paying normal taxes in line with those of other companies.

If they would see fit to pay their share they would lighten the load on all other tax payers.

ANSWER YOUR CHRISTMAS SEAL LETTER

The Seventh Column

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas. That's the way the song goes and it is oh so true around the village these days. How about that Santa Claus parade on Saturday? It must have been one of the best ever. Santa Claus was superb and his beautiful companions are to be complimented on their poise and costumes. To the business concerns that showed their support for this excellent promotional event a tip of the hat, and a hearty thanks to the organizers and behind the scenes workers, all of whom contributed to make the parade a success. Anyhow, about looking like Christmas. The week-end's heavy snowfall certainly added the final touch to make Christmas spirit tingle in the air. With the white blanket on the ground to wrap up the flowers and shrubs for the long winter, all thoughts now turn to the holiday season ahead. The town has on its best face right now with lighted streets, homes and business places casting radiant glows on the whiteness that covers the ground. A final note of thanks to the town crews who did an admirable job of getting streets cleared of more than four inches of snow to make travel easy for Saturday morning's parade.

At the time of this writing voters throughout the district were moving out to the polls to cast their ballots for candidates in many civic elections. Winchester, it seems, may not even need an election this year. The problem here seems not to be an election and interest in municipal affairs but a complete feeling of complacency. With the number of nominations made at the first nomination meeting only two citizens chose to leave their names stand for election. Granted, some of the other nominees may have had adequate reason for withdrawing—but—all of them? What becomes of a village that fails to adhere into one communicative and co-operative unit that goes out and meets growing competition with a solid sock to the jaw and makes moves surefootedly and at the right time to benefit the entire town. In this matter, one or two men or women cannot swing for the whole town. This village will sink or swim together; no one has much hope of survival —alone. What about it? Will you back your future by helping advance the entire community? And not just at election and nomination time. A good shot in the arm of all local organizations would be a wonderful Christmas present. The area is rolling now on the brink of a bright and prosperous future. Get with it, Winchester!

With Christmas just around the corner the publishers of The Press inform the writer this week that only one more regular edition will appear before the great day. However, on or about Monday, December 21, The Press plans to distribute an extra special Christmas edition. This issue will carry only the good wishes of many business places in Winchester and the district supplemented by some of the best Christmas features ever carried by this newspaper. According to Publishers Reg. and Ron Workman the 1964 Christmas edition of The Press is shaping up as the biggest and best ever. If you have not been approached and you wish Christmas greetings in this issue call 774-2524 right away.

And in the "Nothing But Trouble" expressions department this week how about the following:

"My daddy can lick your daddy."

"The two blondes down at the other end of the bar look lonesome. Whaddya say we buy 'em a drink and tell 'em the stories of our lives."

"Of course, it's really none of my business, but . . "

"When are you going to kick the bucket, aunty? I heard dad tell mum we'd all be rich if you'd just kick the bucket."

"Well, I wouldn't mind sitting in for a while if the stakes are small."

"Put up or shut up."

"Wha's a pretty doll like you doing in a joint like this?"

Some Myths About Canada

by Bill Smiley

Two things combined to arouse me this week to one of my sporadic defences of Canada.

One was the fact that I have been teaching an essay by Bruce Hutchison called The Canadian Personality. It's a good essay, one which makes the kids studying it think about themselves and their country.

The other is that my kid brother arrived home the other day day after four years in Europe. He's a good kid, but his misconceptions about this country are deplorable.

Hutchison, in his essay, suggested some of the characteristics common to Canadians. They are poetic, but pure poppycock.

He speaks first of the "most obvious," our "national humility." This is most obviously a figment of the author's imagination. While most Canadians will grudgingly admit that there's an occasional Limey or Yank who is not devoid of common sense, you'd have a formidable job on your hands to find half a dozen Canadians who felt humble in the presence of either.

Next, he says we are 'A conservative and steady people who have an election every couple of years, who swing wildly from one political party to another, who riot over a hockey game, who have families coming to blows over a flag design, who blow up mailboxes.

And, he says, our politicians reflect us in . . . "their positive terror of color and flair." I guess he's right. John Diefenbaker, a politician to whom we gave the greatest majority in our history, whom we elected twice as Prime Minister, has no more color than a purple dragon breathing crimson flames.

"And we are a lonely people," says Hutchison. Well, speak for yourself, old boy. Personally, I'd prefer to be about three times as lonely as I am. You should try, sometime, getting into the bathroom at our place.

He says we are "awed . . . by the fierce northern climate, which colors and toughens . . . our spirit." Awed be hanged. I went out Sunday morning. It had snowed. My picnic table looked like a pregnant hippopotamus, lying on her back. I stuck a yardstick down. Twenty-two inches, overnight. But I wasn't awed. I swore for ten minutes, and started shovelling.

The kid brother was just as wrong-headed about Canada as Hutchison. I expected some lucid comments on the Canadian scene, for someone who had been exposed to European culture for four years, the last two in Paris.

Do you know what he complained of? The fact that Europeans who don't have any snow, to speak of, have no cuffs on their trousers, while Canadians, who wade through the stuff for five months have cuffs.

He doesn't realize that we like it that way, that we like to walk into somebody's house, stamp our boots off in their hallway, and turn about four pounds of snow out of our cuffs onto their fresh-waxed hardwood floors. Keeps them from getting house-proud.

Do you know what he talked about? Not the impressive view from the Eiffel Tower, but the annual number of suicides who had leaped from it. Not the glories of the Louvre, but the horrors of Paris traffic.

He spoke with rapture about his meals in Paris, his scorn about Canadian cooking. And left never a morsel of the latter, even though there wasn't a single snail or a single songbird among it, on his plate.

He scoffed at Canadians' engrossment with money and status symbols. And raved interminably about his new Rover, his new hi-fi, his camera, his tape recorder, and how much he saved on them.

As far as I'm concerned, I think I'll just let Mr. Hutchison and the kid brother go on living in their dream world, while I go on being a dour, independent, ornery Canadian, without personality, color or culture. Who needs it?

Ottawa Report

By Mrs. Jean Wadds

Recently back from a week across Canada I am enormously encouraged by the improvement in our country's facilities for visitors.

Each of our major cities has airports and hotels to equal, if not to surpass, those to be found in any other country of the world.

Our Universities are well worth visiting, with particularly beautiful buildings and homogeneous expansion at the Universities of Saskatchewan and New Brunswick. Everywhere Canadian art is on exhibit in new galleries and in beautiful homes. For all our worries and controversies it is good to be a Canadian.

It's good also to hear a frank, enthusiastic speech from one of the most effective Cabinet Ministers, to the Federal-Provincial Tourist Conference in Ottawa this week.

Almost everyone now acknowledges the impact of tourism on our national economy. Mr. Sharp said the tourist industry represents an annual expenditure in excess of one and one-half billion dollars, with more than $600 millions spent by visitors to Canada. With realistic promotion we should, in years to come, bring far more travel money into Canada than we can spend abroad.

It would be shortsighted to try to balance this account by making it difficult for Canadians to go abroad. But it would be a positive step to encourage more in-Canada travel by Canadians, while continuing our efforts to increase the flow of visitors from the United States and other countries where Canadians travel widely and spend freely.

We might sometimes be inclined to think of a tourist as a foreigner — someone from far away. Not so. For any community or area, a tourist is "someone who spends money in a place where he doesn't earn it."

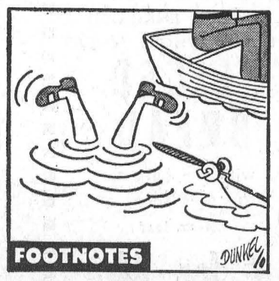
From every standpoint, it is sound common sense to persuade Canadians to see more of their own country.

In considering how we can build our travel industry we must, of course, think first of our transportation systems, equipment and facilities; then of our parks, museums, historic sites, events and man-made attractions, accommodation and food services, convention facilities and other essential elements of Canada's travel complex.

Altogether, Canada's travel plant is now bigger and brighter —and our service for visitors is much better, too. But there is still much to be done if we are to be ready for 1967.

Of first importance is the need to generate greater public awareness of the value of this industry and greater willingness to invest in it.

Workers coming into this industry must get better training so they can be more professionally prepared to serve the traveller. In a nation-wide drive to raise the level of our visitor reception services, "Project Hospitality," started last year under the direction of the Canadian Tourist Association and supported by a grant from the federal Travel Bureau, has already sponsored 36 seminars, bringing together 1,531 travel industry participants from 456 communities. There is no room in tourism for the complacency that preys on progress.



"You're scaring the fish, Mabel."

The profit motive cannot be overlooked, but at the very heart of a thriving visitor industry we find hospitality — an interest in visitors, a kindly concern whether they have eaten well and slept well and had a good time.

If we have the imagination to plan for it and the resolution to invest in it, our travel industry can become in time our major earner of export dollars. We must try to site new motels and hotels in scenic locations, and make them more attractive both in external design and internal decor.

It is significant that, with increased promotion and lower fares, March to September traffic from overseas countries to Canada increased 25 per cent. this year.

In the past several years, while the Canadian Government Travel Bureau was more than doubling its operation, it was encouraging to see the provinces keep pace. The money put into tourism must be related to the money taken out. As long as we get back something of the order of $140 or $120—or even $100—to $1, we are wise to continue to increase our investment.

I had recently the pleasure of visiting Fortress Louisburg in Nova Scotia and I saw at first hand how this vast historic site, now rising from its ruins, is becoming a major magnet for tourists. In this past year, 101,000 visitors came to Louisburg. This, to me, is symbolic of the potential of tourism in Canada, because a competent 1960 report on Cape Breton tourism predicted that Louisburg could not expect 100,000 visitors until 1970.

Tourism is a growth industry—and it is growing so fast that we must move pretty fast just to keep up with it.

It is exciting to know that we of the St. Lawrence Parks region, an historic region so close to the nation's Capital, are in the very centre of this growing industry. It is encouraging to see this being recognized, and all the natural hospitality on the banks of the St. Lawrence, existing before Confederation, continuing as a contribution to Canada's growth and economic stability.

More Equipment Purchases By Busy Hospital Auxiliary

Equipment costing approximately $2,500 will be purchased by the Winchester District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary. Thirty members present at the Auxiliary meeting in the board room on December 3rd voted unanimously to pass a purchasing committee request.

Among the items to be purchased are an electrocardiograph machine, two air purifiers, pathological slide cabinet, trilene mask, suction machine, and linens. All details of the purchase were thoroughly discussed before a vote was called on the matter.

With the conclusion of the affirmative vote the Golden Valley Unit from the Vernon area volunteered to buy the air purifiers.

Anyone visiting the hospital at night will now notice the two tall beautifullly lighted Christmas trees supplied by the Metcalfe Lions Club. The trees were put in place this year by Harold Cowan.

Auxiliary members from Winchester are supplying six Christmas trees to be used inside the buildings. The same group are also making tray favours to be used on Christmas Day. A group of C.G.I.T. girls from Vernon have offered to sing carols to the patients.

At the close of the business session two auxiliary members gave very entertaining readings. Mrs. Lyle Marcellus of Chesterville read two articles and in her own words they were from the "sublime to the ridiculous." Both were thoroughly enjoyed by her audience. Mrs. William Byers explained in detail how to conduct and dress for a "Hard Times Fashion Show" taking her material from a show given at the Hospital Association Convention in Toronto.

After a delightful ending to the meeting coffee and cakes were served to the members in the cafeteria.

St. Paul's WMS Christmas Meeting

The Christmas meeting of St. Paul's W. M. S. was held Tuesday evening in the S. S. Rooms with 25 members present, and took the form of a dessert meeting. The rooms were lovely with flowers, candles and Christmas decorations.

Mrs. Robinson, new president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Earl Campbell read the minutes. Mrs. Ella Rae McIntosh presented her friend, Mrs. Keitha Morrow, with an honorary life membership certificate, while her family gave her a pin.

Mrs. R. D. Ledgerwood had charge of the devotional theme, "Think on these things." Roll call was a verse of Scripture containing the word "Joy."

WMS Presbyterial Votes Money To McMillan Fund

Executive members of the Brockville Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society voted funds to the Rev. Hector McMillan Memorial Fund. Rev. McMillan was a well known minister in the Presbyterial and had spoken in many presbytery churches while on furlough from the Congo. The executive met in the Cardinal Presbyterian Church.

President Mrs. D. Forrester of Westport presided and after extending greetings conducted a worship service based on Romans 8—1-11.

Routine business was dealt with and the January meeting was scheduled for Morrisburg on January 20. The noon hour meal was served by the ladies of the church.

Short devotions opened the afternoon session. Roll call was answered with each member telling of her best remembered Christmas. Reports were tabled and discussed before the conclusion of the meeting.

New Foodliner Open To-day

Winchester's new IGA Foodliner will open its doors to the public for the first time to-day. Manager Len Steck and assistants have been working feverishly for the last several weeks to get things store-shape for the big opening. Last night an Open House was held in the giant store on Main Street West, in the former Lannin Garag.

Fire Causes Slight Damage

A Monday noon-hour fire at Lannin's Building Supplies was not serious. Firemen were called out shortly after 12 p.m. Monday to answer a call at the large lumber plant in the east end of Winchester.

While filling a yard tractor with gasoline some of the gas apparently spilled over the heated motor and ignited. Damage was slight and firemen were not required to extinguish the blaze.

Smoke filled the large warehouse where the tractor caught fire and a thorough investigation was completed of the building before volunteer firemen departed.

How High Was The Snow

on YOUR farm last winter ? ? ?

It's not much fun digging out after a heavy snowfall.
But it's even less pleasant to try and dig out if you're snowed under with bills.
Bills could pile up quickly if you were laid up because of an accident or sickness, especially if you had to hire someone to do the chores for a while.
C I A Insurance could help you meet this emergency.

Winchester Dresses Up For Christmas

Winchester is taking on a Christmas air this week as the town is lighting up for the holiday season. As always, the men of the Ontario Hydro put up the individual pole decorations in the village to lend the festive air of the season. The huge Christmas tree at the corner of Main and St. Lawrence is beautifully lighted this year and motorists as far away as the station can take note of its brilliance.

Home owners too are getting in the swing of things and the bright lights and running reindeer and smiling Santa Claus-images are appearing on homes and lawns. A winter time showplace, Winchester is noted for its brightness at Christmas.

Placing the boughs and lights on the poles and the long strings of lights on the central tree is a cool job, to say the least, but the two men seen here erecting the decorations on a pole are smiling happily. Jim Lennox and Neil Gray are going about their jobs cheerfully although a wee bit on the chilly side to make Christmas and the entire winter a bit brighter in Winchester.

Pole decorations this week are augmented by many homes that have taken on a holiday appearance. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Summers, always decorated, has taken on its Christmas features early this year and is among the first to be beautifully lit. Kemptville Boy Fatally Injured In Car Crash

Dick Mulder, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Derk Mulder, Kemptville, died as the result of an auto accident on Highway 16 south of North Gower on the morning of November 26.

A student at the Vocational School on Woodroffe Avenue, Ottawa, and on the week-end an employee of the Kemptville IGA, he attended the Salvation Army.

In addition to his parents he is survived by one brother, Jan, of Heckston, and two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude De Ridder, Holland, and Mrs. Hank Faber (Janet), of Toronto.

The body rested at the Rolston Funeral Home and Chapel, at Kemptville, where funeral service was conducted in the Chapel on November 30 by Captain Donna Reed, assisted by Lieutenant Donna Wardle. Interment followed in Union Cemetery, Kemptville.

Pall-bearers were Wesley McNaughton, Ted Gillissie, James Davis, Benny Faber, Gerrit Zwarts and Bob Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Grant visited her father on Sunday at the Green Haven Home, Oxford Mills, and found him much improved.

Prelude To Passing

Is it quae or quod? How do you form the subjunctive? Finally, one question I can answer! We didn't even take that! Quadratic equations, who needs them. I think I must have the wrong exam. Oh well, I'll get them at Easter.

Questions and thoughts, thoughts and questions. They these diligent looking young people as they bear down and seek the right answer. It is exam time at the North Dundas District High School. More than three months of the 1964-65 school year have passed and that means Christmas and those joy spoilers—exams.

Looking over this industrious group of scholars in the NDDHS gym a parent's face should smile if he or she sees his girl or boy putting down on paper what everyone thought the student didn't really know. Exams test not only the student but the teacher and the parent. Students are just relieved that they are over, and last Wednesday they were. Merry Christmas has begun for them, unless the teachers hand back all those nasty examination papers.—Chesterville Record Photo.

New Advertising Program For Tourism In Ontario

Present day visitors from the U. S. want to do more than just revel in the great outdoors, Hon. James Auld, Minister of Tourism and Information told the annual Convention of the Northern Ontario Tourist Outfitters.

Today's tourist business comes from family groups looking for a balanced holiday. "In many instances," he pointed out, "the woman of the family is willing to go along on a camping or fishing vacation, but she also wants to go to an area where she can find some shopping, perhaps a theatre, and some of the more sophisticated touches of civilization.

The minister explained that the province's new advertising program is designed to paint a more balanced image of Ontario. It will continue to stress the magnificence of Ontario's outdoor attractions but at the same time show that they can easily be reacherd on good highways serviced by operators offering superior accommodation, food and facilities.

"In short," he said, "we intend to do as much for Shakespeare in Stratford as we do for the moose in Moosonee."

The minister warned that Americans won't return or recommend us to friends unless operators adhere to a constant upgrading of standards. Importance of improving standards was hammered home this summer. Despite the August drop off, operators who offered good grade accommodation wound up with an excellent season — in some cases the best ever. The ones that were hurt were the secrate operators — those who pick up the overflow and the casual visitor.

One major change will be made in the 1965 tourist promotion. The prospective visitor will be furnished with specific information rather than a grab bag of literature which would be of no particular interest. "By using a rifle instead of a shotgun we'll be able to reach the would-be visitor and give him more reason to want to visit us," he said.

A ROUND-UP OF NEWS FROM THE DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOLS • OTHS • MDHS • NDDHS

N. D. D. H. S.

(By Joyce Bugden)

North Dundts has its first Snow Queen. Voting was left to the males of the high school and they were given a very tough time choosing the queen from the candidates. They made a very wise choice in their selection of Janie Casselman of Chesterville. A very pretty student of Grade 9, she couldn't help but be a good representative of North Dundas.

The students of the high school made up a large part of the annual Santa Claus parade in Winchester last Saturday. The band, majorettes, cheerleaders, and Glee Club all took part. Congratulations to the students who helped to make the parade a success by helping to decorate the float and by being there. These same students will be taking part in the Morrisburg parade on the 12th and the Chesterville parade on the 19th.

Don't forget the Essay contest. Entries are still wanted, and the ideas for Christmas are limitless.

Exams have been returning, much to the pleasure of some and the displeasure of others. The good marks of some prove that it can be done.

Congratulations to the Chess Club from Osgoode for having won the tournament here on Saturday. The students agreed that it was an interesting and very worthwhile competition.

O .T. H. S.

(By Sharon Irven)

New honours have come to Osgoode via the Chess Club. Last Saturday twelve members took part in a tournament held at NDDHS. After a series of eliminations Howard Sayant emerged the victor. A re-match will be held later at OTHS.

The Students' Council reports the chocolate bar sales were a success. The winners of the various contests connected with this drive have not been announced as yet.

Students at OTHS are busy studying for exams. Good luck, everybody!

CURLING CAPSULES

By Ernie Richardson

Before we continue instructions for new curlers, it might be appropriate to give the beginners some idea of the cost of starting a curling career.

With the advent of pay-as-you-play curling, the cost of a few hours of curling is surprisingly low. And, in the matter of equipment and clothing, that expense is entirely up to the player.

All that is needed to start curling is the desire, a warm sweater or jacket, gloves if you find them necessary, and a pair of rubbers. Most beginners use toe rubbers because they are easier to slip on and off.

I understand the girls prefer slacks or ski pants, in some cases with red flannels underneath, warm gloves and flat shoes with rubber soles or low cut overshoes. Special curling shoes, or boots are most popular. Sweaters or jackets and a variety of hats make women's curling a colorful branch of the game.

The stones, brooms and the ice are all provided at the club, and the rental time is little, if any, more than it would cost to bowl or play billiards.

Although most of the ice rental is at public clubs, there is still rental times for small groups at private clubs in all districts.

Average rental costs run to $1.00 per hour per player, with the choice times at $1.25, and for early hours of the day it runs to 75 cents an hour,

Most rentals are for two-hour periods and since many pay-as-you-play clubs provide free instruction for beginners the cost of starting curling must be the most reasonable of any game with the exception of hop scotch.

Each of the pay-as-you-play establishments has a membership setup as well and these fees are generally quite reasonable. Many company and social groups form their own clubs and are affiliated with the various city and provincial associations. This makes their members eligible for official competition as well as ordinary club bonspiels.

Most large centres now have a pay-as-you-play setup, but even in the smaller localities where there is ice anyone interested in curling will be made welcome. They will at least be guests of members for a few sessions until they develop a liking for the game.

Because new curlers are given every encouragment by those who are already keen members of the fraternity the game has developed by leaps and bounds across Canada the past five or ten years. It is now sweeping the United States and the European countries on a competitive basis since World Cup matches were introduced in 1959.

Competition is the life of any sport and once you have completed basic instruction and some practice, get into as many games as you can with players of varied experience. In this way through observation and competition your game should gradually improve, and with that improvement your interest in the game will increase tremendously.

Fire Protection

A petition calling for fire protection under a mutual aid system with Williamsburg Township and the Village of Morrisburg co-operating has been drawn up by members of the Riverside Heights Community Committee and representatives from surrounding concessions.

In addition to calling for fire protection the written document requests that prpoerty owners be required to move fire hazards and an adequate water supply for fire protection be supplied.

A draft of the petition will be sent to Williamsburg Township Council with a request for a joint meeting of council and committee representatives. The committee will seek to ensure restoration of fire protection service from the Morrisburg Fire Department.

Addressing the meeting, insurance agent Charles Crober reaffirmed a statement that all residents beyond a five mile radius of a fire station are subject to increased insurance rates.

Junior Hockey

Junior Hockey players have their final chance to sign up to play this winter this Friday night. A lack of interest on the behalf of players and coaching staff appears to have destined Junior hockey in Winchester as a thing of the past.

Players and coaches should turn out to an organizational meeting in the Legion Hall tomorrow night at 8. This is a concluding meeting and Winchester's entry in the St. Lawrence-Ottawa Junior League will be on the line. Only one player appeared for the last meeting.

" SANTA "

halted while Santa and all his helpers off the many mobile attractions scurried into the arena to greet the almost 2,000 youngsters that had come to make sure Santa had things straight for Christmas Eve.

All present were also given an advance Christmas present in the form of a heaping bag of candy from the Chamber of Commerce. Jolly old Santa talked to many of his Winchester and district friends while he was stopped in the arena and he must be scratching his head to-day wondering how to fill all the last minute orders.

Like every good thing the jolly one had to leave the rink for a special noon hour visit to the Winchester and District Memorial Hospital. So it was back to the parade and out to the hospital. Santa was greeted at the hospital by Administrator Bert Stel and Director of Nursing Miss B. Legris. All the patients were very happy to see Santa and many made special requests that he bring in his friend, Miss Rough Rider, for a personal greeting. The visitors spent considerable time in the second floor children's ward and faces were a little happier as Santa and his crew left.

Genial and affectionate Ken. Grant was very popular with the staff and had little trouble with any red tape in the front office. Upon leaving Santa assured all that he would be back for Christmas and would make inquiries to see who might be allowed to celebrate Christmas at home.

And so, Santa came and set the scene for a happy season in Winchester and the entire district. It was a grand parade in typical Winchester fashion.
