THE EDITOR LETTER TO

Editor, Morrisburg Leader,
Morrisburg, Ont.

Dear Sir — It is Christmas shopping time again and Christmas Seal campaign time for the St. Lawrence TB and Health Aassociation. I would like to thake this opportunity as Christmas Seal chairman of the Association to thank all the people of the 3 United Counties for their past support of our association.

Since the Ontario government has relieved us of many of our responsibilities in the tuberculosis area, the association has been able to become more deeply involved in the respiratory disease area. We are currently providing research, education and teaching in such areas as chronic bronchitis, emphysema and asthma. Community screening for these chronic respiratory diseases has shown an incidence of 10 percent of the population 18 year or older. Among cigarette smokers the incidence can jump to about 25 percent. Last year 2,649 Canadians died of emphysema and chronic bronchitis. These and other statistics show there is a problem and a big job to be done, including the education of youth to the dangers and problems involved in smoking.

Our association has only one appeal to the public for funds which is the annual Christmas Seal campaign. As I mentioned previously, it is "that time" again and I hope that everyone will think about the services the Christmas Seal association offers to this community, and help us to help you.

Sincerely,
R. McCLELLAND,
Christmas Seal Chairman.

Speaker Deals With Problem of Addiction

There are more kids using drugs available on prescription than on marijuana or LSD, Rev. Peter Barkway, associate of the Research Foundation of the three United Counties, told a capacity attendance at Morrisburg and District Canadian Club, at the Civic Centre on Wednesday.

Speaking in general terms on "Drugs and Alcoholism" the speaker said, "I am not trying to judge; I am merely trying to give you the overall picture, but I can't see tranquilizers as the answer for an 18-year old with a pain. This does not frighten us particularly, but if young people are headed for a society where they can't get along without the help of a chemical crutch, the result will be increased drug use, and some addiction." .

"Young people", he said, "pattern themselves on adults. We find drug use comes in families. It is increased when Mother uses a daily tranquilizer, tobacco or alcohol. They are imitating the pattern they see about them. If we were to live our lives without the use of any drug — coffee, tea, tobacco or alcohol — we would be very uncomfortable. Now marijuana has come along to flourish in this very soil, promising no more harm than Sominex or alcohol. It is a social lubricant, a relief from discomfort.

"Marijuana", Mr. Barkway continued, "is not particularly addicting, but to many youths it may create a sufficiently pleasant sensation to encourage them to repeat the experience. Thirty years ago, they got high on booze. But, today, there is an increasing dependence on drugs.

"Following World War II an explosion of drug use occurred in the western world", the speaker said. "Then in the 1960s somebody in this country discovered marijuana and we have been living in the shadow of thot discovery ever since that time. It is not by any means a new drug. At the time of the Crusades, hashish was used by the Easterners; alcohol by the Crusaders. More recently, it was taken into the ghettos of large coastal cities of the United States by migrant workers from Mexico. Pop musicians and others began to use it, and by the 30s it was being used socially; by the 60s it had 'arrived'.

Mr. Barkway's explanation for the drug not having been discovered sooner by the western world lay in the fact that originally its use was confined to the realm of religion, then medicine developed, followed by pharmaceuticals which brought about the drug explosion that is still growing. We now realize that drugs are being used for a fourth reason — ecreation. He added "alcohol has been used as a social lubricant for many years".

"In general terms", the speaker told his audience, "we have been caught up in the pattern of using drugs. Over the past 15 years, we have found that there is a pill for whatever ache or pain we may have, and we encourage ourselves to use drugs to make ourselves feel better. We are all caught up in the boat of drugs; to single out marijuana, or any other one drug is a misapprehension. Nervous parents raise nervous kids; uncomfortable parents raise uncomfortable kids, who in turn may turn to drugs".

In conclusion, Mr. Barkway said, "research indicates that if we are going to reduce the number of young people harmfully dependent on drugs, we must reduce the overall per capitta consumption of drugs, including alcohol".

The speaker presented a film on the problem of drugs and its frequent results. One serious accident was shown as having occurred after the driver had taken tranquilizers prescribed by a doctor, who had warned her not to drive, but she decided that warning was meant for somebody else.

In the question and answer period which followed, Rev. Barkway told parents to "listen to your children meaningfully. Don't pay too much attention to their appearance or their clothes . . . they are individuals and should be treated as such".

When asked about LSD and "speed", the speaker said: "amphetamines are produced legally in Canada as diet pills or pep pills, and are widely used. The mental health of young people who take "speed trips" should have been observed somewhere along the line. They are severely disturbed and with the increasing use of drugs, the danger increases.

The speaker was introduced by president Robert Howald and was thanked by Dr. George Fisher, who welcomed Hon. F. M. Cass, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, who has been a member of the Morrisburg and District Canadian Club for more than 30 years.

D. Grenkie Heads Cancer Campaign

MR. DOUGLAS GRENKIE

Monday afternoon, November 9, the Morrisburg Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society held a short business meeting in connection with the regular work meeting. The president, Mrs. A. Edgerton was in charge of the business meeting.

Mr. Doug Grenkie of the Gorrell and Grenkie law firm was appointed Campaign Chairman to succeed Mr. Bruno Barvoskis. Doug will attend the Campaign Convention which is held in Toronto each year in January.

Reports were read from Mrs. MacDonald who is Chairman of Service to Patients. Twelve work meetings were held during the year. 1,125, 8x12 were made. 11,400, 4x4, dressings were made. Our patients also receive medication, colostomy bage, combine rolls and transportation. The treasurer, Mr. Ed. MacDermot reported a successful campaign $1,671.25. It was noted that our Campaign Collections fall a little short of our Service to Patient needs. Mrs. Magee reported on the distributiion of dressings. It was noted that we are getting low in the 8x12 dressings and it was decided we would have a work meeting for 8x12's in the New Year.

The precampaign meeting was discussed and it was decided that a coffee, and Dessert afternoon meeting might be more successful than an evening meeting. It was suggested that we invite Mr. Jack Hilliard who recently succeeded Mr. Bill O'Connor to be our speaker.

Mrs. Parker Locke suggested that we get in touch with the Women's Institute at Brinston early in the New Year asking their assistance in our Campaign in that area.

There being no further business, Mrs. Edgerton asked that the business part of our meeting adjourn.

Lt was Brian McNairn's night, when the hometown Lions travelled to Prescott Friday evening. Brian scored 4 goals and two assists for a very superb performance and worthy of every point.

Tom Whelan picked up a goal and assist with R. Morrell and D. Cassell getting the other markers. Danny Cassell's goal proved to be the winner as the score ended 7-6 in favor of Morrisburg with Cassell getting the seventh. Gary Hess worked hard and picked up a pair of assists.

Morrisburg had a 7-2 lead going into the third but over-confidence and a strong comeback by Prescott almost ended the game in a tie. Prescott pumped in four goals in the last period to bring their hometown fans to their feet. H. Reid had two for Prescott with Robert Strader, T. Wells and T. Dickson replaying for the Saints.

The Cornwall Royals came to town Tuesday night and as a result dropped Morrisburg from the undefeated ranks by downing the Lions 8-7. The score was a lot closer than the play however. The Lions, after winning all their previous games, seemed to have the ideas they just had to lace on their skates and they would win another.

Well, the Royals brought our locals down from their cloud "9" and by the middle of the third period, it was 8-3 in favour of the visitors.

The Lions finally worke up with only five minutes remaining in the game and pumped in four straight goals. They had the Royals hanging by the ropes, but, alas, a hockey game is only 60 minutes and time ran out. One of the few stars the Lions did have was the hard-working defenceman by the name of Ken Morrow. Kenny gives out nothing but his best every game.

Brian McNairn and Roger Morrell had two for the Lions with G. Gale, T. Whelan and K. Morrow getting singles. Next home game is this Sunday afternoon when the Lions host the Cardinal Broncos. Game time 2:30 p.m.

Blood Clinic at Area Hospital Monday

We have been asked by Mr. H.P. Stel, Administrator of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital, to call attention of our readers to the fact that a Blood Donors' Clinic by the Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service, will be held in the Board Room at the hospital on Monday, November 23rd from 2:30 to 4 p.m. and from 6.30 to 9 p.m.

At the last clinic, in February of this year, a large number of donors were present from high schools in the area, and this helped to ensure a successful clinic.

It should be unnecessary by now to again point out the great importance of these clinics to the successful operation of any hospital. Many of the surgical procedures in use today depend to a marked degree for success on a readily available supply of whole blood or blood plasma. In the past twelve months alone, some 319 bottles of blood were used by the Winchester Hospital alone.

If you possibly can, be sure to volunteer a blood donation "the gift of life" to the blood clinic at your own area hospital on Monday.

Anyone who is in ordinary good health can give blood without any ill effects. Those who have suffered from hepatitis (jaundice) are not suitable donors.

Slides and Talk on U.C. Village Enjoyed by Women's Institute

Douglas R. Hough, curator of Buildings and Machinery at Upper Canada Village was guest speaker at the November meeting of Morrisburg Women's Institute held in the auditorium of the Civic Centre. Mr. Hough, with slides and commentary followed the progress of the Village from its beginnings as a barren gully and an open field until today when the project has the appearance of having been there for generations.

The speaker briefly reviewed Canada's history with the coming of the Loyalist and other early settlers. He told of the Memorial Cemetery near the Village whre tombstones of pioneers of the area are placed in the walls surrounding beautifully landscaped gardens. — "This", he said, "is a policy that has since been used at other locations where required".

Showing pictures taken during the past summer, Mr. Hough said, "The Village is settling in as if it had always been there." It carris out the thme of anothr era with people walking around in period costume and working at various tasks. He noted that 50 thousand loaves of bread had been baked there last year.

Mrs. Gordon Mulholland and Mrs Lorne Kinkaid were convenors of the meeting conducted on the theme Historical Research and Current Events. The motto was "Before you go to the moon, let's visit our neighbours first".

Mrs. Hulda Hummell conducted Roll Call which was answred by "What interests you most at Upper Canada Village. Using the motto as her theme. Mrs. Kinkaid spoke on the subject "Neighbourliness". Mrs. Hugh Shennette discussed Current Events and concluded by saying, "Man's greatness lies in striving".

Highlight of the evening was a series of instrumental selections presented by the North Dundas Ladies' Orchestra. Guests were present from Chesterville and Winchester.

During the brief business session conducted by president Mrs. Cephus Smyth, the subject of erecting a flood light at the "First World War" monument was discussed. Mrs J.R. Coligan was authorized to look into casts.

It was decided that a donation be sent to the Christmas Seal Campaign.

The next meeting will be a covered dish supper with each member bringing a guest and a gift for Retarded Children.

School Trustees Most Important

In the last issue of The Leader appeared an article by Mr. Wayne Johnston of the Seaway High School, outlining the formation and functions of School Board Advisory Committees. In his opening paragraphs, Mr. Johnston recalled how School Boards had been elected in past years, from the local populace, so that parents and taxpayers were personally acquainted with every member of the board, and could take complaints to them.

Now, however, in this enlightened (?) era, when our boards of education are named for a very large area, the board becomes an impersonal entity, a group of names, all of them out of touch with the very people who gave them being, and who are required to pay their salaries, plus the cost of the much grandiose educational facilities which it has become fashionable to think, are required today. It matters little, if at all, that our children today, your and mine, are just not getting the basic education on which our present civilization was founded, and in spite of all the mistakes our generation and those before us made, has resulted in the very high standard of living which we enjoy today.

Education is by far the greatest expense to the taxpayer. Yet how casually we treat the nomination and election of those people who represent us on the school boards. How seldom do we give them a word of praise for their efforts, or take to them personally, our complaints. More often we discuss what "they" should do, but spend precious little of our own time doing anything at all constructive to assure that "they" do it.

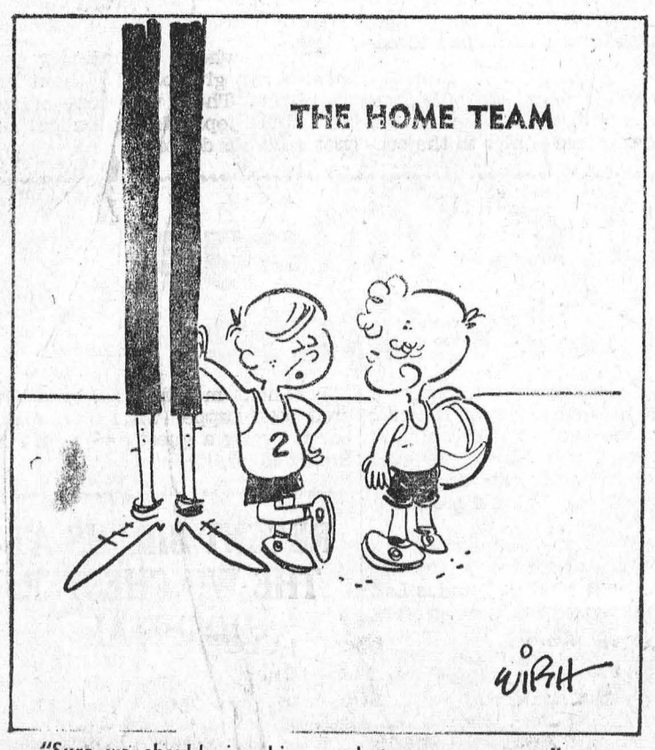
In this immediate area, our population represents such a small fraction of the total population of the larger school area of which we are now a part, that our representation on the area boards is very small. This makes it only the more important for us to choose wisely those who will represent us. And it is most important for us to nominate representatives who have the necessary qualifications for the important task to which some of them will be elected.

Separate School supporters, in particular, in this area, have an almost miniscule representation. In zone 1 (and this comprises all the municipalities in Dundas County, plus the village of Finch, and the Townships of Osnabruck and Roxborough in the County of Stormont), this representation amounts to one member on the S.D. & G. Separate School Board. On the S. D. & G. Divisional Board, for all of the Counties of Stormont and Dundas (except the City of Cornwall), there is one Secondary School Trustee elected by those who are Separate School supporters. Given these facts, and bearing in mind the omportance of these elections not, only to the educational future of our children, but also to our whole economic picture, we should give the most serious consideration not only to the nomination, but to an assured election of representatives who will take an informed interest in what must be the matter of the gravest concern to all taxpayers and especially to all parents.

A residential street in Metro Toronto has been paved with broken glass, according to Heavy Construction News. More accurately, the street has become a test strip for a new type of asphaltic concrete pavement, in which the conventional crushed stone is replaced by crushed glass as the pavement aggregate.

Over 100 tons of this experimental mix, known as glasphalt has been laid along a 200-yard, 26-foot wide strip on a suburban subdivision road. It is the first placement on a public roadway of a pavement mix designed to use artificial aggregate made from waste glass bottles. Previous applications have been on parking lots and private roadways not subject to normal traffic loadings.

A study of 6,000 Ontario high school students, made by the Ontario Addiction Research Foundation found that children who use drugs have a low school-performance level, although that does not necessarily mean they are less intelligent. Where parents are infrequent or non-users of drugs, their children are likely to be non-users.



"Sure we should sign him up, but suppose you tell me where we find his uniform!"

FROM ONE GENERATION TO ANOTHER —

(THE WINGHAM ADVANCE-TIMES)

My name is Bill Erickson — and I'd like a word or two with you young people — the "new generation" of folwer children.

Though I have to watch you from a certain distance I gather that most of you think you are dedicated to peace — that's why you go for the long hair and the beads, so I'm told. They're supposed to be the trademarks of the peace people.

In my day, at about your age, I was pretty hepped on peace, too. In 1936 and 37 you had to be pretty dopey to miss the signs that a war was on the way, And believe you me, none of us wanted a war.

In fact we had about as little reason to fight for our country as any group of young people ever had. We were in the midst of a depression so dismal that most of us had to roll our own and get by on somebody else's handed down clothes. When we gtt out of high school, the best sort of job we could get was delivering groceries. Thousands of us couldn't find even that sort of employment and we had to take to the roads, wandering from one town to the next, begging meals and sleeping in the local clinks.

Nobody else, either here or in Britain, wanted war either. In fact, the British had passed up quite a few good chances to stop Mr. Hitler— just because they hated anything that even looked like war.

Most people closed their eyes and hoped that Hitler and his boys would just go away. As you know that didn't happen. We finally had to make a choice — fight or get trampled. Maybe you kids would choose the stomping. We knew just a bit too much about the people who got stomped on in Europe.

O.K. We didn't ask for the war. We hadn't asked for the depression. Let's get that much straight. To make a long story short, I finished my part of that dirty war on a black night over Hamburg when the flack was thick as sleet.

A lot of us ended up the same way, in the air, on the ground, or in the freezing waters of the North Atlantic. You hadn't been born then, so we didn't expect you to feel bad about the whole thing. Our mothers and dads haven't forgotten about it, but that's natural.

As I said before, I have to look at your scene from a long way off, so maybe I don't understand why you have so many hang-ups. Up here we think you've had it pretty good. You have more money to spend and more free time than any other generation in the history of the world has ever had. Best of all, you have the chance to get all the education your heads can absorb.

You've never known poverty or fear — most of you don't even know how to worry. And with all this, you have the nerve, in your total inexperience, to criticize what our bunch did to make all this possible for you. — We don't ask for gratitude. All we want is a little cool intelligence on your part.

Just before I shipped out for England, when I was home on my last leave, I went around to my sister's house to say goodbye. I was still pretty confused about just why a young guy like me should risk his neck before he had a chance to enjoy himself. Irene's kid was just a baby then and I remember looking at his fat little face and suddenly thinking, "Hell, there's the reason right there. I sure don't want that kid to grow up to be a Nazi storm trooper".

So what goes with you kids? We thought we were paying a reasonable price for something that would be really important to you. Now a lot of us up here are wondering whether we made a big mistake.

You know, so far, I hadn't wasted too much time worrying about you ordinary jokers down there. But just last night I got a long-range peek at a big mob scene in Montreal. Who did I see right out there in the front line, swinging at a cop with a piece of chain but Irene's kid. He doesn't look the same now. I don't give a hoot about his long hair and freaky clothes. It's the wild look in his eye that gets me. He seems to hate the government without any special reason. He wants to tear down a lot of the rules and regulations that we knew, even at his age, were made for our own good. It makes me wonder what he's going to say to his own kids.

Do you think that Mark and JiJmmy and Pete and Henri and the rest of my crew sort of threw ourselves away for nothing?

O.P.P. REPORT

A terrifying chain collision that occurred last year provides a timely moral for motorists: waiting for the unwary, somewhere on the road ahead, may be a killer masked in gray.

Chain collisions are on the increase. Recent crashes in various areas have involved as many as 50 cars and trucks. This horror is heightened by the fact that many of the trucks involved are carrying flammables.

Driving in a fog at any time can be a dangerous and frightful experience. What may start out to be a minor accident in a fog patch could turn a stretch of highway into a devestating pile of wreakage leaving many persons seriously injured or killed.

Watch out for sudden fog patches when approaching rivers, swamps or low lying areas.

In any fog, day or night, use your headlights, not parking lights, so other drivers will see you. High beams create too much glare, yet in night fog it is not safe to run on low beams only. Flick your beams repeatedly to reveal any dan gerous objects which can not be picked up by your low beams only.

Before entering patches of fog, flash your brake warning lights to let other drivers know that you are slowing down.

Turn on your windshield wipers and defrosters if any film forms. Some of the "fog" may simply be mist on the glass.

As fog cuts down visibility slow down. If visibility is cut down to a feet activiate your four-way flashers and get off the road to a safe place. Don't be lured into one of those chains where 10 or 15 cars go whistling through the fog following the taillights of the vehicle ahead.

In case of accident, get every one out of the car instantly. Tell them to run at right angles to the road and stay in a safe place.

The best rule for driving in fog is: don't drive in fog if you can possibly avoid it.

Ontario Provincial Police in Dundas County patrolled 12,397 miles while working 1,132 hours. During this time, officers laid 41 charges and issued 52 warnings under the Highway Traffic Act.

Officers from Morrisburg and Winchester detachments investigated 2 thefts, 1 break and enter, 3 disturbances and 16 miscellaneous complaints. One person was charged with theft while 5 others were charged under the Liquor Control Act.

Provincial Police officers were kept quite busy on area roads investigating 8 property damage accidents and 2 personal injury accidents in which 9 persons received minor injuries.

Cardinal Minister Wed at Pembroke

The Pentecostal Tabernacle, Pembroke, was the scene of a wedding of wide local interest, Saturday, October 24, 1970 when Carolyn Isabelle Bush became the bride of Rev. Lorne Ivan Trimble of Cardinal. The bride's parents are Rev. and Mrs. James H. Bush of Salisburg, Rhodesia, Africa. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Everett W. R. Trimble of Bowmanville, Ont.

Rev. Stuart Mulligan performed the 2:30 p.m. ceremony, when baskets of crysanthemums and gladioli decorated the church. Mrs. Crystal Tubman was organist and Miss Norma Cooper was soloist. Mr. H. R. Young was groomsman. Guests were ushered by Mr. Larry Trimble and Mr. David Keuhl.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Basil Keuhl, the bride wore a formal gown of crepe glace styled with fitted bodice, Empire waistline, lilypoint sleeves and Queen Anne collar. The skirt formed a chapel train. Cuffs, collar and train of the gown were outlined with Swiss lace. Her three-tiered veil of tulle illusion was held by a floral headpiece. She carried a white bible with markers of gardenias and sweetheart roses.

Miss Marilyn Bush was maid of honor. Other bridal attendants were Miss Inga Oster and Mrs. Gail Brown. They were wearing gowns of Amrican Beauty chiffon styled with Empire waistline, full length fitted sleeves caught with a cuff and featuring scooped necklines. Their full wrap-around "A" line skirts were accented with double rows of white embossed daisies which also outlined the sleeves and necklines. They carried cascade bouquets of crysanthemums.

The couple will live at Cardinal where Mr. Trimble is minister of the Pentecostal Church.

Prior to and following her marriage Mrs. Trimble was honored at a series of bridal showers.

PROVINCIAL GRANT MAY HELP NEW INDIAN INDUSTRY

A provincial grant of $15,000 may make it possible for an Ontario Indian Band to establish a new domestic industry in Canada.

The Hon. Robert Welch, Provincial Secretary and Minister of Citizenship, announced today that the money has been provided to the Whitefish Bay Indian Band at Sioux Narrows. It will be used to train 12 band members in the manufacture of mink fur plates, a special technique now being practised only in Greece.

Mink fur plates are sheets of fur manufactured by sewing together the offcuts and paws left over from the manufacture of mink garments, such as coats. Currently, these offcuts are being sent to Greece for manufacture and then imported by Canadian furriers in the finished form to be made into garments.

"Market research has shown that these plates are a staple of the Canadian fur industry," Mr. Welch said, "and that their manufacture in this country would be enthusiastically received."

A 24 per cent duty on imported fud plates provides an added incentive for the establishment of a domestic industry.

The provincial grant, provied through the Indian Community Development Services Branch of Mr. Welch's department, is part of a continuing self-help program to assist Indian bands in establishing their own economic, social and cultural development programs.

Mr. Welch also pointed out that the project is a good example of co-operation that exists between the federal and provincial governments. The Whitefish band is being assisted in setting up this project by the Federal Department of Manpower.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Remembrance Day at Seaway was not forgotten. The students of different classes put up displays to help remind us of our freedom which was paid for with the lives of many young and the hardships of many old people and children.

The displays projected their part in helping us to honour the war dead. Students gave generously to those who came around selling poppies. The poppies too, did not fail to remind us of our good way of life. They also brought to our memory the sentiment of "Flanders Fields", a rondeau which was reviewed in many of the classrooms. All these things provided reason why we should on November 11, give honour to those in eternal sleep beneath the rows of white crosses.

—Danny Tucker

Our Father claimed you for His own.

This thought is common to many after they lose a tooth. Frequently lost is the lower first molar. You don't feel it happening, but teeth on either side of the gap gradually drift and tip toward it. This causes other spaces to form between teeth which trap food, leading to decay and gum disease.

This tipping also reduces chewing efficiency, as the upper teeth contact only a small part of the tipped teeth. So you think you can live with all this? What about pain? As tipping increases, bone gives way to the oncoming tooth which exposes the root surfaces — sensitive root surfaces.

The upper tooth, which would normally have met the lost molar, will continue to erupt beyond its usual length. This also exposes sensitive root surfaces and contact is lost with neighbouring teeth which again leads to decay and gum disease.

People tend to chew their food on the other side of their mouth after losing a tooth. Tooth disuse can start the development of an unhygienic condition causing low resistance to gum disease.

A fixed bridge or a removable partial denture can replace a lost tooth The fixed bridge replaces from one to several missing teeth. Gold inlays or crowns on remaining teeth retain the bridge. Metal backings on the artificial teeth are soldered together and to the retaining inlays. This requires extreme precision, and so is costly. The bridge is cemented in place permanently.

The removable partial dnture is used to restore missing teeth on both sides of the mouth. It consists of a cast metal frame in which the teeth are usually cemented by acrylic resins. This denture is normally retained by thin metal clasps which encircle the neighbouring teeth.

4-H CLUB HELD TWO MEETINGS AT RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS

We opened the fifth 4-H meeting of the Super Suppers with the 4-H pledge. The vice- president took over because the president was absent. The roll call was answered by 8 members. The minutes of the last meeting were read.. The new business was about the Pot Luck Supper we are catering for on December 1st.

The names were then picked out of hats to see who did the demonstration at Achievement Day.

The discussion was "The Carried Lunch". Then we sampled the different kinds of sandwiches we all brought. The meeting was then adjourned.

The sixth meeting of the Riverside Heights 4-H Club was held on Novmber 11 at Mrs. Nugent's. The meeting was opened with the 4-H pledge.

Shirley was asked to act as secretary and she read the minutes of the last meeting. The roll call was answered by 9 members.

The new business was about decorating at the Pot Luck supper. We then decided what dishes we would take to the supper. The clean - up committee was then chosen.

The discussion was "Special Suppers". The tossed salad was demonstrated. Mrs. Faulkner brought an apple salad.

Mrs. Nugent made garlic bread We sampled all, and the meeting was adjourned.

NOW HEAR THIS

by Lorna Rogers

Coming up on Nov. 28 in the continuing series of original Canadian plays plays on CBC Stage is a drama about student demonstrations and anti-Americanism by Eric Salmon, director of drama, University of Saskatchewan. The Pioneer, in this case, has had its plot suggested by real and current events in this country. Another play, scheduled on Studio 71, Nov. 29, is curiously paralleled by a story in the news, though it was written months before. Helen French's The Next Protest You Hear, is an unusual play about a 20 - month - old baby who refuses to be born. Fred, as he is called, converses with doctors, but shows a great reluctance to make his entry into the world. About a month ago a Jakarta mother showed off her unborn child who recited Islamic texts to all who would listen. In the end, it was all proved to be a hoax . . .

On Rule and Revolution, Dec. 2, a documentary look at the birth process in a program entiled No Hospitals For Me . . . I'm Having My Baby at Home. Some mothers-to-be dislike the impersonal hospital treatment, and so are searching for alternatives . . .

Past winners of the International Tchaikovsky Competition include pianists Van Cliburn and John Ogdon. Englishman John Lill is the 1970 winner, and he is heard, both in conversation and at the piano, on CBC Thursday Music, Dec. 3. in a program recorded in Moscow, along with several other competitors.

The first week in January will be a special week of programming about the West Indies, with dramas documentaries, interviews and literary readings about and by the peoples of the Caribbean. As more and more West Indians come to Canada, contributing in their own way to the color of the country, it is important we try to understand some of the problems they leave behind as well as some of the ones they encounter here.

In a Toronto church recently, an overflow audience gave a standing ovation to a group of performers. It was unlikely the church walls had ever witnessed anything quite like it before. . . the story of the last days of Jesus told through gospel songs and spirituals with the beat of today. Black Hallelujah was devised by CBC radio producer John Reeves, in association with music director, jazz composer Norman Symonds. The cast, all Negro with the exception of actor Mavor Moore who played Pilate, put every thing they had into it, and soon the very pews were rocking with the rhythmic beat of clapping hands and drums. It was a thundering success that it was repeated the following Sunday. Radio listeners, however, will have to wait until next Easter to hear it.

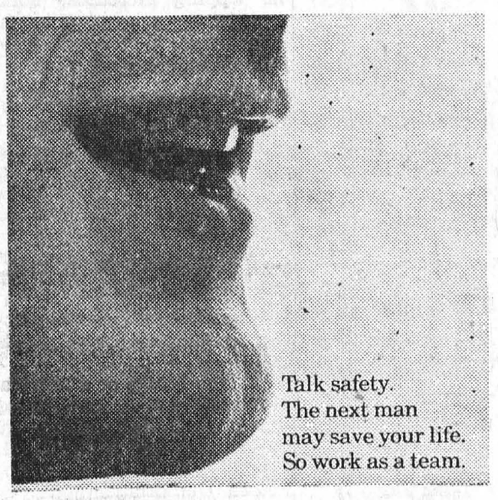
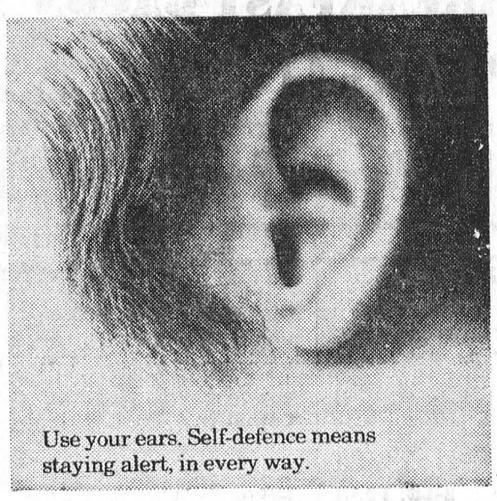
The secret is to work defensively.

Sharpen your self-defence – it pays off.



Talk safety. The next man may save your life. So work as a team.



Use your ears. Self-defence means staying alert, in every way.

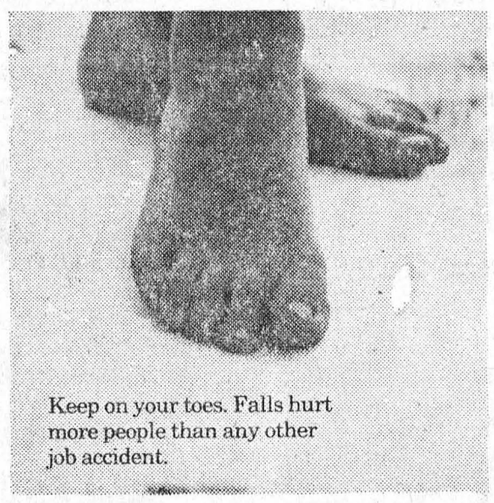
Protect your hands. Easy to injure, difficult to live without.



Keep on your toes. Falls hurt more people than any other job accident.

The reward. You name it. It's your life – enjoy it.

SALVAGE THAT ELM
NOW OR ELSE!

The rapid advances of Dutch Elm Disease through local woodlots in recent years has left some owners with nothing but greying skeletons of little value to anyone. This means a loss in revenue to the woodlot owner; a crop has been left to wither in the field.

Once elms along the perimeter of a woodlot begin to die the disease moves very quickly throughout the balance of the stand. At this stage the owner is advised to cut all the elm, leaving the other species as seed trees to develop at a faster rate of growth. If, however, a pure stand of elm is involved, clear cutting may be advisable followed by planting Silver Maple, or other suitable species. If the woodlot is fenced from cattle it usually reproduces satisfactorily.

It seems rather senseless to clear cut healthy young maple stands with an excellent revenue potential in future years when a crop of wood products in adjacent elm stands is deteriorating to be lost forever. At this time all woodlot owners, loggers and pulpwood cutters should give serious thought to this problem. The demand for hardwood pulpwood in Eastern Ontario is increasing at a rapid rate while adjacent woodlands are being depleted far beyond their productive capacities.

At the present time most municipalities in Eastern Ontario have not passed by-laws regulating the cutting of trees. It is hoped that woodlot owners considering cutting their woodlots will contact an any office of the Department of Lands and Forests for free and profitable advice on woodlot management.

HUNTERS — A careless hunter is often his own worst enemy. The record proves it . . . In hunting accidents in Ontario last year, forty-three per cent of the gunshot wounds were self-inflicted. More than two times in five, hunters shot themselves . . . For the protection of yourself, as well as others, it is wise to take Ontario's Hunter Training course. Learn how to handle firearms correctly and how to hunt safely in the field . . . For information on training, enquire at your local rod and gun club or the nearest office of the Department of Lands and Forests. Help keep hunting a safe sport.

The Amen Corner marks the first time CBC radio has even presented a play with an all-Negro cast.

Report from the Ontario Legislature

By Fred M. Cass, Q.C., M.P.P.

The Third Session of Ontario's 28th Parliament ended on Friday, November 13th. The Members, all tired after months of attendance in Toronto, have returned home to catch up on neglected constituency duties and to prepare for the next Session early in 1971, which normally will be the final Session before a General Election.

This Session produced some 200 new Bills to amend existing laws or bring into force new ones; it also produced long and heated debates on such matters as pollution, dual use of provincial parks — for recreation and lumbering; labour practises and law, Indian problems, liquor laws and regulations, new assessment law and practices; crime, law enforcement and administration of justice, educational techniques, organizations and costs; and housing, to mention but a few of the most controversial subjects.

The Third Session also witnessed the election of a new Provincial Leader of the New Democratic Party in succession to Donald C. MacDonald who held the position for more than fifteen years and succeeded in raising the representation in the House of his Party from 3 to 21 Members. This indication of socialist voting strength in Ontario is one which should not be ignored by the two older traditional parties — and indeed cannot be overlooked by citizens who do not believe in socialist doctrines.

Debates during this Session followed the pattern of the two previous Sessions of this Parliament. They often were long, acrimonious and noisy; the rules of the House often were notable, even though revised during the Session, by their non-observance rather than by their observance and all three presiding officers of the House had on many occasions great difficulty in keeping order and ensuring proper procedures; indeed at times it appeared that the next general election was being fought in the Assembly!

Of great concern to rural people should be the inevitable shift of power and interest from rural areas to urban areas in which more than two-thirds of our people in Ontario have congregated. Undoubtedly the problems of rural Ontario will increase and be much more difficult of solution as this trend in legislative representation and government increases.

I am most grateful for the patience and understanding of my constituents these past three years. My present position as Speaker of the Assembly, which requires my presence in the Cheamber when the House is in Session, has severely limited my ability to be in Grenville-Dundas except for a very short weekend. However, it has not impaired the ability of your Member to deal with the problems of constituents and I can assure all my constituents that their problems, which have been or will be referred to me, have received and will continue to receive my best efforts.

To the Editor of this paper, I am also most grateful for his courtesies in printing these short weekly reports from Queen's Park. I shall hope, with his co-operation, again to greet you each week through these columns when the Legislative Assembly of Ontario again meets in Session early in 1971. Meantime, a bit early but none-the-less heartily Olive joins me in extending to all our best wishes for most pleasant and happy Christmas and New Year Seasons.

Rise - and - shine duel

In every household there are subjects or situations that the happily married inhabitants learn to avoid — or else.

Maybe it's in-laws, politics or religion. Or maybe it's one parent listening to another laying down the law to a child and entering the fray at precisely the wrong time to say, "Now, in my opinion . . ."

The peaceful household is where such differences are debated in privacy, to be acted on (perhaps) the next time — but not while the resident Dennis the Menace is right there, welcoming the arrival of the cavalry in his support.

In our household we have these little problems, too. All of them. Most have been worked out, and agreements reached, over the years. But one trap we still fall into once in a while is talking to one another before breakfast.

I thought of that just the other morning — as usual, too late to do any good.

A verbatim report:

He (instead of quietly going down to put the coffee on): "Hi."

She (rolling over to face away from him and dropping one arm over the side of the bed): "What time is it?"

"A little after seven." (It is five after seven, but 'a little after' could mean more than five after and therefore is more acceptable to a sleepy woman.)

She: "You kept on disturbing me in the night."

He: "In what way?"

"Tossing and turning all night long. Kept waking me up."

He (sitting on edge of bed, feet on floor, facing away from her): "I felt lousy in the night. Indigestion. I've been trying to figure out what would cause that — spare ribs, salad, apple pie . . ." He remembered the cheese on the apple pie, but tasted the caesar salad dressing most. "Maybe it was the salad."

He (beginning to get a little annoyed by the repetition): "I remember one time you shushing me when I sneezed. As if I could help sneezing."

"You were making a lot of noise."

"If anybody can sneeze without making noise, I'd like to run into the guy."

"You got up and creaked doors and things like that."

He (injured; pausing in scrutiny of sock as he attempts to figure out what is rightside out; now trying heavy irony): "I was looking for a handkerchief to muffle my loud sneezing."

He: "Besides, I didn't know it was possible to wake you up." Instantly wishes he had bitten off his tongue before he said that. She is sensitive about usually sleeping so soundly. Follows with much more kindly tones, as if previous remark had been kidding: "Want the bathroom?"

Curtly: "No, you go ahead."

He (going to bathroom, finding seltzer, carrying fizzing glass back to side of bed where he sits in silence for a minute or two): "I'm sorry, I shouldn't have said that."

She (leaving for bathroom): "Oh, I shouldn't get upset, I guess. But you saying that it was impossible to wake me up, after I was awake practically all night!"

He (holding empty glass): "I know. But I felt the same about you complaining about me making so much noise, when I knew I was but couldn't help it. I was feeling so lousy."

Pause for going downstairs, she cooking breakfast while he takes out garbage and feeds cats and dog and fills humidifier and then sits down with coffee.

Pause for eating, having more coffee, becoming civilized again. Pause for warm and healing embrace before they go about their daily duties of raising a family, and providing for it.
