Fire Drills At Schools Show Excellent Training

Fire Prevention Week is being capably handled by the local Volunteer Brigade. Starting with the Church Parade on Sunday last, the men have been busy in their effots to impress on the public the need for constant attention to the reduction of fire hazards and the need for safety training in the event of fire.

Tuesday and Wednesday found members of the Brigade on hand at the schools to conduct a timed fire drill. The results were most encouraging and show that the teachers have not neglected that important part of the training of the pupils. Chesterville Public School answered the fire bell at 2.30 p.m. The school was cleared in forty seconds with a complete absence of confusion or rushing. Pupils number 150. Chesterville Separate School saw a well-ordered exodus in fifteen seconds of their 41 pupils on the same afternoon. Chesterville High School poured out Wednesday afternoon in a matter of thirty seconds in the rain. 93 students were on hand to be cleared.

The greatest advantage of the drills is to the firemen. In the event of a fire, they will know the order and system used by the schools, and less confusion is bound to result if firemen and students know what to expect.

The fire whistle will blow Thursday afternoon for the fulldress display of a fire run and the putting out of a fire. Ladder work will be demonstrated and we understand a trapped female answering to the name of Myrtle will be rescued from a burning building.

Mrs. William R. Whittaker Williamsburg Dies Suddenly

Much regret was felt by a large circle of relatives and friends at the sudden death of Mrs. Wm. R. Whittaker, who passed away at her home in Williamsburg, on Sunday night. Mrs. Whittaker had apparently been in her usual health, having attended the morning service in St. Peter's Lutheran church. About 9 o'clock she suffered a severe heart attack and passed away shortly after before her physician could reach her.

Mrs. Whittaker was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Milo Wood, born at Pillars Point on October 21, 1889. In 1913 she married William R. Whittaker and came to Williamsburg where she had since resided.

Besides her husband she is survived by one son, Howard Whittaker, her daughter-in-law and two grandchildren, also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Chas. Avery of Dexter, NY, and Mrs. Emmett Horton of Chaumont, NY.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from her residence to St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williamsburg. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. George Innes. The church choir led in the singing of the hymns and Mrs. Innes sang "O Rest in the Lord". Interment was in Brinston cemetery. The pallbearers were Grant McIntosh, Harold Shannette, Ford Cunningham, Henry Garlough, David A. Shaw, Weldon Beckstead.

RADIO LICENSE SALE SUDDENLY SPURTS

The other day the Post Office noted a sudden increase in the sale of radio licenses. There was practically a line-up in attendance clamoring for the blue slips.

The reason for the sudden activity has been laid to the unannounced appearance of a polite gentleman from the Department of Transport who made a quick trip up Joseph Steet and Victoria Street checking the expiry date of the householder's licenses. We are led to believe that quite a few were found slightly out of date. The local 'arm of the law' made that quite clear on Wednesday when he followed up the inspector's calls with some calls of his own.

The license can be purchased from the Post Office for $2.50.

EVENING AUXILIARY MET TUESDAY EVENING

The members of the Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S. met Tuesday evening in the United Church dining hall. It being the special Thankoffering meeting each member brought a guest.

Mrs. Belcher gave a report on the rummage sale which brought $110.00.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Gould, Mrs. C. Merkley and Mrs. Hutton. The theme being on evangelism, "Growing with the year in our evangel".

A quartette comprised of Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. J. Doering, Mrs. C. Merkley and Mrs. J. Fyke accompanied by Mrs. E. Johnson, sang two delightful numbers.

At the close of the meeting lunch was served by the program committee.

COMMUNISM NEW ONLY IN FAILURES AND VICTIMS

(The Scene from Shingwauk Farm)

"What we learn from history is that we do not learn from history," said a wise man whose name escapes us.

Communism is not new. The Early Christians failed completely in their effort to make it work and the Pilgrim fathers suffered greatly from the failure of their experiment with it. The only new thing about Communism is the fresh failures of the efforts of its modern victims to make it work. In writing about the faiiure of the communistic experiment made by the Pilgrim Fathers, Henry Hazlitt said in News-week:

"I am indebted to Betty Knowles Hunt for sending me a column she contributed to The New Hampshire Morning Union quoting from Governor Bradford's own history of the Plymouth Bay Colony over which he presided. It is a story that deserves to be far better known, particularly in an age that has acquired a mania for socialism and Communism, regards them as peculiarly 'progressive' and entirely new, and is sure that they represent 'the wave of the future.'

"Most of us have forgotten that when the Pilgrim Fathers landed on the shores of Massachusetts they established a Communistic system. Out of their common product and storehouse they set up a system of rationing, though it came to 'but a quarter of a pound of bread a day to each person.' Even when havest came, 'it arose to but a little.' A vicious circle seemed to set in. The people complained that they were too weak from want of food to tend the crops as they should. Deeply religious though they were, they took to stealing from each other. 'So as it well appeared,' writes Governor Bradford, 'that famine must still insue the next year also, if not some way prevented.'

Better Rewards for Better Efforts

'So the colonists,' he continues 'began to thinke how they might raise as much corne as they could, and obtaine a beter crope than they had done, that they might not still thus languish in miserie. At length (in 1623) after much debate of things, the Gov. (with the advise of the cheefest amongst them) gave way that they should set corne every man for his owne perticuler, and in that regard trust to them selves . . . And so assigned to every family a parcell of land.

'This had very good success, for it made all hands very industrious, so as much more corne was planted than other waise would have bene by any means the Gov. or any other could use, and saved him a great deall of trouble, and gave farr better contente.

'The women now wente willingly into the feild, and tooke their litle-ons with them to set corne, which before would aledg weakness, and inabiliie; whom to have compelled would have bene thought great tiranie and oppression.

Personal Rights Sound Basis

'The experience that was had in this commone course and condition, tried sundrie years, and that amongst godly and sober men, may well evince the vanitie of that conceit of Platos and other ancients, applauded by some of later times;—that the taking away of propertie, and bringing in communitie into a comone wealth, would make them happy and florishing; as if they were wiser than God. For this communitie (so farr as it was) was found to breed much confusion and discontent, and retard much imployment that would have been to their benefite and comforte.

'For the yong-men that were most able and fitte for labour and service did repine that they should spend their time and streingth to worke for other mens wives and children, with out any recompense. The strong, or man of parts, had no more in devission of victails and cloaths, than he that was weake and not able to doe a quarter the other could; this was thought injuestice. . . .

'And for men's wives to be commanded to doe service for other men, as dressing their meate, washing their coaths, etc., they deemed it a kind of slaverie neither could many husbands wekk brooke it . . .

Personal Responsibility Proved Solution

'By this time harvest was come and instead of famine, now God gave them plentie, and the face of things was changed, to the rejoysing of the harts of many, for which they blessed God. And the effect of their particuler (private) planting was well seene, for all had, one way or other, pretty well to bring the year aboute, and some of the abler sorte and more industrious had to spare, and sell to others, so as any generall want or famine hath not been amongst them since to this day."

And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost."

Mrs. Clayton In Baffinland Writes Her Friends

Pangnirtung, Baffin Island, N.W.T.

September 10, 1949.

Dear Elizabeth and Everybody:-

Have arrived in the land of rocks, and mountains and short, dark, husky people and dogs.

We enjoyed the trip immensely, until we started up the coast of Labrador and the winds began to blow, then we rolled and rocked and bumped into walls of foaming water, Phyllis and I both got sea sick. For two days I lay in bed trying to quote: "For those in peril on the sea". All the newest sea sick medicine we had with us only made me worse. We were so top heavy with cargo and it got loose, I forget how many thousand gallons of gasoline and fuel oil was on board. Also coal for all Government employees on Baffin. There was 12 tons for us and it costs more than $100. a ton by the time it arrives here. Then there was a year's supply of food for about 20 people. A complete five-room house for the R.C.M.P. here, bathroom fixtures, electric light, etc., and several boats. The Captain was afraid he would lose some of it, that he went into Cut Throat Bay about half way up the Labrador Coast, where we sheltered all night and the crew had a chance to get things tied down better. Here we saw our first Eskimo, some of the men went ashore and found they could talk a little English, they fish in summer and move inland to trap in winter.

As soon as the boat stopped I felt better and was able to sit out on deck all evening. The farther we went North the longer the day. We could read outside at 10 p.m. and the sun was shining bright again at 3 a.m. Before we left Labrador, the hills were all covered with snow which never melts. We crossed Hudson Strait and into Davis Strait and then fog. All day we couldn't see a thing, I was terrified for fear of meeting an iceberg but Newfoundland seamen can smell them, even the cook could stick his head out of the window and tell us what the weather would be like tomorrow.

After ten days of rolling and swaying, we reached Cumberland Sound, Baffin, and sighted the little settlement of Pangnirtung about 8 in the morning. They didn't intend coming here first because it is about 150 miles inland, but thought he could make better time if he got rid of his load and Phyllis and I were glad when he decided to do it. I wasn't looking forward to another three or four weeks of bad weather. We were so excited we could scarcely eat our breakfast or get packed and about 9 o'clock dropped anchor and we stood on deck with our binoculars wondering which was our house. The people were not expecting us so soon and we could see them dashing around putting their flags up. First the hospital flag went up, then the mission, then the R.C.M.P., the Hudson Bay Co. and lastly the Government cottage where the Doctor lives, then out came a motor boat with two mounted police, followed by a bigger boat with a lot of gaily dressed people. There are no docks here because of the reef and high tides. Everybody came on board. First Dr. Osborne, his wife and two children, dressed in beautiful white Eskimo parkas, trimmed wi h white fox, she had her infant son in her parka hood, Dr. Osborne had a seal skin coat on. The matron of the hospital in a similar outfit, also the H.B. man and his wife. They greeted us as if they hadn't seen any other white people for a year and they certainly hadn't seen many. It was a royal welcome. We were taken ashore and all were invited to a home for dinner. I forgot to tell you there were six other men and one woman passenger. They were all meteorologists going to different posts on Baffin. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamine from Edmonton, were going to Arctic Bay. He is supervisor of all the work on Baffin and there is just one other white woman there.

We had our first meal in our new home. Delicious Arctic salmon, Dehydrated potatoes, lettuce and tomatoes from the Hudson Bay Co. green house, vase of pansies on the table and raw blue berries picked by the natives. We were just as pleased as we could be with our new home. Wish you could see it. The outside looks like a small summer cottage painted white with green roof, but inside it is just as cozy as can be. Kitchen with a white range just like yours with 30-gal. hot water tank, built-in cupboards, livingroom and dining combined, with two big windows, one looking out to the Atlantic and the other you see a row of snow capped mountains. The floor is covered with a new Wilton rug over battleship linoleum, chintz covered chesterfield suite, extra chairs, low, built in bookcases, two radios, a desk, oak dining table and chairs. Both beds have beauty rest mattresses, the bathroom has a tub, the water runs out but you have to put it in, a chemical toilet, a dressing table with blue curtains and lots of built-in clothes cupboards. A Quebec heater between bedroom and bathroom. The lamps are gasoline. It is just as cozy as it can be and so bright. Rosie, my house maid, is 18 years and is half breed. Her father was a white trapper. She speaks very little English (they don't try) but understands what I say to her. Rosie's mother does the laundry work and her father is the handy man, looks after fires, carries coal, looks after the boat and dogs, etc. There is no servant problem in this country. They have several other children who run errands, pick berries, etc. Every whi e family employs a native family, the whites couldn't live without them, and they couldn't live without us. We supply them their necessary food (pilot biscuits and tea), tents, etc. The wealthiest natives are those who work for the whites. These natives with their dogs make up quite a settlement behind us and they are such a kind hearted, honest, trustworthy people and always so smiling and happy. They just can't do enough for their employer. White women have no fears of these people. The matron of the hospital has been out visiting camps for three days at a time with all native men and boat or dog team. She has been here for 5 years and speaks the language.

The boat was here for three days and only partly unloaded. We had parties every night, picture shows, etc. Then it started on its way up towards the North Pole. I hated to see Amos go, knowing it would be three to four weeks before he returned but he was keen on it. He has sent us radiograms from every stop and has been busy. There has been no doctor in any of the places for three years. He has all the dental and optical work to do.

Phyllis and I are sleeping at the hospital because Dr. and Mrs. Osborne are still here and there are only two bedrooms in our house. They have been waiting for a plane, but got a wire yesterday that the plane was cancelled and would have to return by boat when it brings Amos back. We eat with them all the time and like them a lot. Wish they were staying here too. They have been here 3 years and are going home to Winnipeg for a year and then hope to go to Western Arctic.

We are going to like this life a lot, have never had a moments regret, it is going to be a wonderful experience. We have so many things to do the year is going to pass too quickly. Already we have eaten a lot of native foods. Seal liver is nicer than any calves liver, and our native man brings it in a couple of times a week. Today we had roast stuffed ptarmagan, have had caribou several times, just like beef. Had white whale once, very tasteless, like egg white and gristle.

When we came the weather was lovely and sunny and summer-like, but you always need coats and scarfs, and rubbers because this mossy ground is so wet from water running down mountains. We have already gone mountain climbing and several long walks up the fjord, the scenery is more than I can describe on paper, but will end you some snaps next time I write, that will show you some of it.

Yesterday we had a terrific wind storm, they say this is the land of the big blow. Today everything is blown clean and the water is all different shades of green. Even the mountains look gold, and blue and red. There are no trees, but you never miss them, they would be quite out of place here.

I have had so many letters to write and a wireless says the boat will be here Monday so we have to have all our mail ready for it or you will not hear from us until next year when we return, maybe. Usually a Christmas mail goes out by dog team to Frobisher Bay where they fly it out. You can write me though, because they drop us mail early in December and again in February. I will write notes to Doerings, Gilroys, Mrs. Campderros and Helen and would you mind passing around this letter to them, also Mrs. Dixon and Fultons. The time is so short I just can't get letters to everyone.

Hope you have a nice Christmas and the very best for the New Year.

Best love to everyone,
Vera Clayton.

HANDS IN TRAINING...FOR ONTARIO

Learning Business Practice

IN Ontario the wheels of industry turn for the benefit of every single one of us. Our lathes, dynamos, drill presses, farm combines, tractors, business machines, etc. are producing goods and services which earn dollars. These dollars provide food, clothing, medical care and other necessities which contribute to our security and high standard of living. Every single one of us, therefore, has a very personal interest in the flow of a steady supply of trained workers to industrial plants. These workers will operate machines which are important to our way of life.

We should appreciate, then, the co-operative efforts of government, industry and labour in the field of employee training. In schools and in factories our workers, young and old, are given the opportunity to develop new and specific skills in every field of business and industrial activity. For instance, every effort on the part of office workers to become proficient in typing, filing, shorthand and secretarial work, will mean greater business efficiency—will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and work.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO)

Our Way of Life Rewards Trained Hands

Ontario workers know they can earn more, have executive responsibility and enjoy a higher standard of living in direct ratio to the skills they acquire and the way they make use of them. That's always true in a free economy — that's why our competitive system will continue to make Canada great and a great place in which to live.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! There will be more hydro power in 1950—right now we must be thrifty. Mighty new plants for the generation of electricity are under rapid construction. At Des Joachims (the largest Hydro project) an average of 750 people visited the site every week during the summer. Thousands have watched the progress of a power plant in construction. The spectacle which impressed us most was the mixing of the concrete. This was done by four large electric mixers into which the ingredients were measured by automatic scales. Then each bowl or steel barrel was set revolving by another switch. (The mixing time for a large amount of concrete was the same as for our light cake.) As the "batter" poured out it looked like the consistency of our best cake.

This part of the great building project is tremendous when you consider that the amount of concrete used at Des Joachims is equivalent to that required to build a four foot wide sidewalk from Halifax to Vancouver.

Not only the concrete structure, but the generating system at Des Joachims is expected to be ready for operation in 1950. Meanwhile, we must turn off every switch when not in use.

TAKE A TIP

1. The purpose of a tea kettle is to heat water to boiling point for tea. Every time you make tea measure only the amount you will require. Place the tea pot in a warm place so it is not necessary to use a large amount of water to scald the pot. Always turn the electric switch off as soon as the boiling point is reached.

2. When you sterilize bottles use a small amount of water in a covered saucepan or kettle. A cover prevents evaporation of water during boiling. Sterilization requires only 15 minutes. This is the allotted time for baby's bottles and the fruit jars and such.

3. A small quantity of water for fresh vegetables is recommended for best results. Not only do you save electricity but you preserve food value. One inch of hot water in the saucepan for four servings of vegetables is all we use. Then when steam from under the cover indicates boiling point we turn the switch from high to low and begin to time the cooking period. Then minutes for beet or turnip greens and twenty minutes for diced potatoes, beets or carrots; sliced turnips, winter squash or pumpkin require 30 minutes.

4. Cooking meats and desserts in quantities sufficient for two meals is a habit of the modern homemaker. Store servings for next day in the electric refrigerator and garnish differently when you serve them for a second time.

5. Quick-cooking dishes are those containing food prepared in servings or diced in small uniform pieces.
