It's a bloody murder!
The discovery of Callum O'Casey's corpse (Upper Canada Village librarian Jack Schechter) at Cook's Tavern Saturday night caused concern among a group of guests participating in a dinner theatre mystery at the Village. Board includes handicapped access at top of capital forecast list

by C. Thompson
Leader staff

MORRISBURG - An elevator to provide access for the handicapped at Seaway High School is to have priority for capital funding along with a major expansion at Morrisburg Public School.

The SD & G Public Board listed needs and priorities for the entire area including South Dundas at an annual planning session in Montebello, Quebec this past weekend, and will send a capital expenditure forecast request to the Ministry of Education within the next few weeks.

The meeting was for discussion only, with no action taken: however, board members agreed that this year again, Morrisburg Public School would be on the top priority list.

"There's no competition with each other, we also need to have the elevator as a facility since there is none within 20 kilometers," explained education director Jim Dilamarter.

In November 1989, the School Board rated Morrisburg Public School as a top priority for capital funding in 1992 after Chesterville Public and Rothwell Osnabruck.

An elevator, chair lift or some kind of access for the handicapped has been viewed as a necessity for the last few years, because of a request to provide access at Seaway High School to Jamie Adams, of Iroquois.

Adams is a Grade 8 Stampville student who suffers from an incurable disease called morquio.

Among issues discussed at the meeting in Montebello was continued bussing of Grade 7 and 8 Morrisburg and Iroquois students to Stampville Public.

For the last two years, students in these grades have been bussed to the outlying school because of overcrowding at Iroquois and Morrisburg public schools.

"We looked at scenarios for South Dundas which will be brought to a facilities committee meeting, in November and then to a Public Board meeting.

While we'd like to approve things for 7 and 8 students, there's no immediate solution," said Dilamarter.

"The priority is to look after the growing population from Junior Kindergarten and the primary grades through to Grade 6," Dilamarter explained.

While actual enrollment at Morrisburg Public has declined from a high of 321 last September to 313 this year, growth at the primary level has increased.

"It's not mammoth growth but since it's in the primary area, and the ministry mandates 20 to 1 ratio for these classes, what was enough classes for primary one year isn't enough the following year," said Dilamarter.

He anticipates no trouble in obtaining ministry funding for the elevator, whose cost is estimated at over $100,000, since the government has mandated wheel chair access for each area school.

However, there is no guarantee of funding for the proposed expansion at Morrisburg Public.

The financial request to be sent to the ministry would be higher than the original $728,624 estimate to account for inflation and future needs, but the concept would remain basically the same.

According to the original proposals, an existing general purpose room would be converted to three classrooms and two additional classrooms would be created to replace the five portables now in use.

Also proposed are a library and a resource center.

Iroquois, Matilda surveyed

Fire Marshall recommends joint dept.

by C. Thompson

IROQUOIS - Last Monday, Fire Marshal Ed Hiscoe met with Iroquois and Matilda councils and reviewed a mutual needs fire survey.

About a year ago, both councils asked the Fire Marshal to conduct a joint municipal fire protection survey.

The dual survey was requested because of the relationship between the two municipalities whereby Iroquois Village provides fire protection to Matilda Township in exchange for use of its waste site.

Under the Municipal Act, municipalities who choose to provide fire services to its residents have the following options.

The municipality may establish its own fire department, jointly manage and operate a fire department with other municipalities, or purchase fire protection.

When a municipality is committed to running its own fire department as Iroquois is, it is obliged to periodically review the status of the fire department and the service it provides.

The most outstanding recommendation in the Fire Marshal's survey is the establishment of a jointly managed and operated fire department between the Township and Iroquois.

This recommendation would necessitate the construction of a fire station, purchase of equipment and recruitment of firefighters in the Brinston area.

The fire department would consist of two fire stations, operating either jointly or individually several pieces of equipment.

The department would be manned by one fire chief, a deputy fire chief, two district chiefs and firefighters.

It would be managed by a joint board with a representative from each council.

The advantages of a joint board with a representative from each council.

The advantages of a joint service suggested the report are greater resources to work with, reduced travel distances and response time resulting in enhanced fire protection to the public.

Improved emergency services, additional resources for emergencies and a larger pool of firefighters to draw on, shared operating costs, and authorization to activate County Emergency Fire Services are additional advantages.

Also firefighters would receive consistent training through an organized program.

The recommendations in the report are intended to form the basis to provide the two municipalities and the fire department with a master fire protection plan.

As a result of last Monday's discussions a joint committee is to be struck from both councils to study the fire report, make their own recommendations, and report back to council.

"Some of the recommendations are very costly to implement and it will require a lot of detailed study to priorize the needs," says Iroquois reeve John McAllister.

"If money was available, it would make a very comprehensive effective fire department," said Matilda reeve Lorne Mellan.

"It may materialize some day, but it would have to go in stages, because Matilda ratepayers couldn't afford to pay for it all at once," he added.

The report also suggests a possibility for future cooperation for the municipalities of Iroquois, Matilda, Morrisburg and Williamsburg in a proposed four-way jointly managed fire department under a full-time fire chief.

Even further advantages are hinted at in this arrangement in reduced costs, administration and operational efficiency, resulting ultimately in better fire protection to the public.

The four municipalities are currently engaged in a joint economic commission and the South Dundas Recreation Committee.

Tripling Stratford Theatre revenues

New manager has successful record

by C. Thompson

MORRISBURG - New manager of marketing and communications at the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, Joan Culliton believes being in touch with the surrounding community is of prime importance in her job.

"It's important to make sure you're in partnership with the community of Morrisburg and in touch with all the other elements that together make up tourism as an industry - from motel and hotel operators to storekeepers in Morrisburg to every tourism partner in the spectrum," she said.

Culliton was recently hired for the position of commission marketing manager from among 160 applicants.

For the last four years, she held a position as Group Sales and Tourism Coordinator at Stratford Festival Theatre, and is quite conscious that in the 1990's, tourism is becoming an increasingly competitive field.

"We should be sure we're in partnership with and maximize the opportunities in terms of Eastern Ontario.

Joan Culliton

We'll have to stand as a united force, to represent a whole spectrum of things to see and do and not have everybody single themselves out," she added.

Born and raised in Stratford, Culliton's first tourism-related job at age 14 was as an usher at Stratford Theatre, and she was quite surprised when she ended up there in a professional position.

After graduating from courses in Economics and Sociology at Queen's University in 1985, and completing a six-month contract with the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations, Culliton successfully competed among 150 applicants for the Group Marketing coordinator position at Stratford.

When she entered the position, the group market accounted for only five per cent of the total audience.

To increase attendance, she targetted motor coach tours, tour wholesalers, conventions and corporate sponsors.

"It was one of my endeavours to go after corporate sponsors from Canada, Europe, Asia and all over the world. Part of my position was to make sure that corporate sponsors were taken care of, and that the levels of corporate sponsorship were building," she said.

She initiated the concept of the on-site 300-seat dining facility, oversaw its construction, and its operational aspects, and it is now a fully functioning facility.

After leaving this position, the group sales marketing area had increased to 20 per cent of the total audience, her department staff grew from one to seven persons, and the annual revenue had soared from $400,000 to $1.8 million.

Remember The Young

By Kelly Baxter

The Remembrance Day Service is the same this year as last year, the same as the year before that. We watch as members of the Legion march in military style to the cenotaph, as they place wreaths around its base. We listen to the service that they read. "We will remember them . . ."

But whose service is this? We stand watching the people who are participating, and our first impression is . . . old. All the uniformed Legionnaires . . . old. The people who are obviously feeling something as they look at the cenotaph . . . old. But look at the statue itself. Look at the soldier on the cenotaph. He is young, that soldier. And the people who actually went into combat . . . they were young, too.

The people we honour on Remembrance Day were young too, and it was their youth that they gave. Gone were the carefree, happy years that were theirs by right, gone in exchange for gunfire, suffering, fear, death. They were our age, and they had no chance to be young. Reality hit them out on the battlefield, and they grew up quickly, too quickly. Many died, or watched a friend die. Could you watch your best friend die of a bullet in the face? A piece of shell in the stomach? These young people had no choice . . . and they faced it and lived with it . . . and died with it!

Even the ones who came home again had made the sacrifice. Their youth had been spent fighting a war that they hardly understood, and they came home to be adults. How many of us could give up our teenage days as they did?

That is what we honour on November 11th, as we stand outside the school and listen to the bagpipes . . . not just old people, but young people, like ourselves, who gave up a youth they could never regain so we could live in freedom . . . freedom form war. How great a sacrifice they made! And how important it is that we understand. The Legionnaire who stands at the cenotaph with a tear in his eye . . . he mourns lost youth; both his own, and that of friends who didn't come home. Watch him, and be glad for ourselves! Be glad in your youth, and understand. Remembrance Day is not just for the old, but for the young.

Upper Canada migratory bird sanctuary begins environment program

KIM TOSHACK
LEADER STAFF

INGLESIDE—In a bid to give area children better understanding of the environment and the part they play in it, The Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary is offering a series of "Fresh-air Experiences.".

The programs take place at the sanctuary, located east of Ingleside, using trails, fields, fence lines and marshes, while combining hikes, games, hands-on exercises and group discussions.

The program unofficially started last spring, when it ran on a trial basis. Two groups went through the program in May and four in June. Considering this a success, the program continued this fall.

In September, four groups toured the Sanctuary, while 18 took advantage of it during October. Presently, there are already 11 tours booked for November.

The program is led by Rod Davidson, Visitor Services Programmer, St. Lawrence Parks Commission. Davidson has worked at the St. Lawrence Parks Commission since February 1 of this year, before which, he worked as an interpreter at Fort Williams in Thunder Bay for 14 years. He has a degree in Forestry and Biology from Lakehead University in Thunder Bay, Ontario.

Children will use "Conservation Education Source Books" compiled jointly by the Conservations Authorities of Cataraqui Region, Mississippi valley, Rideau Valley and South Nation River.

The books serve as the basis for most of the hands-on exercises, as well as assisting teachers in planning and conducting out-of-classroom environmental lessons.

Although the program was basically designed for school tours, the staff at Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary would welcome the opportunity to develop any new programs which could be offered at the Sanctuary, or other St. Lawrence Park Commission Parklands.

For example, Davidson recently took a group of Girl Guides through the program, modifying it, so it could cover some of their badge requirements. This was also done for the Boy Scouts.

"We can tailor-make the program to suit most everyone," Davidson said.

Selected from The "Conservation Education Source Books", the following six course outlines will be offered at The Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary at a cost of $2 per student.

The courses include Wildlife Detective, a search for clues to wildlife activity; Dirt Dwellers, a study of life in forest soil; Life in the Slow Lane, a study of plants and animals living in a pond; From Field to Forest, learning about plant succession by examining plant heights; and The Forest and the Trees, a study of tree populations in a forest habitat.

"Discover", a package for the Primary Grades (JK, K, 1 & 2) has also been developed by the Sanctuary Staff. It consists of a guided nature hike and a series of nature awareness games.

At the present time, Davidson is working alone, and is therefore unable to work with groups larger than 30 unless arrangements are made with the teacher beforehand.

"I'm really enjoying it (the program) and we're getting a positive response from everyone," said Davidson.

For further information, contact Davidson at the Parks Commission office, 543-3704.

Lights, camera...action!

Brent Beatty filled the role of camera person Thursday, when he and five other Algonquin College students came to The Morrisburg Leader office to film scenes for their documentary on the small-town newspaper. The crew showed up at 10 a.m. and filmed until 3 p.m.

The Morrisburg Leader becomes the focus of student documentary

KIM TOSHACK
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG--Employees of The Morrisburg Leader got a taste of their own medicine Thursday, when five students from the Radio and Television Broadcasting program at Algonquin College, Ottawa, turned the tables and put them at the other end of the camera.

The college crew, made up of Documentary Writing students, was recently assigned to do a documentary on a topic of their choice.

Groups were chosen, and the producer in each crew submitted proposals to the teacher on suggested topics.

When their teacher, Sue Lumsden, received the proposal on The Morrisburg Leader, she felt it was a good topic and would make an interesting documentary.

So for this reason The Leader became not only a newspaper office, but for the day, a film studio; complete with camera, lights, microphones and a monitor.

Karen Magee, of Morrisburg, took on the role of producer; Charles Singh of Ottawa held the position of director; Suanne Clyde of Ottawa was technical director; Brent Beatty, also of Ottawa, was camera person and Jennifer Wallace of Manotick interviewed. The entire group are enrolled in their second year of the program, third semester.

"We chose The Leader for a number of reasons," said Magee. "It is a small town newspaper, owned by a local family, and it has a lot of history behind it."

Originally known as The Dundas Courier, it first appeared on February 27, 1863. The newspaper continued under that name until November 1899 when it was sold to Herbert Bradfield, who changed the name to The Leader. When Bradfield sold the paper to industrialist J. Wesley Allison it paved the way for the arrival of the Laurin family who own and operate The Leader today.

Leo Laurin came to Morrisburg from Niagara Falls in 1914 to work as editor and manager for Allison. Shortly after, he purchased the business.

Leo's son Art, who is the present publisher and editor of the paper can remember working in the newspaper business with his father from the time he was a child.

Following in the family tradition, several of Art's sons joined the newspaper staff. Bill has since moved to Montreal, but Terry, Sam and Mike can still be found at the office. Art's wife Lilac and their daughters also took turns helping out the family business.

"The whole place is loaded with character," added Singh.

The action began in The Leader office Thursday at approximately 10 a.m. and ran until around 3 p.m. Leader employees were asked their duties in the office, why they feel people buy the Leader, what a usual working day consists of and likes and dislikes about working in such a small community.

Those interviewed included Art Laurin, editor and publisher; Sam Laurin, advertising manager; Terry Laurin, production manager; Cathy Thompson, reporter; and Kim Toshack, reporter.

The others insisted on being camera-shy.

Magee came back to the office Saturday, to shoot some further footage.

Once everything is shot, the group will have to edit, then re-edit their assignment, ensuring that their best work be on the tape for the December 2nd deadline.

On top of using the documentary for a class assignment, the crew also expect it to be good enough to enter into CBC's Telefest, a contest open to students.

If they win Telefest, The Leader documentary will be aired on that station. Magee also stated that she hopes to have the documentary aired on the local cable channel.

Despite all the excitement, the day ended, and Leader employees were forced back to their humble work, out of the limelight and back behind the scenes.

A star is born

Sam Laurin, advertising manager of The Morrisburg Leader, prepares for the filming of his on-camera interview Thursday, when five Algonquin College Radio and Television Broadcasting students came to the office to film segments of their documentary on the family newspaper.

A day to honor them

Many millions of people, in many countries across the world, will join on Sunday, November 11th, at the 11th hour, to pay tribute to all their brave defenders, and to the innocent victims of all the cruel wars which have decimated the world's peoples, laid waste their personal properties and their countries' heritage, destroyed so much of what was good and noble in their culture, and even the traditional way of life in so many lands.

And as we pause yet one more time to honor the memory of those who sacrificed their lives for their countries and their fellowmen, many of us will also be breathing a silent prayer that they may have attained peace and happiness; and also for those other millions who still suffer oppression, and fear, and violence in many parts of the world.

But unfortunately, it is much easier, much more commonplace, to talk about and to write about freedom and equality than to ensure it. Almost all of us are willing to concede that all people are created equal. But there are far too many of us who are doing our very best to ensure that they don't remain equal very long. We are every bit as prone to racial and religious and class discrimination as any generation in the world's history. We preach and declaim very loudly about freedom and equal rights for everyone, on each succeeding Remembrance Day. But we don't practice those virtues very much on the other days of the year.

And until we change our thinking and our attitudes towards our neighbors in every part of our own country, and in every part of the world, our loudest declamations and our most pious resolutions, our flag-waving and our hymn-singing on this one day of the year are no more than "sounding brass and tinkling cymbals". They make only a hollow mockery of the very real, very great sacrifices of those who have gone before us — those whom we purport to honor on this day.

Seniors' Safety Week

As a person ages, accidents occur with increased frequency and are often life-threatening events, especially for those over 75. Accidents can affect a person's ability to independently plan and manage his or her life through reduced mobility, dependence on family members or possible institutionalization. Further, an accident often causes fear and anxiety resulting in self-imposed limited activity.

In just one recent year, almost 3,000 accidental fatalities and more than 50,000 accidental injuries requiring hospital admission occurred in Canada among people 65 years of age or older. The major cause of the accidental deaths and injuries were falls. While motor vehicle accidents caused the second highest number of deaths, they were third in importance with respect to injuries. Other types of accidents that were involved in the deaths and injuries of seniors included suffocation, industrial accidents and poisonings.

As the number of older Canadians continues to increase, accidents among our seniors will have a significant impact on health care costs and facilities. A major reduction in these accidents can be achieved with the active participation of the seniors themselves, and a joint effort by all other concerned parties.

The theme of this year's Safety Week is "Medication, Safety and You", and the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association of Canada is pleased to be the sponsor.

Every day, millions of Canadians rely on prescription and non-prescription medications to feel better and to get well faster. And far too often, far too many of these people fail to realize the mortal dangers they face when these medications are not used according to the doctor's direction only. Some of the most important suggestions of doctors and pharmacists for those using medications are:

- Do not offer your prescription medicine to others, even if they appear to have the same symptoms. By the same token, never use someone else's medicine. The law says only doctors may prescribe (not your relatives, or next-door neighbor).
- When taking any prescription medicines, tell your doctor if your symptoms continue, or if new symptoms or side-effects develop. And tell him (or her) immediately.
- Complete your prescription therapy. It is never wise to stop taking your medicine as soon as the symptoms disappear, unless your physician approves. Always take your medicine until it is finished.
- Ask if you are not sure. Your doctor or pharmacist will be glad to help you.

And on a personal note . . .

You may have already read in another column that this was a big week around the corner of First and Augusta Streets, where the occupants were marking fifty years of wedded life and the fairly successful rearing of welve (yep, 12) evenly divided off-pring. They wish to acknowledge all ose nice things which have been id to them and about them, even if me of those may have been newhat exaggerated.

n important factor in our half-ury together, this writer would o point out, is a very real faith in y real God, (not "the man up- , or "the big guy in the sky"). ore closing the column for the week, I would like to express my undying thanks to God for the wonderful lady who became my wife. I know that she joins me too, in thanking Him for the 12 great kids who gave us so few hard times, and so many great times over those years. They made our lives.

And those people whom they have brought into our extended family have also brought even more joy to our home and our get-togethers. We were very, very proud parents at the family tribute given to us last week-end. We thank each one of you most sincerely, and we love each one of you very much.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles
by Laurie Day

In this issue, of the Leader, the question was asked, "What is a farmer's time worth per hour? Thirty cents? Fifty cents? A dollar?" It was plain to see that the value of the farmers time increased with the amount produced by his efforts. Time saving devices, like the tractor, harvesting machine, hay fork and loader were introduced to increase the labor and cut down on the costs. A small electric plant was one of the newest inventive skills to aid the farmer in doing his every-day chores. This plant distributed electric lights around the farm which created power for small jobs like operating churns, cream separators, horse clippers, fanning mills, grindstones and it would also pump water. A local customer of Delco-Light claimed he would rather quit the ranch than do without it as it saved at least 114 hours a week labor at a cost of $1.25 a month. It brought the conveniences of the city to the country, and not only saved time and labor, but revolutionized life on the farm.

Mrs. G. H. Ray, of R. R. 1 Kincardine, Ontario, had been suffering with rheumatism for 27 years, and it was reported that a most astonishing cure for her painful plight had been found. After trying $1 worth of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, she "scarcely knew herself", as the itching of the previous 27 years left. All symptoms of discomfort had left as well, and she even lost 18.5 pounds. Only one way the poisons in the blood, and the cause of the aches and pains could be removed, was with the healthful action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. With the help of the liver pills, direct action removed the cause of the rheumatism. Mrs. Ray bought four boxes of the pills at 25 cents per box.

Buster Cartwright , who was employed at the Beach Manufacturing Company in Winchester in the furniture department, fell backwards 25 feet down an open elevator shaft at the plant. He was found unconscious and appeared to be suffering from cuts on his face as well as severe bruises on his legs.

Bandits escaped with $7,000 after holding up the Bank of Nova Scotia in Morrisburg on October 30. Two men, who appeared to be Italian, gagged the staff and one customer and then locked them in the vault. The men were unmasked as they nonchalantly walked in the bank and locked the door. One went into the manager's office with a gun in each hand and told him to get into the vault as well. F. W. Wilmot was the bank manager at the time. It was about 20 minutes later before they were able to free themselves and sound the alarm. The two men were seen as they left via the side door of the bank. Provincial police from Kitchener and London worked on the case.

Mr. Ed Strader discharged the duties of his office as Warden of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry. His fellow councillors presented him with an engraved, gold watch the previous week at the closing session held in Cornwall. Strader was a highly esteemed officer, who was invariably tactful and courteous in his rulings at the meetings. He proved himself to be at all times and under all circumstances, the ideal presiding officer. The address which was read to Strader by Dr. Munroe, the Reeve of Maxville, was filled with kind words and a heartfelt goodbye.

On October 28, a robbery took place at the dry goods store of Mr. Max Sherman of Morrisburg. The thieves took about 100 suits of clothing valued at approximately $1,800. It was reported that the culprits entered the building through the cellar window after opening the back door. Sherman didn't discover the theft until the following morning.

It was on Saturday, November 9, that the editor and publisher of the Morrisburg Leader, Arthur B. Laurin, was united in marriage to the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Canning, Mabel Lillian. The wedding took place at the Church of Our Lady of Grace, Dickinson's Landing, Ontario, with Rev. Father Ewen John MacDonald, cousin of the groom, who officiated.The bride was dressed in a blue wool crepe dress with black shoes and accessories, and she wore a corsage of red roses. In attendance were Mrs. T. I. Warner and Mr. Joseph Bourette, both of Morrisburg. Following the ceremony, the couple honeymooned in Niagara Falls.

A Remembrance Day Service was held on November 10 at Memorial Park with Rev. Koffend of Iroquois officiating. A colorful parade led by the boys' band which included the war veterans, town council, Girl Guides and Boy Scouts ended at the park. Wreaths were placed on the monument in memory of the boys who gave their lives in the Great War. Many were in attendance.

Major Bruce Hunter spoke at the Canadian Club supper in Morrisburg which was hosted by the United Church ladies. He stressed the necessity during wartime of faith that all nations would once again live in harmony. He called on all to

Around the Town — Sam Laurin

This week, we had a special celebration in our family. Art and Lillian marked their 50th wedding anniversary. The celebration was marked with a party at the Morrisburg Golf Club, which was attended by almost 100 relatives.

A fiftieth wedding anniversary is quite an accomplishment in itself, but imagine making it after you've had 12 children. I don't know quite how my parents survived; just three kids around the house is enough to send a guy crazy sometimes. I'd like to congratulate Art and Lillian, and wish them many more happy anniversaries.

It surely was nice to see Canada's Prime Minister handle all the tough questions fired at him on his open-line show Monday evening. The only thing we found missing was an announcement just before sign-off, which could have gone something like this: "This has been a paid political broadcast by the Progressive Conservative Party of Canada".

The Story of the Poppy . . .

Each November over fourteen million poppies bloom in Canada. Dotting the lapels of half of Canada's population, this symbol of remembrance makes its annual appearance as it has done every year since 1926.

Although everybody knows what the poppy means, no one is certain of how it all began; how the poppy became so closely associated with remembrance of the war dead.

The association was certainly not new when the poppy was adopted in Canada in 1921. At least a hundred and ten years before that time, a correspondent wrote of how thickly poppies grew over the graves of the dead. He was speaking of the Napoleonic War and its campaigns in Flanders.

But a Canadian medical officer was chiefly responsible for this association, more so than any other single known factor.

John McCrae was a tall, boyish 43-year-old member of the Canadian Medical Corps from Guelph, Ontario. An artillery veteran of the Boer War, he had the eye of a gunner, the hand of a surgeon and the soul of a poet when he went into the line at Ypres on April 22, 1915.

That was the afternoon the enemy first used poison gas.

The first attack failed. So did the next and the next. For 17 days and nights the allies repulsed wave after wave of attackers.

During this period, McCrae wrote "One can see the dead lying there on the front field. And in places where the enemy threw in an attack, they lie very thick on the slopes of the German trenches."

Working from a dressing station on the bank of the Yser Canal, Lt.-Col. McCrae dressed hundreds of wounded, never taking off his clothes for the entire 17 days. Sometimes the dead or wounded actually rolled down the bank from above into his dugout. While awaiting the arrival of batches of wounded, he would watch the men at work in the burial plots which were quickly filling up.

Then McCrae and his unit were relived. "We are weary in body and wearier in mind. The general impression in my mind is one of a nightmare," he wrote home.

But McCrae came out of Ypres with 13 lines scrawled on a scrap of paper. The lines were the poem which started: "In Flanders field the poppies blow..."

These were the lines which are enshrined in the hearts of all soldiers who heard in them their innermost thoughts. McCrae was their voice. The poem circulated as does a folk song, by living word of mouth. Men learned it with their hearts.

In the United States, the poem inspired the American Legion to adopt the poppy as the symbol of Remembrance.

In Canada the poppy was officially adopted by the Great War Veterans Association in 1921 on the suggestion of a Mrs. E. Guerin of France. But there is little doubt that the impact of McCrae's poem influenced this decision.

The poem speaks of Flanders fields. But the subject is universal: the fear that in death we will be forgotten, that death will have been in vain.

The spirit of true Remembrance, as symbolized by the poppy, must be our eternal answer which belies those fears.

In Flanders Fields

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Beneath the crosses, row on row,
That mark our places; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe;
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

—John McCrae

Council and consultants plot changes to Iroquois official plan

by Catherine Thompson

IROQUOIS - The Village of Iroquois is well underway with an update of its Official Plan.

At a planning committee meeting here October 30, consultant Daphne Hope of Proctor and Redfern and planner Mary Gracie met with Iroquois council to share a Background Report.

"We went through the existing Official Plan (dated 1985) and looked at the current planning situation in Iroquois and the surrounding area and what's happened in the last five to ten years in terms of provincial policies," Hope told council.

Hope said the new Official Plan should include a holding by-law "to establish through the Official Plan what the intended use for an area is."

For example, if development is desired for a specific area in any category, it may be designated as a "holding" zone.

Thus the area would be preserved for its intended use and council could specify conditions for development.

Hope stressed safeguards should be provided in any site plans.

"It's in council's favor to have very specific site plan requirements for types of development that require buffering, setbacks, access, landscaping and to consider what areas in the town should have site plan control," she said.

One issue under review is industrial policies in the zoning by-law that don't conform to the Official Plan.

"Your zoning by-law is progressing faster with amendments to it and your Official Plan hasn't caught up," she said.

At the meeting, consultants together with council decided on specific problem areas to include in the working document of the Official Plan, due the end of November.

These areas include the "commercial core" bounded by Highway 2 to the north, Elizabeth Drive to the south, Dundas Street to the east and Carman Road to the west.

The area currently has a mix of uses with commercial to the east, industrial to the west and pockets of residential land to the south.

To exercise control over future uses in the industrial area, and prevent the entry of undesirable industries, such as "an abbatoir," council is considering redesignation.

While the area is currently zoned general "industrial," it may be redesignated light, medium, heavy industry, or possibly holding commercial.

Hope explained it would be necessary for council to explain it was not the intent to drive out existing industry or hamper its expansion, but to indicate their intention for this area, should the current industries decide to move.

Admiring the "beautiful residential development south of Highway 2 for its two neighbourhoods facing two internal parks," consultants recommended residential development north of Highway 2 be along the same lines.

Council would like some input on the issue of Home Occupations being permitted throughout the village.

They see this as a contentious matter, since the plaza has had difficulty keeping business, and plaza store owners have complained of high taxes and overhead, and that home businesses do not pay its fair share of these costs.

While there is some pressure for residential development, council wishes the area north of Highway 401 and the railway track to continue as rural in view of the high costs of providing services here.

However, guidelines such as deeryard constraints and hazard lands near Doran Creek would be set for development applications.

Some provision in the Official Plan would be made for group homes because the Ministry of Municipal Affairs encourages all municipalities to take its fair share of these institutions.

A group home may be defined as a public or private institution with three to ten residents and may range from hostels, nursing homes to homes for young offenders.

After the working document is complete, an open house is to be held December 13, to include public comments in the draft Official Plan.

The draft Official Plan is to be prepared, and will be followed by another planning committee meeting and circulation to agencies.

In the final stage, agency comments are included in the Official Plan, and a public meeting is held.

Then the plan is adopted by council, circulated to agencies and presented to the Ministry of Municipal Affairs for approval.

This process is to be complete by spring.

Edgerton/Baker Fuels offers area residents unique price guarantee

by Kim Toshack
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG - If nothing else, Morrisburg and area residents can look forward to stable home fuel costs this winter if they are a customer of Edgerton-Baker Fuels, of Morrisburg.

Thanks to its supplier, Universal Terminals Ltd. of Cornwall, the company can now guarantee it will hold its price at 37.9 cents per litre this winter, no matter what happens to world crude oil prices.

"We're trying to show stability," said Rick Bowen, general manager of Edgerton-Baker Fuels, "and it's going to be that way all winter because we have a stable source of supply."

Because Universal Terminals bought its season's oil supply at low September prices for December delivery, the company will not hike prices by more than two cents a litre before next May 31.

"We realize that the economy in Ontario is poor right now, and we're very concerned," said J. Baird, of Universal Terminals. "This is one way we can help."

Although marginal profits could be lost by this guarantee, Bowen emphasized the fact that the customers are what is important.

Although Baird agreed that there is a risk of losing profits, Universal Terminals agreed fully with Bowen stating that "the customers are worth the risk."

Baird also stated that because Universal Terminals succeeded in obtaining its fuel at low prices, little profit would actually be lost.

"We're happy with the profit margin right now," Baird said.

Concluding, Bowen again stated Edgerton-Baker's stance.

"Edgerton-Baker Fuels wants to look after its customers," Bowen said.

It's obvious both supplier and distributor care about the buyer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Subject: German Club Cornwall.

Dear Editor — Please be informed that we have recently started a social club in Cornwall aimed at bringing together German-speaking people for a variety of programs. We believe this is something that was lacking in this area. The name of the club is simply German Club Cornwall. We are still in the formative stages and are looking for more members.

We meet on the second Saturday of each month at 8 p.m. in the Church hall on Second and Riverdale Streets, Cornwall, for a social evening. We extend an invitation to all German-speaking people in Cornwall/Morrisburg and surroundings.

We would be pleased if you could give us some coverage in your paper, and announce that our next social evening is on November 10 at 8 p.m., and that more information can be obtained from Fritz Biehler, Cornwall, tel: 932-9475.

VELEY—In loving memory of a dear sister and aunt, Joan Veley, who passed away November 8, 1980.

So Lord, if there are roses in Heaven,
Please pick a bunch with care.
Place them in both her arms,
And let her know we care.

CASSELMAN—In fond and loving memory of my dear husband, Carl G., who passed away November 12, 1982.
There is a bridge of memories
From earth to heaven above
It keeps you always near me
It's called the bridge of love.
May you walk in sunshine
And God's love around you flow
For the happiness you gave me
No one will ever know.
It broke my heart to lose you
But you did not go alone
For part of me went with you
The day God called you home.

Just a word

Freedom. Whether it is freedom of privacy or freedom of the press, when it comes to a clash, who is in the right?

I'm referring to the ongoing saga between Jane O'Hara of the Ottawa Sun, and Cal Murphy of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

At the last Rider home game, O'Hara demanded dressing room access instead of waiting for players to be brought for interviews.

The whole issue has sparked questions from many; the biggest being whether O'Hara is a woman or a journalist, because in this instance, she can't be both.

Now, since I have managed to be both, I fail to understand O'Hara's (or any other reporter's) need to enter the dressing room of any sex, of any team, in any sport.

Perhaps if it is the thrill of seeing the male nakedness, someone should buy O'Hara a "Playgirl" magazine to flip through while she awaits the players appearance from the dressing room.

On the other hand, if O'Hara is trying to champion a cause, that being women's rights, she could be looking for trouble. If she wins this fight, and is permitted to enter dressing rooms filled with members of the opposite sex, it will become not only a fight for freedom of the press, but a chance for male reporters to get even on the equal rights issue.

I mean, it only seems fair, that if women can enter a male dressing room, men can interview females in theirs.

I can tell you right now, women will not stand for this. Although Jane O'Hara may be setting an example, fighting for women's equality, she will lose in the popularity contest should she win this battle.

Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles

exert every effort building up the British army, navy and air force so that England and her cause - Liberty, Justice and Truth - would be victorious.

1950

On Sunday, November 5, 11 year old local boy, Tommy Lough, had to be resuscitated after being overcome with carbon monoxide fumes. Tommy was helping his father work on a truck in the family's garage when the accident occurred. The Morrisburg Fire Department was called to the scene and fire chief Herb Clark, and firefighters Norman Clark, Hugh Shannette and Murray Black were the rescuers. The fire department had recently purchased the resuscitator.

George Melvin Loucks passed away at the Iroquois Nursing Home on November 7 after being in failing health for some time previously. Loucks was a well known and highly respected resident of the area, and was married to Gertrude Hall, who predeceased him in 1947.

Members of the Morrisburg Community Centre Board approved unanimously the use of the former Morrisburg arena property for the site of the new Community Centre. The use of the site was made possible by aquisition by the Board of the vacant land lying to the north of the old arena property. The municipal council hoped to qualify the project for the 50 percent Winter Work grant from the Federal and Provincial governments both in order to reduce cost and to help provide winter work for the municipality.

Inexperience, disregard for the hunting regulations and greed for game produced a high number of accidents that year although the number of fatalities decreased from 10 in 1959 to nine in 1960. A common cause of the accidents was failure of the hunter to thoroughly understand the mechanism of his gun or to properly respect it. Failure to remove the last cartridge, climbing fences, leaning loaded weapons insecurely against cars and boats, defective weapons and running with loaded guns contributed to the Ontario hunting accident toll in 1960.

Purple was popular in the fall of this year. Coats, suits, dresses - even underwear - appeared in this colour once reserved for the Roman Emperors. Symbol of pomp and power, the color purple has had a long history. Fifteen centuries B. C. the Phoenicians made purple dye. They had discovered the secret of a Mediterranean shellfish. When its yellow juice was exposed to the sun it changed through all the colors of the spectrum until it finally remained a brilliant and unfading purple. It took so many thousand shellfish for so little dye that purple was only for the rich and mighty.

It was Brian McNairn's night with the Lions when they travelled to Prescott Friday, November 13. He scored four goals and two assists to help the hockey team win with a score of 8-7. Morrisburg had a 7-2 lead going into the third period, but over-confidence and a strong comeback by Prescott almost ended the game in a tie. Prescott pumped in four goals in the last period to bring their hometown fans to their feet.

It was stated that there were more kids using prescription drugs than marijuana or LSD. Rev. Peter Bark spoke on the subject at the Morrisburg and District Canadian Club on November 17. Marijuana was introduced in the 60s and had increased in popularity ever since. At the time of the Crusades, hashish was used by the Easterners; alcohol by the Crusaders and it was taken into the ghettos of the large cities on the United States coast line by migrant workers from Mexico. Pop musicians and others began the use of the drug, and in the 30s it was being used socially, and by the 60s it had 'arrived'. Bark stated that young people patterned themselves around adults and if drug use came in the families, then the young people would find the behavior acceptable for them.

Hallowe'en damage at the Iroquois water tower was reported . Pranksters enlivened the tower with some painted embellishments to the Indian chiefs. Town authorities discovered some clues: a can of black machinery enamel, a paint brush and a hockey stick. Theoretically, the brush was attached to the hockey stick to reach the distance to the tower surface. Damages were estimated at approximately $1,000.

Rev. George H. Smith of Morrisburg, retired a 40- year career in photography on November 1, at age 82. Mr. Smith operated his studio out of his Kyle Drive home. In 1939, he photographed the King and Queen and it was that photograph which started his career. He was a police photographer for ten years, and he was also involved with news photography. Some of his work was published in such papers as the Star and the Citizen, as well as the Leader. Smith was also a wedding photographer, takings photographs for countless couples around the area.

The old Catholic Church on St. Lawrence St. in Morrisburg was demolished from the belfries down. It was unused for the previous 12 years and in recent times it had become a nesting place for pigeons and the cause of complaints by a few residents nearby. Ogilvie Demolition was hired out of Spencerville to remove all evidence of the old structure by June 1, 1981. A crew of three men hadstarted removing the bricks, which were packed in eight gallon milk cans and tossed to the ground. The very old hand-cast bricks sold well on site for 20 cents each.

IROQUOIS—The junior and senior girls' basketball teams hosted the teams from St. Joseph's Secondary School from Cornwall and came up short on both accounts.

"The girls played well considering St. Joseph's is a double A team," said senoir's coach, Lee Madden. "We got off to good start, but the second half is where they (St. Josephs) ran away with it."

The girls lost a 52-32 decision.

Scoring for the Spartan seniors were Maryann St. Pierre, Tina DeZires and Annette VanBeilen with seven, six and five points respectively.

For St. Joseph's, coach Doug Anderson felt his girls didn't play too badly, and leading the scoring were Karen McDonald with 18 points and Kim Gillissie with 14.

Juniors lose 43 - 21

Karen Dalrymple led the scoring in the junior game with nine points; however, the girls lost the game 43 - 21.

The juniors travelled to Prescott on Saturday for tournament action and came home with a two win - one loss record.

In the first game against South Grenville, the Spartans lost 25 - 19, but went on to win the next two games against Carlton Place and Smiths Falls.

Dalrymple accumulated 32 points in the three games.

"She's a good player," said coach Scott Corden, "she averages 10 points a game."

On Monday, the Spartans will travel to St. Lawrence where they will start at 2:15.

Platers thump Lions

Morrow, Smith, Besner on the disabled list

LAURIE DAY
Leader staff

GANANOQUE—Johnny Morrow suffered a separated shoulder, Jason Smith, a gash to the bridge of his nose, and Yvon Besner was cracked across his hand with a stick when the Lions travelled to Gananoque to play against the Platers Sunday night, in Jr. B action.

All three teammates were disabled with their injuries in the second period, and because of that and the fact that three other veterans were unable to play in Gananoque, the Platers literally thumped the Lions, 10-0.

"It was the first time that we've been blown out," said Lions' assistant coach, Ralph Luimes.

Morrisburg held the home team at bay in the first with only one goal counting.

However, the Platers turned on the power in the second, after the Lions' scoring trio was benched, and fired five shots by Morrisburg's Jeff Hopkins.

In the third, Gananoque pumped four more between the pipes to tighten the noose around the Lions' necks.

With all the smashing and cracking going on, Gananoque spent 42 minutes in the penalty box, to Morrisburg's 26 minutes.

Jamie Higgs scored four goals for the Platers, and Jeff Dickson had two.

Other goals by Chris Rawlyk, Brian Bull were counted for Gananoque.

TIKIS VS. LIONS

Morrisburg got off to a slow start in Friday night's game against the Brockville Tikis, and although they scored 10 goals, it wasn't enough for the win, as Brockville edged out the home team by one.

The Lions only picked up two goals to Brockville's four in the first period, as Johnny Morrow and Ernie Beckstead outsmarted Tikis' netminder, Dan Campbell.

For Brockville, it was Jeff Hyndman who got by Daryl Kiviaho with two successful attempts, and Brent Jones and Mike Doris each counted one.

In the second, the Lions came on strong with three more goals at two-minute intervals to put the team ahead in the period, 5-4.

Jason Smith, Jamie Smith, and Mike McAllister did the scoring for the home team.

The Tikis rallied back with two goals by Gard Mayer and Sean Allan, to take the lead, but Yvon Besner tied the teams at six-all at the end of two.

Brockville came back to life in the final 20 minutes with two shots by Kiviaho from Mayer and Jones, but Besner was on the move again as he sank his second goal deep in the heart of the visitors' net.

It was 11-7 in favor of Brockville, with only 1:15 remaining, when the Lions gave the Tikis a scare as they pumped in three goals.

Rob Casselman was the first to hit the net, and that sparked McAllister for his goal number two just 21 seconds later.

In the final seven seconds, Morrow flipped one by Campbell, but that was all the home team could squeeze out.

The clock ticked away, and so did another victory for the Lions as the visiting Tikis took home the 11-10 victory.

Friday night the Lions host the Kemptville 73s, and on Sunday they travel to Athens. Both games will start at 8:30 p.m.

Mullin picked up three assists in the game, and Deleavey claimed a pair.

For Parkers, Lindsay Weegar had the point in the second period.

Carpets' Greg Stubbings fired the first shot by Gerald Scully at 9:26 into the first, but that was all for them as the F-Team commanded the period with four goals.

Dale Gilmour, Louis Migliaci, Andy Brown and Allen McNairn took turns on Carpets' goalie, Rob Huttinga.

Barry VanAllen and Jamie McIntosh found the net in the second for the House of Carpets, but the F-Team took the win with three more goals.

Fire in furnace room causes smoke damage at Ingleside Lanes

LAURIE DAY
Leader staff

INGLESIDE—On October 24, between 4 - 4:30 p.m., the owner of the Ingleside Lanes, Garry Brownlee, noticed a strange and unfamiliar waxy smell, coming from the south-east side of the building.

He went into the ladies' washroom thinking that it may have been a cigarette burning, but the smell was even stronger, and smoke was rapidly filling the room. Brownlee then discovered there was a fire in the furnace room, which is located through the washroom.

Upon opening the door to the self-contained cement block room, he saw flames coming from within. His first reaction was to grab the fire extinguisher, and try to put out the fire.

The Ingleside Fire Department was then notified, and the firefighters were on the scene within minutes.

"They were very professional," said Lanes' manager, Brenda Henderson, "and they did an excellent job. There is no doubt that our situation could have been a lot worse if it wasn't for the way in which they handled the situation."

The firemen had to wear oxygen masks in order to enter the building due to the amount of smoke, which had, by this time, consumed the entire building.

The men kept the fire contained to the furnace room, and there was no water or property damage.

No injuries were suffered as everyone was cleared from the Lanes shortly after the discovery of the fire.

The firefighters were at the scene for about three hours.

Due to major smoke damage the Lanes was inoperable for a few weeks, but Brownlee hopes to have everything running smoothly again for this week's bowling schedule.

Seaway News

By Kelly Lackey

This week the Student's Council is doing attitude polls on the students. They are asking questions on what people think of the school, what they think about music, what kind of clothes do they like, and what is their basic means of transportation.

The junior and senior boys' basketball try-outs are beginning this week. Students who are interested are asked to sign the two lists in front of the cafeteria.

The junior and senior girls' basketball teams hosted Tagwi yesterday at Seaway. On Thursday the girls will be travelling to Cornwall to play St. Lawrence High School. The midget girls basketball team had a game Monday against CharLan.

Today a French Assembly was held. This assembly is for students involved in this year's French programs.

Students in the band and drama department are again selling Florida oranges and grapefruit to raise money for their play coming up in December. The money will go towards using the playhouse and arranging help from the community. The delicious oranges and grapefruit are sold in full or half cases which are reasonable priced for the quality. The band has been selling fruit for many years and this is their major fundraiser, so we hope the communities will be glad to help this worthy cause.

This Friday is Seaway's own Dating Game. Tickets for the students are on sale in front of the cafeteria for $2.00.

The 15th of this month is a half day for students with a P.D. Day following. This will give the students a day to recuperate from the Much Music Video Dance.

Drug Awareness Week in final stages of planning

MORRISBURG — In preparation for Drug Awareness Week, the committee met once more at Beavers Dental Products on Friday.

Plans for the area poster contest were well underway, with the judging taking place this week. Winners will be invited to attend a party at the Williamsburg United Church Hall on a date to be announced later. Winners will be named in next week's Leader.

Plans were finalized regarding the schedule of events as well. On November 9, the Eastern Ontario Health Unit will be setting up a display at Seaway District High School for parents and students to view while at parent/teacher interviews. Also, during Drug Awareness Week, Dr. Cooper video sets will be available at Video Ventures in Morrisburg, in rental stores in Winchester and Chesterville, and at the Iroquois Public Library. These videos will be free of charge and are good for children six to ten years of age.

On Wednesday, November 21, George Rouleau, Coordinator of Healthy Lifestyles at the Eastern Ontario Health Unit will be at the Winchester Municipal Building to present various issues dealing with addictions. The presentation will take place from 1:30-3:30 p.m.

Although the committee hopes to aid people who are already addicted to drugs or alcohol, it is also their plan to ensure drug-free people addiction is "the state of being addicted", while it also says to remain that way.

During Drug Addiction Week, and a short time before and after, the committee, along with schools, medical facilities and the media, will answer many of the questions which people may be asking themselves.

The biggest question to most concerns addiction. What differentiates addiction from now and then use? Webster's Dictionary states that an be addicted is "to habituate, to have given oneself up to (a practice or habit-usually bad) and be or become unduly dependent upon it".

There are many people in today's society who fit this bill, and to acknowledge this, will make more people aware. What should be done if an acquaintance is an addict? First of all, no person should go through this alone. Get help!

This can be obtained confidentially through the Addiction Research Foundation at 937-4035; any medical facility, a church or even the local police station. All of these people will listen and do everything they can to help.

Information is also available at Drug Stores in Morrisburg, Iroquois, Winchester and Chesterville when prescriptions are picked up.

The committee has been formed to help stop the growing problem of drug abuse; let them help.

Friendship Circle meets on Fridays

MORRISBURG - With a membership of about 70 members, the Friendship Circle meets on the first Friday of the month.

They start out with a noon pot-luck meal, followed by a business meeting. Sometimes they have speakers like Mr. Marcus Meed who outlined plans for building condominiums geared to senior citizens' needs.

Although the Friendship Circle was not favored with a grant, nevertheless they bought a refrigerator and were proud they were not bankrupted.

Their card convenor has been charged with sending cards as occasion warrants, and once a month they sing "Happy Birthday" to those attending the meeting.

The "Remembrance Plaque" is slowly filling up, and you know what that means. It's a good thing that new members join.

When the business meeting is concluded, most members participate in the program, planned by the committee for that day.

Twice a year the Friendship Circle caters to the "Arts and Crafts" show held for two days in the civic Auditorium, netting quite a tidy sum.

A group of senior citizens gathers every Friday to enjoy each others compay and play cards.

On the third Friday of the month they proceed to the Hartford Retirement Home and are joined by some of its residents, but changed this to the second day at their request

In appreciation they supplied potted plants at Christmas and Easter.

One of the members, Willa Johnston was 100 years old on August 15. She is a resident of the Home and the Friendship Circle was pleased to join her other friends for a pot-luck noon meal there, followed by speakers and well-wishers.

The Circle subscribes to "The Voice," a senior citizens magazine. Their treasurer of the past nine years, Mae Fisher, has moved to Avonmore and has been replaced by Mr. Bev. Weagant.

Olive Neild has acted as president for the past two years, and has accepted that office for the ensuing term.

Vice-president Beatrice Shaver is new on the roster. Myrtle Wingeat who already served two years was again elected as secretary.
