OBITUARY

THE LATE MRS. JOHNSTON MORROW

Friends throughout this district were shocked to learn of the sudden death on Friday last of Mrs. Johnston W. Morrow of Stittsville, after a protracted illness. She was in her 31st year.

The respect and esteem in which the late Mrs. Morrow was held by her many friends and acquaintances was feelingly demonstrated at her funeral held from the home of her parents, Mr .and Mrs. W. G. Beattie, at Arnprior on Sunday afternoon. Included in the lengthy cortege were many residents of Stittsville community, where she and her husband have resided for over four years

The service was held at the Pentecosttal church with the pastor, Rev. Mr. Bullock, in charge, assisted by Rev. J. P. Rice and Rev. T. P. Shaver, pastors of Stittsville Presbyterian and United churches. Special singing was rendered by a male quartet of Stittsville United Church, H. Argue, H. R. James, O. James and S. D. Argue, and a solo was sung by Mrs. J. W. Patrick of Stittsville.

Surviving are her sorrowing husband, parents, two sisters, Mrs. John Bond and Miss Muriel Beattie, and three brothers, W. L. Beattie, Cornwall; H. S. Beattie, Chapleau, and Wilfred Beattie, Arnprior. Interment was made at Arnprior cemetery.

Those attending the funeral from this district included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Morrow and Mr. and Mrs. John Morrow, all of Winchester Springs.

The sympathy of this community is extended to Mr. Morrow, who is a former resident of Winchester, having entered the Royal Bank here as a junior, and who has many friends throughout this district.

THE LATE WILLIAM T. ELLIS

(Contributed)

With that same serenity of spirit that characterized his whole life, William T. Ellis finished his work among us, and passed peacefully away on Friday morning last at the home of Mrs. Milton Rose, Mountain.

Deceased was born in England in 1853 where his early years were spent. At the age of thirty-four he came to Canada and secured a position at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, where he enjoyed his work for many years. On his retirement ten years ago, he came to Mountain, but his ambitious spirit could not be subdued and he laboured willingly, faithfully and strenuously in beautifying the grounds of the Mountain Memorial Community Park, as long as his health permitted. His love for flowers and his keen sense of their beauty was creditably demonstrated in his efforts to beautify the grounds.

Mr. Ellis possessed a quiet and reserved disposition with no desire for publicity. He lived a life that was a continual demonstration of the fact that the gentle and unobtrusive influences are so potent and abiding. Only those who knew him most intimately can appreciate his genuine christian consistency of character. That same Christian fortitude that marked his whole life was so indelibly impressed in the closing hours of life. He bore his illness without a murmur or complaint which exemplified his firm trust in the loving care of his Heavenly Father.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. R. Johnston, on Sunday afternoon in the Mountain United Church, in the presence of a large number of friends The remains were laid to rest in the South Gower cemetery. Mr. Ellis is survived by many friends, as well as five sisters and two brothers residing in England.

Nation Valley Man Painfully Injured

CAR CRASHES INTO REAR END OF BUGGY AS IT TURNS OFF HIGHWAY

Mr. Grant Gray, of Nation Valley, suffered painful injuries on Monday afternoon last when the buggy in which he was returning home from Winchester, was struck by a car driven by Mr. Albert Holmes. Mr. Gray, who was proceeding south on Highway No. 31, swung his vehicle to the left as he reached Mr. Herman Summers' cheese factory, in order to proceed down the Nation river road. He failed to notice the car approaching from the rear until it was too late to avoid a collision, with the result that the Holmes car struck the buggy with considerable force. Mr. Gray was thrown to the concrete, while the horse ran away, dragging the shattered remnants of the buggy.

Mr. Holmes stopped at once and after summoning aid from the factory, had the injured man removed to the house of Mr. Summers.

Dr. P. McLaughlin, of Winchester, was called and rendered medical aid. An examination showed that Mr. Gray had suffered two broken ribs, painful bruises about the left hip and other minor injuries. He was removed to his home, where he is resting comfortably at the present time.

Provincial Constable Eugene Rose, of Morrisburg, investigated the accident.

Eighteen Millions For Road Work

Premier Hepburn's Proposal to keep 40,000 Jobless at work during the winter. Work to be in Northern Ontario. Proposed change in Old Age Pension Act.

It was announced yesterday by Hon. Mr. Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, that the Hepburn Government proposed to spend $18,000,000 on Road Work, if they can get the expected assistance from the Ottawa Government. The work done and the money spent will be principally in Northern Ontario, and is expected to take care of some 40,000 jobless men during the winter months. It is a big scheme, and was only announced yesterday. It is also proposed by the Hepburn Government to reduce the age limit of those entitled to the Old Age Pension Fund from 70 years to 65 years. The Mothers' Allowance Act is also to be changed so as to provide for a widow with only one child. Evidently there will be a very interesting session of the Ontario Legislature under the new Government when it meets early after the new year.

LAST NIGHT'S PLAY WELL ATTENDED

One of the finest amateur plays seen in this district for some time was presented last evening in the Town Hall by the South Mountain Dramatic Club, when they staged "Sunshine," a 3-act comedy-drama before an audience that filled the hall.

Filled with comedy and intrigue, the play drew hearty applause from those present. The characters were well suited to their roles and the acting was well above the average.

The cast of characters was: Sunshine—Eileen Boyd; Mrs. Bunch McCann—Violet Berry; Mrs. Sol Whipple—Lula Mulholland; Mr. Butternip—Orval Barkley; Buddy Brady—Ersol Murdock; Nurse Gregory—Jessie Cleland; Tessie Mitford—Mrs. W. Farrell; Sylvia Dean—Muriel Murdock; Jim Anthony—Victor Montgomery; Maudelia McCann—Lilah Barkley; Major Killicott—Ernie Barkley. The play itself was introduced in a recitation by Miss Lilah Barkley.

During the intermission between acts "The Lone Cowboy," Mr. Geo. Baker, delighted the audience with several splendid solos, accompanying himself on an hawaiian guitar. Mrs. Lorne Armstrong also delighted the audience during the evening with several piano selections.

Local Car Crashes Into Farm Wagon

A collision occurred on Highway 31 about three miles north of Winchester on Tuesday evening, when a car driven by Mr. Sparling Dukelow, crashed into the rear end of a wagon driven by Thos. Stoodley.

Mr. Dukelow was proceeding north and failed to see the horse-drawn vehicle until but a few feet from it. He swerved his car to the left and applied his brakes in an effort to avoid hitting the wagon, but was unable to clear his car. He crashed into the rear wheels, smashing them to pieces and giving the driver a rude jolt. The car was damaged very slightly.

It is alleged that the driver of the wagon had failed to show any light on the vehicle although darkness had set in, making it impossible to distinguish it until only a short distance away.

CAR HITS STRAY COW

A stray cow on Highway No. 31, three miles north of Winchester, brought misery to Mr. A. Flynn on Tuesday night. As he proceeded south on the highway, Mr. Flynn did not notice the cow which was walking in the middle of the pavement, until it was too late to avoid a crash. The radiator of the car was damaged almost beyond repair, while the cow apparently escaped without damage, as it proceeded to pick itself up and walk away from the scene.

7000 Mile Motor Trip Was Greatly Enjoyed

MR. AND MRS. HART MELVIN TELL MANY INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT COUNTRY THEY TRAVERSED

A most interesting two hours was spent by the writer in conversation with Mr. and Mrs. Hart Melvin, who returned on Thursday last after a 7300 mile motor trip through the Canadian West. They were accompanied as far as Winnipeg by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fetterly.

Depending solely upon a sturdy 1934 Chevrolet coach, the party left Ottawa at 2.30 p.m. Saturday, September 29th and proceeded along the Upper Ottawa river through Pembroke to North Bay where the first night was spent. Sunday morning found them well on their way to Sault Ste. Marie where they crossed to American soil and proceeded to Newberry, Michigan.

Radio Would Not Function

In describing this section of the trip Hart stated that two things remain uppermost in his mind namely, the loneliness of the road and the absolute failure of his car radio. For hundreds of miles the prevailing features of the landscape were rocks, bush and more rocks. Only occasional villages and settlements were encountered although the constant change in scenery and the crookedness of the highway made it most enjoyable. The radio failed to function completely from the time of leaving North Bay until Grand Rapids, Michigan was reached. By this time Hart was thoroughly disgusted and convinced that radios in an automobile were merely for ornamental purposes. At Grand Rapids however, he learned that he and his party had traversed an iron belt through which radio reception was practically nil. A garage attendant informed them that receiving sets in homes were barely able to bring in strong stations, and that once outside the area, the difficulty would soon right itself.

From Grand Rapids, the party continued to Winnipeg where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Melvin for several days. Mr. and Mrs. Fetterly proceeded to Dauphin, Man., where they remained with friends until the return journey was begun.

Visits Flin Flon Mines

An interesting side-light of the trip for Mrs. Melvin began when she decided to make a trip to the Flin Flon mining district, north of Winnipeg, where her brother, Mr. Orla Rennick, has been living for some time. Leaving Winnipeg on Saturday morning, they proceeded by train to The Pas, thence to Flin Flon, some 200 miles north. It was a unique experience for Mrs. Melvin in many respects. The railway, which operates two mixed trains a week, winds its way through a wilderness of bush and rock with no signs of habitation for miles at a stretch. Flin Flon itself, is a thriving centre of 1500 people, most of whom are connected in one way or another with the valuable mines.

The town presented its worst aspects to Mrs. Melvin upon her arrival. It was wet weather and the view presented a continual sea of mud and rocks. She was informed that only four motor vehicles, besides trucks, were to be found in the place, owing to the fact that the roads and streets were practically impassable during wet weather. In spite of this fact, water is scarce in the district and two days a week, a supply of water is brought in from "outside." However, the people were most friendly and hospitable and Mrs. Melvin thoroughly enjoyed her visit to one of the chief mining districts of the Dominion. She was particularly pleased to see her brother whom she had not seen for twenty years. An interesting feature was told to Mrs. Melvin by her brother, who said that, for three years he had worked with a chap named Simzer at one of the mines, without knowing that his home had been in Vancamps. He proved to be a brother of Ivan Simzer, well-known local well-driller.

On To Saskatchewan

After returning to Winnipeg, Hart and Mrs. Melvin left for Saskatoon, and for the first time encountered signs of the extreme drought which has had a grip on the middle west for five, and in some sections, six years. Vegetation grew less abundant as they progressed and the landscape took on a burned and blighted appearance. After leaving Battleford however, crop conditions improved greatly and growth appeared to be quite vigorous. It was a beautiful drive to Edmonton, with low undulating hills and a very winding highway. Both Mr. and Mrs. Melvin enjoyed this section of the trip immensely. The roads were excellent and they made particularly good time throughout.

After spending a short time in Edmonton, they decided to swing northward and enter the Peace River country where Mr. Earl Rennick, a brother of Mrs. Melvin, is homesteading with his family. Three Creeks was their destination, about 400 miles north of the city of Edmonton, and 20 miles north of the village of Peace River itself, but as events will show, they were destined to fall short of their objective.

Wonderful Scenery In Alberta

The country north of Edmonton for about 30 miles was beautiful, with the vast stretches of landscape presenting a fine picture. Threshing operations were then in progress despite the lateness of the season, as many of the wheat farmers had been unable to complete this task due to a protracted spell of wet weather. Mile after mile of wheat fields stretched as far as the eye could see on either side of the splendid gravel road. Stooks as high as a man's shoulder were to be seen, with well-filled heads. The men worked with speed and despatch in an effort to complete their work before a change of weather, which was then ideal, would halt proceedings.

As they continued farther north, the scenery gradually underwent a change. Cultivated lands gave way to wooded sections, with few signs of human habitation. The road, which had been excellent up to this point, changed to dirt, and showed signs of having been recently turnpiked. Rocks made their appearance on both sides of the roadway, and soon bush country held sway. At Smith, a small settlement, they ferried the Athabasca River on a Government scow for which service there was no charge. As Hart learned through conversing with one of the men, the ferry is operated free of charge in order to save the initial outlay for a bridge at this time.

Encounter Bad Roads

The road beyond Smith grew worse as they progressed. In some places the sides sloped away to a fifty foot drop while the roadway itself was on a level with the tree-tops. Bending to the west, the road proceeded along the south shore of Lesser Slave Lake to Faust, where Hart halted for information as to the road ahead. He was informed that the road was exceedingly bad, but they decided to forge along.

Three miles north-west of Faust their journey ended abruptly. It began to rain, and then it was that Hart learned

CANDIDATE FOR REEVESHIP

Mr. T. O. Keyes will be a candidate for the Winchester Village Reeveship for 1935. Mr. Keyes is being pressed to acceptance and it is doubtful if he will be opposed. He has large interests as a business man and ratepayer; he is enterprising and up to the minute in every way, and has had experience that well qualifies him for the office.

CORRESPONDENCE

Winchester, Nov. 7th, 1934.

Editor of the Winchester Press:

Dear Sir:—

Permit me through the columns of the Press to correct a statement I made to you, in connection with the fire brigade, when I left you with the impression that I was not consulted about the reorganization of the brigade.

In fairness to the Fire Committee, I might state that I had been consulted by Councillor Hy. Bessin. As I cannot be a permanent member of the new brigade, I am, however, willing to cooperate with the new Chief until such times as the Brigade is acquainted with operation of all the fire equipment.

I regret that the error occurred, owing to the wrong impression I left with you.

Yours truly,

Clarence Deeks.

WINCHESTER BRANCH - - W. A. ROWAT, Manager

THE UNITED CHURCH

Mrs. A. B. Allison, of Morewood, who was the guest speaker of the W. M. S. on Sunday morning at their autumn thank-offering service, gave an interesting talk to the children on: "Is It Worthwhile?" She told the story as related by a missionary's wife, Mrs. Stover, illustrating the change wrought in the lives of the native Africans after a few years of missionary work among them. It was an appeal to youthful members of Mission Bands to keep on working to raise money to support the workers on our home and foreign mission fields.

Before giving her main address, Mrs. Allison was introduced and welcomed to the pulpit by the pastor. She spoke on the might and majesty and tenderness of our Lord and Saviour with reference to I Kings, 7:21 and 22; Isa., 40:28 and Rev. 3:10 and 12. She said it is not easy to be a Christian even these days. We are tried and tested in every way, but God is able to keep those who trust in Him. Christ fearlessly faced powerful enemies and we may well pray that the grace of our Lord may be with us and shine out in our everyday lives.

The thankoffering was taken by Mesdames Arthur Christie, Thomas Edgerton, Jay Quart and Meredith McVey.

A well-filled choir of ladies sang: "O Lord of Heaven and Earth and Sea," while the offering was being taken, and "There is Glorious Work For You," as another special number.

The pastor spoke at the evening service on: "Are we introducing people to Jesus?" His texts were: John 14:9 and John 12:21. He said every Christian should think seriously of the challenge in the first text. The business of all Christians is to introduce Christ to others, who are greatly in need of knowing Jesus as a Saviour from sin which is our great problem at the present time. Christ is depending on His true followers to introduce Him to a sinful world. He has no other plans.

The choir sang an anthem at the evening service with Mrs. John Bruce taking a solo part. Next Sunday morning there will be a special Remembrance Day Service, and in the evening Rev. J. C. Eastcott of Avonmore, will preach.

THAT MAN HARRY STEVENS—WHAT A MAN

(Pembroke Standard-Observer)

Without questioning the fact that his retention in the Bennett Cabinet was impossible, yet everyone must admire the man. In a letter to Premier Bennett he finishes the same by saying:

"I cannot but bring to my mind the countless thousands of citizens who are patiently suffering while others whom you champion in such eloquent terms have been reaping rewards far beyond that which any citizen might reasonably expect to win. It is for those inarticulate sufferers that I have been striving with the hope that remedial measures might be found."

We question if Premier Bennett was championing the cause of the alleged "big interests" for it was due to his action that this commission had been appointed, and he would be well aware at the time that some person's ox would get gored.

But that is not the point. Here is a man with sympathies for the underdog, the toiling masses, those who work in sweat shops, work for the most beggarly pittances to keep body and soul together because it is their only way of earning a living—and by the sweat of their brow huge corporations are getting rich. In order to cash in his lot with this class he has chucked a $10,000 per year job, and all the honors attached to the office. One thing is sure, he represents a type of character that enriches the political life of Canada.

A WARNING TO OTHERS

We re-publish the following item taken from an exchange.

$1500 BLAZE IN KEMPTVILLE

A fire of unknown origin completely destroyed an outbuilding on the property of Mrs. Swedlove at Kemptville and caused considerable damage to an automobile stored in the building on Sunday evening last. A large livery barn nearby owned by Mr. C. Johnston, was damaged considerably.

Three streams of water were turned on the flames before they were brought under control. The damage is estimated at $1500, partly covered by insurance.

TWO MEN BURNED IN EXPLOSION

Two young men, James Dewar and Wilfred St. John, of Roxborough township, were severely burned on Thursday last when an explosion about a gasoline engine on which they were working set fire to their clothing. The engine had been slow in starting so Dewar lit a torch to heat it. A can of gasoline standing nearby at once ignited and blew up showering both men with flaming gasoline. Friends quickly smothered the blaze but not before both young men had been severely and widely burned. Dewar's condition is said to be critical.

HUNDREDS OF SHEEP SAID TO BE KILLED

It is reported that the number of sheep killed by dogs in the townships of Mountain and Osgoode during the past season runs into hundreds. Most of the farmers have had to house their animals from four to six weeks earlier than would otherwise be the case, owing to the ravages caused by stray dogs. In some cases whole flocks have been destroyed. Warnings were issued by the township councils to all owners of dogs that the canines must be kept tied up, but this order has apparently been ignored by many.

KEMPTVILLE YOUTH ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

Harold Spellman, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Spellman, of Kemptville, was instantly killed when a bullet, accidentally fired from a gun by Eric Sutherland, 14, also of Kemptville, struck him above the heart.

The boys, with several friends, had spent the afternoon in the woods near the town and were returning home when the accident occurred. While examining the gun which Eric had borrowed, the trigger was pressed, and Spellman, who was kneeling on the ground about 35 feet away, received the slug in the breast. He died instantly.

WOUNDED BY RIFLE BULLET

Clarence Boicey of Black Donald Mines, Ont., 21-year-old son of Mrs. Ed. Boicey, suffered a wound in the calf of his left leg Sunday afternoon when accidentally struck by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of Isaac Duncan, of Vernon.

It is alleged that Boicey, who was a member of a party of eight hunters occupying one of Frank Patineau's camps located in the Black Donald district during the hunting season, had been splitting wood at the kitchen door for a considerable length of time and, deciding to lay off for a while, joined others of the party inside the camp. While he was resting, two of the hunters who had been on the trails, returned with a deer. One of them remained outside the shack with the kill while the other, Duncan, took charge of both rifles and, entering the camp, started cleaning them.

Hearing the gun cleaning operations through the open door, the hunter who had remained with the carcass shouted to Duncan, warning him that the shells were still in the gun that he had been using.

Learning of this, Duncan immediately started ejecting the cartridges. He managed to get five shells out of the gun without mishap but the sixth and last cartridge apparently jammed and in some unknown way the bullet was fired, inflicting a clean wound through the calf of Boicey's leg. He was rushed to Victoria hospital, Renfrew, a distance of over thirty miles, where he is being attended by Dr. C. W. McCormick. Although considerable blood was lost, his condition is not considered serious.

Provincial Constable W. J. Johnston of Renfrew is investigating.

SHOWS LANTERN SLIDES

A well-attended meeting was held in the hall at Vernon on Thursday evening last, when W. M. Cockburn, of Carp, agricultural representative for Osgoode township, gave a talk and showed lantern slides on the short course. As Vernon intends to have the short course this winter, the slides were found to be extremely interesting. Geo. S. Campbell acted as chairman and expressed appreciation to Mr. Cockburn on behalf of the audience.

SALESMAN HEAVILY FINED

Louis Boyaner, of Montreal, appeared before Magistrate Boucher in Ottawa on Saturday last on a charge of prescribing eyeglasses without being the holder of a certificate under the Ontario Optometry Act. He was found guilty on three separate charges and was sentenced to pay fines and costs amounting to $99.50. Boyaner sold eyeglasses to residents of Osgoode Township, who in turn complained to Toronto.

Besides the fines, Boyaner forfeited all his goods and equipment to the court and agreed to stay out of Ontario.

HONOR BRIDE-ELECT

The members of the Young People's League of Williamsburg United Church, chose the occasion of a Hallowe'en social evening in the school room of the church to honor their president, Miss Maud Marcellus on the eve of her approaching marriage. Miss Marcellus has been an active and faithful worker in the Young People's League and has also been organist in the church for a number of years. As a mark of esteem and appreciation the pastor of the church, Rev. C. A. Adey, on behalf of the members of the Young People' League, and members of the choir, presented the bride-elect with a blanket. Miss Marcellus acknowledged her thanks and appreciation. The members of the League also took this occasion to honor two other members, Miss Nellie Cameron and Miss Doris Tracy, who had recently moved to Morrisburg. The evening was spent in games and contests, after which Rev. C. A. Adey on behalf of the members of the League, presented the young ladies with small remembrances. At the close, lunch was served under the direction of the refreshment committee assisted by several of the members.

DOG'S BITES PROVE COSTLY

It cost Sam Robinson of Montreal $70 because he failed to keep a pet dog tied up. The animal bit a neighbour and his children with the result that said neighbour sued for $500 damages. The above award was made. Dogs make excellent pets but they become heavy liabilities if they are allowd to run at large, even on one's own property.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT SOUTH MOUNTAIN UNITED CHURCH

The anniversary services which were held at South Mountain United Church on Sunday morning and evening last were attended by large congregations. The church was filled to capacity at both services.

The congregation had the privilege of having with them for their guest speaker, the Rev. Mr. Hinton, of Montreal, who was pastor of their church some nine years ago. Mr. Hinton received a warm welcome by both the pastor, Rev W. R. Johnston, and the entire congregation.

At the morning services special music was rendered by the men's choir. Mr. J. Wood was the soloist, singing, "Open the Gates of the Temple," Mrs. Lorne Armstrong presiding at the organ. At the evening service the mixed choir sang two appropriate anthems and a quartette was heard in one number. Mrs. Lorne Armstrong was at the organ, with Mr. W. Gilroy as choir director. Rev. Mr. Hinton was in charge at both services.

On Monday evening the anniversary chicken supper was held in the church hall and was attended by over 400 people. A delightful supper was served by the ladies of the parish. Following the supper a splendid program was presented by a number from the parish, assisted by the young people of Spencerville. Rev. Mr. Johnston was chairman for the evening.

The program opened with the theme song, "My Old Kentucky Home," which was followed by an interesting and humorous descriptive address by Rev. Mr. Hinton on "A 2000 Mile Drive to Kentucky on a Bicycle."

The double male quartette from Spencerville entertained the audience with a number of well executed selections, with Mrs. Lorne Armstrong as acompanist. A much appreciated play entitled, Uncle George Pops In," was presented by the following young people of South Mountain United Church: Misses Eileen Boyd, Muriel Murdock and Dorothy Boyd, and Messrs. Orville Barclay, Ernest Barkley and Ersol Murdock.

Greetings from Heckston were brought by the Rev. Mr. Sommerville; from Inkerman by the Rev. R. C. McConnell; and from Brinston by the Rev. E. Lacey.

Rev. Mr. Johnston tendered a hearty vote of thanks to all who had assisted in making this anniversary such an outstanding success.

DRINK PLENTY OF WATER

Water is one of the good things of life that we just take for granted. Most of us do not drink as much water as we should to keep our body machinery in the best of condition. We would not think of letting the car go without water but forget its importance in the body. All food has to be dissolved in water before it can be absorbed and it is very necessary to carry off the waste products. There are a good many people who feel that they should not drink with their meals. If they use a liquid to wash down their food it is very wrong but otherwise it is an aid to digestion. There are some people who would get no liquids at all if it were not for the tea and coffee that they drink with their meals. Too much tea or coffee is not good but a properly made cup of either acts as a mild stimulant and an aid to digestion. Temperance is required with tea and coffee because undoubtedly harm can be done by the use of too much of them. Try to drink two glasses of water in the middle of the afternoon. You had better start this very minute.

HOW TO PRODUCE THE BEST POULTRY

In a recent radio talk, prepared by the Dominion Poultry Husbandman, it was pointed out that both the producer and the consumer should realize it is poor business to sell or buy poultry which is thin in flesh. To sell a bird not properly finished does not pay the producer for he misses his best opportunity to make a profit. It is false economy for the consumer to buy such a bird even though the price per pound may be lower, for he gets too little flesh and too much waste.

There are two main differences in the eating of the thin bird and the fleshed bird: One is the increased proportion of edible meat on the fat bird compared with the thin bird, and the other is the better quality of that flesh. An ordinary thin or range bird at 10 cents a pound is dearer than a well-fleshed bird at 15 cents per pound, because the difference in weight that the fleshed bird has is made up almost entirely of flesh, the waste, such as bones, head and feet, being practically the same whether thin or fleshed. There is also a notable difference in the quality of the flesh. The flesh of the thin bird is tough and dry, and what little oil or juice there may be, has a tendency to dry out in cooking.

The producer is evidently rather too willing to market his poultry without finish, and the consumer too often has no choice in the matter, because there is not enough of the quality product to to go around. The producer is working against his own best interests every time he markets an unfinished bird. It is this last pound or two put on in the finishing that is the cheapest to produce.

At the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, it has been shown that it takes 4 1-2 pounds of mixed grain to produce a pound of chicken. With grain at one cent a pound, therefore, the extra pound of flesh is developed at a cost of about five cents counting the milk that is used. This extra five cents means from two to five cents a pound more for the whole bird.

Incidentally, the feeding of mixed grain to poultry provides a good market for coarse grains. In recent years mixed grain has sold as low as 50 cents per 100 pounds at the elevators. Had this grain been fed to chickens of good type, and the chickens sold at even 10 cents per pound, 100 pounds of grain, instead of bringing the farmer 50 cents at the elevator, would have brought him over $2.00 per cwt. through the fat chicken route.

The place for this extra feeding is before the birds leave the hands of the producer. The lack of quality in much of Canada's dressed poultry is one reason why Canadians are comparatively small eaters of poultry, the per capita consumption being about 10 pounds as against 18 pounds in the United States. When producers are convinced that selling thin birds is false economy then better market conditions will prevail.

Believe nothing against another but on good authority, and never report what may hurt another unless it may be a greater hurt to some other to conceal it.—Penn.

SIXTY YEARS AGO!

I met upon a journey, a man of fourscore years,
Just like a leaf in autumn that the hard frost browns and sears,
His cheeks were wan, his eyes were dim, his form was worn and bent,
The light of life still flickered, but the oil was nearly spent.
He talked about the weather, the state of crops and roads;
Of implements for farming, of different styles and modes;
"You think," said he, "that times are hard and cash comes in too slow,
I wish you'd lived in Lanark about sixty years ago.

You've a daily mail, a railroad, you have shops beside your door;
To Perth or on to Brockville, we went to find a store.
As there was no competition, the wily merchant seized
The golden opportunity to charge what price he pleased.
I've sometimes paid five shillings for a pound of common tea,
And the price of muscovado was often one-and-three;
It has cost me one-and-six pence for a yard of calico,
And the same for factory cotton, about sixty years ago.

The little crooked foot-paths were our only roads at first,
With fallen trees and mud-holes they were freely interspersed;
On journeys after dark we took, to keep wild beasts at bay,
A torch or two of good pitch pine, which also lit the way;
And through the gloomy forest we heard a gaunt wolf's howl,
The yawling of a catamount, or the hooting of an owl.
When neighbors were in trouble, of course we had to go,
But we did not walk for pleasure about sixty years ago.

We went on foot or horseback, but at last we made a way,
Broad enough, by careful teaming, for oxen and a sleigh,
But of surveying implements we did not need a load,
For a woman rang a cow bell while her husband blazed the road.
Two disks cut from a big round log made the first affair on wheels,
And when that cart was coming, you could hear for miles its squeals;
We would run outdoors to see it, 'twas a wonder, then, you know,
That pioneer conveyance of sixty years ago.

And when we had a grist to grind, or trading we must do,
It meant a trip of fifty miles—a rough one it was, too!
After three or four days absence, returning with our sacks,
We trudged the lonely homeward way with flour upon our backs.
The children all were watching, for bread was such a treat,
They could scarcely wait with patience till the cakes were fit to eat!
The children of the present would scorn such fare, I know—
They haven't got the appetites of sixty years ago.

Your stylish stoves and ranges were things unheard of when
We settled in this country—we used clay ovens then.
We built about a rounded frame, bricks made of straw and clay,
And we made within a roaring fire, and kept it on all day;
And when the warmth had dried the sides our oven was complete,
A crackling fire within it threw out cart-loads of heat;
And then we raked out wood and coals upon the ground below,
And baked in it the bread and beans of sixty years ago.

At logging, chopping, reaping, we always made a 'bee,'
We were enough like misery to be fond of company;
And labor seemed much lighter when we did not toil alone,
And we liked companions near us with troubles like our own.
A good-sized jar of whiskey was bought to treat the men,
You see our views on temperance were a little hazy then,
Why, every one drank liquor, 'twas the custom then, you know,
They didn't put such pizen in it sixty years ago.

Ah, yes, there's been a mighty change. The forests now are cleared,
You seldom see a stumpy field, they've slowly disappeared;
To bind, rake, sow and harrow about your fields you ride,
The sickle, flail and hand fan are long since laid aside,
There yet are many hardships, and everyone must work,
And choose the calling that you will, there's not much chance to shirk;
But many a poor fellow grubbed the crop in with a hoe,
And fed his little family about sixty years ago.

In the long, long winter evenings, when the full moon shed her light,
We took our home-made traineau out, and yoked up Buck and Bright,
And a load of happy youngsters went to see some neighbour folks,
And we made the old woods echo with our laughter and our jokes.
Pianos, harps and organs in our homes had never been,
But our hearts were light and happy with the sweet-toned violin,
And in the low-scooped shanties, by the hearth-fire's ruddy glow,
We danced away the sorrows of sixty years ago.

The young folks of the present are not as gay and free,
As we were, living in the woods like one great family
They think too much of show and style and fashionable array,
They never had the merry times we had in our day."
I glanced down at the narrator when he had ceased to speak,
A new light sparkled in his eye, a flush suffused his cheek.
The wasted form was more erect, and his old heart seemed aglow
With the life, the youth, the vigor of sixty years ago.

THERE ARE PLENTY JUST LIKE HIM

Just because a person does not subscribe to this paper is no criterion that he does not read it. The other day a man came into our office who does not take the paper. He was very conversant with the news that had been in the paper and also an advertisement in which he was interested. He took up our time for some minutes answering questions regarding the ad.—of course time does not count for much these days as that is what we have the most of—but that is not all, we have a phone in the office which costs real money and he wanted us to do some phoning for him, as he "did not like talking on the phone." This took up another lot of our time. It happened to be raining that day, and he took shelter in our office; that is nothing, we always like to be of service when we can. After he had ascertained all the information he desired and was leaving, it struck us that perhaps here was a new subscriber for the asking, so we said: "You should be a subscriber to our paper." We don't really know what he had for an answer, but we do know that he didn't subscribe. Now, this particular man could well afford to take the paper for every member of his family and not miss the money; a dollar to him would represent about a nickel to us. So lack of funds was not his reason.

As long as some people can borrow their neighbour's paper it will be a poor look out for the paper man to enlarge his circulation. Wonder if it ever occurred to these people that their neighbour has a broom, a tea kettle or a fly swatter?—Drayton Advocate.

FALL WHEAT AND RYE AND HAY

The total yield of fall wheat in Canada in 1934 is now estimated at 7,022,000 bushels from 425,600 acres, a yield of 16.5 bushels per acre, as compared with 14,031,000 bushels from 559,000 acres, a yield per acre of 25.1 bushels in 1933. The 1934 production of fall wheat is the lowest in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics records dating from 1908, due chiefly to winter-killing and severe drought conditions in the countries of Ontario where most of the fall wheat is grown.

The production of fall rye in Canada in 1934 is estimated at 5,239,000 bushels, an increase of 1,785,000 bushels as compared with 1933. The increase is largely due to increased acreages in the Prairie Provinces.

Winter-killing of hay and clover meadows in Ontario, and severe drought which has seriously affected all provinces except Quebec and British Columbia, have resulted in the lowest hay crop on record, namely 9,884,000 tons, as compared with 11,443,000 tons in 1933. The first cutting of alfalfa yielded only 778,300 tons, as compared with a first cutting of 1,194,000 tons in 1933, this large decrease being also due to the severe winter and lack of moisture.

Hydro Information

(By E. George Smith)

Winchester is one of 83 Hydro municipalities which are now regarded as "out of debt," in the sense that their local, liquid Hydro assets exceed liabilities.

Winchester's Hydro assets, comprising bank and cash balance, securities and investments, accounts receivable, inventories and sinking fund on local debentures, total $8,740; the municipality's Hydro liabilites, comprising debenture balance, accounts payable, bank overdraft and other liabilities, aggregate $6,203.

Public power was first turned on in Winchester in January of 1914. Since 1915 the total number of Winchester consumers has increased from 171 to 347; horsepower used increased from 60.3 to 217.7 plus .6 for water heaters; total revenue increased from $4,535 to $12,244; lighting revenue increased from $3,035 to $9,234; kilowatt hours sold for lighting increased from 46,160 to 403,640; and plant capital increased in value from $10,875 to $19,607.

Winchester's local Hydro enterprises has built up $32,975 in reserves and surplus in its two decades of operation. These assets, amassed without taxation, are recorded by Provincial Hydro as follows:—reserve for equity in Hydro System, $10,830; depreciation on local plant, $6,712; debentures paid, $4,548; and operating surplus, $10,884.

The average cost of electricity to Winchester lighting consumers has been reduced from 6.58 cents per kilowatt hour in 1915 to 2.29 cents in 1933. Last year's rates of 2.1 and 2.7 cents per kilowatt hour for domestic and commercial lighting are about one seventh the 15 cents per kilowatt rate in effect in Winchester prior to Hydro. Hydro's average urban domestic rate is 1.57 cents; that of United States urban centers was 5.50 per kilowatt last year. Comparing Hydro rates against United States light and power costs Ontario Hydro consumers are being saved about $50,000,000 per year on their electricity bills.

In the Provincial Hydro field the new Commission's biggest and most pressing problem is the sale of the surplus "contract" power. The "construction" era in Hydro, which succeeded the early "promotion" period of Sir Adam Beck, has now been followed in turn by the "sales" era. The Ontario Hydro is being turned into a sales organization.

Rural Ontario, which has long complained of inequitable distribution of Hydro benefits as between country and townsfolk, is now being offered special rate concessions undreamed of in earlier Hydro days, in an effort to build up a great body of Hydro consumers on the farms.

In addition to offering free power to rural consumers for their washing machines, radios and electrical pumps connected with sanitary appliances, Hydro salesmen are out on the concessions telling of Hydro's new maximum "initial rate" charge on electricity consumption in rural Ontario; of a reduction in the number of kilowatt hours which it is now necessary for rural customers to consume before receiving advantage of the cheap three quarter cents per kilowatt hour rate for long hour consumption; and an extension in the number of appliances upon which Hydro "loans" are obtainable.

While Ontario farmers are expected to benefit greatly from the extension of cheaper electricity to rural Ontario, it is hoped that farm women in much larger numbers will be enabled to realize the boon of drudgery saving electrical services in their homes.

LAXATIVES

This little conversation is for adults only—not children. And I deem it worth while. Probably three-fourths of our immense population are, at intervals, users of laxative medicines.

After more than forty years' active experience, I believe I may be able to offer some suggestions productive of good, on this subject, by telling you of the kinds of laxatives that accomplish their purpose, doing the minimum of harm.

Of course, correct diet of soft, easily-digested food should require no medicine of "laxative" nature. But, we do not always eat in proper kind or quantity.

Probably the best all-purpose tablet for simple constipation, is the well-known Aloin, Strychnine, Belladonna and Cascara, laxative compound; I believe this tablet may be found in the most of the drug stores of the land. The dose, one to three tablets at bedtime. I recommend "coated" tablets. They retain their strength longer.

Don't acquire the habit of trying every purgative pill that you hear of. A "pill-habit" is indeed bad company for the experimenter in constipation. The tablet above-named is reliable and harmless as any. Ask your doctor.

One class of constipated patients,—those with trouble in the rectum, . . . should not take pills of any sort. A diseased rectum should be cared for. But not with pills—remember that.

These people should use only mineral oil, magnesia, or cascara sagrada—all liquids—that contain no aloes. Rectal patients must avoid ALL rectal irritants—and should observe strict diet rules. Eat no tough fibers, no seeds, no tough skins of fruits, but all soft food that is most easily digested. See your doctor.

COW EATS $150.

A farmer of St. Jules, Que., owns a cow that is worth at least $150 to him. The other day the man dropped a wallet containing $150 in bills. He scoured the fields and succeeded in finding scraps of the bills, much chewed and torn. The cow immediately went up in price.

MATTERS POLITICAL

Political affairs, both provincial and federal, are very much in the front page head lines of the daily newspapers these days, and it is a sort of a "topsy-turvy' state in which the old-time party men find themselves.

So much has been written, said and preached about the iniquitious Wine and Beer Law in the province, drafted and made law by the Henry Government, and put into operation by the Hepburn Government, that further reference to the degrading results that have followed its introduction is hardly necessary.

Of course the Conservatives blame the Hepburn Government for the present deplorable state of affairs, and claim that the law was never intended to be made a public menace in the manner in which it is now operated, and place all the blame on Premier Hepburn and Mr. Odette, Chairman of the Liquor Board.

There is no getting away from the fact however, that the introduction of the Wine and Beer Bill in the dying days of the Henry Government was a stupid and short-sighted policy. Politically speaking, it is a case of the pot calling the kettle black.

And now the Conservatives, both through their organizations and their party papers, are demanding the head of Hon. George Henry as the leader of the Ontario Conservatives, and newspapers that, before the elections, were praising and lauding him for his splendid statesmanship, his unimpeachable and unblemished character, are to-day referring to him as a stupid dud with a shady political record. It was ever thus, and no doubt will continue to be. The old saying that "nothing succeeds like success" is very true, and had the Conservatives been returned to power last June, Hon. George Henry would still be the white-haired boy of the party. But such is the fate of Kings and Politicians.

That everything is not going so smoothly and peacefully in the Hepburn Cabinet is evident if one but reads between the lines of reports of speeches by Premier Hepburn, Attorney-General Roebuck, License Commissioner Oudette and other aggressive members of the Liberal Party. Each seems to regard himself a prime minister, and, as a matter of fact, they talk too much. But they are beginning to learn, and while it may be a hard pill for the Attorney-General to swallow, he no doubt took his medicine when Premier Hepburn told him he was talking out of place, and when any policy of the Government was to be announced, he would announce it. They are beginning to learn that in public life it is better to think much, listen well, and talk little. The responsibilities of government are not set aside by abuse of political opponents nor promises to political supporters. Perhaps by the time the Legislature meets, the Hepburn Government will better understand their responsibilities.

Premier Hepburn makes no secret of the fact that he is a believer in what is known as the American System "To the victors belong the spoils," and in his address in Toronto last week, he openly stated that if the Conservative papers knew of any high official of the late government who had not yet received his notice of dismissal, he would like them to name him and he would do the rest.

In his campaign of cutting down expenses, cutting out supernumeraries, reducing overpaid officials, and general policy of economy, Premier Hepburn will have public opinion solidly behind him. There is no gain-saying the fact that our country is overgoverned, or more properly speaking, over officialled. Both in the Federal and Provincial Governments there are too many officials, and too many overpaid, or high-salaried officials. In his effort to cut out supernumeraries and cut down the high salaried officials, Premier Hepburn will be backed by public opinion.

So much for provincial affairs. Now let us turn to Dominion events, and here we find that we have a state of affairs that is unprecedented in Canadian History. We refer to the somewhat sensational break between Premier Bennett and Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Chairman of the Parliamentary Commission appointed to investigate certain evils that undoubtedly exist to the disadvantage of the general public.

The resignation of Hon. Mr. Stevens from the Bennett Government has stirred the nation as no other incident in our political life since what is known as the "Pacific Scandal" which led to the defeat of the Government of Sir John .A. McDonald. Of course in the Bennett-Stevens case there is no direct charge against the Government. But there is a very strong and well founded conviction that Hon. Mr. Stevens was practically forced out of the Bennett Government by what is known as the big financial and industrial interests, who seem to have a throttle hold, not only on the Government, but on both political parties, as well as on the country.

In the meantime popular feeling is with Mr. Stevens, and he is receiving the endorsation and support of the general public. There is a strong and growing sentiment that if the Conservative party does not swing towards Stevens, it will go down to a more inglorious defeat than did the Henry Government last June.

After all, public men are simply the creation of popular sentiment, and while the populace may be shouting Hosannas to one idol to-day, they may suddenly turn, because of some mistake or error in the past of that idol, and as quickly turn to another and forget any good work, or benefits received, because of the other.

There is no denying that Hon. R. B. Bennett stands pre-eminent among Canadian Prime Ministers. He has laboured unceasingly, and with good effect in behalf of the people of Canada. He is reputed a man of great wealth, and there is no mistaking his ability as a statesman and his power as an orator. But, and notwithstanding all his good qualities, his attractive personality and his untiring and unselfish devotion to his country, it may be, and is, as Hon. Mr. Stevens pointed out in his letter of resignation, he has become so obsessed in Imperial affairs that he has lost sight of the unhappy and almost desperate condition of the farmers, the trades' people and the small merchants of Canada, while the "Big Financial" interests of St. James St., Montreal, have had their own way. They have, however, made the one false step in demanding the retirement of the one member in the Bennett Cabinet whose heart was with the depressed and suffering public, and whose purpose it was to bring into the limelight some of the practices and iniquities of those who had, by the power of money, forced on certain industrial classes an almost slavish system, and who also control the supplies of food and clothing, that are the real necessities of our national life.

As pointed out by the Toronto Globe on Tuesday: "The former Minister has been pictured as both hero and demagogue. In fact he is neither. As most Canadians see him, he is a crusader. As it was written of the crusaders of old, it may be written of Mr. Stevens that he accelerated movements that would have advanced more slowly without him." This is very evident to those who hold converse with what is known as the "common people." On every side one hears the praises of Hon. Mr. Stevens spoken, and as one prominent local Liberal expressed it to the Press, "To whom else can we turn? I don't want to identify myself with the C. C. F.Movement. Neither do I want to follow the Liberal party at Ottawa, because they are as much opposed to these inquiries and exposures as are certain Connservatives, but if they don't watch out, and if Hon. Mr. Stevens should be induced to swing to the left, he will carry the country with him."

In the meantime, we have to await developments. The breach between Premier Bennett and Mr. Stevens is daily growing wider, and so is the breach between Mr. Bennett and popular feeling in the country. And the temper of the people is not growing any sweeter either, and the coming winter may see events that even the most astute politicians have no thought of.

PLENTY OF FOOD AVAILABLE

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

Whatever else may happen during the winter season that now looms so alarmingly in prospect, it is evident that Canadians will not starve, provided, of course, that they possess sufficient means to purchase the food-stuffs that are stored throughout the Dominion.

Apart altogether from the vast quantities of wheat that are clogging the elevators awaiting sale in foreign markets, it appears that on October 1st, Canada had laid up in storage over 52,000,000 pounds of butter, 34,000,000 pounds of cheese, over 14,000,000 dozens of eggs, 19,616,000 pounds of pork, 13,572,000 pounds of beef, 2,035,000 pounds of veal and 2,881,000 pounds of poultry.

Taken in the mass and viewed in conjunction with the large quantities of vegetables that are in storage for winter consumption, these tens of millions of pounds of butter, cheese, eggs, meat and poultry form the ingredients of hundreds of millions of meals, and the exceptionally large stocks of such things as butter, cheese and beef furnish some assurance that there is little prospect of any immediately startling rise in prices.

The sad part of it all is, however, that this winter, as in other winters—during good times as well as hard times—a large number of Canadians will be quite unable to finance the purchase of food-stuffs unless they are assisted out of the public or private purse.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Now wouldn't this make you weep: A St. Thomas, Ont. despatch says that Premier Hepburn gave 80 bags of onions to be applied to helping the relief fund of that city, but the recipients had to come out and gather their own onions.

7000 MILE MOTOR TRIP GREATLY ENJOYED

a few of the eccentricities of "gumbo." As soon as the road became wet, the "bottom" dropped out of it, and Mrs. Melvin, Hart and the Chevrolet were mired solidly. Fortunately a government road gang was at work and one of the men kindly consented to haul them back to Faust. Here they were advised to turn back at once, otherwise a spell of wet weather would result in their being marooned for an indefinite period, the railway being their only avenue of "escape." As they were debating the question, a homesteader, who was moving with his family from the Peace River district, stopped at Faust. All his worldly goods were packed in vans while his home was, itself, mounted on wheels. Hart learned through him, that the road ahead of them was exceedingly bad, and in one place the man had been compelled to hitch six teams of horses to one van in order to negotiate a particularly bad stretch. He added that a car would never reach Peace River, except on a flat car This definitely settled the matter and Hart turned towards home, reluctant to "give up" when a mere 165 miles from their goal, yet uneasy in case they might not be able to manage the return trip. Both Mr. and Mrs. Melvin were keenly disappointed at not seeing the Peace River country itself, which has proven to be a very beautiful and productive section of the Canadian West. The return trip to Edmonton passed uneventfully.

The next day Hart turned the Chev. towards Calgary and thoroughly enjoyed the run to this beautiful city. They sent four days here and were royally entertained by former friends and Winchesterites. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Suffel and during their brief stay, were delighted to see the Christie boys, Stan. Timmins and many other old boys and girls who gave them a warm reception. While there they inspected Stan's fox farm, where they learned that he expected to market ninety-five beautiful silver fox pelts this fall.

Turner Valley Oil Fields

On Sunday they travelled some fifty miles south of Calgary to see the famous Turner Valley oil fields. A most enjoyable time was spent in this district. Many of the outlets were burning and in one particular section flames would shoot far into the air, accompanied by a deep rumbling that could be heard for many miles. Attempts have been made to seal the vents, but to no avail. While here they encountered the first snow storm of the season, which, as Hart says, brought to his mind October 24th, 1933, back home. It failed to last, however, and in no way detracted from the trip. On their return journey to Calgary, they passed through the section embracing the famous E. P. Ranch, exclusive property of the Prince of Wales.

Return Through U. S. A.

Their return trip was begun by way of Medicine Hat to Brownlee, where they spent a few hours as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Riddell, formerly neighbors of Hart in the Melvin Settlement. From Moose Jaw, which was their next stop, they proceeded south to Wood Mountain where they visited Mrs. Annie Holmes and her son, Neil, who are residing at that place. Mrs. Holmes is a sister of Mr. David Melvin and is well-known throughout this district, as is also her son, Neil.

Conditions were exceedingly bad in that section as it is in the heart of the drought area. For six years there have been no crops, while the lack of moisture has caused the soil to blow up like sand dunes. There is no sign of vegetation anywhere. The residents express their hopes of changed conditions with a refreshing optimism which was quite striking to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin. At present feed has to be brought into the district and water is exceedingly scarce.

The trip from Moose Jaw to Regina was negotiated at top speed along a splendid paved highway, the trip being thoroughly enjoyed. After spending a night at Regina, they turned once more towards Winnipeg. Conditions rapidly improved as they travelled eastward, with evidences of fair crops and beautiful scenery along the way.

Longest Non-Stop Lap

The longest non-stop lap of the entire trip was undertaken next, when the party, which now included Mr. and Mrs. Fetterly, went from Winnipeg to Minneapolis, Minn., a distance of over 600 miles in one day. Beautiful scenery and splendid highways enhanced the journey and no one was fatigued in spite of the distance travelled.

In Rochester, Minn., the home of the famous Mayo clinic, which was their next stop, they were guests at the Cook Hotel, which is owned and operated by Clarence Hutchinson, another Winchester old boy, who was delighted to see them and hear the "news" from back home. The following morning they left Rochester and proceeding south of Chicago to make time, crossed through Indiana and Ohio to Cleveland where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, nee Ethel Rennick.

One of the highlights of the trip took place here, where Hart celebrated his birthday. Unable to allow the occasion to pass without some recognition, a Hallowe'en party was "staged" in his honour and, as the saying goes, "Hart was the recipient of numerous gifts as tokens of the esteem in which he was held by those present," and a good time was enjoyed by all.

Leaving Cleveland at 6 a.m., Nov. 1st, the party reached Winchester that evening after covering the 7300 miles in 33 days. It had been a most delightful trip and one which will live long in the memories of the party. Only three flat tires were encountered throughout, and with the exception of the "gumbo" incident, the Chevrolet coach never once failed, or as Hart put it—"even faltered."

WYATT—WYATT

On Saturday evening last a quiet but interesting marriage was solemnized at the United Church manse at South Mountain, when Mrs. Margaret Wyatt, and Mr. Daniel Wyatt of Osgoode, were quietly married by the Rev. W. R. Johnston, pastor of South Mountain United Church. Only the immediate witnesses were present. Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt will reside in Osgoode.

CHLOROFORM WAS FIRST PRODUCED IN CANADA

Canada has the honor of being the first country on the American continent to make chloroform and use it as an anaesthetic, according to the medical Department of the Canadian National Railways. In the year 1848, an apothecary at Pictou, N.S., J. D. B. Fraser, prepared and purified some chloroform in his small drug store in that town and it was used by a local surgeon, Dr. W. J. Almon, as an anaesthetic, in amputating the thumb of a woman in the poor-house. Chloroform was first discovered in Leibig, in 1831, and first used by Sir James Simpson in Great Britain, in 1847. Of course, there were other anaesthetics before chloroform which ranged all the way from rum to the shillelah. These latter two "anaesthetics" are still, apparently, quite extensively used but the more gentle action of standard anaesthetics is generally preferred.

LAZY

Some people earn the reputation of being lazy because they work half-heartedly at certain tasks. This, however, is not quite fair. In the old days when it was considered an essential part of a girl's training to be able to play the piano, many a girl worked half-heartedly at scales and finger exercises, who was not lazy at all; but she was not a bit musical either, and piano practice bored her unutterably. She may have been one of the girls who would work all night rather than give up beaten on an algebra problem, or one of the sort who would tramp a dozen miles, and then gather wood for a camp fire and cook supper. Such people are not lazy.

It is important to learn to do justice to the job you do not enjoy; yet it is safe to say that everyone will find it easier to do good work at a task he enjoys than at a job he finds tedious and uninteresting. The only really lazy people, however, are those who are not willing to work hard at anything. If there is no task over which you can toil, sweat, and enjoy every minute of it, then you need help, for you belong to the group of downright lazy.

MOREWOOD MISSION BAND

(Contributed)

The Crusaders Mission Band of Morewood held their annual thank-offering meeting in the Hall on Tuesday, October 30 Miss Lillie Feeley presided in a most capable manner. Rev. W. D. Turner, Winchester, conducted the Devotional Exercises. The Mission Band sang: "In Our Dear Lord's Garden."

A recitation by Margaret E. Nimmo was given, "Little Folks in China Land."

Mrs. Turner then called two of our young members forward and spoke a few words and then Margaret Nimmo presented Isabelle Hunter with a Gold Seal on her Junior Certificate. Mr. W. D. Turner then showed some very fine lantern slides on Japan and our Indian Mission School in Canada. Mrs. Turner's lecture on these pictures was given in her usual interesting manner and proved educational to adults as well as the children. "The Lord is My Shepherd," was sung by the girls. On behalf of the Band the Junior President Miss Mary McLeod moved a hearty vote of thanks to Rev. W. D. and Mrs. Turner for so kindly coming to them as this is not the first time they have brought a message to our Band and we hope not the last, as the work is brought out so clearly in their most pleasing manner. This was seconded by the secretary, Miss Marion Marcellus. Meeting closed with doxology and prayer by Rev. W. D. Turner.

ADVICE TO MOTORISTS

Many run fast enough but not soon enough.

The wrong road never brings you to the right place.

Keep on the right side—of traffic cops.

A. B. C. AlwaysBeCareful.

Let the barbers give pedestrians the close shaves.

It's a great mistake to ignore "Safety First."

Keep in the middle of the road and get bumped.

Stripping the gears won't cool a hot motor.

Look before you speed—then slow down.

It's a short road that has no detour.

Nearly every road leads to detour.

Even he who drives a car must shift for himself.

Always watch the car behind the one ahead of you.

There are many detours on the road to easy street.

Many a 20 horsepower car only has 4 plugs.

Many short distances are only a few detours away.

One often gets left maintaining the right of way.

Drive right and more people will be left.

Safety first—Death is so permanent.

Many are bounced for hitting the high spots.

Drivers who won't give an inch should get six feet.

He who drives with one arm "waists" the other.

Foresighted drivers beat four wheel brakes.

Flat tires should be given the air.

Some autos have 4 brakes—other are broken to pieces.

The less a man thinks or knows about his virtues the better we like him.—Emerson.

When you give, take to yourself, no credit for your generosity, unless you deny yourself something in order that you may give.—Henry Taylor.

Absence of occupation is not rest,
A mind quite vacant is a mind distress'd.

WHEN YOU KNOW A FELLOW"

When you get to know a fellow, know his joys and know his cares,
When you've come to understand him and the burdens that he bears;
When you've learned the fight he's making and the troubles in his way,
Then you find that he is different than you thought him yesterday.
You find his faults are trivial and there's not so much to blame,
In the brother that you jeered at when you only knew his name.

BEWARE OF SITTING DOWN

(Canadian Underwriter)

Beware the deadly sitting habit,
Or, if you like, be like a rabbit,
Who keepeth ever on the jump
By springs concealed beneath his rump

A little ginger 'neath the tail,
Will oft for lack of brain avail;
Eschew the dull and slothful seat,
And move along with willing feet.

Man was not made to sit a-trance,
And press and press and press his pants;
But rather with an open mind
To circulate among his kind.

And so, my son, avoid the snare
That lurks within a cushioned chair;
To run like heck it has been found
Both feet must be upon the ground.

REST

The toil of the summer is over—
The work and the worry and care—
Where late was the bloom of the clover
The meadows lie silent and bare;
The stubble fields peacefully resting,
Are sleeping so calm 'neath the sun
The leaves of the forest are sleeping,
Their summer work over and done.

The trees, gray and gaunt, in the gloam-
ing
Are enjoying a season of rest,
The wild birds of summer are roaming
Where nor labor nor cares infest;
The creatures that dwell in the wood
Have laid up a snug winter store,
And the orchard trees freed of their fruitage
Take a rest from their labors once more.

Tho' loud rage the storms of December
They lull tired nature to rest,
As the dull, dying leaves of November,
Seek a pillow on mother earth's breast;
So the husbandman rests by the fireside
Regardless of storm or of rain,
Enjoying the fruits of his labor
Till spring calls to labor again.
—H. B. A.

JUST A BOY

Got to understand the lad—
He's not eager to be bad
If the right he always knew,
Were he now exceeding wise
He'd be just another of your size,
He would be as old as you.
When he does things that annoy,
Don't forget he's just a boy.

Could he know and understand
He would need no guiding hand,
But he's young and hasn't learned
How life's corners must be turned.
Doesn't know from day to day,
There is more in life than play;
More to face than selfish joy—
Don't forget he's just a boy.

Being just a boy he'll do
Much you will not want him to;
He'll be careless of his ways,
Wilful, wild and headstrong, too
Just as, when a boy, were you.
Things of value, he'll destroy,
But reflect, he's just a boy.

Just a boy, who needs a friend,
Patient, kindly to the end;
Needs a father who will show,
Him the things he wants to know.
Take him with you when you walk,
Listen when he wants to talk,
His companionship enjoy,
Don't forget he's just a boy.
—Edgar A. Guest.

When a man begins to quarrel with himself he stops quarrelling with others.—Mary Baker Eddy.

We often quarrel with the unfortunate to get rid of pitying them.—Vanveaaargues.

THIS AT LEAST IS CERTAIN

In the darkest hour through which a human soul can pass, whatever else is doubtful, this at least is certain:

"If there be no God and no future state, yet, even then—

"It is better to be generous than selfish.

"Better to be chaste than licentious.

"Better to be true than false.

"Better to be brave than to be a coward.

"Blessed beyond all earthly blessedness is the man who, in the tempestuous darkness of his soul, has dared to hold fast to these venerable landmarks."
—F. W. Robertson.

THE LAST FLY OF SUMMER

'Tis the last fly of summer left zooming alone
All his loather companions are faded and gone—
No lady bug, June bug, nor beetle is nigh
To swim in the custard or dance on the pie.

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one, to pine on the pane.
I have hit at you often, but swat once again.
So glady I scatter your wings, legs and head,
And then I can hardly be sure you are dead.
—New York Sun.

WE CAN'T AND WE CAN

Can't you lift as much as Samson?

Can't you sing as well as Caruso?

Can't you paint as exquisitely as Raphael?

Can't you realize beautiful forms from their marble prisons as well as Michael Angelo?

Can't you sway the masses with your silver-tongued oratory as did Disraeli, Beecher and Bryan?

Can't you make your pen mightier than the sword?

Anyone can ask a bunch of questions like the above, and the answer is also easy. It is "No."

Just review these thoughts.

A daisy can't bring the price paid for an American beauty.

A meadow lark can't outsing a nightingale.

The moon can't shine as brightly as the sun.

An automobile can't cover as much ground in a day as a plane.

Nevertheless, we should not forget that the humble daisy has cheered many a load-weary traveller.

Common birds bring joy and gladness to thousands of hearts as they fill the air with sweet song.

The pale moon has been responsible for many happy honeymoons. And the automobile of high or low degree is still a very useful animal.

So CHEER-UP! For the place you were intended to fill, you are a good-sized individual.

Then lift where you stand. Be the best of which you are capable. Remember, "the mighty oak started out as a nut."

Try each day to make a smile grow where none grew before. Then I'll wager you two wooden nickels (without holes) that, with each low descending sun there will be at least two people in the world who will be glad that your mother fought in the dark to give you birth. And one of them will be YOU.

SEEING OURSELVES

A young man, just starting in business, looked suspiciously at a figure he saw approaching him as he entered a city department store. The figure was so shabby, so slouching that he half expected it would stop him to beg a penny. To his amazement, then, he realized that he had seen only his own reflection in a long mirror. His friends had remonstrated with him because of his carelessness in regard to his personal appearance; but not until he caught a glimpse of himself, did he perceive the necessity of dressing better.

Unfortunately, there is no way for us to come face to face with the reflection of our spiritual selves. If we could see our bad tempers, our pettiness, just as they are, we should need no other incentive to an immediate reform.

Happiness is the gift of seeing the good things of life in such high relief ttha the rest is unimportant.

THE BOOK

. . . . . the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures . . . . . .

by BRUCE (PAS) BARTON

PAUL'S GREAT WRITINGS

THAT white-hot letter to the Galatians, product of Paul's intense moral indignation, whose curses remain untranslated because the translators have feared to put them into plain English, is the Magna Charta of Christian liberty. It is the rebuke of bigotry and the battle cry of freedom.

Bruce Barton

Paul soon set forth on his third and last missionary journey. He started northward as he had done before, passing from Antioch by land around the end of the Mediterranean, preaching as he went, till he came to Ephesus. There he seemed to find an opening in the Jewish synagogue, but after three months a sharp clash arose, and he rented a schoolroom from a philosopher named Tyrannus, the philosopher using it half a day and Paul the other half. He took a two years' lease of this place and developed his extension service so fully.

> that all they which dwelt in Asia [the province, not the continent] heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks.

The growth of his body of adherents was so remarkable that in this city, where the beautiful temple of Diana stood, and her shrine was sacred, the idol makers were almost out of work. A large mass meeting of the silversmiths and allied trades convened in the theater. There was a great shout for two hours, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." But then, as often, > the more part knew not wherefore they were come together.

So the crowd shouted itself tired without violence, and the town clerk said a tactful word that dismissed the assembly.

In Ephesus, before this riot made his withdrawal wise, Paul heard occasionally from his churches in Macedonia and Achaia, and he kept in touch with them by means of his letters, which were increasingly comprehensive.

From here he wrote his two letters to the Corinthians. If you will read them you will see that he canvassed pretty nearly every subject of church organization and of practical sociology: Ought the church to retain in its membership a fornicator? Ought Christians to observe the festivals of the moon? What about eating meats that had been offered to idols? Ought Christians to marry? Ought women to have part in public worship? Ought Christians to have lawsuits?

Prompted in part by questions submitted to him, his letters grew to include more and more of doctrinal instruction and of practical application of truth to life. Read these letters and see how there come into them such sublime passages as the chapter on charity (I. Cor. 13):

WHO SHOULD LOOK AFTER TRANSIENTS?

One problem which has resulted from unemployment is that of the "transients"—the men, most of them young, who wander from place to place and are welcomed nowhere. The passage of time has not lessened the problem, nor improved the method of dealing with them. When they come into a town or city they are fed by some sympathetic citizens, refused assistance by others less sympthetic, and, as soon as the authorities find they are there, they are promptly invited to put themselves on the road to somewhere else.

Nobody wants them; no city will keep them longer than it has to. The present system of handling transients is beautifully simple, but as a solution it is hopelessly ineffective and inefficient, says the Owen Sound Sun-Times.

The local municipalities are justified in their attitude in refusing to be responsible for looking after transients. Most of them have quite enough to do in providing sustenance and shelter for their own citizens who are in neeed.

But there should be some way devised for keeping these wanderers from starvation. Some of them, it may be granted, are not looking for work, but most of those whom one sees hitchhiking on the highways or who come asking for food and a place to spend the night are "on the road" because they cannot find any work. They would work if they could.

It is too bad that nothing has been done to formulate a policy in connection with the problem of the transient. Allowed to go on as they have been, it will not be long until most of them lose all the self-respect they ever had and degenerate into the unemployable—or worse, the criminal class. At present they are only a sort of nuisance; later they are liable to become a menace.

No one seems to have considered the problem seriously. Is it not high time someone did? Is there not some way of giving them a chance to be something else than a present nuisance and a possible source of danger to the country?

"What Do You Do With Your Old Clothes?" is the title of an appeal for charity. Alas, the answer for most of us is, "Wear them."—Citizen.

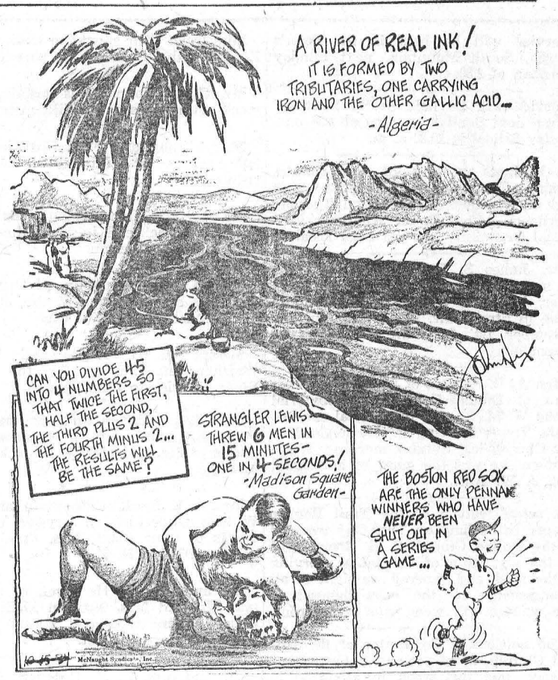
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



Genuine ink is manufactured on a grand scale with no help from man or his methods in Algeria. This strange natural ink making process takes place at the junction of two streams. The one stream flows over soil rich in iron and iron-bearing compounds, and the other drains a peat swamp. The first absorbs quantities of iron as it goes along, while the other becomes strong with gallic acid which is formed naturally in the swamp.

When the two waters mix a chemical reaction takes place and the resultant compound is real ink—diluted greatly, of course, by river water.

Th Boston Red Sox, of the American League, have never been shut out in a World Series Game—and they have never lost a series in which they played. They are the only club that scored in every series game in which they played.

In the modern series, dating from 1903, they have won the American League pennnant five times and the World Series five times. In 1903 they beat the Pirates 5-3, in 1912 they beat the Giants 4-3, in 1915 they won from the Phillies 4-1, in 1916 from the Dodgers 4-1, and in 1918 from the Cubs, 4-2.

WOULD DONATE HISTORICAL RECORDS

Jane L. Croll, of 1374 Sherbrooke St. West, Montreal, writes to Reeve Flynn to say that she has in her possession a steel engraving of King Edward VII as Prince of Wales, date 1860, and an address presented to him at that time by the inhabitants of the County of Dundas, which she would gladly donate, to be placed in some suitable place in Dundas County, permanently.

Parties interested may communicate with the Reeve, or direct to the above address.

The following is a copy of the address which accompanies the steel engraving:

"To His Royal Highness, Albert Edward, Prince of Wales;

"May it please Your Royal Highness:

"We, the inhabitants of the County of Dundas, Canada West, approach Your Royal Highness with sentiments of profound respect. We beg leave to assure Your Royal Highness that it affords us unbounded satisfaction to avail ourselves of the gracious permission accorded to us, humbly to testify our devoted loyalty to the government of your august mother, our Queen, and to express to Your Royal Highness, our admiration of the many virtues which, adorning her character, have shed a lustre on the British crown, and have distinguished our Queen as the most illustrious sovereign that ever graced the British Throne.

"Your royal ancestor, King George III, liberally rewarded those faithful soldiers who valiantly fought for their king and country in the first American war, with grants of land in Canada. Amongst the first counties thus settled was Dundas in 1784, and we are proud to have the opportunity of declaring to your Royal Highness that devotion to their Queen and to British institutions, in undiminished intensity, still animates the hearts of the descendants of the U. E. Loyalists of Dundas.

"In the visit of Your Royal Highness to Canada at this time, we recognize an act of kindness and condescension on the part of our Sovereign, demanding our deepest gratitude. While we trust it may gratify your Royal Highness to witness the loyalty of your future subjects, and while our visit inspires these subjects with increased admiration and respect for their beloved Queen, we also pray that it may have the effect of permanently cementing the friendly relations now existing betwixt the citizens of our neighbouring republic, and the subjects of Her Majesty in every portion of her vast dominions.

"Signed in name, and on behalf of the inhabitants of the County of Dundas, Canada West, the 30th day of July, 1860.

KEEP THE PULLETS WELL FED

The time is at hand when pullets should be confined to their winter quarters, but the pens should first be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Birds will not do their best work if infested with lice or mites. It is during the winter months that the birds make their best profits, and for this reason they should be housed and fed in a manner that will keep them healthy and vigorous. They will require a full ration of suitable feed, besides plenty of clean water, green feed, shell and grit.

The change from the growing ration to the laying mash should be made gradually. Home-grown grains cannot be sold for much on the market, and while they may form a large proportion of the birds' ration, they do not supply all necessary ingredients for the production of eggs. The use of a high protein commercial mash mixed with chopped home-grown grains will give much better results than the grains alone.

Good Care Essential

The properly balanced ration accomplishes wonderful results when fed to stock that is rightly bred, well managed and correctly housed.

Houses and equipment, such as brooders, feed hoppers, drinking pans, etc., that are sufficient to accommodate 100 chicks will no take care of 500. Satisfactory growth cannot be made under such conditions. Growing stock needs lots of feed; provide a good grain feed and a good growing mash in hoppers so the birds can get it.

The condition of a carcas when it is marketed depends almost entirely on the way the bird is cared for up to the time it is killed. This means the way in which it is grown and the way it is fattened for market.

FORD PLANS TREMENDOUS BOOST

Willing to spend $415,000,000 in 1935 as a boost towards what he hopes will be better times, Henry Ford recently announced the drafting of a plan of buying and production that will directly affect more than 6,000 firms in the automobile industry.

The railroads which will carry his raw and finished materials will receive approximately $74,000,000; body-building plants, $100,000,000; producers of steel, iron and non-ferrous metals, $75,000,000; tie manufacturers, $22,500,000; lumber requirements, $30,000,000; textiles, leather and finishing materials, $32,000,000.

TERM OF PARLIAMENT WILL REMAIN FIVE YEARS

According to a statement issued by Premier Hepburn last week, the term of parliament will remain at five years instead of four as was customary prior to 1930. During the election campaign, Mr. Hepburn raised quite an agitation concerning the so-called "lame duck session" of the Henry Government. Apparently "the lame duck" is to become a permanent fixture.

POTATO MARKETING SCHEME

A proposed scheme for the regulation of the marketing of potatoes produced in the five eastern provinces of Canada, and marketed through the channels of the commercial potato trade, has been submitted to the Dominon Marketing Board.

Copies of the scheme are available for distribution, and representations, with respect to it by those concerned, should be forwarded to the Secretary, Dominion Marketing Board, Ottawa. As the potato market situation is an urgent one, it is desired that any representations which are made should be forwarded promptly.

OTTAWA WINTER FAIR

The Ottawa Winter Fair has enjoyed an increasing co-operation with the schools of the district, both rural and urban. This year, besides featuring an Essay Contest of which definite information has gone forward to schools in the Counties surrounding Ottawa and to the schools in the City of Ottawa, the Directors have received the consent of the principals of the Secondary Schools to stage a Carnival of Athletic Rhythm in which a number of boys from each of the Secondary Schools, Glebe, Lisgar, Commerce and Technical, will take part. This Carnival will be spectacular and intensely interesting as showing the splendid work done to build up healthy bodies at the same time as building up the mind. A healthy mind in a healthy body is a wonderful asset.

Reserved seats may be secured by mail by sending remittance to H. H. McElroy, Secretary, Journal Building, Ottawa. The prices of seats are 50c, 35c and 25c, including admission.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

The Christian Citizen
Lesson for November 11th.
Galatians 5:13-26.
Golden Text: Matthew 26:52.

The words of Jesus chosen for our Golden Text, "All they that take the sword shall perish with the sword," is an admirable theme for Armistice Day.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Every nation that entered the World War lost it so far as freedom and economic security are concerned. Europe is seething with terror and unrest. The seeds there of another first class cataclysm are sprouting. And as the direct result of the war and its aftermath the the United States is in the throes of the worst depression she has ever known. Moreover huge debts are owing to her which will never be paid.

In this alarming crisis what is the Christian citizen to do? One fertile suggestion has been made by President Palmer, of the Chicago Theological Seminary. His proposal is that millions of people, the Christian Church leading the way, sign the following non-aggression agreement, "I will never cross the boundary of another nation to kill or destroy nor will I support my government in doing so." Such a personal non-invasion pledge might go far in preventing another international holocaust.

But such a gesture, fine as it is, is too negative. What we need most of all is a positive strategy. We shall never advance very far in our quest for permanent peace until we strengthen mightily all those organizations working realistically for the triumph of common sense in the conduct of world affairs. One of these is the World Court. Another is the League of Nations, mankind's greatest step forward. It is one of the absurdities of history that our country is not yet a member of either the Court or the League.

If Christian citizens do not place themselves behind a positive peace movement of aggressive power they deserve well-merited rebuke. The Church must repudiate war.

NATIONAL CHEESE WEEK

Winchester being the centre of a fine dairy county and one which is vitally interested in the cheese industry, should look with interest upon the proposal to stage a National Cheese Week from November 10 to 17. Merchants will have attractive displays of cheese in their windows during the week in all parts of the country in an effort to stimulate consumption of cheese, which is one of Canada's leading manufactured articles.

National Cheese Week, which has the endorsement of the federal and provincial departments of agriculture, is being sponsored by leaders in the cheese industry to stimulate increased consumption of Canadian cheese, made by Canadian workmen and maufactured from the products of Canadian farms. It is pointed out that the per capita consumption in Canada is under four lbs. per year, as compared to eight pounds in Great Britain, 16 pounds in Switzerland and upwards of that quantity in Scandinavian countries.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE TO OPEN SESSION IN MARCH

The Hepburn Government will not call its first Legislature session until probably the first week in March or even later, it was learned at Queen's Park last week. The Premier stated that no date had as yet been set, but it would likely be later than last year, when Premier Henry called th Legislatur to meet on Feb. 15th.

BAD ACCIDENT NEAR LONGUE SAULT

One man is dead, two critically injured and the other two painfully cut and bruised, the result of an automobile accident at Santa Cruz, 10 miles west of Cornwall on Tuesday. TO DECIDE LEADERSHIP OF PARTY

Hon. George S. Henry, former Conservative premier of Ontario, on Tuesday, decided to leave the question of his leadership of the Conservative party in Ontario, in the hands of the elected Conservative members of the legislature. Mr. Henry declared he had arranged to hold a conference of the members next week in Toronto when they will be asked to decide the question.

HOLD SOCIAL EVENING

The Baptist Young People's Union held a delightful social evening in the local Orange Hall on Monday last with a large number of members and friends present. The evening was spent in music and games, after which dainty refreshments were served by Mesdames T. McLean, H. Wood, B. Smith and G. Barkley. The committee in charge of the event was composed of Misses Audrey Bell, Jean McKendry and Jean Smith.

JAMES—LOBB

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at Elma on Saturday, November 3rd, when Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lobb, of Winchester, was united in marriage to Harold, son of Mr. and Mrs. William James, Chesterville. The Rev. Mr. McLeod performed the ceremony. The bride was gowned in blue cut Velvet with hat to match, and was attended by Miss Violet James. The groom's brother, Mr. Howard James was best man.

WINCHESTER H. S. LOSE 14-7

The Winchester High School football squad lost the final game of the Dundas County Interscholastic Rugby League to the Morrisburg Collegiate team on Saturday afternoon last by a score of 14-7. Fresh from their victory on the previous Saturday, when they defeated Morrisburg 8-2, the local boys fought hard for victory and the championship, but their efforts fell short. Riddled by injuries and outweighed along the line, the Purple and Gold team faded in the last half of the struggle when Morrisburg ran over two touchdowns.

By virtue of their win the Morrisburg team are district champions for 1934, total points being taken on the round. This is the first year that the league has been functioning and considerable interest has been aroused among the various schools. A stronger league is anticipated next fall.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN L. A.

There was a particularly large attendance Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Chester Robinson presided, and conducted the opening exercises. Excellent reports were presented by the Secretary and Treasurer, which were followed by the minutes and roll call. The various committees reported their activities. Final arrangements for the annual bazaar were discussed, the bazaar to be held the first Saturday afternoon and evening of December (Dec. 1st.) Meeting closed with with singing and all repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. After the meeting a very enjoyable evening was spent under the direction of Mrs. Geo. Angus. The church hall was effectively decorated with Hallowe'en colors and novelties. The program began with a delightful gang song, entitled "How do you do everybody, how do you do," including the names of the executive of the Society. Games and contests for the occasion were participated in by all present. Fruit was served by the losing members of the membership contest.

USES FOR VINEGAR

1. To make flaky pie crust add 1 1-2 teaspoons vinegar to the cold water used to mix the dough.

2. A teaspoon of vinegar added to the water in which beef is boiled or roasted means more tender beef.

3. Add a teaspoon of vinegar to the water when cooking string beans. They become tender much more quickly and the vinegar does not spoil their flavour in the least.

4. When sour milk is scarce, try using one tablespoon of vinegar to one cup of cold water and soda the same as for sour milk. This makes fine griddle cakes or biscuits.

The car of vegetables and fruit for the West was about three-quarters full when it left Winchester Station last week. If contributions were as generous from the other stations en route as they were from Chesterville and Winchester and vicinities, it is likely that another car could have been loaded. Mr. Clarence Deeks has sold his residence on May Street to Mr. George VanBridger, and has purchased the property on Main Street West, of Mr. Fraser Fawcett, where he will be located in the near future. Mr. Deeks informs the Press that it is his intention to carry on his vulcanizing and repairing business as formerly, and eventually expand his place of business. Mr. Fraser Fawcett is moving with his family to Ottawa where he will in future reside.

ABOUT THE DEPRESSION

A public debate is to be staged in Winchester within the next few weeks on the subject, "Resolved that the depression is productive of more harm than good to mankind." It is a hopeful sign when people can look upon the depression as being of any benefit to mankind, and the thought is certainly contrary to what is the everyday expression of opinion. The subject is certainly one that is intriguing, and will no doubt be heard with unusual interest.

MISSION BAND ELECTS OFFICERS

The Mission Band of the Baptist church conducted its annual election of officers recently at the home of Rev. and Mrs. H. Wood. The election resulted as follows: President, Jean Smith; vice president, Gladys Smith; secretary, Pauline McKendry; treasurer, Ruth Barkley; group leaders, G. McKendry and Gordon Small.

Following the business meeting a social gathering was enjoyed during which the hostess served light refreshments to those present.

CHARGED WITH THEFT OF CAR

Local provincial police were notified that the man who is alleged to have stolen a car in Chesterville on Friday evening last, had been apprehended in Ottawa. Constable Helmer, acompanied by Provincial Constable Frank Rose, of Morrisburg, went to the city and brought the man to Cornwall, where he will appear, charged with the theft.

The man bears a strong resemblance in the opinion of Constable Helmer, to the man who was seen in the vicinity of the Marleau car, recently stolen from Bouchette, Que., and recovered in Winchester 10 days ago.

OXFORD GROUP NEWS

An enthusiastic well-attended meeting was held this week on Tuesday night at the home of Dr. McKendry. Groupers were present from Chesterville, Inkerman, Osnabruck and Williamsburg. There was a lady missionary worker present from Fort Wayne in the far north. On Sunday last, by invitation of Rev. C. J. As a result some made the surrender of their lives to God.

THIEF ENTERS HOUSE—STEALS $60

Mr. Delbert Casselman, of Winchester Springs, was the victim of a sneak thief on Monday night last when $60 in bills were taken from his residence in his absence. During the day Mr. Casselman had sold some pigs to Mr. Albert Holmes, and after returning to his home, had deposited the money in a drawer upstairs.

In the evening he attended a public meeting in the Orange Hall at Winchester Springs, returning late. It was then that he discovered the money to be missing. Provincial Constable Frank Rose of Morrisburg was notified at once and a careful search for clews was instituted. None have been located to date, although suspicion rests upon certain parties and developments are expected.

SUMMERS—CORRIGAN

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Thursday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Almon Summers, Nation Valley, when Pearl May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Corrigan of Eganville, Ont., became the bride of Clare Andrew, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Summers, Winchester. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. W. Summers of the Wesleyan Methodist Church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Thos. McDiarmid, of Ottawa, looked charming in a gown of blue silk crepe, cut on long lines. She carried an arm bouquet of chrysanthemums.

As the bride entered the drawing room, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves and foliage, the wedding march was played by Miss Bessie Rennick of Winchester.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to 23 guests. The table was decorated in a pink and white scheme, with the wedding cake being used as a center piece. Those assisting in serving were Mrs. Sparling Summers of Williamsburg, and Mrs. Gerald Summers of Brinston.

Immediately after the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Summers left on a wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other western points. Travelling, the bride wore a costume of green silk crepe, seal coat, black hat and accessories to match. On their return they will reside at Cass Bridge.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mr. Wesley Henderson, who passed away November 7th, 1932.

What I would give to clasp his hand,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to me.
To those who have a son,
Cherish him with care,
For no one knows the sorrow,
Until they see the vacant chair.

Ever remembered by Father, Mother, Sisters and Brothers.
