Computer stolen from village building

Crime Stoppers this week is asking for the public's help in solving a break and enter at Chesterville's public works garage. Sometime between 4:30 p.m. February 18 and 7:20 a.m. the next day, unknown persons entered the office by a small window and once inside stole an Intel 486 computer and VGA color monitor. The total value of the stolen property is $2,500. If you have any information on this or any other crime, call Seaway Valley Crime Stoppers toll-free at 1-800- 265-TIPS. If your tip leads to an arrest, you may qualify for a cash reward of up to $1,000. You do not have to reveal your identity to help solve a crime.

Conference sheds a little light on restructuring issue

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — The provincial government may not force municipalities to amalgamate — but some municipalities in Ontario may have no alternative when their provincial funding is eventually terminated.

That's the message Chesterville Reeve Jim Cook brought back from a recent Rural Ontario Municipal Association (ROMA), conference at which the amalgamation issue was tackled. MPP Ernie Hardemann, who leads the municipal restructuring task force, was among those who addressed the issue.

And whatever the case, Cook says the current committee of Dundas County municipal representatives should continue its study into amalgamation within the county and its eight municipalities. The study is looking at possible scenarios, as well as service provision, costs and personnel requirements.

"It would seem the provincial government wants amalgamation to proceed, or at least amalgamation studies to proceed, but they seem to have softened a bit on one-tier," Cook said.

Family loses everything in house fire

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

AVONMORE — A raging fire destroyed an Avonmore home early Saturday, the first serious house fire in the hamlet in over 20 years.

Fire erupted at the home of Luke and Cindy Carroll about 2:30 a.m. Saturday. Cindy Carroll, who was awakened by the family dog, barely escaped the home with her two young children, Avonmore Fire Chief Perry Tinkess said Tuesday. Luke Carroll was at work in Cornwall at the time, and had to be later notified of the fire by OPP.

Striking Ministry of Transportation workers closed the works yard on Highway 31 north of Morrisburg Tuesday morning as they joined the more than 9,000 Ontario Public Service Employees Union (OPSEU) workers who walked off the job as part of the union's first-ever, province-wide work stoppage. Only 2,000 workers deemed essential by union and management remain on the job in eastern Ontario. All told, more than 50,000 of the union's 65,000 members across the province are on strike over pension and job security issues.

Out but not down

The strike is on.

About 9,000 Ontario Public Service Employees Union members in eastern Ontario are joining their provincial colleagues and digging in for what could be a long strike, affecting a variety of provincial agencies and services.

The union rejected the province's contract offer last week, and this week began walking off the job across Ontario in what is the first OPSEU strike in Ontario's history.

While the strike will not directly affect hospitals and schools, it will disrupt some provincial government services in eastern Ontario.

All but 2,000 of eastern Ontario's 11,000 OPSEU members will be off the job by Wednesday at the latest, says eastern Ontario OPSEU president Mike Oliver.

"It's escalated quite a bit. By tomorrow, we should be out across the province," Oliver told the Record Monday, saying he cannot say how long the strike will last.

"But I think the economic spindown will be critical for a lot of workplaces," he said, noting Kemptville College as an example.

Essential services that revolve around safety are still being provided, like ambulances and salt trucks when freezing rain falls, as was forecast for Tuesday night. Snow clearing of provincial highways like 31 and 43 will take place if 12 or more centimetres of snow falls, the union has reported.

Oliver said the decision to strike, the first-ever for Ontario OPSEU members, came down to "a difficult choice and a bad choice," either striking or accepting the government's offer.

"It's going to be difficult, but it seems Mike Harris wants to make an example of us, and that hurts because we worked for the government long before he came to power."

Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs office in Winchester shut down Tuesday night and will not open until the OPSEU strike ends.

Agriculture representative Phyllis MacMaster says although new locks have been put on the door, "it's for the security of the building, not to lock us out."

If the five employees choose to strike, "we will go to Kemptville College with the rest of local and picket there."

Those who choose to cross the picket lines and go to work will have to go to the OMAFRA office in Avonmore and await instructions from its manager.

"We all have opinions about the new contract," said MacMaster, and those views will dictate whether or not the Winchester employees choose to strike.

Because her ministry is so service oriented, she said, it makes the entire situation "a difficult one."

One location that isn't expecting any changes as a result of the strike is Winchester and District Memorial Hospital. Executive director Don Smith explains because there aren't any OPSEU members at the hospital "we aren't anticipating any difficulties right now."

While the driver examination centre employees in Winchester are striking, the licence bureau remains open because it is privately contracted.

However, the licence bureau does not have access to its computer system as a result of the strike.

Avonmore regains postal services, sets national precedent

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

AVONMORE — The friendly smile of the postmaster may be gone forever. But full postal services will soon return to Avonmore, after Canada Post accepted a pitch from the community to institute an unstaffed, do-it- yourself postal centre with fully-automated postal services.

The so-called "Avonmore Solution" is a first-of-its-kind in Canada, and it is hoped the plan will become a blueprint for providing full postal services to other rural communities.

Avonmore's Post Office, which has served only as a lock box depot since its services were taken away in 1991, will become a complete self-service postal centre, with a state-of-the-art vending machine, scales, and direct hotline for postal information.

The Main Street post office building will be renovated to accommodate the creative setup, and the entire project is to be completed by March 31, the end of Canada Post's fiscal year.

Murray Barkley knows the history of Avonmore well. And he also knows the history of its postal services, which were terminated in 1991, prompting a Parliament Hill rally by the community which gained national media attention.

Barkley and others in the community formed the Committee to Save Avonmore's Post Office, now known as the Avonmore Post Office Committee, an ad hoc group with between 12 and 30 active members, and a loose membership which really includes the whole community, he says.

Thumbs up: Avonmore Post Office Committee Members are pleased with the agreement that will bring postal services back to the hamlet. In front of the post office are committee members Murray Barkley, Hubert Delaney, Bill Veenstra, Lily Worrall, Rhonda Looyen and Andy Boyle.

Avonmore regains postal services

In the five years since Avonmore lost its postmaster and full postal services, the committee has lobbied the federal government for some form of return of postal services.

In December, 1994, Barkley and Avonmore resident Lily Worrall sent a proposal to Canada Post, a proposal that called for installation of completely automated postal services, additional parcel compartments and some system of registered mail service in Avonmore. They also called for the restoration of Avonmore's postal code to the exterior of the building, and delivery to the Morningside Seniors' Apartments.

In what Barkley called a "thoughtful and constructive" reply, virtually all of the requests were accepted by Canada Post, at a meeting February 22 in Avonmore with Canada Post's Nick Dinelle. The committee, on behalf of the community, agreed unanimously to accept the offer.

Canada Post will renovate the building, installing a state-of-the-art vending machine, reconfigured postal boxes no more than 10 boxes high and in numerical sequence, a dutch door to allow the rural route contractor to hand out requested items such as registered mail, an electronic scale, an interior mail receptacle capable of accepting letters and small parcels and a direct-dial telephone that will provide a line to the Finch Post Office for information, a customer service line for inquiries and a postal code information line.

Twenty-four-hour key access will be provided, and one key will be given to each of Avonmore's urban and rural route customers.

The vending machine will accept bills up to $20, it will make stamps and a variety of postal products available.

"It's pretty imaginative," Barkley says of the plan. "This is restoring a fuller measure of service."

Andy Boyle, a fellow committee member, agrees. Recently, he had to travel to Finch to pick up registered mail. And he had to return to Finch when he discovered he had the wrong piece.

"It's a definite step in the right direction," Boyle says. "It augers well for the rest of rural Canada."

Lily Worrall says the last five years have been a long haul. But she's pleased with the outcome. "It's a kudo for Avonmore. We're the first to get this service."

Scotiabank manager Bill Veenstra says the new system will save the bank time and money, as registered mail can be picked up and sent from Avonmore, and the drive to Finch is no longer necessary.

As for restoring Avonmore's postal code to the exterior of the building, it is now Canada Post policy not to display them on its signage, because of urban coding that is part of the 911 emergency phone system. The code will be displayed on the interior of the building. And mail boxes were installed at Morningside Place in the fall, with Canada Post assuming delivery costs and waiving change-of-address fees.

Barkley credits Canada Post's Nick Dinelle, Rob McCulloch and Marc Laframboise for their creative solution to the community's needs. And he also thanks Stormont-Dundas MP Bob Kilger and his staff for their work on behalf of the community.

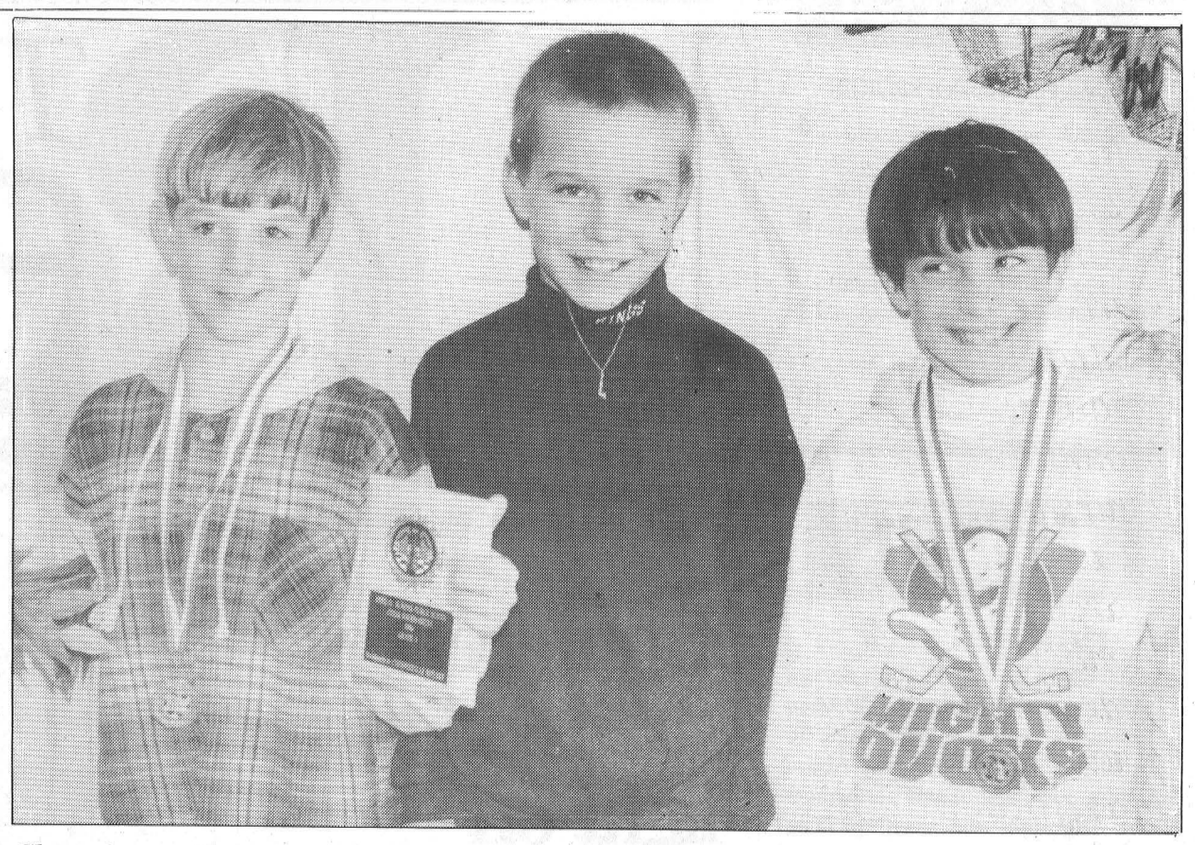
And Dinelle credits the people of Avonmore for helping originate the idea of a self-serve post office.

"The whole concept of the self-service centre comes from the people of Avonmore, who said this is what they were looking for. They're the architects, we've just taken their ideas and put them on paper," Dinelle said Monday.

"If it works well, it could be of use in other locations, either urban or rural."

Canada Post will be at the Avonmore Post office after it opens for a couple of days, Dinelle says, to demonstrate how the new system works.

If the new post office opens April 1, by chance, the date will bear significant meaning to Avonmore, Barkley notes. It was on April 1, 1864, that Avonmore got its name, when it got its first post office.



Chess champs: Elma Public School recently made a clean sweep of the Grade 5 category at the Dundas Elementary School Chess Tournament February 9 in Morrisburg. Devin Carruthers, Robbie Waddell and Cobie McIntosh won Gold, Silver and Bronze respectively out of 16 competitors in the Grade 5 category.

Fire claims home

The couple, who moved to Avonmore only a few years ago, lost everything. None of the family members were injured, but the dog — who may have saved their lives — did not survive.

The fire was so intense that it burned a telephone cable that ran across the front of the home above the sidewalk. And a strong east wind caused the siding on a home across the street to melt and buckle. A neighbor's car, parked near the home, was totalled, and the telephone pole in front of the home badly burned.

But two neighboring homes were relatively undamaged, thanks to winds that took the heat in another direction, and help from the Newington, Finch and Moose Creek Volunteer Fire Departments.

Tinkess said no further investigation of the blaze is planned, and is calling the fire "accidental."

Tinkess said the fact the telephone lines were burned briefly delayed response from the Avonmore Fire Department. And when the department did arrive, Tinkess said he called for the help of other departments as soon as he saw the extent of the blaze.

"As far as the building itself, it was totally engulfed. I knew I needed Mutual Aid very badly," Tinkess said.

"They were very lucky to get out," Tinkess said of the three family members. "It was very close."

The last major fire in Avonmore was in 1973, when Miller's Hardware was destroyed — a building that was just five lots north of the Carroll home.

Murray Barkley, owner of Barkley's Store in Avonmore, said he has heard members of the community have approached the family with offers of assistance. And he said he is certain some form of benefit will be organized in the near future.

"Avonmore is that kind of place."

Pot luck

OPP Const. Mike Francis shows the results of a search warrant that was executed at a Loughlin Road residence in Mountain Township Thursday, February 22 at 5:45 p.m. The search turned up a number of pieces of hydroponic growing equipment and 171 marijuana plants with an estimated street value of $37,000. Police are still investigating, and say charges are pending.

Reeve ponders amalgamation info

"I think the message is, 'study it, if it seems appropriate and gets you into an organization that fulfills your needs, then go for it, we'll approve it.' If not, you'd better be convinced you can go it alone.' "

Amalgamation was thrust into the spotlight in the fall by the province's Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing as part of a re-writing of the Municipal Act. Part of the strategy is to gradually wean municipalities off provincial transfer payments so they are self-sufficient.

Chesterville received $154,000 from the province, $109,000 in unconditional grants and the rest in the form of an allotment from the Ministry of Transportation for approved projects.

In weighing the ability of the village to survive without provincial monies, Cook uses examples of costs that are currently subsidized at least in part.

Without provincial funding, Cook said the village may not be able to fix a street a year, as it generally has been doing, but added most streets are in good shape anyhow. Next, would the village be able to operate its water treatment systems to Ministry of Environment and Energy specifications? Probably, Cook says.

But — could the village afford the $500,000 refurbishing of the old #1 well? Probably, over a period of time, Cook says, but "It might be a lot easier if we were in a larger group."

"I think we need to proceed with the study and see what benefits might accrue to us and also what the benefits to the whole (a new, amalgamated municipality for Dundas) would be."

One scenario being discussed locally is that Dundas's eight municipalities amalgamate into one, with a population of about 20,000. But the province is not setting any guidelines as far as target populations for newly amalgamated municipalities in recognizance of the province's diverse demography.

Cook said most of the municipal people with whom he spoke at the conference agreed some measure, even as radical as municipal amalgamation, is necessary.

"I think the general consensus is that something has to be done to reduce debt at the federal and provincial levels, and if municipal people can be part of the solution, then they're quite prepared to do their part," Cook said. "But they want to have time to study it."

OPSEU members strike in eastern Ontario

"As long as you have all of your documentation, we can still extend licences and still get stickers," says clerk Lee Johns. Of course, the office has been swamped with calls since the news of the strike hit the community.

The driver examination staff of three is striking, although there hasn't been anyone picketing outside of the Winchester office by Tuesday.

Local schools, both public and separate, will not be directly affected by the strike, as none of their employees are OPSEU members. But SD&G Public School Board director of education Jim Dilamarter said his greatest concern was a snowstorm coming Tuesday night, with reagrd to plowing.

Dilamarter also said the Ottawa and Toronto offices of the Ministry of Education and Training are mostly OPSEU staffed, which will mean communicating with the Ministry will be difficult, as well as with probation officers, who are also striking. But he said that should not have too great an affect on school operations.

St. Lawrence Parks workers are among those who are striking, as are provincial meat inspectors.

Barry Sullivan is hoping the strike will be settled soon. Owner of Barry's Meats in Chesterville, he stands to lose 30 per cent of his business and may have to lay off two workers.

Because provincial meat inspectors are striking OPSEU members, he'll lose the custom cutting end of his business, which is about 30 per cent of his operation. Meat animals killed at local slaughterhouses must be provincially inspected before they are cut for the customer.

"If I don't have that extra cutting, that means I don't need the extra guys, so I lay two meat cutters off. It's as simple as that," Sullivan said Tuesday. "A farmer phoned me yesterday (for custom cutting) and I couldn't take him."

Sullivan can still get meats for sale from Quebec or other provinces. But he sympathizes with slaughterhouse owers. "If they (strikers) go out over a week, I can see every slaughterhouse in eastern Ontario closing their doors."

That kind of place...

Persistence pays off, so the saying goes. And there's no better example than the agreement between Canada Post and the people of Avonmore.

The agreement, based on a proposal from the community, will return full postal services to Avonmore, thanks to a renovation, a high-tech vending machine and a lot of groundwork by the community and a lot of creativity.

Having full postal services in one's own place of residence is something many of us take for granted. In Avonmore, when those services were taken away, it sparked the community into action. They rallied, creatively, but more importantly, they persisted.

And today they are celebrating the return of full postal services. It will be in the form of a self-service centre, but that's a compromise they are glad to accept. The friendly smile of the postmaster may not be returning, but alas, maybe that's a sign of the times more than anything else.

Avonmore is that kind of place. Chalk one up for rural Canadians.

But sadly, this piece of good news is not the only story that comes out of Avonmore this week. The Carroll family reportedly lost everything when their house was destroyed by fire early Saturday. They escaped, literally, with the clothes on their backs.

There has been an alarming rash of house fires since Christmas day in eastern Ontario, each one a tragedy of its own. But in almost each case, those who were left homeless or uprooted were reported to have been overwhelmed by support from family, friends and the community.

And reports are that the Carrolls have been approached with offers of assistance from the community as well.

When asked whether some form of benefit was being scheduled for the Carrolls, one Avonmore resident said he hadn't heard of anything yet — but said he was certain that one will be organized.

"Avonmore is that kind of place."

The restorative powers of roast beef

By Robin Morris
Dietary Editor

When Mighty Roast Beef was the Englishman's food,
It ennobled our veins and enriched our blood.
Our soldiers were strong and our courtiers good.
Oh, the Roast Beef of Olde England,
And Old English Roast Beef.
But now we have learned from all-conquering France,
To eat their ragouts as well as to dance.
We're fed up on nothing but vain complaisance.
Oh, the Roast Beef of Olde England,
And Old English Roast Beef.

This was the song used to call British troops to their meals for close to 200 years and it is still played in some messes in an army where traditions die hard.

But roast beef has been getting a bad rep of late, what with the cholesterol scare foisted on us by the edible oil industry and their pals in the vegetarian movement who, if they had their way, would have had the British army marching to the Lean Cuisine ad jingle.

You've heard all the arguments: red meat contributes to heart disease; animal protein clogs the arteries and increases the chance of stroke. It's a red meat. It's aggressive. It's fattening. Animals raised for their meat consume more protein than they provide and consequently contribute to world hunger. And yet, at a time when the British army was conquering the world, its soldiers were fed almost exclusively on a diet of beef. Over a pound a day. Three hundred and sixty-four days a year (generous officers would usually provide turkey or goose for the Christmas Day meal). And the army that girdled the world was known as the Thin Red Line, not the Corpulent Crimson Commandoes or the Pinkish Porcine Platoon.

On the homefront, the Sunday joint was the highlight of the week. At least it was at our house, where every Sunday night a giant sirloin tip roast, done to a perfect medium rare and accompanied by Yorkshire puddings, oven roasted potatoes, carrots, onions and pan-dripping gravy was served up. (And it's no concidence that this noblest of cuts of meat is known as Sir Loin and those regions fortunate enought to be part of the British Empire were displayed on the map of the world in the same shade of pink as a nicely done roast.)

The scare tactics were the same ones used against the dairy industry until it was discovered that the presence of trans-fatty acids in edible oil products were more harmful than their dairy counterparts and the presence of natural types of cholesterol in dairy foods were actually beneficial in keeping arteries clear.

Now Agriculture Canada looks as if it might be able to come to the aid of the beef industry in the same way that Harvard University scientists stepped into the breach to aid the dairy industry.

A nutritional scientist at an AgCan research station in Alberta (the province that is also home to k.d. lang, who has never recorded Roast Beef for Olde England) is sure he has discovered the presence of an anti-carcinogen in beef fat. Yessirreebob. Beef fat. Not McDonald's McLean burgers but real live beef fat (well, real dead beef fat since it's hard to get the animal to stop kicking long enough to study the live stuff).

Interviewed on CBC Radio's As It Happens Monday night, Zahir Mir said the presence of the anti-carcinogens was first detected in ground meat in 1983.

Through one of those mysteries of nature (similar to the workings of Bill Clennett's brain), the anti-carcinogen somehow manages to migrate from the bacteria contained in a cow's rumen (one of its four stomachs and the one that holds the cud, which can be regurgitated to provide a tasty between-meals snack without ruining its appetitie for supper) and is absorbed into the meat.

According to Zahir, it is contained in a fatty acid known as Conjugated Linear Acid - at least that's what I think he said, since I was taking notes for this piece while driving down the 401 at 110, a notebook balanced in my lap and a coffee in one hand, a smoke in the other, but hey, whoever would accuse this writer of taking undue safety precautions when it comes to the elucidation of his Gentle Readers. For that matter, who would ever accuse him of undue concern for accuracy?

So anyway, I kind of got down a thumbnail sketch of what he said, what with the traffic and all. And I'm sure he said conjugated, although for the life of me I can't figure out how he got conjugated into a discussion on biology since the last thing I conjugated was verbs in high school Latin (am I giving away my age here?).

Were you forced to take Latin? Or did you learn more useful things, like how to make out a deposit slip? Anyway, three years of studying Caesar's Conquest of the Gauls and Pliny the Younger's speeches have left me with the ability to conjugate only one Latin verb, so here goes: po, pis, pit, pimus, pistis, pants. Who says you don't learn anything in high school? My buddy Walt took Latin for more than double that length of time and can remember only one phrase: iter facere. For 25 years he's been trying to work it into a sentence but there exist today few if any occasions when "let's make a forced march" work their way into everyday conversation.

But I digress (from the Latin digredi, apart).

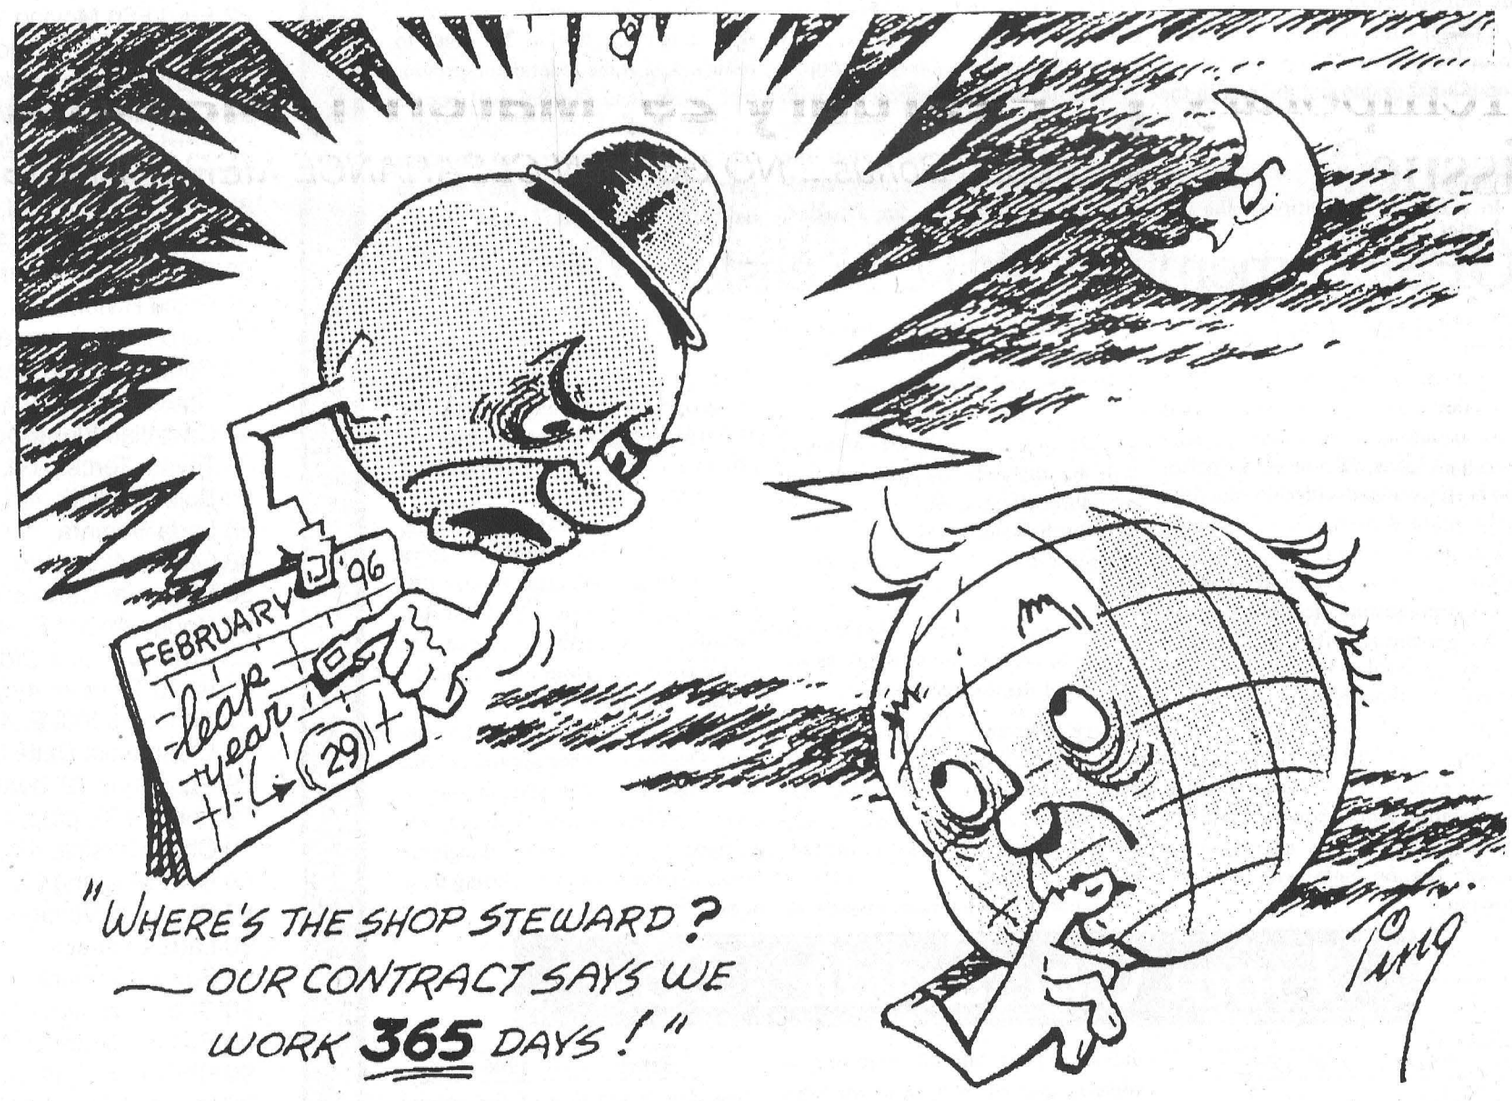
Back to Zahir Mir. He was surprised to discover the presence of the anti-carcinogen in animal fat since it is usually only found in vegetable matter. (Like broccoli, which can keep you alive but leave you bored to death.)

His research so far has centred on feeding beef from western cornfed cattle to laboratory rats and mice, which have shown a marked resistance to contracting skin cancer even when it is induced by guys in white coats doing controlled laboratory kinds of stuff, like taking them to Florida and making them sit all day on a beach without number 32 sunblock. Next he's going to concentrate on hayfed eastern cattle and will study beef breed by breed, starting with the British and continental breeds and then moving on to a particularly fatty Japanese breed.

He figures he'll be finished his research in about two years, by which time I hope to be able to find the hole in the ozone layer, slather myself with pan drippings and roast myself to a nice medium well.

Stick a fork in me when I'm done.



THE FARMER'S WIFE'S

By Wyn Thompson

Cabin fever. It usually attacks me about February's end about the time I've been stuck in the house for a couple of weeks with a wretched cold.

Finally comes a day of brilliant sun and no sniffles of any note. Gingerly, I go forth and am confronted by such fresh air as I'd forgotten could exist.

Behind me is the hot, cloying atmosphere of the house. I will have to use skis for my getaway. I fumble with the now unfamiliar bindings. My feet seek out the broken trail of the snowmobile. How interesting to think that below the snow-skimming skis waits the world that soon will be spring.

At the edge of the woods, I stop. Breathless I prop my back against an old maple and look far to the east through branches soon to be leafed and hiding distant vistas.

In a couple of weeks, I'd forgotten the quiet of winter and the fact that the country feels like your own private domain in the dying days of February.

Wow, I'm back in the out-of-doors which I enjoy. However, I decide not to overdue it the first day out.

The house is welcoming when I return, the cup of tea refreshing and I notice that tomorrow is the 29th day of the month...my sister's birthday.

Yes, she was born in a leap year and thanks to Julius Caesar and his fiddling about with the calendar we have: Once every four years an extra day drift down from the heavens.

Though the day itself is to resynchronize earth time with cosmic time, there has always been something giddy and gay about a year with 366 days.

Although the reason is lost in antiquity, for centuries leap year has supposedly given the women the chance to speak their love, rather than wait to be spoken to.

Tradition holds that on this year a woman could safely propose marriage. In fact, it was legal. In Scotland, back in 1288, a man who declined a lady's proposal would be fined...unless he was betrothed.

Then came the Victorians who turned Leap year into yet another excuse for having a party...one to which the ladies invited the men. Considering the restrictions on women's freedom in the Victorian era, this privilege was really quite amazing.

Yes, it was my sister's birthday and although she has been dead for some ten years, good memories remain! She loved roses and I never see a rose but I think of her. "In the garden mystery glows
The secret is hidden in the rose." -Farid ud-Din Attar (1119-1230)

This winter, we have had some untypical snowstorms. The snow did not simply fall and then when it was ready stop. They have tagged on an afterword which, after dropping their snow, finish up by raining for a couple of hours.

I hate weather that has not the courage to do its work and leave, but must back out the door with a sniffling drizzle. Such devious storms have no character.

Such a storm is usually followed by a hard freeze which leaves us with an unwelcome sight in the morning. There will be a crust with a high ceramic glaze and the toughness of marble.

It's the most impossible gift that nature can give. You can't walk on it because it's too slippery; you have to punch your heel in the ice in order to go anywhere. Walking on one's heels is entirely unsatisfactory. A trip to the mailbox is an Artic ordeal.

For Cat following behind, it is a puzzle. He slips, scrabbles, then glides grandly for ten or so feet. He hits the brakes and loses it, clawing at the glassy surface, then stands mesmerized until I return.

He repeats the performance and finally reaches the garage door, through which he shoots with great vigor. He will not likely be an in-and-out cat today.

I always make bread on a cold day, and there are so many recipes loose in the world today that you can have a picnic trying two or three of them.

Amanda, my neighbor, says that I don't truly make bread...I simply fire up another machine. She is a purist who kneads and kneads and kneads...And, her bread is delicious but, mine will do just fine, I decide, as I smell the aroma of baking bread, an aroma like no other.

You may not think of making a dessert for months on end, but come that frigid February day, you discover you simply must have something sweet.

With the fire burning on the hearth, the oven warming, you peel and stir for most of the morning. Even the birds, eating crazily at the feeders, makes you feel as virtuous as the woman in Proverbs who "looketh well to the ways of her household and eateth not the bread of idleness".

I recall that February can be tricky. You think you are snug and happy and self-sufficient in your country setting. Then the power, always subject to sudden death from ice-freighted lines goes off.

There you are, the last pie thankfully almost cooked, the furnace slipping into a coma, and every pot and pan and spoon in the house dirty, and the water's off.

I remember gratefully that if I keep the fire in the fireplace alive, I can heat the soup pot on it for the next meal. And we have pie and a fresh loaf of bread.

I listen to a log settle on the hearth, an icy cedar bough scratch the window and think that there is nothing more you need, not for a few hours at least.

News from NDDHS by Kathy Casselman Co-op Student

The halls of North Dundas will be buzzing with excitement in the next couple of months, and it definitely seems like the place to be if you like to act and have a sense of adventure.

Within the next few months, (actually since October), Terry Green along with many other teachers and students will be rocking the halls of North Dundas, this time to the sound of the broadway show The Little Shop of Horrors.

Originally wanting to tackle the hit movie Grease, Green was looking for something a little more challenging than the school's previous musical, You're a Good Man Charlie Brown.

For those who are unfamiliar with the musical The Little Shop of Horrors, it was taken from a extremely bad and very cheap horror movie in 1960 about a flesh-eating plant.

Green, being the main person in charge, has over 100 students and teachers to organize before the big day on May 7.

The production boasts a cast of 12, not to mention the crews for the lights, sound, props, and make- up. Although some of the props were bought from other schools who had also done the play, most of the set is to be made by the school's students and teachers. Already many students are doing their part by helping out with building and painting the set.

There will be eight performances running from May 7 to May 12 along with matinees for high school students and also elementary students from grade five and up.

******

For 13 students who have more of a sense of adventure they will be taking part in a trip to Ecuador with Mike Moore, a chemistry teacher at North Dundas.

The trip will be 13 days, they leave on March 8 and return on March 17.

After travelling for 13 hours, their agenda includes a visit to the capital, up in the Andes they plan to visit the small village of Otavalo, then they also plan to stay six days in the Amazon rainforest.

From this trip, Moore is hoping to provide the students with a viewpoint of different culture.

Personal choice was the main reason for going to Ecuador, along with the fact that it seemed to be the cheapest place to go, it is beautiful, and there is also a wide variety of wildlife.

Hoping this trip is a success, Moore is looking forward to planning more trips in the future.

The gym at North Dundas was filled with noise, people, and music Friday, Feb. 23 as Sights and Sounds hosted another great dance.

******

The month of March is just around the corner which also means to all students — MARCH BREAK!!!

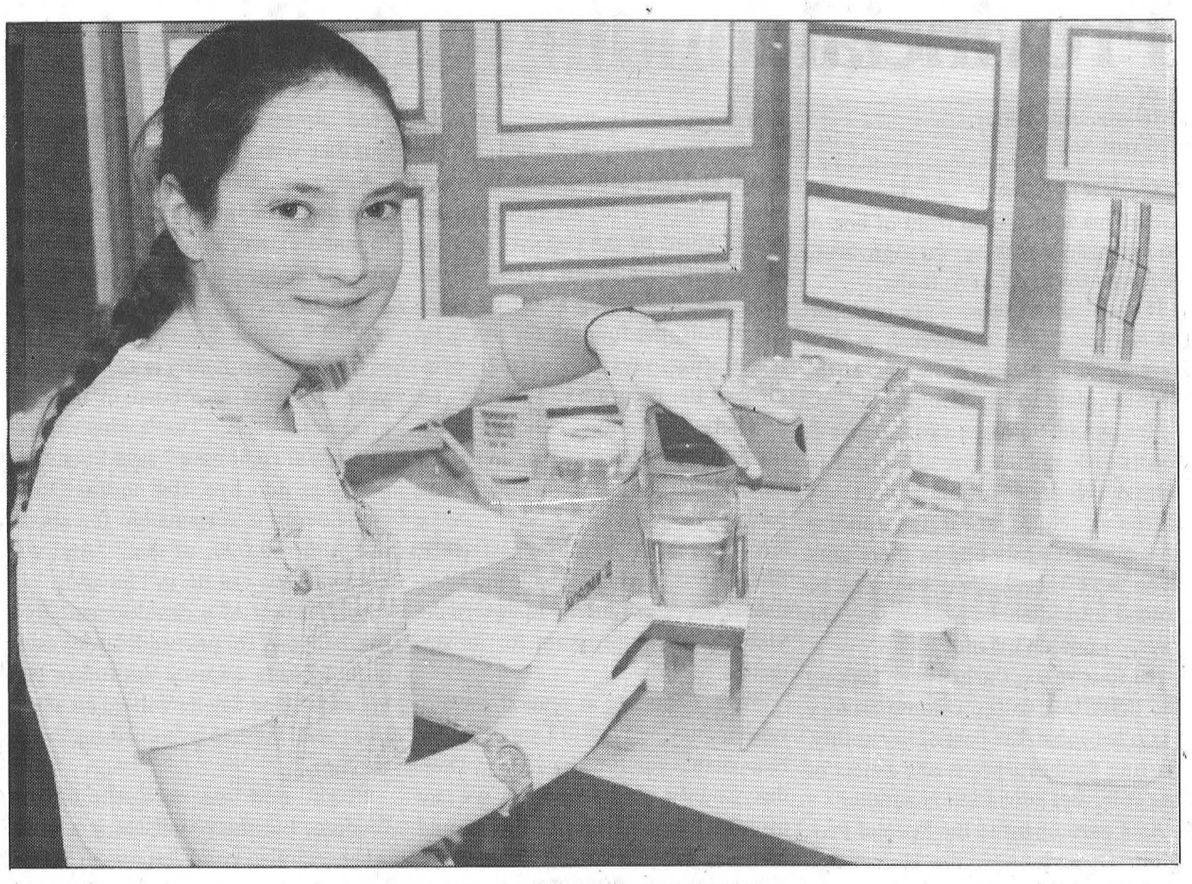
Aside from vacation to look forward to there are other things lined up.

On March 6 there will be a blood-donor clinic at North Dundas District High School at 2:00 p.m. - 4:30 p.m. and another at 6:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.

Also, on Feb. 22, the Harlem Diplomats have been booked to play against the school's teams. Tickets will be sold to students who will then be excused from their classes. It is sure to be a blast.

******

The school's peer helpers have begun preparations for the 30-hour famine. The students will be spending the night at the school and during the 30 hours, there will be games, music, and movies to pass the time. There are about 60 students who have signed up for the event and out of those, only participants with a minimum of a $10 pledge will sleep over.



To the future

Shona Dustan, a grade six student at Morewood Public School placed first in her class at the school's annual science fair last week. Placing second and third were Verena and Ricky Murphy and Jenny Van Gurp. Grade five winners were; Adrian Maler, Adam Schoones and Josh Ennis and Angela Meier. Science fairs throughout the area have been stimulating imagination and independent thinking along with increasing knowledge in many scientific areas. Training in organization and completion of major tasks have also been emphasized. As well, it has provided with hundreds with an opportunity to enjoy science.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Temporary issue?

Letter to the editor:

It's Income Tax Time again. It's not new; it goes back to 1917 when a temporary Income War Tax was introduced, but it has never been abolished.

As farmers struggle today with their complicated accounting systems, let's look back to 1920 when a Winchester Township farmer (I'll call him John) filed his return. It is surprisingly detailed, but I will give only a summary.

John is 53, married, with two teenagers still at home, and an aging grandparent. John had inherited his 100-acre farm (two-thirds now under cultivation) from his father, but he has been burdened with mortgages for many years. He had six work horses and thirty dairy cattle.

Income Potatoes, 20 bags for $10; Poultry, 100 lbs for $36; Cattle for beef, 2 for $164; Eggs, 110 dozen for $38; Milk 183, 500 lbs for $5104; Products consumed on farm $25. Total Income from farm $5378.

Expenses claimed as deductions Seed, 205 lbs for $161; Feed for stock, $1000; Binder twine, 150 lbs for $42; Repairs to machinery $150; Repairs to fences $140; Repairs to barns $25; Fuel and oil $50; Insurance $50; Interest on mortgage $144; Taxes $140; Threshing $95; Hired help, including board $1338; Well drilling, including board $680; Depreciation on barns $300; Depreciation on horses $75; Depreciation on machinery $330. Total Expenses $5040.

Adding a statutory exemption of $1000 (or $2000). John had to pay no income tax.

Among the details given, is information on the age and cost of buildings, the wages of farm help, and a lengthy list of machinery, from a grain binder to a stone boat. For example: Cow barn (built 1903) cost $3000; Machine shed and hen house (1915) $775; Silo (1918) $475; Horse barn (1903) $1200; Dairy building (1921) $200; Six horses $850; Machinery $2016.

Keep in mind that Canada was still in a post-war depression in the early 1920's, and that the purchasing power of a dollar was many times what it is today.

Provincial funding cuts threaten future of SPOKES program

Melissa Batchilder
Record Staff

MORRISBURG — Caroline Geertsma is sitting in front of box of toothbrushes sorting through them for ones that may have faults.

If she finds a grease mark or defect of any kind, the toothbrush is then sent back to plastic moldings at the Odonto plant in Morrisburg.

Her white uniform and hairnet is standard issue for all Odonto employees and Caroline's isn't any different. However, if the funding that allows Caroline to be there until June isn't raised, then she may be forced into idleness; something, she says, "I couldn't stand."

For four years, she has been making the daily trek to the Odonto factory to do her job to the best of her ability. Sorting toothbrushes is one aspect of her role, but education is another.

As a participant in the Special Program Opportunities for Knowledge and the Educational System, Caroline is one of five developmentally challenged adults working at the Odonto factory.

However, a funding shortfall has cast a dark shadow over the future of the program and its aim to provide a program of numeracy, literacy, technical, social and pre-employment skills to developmentally challenged students over the age of 21.

"I like it here," says Caroline, "because it gives me something to do during the day. I like the daily routine." It was her social worker, she explains, who put her onto the program a few years ago.

"It keeps me busy until I can find a job." As Caroline tosses a toothbrush back into the box, she adds, "I need to stay here until I get something full-time." With her abilities, she supposes, the opportunities might be limited.

Odonto is one of five work-sites in SD&G that participates in the program. Because the SD&G Public School Board felt strongly that there was a real need in the community to provide programming for people beyond the age of 21, SPOKES was developed.

The Ministry of Education and Training has mandated school boards to provide education for developmentally challenged adults up until that age.

The only costs that have been generated by this program are salaries for the instructors. All other costs have been absorbed by the board and the participating industrial sites. The rest of the program has been funded by the Ontario Training and Adjustment Board, OTAB. However, due to funding at OTAB being cut in half, the funding for SPOKES is suffering, says Doug Jarvis, principal of the program.

"There are serious concerns as to the future of this agency in lieu of the current series of government cutbacks," he adds.

As a result of this shortfall, SPOKES is currently exploring alternate sources of funding to ensure the viability of the program for its students.

"We are looking at several ways to raise money," says Bill Lyons, who is responsible for fund-raising in Dundas County. "Any support we are offered from the community would be greatly appreciated."

Currently, the SPOKES program is jointly supported by the SD&G Public School Board, the TR Leger Alternative School, the Kinsmen School and in this area, Odonto.

Joan Vickers is the instructor at the Odonto site. Four days a week she plays a pro-active role in ensuring each of her five client's needs are met as well of the needs of the Odonto factory.

"It gives these people a reason to get up each morning," she says as she looks at the five clients sitting before her in the lunch room. "It's good for their self-esteem and it would be a tragedy if the program were to cease because of tough times." It's one of the few programs available to integrate developmentally challenged adults into the working community.

"The most important link here," she adds, "is that of the industrial site." Clients come here from throughout Dundas County and "without Odonto, we couldn't exist."

Transportation to the program is the first priority everyday, she explains. "Then we do three hours of literacy and two-and-a-half hours of work."

During the literacy aspects, clients participate in a variety of activities to their academic and social skills.

Steven Doecburg is busy at the table studying a newspaper. He virtually refuses to put it down as he reads an interesting article. "Newspaper reporting is very important because they get to see people they know and read stories about issues they are familiar with."

Although their involvement in the manufacturing at Odonto is separate to some extent, adds Vickers, "they are certainly involved in the social events here."

What it comes down to, agree Vickers, Jarvis and Lyons is that for this year, $45,000 is needed to take to program to June. "That's what we are looking at right now," says Lyons.

Broken into five, that means Dundas County is responsible for about one-fifth, $9,000, of that. "And we hope that we can do it," he adds.

As a parent of a developmentally-handicapped 16- year-old, Lyons says he is looking towards the future for his son. "One day he will be an adult and I want there to be something there for him."

"Right now we need short-term funding, but there will come a time when we also need long-term funding." As treasurer of the SPOKES support committee, Lyons is also hoping to form a sub-committee in Dundas County.

"We're in the process of getting a charitable organization set up to accept contributions," says Lyons. "We've already received a substantial amount towards our goal, but if we don't come up with more than we won't make it until June," he adds.

Overall, the program requires $90,000 a year for five instructor salaries, but for now the goal is June.

"Their jobs at Odonto and the other work-sites are very significant," says Vickers.

Lyons commends the school for having done "a tremendous job." So does Caroline.

As a native of Dunbar, she now lives in Morrisburg and is extremely positive about her life. "People from Odonto come up to me on the street ask me if I'm the one they work with. It's really good here."

The main goal of the SPOKES program is to assist clients in making a successful transition from school to the work environment. The purpose is not to provide a salary or employment, but to provide the client with the opportunity acquire the academic, life, social and work skills necessary to progress to a job training program or to the world of work.

Unless the funding is raised, says Lyons, the opportunity will be lost. Caroline's opportunity will be lost.

Bluegrass sounds to fill the air

MOREWOOD —The strumming of bluegrass instruments will fill the air at the Morewood Recreation Association Hall March 2.

Morewood's first-ever "Bluegrass Jamboree" will hit the stage at 2 p.m. for an event featuring two of this area's up and coming bluegrass bands.

Along with Echo Mountain and Upper Loft, the Whites from Gananoque and Roma McMillan will delight a crowd expected to peak at 250.

Organizer Roger McMillan said the idea was developed initially to introduce his daughter's new bluegrass band, Upper Loft. "When interest was expressed, the plans took off."

Bluegrass music is "coming back strong" says McMillan, whose mother, Roma, is a legend throughout eastern Ontario for her fine fiddle playing abilities. Now in her 80s, "she's still on the road all the time," doing what she loves best.

It will be three generations of bluegrass tradition for the McMillans, all under one roof.

Bluegrass is a combination of "down-to-earth" instruments and music which has survived generations.

"There's no amplification of instruments, except for microphones when needed," says McMillan, "and it's a kind of music that makes you want to join in."

Those attending will have the opportunity to do just that when a jam session is held for all musicians afterwards.

"It will be a great day with lots of great music," he adds, "as well it's a great time to get an introduction, for those who have never listened to bluegrass."

Of course, those who are "old-time country" fans won't want to miss it either. "It's the kind of music people of my generation are used to, but the younger ones may not be."

At 5 p.m. a light supper will be served, followed by the evening jam session, "so bring your instruments."

Tickets are $10 at the door and $9 in advance and can be purchased from McMillan at 448-3872. The event is being sponsored by the Morewood Recreation Association.

Book fair draws children's author

MOREWOOD — Students from Morewood Public School took a trip to Rabbit Heaven last Wednesday.

Dozens of students had the opportunity to meet and speak to author Jane Adlard when she showed up at the student's annual book fair.

Adlard, a children's education consultant, spoke to students about her first book, Rabbit Heaven.

"It's a sensitive story about the life and death of a pet," she explained, "inspired by my three- year-old daughter Chelsea-Dawn."

Whether a child is searching for vowels, unscrambling sentences, enhancing illustrations with pencil crayons, baking rhubarb cake or just enjoying the story, she says, Rabbit Heaven will become a family treasure.

Adlard was born in North Bay and taught in the elementary school system for 25 years. With specialist training in early childhood education, music, reading and English as a second language, Adlard says she has "absorbed the emotions" of children for decades.

As a result, she adds, she has been able to combine her efforts in her first publication.

The story details her own family's experience with the loss of its pet rabbit and the grieving process endured. Because many children's first experience with death is with a family pet, the story is poignant.

"It allows children to express their own feelings in the book as well," through graphics, coloring and other art forms.

Adlard lives with her husband and two children in Russell, "where I enjoy a life in the country in a natural habitat that welcomes creatures of the forest."

Currently she is working out of her home as an Independent Educational Consultant promoting positive relations with parents and teachers.

Rabbit Heaven is illustrated by Heather Dickinson, who combines her two main interests of animals and art in this publication.

Reflections

One of Chesterville's great cattlemen, Harold W. Merkley

Melissa Batchilder
Record Staff

A handshake can often tell many things about a person. Its tenderness can indicate compassion. Its warmth can indicate charm.

If that's the case, then Harold W. Merkley must be well-known for both of those. That of course is in addition to his decades of having been one of Chesterville's prize-winning cattlemen.

Ah, it's the latter that makes one's ears perk up. Harold W. Merkley, the cattleman and farmer.

He muffles a chortle as he sits in a straight chair next to his bed in his room at the Maxville Manor. It's a gray, bleak day outside, so Harold figures he isn't missing much. Although later on, he'll step out onto the stone walkway to see for himself.

Having spent the afternoon visiting with his daughter Cathy, his spirits are high. "I've been really busy. I haven't even had a chance to read the paper yet."

Of course reading the newspaper is high on his list of weekly priorities. "I don't like to miss anything that's going on in Chesterville."

Harold spent most of his life near the village, known by his middle initial...Harold W. Merkley. "There were four Harold Merkleys in Chesterville so all had to use their middle initial."

December saw the passing of his 85th birthday and with it the memories of a well spent life.

For decades Harold farmed "Chesterlea Farm" just outside of Chesterville on the Nation Valley Road. "My father and my brothers and I owned 100 acres there."

As well, he adds, "my father owned a music store in Chesterville," where the Snack Shack is now located. "He sold gramophones and instruments there." Tragically though, his father, Marshall, was killed when his horse, that was transporting a piano, got scared and both went over the bank of the South Nation River.

Harold married Irene Brown, a teacher from South Mountain, in 1946. This August they will be celebrating 50 years of marriage. Again Harold chuckles, "we dated for seven years before we got married." In those days it was customary for the son remaining on the farm to stay with his mother. "I figured two women in the house would be hard to live with." However, he credits most of his happiness and success to his wife.

As Harold turns the pages of a scrapbook filled with his awards for cattle and clippings of his success, he stops to point at photos of different cows.

For decades Harold W. Merkley was a well-known cattleman in the Chesterville area and throughout the province. Although he now resides at the Maxville Manor, he doesn't miss much thanks to local newspapers and magazines. Here he spends some time looking through a scrapbook with his daughter, Cathy. Although she now lives in Ottawa, Cathy makes it to Maxville often.

"That's Cindy in this one."

A farmer can have cattle for just milking or he can have them registered and graded. Harold enjoyed the latter.

"Dad was always a wheeler and dealer," chimes Cathy, who is seated near him.

With up to 60 cattle, he had at least seven cows graded "excellent" and two of them sold at the Sale of Stars in Toronto. His most famous cows of course, he adds, were Chesterlea Treasure Shella and Cindy, who were full sisters and Chesterlea Lochinvar Beauty and Lola, who were also full sisters.

Harold also remembers an instance at the Chesterville Fair. With a class of 40 being judged at the Black and White Show, he thought the judge wasn't paying any attention to his full sisters who were graded excellent. "I couldn't figure what was going on but at the end of the class, the judge motioned for the sisters as first and second. I didn't think he had even noticed them."

Along with the local fair, Harold and his entries were well-known at the Ottawa Exhibition and the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Cattle sales were always an exciting time for the retired farmer. "I sold many calves at Stormont-Dundas and Eastern Ontario Holstein calf sales." Buyers were mostly 4-H members, he explains. In three consecutive years, the calves which have normally be sold in the sale were 4-H calves that belonged to Cathy, who belonged to the Winchester/Chesterville 4-H Calf Club and the Dundas Veterinary Club.

One of his proudest moments was seeing Cathy win the top prize at both Chesterville and South Mountain fairs. This qualified her for the Ottawa Winter Fair with her second 4-H calf, Chesterlea Perseus Perley. Perley was later sold to a large dairy farm from New Brunswick.

Another one of his favorite memories was when Cathy unexpectedly won the Ralph Allison Trophy at the wrap-up awards of her first year in the 4-H Calf Club for her excellent record keeping book.

"Over the years I've sold calves to Frank Ryan, husband of Charolotte Whitton and I've sold cattle to Harry Leiken."

Harold's gentle manner continues throughout the conversation. As he turns each page of the scrapbook, a fresh memory surfaces. Pointing to a copy of the Holstein Journal, he muses. "I took my most recent copy of this on my honeymoon."

To have a prize-winner, Harold says, "it has to have a straight back, a good udder and fine bones." His photos indicate several of his cows had just that.

"Some cows can sell for $100,000 you know, if it's a good cow," he adds.

Harold remembers his earlier days when times were a bit more tough. "I used to drive into the market in Ottawa and sell chickens and whatnot to make extra money."

He also recalls the joys that came from skating and playing hockey on local fields with "an artificial puck."

Over the years he served as president of the Dundas Holstein Breeders Club, director of the Chesterville and District Agricultural Society, steward and member of Trinity United Church, member of the Chesterville Senior's Club and member of the Hy-Shy-Ny Senior Citizens Band.

Again Harold laughs as he admits, "I only played the triangle but it was a lot of fun."

When the time came after three decades of raising cattle to sell his stock, Harold remembers the three-decker truck that came to take his 60 cattle away to Guelph. It was the end of an era for him.

He would then shut his trunk full of ribbons as a permanent collection.

Looking over the top of his glasses, Harold explains, there wasn't much for him to do after that, so he started his own antique machinery business. "I would buy an old piece of equipment and refinish it." The equipment would then be sold to the Mennonites in southern Ontario. It kept him busy.

Of course to know Harold, one must also be well aware of his passion for the Toronto Maple Leafs. "Oh I watch them all the time. Now there is a game on tonight, but it's not the Leafs."

Rising from his chair, Harold begins his walk back to the lobby. As he passes rooms, he waves to other tenants and speaks to nurses. "This is a grand place," he says of Maxville Manor.

Harold's presence just enhances it.

Melissa! — by Melissa Batchilder

Stop! Don't throw out that old chrome table. Hang on to your charm bracelet and embrace your mother's closet filled with polyester and gabardine. Tack is back according to Lee Anne from Chez Mercedes in Finch.

Having recently attended a "trend-setters" workshop, she swears that the coolest things in New York to possess now are the items you couldn't give away a year ago. Household items like chrome table sets, lava lamps, beaded curtains and orange carpet are on their way back. (And of course since the similarities between New York and Chesterville are obvious, it's important we take note of what's hip.)

I do realize that 60s clothing made its reappearance, but like oh gross, do we now have to endure velvet pictures of Elvis again? Wasn't once enough? I mean, I'm a metro-woman, not a retro- woman. I have taste. (Okay, so it's disputed by times, but I have a funky-cool leather coat, and that's in style I think.)

It's just so hard to keep up on things. When is the world gonna start keepin' up with me instead? Like just when is Vogue gonna say that havin' a lobster trap in the living room is trendy? When are k-cars gonna come back in style? When is it gonna be hip again to be a Neil Diamond or ABBA fan? Just when is the world gonna start following my lifestyle statements? When are people gonna start flocking to C-City cause it's a haven for funky-cool writin' chicks? When is karaoke gonna make a comeback? When will the day come when we, the cellulite-challenged will take over runways in Paris, New York and Milan?

Y'know, life can be tough when you have to constantly march to the beat of your own drummer and turn your back on what's cool and what's in. I don't do it on purpose though. It just seems that when black is in, I pick white. Why does everything always have to change? Why can't things stay the same? What was wrong with black and white television and crank phones? When will people feel free to walk around in their underwear? How do they make Cheerios? Think about that.

Now since I'm being so fillisophical, I thought I'd answer the Cheerios question. There I was Saturday morning staring at someone else's bowl of Cheerios, when the question just came to me. Just how are Cheerios made? Did ya ever wonder about things like that? Just the simple things. Why is grass green? How does the sound go through the telephone wires? And the all-time favorite, how do they get the caramel in the Caramilk bar? That one's simple, but the Cheerios one took a bit of research.

For the Caramilk bar, they obviously make it upside down and pour the caramel in and then coat it with a layer of chocolate. (Pretty cool eh? Who would have ever thunk that the secret to the Caramilk bar was discovered right here in Chesterville. You can tell your grandchildren that you read it first here.)

But the Cheerios, well I just couldn't figure that one out on my own, so I called on my source of useless information and he struggled with it as well. So off I trotted to Mikey Dean's and copied the General Foods number off a box of Cheerios. (See, I don't really need to get a life.) I phoned them and they told me that the process was actually quite simple. What it comes down to is that they're made like donuts. Cool eh?

******

And just who has my $10. That's right. Someone is $10 richer because of a hole in my pocket. I mean I don't mind if I'm a few cents short at the check-out. The person behind ya in the line-up usually feels sorry for ya and just gives it to ya. Ya always say you'll give it back, but ya never do cause ya probably don't know the person and will never see them again anyway. But, ya say that to be nice and so people won't think yer a begger.

Anyways, it was Thursday night that I was out doin' my shoppin' at the Loonie store. Then I crossed the street to Mike Dean's where Chris LaFlamme probably marked it on a secret chart, that this is the fourth time he has seen me buying real groceries since December.

I get my banannies and then I get my one per cent milk, (I'm so health conscious) then I go to the free bulk candy section, (that stuff is free isn't it? Oh, like you never took a piece of candy and pretended to put a dime in the box,) and then I get my Swiss cheese, (I think it's less calories cause of the holes in it) and then I go to the cashier.

Nice little Julie rings my stuff up and lets me run a few items over the radar thingy, cause I like to do that, and then I reach in my pocket and pull out $2 and that's it. Like, what did I ever do to deserve this? Why must I suffer the indignities and humiliation? Why couldn't the 10 people behind me in the line-up go through this? And then when I say, I must have lost my $10, all the people look at me as if to say, "yeah right." I can just tell they think I'm lying. Oh, it's scarey-bananas alright. Nervous breakdown at the check-out.

Julie tries to come to my rescue with a few coins from a left-over box at the cash and I pull the lint out of my pockets. Oh great, now I have $2.76 and some purse dirt to pay my bill. Thankfully, my pal was with me and she was able to come up with the rest while Julie and I sorted through change and the people behind me got restless.

And just what is the point of this story? I want to know who was lucky enough to find my buckaroonies. Like I don't want it back or anything. I just want to know that it went to a worthy cause. C'est lavie.

******

I'm glad you were all able to enjoy my worst column ever. Remember a few weeks ago when I wrote about lists. Well, I thought that was mighty interestin'. Apparently, the rest of the population aren't nearly as fascinated by lists as I am.

I spoke to mudder last night who informed me that if I can't find anything else to write about than it's time I moved on and got a real life as a street-cleaner.

What prompted this conversation was when I told her I got a new book of Canadian lists. Her response was, "if you write another bleepin' column about lists, then we're canceling our subscription." (Oh, and like they pay for it! Snarl. Snarl.)

So no more lists in my column, but if ya wanna read my real funky-hip-cool book, just call.

******

On a more serious note, I would like to take some time to acknowledge the SPOKES program which you can read about in this week's edition.

It's a program providing post-high school literacy, numerary and pre-employment education and training for the developmentally handicapped. Not often do I feel really strongly about some of the events I cover, but this one captured my interest and enthusiasm.

As adults functioning in an average world, we have the opportunity for copious amounts of training and further education. However, as a developmentally handicapped adult, the opportunities for furthering one's education usually stops at age 21. How unfair.

Nevertheless, this particular program has been able to step in for those over 21 and give them a shot at employment and life skills along with literacy and numerary education. Sadly, funding has been cut and if awareness and money isn't raised to keep this program alive, not only will participants lose, but we as a society will lose the benefit of working with some of our community's finest individuals.

Please take time to read the story and open your mind to another's needs. (That's right Mike Dean. Long live socialism and down with Mike Harris.)

******

Oh yeah, and congratulations to Newfoundland premier Brian Tobin for a fine showing in his recent election. Isn't he just some grand?!

Local pianists rise to first-class fame

CHESTERVILLE — The village is quickly growing another claim to fame... music.

After achieving first class honors standing in the 1995 Royal Conservatory of Music exams, Kristin Myers of Chesterville and Emily Exner of Winchester will be performing at the First Unitarian Church in Ottawa Mar. 1 at 4 p.m.

The Village Music Academy piano students auditioned for the yearly First Class Honors Recital of the Ontario Registered Teachers Association in Ottawa after being successful with their exams, says their

The Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto has designated Chesterville as an official exam centre for the village, Winchester and the surrounding area.

"Area students will no longer have to commute to Brockville, Cornwall and Ottawa to take their theory and practical exams," says John Hutchinson.

teacher John Hutchinson.

"It certainly reflects the talent and hard work of the young people in Chesterville and Winchester," he adds.

Academy owners and teachers John and Alicia Hutchinson, along with their students, have another reason to celebrate as well.

After "much hard work" the Hutchinsons were able to secure the Royal Conservatory presence in the village and John Hutchinson has been named the official exam representative.

Area teachers, parents and students are invited to call John or Alicia with any questions regarding upcoming examinations.

Both events are exciting for the area, says Alicia, as it is the first time in 40 years that such events have been able to happen here.

The Hutchinsons opened the Village Music Academy more than a year ago and since then their clientele has grown to more than 80 students.

Senior Devils surprise Panthers and Gaels to take SD&G title

Sandra Dillich
Record Staff

MAPLE RIDGE - The Senior Devils have laid claim to the SD&G championship title after defeating the number one seed Glengarry Gaels.

It was a quick trip to the top as the Devils handed the Gaels 15-8 and 15-7 losses.

"We played amazing and we did it very quickly," said North Dundas coach Patti Hall.

"I think we finally put it together. We both (NDDHS and Glengarry) had the same ability and it was going to be who could think quicker on the court and who wanted it more."

Although Hall only played her starters on Monday, the road to victory was a 12-person effort.

"It was all 12 of them who got us there yesterday but I just had to play who I knew could get the job done."

The Senior Devils head off to Casselman and EOSSAA tomorrow (Thurs. Feb., 29).

Senior Semis

When they win, they win big and when they lose they lose big.

"If we don't get the points at the beginning we get really down," said Hall following her squads semi-final defeat over the St. Joe's Panthers last Wednesday.

After serving up a 15-7 victory over the Panthers the Devils fell behind 8-0. The Devils rallied for two points to make it an 8-2 game but the Panthers were in control of the court and they took the 15- 2 decision.

"We just lost the momentum in the second. The key was that we served the first and second sets, so getting those first few points at the beginning was psychological for us," added Hall, "It was also psychological for St. Joe's because they seemed to fall apart too when we got a few points."

The Devils put it back together in the third and served, bumped, blocked and rallied to a 15-2 win and a chance for the SD&G title.

"We didn't have any big hits but played smart by placing it more that trying to nail it."

Junior Champs

The Junior North Dundas volleyball Devils dominated the visiting St. Joe's Panthers 15-5 and 15-3 in their semi-final contest last Wednesday.

"I'm thrilled with the outcome today," said coach Kelly Durant following her team's easy victory.

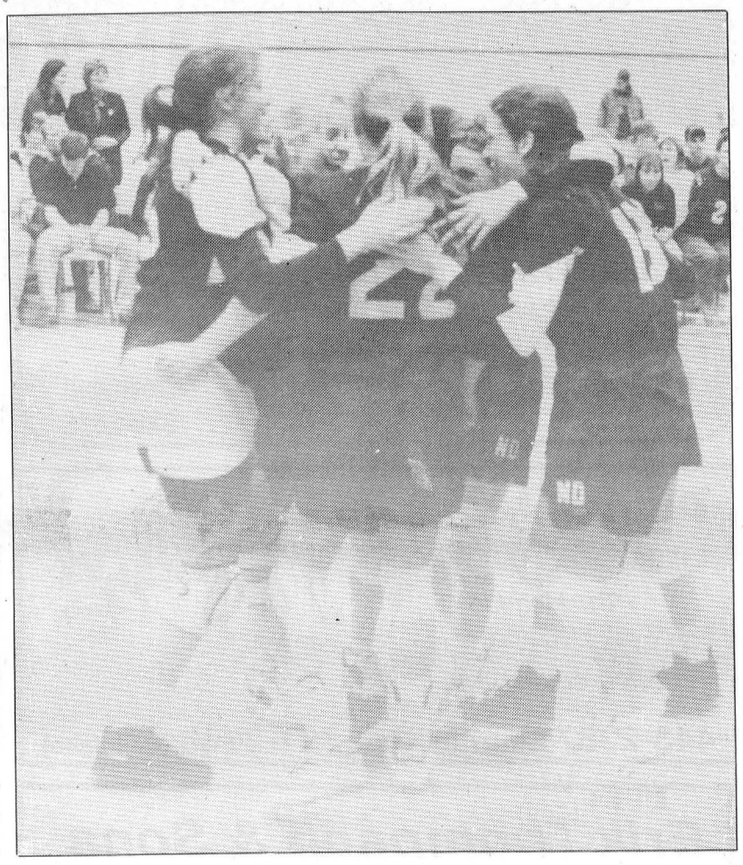
"St. Joe's definitely put on a good contest. The one thing they (St. Joe's) didn't get to do and we did, was set the ball up."

According to Durant, North Dundas could do no wrong on the court.

"They're doing everything right that they need to," noted Durant.

"Our spikes were working for us. They were doing a good job at anticipating and only a couple of kids missed serves who don't normally. So hopefully they got that out of their system."

The Devils take on the Gaels today at NDDHS.



The Senior Devils celebrate their win over the Panthers at the NDDHS gym last Wednesday. The team is in Casselman tomorrow for EOSSAA.

Moore beats Smith in shoot out for Stars' win

Sandra Dillich
Record Staff

FINCH - The Winchester Stars are shining bright after taking the 'A' title at the 2nd Annual Berwick Ol' Blades Tournament this weekend.

It came down to a shoot out but Keith Moore slipped one in under Chesterville Wolves goalie Craig Smith for the 8-7 victory and the championship.

Dolton Henry made it 1-0 for Winchester when he knocked back a solo shot.

Darrell Shelp made it 2-0 at the 8:25 marker when he fired in his first of four on the game. Shelp had a day's total of six.

Todd Marcellus put the Wolves on the board when he drilled in a Kent Young/Derek Holmes set up one minute later for a 2-1 game.

Holmes put two of his own into the Stars' twine for a 3-2 edge with 4:21 left in the second stanza. Marcellus (2) and Tug Mullins were also in on the action.

Young (unassisted) then knocked back his only goal of the game to give the Wolves a 4-2 lead.

Shelp kept the Stars within reach when he fired in a feed from John Guy at the 1:26 marker.

A pair from Shelp bracketed a Chris Williams single midway through the third to put the Stars up by two (6-4).

Robin Langille and Holmes fired in final round singles to knot the count at three-all, forcing a shoot out.

A Chesterville Wolves' defenceman ties up Chief while goalie Craig Smith keeps his eye on the action up the ice.

Winchester's John Guy and Chesterville's Todd Marcellus kept the count even at four. It was Winchester's Keith Moore who brought home the victory.

On their way to the championship bout the Stars downed Crysler 5-2 and Berwick 6-4.

Winchester and Berwick skated to a 1-1 game after one round but the Stars dominated the second and third rounds with 3-1 and 5-2 leads.

Darrell Shelp made it 1-0 for Winchester in the first. Mark Guy and Keith Moore made it 3-1 after two with their singles followed by one from Scott Barkley and another from Moore in the third for the win.

Drawing assists were Ray Sherrer (2), Mark Guy (2), Scott Barkley and Gary Klein-Swormink.

Ray Sherrer and Mark Guy hit doubles for the Stars when they took the 6-4 decision over Berwick.

Shelp fired in a single as did Moore.

Guy (2), Dolton Henry (2), Gary Klein-Swormink, Chris Williams and Mark Guy netted the helpers.

Wolves action

The Chesterville Wolves embarrassed the Chiefs 10- 1 and rocked the Shakey Shooters 7-6 in a shoot out on their way to the championship contest against the Stars.

Terry Barkley put the Shooters up 1-0 at the 5:00 mark of the first only to have the Wolves tie it up a minute later.

Tug Mullins was the second stanza shooter for the Wolves as he knocked back a pair to give Chesterville a 3-1 lead. Kent Young and Todd Marcellus were the helpers.

A third period rally by Terry Gove, from Bruce Barker, and Doug Armstrong, from Gove, made it a 3-3 game after three which forced the shoot out.

After going through their line-ups, it was Peter Elliott who had the loudest howl as he fired in the winner.

Derek Holmes, Todd Marcellus and Don Marcellus also scored for Chesterville in the shoot out.

Scoring for the Shooters were Doug Armstrong, Greg Kelly and Vince Cousineau.

Wildcats upset Beauties for tourney title

Sandra Dillich
Record Staff

FINCH - The Chesterville Wildcats upset Winchester's Double Beauty squad for the 'A' championship title at this year's Berwick Ol' Blades Tournament.

Roxanne Backes had an easy go of it Saturday night as her skaters played to a 5-1 victory over the Beauties.

Chesterville's Sharon McLeod got the scoring underway midway through the opening round when she wired in a feed from Donna MacGregor and Lise Derocher.

Amy Fraser caught Backes on the short side and retaliated at the 3:26 mark. But that was all the Beauties were going to get as the Wildcats roared on to victory.

Nancy Simpson, from Kelly Simpson, drilled in the Wildcats go-ahead goal (2-1) with 2:11 left in the period.

Simpson dumped in her second one at 12:28 of the second stanza to give the Cats a 3-1 edge. Sue Parsons and Carol Blais were also in on the play.

With 4:36 left in the period, Deroche knocked back the Wildcats fourth goal of the night when she finished off a feed from Blais.

Deroche finalized the score at five when she drilled in MacGregor's set up at 12:56 of the final round.

On their way to the championship round the Wildcats slipped past Annable's Jewellery 3-2 and took Andy's Food Town 3-1.

Sharon McLeod was once again first on the board for the Cats as she finished off a Blais/Durocher set-up for a 1-0 lead.

Val Robinson answered back for Food Town at the 11:48 marker of the second to make it a 1-1 game.

The third period belonged to Durocher of the Wildacts and netminder Roxanne Backes. Durocher fired in two to put the Wildcats' count up to three while Backes stopped all the rubber she could glove.

In their other contest, Deanna Criglietta lifted lumber three times which gave the Wildcats a 3-2 win over the Jewels.

Drawing assists on the Cats' win were Sharon McLeod (2), Kim Simms (2) and Carol Blais.

The Double Beauty crew blanked the Chesterville Panthers 3-0 and squeezed by Stewart's Trucking 3- 2 for their championship berth.

Nancy McDiarmid knocked back her only goal of the contest against the Truckers when she connected with Rhonda Winters and Linda Desseres at 6:12 of the first.

Debbie Leger knotted the count at 1-1 when she completed a Leanne Van Delst set up at the 3:01 mark.

Tanya Blais' second stanza single proved to the deciding goal as she gave her Beauties a 2-1 lead.

Winters and Stewart's Jenn McDonald exchanged third round goals but it was the Beauties who reined supreme with a 3-2 decision.

After playing to a scoreless first round against the Panthers, Blais broke the game open when she finished off a feed from Elaine McIntosh with 8:35 showing on the second round clock.

Amy Fraser made it 2-0 when she connected with Winters at the 3:51 marker. McDiarmid drove the last nail into the Panthers' coffin when she fired in a Linda Deserres feed with 5:18 left until the final buzzer for a 3-0 final.

Sherry Stewart posted the perfect performance in between the posts. It was the only shut out of the tournament.

'B' Pool

After dropping a 3-2 decision to the Beauties, Stewart's Trucking steam rolled onto the 'B' Pool finals by defeating the Country Girls 4-2 and Annable's Jewellery 3-2 in the final.

Debbie Leger put the Truckers up by one over the Jewels when she knocked back a Deanna Van Loon feed at 7:20 of the first.

A Van Loon goal in the third followed up by a single from Leger at the 1:06 marker brought home the hardware for Stewart's.

Pam Scharf knocked back Stewart's opening goal against the Girls at 13:40 of the first. Jane Hendrix tied the count at 1-1 with 9:34 left on the clock.

Sue Whelan drilled in the Girls go-ahead goal at 10:00 of the second stanza which was quickly answered by a Debbie Leger goal for a 2-2 score.

Jackie Boulanger played a flawless final round while Leanne Van Delst brought home the win with a pair of goals. Rhonda Boulanger (2), Scharf and Laurie Reid were also in on the winners.

Hornets take 1-0 lead over Dogs, Aces and Knights tie

CHESTERVILLE - John Guy's goal with 0:47 left until the final buzzer kept his Black Aces alive as they played to a 3-3 tie against the White Knights.

In the first week of CTL semi-final action, the regular season champs, the Aces, matched the Knights (last place) point-for-point forcing the series to go the full three games.

Chris Williams put the Knights on the board at 4:35 of the first period when he finished off a Greg Kelly feed. A minute later Mark Cayer retaliated for the Aces to make it a 1-1 contest heading into the second. Pete Van Kessel and Dave Van-Bruinessen drew the assists.

Kelly made it a 2-1 game in favor of the Knights when he knocked back a Denis Charlebois/Pete Schoones set up past netminder Craig Smith at the 22:43 marker of the second.

Mark Smith answered back for the Aces when he completed a play started by Kent Young and John Guy at 8:30 of the round.

Kevin Henry, from Gary Geertsma and Kirk Tallman, drilled in the Knights' third and final marker of the night with 2:55 left on the clock.

Guy snuck one more past Jim Hume with less than a minute left in the contest to make it a 3-3 final.

Hornets 5 - Dogs 3

A 3-1 lead after round one turned into a 5-3 victory for the Green Hornets who lead the Red Dogs 1-0 in the best of three semi-finals.

Jerrold Boulanger got the scoring underway for the Hornets when he wired in his first two at 11:51 of the first. Chris Berkers and Darrell Shelp were also in on the play.

The Hornets went up 2-0 when Ken Byers finished off a Sandy Johnson/Gary Beisheim relay at the 8:34 marker.

John Luimiss finally put one away for the Dogs when he completed a feed from Chris Van Bridger and Gary Klein-Swormink to make it a 2-1 game with 3:18 left in the first round.

Boulanger ended the period on a two-point high when he dumped in a pass from Shelp to give the Hornets a 3-1 advantage.

Rod Casselman cut the Dogs' deficit to one when he knocked in a feed from Aron Sherrer at 20:17 of the second stanza.

Shelp, from Chris Berkers, retaliated five minutes later for a 4-2 Hornets' lead.

It was Casselman again who went to the net, this time from Sean O'-Connor, to make it a one-point game (4-3).

With less than two minutes left on the clock Ken Byers slammed the door shut on the Dogs when he finished off a play started by Shelp and Rene Boulanger for the 5-3 win.

It got physical infront of the Knights' net last Wednesday night when they faced off against the Aces.

Marcellus skating for OUAA dream team

CHESTERVILLE - The Midget 'A' Demons split their weekend contests. North Dundas fell 7-1 to Smiths Falls Friday night but rallied back on Sunday for a 6-4 win over South Grenville.

After falling behind 2-0 to South Grenville early in the opening round, Ryan Filion drilled in a feed from Derik Gates and Wes McLeod to make it a 2-1 contest.

North Dundas out scored South Grenville 3-1 in the second to take a 4-3 lead. Craig Holmes hit twice while Jamie Hyndman added a single.

North Dundas dominated the final round with singles from Rob Desormeaux and Ryan Swerdferger to give the Demons the 6-4 victory.

Ryan Filion was the only one able to beat Smiths Falls goalie Jeff Hoppen as Smiths Falls took the 7-1 win. Ryan Holmes netted the helpers.

Novice Cs upset South Grenville

WINCHESTER - The Novice 'C' North Dundas Demons upset top seed South Grenville No. Four (22 points) 5-3 in their first UCMHL play off contest.

James Kirkwood set the tone midway through the first when he knocked back a Tommy Wheeler feed for a 1-0 lead.

South Grenville slipped one past netminder Mike Dyer but key saves and strong defensive play from Mat Cracknell, Dean Moore, Patrick Heatherington and Marty Derks helped propel the Demons onto victory.

Two more pucks hit the back of the Demons' twine but a four-point rally, three from Wheeler, in the third by North Dundas gave them the win.

Wheeler made it 2-1 for North Dundas only to have South Grenville tie it up at 2-2 a minute later.

Wheeler (at 6:35) answered back for North Dundas, to once again put his squad up by one (3-2).

Another Wheeler goal and a single from Scott Smeer ended the game on a winning note for North Dundas.

South Grenville snuck one more past Dyer at the 2:15 marker but it was not enough.

Ladies lace up their roller blades in Winchester

Sandra Dillich
Record Staff

WINCHESTER - Ladies lace up your blades, roller blades that is, because the newest sport to hit North America has rolled into Winchester.

Starting this summer area women will be able to keep their hockey skills in top form through the newly created Winchester Ladies' Roller Hockey League.

"We're doing this because number one, we had the availability of the slab and number two, there is a great deal of interest for a new summer sport, especially for the ladies," said Winchester recreation director Matt Krisjanis.

Krisjanis is not totally new to organizing ladies' roller hockey. He was the one who got the women's league rolling in Russell last summer.

"I helped start it up in Russell and I came here and the slab was not utilized very much for the summer so I talked to some of the ladies in hockey and ball hockey and they liked the idea."

Take note. Everyone is welcome to join "even if you don't know how to say the word (rollerblade) it's for you. You don't have to be good," added Krisjanis "and for the women who already play hockey it will kep their skills peaked and ready for the winter."

"Don't be afraid to try it. You only live once so have a good time doing it," noted Krisjanis.

For the novice blader, and for those who need a little fine tuning on their skills, the league will be holding a two-three week clinic. The finer points of the game, including how to stop, will also be explained during the clinic.

"Once you get it (stopping) it will be a piece of cake."

Following the clinic, the players will be drafted so that all teams will be equal.

Along with a pair of blades a masked helmet, elbow pads, hockey golves as well as knee and shin pads are also required equipment.

If you have yet to purchase roller blades and are unsure of what to buy, Krisjanis suggests in-line blades with rubber rollers.

"It's a smooth surface and plastic will work but the rubber rollers will let you be more stable and manouverable."

Registration is set for Sunday, March 17 from 9am to 10am at the Winchester Arena. The cost is $60.

Men take heed. If there are any men interested in starting their own league this summer contact Matt Krisjanis at the arena. Slab time is available for this summer.

For more information contact Matt Krisjanis at the arena - 774-2006 or Marie Shelp.

Hawks win in 2-1 OT but fall 13-3 for a two game deficit against Kemptville

WINCHESTER - The Hawks pulled off a 2-1 overtime victory Friday night against the 73s but lost 13-3 in Sunday afternoon's contest.

In game three Sunday afternoon, the 73s skated to a 4-1 lead after one which turned into a 10-2 advantage and a 13-3 victory after three.

Jeff Scobie nailed in the Hawks' first goal of the day at 6:51 of the first for a 3-1 game. Kemptville answered back with one more goal to end the period.

Terry O'Sullivan dumped in number two for Winchester at the 17:21 marker of the second for a 5-2 contest. Rob Mancchio and Andrew Holmes were also in on the play.

Less than a minute later O'Sullivan bridged the Winchester gap to two when he hit from Rob Raistrick. But that was all the Hawks were able to put away. Kemptville dominated the rest of the action and took the 13-3 decision.

Wayne Hall drilled in three as did Derek Hutt. Andrew Williams and Shawn Forbes added two to the total. Rounding out the scoring for Kemptville was Dave Ralph, Aaron Heath and Kelly Windsor.

Game Two

Kemptville's Derek Hutt nailed the back of the twine at 6:27 of the second for a 1-0 lead. Less than a minute later Rob Raistrick forced the game into OTwhen he knotted the count at two-all completing a feed from Terry O'Sullivan and Jared Hebbs.

Chris Bailey scored the winner at 6:27 of overtime. Miguel Lafleche was also in on the winner.

Game One

Forbes scored three times, twice in the final 11:42 of the game, as the second-place 73s broke up a scoreless game with five second period goals.

It was a scoreless contest after one period and 5- 1 after 40 minutes.

The game official kept a tight reign on the proceedings as he whistled Winchester on 22 minors and Kemptville on 21.

"The ref called everything but it wasn't a rough game," explained Winchester GM Bill Wammes.

"We had plenty of chances and couldn't put the puck in."

Wammes also noted that his team committed some costly turnovers.

Chris Quinlan scored in the second period while the Hawks got third period markers from Jeff Scobie. Shayne Stroughair found the target in the final frame. Ryan Nicol (2), Terry O'Sullivan, Eric Savard and Pat Collins drew the assists.

Matt Crawely minded the pipes in the first two periods and Chris Dunn the third while Dom Cuglietta tend the 73s' nets for 60 minutes.

Andrew Williams pegged goals in support of the three by Forbes. Eric Jansen, Jeff Ricci and Wayne Hall snapped in singles.

Miguel Lafleche, Jason Ross, Anthony Barressi and Andrew Holmes were the Winchester scratches. Julien Benoit of the North Stormont Express suited up as the replacement.

Game five is set for Friday (March 1) in Kemptville at 8:30pm.

Game six will go on Saturday (March 2) in Winchester at 7:15pm.

Game seven is slated for Sunday (March 3) in Kemptville at 7:30pm.

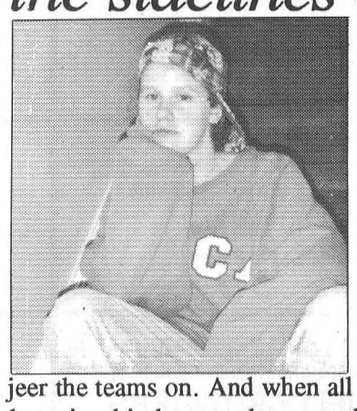
Sitting on the sidelines

With Sandy With a Y



There comes a time in every athlete's life when the spectators and coaches remain on the bench while the athletes move up and out.

The 'old timers' game remains the same as does the desire to win but during the season there are few, if any spectators, to cheer and jeer the teams on. And when all is said and done there are no championship banners hung on the wall or ticker tape parades along Main Street. Handshakes, cases of beer and laughs are how these seasons are celebrated.

This is when the game is played in its purest form.

No matter the age of the athlete, no game or race should ever be played or run for the crowd or for the reception of accolades. The game should be played for pure enjoyment. Accolades are what come to the athlete who hones his/her skills and plays his/her best every time because they want to not because rewards will come their way.

Satisfaction of a game well played does not come from outside the dressing room but from within. Knowing you've played your best and helped your team is what should be satisfying.

Yet, there are still some oldtimer leagues which insist on letting the world know they're still playing and they are still so good at what they do they want to make you pay at the door. Are they actually skilled players who are still able to play and enjoy the game and its comraderie or are they trying to be what they once were?

Whatever they are, we should not have to pay to watch them play. Watching fathers and grandfathers rip up and down the ice should be a childhood memory, not a cash-cow.

If these oldtimers or bush leaguers head out to the arena every week just to prove they still have 'it' by bumping and grinding like midget-aged players or just to hear the crowd cheer them on then it's time to pack up the equipment and leave it in the attic to be one day used by someone who knows how to enjoy the 'game' of the game.
