Trade fair bursts arena seams

Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — There was a lot to see, do and taste at this year's Winchester Trade Show — even more than other years.

It was partly due to size. This year organizers expanded the show to fill not only the ice surface of the Winchester Community Centre but the nearby curling club rink as well — giving more large equipment businesses a chance to display their stock.

But it was also because merchants seemed to offer more within their own displays this year, according to Gary Annable of Annable's Jewellers, one of the trade show organizers.

Merchants outdid themselves with decor, contests, samples and in one case, human mannequins to attract the attention of people who strolled by this year, he says.

"Several businesses had videos, others had demonstrations. There was participation in each booth as well as an increase in overall decor of the booths," he adds.

Adults and children alike stopped to watch the squiggly wiggly ball — a toy that moved of its own accord, in front of the Village Bin and Rainbow Company booth.

"It really didn't matter what the age, the older people were just as interested as the young ones," says Millie McClatchie, part-owner of the bulk food and novelty business.

"The older people thought it would be great for their cats."

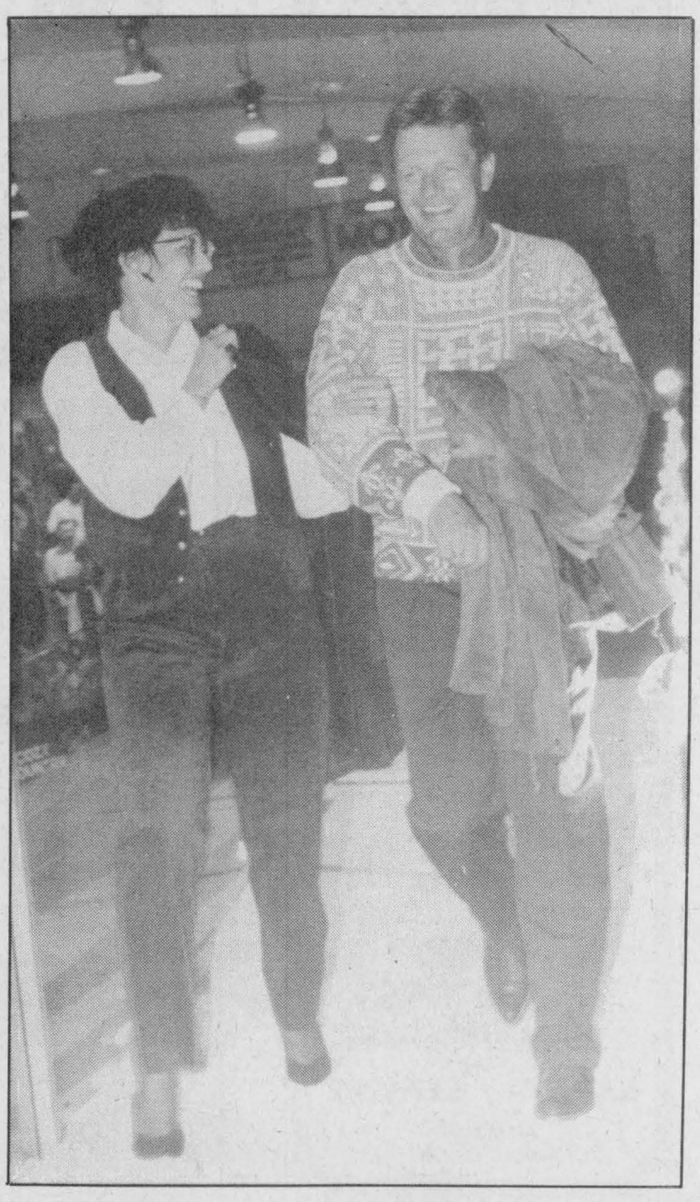
The store has always held demonstrations and offered taste tests of food products at the trade show to display its products. It seems to attract customers, McClatchie says.

A total of 1,300 people poured through the doors — about 380 more than the village's last show in 1991. The show ran Thursday to Saturday during the evening. Friday night, the evening the Country Boy/Country Girl fashion show was held, was the busiest.

The show runs every two years and will likely remain as an evening event.

"We tried it once 10 to 12 years ago to have it on a Saturday afternoon as well as a Saturday evening," Annable says.

"If you happen to strike a day that has good weather, people have other things to do this time of year cleaning yards and that sort of thing. It also pulls away from your Saturday night crowd."



Local merchants showed off their wares at the village's trade show last Thursday to Saturday. From the top clockwise: Elaine Freeland of Color Your World demonstrates sponge painting; Mary Jane Elliott and Liz Elliott of Sweet Sisters Bakery set out treats; Tom's Air Cooled Engines merchandise attracts onlookers; Barb Barkley and Lloyd Fawcett walk the runways with clothes from Country Boy/Country Girl stores; models Andrew Holmes and Maggie Graham also model fashions for the Country Boy/Country Girl clothing stores; interested show goers crowded the hall; and Donnalynne Clement of Paramed Health Services takes David Levere's blood pressure. Press Photos — Edwards

Farm safety rep covers wide area

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

KEMPTVILLE — Eastern Ontario's new farm safety representative is eager to promote safe farming practices.

"I have a passion for this job...and I'm happy to be back in Eastern Ontario," said Sheila James, who grew up on a beef farm in Carleton Place.

A graduate of the University of Guelph, James started the position with the Ontario Farm Safety Assocication in mid-July after moving from upstate New York where she worked as a paramedic for seven years.

And although a career as a paramedic may appear far removed from agriculture, James says she feels her training will be an asset in the farm safety job. She stresses the importance and need for first aid training for farmers and adds she's pleased that some Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food offices in the area have offered some basic first aid courses.

EDUCATION KEY

A large portion of the farm safety position deals with education and awareness as well as encouraging voluntary farm organizations within the counties.

The county associations increase public awareness by setting up displays at local fairs and other functions and by visiting schools.

A very active group, the Dundas County Farm Safety Association holds an annual farm safety poster competition to help increase children's awareness of the dangers on the farm. Its members also chat with a number of students during the annual Farm Fair, and set up displays at open houses and the local fairs.

Another facet of James' new job includes teaching farm safety to students enrolled in agricultural courses at the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology.

"I think its good to instill in young people safer work habits...already we're seeing more ear protection, etc...the message is getting across," she said.

James also helps agricultural commodity firms with Workers' Compensation claims and aids them in developing a safer working environment. As well, she will perform fatality and accident investigations.

James, who works out of her home in Kemptville, covers 10 Eastern Ontario counties — from Belleville on the west to the Quebec border; and from the St. Lawrence River, north to Pembroke.

She fills the position left vacant for a few months after the departure of Mark Wilson last spring.

Agronomist updates growers on new hybrids

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

CHESTERVILLE — Farmers should look at the results from a number of test plot locations when choosing a variety, says Pioneer agronomist, Jean-Marc Montpetit.

A large crowd of area farmers gathered at VandenBosch Farms in Chesterville last Wednesday for an update on Pioneer's corn and soybean varieties.

While the wet and cold of 1992 resulted in a disasterous corn crop, 1993 is expected to be much better, he said. Corn maturity is about two days ahead of what it was in the past few years and corn heat units are about 75 more than they were at this time last year. There has been plenty of rain as well, Montpetit explained.

The VandenBosch test plot was planted May 9 with a plant population of 27,500. One hundred and seventy-seven pounds of 10-28-17 fertilizer was applied in the planter and an extra 120 pounds of Nitrogen and and 60 pounds of Potash, afterwards. Dual was applied pre- emergence and Banvel applied post-emergence.

CORN VARIETY TRIALS

A number of corn and soybean varieties were tested at the plot. Montpetit summed up the varieties' performances as follows.

The 3787 (2,850 CHU) is a fairly late variety for Eastern Ontario and not very drought resistant. However, it works well in a wet year, has good spring vigor and is fairly adaptable to high plant populations, he said.

Soft-kernelled, 3861 (2,850 CHU) has good yield potential, but when used in this area, it should be the first planted and last harvested. It is a tall variety and could work well as silage, said Montpetit.

Adapted for this area, the 3790 (2,800 CHU) variety produces good yields if planted early and left late. It has good standability, good test weight and is the biggest selling variety in the country.

The cold tolerent, 3795 (2,775 CHU) does well in wet conditions, but so far hasn't gone through a drought.

Montpetit says the company has high hopes for the experiment variety, XO902H (2,700 CHU). It has good spring vigor, is early to flower and early to dent. But while it is rated at 2,700 heat units, it may not dry down quite as quickly as the popular 3902 variety, he said.

Another 2,700 heat unit variety, 3895 has excellent yield potential claims Montpetit. It is tall, early to dent and has good standability making it good for silage he said. however, it is a bit susceptible to cornborer.

A new variety, 3876 (2,700 CHU) was the best performing variety for this area last year, said Montpetit. It has good kernel quality, and after last year proved it can handle the wet. It has average spring vigor, good roots and standability. It is close to 3902 in maturity.

The 2,650 heat unit 3917 hybrid has a heavy test weight and good quality. Stalks stand well and it has very good early growth and early flowers, said Montpetit. But the plants are quite short and could be too short for extreme conditions. As well, it is less drought tolerant than the 3921 variety, he added.

The experimental X0852D is rated at 2,700 CHU, but Montpetit says it is a much earlier variety — more like 2,600 heat unit. Not only is it getting exceptional yields, but is also early flowering and has strong spring vigor. However, it is not highly drought resistant and can be susceptible to cornborer. Seed should be available in 1994.

According to Montpetit, the 3902 (2,650 CHU) hybrid produces "outstanding yields, has good stalk quality, and is early to flower and dent." It has some susceptibility to Eyespot and Head Smut.

The EXP X0852G (2,700 CHU) experimental variety establishes well and provides excellent yields, said Montpetit. It should be a little later than the 3902 he added.

A new hybrid — 3907 (2,600 CHU) is one to watch for in this area, said Montpetit. It has excellent yields, good early growth, good stalks and is early to pollinate, he claims. It does, however have the roots similar to 3902.

The leading hybrid for Eastern Ontario, 3921 (2,600 CHU) has excellent early growth and is more dependable than the 3902, suggests Montpetit. It has superior stalks and better stress tolerance than 3902. As well, it has a high test weight, quick dry down and excellent grain appearance.

An older variety, the 3929 (2,550 CHU) has excellent test weight, says Montpetit and works well in a wet year. But is isn't very drought resistant, he added.

The dual purpose 3962 (2,500 CHU) should replace 3929, said Montpetit. It has good roots and stalks and responds well to higher populations. It has a narrow range of adaptation.

BEAN VARIETIES

Bean varieties tested included: 9071 (2,700 heat units), 9061 (2,650 heat units), 9007 and an experimental variety.

Weekend to boost park

Garnet Quail
News Correspondent

EDWARDS— The proposed park for the little Village of Edwards is about to receive a couple of financial 'shots in the arm'.

Fri., Sept. 24, has been dedicated Edwards Park Night at the Ottawa 67's Junior 'A' hockey game at the Civic Centre. The 67's opponents that evening will be the Oshawa Generals.

The park committee is selling $8 tickets for the game. Two dollars from each ticket sold by them comes back to the park fund. Locally, tickets are available from Osgoode councillor Doug Thompson, Metcalfe Variety Store, the Russell Villager or Lavinia Coupal (tel. 821-3510).

Tickets are, of course, also available at the 67's box office. If you want to get yours that way just mention Edwards Park Night and the $2 rebate will come to the fund.

On Sat., Sept. 25, a fundraising dance is being held at the Greely Legion on Regional Rd. 8. The Legion has provided free use of the hall and The Moon Lighters, a group from Cumberland is donating its talents to the event. A $5 ticket will get you in and light refreshments will be served later in the evening.

Another highlight of the evening will be the awarding of prizes which the committee has been selling tickets for since their Fun Day in the Park. If you haven't got some yet, don't miss out on a chance to pick up what could be a winner.

First prize is a Friday night stay at Capital Hill Suites Hotel, formerly the Beacon Arms, dinner at Friday's Roast Beef House and transportation provided by Greg Limousine Servive of Metcalfe.

Second prize is a day trip for two to Massena N.Y. supplied by McKeown Tours and third prize is a 3 piece set of Visions cookware donated by Barry's Home Hardware of Russell.

Don't miss a chance to help this little community help themselves. Your involvement will assure you a good time and the chance to possibly win a nice gift.

St. Paul's Ladies Aid plans bazaar

by Janet Clapp

WINCHESTER — President Janet Clapp welcomed a good number of ladies to their September Labour Day meeting.

Following a reading 'If God went on Strike', Margaret Johnstone led the devotions reading from Genesis. Her interesting commentary was entitled '100 per cent unknown fibres'. As a result of treasurer Betty Larmour's healthy financial report, a generous amount of money was forwarded to the Board of Managers.

Discussion took place regarding the bazaar and luncheon which will occur on Nov. 13, from 11am- 1pm. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer after which Betty Larmour and Norma Duncan served a tasty lunch.

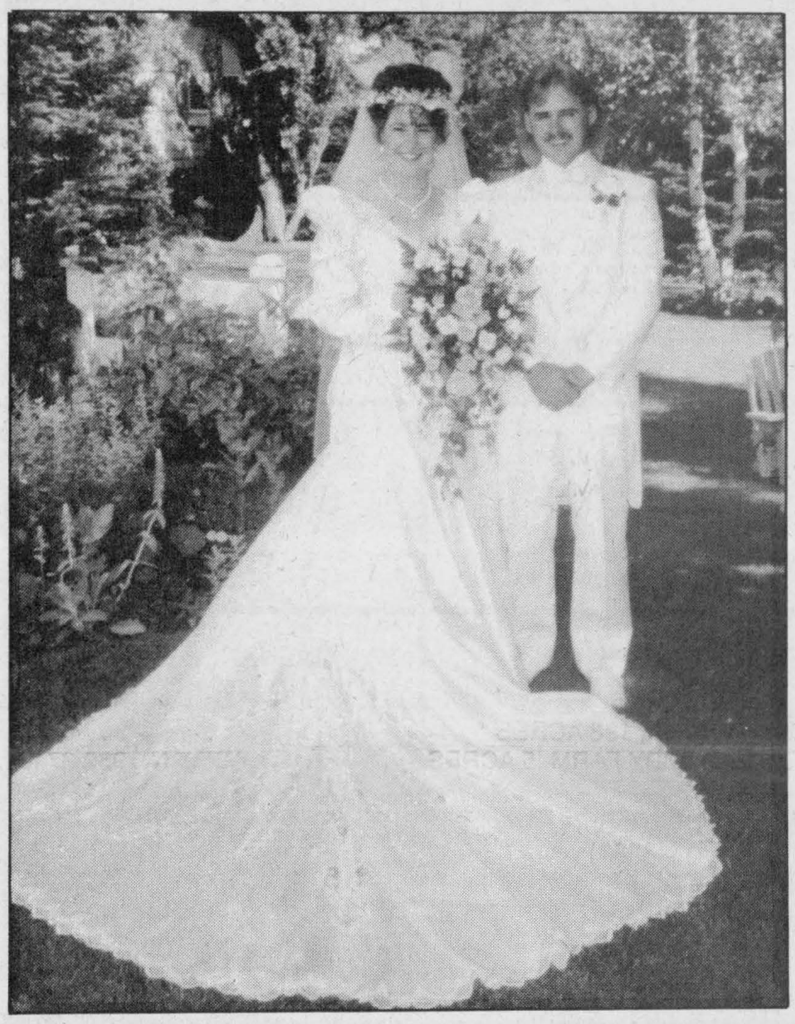
HAPPY 45TH ANNIVERSARY

Congratulations to Hugh and Marguerite Stewart (nee Wade) who celebrate their 45th Wedding Anniversary on September 25, 1993.

All our love and best wishes for many more years of health and happiness. Lorne and Penny, Lorna, Elaine, Granddaughters Lindsay and Ashley.



Casselman-Crowder exchange vows

On July 24, 1993, Brenda Crowder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Boyd, became the bride of Korey Casselman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Casselman.

The matron of honor, Cathy Bauman, sister of the bride and flowergirls Brekyn Boyd and Whitney Patterson all wore teal blue dresses.

The best man was Nelson McCooeye, friend of the groom and ushers were Brent Crowder, brother of the bride, Chris and Kevin Casselman, brothers of the groom. Jane Boyd played for the service and her daughters Kathy and Shannon sang.

From South Mountain United Church, the bride and groom were taken in a 1928 Model A Ford by Kent Raistrick to have pictures taken. Then to South Mountain 100F hall for a lovely meal served by STJ Catering.

Guests attended from Williamsburg, Cornwall, Elmira, Sudbury, Morrisburg, South Mountain, Brockville, Prescott and Ottawa.

The couple left for a few days and will reside in Williamsburg.
