ORANGE HALL RAZED IN FIRE, WINCHESTER SPRINGS

Fire of unknown origin, which broke out about nine o'clock in a barn owned by C. Thompson, completely destroyed the Orange Hall and two barns as well as causing considerable damage to adjoining buildings before it was brought under control about an hour and a half later.

Flames lighting the night sky attracted hundreds to that village, and many of those who rushed to see the blaze assisted the volunteer fire brigade in battling the flames.

Damage was estimated at over $6,000, partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Thompson said he had been in the barn, which stored a season's crop of hay and grain, about 15 minutes previous to the discovery of the fire and at that time everything appeared in order. When he left the barn, he said he left the door open.

The fire spread quickly to the two-storey frame Orange Hall, west of the barn, where a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Whittaker was being held. About 100 persons were present at the reception for the couple who were just recently married. So quickly did the fire spread that the people attending the affair had just time to grab their wraps and run.

As the Orange Hall and all its furnishings were consumed by the flames, the fire also spread to another barn owned by Mr. Thompson.

The fire also caught onto the telephone and hydro poles as well as the trees lining the street. It also reached the home of Henry McDonald, who resides across the street from the Orange Hall. The Winchester firefighters, assisted by the volunteer brigades from Winchester under Ken Ault and Williamsburg under E. Trickey, soon quelled the outbreak on the roof of Mr. McDonald's residence. Chemical trucks from both Winchester and Williamsburg assisted in fighting the flames.

The firefighters pumped no less than eight wells dry before the blaze, which for a time threatened the entire community, was brought under control.

Among other buildings nearby which suffered slight damage was the home of George Kirkwood, which was badly scorched, the barn of Gordon Merkley, also scorched, and a hay rack, which was slightly damaged.

So serious did the fire look for a time, that all the furnishings from the home of Mr. McDonald were removed.

A number of rural telephone and hydro wires were broken but workmen were quickly on the job repairing the damage.

Mr. Thompson estimated the damage to his property at $3,000 while the Orange Hall and furnishings were estimated at about $2,500. About $500 damage was caused to other buildings and telephone and hydro equipment.

Several members of the fire brigade remained on duty until a late hour in case of any fresh outbreaks.

CHESTERVILLE BOY HAS VERY FORTUNATE ESCAPE

Wednesday afternoon, Clare McMillan, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McMillan, had a very narrow escape from serious injury or worse when the bicycle he was riding and an auto driven by Hubert Harper were in collision at the corner of Main and Queen streets, Chesterville.

It is reported that Clare McMillan and Baden Boyd were racing on their wheels when opposite McGees store they met the automobile which could not avoid knocking young McMillan from his wheel, luckily with no serious injury, but smashing the wheel badly. The car mounted the sidewalk before being brought to a standstill.

HUNTER FINDS BODY OF MAN IN TREE NEAR CORNWALL

Slung hammock-fashion from the top of a 40-foot pine tree in a dense bush, about a mile north of Cornwall, the body of a young man was discovered by a partridge hunter on Monday. Hardly visible from the ground, the body was securely fastened to the tree. The man's feet had been tied to the branches with pieces of light clothesline, while an eight-foot piece of half inch rope was attached to the top of the tree trunk and the mans neck. The body was suspended head down.

Late Monday night the body was identified as Julien Lavoie, 20-year old Cornwall boy. Positive identification was made by brothers, Albert and Philip, who recognized the clothing and shoes worn by their brother when he disappeared on May 2 last. Members of the family said they were not alarmed when Julien left home and did not return, as they believed he had left the city in search of employment. The dead boy was born in St. Angele, Que., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lavoie and went to Cornwall 11 years ago.

The body was removed from the tree with much difficulty.

Hermidas Marsolais discovered the body while hunting partridge and immediately notified the police. Subsequent investigations revealed that Jack Montroy, Cornwall resident, had seen the body in the tree four weeks ago, but was under the impression it was a scarecrow drawn up into the lofty branches of the tree by young boys.

Turkey Buzzard Near St. Marys

Native of Southern States Is Thought To Have Been Driven North By Hurricane

A large black bird, described by nature scholars as a turkey buzzard, was shot down four miles south of St. Marys, Ontario, by Norman Conn, a young farm employee of East Nissouri. The bird in some ways resembled a turkey but beak and head corresponded to that of a buzzard.

The bird was flying high above the field with three other similar birds. A habitant of Central America and the Southern States, it is believed to have been driven into this territory by the hurricane which swept the Atlantic seaboard and the New England States.

Of Vulture Family

Of the vulture family, the bird had a wing spread of over six feet. It weighs about five pounds. The head, of a reddish appearance was bald but for a few short black hairs. This is the first time on record this type of bird has been seen in the district.

Two Stratfords Swap Greetings

Stratford-upon-Avon, England, Sends Rosemary and Wild Thyme To Be Planted in Stratford, Ontario.

"Rosemary for remembrance" was the sentiment in a cable sent by Mayor Thos. Waldron, of Stratford-on-Avon, England, to Mayor Thos. E. Henry as the city of Stratford, Ontario, held a ceremony at Shakespearean Gardens to plant Rosemary and Wild Thyme. The seed from which the plants were grown came from Stratford-on-Avon.

And Mayor Thos. E. Henry fittingly replied with a cablegram picked up by messenger while the ceremony was in progress. And Mayor Henry pointed out in the cable that prayers for peace were a part of the ceremony.

Prayers For Peace

The text of Mayor Waldron's message to Stratford was as follows: "Here's Rosemary for remembrance. Heartiest greetings from the Mayor of Shakespeare's Stratford to the Mayor of Ontario's Stratford."

Mayor Henry's reply read: "Greetings from Stratford-on-Avon, Ontario. Officials planted Rosemary twelve noon. Prayers for peace and prosperity."

Forty Millions Need Schooling

On This Continent, McGill University Expert Says, In Voicing Plea for Adult Education.

Something must be done in the way of providing further educational facilities for 40,000,000 people of North America who have had a very sketchy education, Col. Wilfrid Bovey of McGill University told members of the Quebec Kiwanis Club last week.

"We might just as well face an unpleasant fact," he said. "Most of those people had to leave school before their time because our community had failed in its duty, because in some way or other our organization has been inadequate.

Some People Have Missed It

"I do not think anyone denies that the community owes an education to the school child; no one has denied that for a long time. But, this is my contention: the community has exactly the same obligation to the people who through its fault, have missed their school education."

Col. Bovey stated that the service clubs of this continent might well make it their task to study and assist in remedying the problem of the "sketchily educated 40,000,000."

Bulbs Imported Into Dominion

Millions Are Coming From Europe This Autumn

The bulb importing season has again commenced. Recently bulbs of every size, shape and description, such as hyacinths, narcissi, daffodils, crocuses, freesias and muscari, have been literally pouring into Canada from Great Britain, Holland, Belgium, France and other countries. Millions of bulbs, actually 35,347,367, arrived during the season of 1937-38, and the indications are that this large figure will be surpassed during the importing months of 1938-39. All these bulbs, which before long will be in the possession of amateur or professional gardeners and growers, later to produce pots of bloom, cut flowers and delightful garden beds in the spring, have to be handled and inspected before being allowed to be forwarded to their destinations in Canada.

NAMES in the NEWS

ALFRED DUFF-COOPER

Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain's hour of triumph in the House of Commons was cut short by a bitter attack launched on his foreign policy by the second member of his Cabinet to resign for conscience' sake, Alfred Duff-Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty. Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, was the first.

These two men, younger in years than the average Conservative Party member in Great Britain, believe that the whole Czechoslovak crisis could have been averted if Britain had taken a stand in time. Duff-Cooper in his speech said that it was foolish to expect the German dictator to listen to "sweet reasonableness"—only the mailed fist can influence Hitler.

Anthony Eden declared: "Successive surrenders only bring successive humiliation, and in their turn more humiliating demands."

Canada: Finest Hunting Ground

World's Ideal Country For The Chase, Big Game Hunters Aver

Canada is the finest hunting and fishing country in the world in the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lerner, adventurers and big game hunters from New York.

The couple like Canada's hunting grounds because they are situated in the healthiest country in the world. Tropical countries pack too much danger and fever to be ideal sites, they believe.

Mrs. Lerner impressed interviewers as being "112 pounds of sporting dynamite and charm." She is less than five feet in height.

"Women can do anything a man can do," was her firm belief. She is the first woman ever to catch a broadbill swordfish in Canadian waters. Mrs. Lerner caught a 295-pound swordfish off the coast of Louisburg, Nova Scotia, this year. The fish fought two hours and 50 minutes before she landed it with a 28-ounce rod and a 39-thread line.

Fishing Grounds Being Depleted

The adoption of fly and bait casting methods of fishing were urged as a means of conserving the Dominion's nature-given supply of fish by David V. Reddick, authority on fly and bait casting, at a meeting of Montreal's Progress Club.

"Our rivers, lakes and streams are being depleted more and more each year," he declared. He pointed out how a maximum of sport can be obtained through scientific fishing without depleting one of the greatest tourist attracting features of this country.

Dogs are being used for hunting criminals in Belgium.

Britain Eyes Turner Valley

Is Giving Consideration to Plans For Development of Big Alberta Oil Field

LONDON. — The British Government is giving consideration to comprehensive plans for the development of the Turner Valley oil field in Southern Alberta, which include construction of a pipeline to Vancouver, it was learned last week.

It was understood no decisions had been made, although the scheme is being viewed from every angle by Admiralty officials. The oil would be used for naval purposes.

In Rearmament Scheme

The Canadian Government has no direct connection with the plan, it was understood, although it probably has been acquainted with the details.

Development of the oilfield would come within Britain's vast rearmament scheme, which already extends to Canada in the construction of bombing planes.

Nearly $40,000 was collected on London streets in one day for the British Empire Cancer Campaign.

LIVING UNDER PAR

To live decently, a Toronto lawyer says, a workman with a family of five should receive at least $2,753 a year. The conclusion is that a great many people are living indecently. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

SHOULD HAVE TIME OUT

Rev. A. J. Bruce of Copper Cliff predicts a real old-fashioned winter and advises people to get their underwear on early and not to take it off until March 21. All right brother, but we suppose it would be right enough to allow it to be put through the wringer now and then.—Peterborough Examiner.

"EAT AND COUNT"

A while ago we reprinted a story from the Lindsay Post of a man who ate 23 cobs of corn at one sitting. That newspaper has now received a letter from a man in Port Elgin declaring that 23 is a mere snack and that he, a certain "Wis" of that town, recently put away 32 cobs complete with butter and salt and a pot of of tea. He concluded by asking the Lindsay Post and The Ottawa Journal to beat his feat. All right, Lindsay Post—you eat 'em and we'll count 'em. — Ottawa Journal.

CANADIAN LAWYERS

The last census showed over 8,000 persons occupied as lawyers in Canada, with 544 justices and magistrates, not all of whom were necessarily graduates of law schools, but most of whom are likely to be placed as such. There is thus one lawyer for every 1,200 of the population, and as there is one doctor for every 1,000 it would seem to appear that our bodily ills take more looking after than keeping us within the rules by which society governs its actions.—Kitchener Record.

OUTSHONE: They say that Mussolini weeps in his palace at Rome, sobbing uncontrollably and gnashing his teeth at a capricious fate which has forced him to play second fiddle.

In the 'teens of this century, Benito Mussolini was a journalist of parts, a prominent socialist whose ambition it was to become an unique figure in his age. Lenin, the Russian socialist, rose to be a much greater power, dwarfed Mussolini into insignificance. Then the Italian tried the opposite line, became the first "Fascist" in history.

For years the clever Benito's supremacy went unchallenged, but with the thirties a formidable rival appeared on the horizon, Adolf Hitler of Germany, and once more Mussolini is outshone by a star of greater magnitude. Beaten at his own game.

If Mussolini is to run true to form, he will dry his tears and prepare to go Hitler one better by doing something that will throw the German dictator's latest triumphy in the shadow. He could take over the whole of Arabia, for instance; or seize control of the Mediterranean, shutting off England from her trade routes; then grab the Suez Canal and Egypt.

He'll have his innings yet . . . .

REASON FOR SILENCE: — There's a big howl gone up across Canada because at the time of the latest European crisis, Prime Minister King did not say a word to indicate that we as a nation were behind Britain's stand for peace. The howl may die down now, or it may be heard at its loudest only when Parliament reconvenes at Ottawa next month.

It is whispered that Mr. King was silent because he feared the unfavorable reaction of French Canada to any European commitment. Dr. Manion, Conservative leader, did not declare himself either, it is said, for the same reason.

WAIT AND SEE: An amusing news note was heard over the radio the other morning. It was reported that the power-that-be were considering naming the new bridge on the Middle Road (near Mimico) the "Chamberlain Peace Bridge." Added in the next breath was: "they have decided to lay the matter of the new name over for a time." Here we would interpose: "to see how the 'Chamberlain Peace' turns out."

CRIME BUREAU: At a meeting of the Police Association of Ontario in Toronto early this month the intelligent suggestion was made that a central clearing house for criminal data be established at Ottawa so that information available to police in one town or city of Canada could be prepared for distribution through a special police bulletin to all police headquarters in the country.

Crown Attorney J. W. McFadden, speaking of the present lack of efficiency, said: "As it is now, police may be looking for a man only to find long after that he is serving a jail term in another city."

THE WEEK'S QUESTION: — What resources and industries of Czechoslovakia does Germany fall heir to as a result of the occupation of Sudetenland? Answer: Nine-tenths of Czechoslovakia's textile industry, virtually all of her china, glass and procelain output, virtually all of her lignite fields, the biggest of which is believed to contain 12,000,000,000 tons; important chemical plants in and near Aussig, valuable metal works and a radium mine in the Erz Mountains.

The EMPIRE

BOMBAY IS NOT ALONE

Progress in local self-government is a slow business the latest Bombay Government review of municipal administration for 1937-37 repeats a familiar tale. The absense of a sense of civic responsibility constitutes a grave drawback; factions and feuds continue to characterize local administration and to produce parlous conditions. This is reflected in the phenomenal growth of arrears in the past few years, the reluctance to provide proper amenities and to levy taxation, and irresponsible expenditure. — Times of India, Bombay.

The Rarest Stamp

—o—

A soiled and much-worn postage stamp, said to be the rarest in the world, was placed on sale at Kenmore, N.Y., last week. Known as the British Guiana No. 13, it is the only one of its kind known to be in existence. The 100-year-old stamp — which the late King George V of England sought in vain to buy—is listed in the new catalogue of Ernest G. Jarvis, Kenmore philatelist. Jarvis said he had been authorized by Mrs. Ann Hind Scala, of Utica, the stamp's owner, to sell it.

THE WONDERLAND OF OZ

The Growleywogs spent some time dividing the people and treasures of Oz in advance of the conquest. They had no doubt at all that they were all able to destroy Ozma's Domain. "The deadly desert has kept us out of the Land of Oz," remarked the Grand Gallipoot, "but now we shall get into the Emerald City very easily, so let us send the fat little General back to his King without promise to assist him."

"We will not say that we intend to conquer the gnomes after we have conquered Oz," he continued, "but we will do so just the same and what fun it will be to stick pins in their bodies to make them yell." This plan being agreed upon, they all went home to dinner leaving General Guph still in prison. The Gnome had no idea that he had succeeded in his mission, for finding himself in prison he feared the Growleywogs intended putting him to death.

By this time the jailer had tired of sticking pins into the General and was amusing himself by pulling the gnome's whiskers out by the roots, one at a time. This enjoyment was interrupted by the Grand Gallipoot sending for the prisoner. "Aw, wait a few hours," begged the jailer. "I haven't pulled out a quarter of his whiskers yet." "If you keep the Grand Gallipoot waiting, he'll break your back," declared the messenger.

"Perhaps you're right" said the jailer. "Take him away. But kick him at every step. It will be good fun, for he is as soft as a ripe peach." So Guph was led away to the royal castle where the Grand Gallipoot told him that the Growleywogs had decided to help conquer the Land of Oz. "Whenever you are ready," he said, "let me know and I will march with eighteen thousand of my most powerful warriors to your aid."

HAVE YOU HEARD

FALL

A fall can mean a lot of things.
One starts in late September;
But there are falls of other kinds.
Oh, my! don't you remember?
The one a baby always gets, when untrained feet first tread.
You pick it up, surprised to find its brains still in its head.
Then older grown—some eyes and smiles, backed up by Cupid's
dart,
Produce a fall that's sure to leave
big cracks in someone's heart.
Ah, yes—we live through many kinds; but I have found the fall
That wears gay leaves—and gems of frost, least painful of them all.—Lyla Myers.

Sue—"A friend of mine named his child Carol because she was born on Christmas."

John—"She? I thought a carol was a hymn."

READ IT OR NOT:—There are from 16 to 21 bones in the full length tail of a dog.

And we are all in the same boat: Quiggle — "Don't you find it hard to meet expenses these days?"

Peewitt—"Hard! I should say not. Why, man alive, I meet expenses at every turn."

Some young women appear to smoke cigarettes for the purpose of showing off their colored nails and finger jewelry by extending the hand conspicuously to flick off the ashes.

Mrs. Jones had just been presented with a beautifuly new fur coat by her husband:

Mrs. Jones (as she stood admiring herself in the long mirror)—"You know, Oswald, one really can't help feeling sorry for the poor thing that was skinned for this."

Oswald (who was going through his handbook to see if he had any money left, nodded grimly)—"I appreciate your sympathy, my dear."

Baseball Fan (boasting)—"I've seen these teams play so often I bet I can tell the score of this old ball game before it starts."

Novie—"All right then, what is it?"

Baseball Fan — "Nothing to nothing—before it starts."

Two girls were reading a newspaper in a street car.

First—"I see that So-and-So, the octogenarian, is dead. Now what on earth is an octogenarian?"

Second—"Search me, but they're a sickly lot. You never heard of one but what he is dying."

There is one good reason why the old saying of—give until it hurts—is never very popular. Most of us bruise easily.

Friend—"Did the doctor take your temperature?"

Patient — "I dunno. All I've missed so far is my watch."

"APPOINTMENT WITH DEATH"

By Agatha Christie

When in doubt, read Agatha Christie. You'll find "Appointment With Death" one of this author's slickest, with Hercule Poirot, the little Belgian snoop, in top form; naturally, he's run across a murder while doing Jerusalem, Petra, Annam and parts adjacent. And there's no use concealing the fact that the corpse is old Mrs. Boynton, a frightful American woman touring the world with five members of her bullied and frightened family; she's described by one of the characters as "a distorted old Buddha—a gross spider in the center of a web" and that's too good for her. Suspects include Raymond Boynton, a stepson overheard saying "You see, don't you, that she's got to be killed?" (Hercule heard him say it one night at the Solomon Hotel.) Also Miss Sarah King, a medical young woman with whom Raymond is in love, and half a dozen other relatives and bystanders.

. . . This seems to be the season for whopping tall solutions; at and rate, Mrs. Christie springs a fiend you aren't likely to guess. Which is all right with us. We like to be surprised.

Lived 115 Years In Native Town

Still alert, Sari Fatma, a Mulatto woman, has just celebrated her 115th birthday in her native town of Kozane, Asia Minor.

Her two sons and two daughters, aged respectively 97, 95, 92 and 90, accompanied by their children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, totalling 117, arrived from all parts of the country to join in the festivities which had been organized by local people.

Born in 1823, Sari was married at 17 to a corporal of the Ottoman army, five years her senior. He died in 1928, when 110, after serving more than 60 years in the army. He took part in the Crimean war, 1856, and in several other campaigns.

House No Poor Hens Pre-Winter Advice

Pullets for the laying flock must have full opportunity right from hatching time up to maturity, to make normal, healthy growth. This requires first, an adequate supply of the proper feeds, and, second, good environmental conditions. Overcrowding should be avoided and precautions taken to guard the health of the birds. Any birds showing signs of disease or weakness should be disposed of immediately. It should be constantly borne in mind that the maintenance of a healthy, profitable flock requires that culling should be a continuous process the year round.

Proper Feeding

Commencing when the first few pullets start to lay, it is a recommended practice to go over the pullet flock every week or two moving to their permanent winter quarters all those that seem almost ready to lay or have already started, states L. A. Gnaedinger, Head Poultryman, Dominion Experimental Station, Lennoxville, P.Q. Feeding should have been such that at this time, the birds should be heavily fleshed and fairly fat. The subsequent feeding program should be designed to prevent any marked decrease in body weight. Each bird should be carefully examined at this time and any that are poorly fleshed, very small, or deformed should be culled out. Heavy, sustained egg production demands healthy, well-developed bodies and rugged constitutions.

In summary, one might say: "Grow good birds and house no poor ones."

Canada's Honey Worth $2,198,400

Ontario is normally the chief source of honey production in Canada. Last year, however, owing to an unusually low yield in that province, Manitoba came first. Total honey production for the Dominion was low, but there were increases over the previous year in four provinces. Canada is on an export basis on the honey trade, but imports have been rising lately. An increasing trade has also been developed in package bees.

The total production of honey in Canada last year was 21,733,200 pounds, valued at $2,198,400. The output was unusually large in 1936 at 28,233,800 pounds, having a value of $2,851,700. In 1935 production amounted to 24,291,000 pounds, and in 1933 to 22,915,800 pounds. The number of hives last year was 391,300, compared with 370,000 in 1936; 358,700 in 1935, and 335,700 in 1933.

What Science * Is Doing *

SLEEPING SICKNESS CURE

Edwin Moore, of Drummer township, near Peterborough, Ont., left hospital last week apparently cured of an attack of sleeping sickness. Credit for his recovery was given vitamin treatments administered by Dr. J. C. Smith, of Lakefield.

Moore, who contracted the disease August 29, was removed to hospital and Dr. Smith began administering injections of synthetic Vitamin B-1. In a short time, he said, the patient who had sunk into a coma began to rally.

VOICE FOR THE DUMB

A new talking device which takes the place of the human voice when the vocal cords refuse to function, was described before the Toronto Kiwanis Club last week by Dean T. Smith, of Los Angeles, Supervisor of Public Activities for the Southern California Telephone Company.

A tube placed in the throat enables a husky or voiceless man to speak by the movement of his lips and Mr. Smith instanced this, as one of the many advancements now being made by telephony.

THYROID AND "SIXTH SENSE"

New evidence of the existence of a sixth sense, as in clairvoyance and mind reading, is being examined by savants at McGill University who have been interested in experiments carried out at Duke University in the United States.

The latest sensational evidence indicates that there is a tie-up between the thyroid gland and the existence of the sixth sense. When this gland does not produce sufficient secretion, ordinarily indicated by dullness and lack of activity on the part of the individual, it has been found in two notable cases at least that there is an extra activity of the subconscious mind.

RUBBER BAND "SNAPS"

A rubber band snapping back from the stretched state attains an extremely high velocity. Its speed has been clocked by ultra high-speed photography and has been found to be 204 miles an hour, states Dr. Gustavus J. Esselen, chemical consultant, in whose Boston laboratories the measurements were made.

COME FROM MILKY WAY

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, University of Chicago physicist, believes that he has found the answer to one of the major mysteries of the scientific world—the point of origin of cosmic rays.

"The question was whether cosmic rays come from the milky way in our galaxy or from some point beyond the galaxy," he said at Vancouver last week. "The indications are that they come from the milky way."

MISS LENA LYNN IS BRIDE OF EARL N. TOUSAW

Iroquois United church was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding on Saturday afternoon when Miss Lena Mabel Lynn, youngest daughter Mr. and Mrs. Hamiton Lynn, River Road west, Prescott, was united in marriage to Mr. Earl Nelson Tousaw youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ancil Tousaw, Iroquois.

Rev. Thomas Knowles officiated at the ceremony. The wedding music was played by Mrs. F.W. Snedden and Miss Jean Thompson rendered a solo while the guests were assembling and also during the signing of the register. Gordon and Edward Thompson acted as usher. The church was attractively adorned with autumn blooms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white triple sheer, fashioned on Princess lines and falling into a short train. She wore a shoulder veil of white tulle, over a halo of orange blossoms and a gold chain with cameo locket, the gift of the groom, was her only ornament. She carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses.

The matron of honor Mrs. Clayton Tousaw, was gowned in rose taffeta, made with fitted lines. She wore a halo of rose buds and carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Mr. Clayton Tousaw, brother of the groom acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Lyndale, the home of the bride's parents. About 100 guests were present.

Mrs. Lynn, mother of the bride, was gowned in burgundy crepe, with matching accessories and wore a silver fox fur and corsage of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Tousaw, mother of the groom chose black crepe with matching accessories and wore a corsage of American Beauty Roses.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Tousaw left by motor for Quebec city and the New England states. On their return they will reside in Burwash.

IMPRESSIVE TRIBUTE TO LATE MRS. WILLIAM AULT

Impressive tribute was paid to the memory of the late Mrs. William Ault of Shanly at her funeral service on Monday afternoon which was held from her residence to the Shanly United church. It was one of the largest funerals held in the district there being many relatives and a host of friends and acquaintances. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. A.W. Seaton, with Rev. John L. Hodgson of City View, a former pastor, and Mrs. H.B. Johnston, soloist, assisting. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Ault, whose maide name was Henrietta Riddell, was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Riddell, and was born on the homestead at Pittston, 76 years ago. Since her marriage to William Ault 55 years ago, she resided at Pittston and Shanly. In her youth she was a member of the Methodist church, later the United church, at Shanly and was very active in the various organizations where she rendered commendable service, especially in the Women's Missionary Society. Through her kindly nature and her Christian spirit, she made many intimate friends who deeply regret her sudden death on Saturday.

She leaves to mourn her passing beside her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Stella Henderson, Shanly, and Mrs. Richard Shaver, Iroquois; two sons, Dr. W.J. Ault of Prescott and Lawrence, Shanly; two grandchildren, James Henderson and Joyce Ault; five sisters, Mrs. Margaret Wallace, Port Colborne; Mrs. E. Webb, Pittston; Mrs. E.H. Adams, Shanly; Mrs. T.E. Gillmoure, Spencerville; Miss Emma Riddell, Pittston; one brother, Royal Riddell, on the homestead. A daughter, Mabel, died about thirty years ago. Two sisters and a brother also predeceased her, Mrs. Robert Gardiner, of Kemptville; Mrs. Jerry Wallace, of Shanly and Rufus Riddell, Shanly.

Numerous floral offerings were received by the bereaved family.

The pallbearers were: Bruce Weir Spencerville; Dr. D.L. MacLean, of Winchester; Floyd Riddell and Percy Ault, Shanly; Kenneth Ault, Winchester; Dudley Smith, Renfrew.

The bride was charming in a navy sheer ensemble with white accessories. She carried a bouquet of red and white carnations. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. F.W. Bronson of Cornwall.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left on a motor trip to Niagara Falls, Ont., and points in New York State. They will reside in Cornwall.

MRS. WILLIAM HITSMAN ..

She came to Canada fifty years ago, and in 1898 was married to William Hitsman. She had spent the greater part of her life in this district where she was widely known and highly respected. GETS FIFTEEN-YEAR TERM .. FOR SLAYING YOUTH

Self-confessed slayer of 16-year-old Alex Lariviere at Lancaster on the night of October 19 last, Daniel Thauvette, 21, also of Lancaster, was this week sentenced to 15 years in Portsmouth penitentiary by Mr. Justice G.F. McFarland. The trial was the major criminal hearing at fall assizes in session this week, and it was the second occassion on which Thauvette had been on trial. Last February the jury disagreed after a five-day trial and Thauvette was again placed on trial on the murder count this week, but proceedings were brought to a halt Wednesday when C.P. Hope, K.C., Crown prosecutor suggested that evidence of key-Crown witnesses indicated there had been no intent and motive, and therefore requested the murder charge to be amended to one of manslaughter.

This was done and Rodolphe Danis, K.C., counsel for Thauvette immediately entered a plea of guilty.

In statements introduced as evidence at the trial Wednesday, Thauvette was said to have admitted the brutal slaying of Lariviere.

Shows No Emotions.

Thauvette stood firmly in the prisoner's dock and received the sentence without emotion.

Defence counsel asked for leniency and stressed the low mentality of Thauvette. He blamed the accused's mental condition for the crime and suggested there had been no motive or intent. During Thauvette's incarceration, Mr. Danis hoped the accused would receive treatment for his mental condition.

"You are a menace to society," Justice McFarlad told Thauvette in passing sentence. "The crime was so utterly useless. You have been found guilty of an atrocious crime and I might, if I wished, have you sent to prison for life, but I shall not do so because I think, as your councel suggests, you need some attention."

DO YOU "GO SHOPPING" FOR GLASSES?

THAT'S DANGEROUS. Cheap glasses are not bargains. The only bargain you can get for your precious eyesight is a complete eye examination and visual analysis followed by a correct prescription which may mean visual training, or "treatments", or glasses of the finest quality known to optical science which are accurately ground for your particular eyes.

This kind of glasses is not cheap, in price, but a safe-guard to the only pair of eyes you'll ever have.

Haldimand farmers have completed sowing of fall wheat and harvesting of the corn crop. London reports the land dry and hard for plowing, but fall work is being rapidly completed. The wineries have purchased a large share of the grape crop in the Lambton area. Carloads of grapes have been shipped from Lincoln to other points in Ontario, the Maratimes and the West. There has been an excellent demand for grapes by the basket. A number of loads of finished cattle have been moving from Middlesex, the best net price being $5.50 per cwt. Silo-filling operations have been general in Wentworth ad other couties.

Response of Crops to Manure

That different crops respond in varying measures to the application of manure is a well recognized fact. A knowledge of how they respond is necessary if the most profitable returns are to be obtained from the manure and from the crops in the rotation as a whole.

Where interilled crops are grown, they will perhaps show the most profitable response, but where rotations consist of grain and hay the answer to the question is not so obvious.

With rotations on heavy clay soils such as are found in Northern Ontario, the results of an experiment at the Dominion Experiment Station at Kapukasing Ont., are very instructive.

Two similar four-year rotations have been running alongside each other for thirteen years. Both consist of oats, barley ad two years of mixed hay. One has not received any manure or other fertilizer, while the othr has been given an application of eight tons of manure to the barley and another eight tons on the aftermath of the first year's hay for the second year of hay. From the information gathered on these rotations during thirteen years, it is possible to compare the effect of manure on barley and hay, and the residual effect on oats and hay.

A study of the data shows that barley increased 65 per cent and hay 126 per cent in response to direct applications of manure, while oats increased 60 per cent and hay 101 per cent from residual effect, that is residual fertility the years following appjlication.

Those comparisons show very clearly that the hay crops responded in a greater degree to manure than did the grain crops, and indicate that the most profitable place for the manure will be on the hay crop.

Another experiment that has been running for a shorter time seems to indicate that commercial fertilizers will give as good results on grain as on hay.

It would appear then that the most satisfactory results will be obtained from applying the manure on the hay crop and the commercial fertilizers on the grain crops.

Percheron Stallions Outnumber Clyde

Horse breeding in Ontario has been more active in 1938 than in any season since 1920, according to figures just released by the Stallion Enrolment Board of Ontario. Another interesting feature of the report is that for the first time in history of the province the number of Percheron stallions offered for public service exceeds Clydesdales. Percheron stallions total 640 and Clydes 601.

Middlesex county shows the greatest number of stallions enrolled with an even 100 divided as follows: 48 Percherons, 34 Clydes, 4 Belgians, 8 Standard, 6 Thoroughbreds and one Arab. Dr. W.J. Stevenson of London owns the only Arab Stallion in Ontario, the report discloses. Huron County is second in numbers with 72 Bruce is third with 66, followed by Perth and Grey Counties with 62 each.

The gradual upswing in horse breeding in Ontario can be seen by the icrease in the number of stallions enrolled. In 1932 the enrolment total was 1013 with 1166 in 1933; 1189 in 1934; 1300 in 1935; 1402 in 1936; 1506 in 1937 and 1583 this year.

The report also states that regular fall inspection is free to all stallion owners. The province has been divided into four sections and stallion owners are requested to make application at once to their local Agricultural Representatives who are arranging routes in their ctunties. A regular inspection is also provided at Ottawa, the Royal and Guelph Winter Fairs.

Various breeds are listed as follows: Percheron 640; Clydesdale 601 Belgian 142; Standard 106; Hackney 34; Thoroughbreds 27; French Canadian 19; German [illegible] Suffolk 4; French Coach 2; Saddle 1, and Arab 1.

It is interesting to note that 352 of the stallions enrolled carry premium certificates whereby they qualify for an annual grant from both Provincial and Federal Departmets of Agriculture, the amount of which will vary according to the number of in foal mares left by the service of the stallion, and according to the form of premium certificate the stallion carries.

Huron Plans T.B. Area Meetings

Huron County Council has taken definite action along with the Agricultural Representative and the Live Stock Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in plannig a series of 35 meetings to discuss the advisability of having Huron gazetted as a restricted area for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis in cattle.

These meetings will commence about the last of Octo[illegible]. It is hoped to have canvassers appo[illegible] vote of cattle owners taken to dec[illegible] the issue.

Officials of the county point out that at the present ime here are only five counties in the entire province that have ot taken some action to acquaint cattle owners with this policy. Beef cattle shippers to United States markets are already feeling the inconvenience of the new American regulations effective last July 1st whereby all cattle except those for immdiate slaughter must be tested before crossing the line. A number of shippers recently interviewed expressed the opinion that in view of this regulation and that the market has been curtailed in that packing houses not under Washington supervision cannot bring in untested Canadian cattle even though for immediate slaughter, the sooner the whole province is tested the better.

In this connection the American market will take cattle from areas which have been tested under the restricted area plan without further test. Huron county, being very largely interested in beef cattle, is vitally interested therfor in restricted area work.

This MIGHT HAVE BEEN PREVENTED...

...by a Telephone CALL

You've heard the story of the farmer who knew how to grow first-grade produce—but did not know how to get first-grade prices? Ultimately he had to abandon farm—and everything. Neighbours told him to keep in touch with markets by telephone—but he had no telephone. So he "saved" money and lost his farm. A farmer gets better prices when he knows what the market is. A telephone keeps him in touch with markets, neighbours. Safeguards home and family in emergencies.

"Sportsman Flies High"

CHAPTER II

Dan rose as Mrs. McDonald rose. She stepped close so that he caught the fragrance of her and felt that she sought to hold him again with those brown pools of her eyes. Her hand crept mouse-like up his forearm. "No! No! I mean, when anything occurs, you are to telephone me at the number on this card. Do you understand? Follow Arthur — that's what you must do. Let me know who is after him!

"Well," she said abruptly, her eyes falling, "that seems to cover it. You won't let him out of your sight, Mr. Colwell?"

"Not a minute." He found the card blank except for the number penned on it. He tucked it into a vest pocket. "Suppose I call you once or twice daily, according to developments? And where do you think I might find Mr. McDonald to start?"

She consulted a jeweled wrist watch. "He often lunches at the Waverly Club on Reed Street. It's about time now. And you'll phone me full details? Good-bye, Mr. Graber." She offered her small hand to Otto. "I hope you have a lovely hunting trip. I hope you shoot lots of—caribou, is it? And I'm depending on your handsome detective, for you charged me a disgraceful sum, Mr. Graber!"

"Costs money to employ the best operatives in town," he returned the stock excuse. "Good day." Smilingly, Graber ushered her out. As he closed the door his face changed and he waddled back to his chair glowering. "You got nerve! What do you think that humidor is, a grab bag?"

"What's Her Game?"

"Mighty good cigar, Otto. What's her game, anyhow?"

"Game? She ain't got a game. Afraid her husband'll get killed, ain't that plenty? What you gotta do is keep him from gettin' killed and find out who the guy is." He shot Colwell a look. "What makes you think she's got a game? You are hired to trail Mac and that's enough."

"All right. So you're off to hunt for two weeks?"

"Yeah, right now. I better hike. You handle Mrs. McDonald careful, see? I'd have you report to Vael while I'm gone, but what good is that dumb cluck? A swell partner for a man to have!" the detective agency chief complained.

"Swell looker, ain't she?" he asked in sudden appreciation, and nudged Colwell. "Well, I gotta beat it. Ewing, Pennsylvania. See that in the News about me? It said 'sportsman and aviation—uh, bug'. Well, I am a pilot, ain't I? Yeah, that's right—you read it. Well, so long Dan, see you in two weeks. I'll bring you back a ring-tail baboon or something.

"And say," he called after Colwell. "I'm lockin' this humidor, see? Don't you snitch none of my fifty cent smokes while I'm gone!"

Leaving the office, Dan pressed an elevator button and stood waiting. "Swell plan Graber's got," he muttered to himself. He pursed his lips for a whistle that did not come. "Mrs. McDonald's a sly one! I'll need to watch my P's and Q's. This thing has got to be handled with gloves. But—" He hummed briefly. "There's a chance for big results."

Mixed Up In Something

Fifteen minutes later he entered the Waverly bar, a part of the notorious Waverly Club, a night excitement place in an adjoining hall. The bar was a long, ornate room done in the modern manner of silver and black and straight lines. Tables scattered about were for the most part occupied by sporty looking men at lunch. The meal, he noticed passing a menu, was a dollar and a quarter. He was on expenses but there might not be time to consume a whole lunch. Colwell went to the end of the bar and ordered beer.

McDonald was not here yet. Dan knew the fellow by sight, a small man of forty with pince-nez glasses and white, bony hands. He had watched McDonald extract more than one rascal from the toils of the law, waving his bony hands and throwing his timbrous, persuasive voice around the courtroom. McDonald was the kind always skating on thin ice, barely evading disbarment proceedings and contempt citations. He might be mixed up in anything — and was.

The foaming beer was set before him. Dan sipped some of it, then turned to a battery of telephone booths. He entered the first, closed the folding door, and made sure he could see the expanse of the barroom before he dropped a nickel in the slot. "Central 0576."

He got a quick connection. "Hello, give me Irita."

He waited a moment. "Irita? Dan. Well, we're started, eh? It's risky business but Graber doesn't seem to suspect. That Mrs. McDonald took him ten yards in one down. But he was surprised to hear Lefty has ideas of a big grab! Anyhow. Otto's off to Pennsylvania hunting, and I don't mean rabbits. He's greedy! Every time he thinks of that joy dust he begins to dream he owns a bank. Oh! Here comes McDonald —I'm signing off. We'll make 'em walk the plank before we're through. Call you again. Be careful, Irita."

A Gun Concealed

He lingered in the 'phone booth until Arthur McDonald located himself at a table. Dan returned to his beer, saw the lawyer order lunch, so himself ordered it with a hint to the waiter to make haste.

The meal over, McDonald tripped to the cashier in that quick womanish way of his, paid his check, and chatted with a friend at a nearby table. He surveyed the whole barroom as he donned his hat and light coat, then departed. Colwell let him get a head start. As he paid his own check he saw through the big glass window two men come along the walk and accost McDonald. Dan stalled inside with a friendly remark to the cashier. McDonald, he noticed, did not appear to relish the companionship of those fellows.

The shorter man wore a loud striped suit and derby. He looked like a pug. The other, taller, was a clean featured man of thirty-five, but he had an expression of cruelty on his face. He was dressed in an ordinary dark suit that emphasized the burly shoulders and thick arms of him. When he turned his back Colwell thought he saw the coat skirt reveal the butt of a gun underneath.

Something New and Different

And Something New to Serve

There was a young man so benighted
He never knew when he'd been slighted.
He'd go to a party,
And eat just as hearty,
As though he'd been really invited.

This was in the days when hostesses gave old-fashioned parties to which so many people were invited, and so many people attended, that one or two more or less weren't noticed.

Unlike many hostesses, we know one lady who keeps a list of guests and menus she serves so as never to duplicate a dinner or refreshments to the same people.

So here's a cake which will improve the occasion: Harvest Cake with Harvest Moon Frosting. The recipe is new, but not too new. It is popular already with the few hostesses who have tried it. They report that there isn't the slightest risk of boring even the most jaded taste.

HARVEST CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup butter or other shortening
¾ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 egg yolks
2-3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks, beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased pan, 8 x 8 x 2 inches, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes, or until done. Spread with Harvest Moon Frosting.

HARVEST MOON FROSTING

2 egg whites, unbeaten
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
Dash of salt
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup almonds, blanched, toasted and chopped

Put egg whites, sugar, salt and water in top of double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater, and cook 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from fire, add vanilla, and beat until thick enough to spread. Add nuts. Makes enough frosting to cover top and sides of 8 x 8 x 2 inch cake.

American tourists who crossed the border with classified tourist cards and remained in Mexico a very short time last year totalled 9,396,877, according to estimates, and spent $7,684,000.

HOW YOU CAN Attract MEN

OF course, you have no men friends if you've let yourself become dull, cross, and nervous. Men like lively, peppy girls—girls with plenty of energy to go places and enjoy life.

Don't let love and romance pass you by. Help build up your pep and you, too, should have gay friends.

Here's good advice: Start taking time-proven, reliable Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and note the difference. This famous Compound, made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots, helps Nature tone up your system and thus soothes jumpy nerves and gives you more pep to really enjoy life.

Tear out this notice NOW as a reminder to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound TO-DAY without fail.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" distress from female functional disorders with Pinkham's Compound. Let it help YOU.

Window Curtains

Pale Pastels, Creams and White In Good Taste

Window curtains are good for several reasons. They give a soft finish to the window, act as a filter to keep out dust, keep private those rooms which are over-looked, and are—most important!—easily washed.

Dainty muslin curtains were a Regency fashion, but in 1938 you can have the screening curtains in a variety of materials. Among them fine ninon, which is more practical than it sounds, for it washes beautifully.

It is made in pale pastel colors, and you can get it in plain or patterned too, in white or off-white.

Household Hints

An old-fashioned method of stopping bureau drawers sticking in damp weather is to rub the track or the runner the drawer slides on with laundry soap. Drawers that stick chronically should be planed down a little, but this should be done with much care and only when the wood is thoroughly dried out.

To prevent bathroom odors, keep the drains absolutely clear and clean. Use a little commercial drain cleanser frequently, at least once a week. If possible, let stand twelve hours, then flush well with hot water. A strong solution of hot salt water, used often, is an inexpensive and effective aid for clear drains.

To make dainty party sandwiches — pinwheel, ribbon or blocked—after the thin slices of bread have been spread with creamed butter and filling, wrap in wax paper and chill thoroughly in the refrigerator until bread and filling appear one solid piece. They may be then sliced, crosswise or lengthwise without danger of falling apart. Creamed butter spreads easily and avoids lumpiness.

Don't discard mayonnaise which has merely separated but is still sweet. Break an egg into a bowl and whip until light and fluffy. Then add the mayonnaise, a little at a time, all the while beating with a rotary beater, until the mixture is again smooth and creamy. Store covered in a cool, never freezing, temperature.

To prevent boiled potatoes from becoming soggy, drain when cooked and put the pan back on the stove near the flame for a few minutes with the lid just slightly raised. Peel when the potatoes appear entirely dry.

Silver of any description, no matter how tarnished, may be made like new if cleaned in this way: Damp a soft cloth with olive oil and rub over the silver. All the tarnish marks will disappear. Then use a soft shining duster and dip in plate powder. This will dry off any oil that is adhering to the article, and you will find your silver glittering like new, and done in a few minutes, with no trouble or bother.

Always collect ice cream cups and cartons, you gardeners; arrange them in shallow boxes and fill with potting soil. In them you can plant cuttings or seeds collected during the summer from your pet plants. When transplanting time comes next spring, you just tear away the cardboard without disturbing the roots of your seedlings and half the transplanting battle is already won.

Here is a new, simple idea to give longer life to runner carpets, door mats and rugs. Buy 10 cents worth of carpenter's glue and melt it until very thin. With an enamel brush, paint the underside of each end, allowing the glue to penetrate, but not making the rug so wet that the blue goes right through. This will prevent the edges from becoming frayed.

To keep your pantry cool if the window faces the sun, try rubbing a damp blue bag over the pane. This will keep the sun out and your stores will remain cool and safe. It is a very simple matter to wash the blue off when the weather changes. But do remember to blue the inside of the window or else the first shower of rain will wash it away.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON III
REVERENCE FOR GOD
Exodus 20:7; Matthew 5:33-37; 12:33-37.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time.—The Ten Commandments were given 1498 B.C. The Sermon on the Mount was uttered by our Lord in the summer of A.D. 28, and the incident recorded at Capernaum in the autumn of the same year.

Place.—The Ten Commandments were given on Mount Sinai. It is not known on what mountain in Palestine our Lord delivered his great sermon. Capernaum is located at the northern end of the Sea of Galilee.

7. Thou shalt not take the name of Jehovah thy God in vain; for Jehovah will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain. The Third Commandment continues to dwell upon the sacredness of the relationship that should exist between God and man, but in this particular case deals exclusively with man's speech, declaring that he should not take the name of the Lord his God in vain.

The Hebrew word here translated "in vain" means, literally, "to make use of for any idle, frivolous, or insincere purpose." Thus, God's name is not to be desecrated either by false swearing or by being used disrespectfully for any other frivolous or idle purpose, as in cursing or reviling, or to support false pretensions of being able to use magic or divination, or to predict the future.

Another way by which men can use the name of the Lord irreverently is by insincerity of life, by hypocrisy, by pretending one thing with the words that they utter, when in reality they are determined to live a life entirely contrary to what their words would indicate.

Christ's Interpretations

Matt. 5:33-37. 33. Again, ye have heard that it was said to them of old time, Thou shalt not forswear thyself, but shalt perform unto the Lord thine oaths: 34. but I say unto you, Swear not at all: neither by the heaven, for it is the throne of God; 35. nor by the earth, for it is the footstool of his feet; nor by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King. 36. Neither shalt thou swear by thy head, for thou canst not make one hair white or black. 37. But let your speech be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay; and whatsoever is more than these is of the evil one.

The Jewish people of our Lord's day were taught "that only oaths need be kept, and not all of them, only certain forms of swearing were binding. Christ says that such distinctions are iniquitous. All oaths are binding, but no oaths ought to be used, because a man's word ought to be enough.

When our Lord said that to swear by an oath was something that came "of evil," he either meant that the oath was necessary because of the tendency to lie in the hearts of men, and therefore in itself witnessed to man's mistrust of men, or as often is the case, our Lord would indicate that many oaths are uttered to support or confirm what the one so speaking knows to be a lie, and thereby the sin of the falsehood is multiplied, the heart of the one speaking the falsehood is the blacker, and evil itself thereby is multiplied in that person's heart.

Matt. 12:33-37. Our Lord, previous to speaking the words which are assigned to our lesson, had cast out a demon from one who was brought to him suffering blindness and dumbness, as well as this evil possession.

33. Either make the tree good, and its fruit good; or make the tree corrupt, and its fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by its fruit. 34. Ye offspring of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. 35. The good man out of his good treasure bringeth forth good things; and the evil man out of his evil treasure bringeth forth evil things. See also Matt. 7:16-20; Luke 6:45. The fruit that is borne is determined by the nature of the tree. Words are products. If a man's life is evil at the center, you can expect nothing else but evil words as the fruit of that life. If a man is soundly good, his words will be soundly wholesome and true.

There is nothing which we need more these days than the cultivation of noble thinking, and the storing in our hearts of vast treasures of the finest things in life and literature, a purpose that will lead us to observe the beautiful and to hate the ugly.

36. And I say unto you, that every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment. 37. For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned. An "idle" word is simply an ineffectual word or an insipid word, "an index of thoughtlessness, if not of malice." Idle or wicked words are but the expression of a man's character, and as such will form a basis for judgment in the last day, when the things done in the body will be judged (2 Cor. 5: 10).

To Administer Four-Power Terms

Hobby Source Of Pleasure

May Cost Little or Much, But It's Always Fun

Before embarking on a new hobby it is necessary to have some preliminary information — something of the character of the craft, the initial cost of the equipment, good books of instruction, other methods of learning, practical uses, and outlets for sales.

No one craft is suitable for every woman. An older woman with consecutive hours of freedom could study a craft such as cabinetmaking at a studio, while a very busy young mother might weave in the evening. Some hobbies such as photography, wood-work, and sketching, a husband and wife can share; others are exclusively feminine. Some cost little or nothing; some can be worked at for 10 minutes and then dropped; and some can be entirely self-taught.

Having a Craft

There is nothing new to be said about the pleasures of having a real hobby, but most people do not realize how constructive these pleasures are or how they enrich every aspect of the hobbyist's life. The instinct for sound craftsmanship carries over into humdrum daily duties; studios, workshops, exhibitions, libraries, museums all suddenly develop to deep and lively interest; and best of all there is a generous welcome from the fascinating, international, and historical brotherhood of fellow craftsmen.

Sales for the first eight months of 1938 numbered 92,085, retailing for $102,352,967, against 115,998 at $117,947,293 in the 1937 period.

A Streamlined Rural Mail Box

Would Be Better Than the Type The Carriers in Ontario Have To Deal With, Says the Seaforth Expositor.

The average rural mail box is a good deal easier for the patron to handle than it is for the rural mail courier, says the Seaforth Expositor. There are some perfect ones, of course, but we are talking about the average, and the door on the average mail box is something that won't stay shut; that won't stay open; that breaks off; that sticks, and that always squeaks.

That does not bother the man who is getting his mail. He only has one box to open. With the courier, however, it is something else. He has several miles of them to open and close, and in wet and wintry weather that is some job when he has to use a different technique on almost every box.

No Door At All

Apparently the rural mail couriers across the line have experienced similar troubles with the boxes of their patrons. But now they are going to end it all. At least, we notice the other day that at the thirty-fifth annual convention of the United States rural mail couriers, that body passed a very considered judgment upon a new streamlined mail box, and the Post Office Department is likely to give its approval.

The new streamlined mail box has no door at all. Nothing to open or close, or stick, or anything else. All the mail man has to do is to press a finger on the rear of the box and the entire cover swings up and back.

Simple and easy; isn't it? We, in Canada, are living in a pretty fast age, so the next thing we know we will be streamlining our rural mail boxes too.

Launch New Naval Unit In Pacific

H.M.C.S. Nootka slid into the water alongside the Esquimalt plant of Yarrow, Limited, Victoria, B.C., last week, the fourth Canadian vessel to be launched this year.

Just before the little mine sweeper was launched, Mrs. Eric Hamber, wife of British Columbia's Lieutenant-Governor, smashed the traditional bottle of champagne over the prow and gave the vessel its name.

The Nootka was then drawn up alongside the Yarrow outfitting jetty where the ship will be made ready for patrolling the Canadian Pacific coastline and, in the event of war, protecting the Dominion shores from enemy ships.

The launching of Nootka followed by scarcely more than a month that of a sister ship, the Comox, at a North Vancouver shipyard. Previously two other minesweepers were launched in eastern shipyards.

CHANGES IN HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS

Major changes in the high school entrance examinations for 1939 were announced recently by Dr. McGregor Easson, secretary of the Ottawa High School Entrance Board.

The principal changes follow:

No examinations in either history or geography, hitherto important subjects.

More importance is attached to the pupil's general ability to interpret English literature.

More emphasis is placed on mathematical skill.

Four examinations will be written, while in addition, one of the papers will be marked for writing ability. The written examinations will be on English literature, composition, and grammar, spelling, mathematics.

First Changes in Years.

These are the first changes of any importance in the examination system for many years. "For the last 30 years there has been very little change," stated Dr. Easson.

The changes are necessitated by, and are in line with, the changes made in the curriculum of the elementary schools this year.

In Two Groups

As under the old system, there are two groups for subjects taught. Formerly the groups were: Group One: hygiene, nature study and art; group two: arithmetic, grammar, composition, literature, history, geography, spelling, writing and oral reading.

Under the new system, oral reading has been dropped. Geography and history go into group one under the general heading of social studies. Grammar and composition, as closely related subjects, become combined. Arithmetic extended somewhat, takes the new title of mathematics.

The new group one is composed of: social studies, science, health, music, art, crafts, home economics and agriculture. In the old group one, pupils in the inspected schools were nearly always recommended by their teachers, though examinations were set by the Ontario department of education for pupils from uninspected schools and other special cases. The new group two is composed of the five subjects in which there are examinations.

The new regulations do not specify what will be the procedure for uninspected schools for group one. For the inspected schools, however, there will be no examinations, but principals will be required to furnish certificates to the High School Entrance Board stating that candidates have satisfactorily coverde the course of study.

The system of admissions by recommendations by teacher will be continued as far as the group two studies are concerned.

Ability in Understanding

With the change in English literature examiation, no longer will the pupil be able to "cram." The paper will be based entirely on sight passages; that is, his ability in understanding literature in general will be tested by asking him to explain passages he may never have seen before.

Marks on th examinations will be apportioned as follows: literature, 100,composition and grammar, 100; spelling, 50; writing, 50; mathematics, 100. Forty per cent of the marks in each subject and 60 per cent of the aggregate will be a pass, providing the candidate has a certificate that he has covered the course in the subjects of group one.

KING MAY MEET ROOSEVELT AT INTERNATIONAL RIFT

Walter Winchell, widely known radio newscaster, suggested in his broadcast that King George and Queen Elizabeth meet President Roosevelt at the international span of the Thousand Islands bridge when they visit Canada in the spring of 1939.

"King George and Queen Elizabeth will be able to be on this side only three weeks, making any visit to the United States impossible," said Mr. Winchell. "For that reason important Canadian and American officials are studying the plan of having the King and Queen meet Presidet Roosevelt on the international span in the heart of the Thousand Islands."

Tentatively King George and Queen Elizabeth will arrive in either Quebec or Montreal late in the spring of 1939. According to present plans the King will dedicate the new and impressive war memorial at Ottawa and visit various other Canadian cities. They will probably go to the Pacific Coast.
