Dupont VP Reaffirms Faith in Morrisburg

Reaffirming the faith of his company in the industrial future of Morrisburg, Mr. F. S. McCarthy, a vice-president of Dupont of Canada Limited, speaking last night to the annual banquet meeting of the Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce, pointed out that preparation of plans for any chemical plant, must of their nature take a rather long time. Dupont, Mr. McCarthy said, will definitely be building a plant at Morrisburg, although the nature of the plant nor the starting date can be given at the present time. Some preparations however, are being made, for instance, the construction of a railway siding, which although being built primarily to service Seaway Chemicals, is so located as to also serve the needs of Dupont, when the occasion arises Such preparatory work, he pointed out, will allow, when the decision is made, for construction to proceed immediately in high gear

Mr. McCarthy was speaking to the C of C on the subject of change and the "technological revolution".

He stated that many thinkers are convinced that, in the foreseeable future, a large proportion of the population of the developed countries will be forced not to work.

"We are moving into a new kind of civilization", he said. "The motive forces are science and technology, which permits fewer people to make more goods. This technological revolution brings with it rapid change in social institutions and the moral, religious and aesthetic aspects of life.

"Most people will work shorter and shorter hours for fewer and fewer years in their lives until at some point in the future most people will not work at all", he said, but gave two reasons why he was of the opinion this would be "the most serious problem and the most drastic change that modern man has ever faced".

"First, we are phsychologically incapable of accepting as a group or as individuals the idea that people should not work for a living. The Puritan tradition and the Protestant ethic have taught us that to work is good and not to work is shemeful and degrading . . . For the most part, people who don't work for a living feel uncomfortable, perhaps subconsciously guilty. It will not be easy to change that ingrained ethic. In fact, it will dras tically alter the whole social fabric of our civilization.

"Second, if people don't work, we are going to have to devise an entirely new economic system for the distribution of goods and services. It certainly can't be the present system which puts purchasing power into the hands of consumers in return for their work.

"The onl certainty is change — radical change. The most significant question for the future is what is going to replace work as the central ethic of life . . . For the first time in history, the challenge of leisure is going to have to be faced by the many".

Mr. McCarthy emphasized that leisure is not necessarily the same as free time. Work is the opposite of free time, but true leisure is more closely related to a condition of mind than to time itself. Profound changes in our society, in education for example, are needed if the majority are to become "the leisure kind", those who love ideas and the imagination.

"We have learned to subdue nature and transform the world," he concluded. "Whether we can transform ourselves remains to be seen.

25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY FOR LOCAL COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Barkley, Casselman Road, Morrisburg, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at an "At Home" held at the Legion Hall, Morrisburg, on Tuesday ev ening, April 12th from 7 to 10 p.m.

The couple received many useful and attractive gifts including a swivel chair, the gift of the immed iate families. Guests were present from Winchester Springs, Brinston, Williamsburg Morrisburg, and also from many out-of-town points.

Combines Bow Out To Sherbrooke

Morrisburg Combines couldn't quite make the grade, but at least they gave the Sherbrooke Beavers a god run for their money. The Combines had led the series three games to one, after winning three straight games, but were eliminated in the seventh game on Tuesday night in a humiliating 9-1 setback.

George Roy's Beavers had to bounce back and win three straight games to win the series, and keep their hopes of repeating as Allan Cup Champs. Friday night in Brockville, Combines were dumped 11-5 and in Sherbrooke on Sunday night by 6-2.

In Friday's game the score at the end of the first frame was 2-1 in favour of the Beavers, with Pepin starting the scoring at 17:02 and Guy Black counting at 19:39. Rowdy Gillard scored a hotly protested goal at 19:59 on passes from Forrest and Doug Casselman.

The second period was all Beavers with seven of their shots going past Gerry Fleury. Forrest took a five-minute high sticking penalty, the only infraction called during the game against Combines, and the Sherbrooke team took the opportunity to put two in the net as Combines were short. Morrisburg also scored twice in the period.

In the third period, each team scored two. The first goal came off the stick of Big Doug Casselman, while Sherbrooke was short by two men.

Leading the scoring parade for the Beavers, was Guy Black with three goals; Dupre and Richer had two each and singles went to Fortin, Pepin, Roy and Beckman. For Morrisburg, it was Gillard, Tomalty, White, Casselman and St. Louis.

In Sunday's game, the Beavers, heavy favorites at the start of the series, scored four goals in the second period to put their third victory on ice, after taking a 2-1 lead in the first period.

With only minutes in the final period, Combines' Ivan Miller started a fracas with Rejean Richer, and before the referees halted that, players from both benches were involved. Rowdy Gillard and Claude Cardin each drew a game misconduct, Cardin and Miller each a double minor, and Sherbrooke had 4 major penalties for letting players leave their bench. Morrisburg scored the only third period goal, when Harold White put an unassisted one past Aubrey at 16:10.

Pepin scored twice for Sherbrooke and Cartier, Guilbault, Dupre and Cardin once each. A total of 10 minors, five majors, 1 10-minute misconduct and 2 game-misconduct penalties were called in the heavy-hitting match.

In the deciding game Monday, Beavers jumped to the offensive at the opening whistle. Jean Levesque scored an easy goal at 3:30 and Rene Pepin and Larry Drouin each scored once to make it 3-0 at the end of the first. In the second, Guilbault put one in on a pass from Richer, while Cardin and Holmes were in the penalty pen. Less than two minutes later, Cartier took over the game for the Beavers, and scored three goals before the end of the frame with Levesque, Cardin and Dupre assisting, making the score 7-0.

Guilbault fired his second in the third period t omake it 8-0 before Mel Tomalty counted the lone Morrisburg goal. Bill Dupre rounded out the scoring with an unassisted goal with a little over a minute left to play.

For this game, the Combines were severely handicapped as Arnie Lawlor, Weiner Brown, Pat Brophy and Jim McCloskey were absent because of illness or work commitments.

MEETING WITH PORKY PAINFUL FOR LADDIE

Laddie, a friendly red and white springer spaniel belonging to George Locke, met with a severe rebuff Sunday when he tried to make the acquaintance of a surly porcupine which had wandered into the Locke yard during the night. His curiosity was rewarded with 36 porcupine quills, a few in his nose, but the majority lodged beneath one ear.

He was taken to veterinary Dr. Gray at Winchester where he was administered an anaesthetic, had the quills clipped and removed. He remained there during the day and was returned home during the evening, still pretty groggy. He was given a comfortable bed in the base ment and carefully covered to prevent a chill. During the night, he awakened and broadcast such a pitiful cry of lonelliness and distress that George came to his rescue and took him to his room. There he contentedly settled down on the rug by the bed and Monday morning he was well on the way to being himself again.

MRS. M. REID DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Meredith Reid, well known Morrisburg resident, died Tuesday, April 12th at Winchester Memorial Hospital. In ill health for several years, she was in her 80th year.

The former Ruby Louise Millward was a daughter of the late John Millward and his wife, Sophia Pear. She was born in Williamsburg township but spent the major portion of her life at Morrisburg. In July, 1906, at Brockville, she married Meredith Reid, of Morrisburg, who predeceased her in November 1964. Since her husband's death she has resided with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George LaPierre, Farlinger Ave.

She is survived by four sons and two daughters: Percy, of Wolfe Island; Clifford of Cornwall; Raymond of Timmins; Clayton of Oshawa; Mrs. David Killen (Winnie), of Timmins, and Mrs. George LaPierre (Flossie) of Morrisburg. She is also survived by two sisters and one brother: Mrs. Joseph Dean (May) of Prescott; Mrs. Nelson Prunner (Libby) of Nudel Bush and Gory Millward of Morrisburg. She leaves 19 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren. A son predeceased her 36 years ago.

Noted Choir at Iroquois Saturday

On Saturday evening, April 23rd, the Ewart College Deaconess Choir of Toronto, representing some 22 young women of the Presbyterian Church, who are in training for full-time service work in the life and witness of the Church, will present a special service of music in the sanctuary of Knox Presbyterian Church, Iroquois, zeginning at 7:30 p.m., and to which all the members of the area churches are cordially invited.

Each spring the Presbyterian Church in Canada invites some of its students preparing for vocations in the church to tour a part of Canada. This year, the young women of the training college in Toronto have been selected for this opportunity of meeting the congregations of the church. In addition to presenting some of the great music of the church, the purpose of this tour is to interest other young people in full-time service in the life and witness of the church.

Ewart College is the educational institution of the Presbyterian Church in Canada for the training of persons for Deaconess, Christian Education, Church Social Work, and Missionary Service in Canada and overseas. Members of the choir come from all parts of Canada. Included in the present membership are six of the 1966 graduates of Ewart College, who will, following the tour, scatter across Canada from the prairies to Cape Breton Island to begin their work.

Making its only Ontario appearance of the 1966 tour, which will see these young women cover many communities in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, the Iroquois congregation cordially invites members of the Seaway Valley community to share with them in this evening of choral music and message in song and word.

Cancer Society to Cavass Next Week

During the week of April 25th, volunteers of the Morrisburg and District unit of the Canadian Cancer Society will begin canvassing for $2,000.00 This is part of a record national objective of $4,500,000.

Why is more money needed this year than ever before to fight cancer? Because, having tasted success in proof that their research and educational efforts are contributing to an ever-rising total of "five-year survival" cases, the Society is more determined than ever to deal this disease a death blow. Meanwhile the money being spent on welfare services for cancer's unfortunate victims is also growing.

The scientific community too, is showing an increasng interest in finding the cause and the cure for this formidable enemy. Scientists, like members of the lay public, are impressed by the fact that despite the efforts of more than half a century, cancer has resisted the efforts of some of the best minds in the world to learn its mysteries—even while other diseases, like diphtheria, polio, diabetes, smallpox, and goitre have succumbed to some measure of control or prevention.

If more doctors than ever are willing and anxious to devote their energies to a solution for this problem, money must be available to support them while they do it and to pay for the very best laboratory facilities and equipment.

We urge the people of this community to support this humanitarian cause. There are few of us who do not know someone who has, or has da, cancer. There are even fewer who would not wish to help bring about the eventual defeat of one of mankind's most stubborn enemies. And we can each play a part by supporting the campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society.

April is Cancer Month and this Sunday, April 24th, is Daffodil Sunday. April is the month when you can help fight cancer with your prayers and your financial support. This is the one and only time each year you are asked to contribute to the support of this work. You can help by giving that support.

The local Campaign for Funds will be carried out in this area during the week of April 24th. Give encouragement to the hundreds of volunteers when they come to your door for your subscription. They are dedicated to the task of making the cancer patient's life a little easier and a little more pleasant.

SUNRISE SERVICE AT CARDINAL

New Ontario Maps Issued

With distribution now under way of the 1966 edition of the Official Road Map, published by the Department of Highways, Ontario, Highways Minister Charles S. McNaughton notes that a novel method of folding makes referring to it as simple as leafing through the pages of a book. As a result the map is much more readily useable in a car.

In conjunction with the new method of folding and arrangement of the material, a revised indexing of place names greatly simplifies the pinpointing of all communities and lakes. Similarly, the inset maps of cities and other blocks of information...such as the mileage chart ... can be found much more easily than in the past by simple referenceto the keymaps on the back cover of the 1966 edition.

Through these improvements the desired information can be found by opening only one panel of the map at a time. Thanks to the noticeably greater ease with which the new production can be used, it will be a simple matter to refer to the map while travelling by car, as noted by Mr. McNaughton.

All the other helpful features of previous maps have been retained, such as panels depicting various Traffic Signs, another listing First Aid Posts, etc. FM radio stations have been added to the former listing of standard broadcast radio stations.

The map ..the cover of which carries a color photo of a typical rural highway scene..was designed by the Cartographic Section of the Department of Highways, as in the past.

The new map may be obtained free of charge from any of the 18 district or five regional offices of of the Department of Highways its Head Office (Downsview P.O.), all Service Centres, and the Department of Tourism and Information, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. The map will also be available at any of the Tourist Reception Centres operated by the Department of Tourism and Information.

OF A BYGONE AGE. These broken wagon wheels stand as mute reminders of many a summer of toil spent on some Canadian backroad and farm field. DEAR DORIS advice from Doris Clark

Two Left Feet

DEAR DORIS — I am not a wallflower yet, but I'm afraid I might grow to be one if I don't learn how to dance pretty soon. When I do go out on the floor I don't know the steps, and it's awfully embarrassing even if the boy doesn't seem to notice.

Most of the girls caught on quickly. I didn't. It's not because of nervousness, because I'm just as awkward dancing with one of my girl friends as with a boy.

There are teen dances out of school and I wouldn't even dream of going to them, even though many other kids do.

A Troubled Dancer

DEAR TROUBLED — Cheer up! Some people are born with two left feet — but everybody stumbles around a bit at first.

Get a go-ahead from your mother for practice sessions at home with one or two girl friends. There are records and instructions to be had. Practice makes perfect!

DEAR DORIS — At the time we were making up the list to invite to our son's wedding, they were to be married in the chapel. So instead of including the cousins and aunts and uncles who live far away and probably could not come, we sent them announcements.

Then they decided to have the ceremony in the church. The bride's parents did not extend their list, and neither did we. All the local or nearby relatives came.

Since the matter may come up again, I'd like your opinion.

Still Wondering

DEAR WONDERING — Only part of the problem was solved by the move into the church. There was still the little matter of keeping your list within the bounds set by the hosts of the reception — the bride's parents.

Other things being equal I'd lean in the direction of inviting all relatives you consider close — in terms of intimacy and affection. For the not-so-close, an announcement is better, since it does not suggest sending a present.

DEAR DORIS — Our only son (11) feels so sorry for himself that he is outnumbered by our three girls that he is in a constant state of rebellion.

We live on a farm but there is no wood to carry in or ashes to carry out, so I put him to work in the house, with helping set and clear the table and dry dishes and tidy his room. He's so scared he'll dry one more dish than his sisters, he just makes working with him a pain in the neck. He often says, as a last slam, "Boy, if I only had a brother!"

My husband and I are wondering if taking in a welfare boy around his own age would be the answer?

Just One Boy

DEAR JUST — Some "Only Boys" preen themselves on the admiration of their "harem"! I suspect your girls gang up on this one.

Father could help. How about some man-talk? A boy-man outing, like fishing, football game, horse show? Home chores are fine, but are there some additional ones which might call for he-man strength?

Taking on a "welfare boy" to meet a desperate need like this might put too big a burden on such a guest — considering the needs he himself may have. But you could discuss the idea with your child care agency.

DEAR DORIS — I'm a widow and have been living with my sister a year. But she had no children, so there is great tension in the house when my married sons and families come to visit me.

The boys want me to get a house of my own — and fast. My sister is lonely and wants me to stay. My furniture has been in storage. Houses are scarce and expensive around here.

What To Do?

DEAR WHAT — Better to live close by than in her lap. You want freedom for children, she wants freedom from them. Could some grown-up-type progeny help you swing it financially?

Shop for the just right house until you find it, enlisting your sister's help all the way. She needn't feel slighted if you talk it out with her first.

As you grow older, you'll prize her companionship even more.

RECORD PROFITS, SALES DOMINION STORES 1965-66

Earnings and sales of Dominion Stores Ltd. were at record levels, Thomas G. McCormack, president, states in a preliminary report covering the fiscal year ended March 19, 1966. Net earnings of $10,655,576 ($1.32 a share) were 5.7 per cent above $10,077,827 ($1.25) for year ended March 20, 1965. Sales of $513,656,740 were 5.3 per cent ahead of $487,735,081. Cash position remains strong. Working capital of $26,748,595 at March 19 was $2,057,324 higher.

Expo Film Made at Riverside Heights

Riverside Heights, Morrisburg, on April 18th, was the scene of much activity, when the Canadian Broad casting Corporation, Montreal, film ound sound truck pulled into the home of George F. Jowett. The burck was accompanied by other cars containing editorial staff, and Dr. Gerald Aumont, well known Montreal physician and surgeon.

Purpose of the visit was to film and sound record, a feature story on the life of Louis Cyr, idol of French Canadians, and the admiration of strength athletes the world over, still referred to as "The Strongest Man that Eever Lived".

The story was conducted in dialogue between Dr. Aumont, grandson of the famed hercules, and Mr. Jowett, who is the only living athlete to have had intimate association with the extraordinary strength career of Louis Cyr, his family, and the parents of Dr. Aumont, with whom he regularly visited during their lifetime.

George F. Jowett immortalized Louis Cyr, in his life story, entitled "The Strongest Man That Ever Lived". A best book seller, read around the world in several languages, over two million copies have been sold since publication in 1924. This is apart from serial publication in various language newspapers.

Mr. Jowett thrilled his audience with reminiscences of Cyr's spectacular performances on the stage, and in blood-stirring contests, he had witnessed in England, U.S.A. and Canada, including the famous command performance before the British Royal Family in England, and the occasion when Cyr won the wager from the Marquiss of Queensbury, in which the Marquiss bet, Cyr could not hold a span of his thoroughbreds, hitched, and pulling against either arm. Louis won. At the time, the Marquiss of Queensbury owned the world's best bred hackneys. The double span was worth a fortune. Cyr brought them to his farm in Quebec, and from them was bred the first, and finest hackney strain in Canada, and which, blended with Kentucky blood stock, produced the famous racing strain of the Blue Grass State.

Cyr and Jowett are rated on the athletic record as the two greatest strength athletes of all ime. Both Canadians, each representing the athletic fiber of the two founding races of Canada, English and French. Their portraits and trophies are to be seen in the Montreal Strength Athletes Hall of Fame, and the American Hall of Athletic Fame at York, Pa.

George F. Jowett, once known as the strongest-armed man in the world, and champion wrestler, was twice universally decorated. In 1926 at the A.A.U International Olympics, Philladelphia, Pa., and in 1949, at the World Convention of Strength Aathletes, Montreal, inscribed thereon: "To George F. Jowett, Father of American Weight Lifting, - Father of American Body Building,- from his World Wide Admirers".

Jowett describes Louis Cyr as "A man of natural dignity. A noble character of kindly nature only equalled b yhis prodigious strength.

The sound film is to a feature of the athletic period, at Expo 67, in Montreal. A preview will appear on CBC this fall.

A park has already been dedicated to Cyr's memory at Montreal. During Expo year, a magnificent marble memorial is to be erected at Napiersville, Que., where Cyr was born, flanked by two huge bronze statues of the great athlete, sculpted by Robert Pellier, F.R.S.A., of Montreal. Mr. Jowett has been invited to attend, and perform the unveiling ceremony.

At the conclusion of Monday's film shooting, Mr. Jowett was presented with a surprise gift of a large statue of his old comrade and hero, depicting the famous athlete in his prime, by Dr. Aumont, as a token of esteem and admiration from him, and the strength athletes of Quebec province, and for his immortal story that extolled the anme and fame of the great Louis Cyr around the world. The statue was scullpted by Robert Pellier, F.R.S.A., Montreal.

The presentation was also filmed Mr. Jowett expressed his deep appreciation for this treasure, and what it meant to keep alive in his memory Louis Cyr, The Strongest Man that Eever Lived. A giant among giants.

BELL LINES

by Larry Holtby, your telephone manager

Now that April is here, complete with thoughts of income tax, rainy weekends and, in most communities, the return of Daylight Saving Time, most propetrty owners are anxious to begin work out of doors. During the long winter months when snow covered yards and patios many have been busy making plans to plant shrubs or trees, put up a new fence or make other improvements. However, before you get your hands on the shovel or any other digging toll, please, give us a call to find out if there are any buried cables on your real estate.

Police, fire, ambulance, hospital or other emergency services may have been disrupted when careless digging mangled this portion of cable buried underground.

All it takes is one hefty thrust of a shovel or a well-sunk fence post to damage a buried cable. This damage could disrupt regular telephone service, long distance, data-sending facilities or even emergency communications that might be transmitted by telephone wire. This cable-locating service is provided free by Bell Canada. Just give us a call at Cornwall Repair Service—114. We will advise you quickly if cable is under your property.

And, while we are on the subject of cable protection, something else comes to mind. The burning of brush and last year's dead grass is another popular April pursuit in centres where fire regulations permit. Before striking the match, look up. There is nothing like a roaring fire beneath telephone wires to put part of the system out of commission. And, the pungent smell of an outdoor fire is not enhanced by adding burning cable! Like good health, the telephone is never fully appreciated until we are without it. Let's do our best to look after both.

When you lift the receiver on your telephone you may notice that your telephone set has been made in Canada by Northern Electric. If you have ever stopped to watch the hugs cable laying machinery placing cable underground you will likely have noticed that the tremendous reel that unwinds that cable is marked in large letters "Northern Electric". In communities where a new telephone switching centre is being constructed by Bell Canada (and there have been many in Ontario the past few years), it is Northern Electric equipment that goes into it, and Northern Electric technicians who install and test the equipment to make sure it operates to exacting standards. Northern Electric has develloped Canadian sources for more than 95 per cent of all material it purchases. More than 5,000 other Canadian firms are engaged in supplying Bell Canada's various needs through Northern Electric. This close relatiionship between Bell Canada and Northern Electric is not accidental. Northern Electric is Bell's wholly-owned research, manufacturing and purchasing subsidiary. The resulting unity of purpose and shared objectives contribute to the high quality and reasonable cost of service enjoyed by Bell Canada customers. The partnership provides the necessary degree in integration in research, supply and service operation that solves particularly Canadian problems — distance, climate and sparsity of population to assure customers a standard of service that is second to none in the world.

Enjoyed Visit at Holland Home

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Polak and daughter Florence of Morrisburg have returned from a vacation in Holland, Belgium and Germany. They particularly enjoyed their visit to Amsterdam, a city reported to have 600,000 bicycles, many with motors attached. The majority of cars in Holland are small imports from Germany, as well as locally-produced small cars. Gas is very expensive, a litre costing as much as a gallon does in Canada. Houses in one area of Amsterdam are built on poles, because of the low-lying land. It is not unusual to see a modern home built practically adjoining a very tall, narrow other-century dwelling. In many places the houses are built right to the water's edge, as in Venice. There is extremely heavy water traffic in Amsterdam Harbour, and it is the only place in the world with a floating garden centre, where trees, plants and flowers are sold from canal boats. Old warehouses, a prison under a bridge, bridges and other structures are preserved to retain the 16th century atmosphere of antiquity.

Mr. and Mrs. Polak came to Canada from Holland in 1952. They visited Beekbergen where Mr. Polak spent three years in hiding at the home of a farm family. He had been working with the Underground movement and during those years ,millions of men were in hiding to avoid capture to work in Germany. During the war the farm family was in very poor circumstances. Mr. Polak found an old iron bed, filled bags with straw for a mattress and lived in a shed next to the stable. His main problem was trying to keep busy. He helped the farmer in the fields when no Germans were in sight, he read every thing available. He found an old spinning wheel and with castof fbits of wool spun wool for socks which were sold on the black market for a good price. With clay which was attached to the sugar beets he modelled, among other things, a figure of himself, which he gave to the farmer, his benefactor. On his return to Beekbergen, the farmer had died, but his son returned the figure to Mr. Polak as a memento.

Today, the 15 acre farm is quite prosperous since the farmer's son had invested in heavy equipment with which he makes a good living.

Other experiences enjoyed by the Polak family were a trip to Eindhoven from Brussels by passenger helicopter, a visit to Mrs. Polak's family and her elderly mother and to the church where they had been married in Katwijk.

Mr. Polak showed films of Holland and West Germany but had been told that he could not take his camera into East Berlin. There, he said, women do the same work as men, delivering coal, emptying trucks of sand, and other heavy tasks. Children attend polytechnical schools. At the age of ten they are forced to learn Russion. After fourteen, they are permitted to study French and English, he said. The majority of stores in East Berlin are government controlled. Many others have gone out of business. There is little free enterprise in that area and a great deal of rubble is still evident from war havoc.

WILSON-HUNTER

Pink and white chrysanthemums adorned the altar of Lakeshore Drive United Church for the candlelight wedding ceremony of Miss Ida Jean Hunter, daughter of Mrs. Pat Bouck of Morrisburg and the late Mr. Lloyd Hunter, to William Wilfred Vern Wilson, son of Mrs. Muriel Wilson of Forrester's Falls and the late Mr. Wilson. Rev. W. J. March officiated at the double ring ceremony last Saturday, April 16th at 7 p.m.

Given in marriage by her brother, Bill, the bride chose a floor-length gown of nylon and lace with boat neckline and lilypoint sleeves, which featured a lace train falling from her shoulders. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a flower headpiece and she carried a bouquet of pink rose buds over her white Bible.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Gordon Fairbairn as matron of honour, Mrs. Ken Felker and Miss Cathy Murphy the bride's aunt. They wore identical floor length dresses of pale green nylon and lace which featured lace trains, falling from their shoulders, with white accessories. Their shoulder-length veils were held by small green bows, and they carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

SOUTH DUNDAS OFFERS DRIVER INSTRUCTION

It is unfortunate that despite the increasing epidemic proportions of highway fatalities, the general public is still largely indifferent to the problem. Nevertheless, many people now begin to realize that the loss of life and destruction of property can be greatly reduced by instilling the driver with the proper attitude. Most authorities on the subject agree that in 90% of all the occurring accidents, the driver is at fault. The edux of the problem is the misconception that statistics always refer to the other fellow, but "never me". All the statistics entered their cars with this attitude. Most drivers know the basic principles of operating a vehicle. They are also acquainted with a few rules o froad behaviour. But generally, they may be classed as driver ignoramuses. Today it is not enough for a person to be able to read; knowledge in every field is becoming so complicated that unless he reads with sufficient speed and comprehension his inability to keep up with the steady advances in information will render him illiterate.

Similarly, on the high-speed road and in the complex traffic conditions of today it is not enough to know how to propel a vehicle and read road signs. A driver's attitudes must be shaped and his instincts trained so that he can react with sureness and accuracy to all demands. In other words, he must be road-educated.

Recently the Deputy Minister of Transport, A.G. MacNab maintained that drunken drivers and teenagers do not cause as many accidents as does the average driver. He told the Toronto Insurance Women's Association that research and spot checks showed that out of 100 drivers involved in fatal accidents, only four had any previous accident record during the past three years. Major causes of traffic accidents, he said, are inattentive driving, driving off the road, failing to yield the right of way, driving too fast, and following too closely behind other cars. It is difficult to believe, but true, that an accident occurs every 26 seconds in North America, somebody dies on the highway every 12 minutes; 5,000 persons died on Canadian highways in 1965 (or the population of a town the size of Prescott); 49,000 persons died on American highways (or the population of a cit ythe size of Cornwall); there are more cars than households in Canada (approximately 7 million); and the loss caused by traffic accidents amounted to four billion dollars in 1964.

Despite these known fact, accidents in Ontario increased by 15¾ in 1965 over 1964 and 1611 persons were killed on Ontario highways. Something drastic has to be done to remedy this situation.

The South Dundas District High School Board has assumed the initiative in our community for which it should be highly commended. The programme has been a tremendous success. All applicants passed their driver examinations, whereas the provincial failure rate is at approximately 40%. Due to the success of these Driver Training programmes across Canada Insurance Companies have been so impressed that they offer special premium reductions to teenagers who have passed these courses. According to the Ontario Safety League, a 16-year-old, will, in a period of nine years, incur $700.00 in damage to his car through collision. Through driver education, he can reduce this amount by 50%.

Since the director of this course has been approached by some people to instruct adults in this community he has declared his willingness to do so if the response is satisfactory. If enough people are interested, the programme will be offered at the applicant's convenience during the months of May and June ,consisting of 10 hours behind the wheel instruction at a cost of $40.00. All persons interested should contact Mr. H. Malon at 652-4319 before Sunday, April 24th.

WATCH WHICH BIRDIE? These two Magpie Blue Jays are egotists supreme, and when someone shouted out "watch the birdie" from behind the camera, the two friends got their feathers ruffled because neither wanted to share the limelight with the other. — TNS Photo

A BETTER BALANCE. Faced with a serious imbalance of imports over exports, the English hope to right their trading deficit. Certain to help better relations with Canadians and Americans is the export of lovely June Wilkinson to North America, here to star in a movie. With exports like this, it's understandable why the English are called a "nation of traders". — TNS Photo

tips n' topics

South Seas On A Budget

DEAR SUSANNA: As chairman of arrangements for our graduation dance coming up soon, I need help!

Our gym has a low ceiling, plenty of hot water pipes, and a fire regulation which forbids the use of paper streamer decorations.

Do you have a miracle or two up your sleeve, Sue, that would help us camouflage the plumbing and bare walls with a party flavor?

P.S. We haven't much money either!

Keeki Haines

DEAR KEEKI: Take a look in your gym storage lockers for the answer, and who needs money?

Drag out all the tennis, badminton and volley ball nets. Borrow more if you need them, and drape them everywhere — across the ceiling and along the walls.

Tie whatever you can to the netting to give a south sea island atmosphere, e.g. shells, beach hats, star fish, corks, sponges, and even an old tire tube here and there.

Build a few paper mache palm trees to set about (newspapers and glue shape up well.) Make them look like the real thing by covering the trunks snuggly with brown sacking, and wire on a few brown paper coconuts. Have the best scrounger on your committee beg and borrow artificial greenery from parents to simulate the palm fronds.

Susanna

DEAR SUSANNA: We're a sporty group who carry skis on the car trunk rack in the winter and haul a trailer in the summer and fall.

Amongst us, we have devised a shift plan. We take half hour turns "keeping a weather eye out" the rear window. Woe betide any one of us who lets a ski slip or a bolt slide out of place unnoticed during his stint on duty!

Our precautionary plan isn't a great hardship on any individual and it allows the rest of the gang to relax.

Mainly, it has prevented many a serious loss or mishap developing, as trouble is always detected in the preliminary states.

Gus

DEAR SUSANNA: I don't shrug my shoulders because I'm bored, I do it every now and then on the advice of my doctor.

He says it is one of the best ways to relieve muscle tension in the head, neck and shoulder region.

Miss V. Fitzgibbon

DEAR SUSANNA: No one was more surprised than my sisters and I at the way a set of canisters transformed the clutter of our bathroom closet shelves.

Mom treated herself to a new set for the kitchen, and was anxious to find a suitable use for the old ones.

We decided to try them out (with the lids clamped on underneath) as containers for our large supply of bulky hair rollers. Are we glad we did!

It is such a pleasure to have the curlers available at a glance, all divided neatly into types and sizes.

We didn't really need the extra fifth tin, so we use it for elementary first aid supplies.

Lisa Melnyk

DEAR SUE: Rejuvenate old hot plate pads that have become soiled by wrapping them in metal foil.

Mrs. G. H. Boake

DEAR SUSANNA: It doesn't have to be August in northern cities for tomatoes to be cheap enough to make chili sauce.

Just watch the "reduced sale" counters in the markets and sure enough every once in a while there will be boxes of delicious hot house tomatoes that are perfect for making a small batch of chili sauce, although they are too soft to fetch those expensive prices.

THIS WEEK AND NEXT

In The Spirit Of Spring

It had seemed as if spring would never arrive but when it did, finally, creep across Canada this week the frayed tempers of men in public affairs began to ease.

Members of the House of Commons, refreshed after an Easter recess, were already giving some indication that they recognized Parliament's reputation had fallen to a dangerous low during the long winter.

The indecisive outcome of the election last Nov. 8 had actually set the stage for the 57 days of crisis and bitterness that followed in the first session of the new Parliament.

Aside from the start of the Canada Pension plan Jan. 1 (which had been enacted by a previous Parliament), little was accomplished. Tedious days spent studying estimates were broken off only by argumentative debate over the case of George Victor Spencer. Then the Gerda Munsinger scandal broke.

The mood of Parliament, when I saw it in action during the budget debate, seemed nervous and uncertain.

There was, for example, the display of boorishness and bad taste by members of all parties when the mysterious deaths of those Quebec beer drinkers came up for discussion. Amid much jocularity and queries as to whether there was any beer left for "purely scientific sampling" (much laughter all round), the MPs seemed to have forgotten the seriousness of the topic they were discussing.

Five days spent debating capital punishment restored, partially, the prestige of MPs even among those who feel, as I do, that Parliament made the wrong decision in retaining capital punishment. The debate was for the most part, reasoned and sincere.

There was just one argument advanced by the retentionists which I felt was left wholly unanswered. That was the cry of alarm about how our "social fabric" would come apart if hangings, especially for killers of policemen and prison guards, was abolished. I didn't hear anyone ask what had happened in other countries, and in the many American states, where the death penalty has been done away with. Is their "social fabric" any more torn than ours?

But with Parliament going back into session, and the question of capital punishment for the moment put aside, what is in store for the coming weeks?

Special inquiries will be plentiful, as a start. In addition to the investigation by Mr. Justice Spence into the affairs of Gerda Munsinger, there's the Spencer inquiry and the Royal commission reviewing national security procedures.

As well, Ottawa at time of writing was faced with whether to order an inquiry into the murder conviction of Stephen Truscott, who at 21 has spent seven years in prison for a rape killing he still insists he didn't commit.

Meanwhile, some 30 Parliamentary committees are studying such diverse matters as car safety, divorce, abortion, birth control, drug prices, railway passenger service and penitentiaries.

The public will be more interested, however, in such pending matters of legislation as medicare, the Canada assistance plan (will old age pensions be raised?), the Bank Act (will interest rates be raised?) and redistribution.

The case for redistribution is urgent because with a minority government in office, another election could come at any time. Canadians voted last November in ridings based on the 1951 census. The tremendous shift to urban centers since then has left the big cities and suburban areas under-represented in Parliament.

The renewed declarations by Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker that they would carry on as long as possible suggests that Canadian politics will remain a rag-tag and unpredictable clash of personalities. But there are increasing signs that the hold both have on their parties is weakening.

As one freshman Tory MP said to me, "We're 97 members in search of a party."

With spring in the land at last, the attention of Canadians will be diverted somewhat from politics. Perhaps just as the land gives new birth each spring, so by some strange alchemy will our political parties find their way out of their own long, cold winter of discontent.
