Local Men on Board

Hospital Sums Up

Two local men have been elected to the Board of Governors of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital. At last week's annual meeting of the hospital Clare Brown of Iroquois and Dwight Gilmer of R.R.#1, South Mountain were both elected to two year terms on the Board of Governors.

The Hospital Board held its annual meeting last Tuesday night with reports being presented by various administrators and support groups. The year was an important one in the life of the hospital with numerous highlights, both in the areas of staffing and facilities.

A number of new appointments were made to the medical staff on July 1st, 1975. These included Dr. D.G. Merett of Metcalfe, Dr. D.R. Argue of Winchester, Dr. P. J. Michiels of Metcalfe and Dr. D. K. MacMillan of Finch, Dr. A.C. Derby of R.R.3. Iroquois was appointed to the courtesy staff while Dr. G. E. Rosenquist of Morrisburg returned to the staff.

Mrs. Marjorie Empey, R.N. of Morrisburg and Mrs. Doris Hyndman, R.N. of Hallville, both retired.

The board noted the passing on October 26 of Dr. D. G. McMillan and on November 7 of Miss B. Legris, R.N. (Director of Nursing).

In his report to the meeting, G.E. Elliott, President of the Board of Governors noted that plans to alleviate some of the hospital's problems of lack of space in the diagnostic areas have been approved in principle by the Seaway Valley District Hospital Planning Council and are now in the hands of the Ministry of Health for its review and approval.

He also noted, as has already appeared in the news media, that the hospital was exempted, at least for the time being, from any bed and budget reductions for the coming year.

Mr. Elliott pointed out the Board's indebtedness to the various committees, including the Management Finance, Public Relations, and Joint Conference Committees which all meet regularly thereby providing the board with a considerable amount of support and advice.

Dr. G.N. Houze M.D., President of the Medical Staff, presented the report of the Chief of Staff. In it he noted that the standing committees of the Medical Staff continued to undertake ongoing review of quality of care, medical records, infection control, the admitting and discharge procedures and the pharmaceutical service.

The Library and Education Committees have also continued their work in a manner that has been beneficial to members of the Medical Staff and to the hospital community in general.

As well, the credentials committee, the dental staff committee and the recently established Chief of Services group, all of whom meet regularly have been very active and have contributed a great deal.

The Medical Staff By-Laws Committee has been informed by the Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation that the destina-

Counties Engineer Defends Survey Costs

United Counties Engineer D. J. MacDonald has defended the costs involved to survey counties roads prior to construction. "Although survey parties are seen often enough to create the myth that more money is spent on surveying than it would cost to do the construction, their purpose is to save money," he said.

Mr. MacDonald explained that there are three distinct types of surveys carried out, each with its own steps.

The first step is pre engineering, with a cost of $1,500 to $2,500 per mile. This step is to collect the information required to properly design a project. Enough information is collected to prepare a plan (map) so that the designer can superimpose a safe road alignment. Then control points are established and vertical information (the hills and hollows) is gathered and plotted so that sight lines, earth and gravel quantities can be calculated. Finally, after contacting the utility companies, underground services are located, then illustrated. With proper design, based on information collected by the survey party, costly errors and last minute changes can be avoided.

The second step is the land plan which can cost anywhere from $2,000 to $4,000 per mile. This step describes the land in a legal form acceptable to the Provincially regulated Registry Offices. Usually our reconstruction requires additional road allowance. In order to pay for land and register deeds, an Ontario Land Surveyor must prepare a plan relating the various parcels being ac-

Morrisburg Lions Waiting

The Morrisburg Lions are patiently waiting for an opponent in their bid for the O. D. H. A. Championship. The Lions who edged out the Gananoque G-Men last week are waiting for a winner to be declared in the Ottawa-Hawkesbury series. The Hawkesbury Hawks defeated the Ottawa 67 B's by a score of 5 to 2 on Monday night to further delay the outcome and the resulting games against the powerhouse team from Morrisburg.

The 67's play on Wednesday night in Hawkesbury and if they win, they will play in Morrisburg on Friday night at 8:30. If the 67's lose, however, their 7th and final game will be in Ottawa on Friday night and the finals would start in Morrisburg on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

The Lions, only four games away from having a perfect season, have been forced to raise the price of admission to cover expenses for away from home games. Adults will now pay $2.00 while students and children will pay $1.00. The team has played 52 games, won 41, lost 6, tied 5 and have captured every trophy in sight and have only one more to go.

Following are the re-caps of last Wednesday and Thursday night's games.

WEDNESDAY - Lions edged the G-Men 3-2 before 1083 paid admission. Ernie Duval with assists from Kevin Duvall and Chuck Lawlor gave the Lions a 1-0 lead at 5.43, but Tim Higgins at 12.49 and Dave Freeland at 17.49 made it 2-1 for the G-Men

Morrisburg Posting OPP Precedent

Ontario's first Indian woman OPP officer has been posted to the Morrisburg detachment. Twenty four year old Jennifer Montour was the only woman among 11 native constables who graduated from the recent training course. She received her credentials last Friday in Toronto and went to work in Morrisburg on Monday morning.

Miss Montour was born on the Caughnawaga Reserve in Quebec and was given the Indian name Katsitsaienne meaning ""She Brings Flowers". She has been determined to get into police work for the past four years and has prepared herself for the job by taking a police technology course at John Abbot College for 3 1/2 years. Her eventual goal is to be involved in forensic laboratory work after spending about five years as an OPP officer.

The young Indian woman is impressed with the OPP and feels that it offers the most variety and career opportunities of other forces that she considered.

Village Shows It's Colours

Commentator Rita Garrow (seated) is flanked by the seven ladies who modelled the Au Terroir line of fashions at last week's fashion show at Upper Canada Village. Post Staff Photo Vibrant colours and versatility of styles were the highlights of a fashion show of handmade garments featured at Upper Canada Village's Village Store." Presented by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission at the Upper Canada Golf Club Lounge last Wednesday the program was seen by sell-out crowds at both the afternoon and evening performances.

Rita Garrow of Toronto was the commentator as seven ladies presented a varied selection of fashions from the Au Terroir line produced in and around Ste. Madeline, Quebec. Mrs. Garrow, designed and co-ordinated production of all the styles shown and spoke candidly about her work and the fashion business.

She explained how the company formed in 1946 by two sisters, had expanded to a million dollar a year business unable to satisfy the mushrooming demand for its products. Au Terroir, meaning "of the land" as the trade name given to the products that are hand loomed by 100 to 150 workers, all working in their homes in the St. Madeline area. Workers are taught to weave and then come to a central studio to pick up materials and do the work of sewing, weaving, stitching etc. in their homes.

The firm originally produced only drapery materials and the like, and only three years ago got into the fashion business. From a modest beginning with ties and shawls, the firm expanded into skirts and tank tops until now there is a full line of high fashion garments for women.

Mrs. Garrow attributes the firm's success to the changing tastes of today's young people. The younger generation, she says have brought back crafts and hand made things. "They have brought us back to the earth and to things we do with our hands," she said.

Clothing designed by Mrs. Garrow for the Au Terroir line is styled for maximum use and versatility, with most garments being reversible front to back and presenting a totally different image when worn with and without a

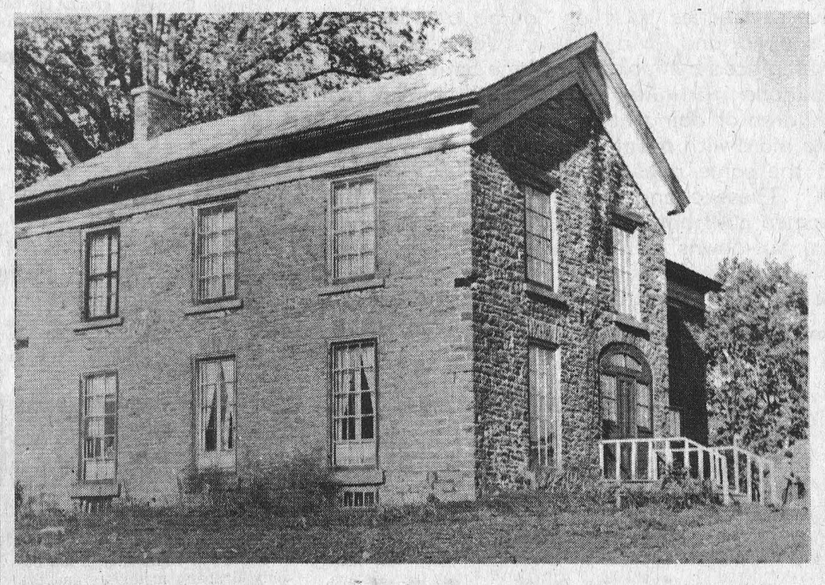
O.P.P. Investigate False Alarms

False fire alarms have plagued both Iroquois and Williamsburg township firefighters in the last few days and both incidents are being investigated by the O.P.P. On April 8th, the Iroquois volunteers were called out at 1:35 a.m. to a home on the Brinston road but the call turned out to be a false alarm.

Another call to the Williamsburg brigade brought them out at 9:05 p.m. on April 11th to a home in Dundela but this too proved to be a false alarm. Police are investigating both calls and area residents are reminded that it is an offense to turn in a false alarm. Such an action could result in personal injury as well as great damage if a fire were to break out while the men were on such a call.

Before the Waters



This photo shows the former Maggie Cooper house which was demolished about 10 years after the rest of the old village had been removed. It was the last of the old homes of the village and was located just west of the water tower and sewage pumping stations on Elizabeth Drive. The oak tree that was behind the house still stands in that location.

THE EASTER MESSAGE: HAVE FAITH!

Behind the lillies and the bunnies and the eggs there lies a thought about Easter that transcends even the orthodox teachings of the Christian Church, let alone the fluffy inanities that passes for the usual commercial Easter.

And that thought is a message of hope. The radiance of Easter has always been preceded by the crucifixion. In our world today there are all too many crucifixions and Jesus knew that when he said, "daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but for yourselves and for your children."

And in our world today where selfishness, hatred, violence, cruelty and indifference become the crucifixion, too often there is missing the radiance of Easter, the hope of Easter.

Easter does not tell the world that the stark of human suffering are over. Indeed Easter reminds us that we cannot escape these facts. But what Easter does is remind us that we need not become cynical and hopeless.

Because Easter calls us to work, as did Jesus and His disciples after the crucifixion, to help rescue the world from all that plagues it. To work together in a community of love is the message of Easter.

There will b eall the trials and pains of the Cross, there will be all the failure that is summed up in that grotesque death, there will be all the weakness and despair, all the frailty and penitence. But at the end will come Easter, the resurrection, the glory, all the things we sing about—welcome happy morning!

So Easter reminds us of the human condition. We cannot have the victory without the defeat but the assurance is that in God's community of love, there is hope.

So the message of Easter 1976, like the first Easter is:

Have faith!

JOURNALISTIC SEXISM

Since so many journalists have been falling all over themselves recently trumpeting what a bust International Women's Year was — it's time media people did something positive about sexism in their own backyard.

For starters editors could copy an exciting new code developed by British journalists to give women full equality in the news.

The code forthrightly brands the use of front page nude photos and cheesecake to sell newspapers as "Exploitative . . . perpetuating the myth that women's chief purpose in life is to gratify men."

The code also agrees that women have the same right as men to marital anonymity in the news suggesting the use of "Ms" instead of "Miss" or "Mrs." Age too would be eliminated from stories unless relevant. Emotive descriptions of female measurements, physical and mental assets, and sex-typing of jobs would go. Descriptions like "railwaymen" or "businessmen" would change to "rail workers" and "business executives." Cliches such as "dumb blondes" would disappear and "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith" would be replaced by "John and Jane Smith." The code cautions journalists not to ridicule men rearing children or doing home chores — nor commiserate more with them than they would with women in the same roles.

These changes may seem trifling. But to women confronted constantly by demeaning sexual put-downs in the media—it's not trifling. Women by their increasingly responsible roles both at home and at work command respect.

Report TO THE People

Bilingualism - Let's Change Course

Everybody has read what Keith Spicer, the Commissioner of Official Languages has said at long last about language training for Public Servants.

When I read his report, I re-read the speeches and statements that I have made inside and outside the House of Commons since April of 1972 - perhaps Keith Spicer got around to reading them as well!

I do not agree with every conclusion but there are a number of things that leap out of the report. Firstly, even Keith Spicer cannot find the true cost in dollar terms.

Secondly, generally speaking, Government's language program is not providing a facility in the second language and ought to be reconsidered. He put the question very succinctly: ""was this trip really necessary for so many""? My mail tells me that the question is a valid one and that the Government had better examine it and, for once, admit they are wrong and review the direction in which they are taking us.

He refers to the Bibeau Report the conclusions of which confirmed that the criteria for identifying bilingual positions do not adequately take into account actual need for the second language on the job. Moreover, levels of second language on the job. Moreover, levels of second language requirements are not determined in terms of specific duties to be preformed. Accordingly, Public Service language training appears to pursue objectives which are to a large extent arbitrary, not realistically job related.

In other words, a new direction is needed. The designation of bilingual positions should be reviewed from the ground up but the question that I ask myself is this. Why was this process not begun at a time when it was being brought forcibly to the attention of the Government that they were wrong? Why have so many members of the Public Service who wanted nothing else but to use their skills as professionals and technicians in the Service been put through the aggrehensions and agonies of the implementation program? How long is the Trudeau Government to persist in practices which Parliament's own Language Commissioner says should now be treated with benign neglect?

But that is not the whole substance of the Report.

Mr. Spicer comes down on the side of teaching second language in the school system and there are very few Canadians, whether French or English, who can argue with that. In effect he is saying if we believe that second language training is a good thing, then it could be most effectively done, for the immense number of dollars involved, among the young and he is right. That is why I urged the Secretary of State to continue the leadership which he has shown in extending the funding for experimental immersion programs in thethe National Capital area. By the time this column is read, the first of the official meetings in Ontario will have been held according to an answer he gave me in the House of Commons and I hope the meetings are successful.

There is another side to the teaching of language to the young that many people do not think about and that is the whole question of understanding and trust between the two major linguistic groups in Canada - French and English. There are resentments in this sensitive area and resentments do not provide fertile ground. The singular advantage of teaching a second language to the young is that within a reasonable time a new generation will emerge in our Country which can communicate in either language. That is an ideal which is worth striving for even though it may take some time to reach. One of the mistakes of the Trudeau Government has been to assume that we could remake 100 or so years of Canadian history in a short period of 10 years. Perhaps they will now wake up to the facts - Heaven knows it is time!

by J.M.

First thing on this week's agenda is a little housekeeping matter concerning the caption that appeared on the picture of the Atom A's hockey picture. We had more than a few people point out that it wasn't the Bantams as we stated. It should have been obvious to us that the team was indeed the Atoms. Everyone knows that if it had been the Bantams they would have all been bigger than their dads. Now on to the question corner.

This week we have two questions that will possibly stump readers as much as they do this writer. The first one concerns the spelling of Hanesville (Hainsville). You can see our problem. Since taking this job we have been skirting the issue, trying to avoid any problems with either the residents of the hamlet or the folks in "the government" who give names to such places. The road sign quite plainly says "Hainsville", as does the telephone directory. The Post Office also uses that spelling, but no official listing could be found of the word.

A check of the phone book shows that there are four families living in the general area of "that place" and all spell their names Hanes. We know a few other Hanes' as well, and none has taken the Hains spelling.

So the question is -- How do you really spell Ha--sville? Drop us a note or phone in and explain if you can, how these two methods of spelling came into being.

Our second question is for the scientists, although we tend to think that they too would have a difficult time answering it. We're still searching for a wise person ("wise man" being too sexist a term) who can define Kilopascal, that nifty new way of measuring atmospheric pressure.

We watched CJOH news one evening last week and were amused by the efforts of Ron Wood to try and explain it to weatherman Peter Emmerson. Having worked with Ron when we were both at CJOH, it was interesting in his new job as public relations man for the Metric Commission to see him squirm as he explained that it shouldn't matter to us what Kilapascal was. All that really mattered, he emphasized, was that we know that average atmospheric pressure at sea level is 100 kilopascals. Nice try, Ron, but how does it compare to that old column of mercury that we all played with in high school. If anyone at Seaway High should check, there is probably still a bit of mercury rolling around the science room floor from a little accident that our grade 10 class had with that column. We don't envy today's teachers who have to put across the concept of barometric pressure when even the Metric Commission has trouble finding an explanation for Kilopascals.

And a final parting note - we've been getting more than our share of letters and phone calls lately complaining of late delivery of the Post, particularly to areas outside eastern Ontario. Nothing has changed in our methods of distribution, nor have things changed at the Iroquois Post Office. But once the papers leave Iroquois, they get caught up in that great huge machine that seems to operate slower as it grows bigger. Dependable service seems to have gone the way of the carrier pigeon.

Voice of the turkey

By BILL SMILEY

WELL, what is your opinion of capital punishment and gun control, Uncle Elmer? Yes or no? Thank you. I thought so.

In its ineffable wisdom, our government has lumped the two into a new piece of legislation on which those famous fencesitters, our Members of Parliament, are presently and uncomfortably astride.

It is perfectly obvious, even to an M.P., what the public wants, in both cases. A large majority would like to keep the capital punishment issue on the books, and apply it widely.

An equally large majority would like to see a much more effective form of gun control, for the simple and sensible purpose of cutting down on violent crime.

But, and here's the political catch, in each case the minority speaks with a stentorian voice, and politicians, like St. Joan, pay a lot of attention, perhaps too much, to voices, stentorian or otherwise.

Strange bedfellows. On the one hand, the humanitarians who believe that the taking of life, even officially, and even for murder, is wrong. And in the same sack, those violently opposed to gun control as some sort of interference in the sacred rights of the individual to pack a fire-iron if he so chooses.

The Bible tells us that on a certain occasion: "The voice of the turtle was heard in the land." This was a reference to the return of spring, from the Song of Solomon.

Transfer this to Canada, spring 1976, and it might be paraphrased: "And the voice of the turkey was heard in the land."

I would never, of course, suggest that everyone who favours capital punishment or is against gun control is a turkey. That would eliminate most of my friends. But the gabble and gobble is unmistakeable.

I have my own clear-cut opinions on each issue, and I herewith offer them for the guidance of puzzled politicians and the few hundred Canadians who are indecisive on these matters.

Let us take a case in point. This is a true story. Just over a decade ago, a 14-year-old boy shot and killed his mother. I don't blame him. I'd have done the same.

He was a good boy, in every sense, and a good student. But his mother wanted him to be a great boy and a superb student. She nagged him ruthlessly to do better, though the kid was doing his best.

One day, for some reason that is not important here, he failed a test at school. The harpy was waiting for him, and when he confessed, she lit into him like the Witch of Endor.

He went and got his father's gun and shot her dead. Now, according to most of my friends, and 95 per cent of my students, he should have been hanged. Their favorite argument, in our materialistic society: "It'd cost us a hundred thousand dollars to keep him in jail for life."

And all those who favor rigid gun control will say: "It never woulda happened if his father haddena hadda gun."

And those very vocal citizens who oppose very tight restrictions on guns will say: "It woodena happened if the gun was registered and his dad belonged to a hand-gun club and it was under lockankee, like we want."

Well, it wasn't, and he didn't, and it did. All of which, of course, is beside the point, as most of these arguments are. The kid would have killed the old lady with a knife, or a hammer, or her steam iron, or the nearest thing handy, if there'd been no gun.

Well, what did happen? The boy was tried, found guilty of homicide while of unsound mind, and incarcerated in a mental institution, possibly for life. Fair enough?

While there, he showed all the symptoms of normalcy, whatever they are. He wasn't crazy, or even mentally disturbed, if you prefer euphemisms. He knew what he'd done. He was sorry.

During the next several years, he was tutored by a wise and compassionate teacher (not me, Doc). He completed his high school courses, on his own. He was eventually released, went to university, graduated with honors, and is now a better-than-average member of society.

Perhaps he should have been hanged. That would certainly have taught him a lesson.

Perhaps we should go back to the lash, and branding a capital "W" on the foreheads of prostitutes, and cutting off the hands of shop-lifters. I dunno. These measures didn't put an end to crime in the middle ages.

Perhaps we should be able to go into a drugstore and buy a gun. It's almost that easy in the States. I dunno.

But I do know that capital punishment will never stop murder.

And I do know there are an awful lot of nuts, not quite certifiable, running around the country with perfectly legal guns.

Take it from there, Warren Almand, you plucky little Solicitor-General, or Super-Lawyer, if you don't prefer euphemisms.

tion of medical staff privileges by procedure is no longer necessary and that the hospital's present group system of delineation of privileges is acceptable for Accreditation purposes.

With this problem out of the way, revision of the Medical Staff By-Laws is expected to soon be completed and submitted for approval.

Dr. Houze noted that the medical staff is pleased that the Board of Governors are taking steps to try and solve some of the problems of lack of space by certain re-locations and renovations.

He noted that the medical staff currently stands at 40, including consultants and dental staff.

In the report from Hospital Administrator, H.P. Stel, it was noted that the increased costs of operating the hospital both from a staffing standpoint as well as from the physical plant aspect, would have to be carefully considered in assessing any future development.

He noted that 1975 was a very progressive one for the Hospital with full accreditation status being obtained for another 3 years. He also noted the satisfactory completion of the incinerator project in December 1975.

Mr. Stel pointed out that a review of the statistical data for the year shows that the hospital was able to provide services to both in and out patients, at an ever increasing rate, despite the continuing handicap of lack of space, especially in the diagnostic area and in the Emergency-Out Patient department. He was optimistic that this situation would be rectified as proposals for renovations have now been presented to the Ministry of Health for approval.

In addition Mr. Stel thanked all the committees and groups that have so capably offered their services to the hospital during the year.

A report for the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was tabled by Mrs. Evelyn Macartney, president of the organization. She noted that the group had earned a total of $11,933.02 for the year ending September 30. Expenditures amounted to $8060.02 with $4,064.24 going towards hospital equipment.

She also noted the large saving to the hospital provided by both teenage and adult volunteers, pointing out that in these days of restraint, it will be necessary more than ever, to count on the valued services of these people.

The following people will be serving on the board of Governors of the hospital: One year term - expires 1977 - Mr. Robert Geggie, Winchester; Mr. Stanley A. Hicks, Metcalfe; Mr. Keith F. Holmes, Winchester; Mr. John R. McIntosh, Box 402 Winchester; Mr. Lee McIntosh, Riverside Heights; Mr. Thomas B. Rance, Chesterville; Mr. Murray Shane, R.R.#1, Williamsburg; Mrs. Louise Sloan, Box 291, Morrisburg; Mr. Ron Workman, Winchester. - Two Year Term - expires 1978 - Mrs. R. Bols, Russell; Mr. Clare S. Brown, Iroquois; Mrs. Ann Lee Carscadden (Dale), Russell; Mr. G. E. Elliott, Winchester; Mr. Dwight Gilmer, R.R. 1, South Mountain; Mr. Edward Hanson, Williamsburg; Mr. T.H. Mark Education Week at St. Cecilia's

Education Week, April 4 - 10, was a busy one at St. Cecilia's Separate School in Iroquois with events for each day of the week, ranging from discussion on various vocations to gymnastic displays. Throughout the week, there was a display of hobbies and elective projects at the school as well as a display of students' work in the shopping plaza. In addition there was both a bulletin board contest and a photography contest for students.

Public speaking also figured into the week's events with a debating contest on Thursday morning. These were topped off with the Royal Canadian Legion's Public Speaking Contest held on Thursday evening at which St. Cecilia's students took all awards.

Wednesday evening, a special Catholic Parent-Teacher's Association meeting was held, with the theme "Knowledge Through Understanding" to mark Education week. Students from both St. Mary's and St. Cecilia's spoke to the group and did a gymnastic performance while the younger students shared stories and experiences with the group.

Career choices were also in the spotlight with Sister MacKinnon and Father Hibberd talking on vocations in the church on Tuesday. On Wednesday, Dr. Wayne Domanko of St. Lawrence Medical Clinic spoke on careers in medicine and Friday morning Jim Millard, editor of the Post, spoke on newspaper production.

Judging of the photography contest was also held on Friday with judges Velma Fisher, Jim Millard and Percy Lefebvre (from the S.D.&G. Separate School Board head office). Winner of the first prize, a pocket camera provided by M. & J. Cole was Terry Laurin, while her sister Angela won the second prize of $5.00 donated by the Morrisburg Leader.

Hydro Reschedules Dam Tours

Ontario Hydro has reversed its earlier decision to cancel tours at the Robert Saunders Power Dam in Cornwall. The tours, to be held only during July and August this year will not be free, as in the past. Adults will pay 50¢ and children 25¢ for the tour of the facility.

This year the tours will be held from July 1 to Labour Day and will be conducted by three people instead of the previous nine.

Tours will be operated 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. from Sunday to Thursday. There will be no tours on Fridays and Saturdays. Hydro officials declined to state whether the tours would be continued next year, saying only that the main reason for their change in position for this summer was the Olympics, an event that will draw many visitors to the Seaway Valley.

by E. G. Avery — Bird Notes

Winter and Spring are having a game of tag, and at the time of writing, Winter is ""it". After Saturday snowfall, the Bluejays and the Grosbeaks came rushing back to the feeders. The Redpolls are still here, along with a fleck of Tree Sparrows which come quite regularly after an absence of some weeks.

Spring birds continue to make an appearance. The Robins in good numbers now, seem to be particularly well nourished despite the difficult conditions for digging worms! They are already gathering grasses and other building materials for the busy nesting-time which is close at hand. Although a Robin's nest looks untidy on the outside it is strong and warm inside; grass and bits of string closely woven together and secured with mud make an excellent adobe-type home for the two and sometimes three broods.

Wild ducks are now touring the River looking for likely places to build their nests. The Mourning Dove which was seen a couple of weeks ago is still in the vicinity, perhaps coming in from the nearby woods to look over the feeding possibilities in the village. The first Slate-Coloured Junco visited our feeder on Sunday, and the Tree Swallows are coming in now, so Winter's turn will be a short one.

Wee keep the seeds out until the white-throated and white-crowned Sparrows have come through on their way North; it is always a special pleasure to see these lovely members of the Sparrow family. If we have an overabundance of Cowbirds and Grackles, it is worth to see the ""Special" birds when they do come.

Morrisburg Lions Await Outcome Ottawa-Hawkesbury Series

Jim Tuttle assisted by Doug McNairn and Ernie Duval tied the game at 8.50 of the same period. The teams battled back and forth before the next goal came at 1.13 of the third period Defenceman David Cassell assisted by Ernie Duval & Bryan Rutley scored what proved to be the winner. Lions picked up a penalty with 40 seconds remaining, and the G-Men received 7 minors, 2 majors for high sticking, while the Lions were assessed 6 minors by referee Carm MacMillan.

THURSDAY - Lions travelled to Gananoque minus Hugh Gillard, Tim Cassell & Brian Moran, all on the injured list; Don McNairn was in the net playing with an injured knee; and they came home with a 5-4 win shouting "Were No. 1." Chuck Lawlor opened the scoring at 5:30 on a power play assisted by Kevin Duvall. Dave Freeland at 10.20 and Steve Higgs at 14.50 gave the G-Men a 2-1 lead after the first period.

25 seconds into the second, Mike Gilpin gave the G-Men a 3-1 lead. At 12.20 with a 2 man advantage Chuck Lawlor assisted by Kevin Duvall & Ernie Duval narrowed the lead to 3-2. But, 55 seconds later Harold Higgs made it 4-2 for G-Men.

Third period the Lions came alive. Paul Doney scored a power play goal at 12.10 with assists from Chuck Lawlor and Doug McNairn. At 18.50 Kevin Duvall beat goalie Jim Niles to tie the game, with assists from David Cassell & Doug McNairn. The large crowd anticipated overtime, but with 15 seconds remaining in the third Kevin Duvall with assists from David & Doug, beat Niles again for the winner and to retire the G-Men for the season.

G-Men received 10 of the 17 minors handed out, and outshot the Lions 52-46, but the Lions earned the right to advance into finals against the north divisions.

News From Seaway High

On Thursday, April 8, Seaway welcomed a special visitor. General Grant, radio broadcaster from CFRA presented to 40 interested students a lecture on broadcasting. A special surprise was presented after the lecture of those students who contributed the discussion. The award consisted of a record.

The six-member Fellowship Team, on their Ontario tour, revisited Seaway on April 8, and gave a performance of songs and skits to students in the library at lunch. After school hours, the team conducted seminars for the Christian Fellowship Group. Following a delicious chili supper at the Iroquois United Church, songs games and a devotional study were conducted by the team.

The team's visit was interesting and informative, and we are looking forward to a return visit.

In our "Magazine Drive", we made approximately $7,000 from subscription sales. From the amount obtained, the athletic association will receive $2,500.

Chairman for this successful drive was Randy Keyes. His assistant was Kevin MacIntosh. In charge of publicity was Ted Wardle; awards were looked after by Rita Baelde; treasurer was Andrew Schneckenburger; and in charge of certification were Laura Phillips and Nancy McCaslin. Much effort was put toward this drive, and we are hoping that all other drives we conduct will be just as successful.

Also on April 8, the Economics 490 class, accompanied by Mrs. Hasson and Miss Crozier embarked on a field trip to Ottawa.

The Royal Canadian Mint was the first stop on the day's agenda. A guided tour was provided here and despite the ominous presence of tight security our group seemed to enjoy their step by step introduction to the manufacture of coinage. However, the "gold room", to our disappointment, was off limits.

Lunch was enjoyed by all at MacDonald's and then it was off to the Museum of Science and Technology for the afternoon.

Some of the popular exhibits here included the Bricklin car, the 'crazy" kitchen, the Appollo 7 space module and the exhibit testing reflex action. Some members of the class engaged in a contest to see who had the best reflexes. The top two contestants were Leslie Erickson and Randy Veinotte with Leslie maintaining that she was the champ due to her lightning response of 19 seconds.

The trip back to Seaway was relaxing and a good day seemed to be had by all.

This hungry crowd was oblivious to the Post camera as they demolished a stack of pancakes at the Pancake Day held at Carl-Don Equipment's Mountain showroom. Officials of International Harvester estimated that over 1,000 took advantage of the chance for a pancake lunch, and by the end of the day well over 5,000 pancakes had been flipped on the griddle.

Fastball League Meeting Sunday

Planning is now underway for the seventh consecutive operating season of the Grenville-Dundas Fastball League. There are early indications that it will be another expansion year of keen competition for the intermediate circuit.

Most of last year's seven entries, including the championship squad from Mountain, will be back in action in 1976. Some clubs report spring training has already begun indoors.

League President Bob Rupert and Secretary-Treasurer Bill Williams have called the initial league meeting for Sunday, April 18 at 10 a.m. at the Snowmobile Club in Hulbert. Clubs interested in participating should send representatives to the meeting with authority to make financial and policy decisions.

In addition to the perennially powerful Mountain entry, last year's league roster included South Mountain, Brinston, Spencerville, South Gower, and two teams from Iroquois. All these clubs are expected back and there have been additional signs of interest from the Cardinal, Morrisburg, Winchester and Kemptville areas.

The league started in 1970 with entries from Mountain, Inkerman, Burritt's Rapids and Heckston. The name was changed from Mountain District Softball League to Grenville-Dundas Fastball League to reflect the breadth of geographic representation and increased calibre of play.

Receives Award of Merit

Fitzsimmons-Fader furniture in Iroquois has received an award of merit from the Gibson Appliance Company, whose line is one of several handled by the local store. Ron Fader and his wife Joyce were presented with the award while at a recent dealers meeting.

Only 16 dealers across Canada received the award which was combined with ethical business practices in the appliance industry. Ron now becomes a member with the president's council in the company and is involved in the selections of next year's winners. Fitzsimmons Fader Furniture has been associated with Gibson Appliances since Ron and Joyce took over operation of the store almost five years ago.

Euchre Leaders

After two weeks of play in the Matilda Recreation Committee's Euchre Tournament, standings are as follows: Mrs. Alice Crowder is in first place with Mrs. Phyliss Vandemheen second, Mrs. Lila Fawcett is in third place.

The men have a tie as Mr. Harold Lewis and Mr. Bill Vandemheen are equal and Mr. George Barton next in line.

Final evening of play in the three week tournament is on Wednesday night. Watch for the results in next week's Post.

Diamond Wedding

On Sunday afternoon April 4, 1976 relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cameron in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cameron of South Mountain on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Ray Cameron pinned a corsage of roses on Mrs. Cameron and a white carnation on Mr. Cameron.

On April 5th, 1916 Lila McCarley and Duncan Cameron were married in the South Mountain Manse by Rev. Harold Bolingbroke.

Relatives presented the bride and groom with several plants and a radio. An arrangement of flowers was received from the old neighbours as well as many beautiful cards.

They received a plaque of congratulations from Premier Davis, and a letter from Mr. Osie Villeneuve, M.P.P.

Tea and coffee were poured by nieces Mrs. Wesley Hutton of Brooks, Alta., and Mrs. Mary Hay of Ottawa. Mrs. Hutton made and decorated the three tiered anniversary cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron are the proud parents of two sons, Ray of Ottawa and Lloyd of Mountain. They are equally proud of their five grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to say "thank you" to all, friends, neighbours, co-workers and family for their many acts of kindness, while I was in Hospital.

Your cards, gifts and treats were really appreciated.

Special thanks to Rev. Gee, Dr. Marston, the nurses on second floor, and Legion - Branch 370.

You were all very kind and thoughtful and I will never forget you.

Stanley St. Pierre 43-lp

We wish to express our sincere gratitude to the relatives, friends and neighbors who sent flowers gave donations to the many funds of their choice and conveyed their sympathy to us in so many ways at this time of deep sorrow in the recent bereavement of a dearly loved husband, father and grandfather Donald Sullivan. These acts of kindness will always be remembered.

Nonie Sullivan, Margareth and Doug Airth and family. 43-lp

Mr. D. G. Dix retired from Rohm and Haas Canada Limited on, April 1, 1976. Mr. Dix was appointed to the position of Plant Manager of the Sea-Way Plant of Morrisburg, Ontario at the time of its construction in 1964 and he continued to operate in that capacity during the past 12 years.

There have been two major construction programs under his leadership which expanded the plant to its present size. We sincerely wish Mr. Dix good health and full enjoyment of his liesure time during retirement.

Engineer

quired to lot corners, etc. Square iron bars are placed to provide evidence for future reference. The final step before the actual construction starts is the Construction survey with a cost per mile of from $1,000 to $5,000. This survey explains to those doing the work exactly what is to be done. Doing too much work is a waste of money, while too little adds to future maintenance costs. The various elements of the road are located on the ground and marked with stakes (fenceline, centreline, edge of road shoulder bottom of ditch, edge of ditch, elevation, etc.), stakes which must be replaced if removed. Another step of this survey determines quantities of materials used so that payments reflect work done. Adequate survey control assures that only what is planned is done and paid for.

Mr. MacDonald pointed out that although it seems expensive, mistakes in the design stages and in the construction stages, and future legal actions to clarify land title are even more costly. "With total construction costs between $100,000 and $400,000 per mile, the Counties considers the expense of pre-planning and control well worthwhile," he stated.

In Memoriam

AULT - In loving memory of my dear husband Ancil Ault who passed away the 11th day of April 1969.

The gates of memory will never close
I miss him more than anyone knows
With tender love and deep regret
I who loved him will never forget.

Ever remembered by wife Stella Ault.

D.G. Dix Retires From Sea-Way

Mr. D.G. Dix (center) is presented with a symbolic key to the Sea-Way Plant from Mr. G. Parrett (left), Vice-President - Manufacturing and Mr. H. Oliver (right), President & General Manager of Rohm and Haas Canada Limited. On the occasion of Mr. Dix's retirement as Plant Manager of the Sea-Way Plant of Morrisburg, he was honoured at three separate functions and received many gifts including luggage, fishing equipment, bookends, wine rack and numerous other humorous reminders of his 12 years at Sea-Way.
