OBITUARY

WILLIAM J. WYATT

The funeral of William James Wyatt was held from his brother's residence on Saturday afternoon last. Mr. Wyatt was a widely known cattle drover of Osgoode and surrounding district. Of late years he had made his home with his brother, John A. Wyatt. He was in his 61st year and unmarried. Although in poor health for the past few months, his sudden death came as a shock to the community. He died in the Ottawa Civic Hospital on Thursday morning last.

Mr. Wyatt was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Wyatt, of Mountain township. Left to mourn his loss are three sisters, Mrs. Nelson Simzer, Mrs. Edgar Merkley and Mrs. Robert Simzer, of South Mountain; six brothers, John A., Henry, Hugh, Connell Fred and Peter. Another brother, Sam, died three years ago.

The service was conducted by Rev. L. H. Vall, of Osgoode Baptist Church. Vernon, assisted by Rev. J. M. Kellock, Presbyterian Church, Vernon. A beautiful duet was rendered by Mr. Vail and Mr. John Reoch, of Vernon, "Nobody Knows But Jesus." The pall bearers were Messrs. John Kennedy, Clarence Hughes, Charles Dempsey, A. J. Kennedy, Hudson Docksteader. Interment was made at Spring Hill cemetery.

The hundreds of people present at the funeral showed the popularity of the deceased. Among catle drovers present were Carl McLean, manager of Canada Packers, Limited, H. A. Knox, stock buyer, J. A. Richards, Charles Atkinson, beef manager, all of Ottawa; H. B. Montgomery, Ashton; W. W. Gordon, Richmond; T. McClennaghan, of Kemptville. R. Dunlop, Spencerville; Lennox Bros., Spencerville; R. McNabb, Kenmore; Martin Kennedy, Richmond, and Charles Hollinger, Carleton Place.

Among the floral tributes were wreaths from the brothers and sisters, and from the Canadian Packers, Hull.

Short Courses To Be Held In Winchester

DECISION REACHED AT MEETING HELD ON TUESDAY EVENING. COMMITTEES APPOINTED

At a well-attended meeting of local citizens, held in the Council Chambers last evening, and presided over by Mr. J. Hume Grisdale, acting agricultural representative for Dundas and West Stormont Counties, decision was reached to hold a one month's short course in agriculture and domestic science in Winchester, commencing on January 7th next.

The meeting was called to order by Reeve T. O. Keyes, who introduced Mr. Grisdale and asked him to give the audience an outline of the proposed course.

Among those present were members of the Municipal Council and a delegation from the Women's Institute.

The course in agriculture will deal with live stock, feeds and feeding, orchards, field crops, bacteriology, soils and fertilization, marketing, agricultural botany, insects and fungus description, and farm commencing. This Course will be open to the young men of Dundas County.

The household science Course, which will be open to girls and young women, will embody foods, laundry, house-planning and decoration, and sewing.

The registration fee was placed at 50c, to help defray expenses of prizes which will be awarded during the various judging competitions which will be held during the Course, and other minor expenses.

The classes will be held in the town hall each day from 9.30 a.m. to 12.00 noon, and from 1.30 to 4 p.m. The men's Course will be held in the public hall and the ladies' classes in the Council Chambers.

Competent instructors will be provided by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, who will have charge of the Course.

It was decided that on special occasions when outstanding lecturers were present, the public would be invited to attend, also that at the close of the Course a banquet would be held, if the students so desired.

It was also pointed out that the Course would be self-governed so far as social functions and special classes were concerned.

The committee selected to look after the enrolment of students and make other necessary arrangements was as follows:Eldon Fennell, E. J. Christie, Chas. Davidson and Mrs. Neil Hutt. The district representatives appointed were: William Fawcett, Inkerman; Arthur Christie, Melvin Settlement; Harold Durant, the Boyne; Mr. and Mrs. F. Erle Helmer, Maple Ridge; Mrs. J. E. Singleton and Mrs. John Moffatt, Winchester; John Cinnamon, Harmony; W. F. Workman, Melvin Dawley, Ernest idson, Winchester; Bill Carkner, Sum-Christie, E. Fennell and Charles Davmers' Settlement; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holmes, Winchester Springs.

These committees will start at once to prepare lists of possible students, who will later receive a detailed program of the Course which will be supplied by the Department of Agriculture.

Already several young men and women have signified their intention of attending the Courses, and a large enrolment is being anticipated.

The benefit derived from attending these classes was freely expressed by a number of young men who had taken a similar course during the past few years.

Mr. Grisdale was highly satisfied with the interest shown at the meeting and looks forward to a successful undertaking on the part of local citizens.

India is one of the largest sugar producing countries of the world, with over 3,400,000 acres under sugar, producing approximately 5,000,000 tons of raw sugar, which is processed by more than 123 modern factories. While primarily agricultural, India is expanding industrially and there would seem to be an opportunity for Canadian manufacturers of industrial machinery to obtain a share of the market, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways.

H. S. Commencement Will Open Tonight

PROGRAM WILL BE REPEATED AGAIN TO-MORROW NIGHT

The annual High School Commencement is being held in the Town Hall tonight and to-morrow night, and, judging from the advance sale of tickets, the hall will be packed both nights. One of the highlights of this year's program is the staging of the play "Disraeli."

The presentations of scholarships, diplomas and athletic awards will be made as usual. While the program will be the same both nights, the presentations will be divided.

It was hoped that the Inspector, Mr. R. W. Anglin, would be present for the commencement exercises, but owing to other arrangements from the Department at Toronto, it will be impossible for him to make an appearance at this time. He had made plans to be here as was previously announced, and it is regretted that the school cannot be honoured by his presence.

The teachers and students have been rehearsin steadily during the past few weeks, and hope to present a program that will meet with the approval of all who attend.

The plan of the hall may be seen at Smith's Drug Store.

H. S. Teaching Staff Praised By Inspector

VERY ENCOURAGING REPORT WAS RECEIVED BY SECRETARY OF THE SCHOOL BOARD

The Inspector of High Schools, Mr. R. W. Anglin, paid an official visit to the local high school on Tuesday of last week. His report on the school's progress during the past year has been received from the Department of Education at Toronto, and as far as the teaching staff and the academic standing of the school are concerned, the report is highly satisfactory.

Mr. Anglin said: "I must congratulate the Board, the pupils and the community on retaining the same staff of teachers for another year. Few schools are better served by its teachers than is this. In my opinion, there is not a poor teacher on the staff. They have all shown themselves progressive in their eagerness to adopt improved methods and the pupils are being given real training. Much of the teaching observed might be classed as excellent."

Referring to the character of the pupils' work, the inspector said: "The first year pupils this year already show a rather better average in spelling and writing than did last year's Form I in May. Some of the credit, at least, for this improvement, must be given to the training they are now receiving through regular practice once a week. The pupil's work in Art and their notebooks in Science are satisfactory. The certificates are regular and sufficient and physical education is well handled in the classrooms."

In his report, Mr. Anglin also refers to the increase in attendance at the school, there being an average of 30 pupils for each teacher; and to the improved methods of teaching and divisions of periods, which he claims has a noticeable effect on improving the character of the work which pupils may be trained to do.

Another point of interest in the report reads: "The school had a very successful year last year, thus crowning the ability and industry of teachers and pupils. Such a result is what one would expect after observing closely the daily teaching and recitations in the several subjects. In my opinion, the character of the class work observed during my visit is even better than that found last May. The pupils are receiving training that should fit them, not only to pass examinations, but to cope successfully with the varied problems of life."

So much for the teaching staff of our high school, and the citizens in general should feel proud to know that the staff and their methods of teaching measure up to the highest degree.

Commenting on the report, the principal, Mr. E. J. Spinks, stated that while he and his staff have always endeavoured to do their part in maintaining the school's high standard of efficiency, a great deal of the credit should go to the students and their parents for their co-operative efforts. The discipline and morale of the students at present was better than average, stated the principal. The students were taking a keener interest in their studies, and were doing a great deal more reviewing at home, he claimed.

Regarding the school building and its equipment, the report shows that everything is quite satisfactory, but recommends a few improvements of a minor nature, which, no doubt, will receive the attention of the Board at its earliest convenience.

According to the secretary, Mr. Hugh McMaster, the report is one of the finest since the school was erected.

Town Hockey League Holds Annual Meeting

OFFICERS FOR 1935-36 ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the Winchester Town Hockey League was held on Monday evening last in the Council Chambers. There was an excellent attendance of those interested in the sport. Mr. Harry L. Flora acted as chairman with Mr. W. F. Workman as secretary protem, owing to the fact that Messrs. Chester Timmins and Gordon Johnston, who had held these offices respectively last year, had retired. The election of officers for the coming season resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Mr. D. Melvin.
President—Leroy Boyd.
1st. Vice President—M. E. McIntosh.
2nd Vice President—Gordon Johnston.
Sec'y. Treasurer—Herb. Watson.
Executive members—J. J. Gray and J. L. Dixon.

The report of the treasurer indicated that the finances of the League were in excellent shape, there being a balance of $55.42 left from last year's activities. It was decided to withhold $1 per sweater from each team manager at the close of the season until such time as all the sweaters had been returned to the League executive.

A decision was also made that players who claim Finch, Chesterville, Russell, Metcalfe, Kenmore, Morrisburg, Kemptville, as their home centre, or other points equally distant be barred from playing hockey on local league teams.

Players may be drawn from Winchester Springs, Hallville, South Mountain, Mountain, Ormond, Inkerman, Vernon, Nation Valley, Vancamp, Morewood and Winchester, however. It was felt that such action would stimulate more local interest in the League.

Managers who have expressed their intention of entering teams in the league are: Hy. Bessin, Harold Lannin, Ross Hutchinson and Harry Flora (The High School team).

Rowat Kennedy's Barns Destroyed

FIRE STARTED ABOUT 5.30 A.M. THIS MORNING. ONE BARN WAS NEW, AND ONLY COMPLETED LAST WEEK.

A disastrous fire broke out at 5.30 o'clock this morning on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Rowat Kennedy, two miles west of Winchester, on the Mountain road, and before it could be brought under control, had completely destroyed a fine new barn, large henhouse, 200 hens, 2,000 bushels of grain and a quantity of straw.

Mr. Kennedy had risen early, as was his custom, and gone to the henhouse to turn on the electric lights. He then returned to the house, and after breakfast, proceeded to the barn with the hired man to assist with the milking, while Mrs. Kennedy prepared the cream separator. The men had finished milking several cows and Mr. Kennedy was carrying the pails to the house, when he noticed smoke curling out through one of the ventilators on the henhouse. He at once raised the alarm and accompanied by Mrs. Kennedy, rushed to the upper storey of the structure. Flames were found to be running along the electric wires in the peak of the building and down the side-wall partition. Realizing the futileness of trying to extinguish the flames in the partition, Mrs. Kennedy rushed to the house and spread the alarm while her husband fought to keep the fire in check. Meanwhile, a great many of the young pullets housed in the upper floor of the building, had become frightened by all the commotion and escaped through the windows to safety. About 200 old hens, however, remained in the pen and later fell victims of the flames.

The heat became intense as the minutes passed and finally Mr. Kennedy was forced to retire from the burning structure, which also contained a large feed room and garage on the ground floor. Realizing that nothing could now save the main barns, Mr. Kennedy and the hired man directed their efforts towards releasing the cows and driving them into a nearby field. They succeeded in clearing the barn of all the cattle and other livestock and were able to remove a few bags of grain before the flames drove them from the burning building.

The fire had attracted a large crowd of neighbours, who were unable to be of assistance owing to the rapid progress of the blaze. In an interview with the Press, following the fire, Mr. Kennedy estimated his loss at $5,000 with some insurance.

The property, which was known as the Edwin Robinson farm, was purchased by Mr. Kennedy a few years ago and since that time both he and Mrs. Kennedy have spent much time and money in bringing the property to a fine state of repair. A few months ago the work on a fine new iron-clad barn was started and since that time Mr. Kennedy has directed his energy towards completing the new building before winter set in. Final details were completed last week and the work finished. As we go to press, the fine structure lies a smouldering mass of ruins.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy stated that they were not decided whether they would re-build the barn or not at present.

Albert Carman Timmins Dies At Calgary.

Word was received on Monday of the death of Albert Carman Timmins, son of Mrs. Andrew Timmins and the late Mr. Timmins, of this town. He passed away at the General Hospital, Calgary, Alta., following a brief illness.

The funeral was held yesterday from his late residence in that city.

The late Mr. Timmins was born at the Boyne, a few miles east of Winchester, 59 years ago, and received his early education in this district where he was well-known. Besides his aged mother, who is now in her 100th year, he leaves a wife, who was formerly Miss Ella Quart, a sister of Mrs. Robert Bell; one son, Lionel; one daughter, Carrie Rae, both of Calgary; also three brothers, Henry of Toronto; Stanley, of Calgary, and Chester, of Winchester.

Annual Meeting of Local Bible Society

A representative audience greeted Rev. Wm. F. Crawford, Secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, at the annual meeting of the Winchester Branch in the Presbyterian Sunday School hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 27th.

The president, Mr. Jesse Elnaugh, was chairman of the meeting and gave a very encouraging report of the co-operation and response he had received from the canvassers. Rev. Mr. Crawford told of an increase in givings to the Bible Society throughout Canada and of a more widespread distribution of the Scriptures. The mother society in England has been able to increase her services in every quarter of the globe. His Majesty, King George, recently made the statement, "The English Bible is the first National Treasure." Copies of the Scriptures in large numbers have been placed in Spain, Italy and China. This has been followed by marvellous results. Mr. Crawford showed a number of slides of Italy's beautiful rivers, bridges, arches, canals and magnificent cathedrals.

Had Narrow Escape

Mr. G. F. Godson, proprietor of Locketon Lodge, Williamsburg, had a very narrow escape from serious injury and even death, on Thursday evening last, when returning from Ottawa in his big 1935 model sedan. He was travelling at a high speed, and approaching the concrete highway about six miles north of Winchester, he passed another car driven by John Fader, and as he struck the highway, his big car went into the side shoulder and ditch and before he could get it under control, it turned completely over three times. When Mr. Fader and others reached the car they thought its occupant must be seriously hurt, but on assisting him out, Mr. Godson was even more surprised than those who witnessed the accident, when he found that he was practically uninjured, aside from a few bruises and the severe shaking up. Dr. J. J. McKendry, of Winchester, who happened along at the time, gave Mr. Godson a careful examination, and he was able to proceed to Williamsburg the same evening. The car was badly damaged. Mr. Godson will not likely soon forget his experience and narrow escape.

The Family DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

WHOOPING-COUGH—PERTUSSUS

Bad company for the youngsters—and not by any means good for the grown-ups. As old as the hills, its cause is still an undiscovered element, perhaps because it has not been considered a serious menace to the life of the child. I have known many families in the earlier day that paid little attention to the disease among the little ones, so they just "whooped it out" until recovery came—somehow.

Whooping-cough is contagious. I would feel better if it were quarantined, in the hope of blotting it out. It may indeed produce derangement of the air-passages in the lungs, dilate them and leave the lung abnormal until the effects are outgrown.

Very few remedies, outside of nursing, do any good. A little of some sedative cough-syrup should be administered to quiet, if possible, the paroxysms and lessen their force.

Feed the child good, easily-digested, nourishing food. You cannot "break up" whooping-cough. The best you can do is to let it run its course. Once over with it, the patient is considered immune from further attack.

An old remedy that has not yet been disproven is quinine. A good quinine ointment, ten grains to the ounce of benzoinated lard, and spread on a cloth as a plaster, may be laid or worn on the child's chest. Change it every two days. It has been proven, I think, that this tends to prevent dilatation of the air-passages and, consequent weakening of the structures composing the breathing apparatus.

Sedative cough syrups may contain bromide, or tincture of red onion, or of humulus, (hops) or very minute doses of ipecac. But not enough to nauseate.

Keep the little one in out of bad weather or night air. Violent exercise will aggravate the paroxysms. Forbid it. Keep the little sufferer quiet. See your family doctor often,— and do the best you can.

MR. BENNETT AND WHEAT

Mr. Thomas D. Campbell of Montana, described as an authority on wheat and "the world's largest individual producer of wheat and flax," in Toronto the other day had some things of importance to say about the Canadian surplus in this product. The United States, he said, had an immediate market for at least 75,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, and Canada was the only country in a position "to fulfill the existing wheat demand of the world." In fact it was his opinion that this country was in a remarkably favorable position because its government had shown foresight and courage in storing up wheat during the period of low prices and high production. This same policy was maintained by Mr. Bennett, it will be recalled, in the face of endless criticism both in parliament and outside it. He was ruining the country. He was pledging wholesale the national credit for the benefit of a single industry. He was speculating in the market at the expense of the Canadian people and the venture would cost us vast sums. And so on. To-day, there is every prospect that Mr. Bennett's far-sighted course will be justified fully by the outcome. The world this year needs wheat, and Canada has wheat to sell. If this surplus had been dumped on the market at fire sale prices there would have been another story to tell. Mr. Bennett's policy demanded rare courage and determination, but even those who were his strongest critics will be glad now that he did not weaken.—Alliston-Herald.

FARM HAND BADLY HURT WHEN TEAM RUNS AWAY

Leslie Wakeham, 22, an employe of Arnold Davidson, Marlborough township, met with a serious accident on Saturday afternoon last. While driving a manure spreader, the team became frightened and ran away. When they attempted to jump a fence, Mr. Wakeham was thrown off and a wheel on which were a number of spikes passed over his head and face. His forehead was badly lacerated and the muscles of his left eye torn. His left ear was also severed. Some 50 stitches were needed to close the wounds. Wakeham suffered much from shock and bruises. Dr. G. R. Gordon and Dr. W. J. Gordon were called and attended the injured man.

METCALFE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The November meeting of the Women's Institute of Metcalfe was held in the town hall there with a good attendance of members. Mrs. F. R. Stanley presided, assisted by the secretary, Mrs. W. A. Cowan.

The following items of business were disposed of: appointment of Mrs. R. A. F. Blair in charge of the project, refinishing of furniture. Mrs. R. H. Runnels and Mrs. A. Carson to act on the committee for next meeting in lieu of Mrs. W. Jeacle and Mrs. A. Stanley, who are on the sick list and who will be remembered in a tangible form through the sick committee.

Mrs. W. J. W. Woods, delegate to the Ottawa convention held in October, gave an interesting report of the various sessions.

The girls' project, a supper club, was organized; the following officers were appointed: leader, Mrs. W. A. Cowan; assistant, Mrs. A. York; president, T. Elsie Bishop; secretary, Margarite Rowan.

The meeting adjourned to convene again at 8 o'clock in the same place, when the annual public school competition was held sponsored by the Women's Institute, at which the W. F. Garland Shield was competed for.

Pupils from the six schools represented in the institute took part, seventy-one in all. The competition consisted of public speaking, two-piece singing, recitation, spelling match, a short play. The prizes were awarded as follows: Public speaking, Eleanor Gaukrodger, S. S. No. 11, prize, hair brush; two-piece singing, Roy Rolston and Delmar Morrison, S. S. No. 7 pen and pencil sets; recitation, Phyllis Campbell, S. S. No. 8, hair brush; spelling match, Dean Loney, S. S. No. 13, boy's belt; play, S. S. No. 12, Miss Louise Stearns, teacher, prize, picture of Buckingham Palace. Pupils taking part in the play were: Edith Armstrong, Anne McDonald, Stanley Park, Keith Carkner. Each of the other pupils who took part were given autograph albums to the girls, and to the boys, fountain pens. The Shield was awarded to S. S. No. 11, Metcalfe, and presented in person by Mr. W. F. Garland to the principal, Mr. R. Derby.

The judges were Miss E. Stuart, principal of Ormond public school; Mr. C. B. Routley, I.P.S., Russell; Mr. E. Brown, principal of Russell school.

METCALFE FRIENDLY CIRCLE

The semi-monthly meeting of the Metcalfe Friendly Circle was held at the home of Mrs. A. H. Scrivens with fifteen members in attendance. Mrs. D. J. Kidney presided.

Mrs. J. E. Woods called the roll, which was answered with the name of a Canadian author. A sing song was led by Mrs. R. A. F. Blair. Current events were in charge of Miss J. Cameron. A review of some Canadian books by Mrs. W. J. W. Woods was followed by a discussion.

Mrs. A. C. Blair gave a historical sketch of early days in the city of Toronto,. A sketch of the national anthems of the different countries, with musical interpretation of each, was conducted by Miss I. McLaurin and Mrs. R. A. F. Blair. The national anthem of Wales was sung by Mrs. D. J.Kidney and Mrs. A. C. Blair. A contest was conducted by Mrs. E. McGirr.

Afterwards, luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. J. Scrivens. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Scrivens for the hospitality or her home.

OLDER BOYS' PARLIAMENT

On December 7th, will be held the election of a candidate for the fifteenth Ontario Older Boys' Parliament. Names of candidates nominated will be published as soon as the nominations are closed.

The Older Boys' Parliament is composed of elected representatives, boys between sixteen and twenty-one, who are members of a Christian church or are worthy of church membership, who have good Christian character and whose attitude and activities indicate that they fulfill the necessary standard of personal conduct and living and who are nominated by their constituencies by Nov. 18th, 1935. Election will be by secret ballot.

Any boy who has passed his 12th but not his 21st birthtday on Dec. 7th may vote if he has attended at least 25 per cent. of the meetings of a Sunday class or Trail Ranger or Tuxis Group which is duly registered with the Ontario Boys' Work Board. The names have to be on voters' lists by December 2nd.

The session of the Fifteenth Parliament will be held December 26-31.

Candidates for premiership who will be voted on at the caucus of elected members of the Parliament held, on December 26 in Toronto are Reginald N. Kingdon, Edward B. Moogk, and Edward Sargeant.

There are 125 electoral districts in Ontario and five in Quebec.

MEMORY OF J. S. JAMIESON WILL BE PERPETUATED AT MORRISBURG

The memory of James S. Jamieson is to be perpetuated by the Jamieson Memorial scholarships, being arranged by the Jamieson Memorial committee, of Morrisburg. Irwin Hilliard is chairman and members include Dr. Will C. Davy, J. Miles Whittaker and John P. Gormley, all former pupils of Mr. Jamieson. The memorial and the Morrisburg Collegiate Institute donations funds are to be united and the interest on the combination will be used to found scholarships in perpetuity. A meeting of the co-operating committee and the Morrisburg Board of Education, will be held before the end of the year to complete arrangements for the scholarships, which will apply on the current school year at the M. C. I. Mr. Jamieson, appointed in 1882 and retired in 1914, was beloved by all his pupils during his 31 years as headmaster of the Collegiate. His death occurred last year at his home in Morrisburg. Many of Canada's great men and women of today were his pupils at one time.

WILLIAM D. SHIACH, SOUTH GOWER, PASSED AWAY SATURDAY

As the result of injuries sustained on Monday, October 21st last, when he was knocked down and run over by his own motor car, William David Ernest Shiach, of South Gower, died in the Ottawa Civic Hospital on Saturday. Dr. J. E. Craig, coroner, was called, and after inquiring into the circumstances, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Mr. Shiach received the injuries which proved fatal while he was out making a business call with his mother near his home. He had left his automobile in gear on a slope on the road. Upon completion of his business he had started to crank his car. The machine started forward; to put out his foot in an attempt to stop it, and the car knocked him down and ran over him, breaking his back. His aged mother, who was in the car. was unable to help him, and some little time elapsed before medical assistance arrived. He was removed to a hospital where paralysis developed.

In his 39th year and well-known and highly respected by the community in which he lived, his tragic death will be deeply mourned. He has been a lifelong resident of South Gower, near Mountain, and had farmed the land on which his grandfather had settled when he came to Canada from Scotland. He was a member of the United Church at Heckston.

He was a son of the late John Shiach and Hattie Beach. His mother and one aunt, Mrs. William Norton, of Kemptville, are the only immediate relatives surviving. Mrs. J. A. Devitt, Col. E. A. Devitt and Edwin A. Beach, of Ottawa, are cousins.

The funeral took place from his late home, South Gower, to South Gower cemetery at 2 p.m. on Monday.

CHEESEMAKERS' CONVENTION

The programme has been announced for the sixth annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers' Association convention which is to be held in Victoria Hall, Brockville, on Thursday and Friday of this week. The directors will meet Thursday morning at 10 o'clock and the afternoon session will include the reports of the various officials and committees with a cheese-scoring contest to be conducted by Joseph Burgess, chief of the dairy produce division of the Department of Agriculture. George H. Barr, director of dairying in Toronto in Ontario, will be present and deliver an address. In the evening a musical programme will be given by Brockville artists and Mayor Major will address the gathering. The president will distribute the prizes won during the convention. The programme will continue through Friday with short addresses by the instructors in the morning followed by addresses by Jack Cameron, past president; Dr. A. L. Gibson, superintendent of the Kingston dairy school, and James A. Sanderson, Oxford Station. The speakers in the afternoon will be T. J. Hicks, assistant chief of the dairy produce division, Ottawa; Joseph Burgess, Ottawa, chief of the dairy produce division, and others. The election of officers will close the convention.

KENMORE BOY SCOUTS

Boy Scouts of the 37th Kenmore troop held a box social on Wednesday evening of last week in the Kenmore town hall. The program was divided into three parts.

Mrs. D. T. E. Forsythe, of Montreal, and Rev. C. M. Stewart, Kenmore, led in an hour of games. W. B. Wallen, principal of Ottawa Technical School, was in charge of a group, who entertained with a musical program. Miss Helen Hawkshaw, A.L.C.M., Ottawa, rendered several solos.

The third part of the program consisted of the selling of the boxes. Dougal Watson acted as auctioneer. The total receipts of the evening was $46. This amount is being put away by the Scouts for next summer's camp.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION NEEDED

(Bowmanville Statesman)

We agree with the Simcoe Reformer when it says the need for some change in our method of voting to secure a degree of proportional representation in our legislative halls is indicated by complete returns in the election of October 1th. The Statesman has commented on the need of a change on several occasions. The following figures dealing with the results of that election are very enlightening in this regard.

	Votes	Membs.
Conservative	1,016,974	41
Liberal	1,507,679	168
C. C. F.	299,359	8
Reconstruction	334,411	1
Social Credit	100,160	17
Others	66,648	10

From these figures it will be seen that the Liberals sent to Parliament one member for every 8,900 votes cast for that party, while the Conservatives only elected a member for every 24,800 votes polled for candidates of their party. On the other hand, in Toronto and the Yorks, eleven Conservatives were elected although the vote of that party in this area was 151,953, while the vote against the party was 248,792 in the same area. The Liberals with a vote of 117,541, elected only four members, while the C.C.F., with 58,484 votes, and the Reconstructionists with 57,099 votes, did not elect a single member.

Analyzing the returns further, we find that the Social Credit party polled 100,160 votes and elected 17 members while the C. C. F. polled 299,359 votes and only elected eight members. The Reconstruction party polled 334,411 votes and elected but one member. In other words, it required 334,411 votes to elect one Reconstructionist, while 17 Social Credit members were elected on an average vote of 5,890. Looking at the totals, we discover that the Liberals elected 168 members with a vote of 1,507,679, while the other parties returned only 77 members with a total vote of 1,817,752.

Commenting on this situation, the Toronto Star, which was naturally pleased with the Liberal sweep, considers that our voting plan is a crude one and declares: "Is it not about time for proportional representation to occupy the attention of the parliament and people of Canada?

In the Army & Navy, Quebec Unit 33, sweepstake on the Manchester November handicap run at Manchester on Saturday last, some fortunate individual going under the name of "Gem," residing at Cornwall, won $20,000 as he or she held a ticket on Trapston, the horse which ran second in the race.

Table decorations are constantly developing, and the hostess with good taste will stick to simple, modern effects that are almost classic in their lines, they're so simple. Chromium and glass centerpieces, blue mirrors, lustre ware and platinum edged dinner ware are all to be seen for the formal table.

Ask an artist to experiment with your make-up, and he might try these: a darker foundation to subdue a too prominent chin, nose or forehead; a lighter foundation to conceal small surface lines or wrinkles and to use in the wrinkle beneath puffs under the eyes; a touch of red on the eyelids in the evening to hide a tired appearance; outline the inside edge of the nostrils with light rouge in the evening.

Tests of thousands of preferences for colors have convinced one color expert that men like women best in red and second-best in an ugly blue that no woman would ever choose for herself. And though men prefer themselves in dark clothes, the fair sex takes to them most in grey.

For the Grecian gowns so much in vogue this season, dressmakers are prescribing separate girdles and brassieres when possible, for greater flexibility. High, rounded, rather than pointed bustline, with distinct bust separation is the figure that's called for by present-day fashions.

OUR POLITICAL LEADERS

The strain, mental and physical, on the leader of a political party during an election campaign, must be tremendous, and one is not surprised that at the present time, not only Premier Mackenzie King, but Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, and even that unusually vigorous and active "Mitch" Hepburn, Premier of Ontario, are all seeking rest and restoration to health by sojourning in Florida and California, where balmy breezes and warm sunlight do so much to restore to normal health. It is a blessed thing for them that they are able to get away, and not feel financially embarassed. Premier Mackenzie King showed unusual vigor and power of endurance during the recent election campaign, and he seems to have been the least affected by the strain. Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett was not a well man when he entered the campaign, and it is doubtful if he will ever again enjoy the same health that was his before he took over the leadership of the Conservative party. Premier Hepburn, up until he was chosen leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, was not much heard of outside his native county. He lived on his farm, and seemed to enjoy it. He put up an unusually strenuous campaign for his party during the Federal elections, travelling from coast to coast, and often speaking two and three times a day. To-day, he is broken in health, and announces that he is retiring from active political life. Yet Premier Hepburn s a comparatively young man.

The same is the case in every country, and the recent elections in England is evidence of what a strenuous political life means to men who take public life seriously., and who give all of their best that is in them in public service. The pathetic utter collapse of Ramsay McDonald, is but a conspicuous example of what is going on everywhere. It is a good thing for our civilization that men's ambitions lead them to make the sacrifice they do in the interests of their fellowmen, and their native land. Our political leaders and public-spirited men do not receive that measure of appreciation, that is their due, from a somewhat thoughtless and ungrateful public, but are, instead, the targets for the meanest and most undeserved criticism by men whose chief object in life seems to be to drag down and misrepresent the unselfish ambitions and desires to be of public service on the part of men who are the bulwarks of our civilization.

MORRISBURG—WINCHESTER

The Winchester Press is pleased to note that the Village of Morrisburg is making progress. Not only in civic improvements, but there seems to be a new spirit of enterprise, and the "staid and steady" is really giving way to the modern. There should not be unfriendliness between neighboring municipalities, but rather co-operation. Morrisburg is so situated that it should become a lively centre of business and tourist activities under the new Reciprocity Treaty, which comes into effect with the new year. Reeve Flynn of Morrisburg, who will undoubtedly be elected Warden of the United Counties for 1936, is ever alive to the interests of Dundas County, and particularly of his own municipality. Winchester is favourably situated to reap benefits from what promises to be a revival of trade in Eastern Ontario. Morrisburg is not only our most convenient but natural gateway to the United States. We are the centre of as good an agricultural and dairy district as can be found in Ontario, and if our business men are alive to their privileges and advantages they will not neglect the opportunities that are theirs to have organized here a centre for trade expansion, shipping, and also provide attractive accommodation for the increased tourist trade that is bound to come this way. Ottawa, Capital of the Dominion, one of the most attractive scenic spots in the Dominion, will be visited by thousands of American tourists during the next few years. All the traffic must pass through Winchester. Can Winchester offer the tourists any inducements to "hesitate, stop, look about a bit, and become friendly?"

A COOL PROPOSITION

When the Reeve of Chesterville went to the Winchester Township Council, at its last regular meeting, and asked the Council for a grant toward their Community Hall, he must have known that unless the Council were hypnotized by his eloquence, the request would be turned down flat. The members of the Township Council are all men of cool judgement, and Reeve Nesbitt and Deputy Reeve McConnell have listened to the loquacious "Billy," reeve of Chesterville, at Counties' Council often enough to not lose their heads in the whirlwind of his eloquence. Winchester would like a "grant" from somewhere to revive its Agricultural Society, or enlarge its present town hall, but where to seek it, is the question. No doubt Morewood would like some assistance for community improvement. Yes, it was a cool proposition, and received a cool reception, but on the principle of "nothing ventured, nothing gained," the Reeve of Chesterville made the plunge.

HAVE HIGHWAY FINISHED

Now is the time for our "Liberal" friends to get busy and see that among the first to receive attention by the Department of Public Highways will be Highway No. 31, by the completion of that portion of unfinished road between Winchester Springs and Williamsburg. It should have been attended to last year, and in fact, it should have been completed in 1934. However, it is a splendid opportunity for the local shining lights of the Liberal party to show their influence, and is also an opportunity for the new Ontario Government and Department of Highways to prove their contention that they are where they are to serve the public irrespective of party politics.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

In many places the municipal elections will be over on Monday next, and the electors will not have the usual turmoil, canvassing, soliciting and usual bitter feelings that accompany same, to harass and annoy them during the Christmas season. The Government left it optional with a municipality to hold the annual election the last week in November or December, and the number of municipalities that have changed to the earlier date is increasing yearly. And rightly so. Why mix your municipal politics with your Christmas and New Year festivities?

PETER McTAVISH, NOTED PIANIST

Peter has taken the Governor-General's Medal for two years in succession. His mother won the Blue Ribbon Scholarship in Music for all Canada at the age of seventeen.

"While many discriminating listeners who heard the performance of the Mozart Coronation D Major Concerto by young Peter McTavish at the meeting of the Woman's Musical Club in Hotel Vancouver Wednesday afternoon will be inclined to undervalue the contribution of this highly promising pianist, particularly on the emotional side, it is well to bear in mind that his performance was a definite achievement from the standpoint of pure musicality and technical management.

This 'teen age lad is to be warmly congratulated for his playing of a work which some keyboard stalwarts seem to think should be drenched with emotion, which, of course, is not what Mozart intended. Wisely therefore, young McTavish contented himself with treating this concerto as pure music of the light and graceful texture. True, he exhibited reticent moments—for example in the first movement—but such human failings did not prevent him invading successfully the genuine Mozartean atmosphere.

Throughout the concert there were abundant evidences to show that the music had been well studied. In the second movement the boy disclosed rare subtleties in nuancing; nothing forced and generally artistic in thought. The finale was also surprisingly effective, and at its conclusion the audience accorded the young artist a thoroughly earned ovation. Isabell Campbell, who played the orchestral accompaniment on the second piano, provided just the right sort of helpful support."

THE TRADE PACT

Some of the benefits that will be derived by Canadians through the signing of a Trade Treaty between Canada and the United States, are as follows:

Lower Rates on Seeds

"Another concession of value to Canadian farmers is that on clover and grain seeds. The Hawley-Smoot tariff shut off a large trade in these seeds. so that the restoration in part of the lower rates previously in force will serve to bring about the renewal of an export trade which had an annual value of over $2,000,000.

"The duty on maple sugar is reduced from 6 to 4 cents per pound. In 1929 the value of the exports of maple sugar and maple syrup, chiefly of sugar, to the United States from Canada amounted to $2,500,000.

"Concessions on other agricultural products provided for in the trade agreement include a reduction in the duty of hay from $5 to $3 per ton; a reduction of one-third in the duty on horses; reductions of 50 and 40 per cent. respectively on live poultry and dressed chickens; a 29 per cent. reduction in the duty on cheddar cheese; lower rates on fresh apples, strawberries, cherries and peas, and a reduction in the duty on frozen and canned blueberries.

Feed Is Affected

"While the agreement does not cover cereal grain, of which both countries are normally net exporters, it does provide for the maintenance of the 10 per-cent. ad valorem rates of duty under which Canadaian feed wheat and by-products of grain have been entering the United States."

A glance at trade statistics shows nearly all commodities of agriculture covered by the treaty fell off in export value during the five years 1929 to 1934. Exports of cattle, calves and cows covered by the agreement during 1934 dropped to practically nil. Maple sugar, exported to the United States in 1929 to the value of $2,250,000, dropped to $455,000 in 1934. Export of apples (green or ripe) fell from $475,000 in 1929 to $17,000 in 1934. Seed potatoes dropped from $600,000 to $223,000; turnips from $901,000 to $651,000, and hay from $282,000 to $160,000 in the five-year period.

Coal Will Not Be Affected By Treaty

Tariff reductions on either bituminous or anthracite coal could not be granted the United States while Canada's present fuel policy was maintained, officials of the Government said. This was the reason attempts of United States negotiators of the Canada-United States trade agreement could not obtain any concessions on this commodity.

Canada pays out huge sums annually in subsidies to assist the bituminous coal industry, having almost unlimited supplies, which, because of costly mining and long hauls to the market, require assistance..

Anthracite coal is brought in from Great Britain free under the British preference. Intermediate and general tariff rates on anthracite are both 50 cents per ton, and on bituminous both $1. per ton.

VANCAMP SUPPER AND BAZAAR

The Women's Association of Vancamp United Church held a successful supper and bazaar in the basement of the church last evening with a good crowd in attendance. Rev. W. R. Johnston, of South Mountain, acted as chairman in the absence of Rev. R. C. McConnell, who was unable to be present

Following the supper and sale of articles, a short program of instrumental numbers was presented, followed by a debate: "Resolved that the world is a better place to live in than it was fifty years ago." The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. W. H. Agnew and Hy. Bessin, of Winchester, while the negative was argued by Messrs. Kenneth Cameron and Jack Johnston, of Mountain Station and South Mountain, respectively.

The judges were Miss Helen Taylor and Messrs. Claire VanAllen, of Mountain, and J. H. Hamilton, of Iroquois, who agreed that the negative had succeeded in upholding their point of view.

A vote of thanks was extended to those taking part in the program by Mrs. W. J. Riddell and Mrs. Herb VanAlle.

An instrumental number by Miss K. Wylie, guitar, and Mr. David Wylie, harmonica, brought the program to a close.

FUNERAL OF J. SAUNDERS

Final tribute to the memory of John Henry Saunders, esteemed resident of Osgoode, was paid at his funeral held from the home of his son, William, to St. Paul's church, Osgoode Station, Rev. William Westell, rector, conducted the service and interment was carried out in the Anglican cemetery, Kars, under the auspices of the L.O.L. of Kars and Osgoode.

Chief mourners and survivors are four sons, Robert H, William and James; Osgoode, and Ernest, Calgary; two daughters, Mrs. Fred Saunders, Osgoode, and Mrs. Thomas Kerr, Hallville; two brothers, William and Thomas, of Osgoode.

Numerous beautiful floral offerings testified to the great esteem in which Mr. Saunders was held.

THE UNITED CHURCH

John 3:1 and 2 was the morning text from which Rev. W. S. Atchison gave a very uplifting spiritual message. He described Nicodemus as a man of popularity and wealth who came at night to talk with Jesus. Attention was drawn to his open mind and his willingness to set aside his pride and prejudice. He was earnest and serious minded and had a hungry heart. Jesus told him he must have a new heart. There is a large class of this type. Jesus impressed upon Nicodemus the necessity of a new life. It comes through faith in Jesus Christ. "Come to Jesus," said the pastor. He has said, "If any man come to me, I will in no wise cast him out."

At the evening service, Rev. W. S. Atchison gave the first of a series of addresses to young people. The subject was: "Turning Defeat Into Success," and the passage of Scripture read was Acts 16:1 to 16 where Paul wanted to go to Bethynia but God turned him aside to Troas. This he said, is true to life. We do not always get what we want, but we ought to make the best of what we get. It was Paul's trust in God and his faith that all things would work together for good that enabled him to turn his seeming defeat into victory. We should show our good will in dealing with petty annoyances. and not be daunted by the difficulties of life, but with God's help overcome them. The choir sang an anthem in the morning with Miss Singleton at the organ.

MISSION BAND THANK-OFFERING

On Saturday afternoon last the S. S. rooms of the United Church were well filled with children and friends at the annual Thank-offering meeting of the Rosevere Mission Band, which was presided over by Miss Joan Davidson, the president, with Miss Patty Cass as secretary and Miss Mabel O'Neil at the piano. Mrs. J. W. Ault told an interesting story of mission work among the African children. The treasurer, Mrs. R. Crowder, called the roll and reported the allocation as being almost met. Devotions were conducted by Wilda Patterson and Marjorie Armstrong. Talent money had been raised by Velma Johnston, Frankie Kellogg and Gerald Crowder, and each of them told how the money was earned. A good Temperance item was given by Joyce Levere.

Miss Alice Singleton presented the following with Life Membership Certificates and pins: Charles Utman, Joy Levere, Joyce Levere and Marion Loucks. The offering was taken by Edwin Boyd. A Pageant, entitled "The Tenth Birthday," was well given by the following boys and girls:—Edwin Boyd, Doris Armstrong, Max Boyd, Geo. Carlyle, James Carlyle, Frankie Kellogg, Jean Nesbitt, Mabel O'Neil, Erma O'Neil, Joan Davidson, Velma Johnston, Marion Coons and Mary Barclay. At the conclusion of this Pageant, they lighted ten candles on a birthday cake and sang an appropriate selection while joining hands, after which Rev. W. S. Atchison closed with prayer. The children remained to receive a piece of the birthday cake. Their leaders are to be congratulated upon the excellent way in which the Mission Band children are being trained to conduct the meetings, and to take an interest in sending the good news of the gospel to children in other lands.

MISSION BAND ENTERTAINS IN WINCHESTER CHURCH

The annual entertainment of St. Paul's Presbyterian Mission Band was held in the Sunday School hall last Friday evening with a good attendance present. The chairman for the occasion was Mrs. (Rev.) W. D. Turner, Mission Band leader. The program consisted of choruses, solos, duets, recitations and playlets, with the following taking part: Jack Wilson, Joan Davidson, Betty Anderson, Ruth Watson, Ronnie Workman, Sybil Empey, Donald Cinnamon, Beth Churchill, Lorna Workman, Mary Barkley, Colin Churchill, Bob Anderson, Reggie Workman, June Saunders, James Spinks, Mrs. H. Wilson, Ruth Robertson, Mona Robertson, Graham Workman, Ruth Payne, Lois Wilson, Lillian Bruce, Jean Robertson, Billie Workman, Bob Stewart, Ruth Churchill and Robert Saunders.

During the evening, Miss Helen Jamieson, life membership secretary of the Brockville Presbyterial of the W. M. S., presented Miss Ruth Payne with a certificate for the most regular attendance during the year, also life membership certificates to Misses Mary Barkley and Lois Wilson.

The entertainment was arranged by Mesdames W. D. Turner and Chester Robinson, who were extended a hearty vote of thanks at the conclusion of the program.

MONCKLAND FAMILY ALMOST OVERCOME WITH GAS FUMES

Mrs. D. M. Kerr and her children, Muriel, George, Thelma, Scott and Sylvia, narrowly escaped asphyxiation from gas fumes during Saturday night when gas from defective pipes of the furnace seeped into the upper part of the house. The family had been getting the gas in small doses for some time, but Saturday evening a larger fire than usual caused more fumes to be given off and only the fact that a window was open upstairs during the night saved the family from death.

Mrs. Kerr was first to get up and fainted immediately she came downstairs. Muriel, the eldest dauhter, on hearing her mother fall, quickly came downstairs and she became ill. George, hearing the commotion, raced downstairs and seeing his mother's condition, ran to Mrs. Winston Marjerrison next door who phoned for Doctor M. J. Pollock, of Avonmore. Meanwhile, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Haley had arrived on the scene and opened the front door. Doctor M. J. Pollock ordered the family to move out until the danger was past and the pipes renewed.

Mr. Kerr, a student at the Presbyterian College, Montreal, was not home over the week-end and having been called out to preach, could not be located at once. All the family except the baby, Sylvia, received considerable of the fumes.

CROSSES TO VIMY

Officers of the local branch of the Canadian Legion have been advised that the miniature crosses placed in front of the cenotaph on Armistice Day will be collected and shipped to some central point, presumably Ottawa, where they will be burned and the ashes stored until the Vimy pilgrimage next year when they will be taken and scattered on that battlefield at the time of the unveiling of the Canadian war memorial on Vimy Ridge.

ENTERTAINED BY W. M. S.

Members of three societies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Chesterville, were entertained on Thursday night last at the home of Mrs. Carmen McIntosh, Nation Valley, when the W. M. S. had as their guests, the affiliated C. G. I. T. and members of the Mission Band. More than 50 attended, under the presidency of Miss Helen Jamieson.

After the devotional exercises by Mrs. McIntosh, assisted by Miss Agnes Rae and Mrs. James Harradine, members of the band and C. G. I. T. presented a program of vocal and musical numbers with the following taking part: Marion Cameron, Ruth Moore, Melba Perkins, Jean McIntosh, Gwelda McGillvary, Ethel Smirle, Dorothy Lyscum and Helen Scott. Choruses were sung under the direction of Miss Ethel Smirle, and violin solos played by Clara Heiren.

Mrs. Jay Bailey told a story for the band, and Mrs. J. A. Munroe read a paper from Miss Mary Murray, the W. M. S hospital nurse. The thanks of the society to the hostess was voiced by Miss Rae and Mrs. Munroe. Luncheon was served by Mrs. McIntosh, assisted by C.G.I.T. members

APPLE TREE BEARS 35 VARIETIES

The widely known one-tree "orchard" of F. A. Good, Frederickton, N.B., has borne 35 varieties of apples and 99 other varieties of blossoms this year, compared with 50 varieties of apples and about the same number of other blossoms during the previous season. Unique grafting experiments have resulted in the single tree producing almost every variety of apple native to New Brunswick. Three years after the first shoot had been grafted the tree bore 30 varieties. At the present time it has 134 grafts, 25 of which were killed during the past two winters.

KENMORE RESIDENT IS HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. A. G. E. Robertson, well known resident of Kenmore, celebrated her 89th birthday recently. She was the recipient of several messages of congratulations from her friends. She was the guest of honor at the home of Miss Annie MacTavish, who entertained several of Mrs. Robertson's friends. During the afternoon refreshments were served.

Mrs. Robertson, formerly Mary Stewart, was born near Kenmore on Nov. 21, 1846, and has resided there all her life with the exception of a number of years spent in Ottawa immediately following her marriage. She is enjoying good health, is quite active, takes a keen interest in the leading topics of the day and was pleased to be able to poll her vote at the last election. Mrs. Robertson is a great lover of nature, and in religion a devoted Presbyterian.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Rev Charles E. Dunn

EZRA'S MISSION TO JERUSALEM

Lesson for December 1st. Ezra 7:6-10.

Golden Text: Ezra 8:22.

The historical value of the book of Ezra is very great for it is the principal source for our knowledge of that significant period in the history of the Hebrew people from their original return from Babylon to their fatherland to the arrival at Jerusalem of a second band of exiles under Ezra. Here we read of the glorious fulfillment of the prophetic prediction that the exiles would be restored to their own dear country after 50 years. We watch the people as they build their Second Temple, and note their intense devotion to the Mosiac Law which Ezra read to them so effectively. And we rejoice in Ezra himself, a true patriot, deeply devoted to God, active in good works.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

While not one of the most appealing characters in the Bible, Ezra's emphasis upon the Law, and his burning zeal to have it loyally obeyed, is to be heartily commended in the undisciplined America of today. For we have the reputation of being the most lawless folk in the world. One out of every 42 persons, by a conservative estimate, in these United States has a criminal record. And there are 10,000 public enemies whose capture is only possible by armed men. Many of these are young men. In fact it is a sad commentary on our nurture of youth that 20% of all the crimes in America are committed by persons of 20 years and less. And we must abandon the foolish notion that most of our crime can be laid at the door of aliens. A careful check shows that the white American criminals exceed by 47% the foreign-born. And we must not forget that some of our most dangerous anti-social foes are women. With such a record it is high time we considered the basic necessity of law and law observance. Were Ezra now alive he could render a real service in our modern setting.

EAGER TO GET TO WORK

A man holding one of the most important positions in the business world says there never is a morning when he is not eager to go to his office. That is not because he is especially fortunate in his work, for he has done all kinds, most of it hard, and some of it dangerous. Always, however, his work had stood for the greater part of his pleasure.

Shakespeare speaks of the schoolboy of his time, creeping like a snail to school. There are some young people who are grown up or nearly so, who have kept that same attitude toward their work. They must not creep like snails, but they would like to. The bright spot in their day is when their work is done. Such young people are headed for failure, or at the best only a medicore success.

First Installment

BEN FURLONG came to the Southern oil fields looking for work. He was very dusty and quite hungry when at last he stopped in at the Durham House.

This was a rather better-looking place than the average Texas homestead, and when he knocked at the kitchen door a girl appeared who was very much better-looking than the average Texas homesteader. She was, in fact, a very pretty girl.

She readily fetched Ben a drink of water, and while he rested she talked to him. That was, no doubt, because of his smile. He informed her that he had been raised in the Pennsylvania fields and was a good, practical oil man.

There being no chores to do, Ben sat in the kitchen and chatted with the girl while she cooked something for him, and in the course of their conversation he learned that her name was Betty Durham, that her parents were dead, and that the farm belonged to her aunt, with whom she had lived ever since she was a little girl. The aunt had gone to Opportunity in the family flivver.

"Funny, you cooking for a tramp driller like me and your aunt owning acreage like this," Ben remarked. "Isn't this land on the structure?"

"Sure! It's worth a lot of money. That well over yonder"—fork in hand, Miss Durham indicated a derrick not far away—"belongs to us."

From where he sat Furlong could see that the timbers of the tower were still bright and unstained, thus advertising the melancholy fact that the well itself was not a producer, so he inquired:

"What's wrong with it? Dry?"

"Dry nothing! They're not down yet. They've got a fishing job—been at it for a couple of weeks."

"Gee!" The visitor shook his head. "That's running somebody in debt."

"When the first oil talk commenced we'd of been glad to get the farm drilled on most any kind of royalty, but nobody would lease it. When they finally got ready, Aunt Mary wanted a bonus—two bits an acre—and she wouldn't listen to Uncle Joe's arguments. By and bye they offered two bits, but by that time she wanted a dollar. Then the companies got together, or the boom kind of petered out, or something, and it began to look as if Uncle Joe would be lucky to make any kind of a deal. He finally laid his ears back and leased a small block. Then he up and got killed."

"That's too bad."

"It was an accident. A powder wagon let go." The speaker's face grew wistful, she stared out across the arid countryside for a moment or two. "Uncle Joe loved me, but—Aunt Mary's his second wife; we're not really kinsfolks. It might just as well have been Maddox who got killed; he was as close to the wagon as Uncle Joe and yet he wasn't touched. Funny, too, because he's always been afraid of the stuff and has a hunch he'll be blown up. All you have to say to him is 'powder' and—"

"How'd your aunt come to put down this new well?"

"Maddox drilled the well on the lot we leased, and after Uncle Joe was killed he quit the company and sort of took charge of things for Aunt Mary. It wasn't a big well, but the royalty is enough to pay for this one. I won't cook any more ham and eggs, so you'd better make the most of these. Yes, and you'd better come and get them; they're done." Miss Durham set a plate on the table and Furlong drew up his chair.

With the curiosity natural to his calling, the visitor inquired more specifically about the nature of the mishap that had halted Maddox's progress, but he learned little. He inferred, however, that the royalties from the first well were dwindling at an alarming rate and that any considerable delay in completing the new well might therefore result in ruin to the owner. It was a prospect that naturally gave Betty and her aunt grave concern.

When Ben had finished eating he said: "Maybe I can give this driller of yours some help. I've worked on a good many fishing jobs. D'you think he'd let me try?"

"He will if I tell him to," the girl declared. "He's tried everything anybody has told him to try. Who knows? Maybe you can do it."

The speaker put on her sunbonnet and together she and Furlong went across the valley to the well.

Tiller Maddox was a swarthy man of about thirty-five; his eyes were bold and black and set close together. He greeted the Durham girl with an easy familiarity, a suggestion of proprietorship that gave the visitor cause for thought, but towards Furlong he was none too cordial and when Betty explained the reason for the latter's presence Maddox frowned.

"Another wise guy, eh? Every rope-choker in ten miles has been tryin' to show us how smart he is. What d'you know about fishin', stranger?"

"Not much," Ben confessed, "but I've had some luck."

"Oh, I've had plenty of luck, myself!" Maddox asserted. "But I never had any good luck lettin' strangers monkey with my work. If you jim up the well, I take the blame."

"I won't jim anything."

"What'll you charge for this here miracle of yours?"

Impatiently Miss Durham exclaimed, "What's the difference how much he charges if he can do—?"

"I've been paid for any help I can give you," Furlong declared. "Probably I can't do anything, but so far I don't even know what's wrong. Do you mind telling me?"

"We've got a bolt in the hole."

"A bolt?"

"Sure! A six-inch steel bolt. It worked loose and dropped out of a tool."

"You've been experimenting for two weeks at a hundred dollars a day—Let Mr. Furlong have a go at it," said Betty.

"That's a new one," Ben admitted. "Why don't you drill it out, pound it to pieces?"

Maddox grinned. "That's what we been tryin' to do, but it's tempered harder than the bit. It dulls every tool we use and all we been doin' for two weeks is sharpen steel."

"Can't you drill past it?"

"How you goin' to sidetrack a six-inch bolt loose in the bottom of a hole?"

"You can drive it into the wall."

"Oh, you can, can you? We're into a stratter of iron pyrites an' the rock's dam' near as hard as the bolt. It's much as ever a tool will cut it at all. That bolt just shifts around in the bottom of the hole like it was in a steel cup, an' it's too small to grapple. I s'pose we could get holt of it with some fancy kind of a magnet if we could get holt of some fancy kind of a magnet that would get holt of it." Again Maddox grinned.

Betty Durham was staring as Furlong with an apprehensive pucker between her brows. "Ain't that our luck, for a little bitty old bolt to ruin everything? Can you think of any way—?"

"I can think of one way that won't cost much to try."

"I don't want any strangers experimentin' around—" Maddox began; but the girl exclaimed, sharply,

"You've been experimenting for two weeks at a hundred dollars a day, haven't you? It's our well. Let Mr. Furlong have a go at it."

The driller executed an exaggerated gesture of acquiescence. "Right you are, Betty! But if this feller puts it on the bum, don't blame me." Then to Ben he announced: "Help yourself, pardner. You heard the boss."

When Furlong had fully satisfied himself as to conditions he took off his coat and went to work. He knew of no fishing tool so designed as to pick up an object so small and as easily movable as a six-inch bolt, therefore he made one. He took a short length of steel casing of a diameter small enough to slip into the well, and in one end of this he cut teeth several inches long. It was a labor that consumed time: he was still at it when Betty reappeared at the well about dark and advised him that his supper was waiting.

Mrs. Durham had returned from town. She was a woman of indeterminate age. Her eyes were pale; her nose was hooked like the beak of a hawk; her lips were thin and set in avaricious lines. Immediately upon meeting Furlong she wanted to know whether he believed his experiment would succeed, how he proposed to go about it, how long it would take, and the like. Ben was noncommittal and he refused to raise her hopes. Before he had finished his meal he had convinced himself that the woman stood in some sort of dread of Tiller Maddox and that her fear of antagonizing him almost equaled her anxiety for Furlong's success. Ben wondered why. Another fact he discovered—Betty and her aunt were not on the best of terms.

After supper, by the light of a gasoline torch, Furlong resumed his work while the while Maddox vainly tried, with the new device which his employer had brought out from town, to grapple that obstinate piece of steel a fifth of a mile beneath his feet. But it was blind work, monotonous work, dispiriting work; time after time the clumsy fishing tool was raised and lowered, but its jaws refused to seize the troublesome bolt. It was a job as hopeless and as baffling as trying to pick up a pin with a pair of fire tongs attached to a string.

The engineer of the rig watched Furlong's work with the interest of a fellow machinist, and of him the latter inquired finally:

"Say! How come Mr. Durham to get killed?"

"He was blowed up. It was when the Planet Company was getting ready to put down that well on the northeast corner. Maddox was workin' for the company then—movin' the rig onto the ground. A powder wagon came by an' the driver stopped to ask his way. You've seem them trucks—six hundred odd quarts of nitroglycerine in square cans all set in felt-lined racks to keep 'em from jarring. I allus been scared of 'em, but them drivers pound their wagons over these rough roads like it's so much molasses they got. Old man Durham went across to the road and give him directions—he stood there watchin' the wagon as it drove on. The driver was trottin' his hosses, an' when he crossed the railroad track it let go. Jar set it off, I s'pose. Tiller says he saw it all, but he don't remember hearin' a sound or feelin' a shock of any sort. All he seen was a big black cloud, an' when he looked for Old man Durham he wasn't there. The fence was gone, too."

"What happened to the driver?"

"What d'you reckon happened? All the trace they ever found of him or the outfit was part of a hoss's leg hangin' on a telegraph cross-arm about a hundred yards up the grade. There was a hole thirty foot wide where the wagon had been and the railroad iron was corkscrewed for a quarter of a mile. They found quite a bit of Mr. Durham—enough to hold a funeral over."

"And Maddox wasn't scratched! That stuff certainly acts queer at times!"

"They figgered some air current was responsible. Kind of a Godsend for Tiller, wasn't it?"

"Not to be killed? Sure—"

"Naw! To get in with the widder an' Betty. Lucky for them, too, that he took to lookin' out for 'em. If he makes this well they'll be movin' into one of them Dallas mansions with marble bedsteads."

"Humph! He'll never make a well if he keeps dropping hardware in it. In my country a driller that careless would lose his job."

"Tiller won't lose his job," the engineer asserted, positively. "He don't lose anything he goes after."

In the course of time Furlong finished cutting the end of his steel casing into a series of teeth, and these teeth he then bent slightly inward. This done, he attached the device to a tool and lowered it into the hole. Even Betty Durham and her aunt Mary, who looked on with growing suspense, understood now how he proposed to pick up that bolt. He had shaped those tapering teeth so that they resembled the curving fingers of a hand, and his delicate task was to drive the casing home against the steel-hard bottom of the well until those fingers closed, until he clinched them over the obstacle. It was a task less difficult than it sounds.

STORY WITH A MORAL

"Recently a church congregation in a little Kansas town, built a new church. To pay for it they were obliged to call on the merchants of the community for donations. The merchants responded liberally and $300 was raised from that source. The last man asked to subscribe was John Smith, a merchant. I will give $20.00 if you will allow me to add something to the list, he said. The permission was granted and he wrote at the foot of the list:

John Smith—$20.00 Mail Order House—$00.00. Pedlar and Transient—$00.00.

The church people saw the point when the minister read from the pulpit a list of the donors to the building fund, and since the dedication of that church there have been no mail orders sent out from that town."—Perth Courier.

IMPORTANT

He was a very ordinary sort of fellow who got suddenly rich by striking oil, and was always trying to impress those with whom he came in contact with his great importance.

One day he rushed into the railway station, laid a $20 bill down at the ticket seller's window and said: "Gimme a ticket."

"Where to?" asked the ticket agent.

"Anywhere. It doesn't make no difference," said the newly rich man. "I got business all over."

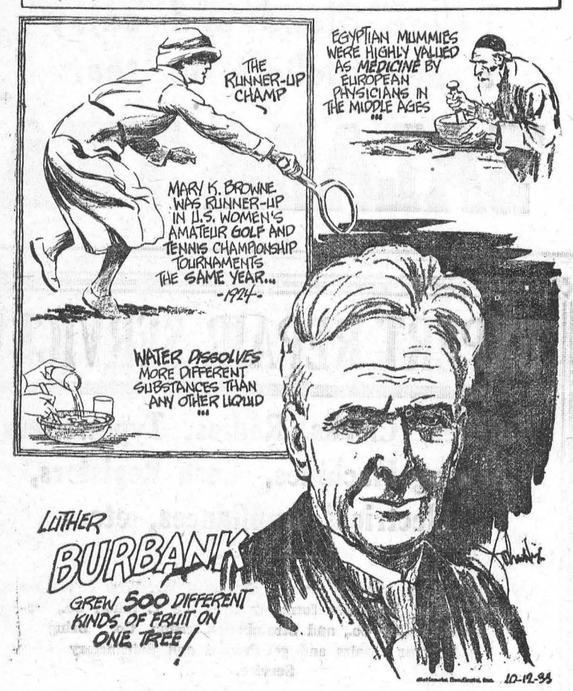
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By JOHN HIX

For further proof address the author inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



Long ago, chemists sought to discover the "universal solvent"—a liquid that would dissolve anything and everything. But, strange as it seems, no matter how strong an acid or alkaline solution is made, it will not dissolve as many different substances as water.

The modern chemist shrugs his shoulder at the idea of a universal solvent. It would be of no value because, if it dissolved everything, no container would hold it.

Mary K. Browne, one time American women's single champion, was next to tops in both tennis and golf in 1924—12 years after she won her tennis title and only two years after she took up golf. In the 1924 golf finals she lost to Dorothy Hurd, and at tennis she went down before Helen Wills. In the doubles she and Helen Wills won the doubles championship.

Luther Burbank, wizard of horticulture, carried out more than 100,000 separate plant experiments. Strange fruits and flowers never before seen were developed by his careful grafting. budding and fertilization.

One of his most fantastic achievements was the development of a single tree that bore 500 fruits—no two of them alike.

Strange as it seems, physicians of the Middle Age in Europe looked with great favor upon the use of ground human mummies as an ingredient in medicine. The demand was so great at one time that bogus mummies were supplied by medical racketeers.

SALT MUCH USED IN INDUSTRIAL WORLD

Salt is a very valuable commodity, and in addition to its use for seasoning and preserving foods, enters into a number of industrial processes. It is used in the textile dyeing industry, in the manufacture of kraft paper and sheet glass in the form of salt cake. There is a large consumption of salt cake in the United States which is supplied from three sources, from the brine deposits in California and Texas, chemical manufacturers who use the sulphuric acid method in manufacturing hydrochloric acid and imports from foreign countries, chiefly Germany and Belgium Canada supplies about 12 per cent. of the total imports and stands third as a source of supply, according to the Industrial department of the Canadian National Railways.

WANTS FLAGS TO FLY ON CHRISTMAS DAY

Odd documents sometimes come before the Town Council in the way of communications. Such an one was read at Tuesday night's meeting. It was in the form of a letter from Mr. W. A. Edwards, a member of the Liverpool, Eng., Town Council, asking that the flag be displayed on municipal buildings on Christmas Day. He had made this suggestion some years ago, and as a result it had been taken up by 166 counties and many cities in England and by 112 municipalities in the Dominions. We fly the flag on other occasions, so why not on this, the greatest birthday anniversary known to mankind? The letter went on to give the long list of cities which had fallen in line with his suggestion; these were scattered all over the globe.—Gananoque Reporter.

PIGEONS KEEP IN TOUCH WITH PA

Each Sunday afternoon homing pigeons fly into the yard of Martin Tucker, bringing the glad tidings that his schoolteacher daughter, Gladys, arrived safely in South Hampton, N. H.

Miss Tucker, who spends every weekend with her family, found the telephone too expensive and the mails too slow. Homing pigeons, long a hobby of her father, solved the problem.

The pigeons return to the Tucker home in much less time than it takes for Miss Tucker to drive to South Hampton.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER

FEED TO FATTEN GEESE

The best feed on which to fatten geese is corn. If you have no corn available use buckwheat, oats and barley, mixed. There is nothing that will put flesh on geese at this season of the year like whole corn. Do not feed your geese mashes. Whole corn with a small amount of green feed such as cabbages will answer the purpose best.

RATIONS FOR DAIRY COWS

Two important rations must be considered in formulating rations for dairy cows. The supply of feed on hand, or available at a cost in keeping with the value of the product to be produced, and the selection of feeds that will supply the necessary food nutrients in a palatable form, plus sufficient variety and bulk.

Data secured at the Dominion Experimental Farm, show that the cheapest supply of feed is secured from our own farms. In other words, home-grown feeds are the most economical.

It is generally recognized that on the majority of farms sufficient protein cannot be produced to supply the dairy cows with the necessary requirements. By producing clover or alfalfa hay, however, along with roots or ensilage and the common cereal crops, it has been demonstrated during the past three years that the only feed purchases necessary are small amounts of high protein supplements. One supplement that is produced in Eastern Canada is fish meal.

With any ration made up of feeds that are grown in Eastern Canada, a mineral supplement such as ground limestone and bone char is necessary. When fish meal is fed, this is not essential, but it is excellent insurance in any case.

HAY AND SAW CROPS

South-Western Ontario: Some 6,000 tons of timothy hay are reported north and east of Goderich to Toronto and 6,500 tons of timothy grass mixed hay in the and west areas. 6,800 tons of alfalfa are reported north and east of Goderich to Toronto and 18,000 tons in Owen Sound-Meaford area and in scattered localities. In addition 1,200 tons of clover hay are reported from scattered places in the district. These supplies of good hay for the market may be much increased if there comes a greater demand. In addition there are large surpluses of discoloured hay caused by adverse weather in the haying season.

North-Western Ontario: A large surplus of timothy and timothy clover mixed hay in Ontario west of Fort William is reported.

Eastern and Northern Ontario: Ontario from Peterborough east and including the Ottawa Valley has a surplus of market hay in almost every county. Counties bordering on the St. Lawrence river report a surplus of about 7,500 tons of timothy and timothy mixed hay, much of which is grade No. 3 on account of rains during the harvesting season. A large quantity of timothy hay is reported in the lower Ottawa Valley, which includes a substantial carry over from the 1934 crop. Northern Ontario reports a surplus supply of about 23,000 tons of timothy and timothy clover mixtures.

THE DECEMBER SURVEY OF LIVE STOCK AND POULTRY

The Department with the assistance of the rural schools, distributes blank Schedules to farmers twice each year, in June and December, for the purpose of preparing estimates of the numbers of live stock on farms and the acreage of field crops. Great importance is attached to the successful completion of the survey, as only in this way can reliable estimates of the numbers of hogs cattle, sheep and other live stock be prepared.

School pupils are asked to distribute these schedules and return them to the teacher. Although a very large number of farmers fill in the cards regularly each year, there are some who hesitate to do so. In some years as many as 80,000 cards have been filled in and returned for Ontario. There is good reason for every farmer to fill out a Survey Card as the chief purpose of the Department of Agriculture in carrying out this work is to secure statistical data for the use of farmers themselves. As soon as the work of tabulating is completed the Statistics Branch of the Department of Agriculture releases the figures simultaneously to all newspapers, farm journals and radio stations.

Some persons are of the opinion the information is used for taxation purposes. This is strictly not so. Each Report is considered absolutely confidential and the information is used only by the Statistics Branch for compiling agricultural statistics by township or county division. Particulars for individual farms are never divulged to any one.

Notwithstanding sorrows and disappointments, keep in love with life.

Every day is a little life, and our whole life is but a day repeated.

To be served by all is dangerous; to be contradicted by none is worse.

Our chief want in life is somebody who shall make us do what we can.

If a thing is right, do it boldy; if it be wrong, leave it undone.

THE UNEMPLOYABLE

(By Hon. Frank Carrell, in Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph)

In considering the number of unemployed
We must not forget
Those who never worked,
Those who lived on others,
Those who were too lazy,
Those who lived by their wits
In fleecing others.
They are all numbered
Among to-day's unemployed.
How many of this class
Will ever be converted to work
Is hard to say,
But one assured fact
Stares them in the face.
They will not find such an easy time
In the world from now on
As they did before the depression.

GAMING DEVICES BANNED

Gaming devices and slot machines will be barred in future from all Ontario agricultural fairs under threat of Government grant cancellation. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, said in a statement to the press recently.

The ban will go into effect next year irrespective of enabling terms in the criminal code, the Minister said.

Ask Code Amendment

He further intimated he would ask the Federal Government to amend the criminal code so the devices would not be given the present privilege.

The ban will be effective on every fair, from the biggest to the smallest. Mr. Marshall stated enabling legislation will be sought in an amendment to the provincial agricultural socities' act, to be brought before the House at the coming session.

Is In Touch With Ottawa

The Minister said he had watched the operation of one of the machines and was convinced that the gambling devices were not in the best interests of agricultural exhibitions. He further said he had already been in touch with Hon. James Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, on the question.

The new ban will effect to a much greater extent the rural fairs, where slot machines and gaming devices have on many occasions been features of the Midway.

OUR EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM

Education is still far from perfect in the opinion of Dr. G. W. Kirby, the 75-year-old principal of Mount Royal College in Calgary. He complains there is no primary emphasis on honour, truth, self-reliance, courage and affection in the teaching of our schools.

"Boys and girls have everything they think they need for their outsides," he says. "They have lipsticks, cigarettes, bathing suits, automobiles, compacts, hair grease, flashy jewellery, gay parties, and pet dogs. Their insides, however, are sadly lacking in what matters. It is high time for a revival which will humanize the educational system in Canada."

—Saturday Night.

DON'T STAY BURIED

This story isn't ours, but nevertheless it is a good one:

A farmer had an old blind horse which had outlived its usefulness. One day he fell into on old well. The farmer looked in and saw him standing deep in the water. There seemed to be no way to get him out, as he was quite useless, and the well abandoned and dangerous, the farmer ordered his men to fill up the well and leave the horse buried in it.

The men began to shovel dirt into the well. But the horse was not willing to be buried. When the dirt began to fall in upon him he began to shake it off and tread it under foot. As the well was filled up the horse came nearer and nearer to the surface, and when the men finished their task the horse walked out into the pasture.

The very things which conspire to bury the lion-hearted these days, are used by them to lift themselves out of difficulties and into the light. The very last thing one should do is to agree to stay dead and buried.

And then there is the story of the Shelburne man who is of rather strong Conservative leanings, who, when awakened by the earthquake leaped out of bed and exclaimed: "Heavens. What will that man Hepburn be up to next."

—Shelburne Economist.

MILK KEPT FRESH FOR MONTHS NOW

An invention which is expected to revolutionize the dairying industry has been revealed by Theodor Hofius, a Duisberg, Germany, engineer, who states that it has been entered for patent rights in all countries.

He claims that he has invented a vessel in which milk and cream can be kept fresh for several months by using an oxygen apparatus.

Milk remained fresh in a new vessel for at least two months and its quality was improved, it is claimed.

The invention, if successful, will permit milk to be transported for any distance, thus opening new prospects for milk-exporting countries, it is claimed.

OUR WORDS

One of the most successful business men of the country says we should think a long time before we say a hard word to anyone, but never miss a chance to say a good one. That is just the opposite from what most of us do. Most hard words are spoken almost without thinking. We find fault before we have made any special effort to understand. We criticize on the impulse of the moment. We say bitter, resentful things because we sat up too late last night and feel out of sorts. Again and again we miss the chance to speak words of praise, of sympathy, of encouragement, because we do not think. There are probably times when hard words are necessary, but they are so few that such words should never be spoken without reflection. The time for good words, however, never comes and never goes. It is always here.

DISQUALIFICATIONS OF CANDIDATES

Changes made this year to Section 53, Municipal Act, will have an important effect as to the disqualification of candidates at the approaching municipal elections, says the Municipal World. A candidate is no longer disqualified for unpaid taxes for the current year. He is disqualified if he has any business or income taxes overdue and unpaid at the time of the nomination or if there are taxes of a preceding year or years overdue and unpaid in respect of the land on which he qualifies. A tenant is disqualified if at the time of the nomination he owes more than three months rent upon the property in respect of which he qualifies. Sub-section (4a) of Section 70, enacted in 1929 and amended in 1930, provides that in cities and towns a candidate shall produce a certificate that there are no municipal taxes due on any of the lands in the municipality of which such person is an owner or tenant. As under the amendments to Section 53 a person is not disqualified on unpaid taxes against any land except that on which he qualifies, and then only for arrears of a preceding year or years, it would appear that Subsection (a) of Section 70 has been repealed by implication and that a certificate as to the payment of taxes is no longer necessary.—Simcoe Reformer.

LAMPS . . . . . kerosene

A kerosene lamp—or, as the English call it, a "paraffin" lamp—exploded in the servants' quarters of St. James's Palace in London, where the Prince of Wales lives, the other day, and set fire to the building. I have heard of nothing recently which so aptly illustrates how long it takes to bring new inventions and conveniences into general use. When one of the British royal palaces still relies on oil lamps, it is not surprising that we still have millions of homes in America that have not been wired for electricity.

I have been trying to remember when I first lived in a house with electric lights. I was 35 years old, and had lived in several good-sized cities, before I had electricity in my own home. It will be a long time yet before electric lights are universal.

WINDMILLS . nature's power

The oldest and almost the last of the picturesque Dutch windmills on Cape Cod is going to be moved to Henry Ford's museum at Dearborn. Mr. Ford has assembled there the largest collection of American antiques in the world, for the purpose of showing the students in his trade school—and others—how things used to be made and done.

The windmill is perhaps the most primitive of all of man's efforts to harness the forces of nature, and was efficient enough when nobody was in a hurry to get things done. The Pilgrims of Plymouth brought the Dutch windmill idea with them from Holland, where they had spent 14 years before embarking in the "Mayflower" for America.

I can remember as a boy "Down East" going with my father with a load of corn to be ground into meal in one of those old windmills. Now they are merely ornaments—and back in Holland, where they have have been used for centuries to pump the water out from behind the dikes, they are being replaced by the more modern and efficient Diesel engines.

INSURANCE . . . old age

Everybody who reads this, if he or she works for salary or wages in any business or industry except farming, will have to begin pretty soon to pay Uncle Sam something out of the pay envelope every payday.

I've just been studying the Social Security Act, passed last Summer. Beginning Jan. 1, 1937, it sets the Federal Government up as the biggest Life Insurance company in the world. Every worker—40 or 50 million of us—will be taxed on our incomes to pay the premiums on death benefits and old age annuities after we're 65. Every employer will have to pay the same tax on what he pays us, and besides that, a tax on his payroll for the Unemployment Compensation Fund.

I can't quarrel much with the idea of compulsory saving for old age, which is what this all amounts to, but I'm wondering how well this fund will be managed by the political appointees who will run it, especially when it gets up to fifty billion dollars or so.

UNEMPLOYMENT . . facts

The greatest advantage of the new Unemployment Compensation law, in the Social Security Act, is that it will effectively separate the sheep from the goats. It will provide compensation when "laid off" for workers who haye really been on payrolls, and leave only the chronic loafers to "relief."

Nobody knows, nobody ever has known, how many genuine cases there are now or have been at any time of men and women willing and able to work, but unemployed through no fault of their own. The number, I believe, is much smaller than most of the so-called statistics would indicate.

Before the Social Security Act has been in effect very long, we'll have some actual facts before us when we talk about unemployment.

FINGERPRINTS . . on file

One of the provisions of the Social Security Act seems to point to the fingerprinting of every worker. Everyone who pays the Old Age Tax, or for whom it is paid, has got to have not only proof that it has been paid, but that he is the individual entitled to its benefits, when the time comes to collect.

The Act contemplates a system of books, stamps and coupons, and "any helpful means of identification." I forsee a new social system in America, like that of European countries, where everybody — at least all of us who work for wages —will have to carry his complete dossier, a record of where he was born, where he has worked, how much he has earned and proof that his Old Age tax has been paid.

And all of those individual records, some 40 or 50 million of them, with fingerprints, will have to be on file in Washington.

MUST NOT SMOKE ON DUTY

There will be no smoking by Alberta government employees during office hours and no loitering in legislative building corridors, as a result of an order issued by the Social Credit administration. The ruling also calls for workers remaining at their desks until the quitting bell sounds.

ASKS PENITENTIARY TERM SO HE MAY FIGHT DRUGS

John Ranger, 33 years of age, told Magistrate Strike in court at Ottawa this morning that he was a drug addict and asked that he be sent to Kingston penitentiary so that he might receive treatment and learn a trade. Ranger was arrested by Detective Borden Hobbs as the result of the officer finding in his room 85 Murray street a suitcase and contents, valued at $25, taken from Union Station, and pleaded guilty when arraigned. He was remanded until Monday.

ROASTS OF VENISON

The Editor of the Winchester Press overlooked last week an obligation which he hastens to correct in this issue. When the successful hunters returned from their hunt, bringing home their trophies, and were kind enough to remember the Press in the distribution of the fine cuts of venison, the least we can do is to say "thank you." Last week "Doug" McLean and "Sab" Keyes each laid on the editor's table a very fine roast of venison, the result of their hunt and unerring marksmanship. It is needless to say the remembrances were fully appreciated and heartily enjoyed. We hope the boys will be as lucky next year—and the editor too.

LOSING GOOD MAN

W. J. Bell, retiring principal of the Kemptville Agricultural School, who is about to join the staff of the animal husbandry department at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, was presented with a leather club bag a few days ago by the members of the alumni association of the Kemptville institution.

Eastern Ontario is losing a good man, and a very popular man, in the transfer of Mr. Bell to the Guelph College. Mr. Bell was a real sport, and took an interest in every phase of life that was helpful to the young. His usual summer visit to Winchester Bowling Green will be missed and regretted.

SENTENCED FOR THEFT

Harry Hurlburt, Clarence Boal and Hilliard Christie, of Kemptville, were convicted in magistrate's court at Kemptville this week of stealing two turkeys belonging to Isaac Bradley, reeve of Augusta. Hurlburt had a record of two previous convictions and was given 40 days in the counties jail, while Boal, previously convicted once, was sentenced to 30 days. Christie, whose previous record was clean, escaped with 20 days.

An Oshawa young woman, aged 20 years, who was arrested on a vagrancy charge, appeared in court. It was related by police officers that she had obtained services at a hair dressing parlor in that town without going through the formality of paying, and had also procured $6 from a resident through relating a hard-luck story after attempting to pass a cheque. On the vagrancy charge she was remanded to jail for a week.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NEWS

Service will be held in St Peter's church, South Mountain, next Sunday aternoon at 2.30 p.m.

There will be a celebration of Holy Communion next Sunday—Advent Sunday—in St. Matthias' Church at 10.30 a. m.

The deepest sympathy of the community is again extended to Mrs. Philip Walker and family, of Winchester Springs, in the passing of their cousin, Mr. Ernest Shiach, of South Gower, at the Civic Hospital, Ottawa, on Saturday, after remaining there for almost five weeks in a critical condition, as a result of a motor accident, when he and his mother were returning home from a visit to Mrs. Walker and family.

WILL SPEAK AT CANADIAN CLUB

Continuing an unusually brilliant season, the Morrisburg Caadian Club will be honored with the presence, as guest speaker, of one of the outstanding men of this continent, if not in the world. Norman Armour, United States Minister to Canada, will address the Canadian Club at Morrisburg on Tuesday evening, December 3rd, during their third seasonal banquet, and probably the last one until spring.

Mr. Armour, a native of England, a graduate of three colleges, married Princess Myra Koudacheff of Petrograd, Russia, in 1919. He has held twelve ambassadorial positions similar to his present one in as many lands, embarking on his diplomatic career in 1915. His address will undoubtedly prove interesting.

MRS MARY FLOYD

Final tribute was paid to the memory of Mrs. Mary Floyd at her funeral service which was held on Wednesday afternoon last at St. James Anglican church, of Kemptville. The service was conducted by the rector, Rev. J. deP. Wright, and a large number of the friends of the deceased were present. Mrs. Floyd, who was 90 years of age, was the widow of the late Thomas Floyd and was born in Wolford Township, and passed away on Monday last.

Surviving are two sons, Fred of South Gower, with whom she had resided, and William, of Nelson B. C.; also four daughters, Mrs. R .Hunt, of Porcupine Plains Sask., Mrs. W. Dillon, Mrs. James Ross and Mrs. George Whaley, of South Gower.

The pall bearers were James Plunkett, T A. Robinson, Robert Kite, Norman Barkley, Frank Arcand and George Kerr.

Interment was in the church cemetery.

MANY FROM HERE ATTEND LIVESTOCK SALE

Several residents of Dundas were buyers at the Annual Surplus Live Stock sale at Kemptville Agricultural School on November 25th.

Of interest is the purchase by Alfred Deeks of Iroquois of a new Holstein Herd Sire, K. A. S. Sir Patrick. This young bull is sired by Sir Sylvius Pabst Posch, a Class XX bull, and from the the R. O. P. Dam, K. A. S. May Pontiac Echo, which has an official record of 10,702 lbs. of milk testing 3.59 per cent. milked twice daily. This should prove a very valuable addition to Mr. Deek's Herd of Pure Bred Holsteins.

Other purchasers from this County, include John McGinn, Dixon's Corners; William Marshall, South Mountain; William Flegg, Brinston; and Tom Mulloy, of Inkerman, who purchased the top sow in the sale. Elmer Sullivan of South Mountain, secured a new Ayrshire Herd Sire in a calf sired by the Class AA bull, Thorncroft Star Mixer, and from the dam K. A. S. Marie Pan, with an R. O. P. record at eight years of age, of 10,514 lbs. of milk wth an average test of 4.38 per cent. The sale was handled by W. L. Bartley, of Inkerman, and was well attended, with brisk bidding.

PROMINENT CORNWALL LAWYER DIES

Following an illness of only a few days' duration, George I. Gogo, K.C., well known Cornwall barrister and criminal lawyer, died at his home there on Saturday night last. Mr. Gogo had been about as usual up to Tuesday evening last, on which day he had conducted a case in court. However, he had not been well for a few weeks.

Born at Farran's Point, Ont., 64 years ago, he was a son of Joseph P. Gogo. After receiving his primary education in the school at Farran's Point, he attended Cornwall High and Model schools, and followed the profession of a teacher for a year in the First Front school. Deciding to take up the study of law, he entered the office of MacLennon and Cline at Cornwall, afterwards going to Toronto to attend Osgoode Hall. He was called to the bar in 1896, and for 39 years has practised his profession in Cornwall. At different times he was a partner of G. A. Stiles, K.C., and J. G. Harkness, K.C., but for several years had practised on his own account. He was created a K.C. 13 years ago.

He has been connected with many prominent cases, and a number of years ago appeared before the Privy Council in the case of the assessment of the New York Central Railway bridge as representative of Cornwall Township. He was counsel for Mrs. Viney Belle Volvey and Clarence Cameron, who are awaiting retrial for the murder of the former's husband.

In the affairs of the Liberal party he an active interest, and on two occasions contested Stormont county in the interest of that party in federal contests.

Besides his widow, formerly Miss Louise Newman of Cornwall, he leaves five daughters and a son, Mrs. Wilfred Lalonde and Miss Jean Gogo, both of Montreal; Mrs. Ambrose McMahon, of Toronto, Mrs. W. A. Milligan, of Cornwall, Mrs. Milton Anderson and George Gogo, Jr., East Front.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from his home, East Front, Cornwall, to Woodlawn cemetery, Cornwall.

Mr. Alex Duncan has just got in a lot of new books for the Christmas trade.

HALLVILLE Y. P. S.

The members of the Young People's Society of Hallville United Church held their weekly meeting in the church on Monday evening. The devotional period was in charge of Rae Allen who read a letter from the Rev. Charles Allan Clark, missionary in China.

Laura Hyndman, president of the society, then took charge of the business period, after which Mr. Morrison spoke on "The United Church and Foreign Missions."

BUYING CHEESE FOR U. S. MARKET

All branches of United States firms have been buyers of cheese on the Montreal market since the new reciprocity treaty was signed between Canada and the United States. On January 1 the U. S. duty on cheese will become five cents per pound, compared with seven cents at present. Presumably, the cheese has been bought for shipment after the first of the new year. This buying has caused an advance on the cheese market market and prices yesterday were firm at 11c for Ontario white and 11 1-2c for Ontario colored, current arrivals. Earlier makes are dearer.

MISS JANE DUNCAN

The funeral of Miss Jane Duncan, a highly esteemed resident of Russell nearly all her life, was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Fraser, Russell, to the church of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's United, Russell, where a large number of friends and relatives gathered to pay a final tribute of respect to her memory.

Miss Duncan was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duncan of South March, Ont. She was born in 1849 and was in her 87th year. In 1914, accompanied by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beattie, she moved from Marvelville, Ont., to Russell.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Thos. McNaught, of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's, United. Interment was in the family plot at South March cemetery.

The pallbearers were J. E. Kyle, W. Pescod, L. Browne, Jno. R. Hall, J. I. McCaffrey and R. P. Hayes.

RESULT OF AUTOPSY IN CASE OF LATE W. J. WYATT

William J. Wyatt, former cattle drover of Osgoode, died of a heart attack, Dr. T. R. Little said following an autopsy he performed on Friday afternoon last to ascertain the cause of death. Mr. Wyatt had walked into the Civic Hospital at 12.30 o'clock last Thursday morning to say he was ill, and died less than two hours later.

An inquest was opened Friday under Dr. Harry Dover, coroner. After formal identification of the body, the inquiry was adjourned until Monday night in the police station.

Just prior to midnight Wyatt, who was registered at the Central Hotel, Hull, called the clerk on duty, Rene Champagne, to his room and asked him to secure a taxi for him. He was last seen by Champagne getting into the taxi and driving away. The clerk stated that he seemed to be in good health and gave no reason for his calling a taxi at that late hour. Neither did he state where he was going in the cab.

Wyatt, who lived at Osgoode with his brother, John A. Wyatt, left there on Monday morning on a trip to the Capital. He did not divulge where he was going to stay nor how long, but since this was a usual habit of Mr. Wyatt's, nothing was thought of it when the family did not hear from him. They were notified of his death at 3 a. m. last Thursday morning by the hospital authorities.

He was 61 years of age and well known by the cattle dealers in this district with whom he had had dealings over a long period of years.

His family claimed that when he left home he was in his usual good health and had not been complaining of feeling ill.
