Fire guts young couple's home

Deep-freeze fire

Fire gutted the home of Emma Sypes and John Yaldon last Thursday afternoon. No one was home at the time of the blaze, however there was just a shell of a structure left standing. The Morrisburg and Williamsburg Volunteer Fire Departments were on the scene about five hours as they fought the firein 30-below-zero temperatures. —Day photos

MORRISBURG—No one was home as fire broke out in the home of Emma Sypes and John Yaldon and their two young girls just north of the 750 Truckstop on Highway 31 Thursday afternoon.

Through blurry eyes, Emma held her trembling pet cat, Fluffy, and watched as the firemen tried to get her burning home under control.

"There goes again," she sobbed as the flames seemed to come from nowhere for the umpteenth time. "I can't believe this."

Rick Vaughan of Morrisburg was passing by the home around 2 p.m. when he noticed flames shooting from the south side of the mid-sized wood-frame house.

"I banged on the door to see if anyone was home," said Vaughan from the side of the road as he watched a cloud of black smoke engulf the house.

"I put their cat in the garbage can over there," he said pointing in the direction of the can which was pretty close to the burning building.

"He kept wanting to go back inside."

Vaughan then assisted the gas man, Ron Patterson, as he turned off the natural gas line to the house.

Williamsburg's Volunteer Fire Department got the call about 2 p.m. but they were already on a fire call at the home of Greg Casselman in Elma which started around noon hour.

"We were just putting out equipment away when we got the call to go to Morrisburg," said Doug Disheau, Williamsburg's fire chief.

"The water truck and the rescue unit were able to get there ahead of us, and we were there soon after."

It was minutes later that Morrisburg's Fire Department responded to the blaze, via Mutual Aid, to assist.

"It's nice to see the fire departments working together like this," said Williamsburg's former chief, Lyal Kehoe from his perch on the water truck.

"We have been taking water to two fires today. It's been keeping the boys busy."

In Elma, fire fighters managed to get the fire under control in fairly short order.

"The addition on the house sustained a lot of smoke and water damage, but we kept the fire to the main part of the building."

According to Disheau, the Elma fire started as a result of the owners trying to manually thaw the frozen water pipes—with a torch. As a result, the heat radiated up through the pipes and the walls became extremely hot, causing the fire.

"The cause was accidental," said Disheau. "I'm guessing to replace the home it would be in the neighborhood of $120,000. The Casselmans were insured."

Lucky cat

Emma Sypes clutches her pet cat Fluffy as he was saved from the blaze.

But for the fire fighters on 31 Highway, getting the fire under control was a constant struggle.

"It's a real (bugger)," said Morrisburg chief, Lee Hess. "It's tough to stay ahead of the fire. Once we see it's getting under control, we run out of water."

However, thanks to the efforts of Ault's Food's tanker truck, the odds to put out the blaze became a little better.

The tin shingles on the roof were giving the firemen trouble as the the flames were trapped in the attic making it almost impossible to extinguish.

And the -30°C temperature didn't help matters any either, as the Morrisburg pumper truck's valves froze up.

Morrisburg fire fighters remained on the scene until approximately 6:30 p.m. Williamsburg volunteers were called back to the scene later that night. It was suspected that the fire originated near the wood stove.

Sypes and Yaldon had their home insured. They were able to save a few items, like the kids' bicycles, a barbecue even the cat and dog.

Village block funding trimmed by Province

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—The Village has received word of a 26.68 per cent cut in block funding from the province.

Until this year, municipalities were given unconditional grants and road grants, excluding supplementary road grants. In 1995, Morrisburg had an unconditional grant of $128,744, and a roads grant of $125,800, for a total of $254,544.

But under the new Ontario Municipal Support Program, municipalities are given a lump sum to cover a variety of services, with virtually all conditions removed. The program is designed to allow municipalities to have greater freedom and autonomy by having more control over how they spend their money.

The block grant entitlement for Morrisburg in 1996 is $186,633, down $67,911 or 26.68 per cent from last year, with amounts paid in seven equal installments, beginning in June, 1996 and ending in December. The total amount of provincial funding available for roads, general administration, recreation, municipal buildings, staff and waste management is down almost 27 per cent from last year. This is a little larger than the expected 25 per cent cut announced by the Ontario Minister of Finance Ernie Eves November 29, 1995.

Besides block grants, the Village receives revenue from municipal taxes, user fees for services such as sewer and water, or grants in lieu of taxes for provincially or federally-owned property such as the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, and Morris Glen Apartments. Last year's budget amounted to approximately $1.5 million from all sources.

If the Village is to maintain the previous level of service to ratepayers, Council may look at raising taxes, or implementing user fees. But with no increase in local revenue, the only other option is to cut services.

By Monday's meeting, Council still had not had time to discuss the recent announcement. But Reeve Gord McGregor indicated Council may examine where to make cuts in service. "It will have to be service cuts because if we stop repairing streets what will happen down the road?" he suggested.

If Council is to maintain the essential elements of infrastructure like roads, sewer and water, they may look at cuts or user fees in other areas like recreation. Another option is to put on hold, downsize or eliminate capital projects.

The Ontario Government is expecting that municipalities will accomplish some savings in widespread changes to be in place by January 1997. The Municipal Act is being revised and municipalities are asked to examine their structure with the view of amalgamating and replacing two-tier with one-tier government. To date, Morrisburg Council has been pessimistic that any savings will be accomplished.

During budget discussions, which are finalized by April or May, Council takes into account factors such as the school board levy, county levy, and the amounts of grants. They examine each committee's situation, and arrive at decisions accordingly.

Councillors refuse decision

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

INGLESIDE—Deputy Reeve Bart Whitton pleaded to his fellow councillors Monday night to make some decisions concerning amalgamation of local governments.

At a regular Osnabruck Township meeting, Whitton encouraged council to support the move to incorporate Stormont's five municipalities into one.

Whitton is concerned that Stormont will have less representation overall than Dundas and Glengarry — which he fears will each soon divide into two counties with a North and South.

Councillor Fran Laflamme felt no decision should be made by council until all the information is available.

"I fear we are making a momentous decision without all the facts," she said. "We need to know where are the savings, how it will affect the taxpayers (and much more)."

Reeve Jim Bancroft suggested council delay its decision until next month when more information is available.

In other news, Bancroft told his councillors that the heads of various departments will no longer be appearing at council meetings to present their regular reports.

Bancroft felt it was not necessary to have the representatives present as councillors already receive individual copies of the reports.

But councillor Heine Bruining strongly disagreed.

"It's one way that councillors can stay in touch with what is happening," he said. "I feel quite strongly this is the wrong way to go."

New Commissioner

Code appointed to SLPC

MORRISBURG–Mr. William E. Code of Gananoque was recently appointed to the Board of Commissioners for The St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

From 1980 to 1985, Mr. Code served as Mayor for the Town of Gananoque and was the Chairman of the Gananoque Police Commission during the same period. He owns and operates Code Ford Mercury Sales Limited and acted as a representative on the Ford Motor Company National Dealer Council between 1976 and 1977.

Mr. Code is also a past president of the Gananoque Lions Club. He is a founding member of the 1000 Islands Playhouse and has been active in other community associations.

"Bill Code's business and community experience in the Gananoque and 1000 Islands area will be a valuable asset to the Board of Commissioners," noted Commission Chairman Gary Clarke.

Mr. Code's appointment for a three-year term came into effect on December 3, 1995. The St. Lawrence Parks Commission is an agency of the Ontario Ministry of Economic Development, Trade and Tourism. It is governed by a three to 15 member Board which is appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

The Board of Commissioners meets once a month to review policy issues, budget-priorities an strategic directions for the "Parks of the St. Lawrence."

St. Lawrence Parks Commission braced for new cuts

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—The St. Lawrence Parks Commission is bracing for another round of funding cuts as part of an overall transfer payment reduction from the Provincial Government.

Although the amount has not yet been confirmed, the Commission is preparing for a scenario of operating funding cuts which could be as high as 60 per cent over two years.

In 1993-4, the Commission was targetted for a $1 million reduction in its yearly operating budget of $14.6 million, following on the heels of about $3 million in operating constraints over the previous three years.

To meet the upcoming transfer cuts, the Commission has set a figure of $3.0 million for 1996/7 through expenditure reductions, reinvestment from one area to another, and increasing business with the aim of increased revenue.

And if the funding cuts are not as deep as expected, "all well and good, but we're planning for 60 per cent," said acting manager of Marketing and Communications Dawn Murray.

Not only are operating funds expected to be slashed 60 per cent over two years, but capital funding is expected to be reduced as well, as part of a repeated exercise over the past three years. Last year for the second time, the Commission received significantly less capital funding than requested. In 1995, they only received $927,000 in capital funding, or about one-third the $2.5 million requested. The previous year, the Commission had $2.1 million in capital funding, an amount substantially lower than the amount asked.

Dawn Murray added that the Ministry is not planning across the board cuts to all agencies, but is "looking at what they're dealing with and Upper Canada Village. "Whatever happens would be well designed," Murray said. "It would be something attractive to draw more people to the area, and better for long-term employment from that point of view."

According to Mike Paradis, acting Senior Manager of Crysler Park and Senior Manager of Business Development the Commission is following the basic objectives of the Land Use Policy formulated in 1993. A main objective is to manage and develop suitable lands for tourism use and in so doing, encourage private and public sector participation.

Murray added that since the government is in a climate of constraint, the Commission has "to figure a way to survive. Without doing something, we're just waiting for the next cut to happen."

One of the first steps towards implementation of the business plan, is a restructuring and streamlining process geared to the major destination areas.

SLPC General manager Frank Shaw continues in his capacity as general manager and acting managers have been appointed to new management portfolios. As of January 3, 1996 Mike Paradis is Senior Manager for the Crysler Park area including Upper Canada Village, and Senior Manager of Business Development.

Barry Hughes is Senior Manager of Long Sault Parkway and Manager of Upper Canada Village. Past UCV general manager Paul Deault announced his retirement at the end of February and is currently assisting in Human Resources.

John Robertson Senior Manager at Fort Henry is also manager of 1000 Islands Parkway, including road maintenance and land use regulation.

Steve Gourlay is Senior Manager of Business Services Division, and Chief Financial Officer. The Managers of Human Resources , Marketing and Communications continue managing."

While the Commission awaits the final announcement, they are undertaking a planning exercise to encourage business development and to streamline the organization. As part of an overall plan for the future, existing business and development is expected to play an expanding role in revenue production. Development will focus on the changing marketplace and increased customer demand for entertainment and recreation experiences.

The structure of new business is based on the concept of four tourism destination areas as prime assets within the Parks: Crysler Park, and Long Sault Parkway, Fort Henry and 1000 Islands Parkway. A master plan for the Crysler Park area has identified golf course development, residential development, acommodation retail and family entertainment. Examples mentioned in a Business Development Report include mini golf, RV Park, children's play area.

Planning is very preliminary at this point, Murray said. "It depends on getting developers together, and could be a combination of private sector partners with the goal of building up attractions in the area," she said.

A consulting team under the Ottawa company Ernst and Young has been researching a business development plan. Malone, Given and Parsons, a company based in Markham is looking at land use and development in combination with Forrec, a Toronto-based company which has experience in designing world-wide tourism attractions and destinations. An Ottawa-based fund-raising consultant Henry Storgaard is looking at this aspect of development.

As part of the destination concept, consultants have recommended residential development for Crysler Park. Although nothing definite has been decided, a few areas are being looked at near the Marina, Golf Course, or east of with their present duties as part of Business Services.

Only the first level of organization has been restructured, as the Commission awaits the final budget announcement. "We're working in progress in terms of the rest of the organization. The rest will be in development stages as we get input from various levels of the organization."

Murray added the changes are "part of the corporate plan strategy, which is in the direction of building business," she said.

The immediate change is only re-alignment of existing staff within the new structure, and more detailed planning continues over the next few weeks, with announcements by early February when budget decisions are confirmed. As positions of employment are affected, the proper procedures will be followed regarding collective agreements, Murray said.

Ewing appointed to Iroquois Council

IROQUOIS—After interviews last Thursday, Iroquois Council has appointed a new member on council, Jane Ewing.

Jane competed in the last municipal election against several candidates, among them Bruce Mullin. Mullin resigned his councillor position recently, the position she is filling. However, she will not necessarily take Mullin's place on the Marina Committee, or Recreation. A decision as to committees will be made later.

Jane is married to Town Foreman Bill Ewing, but stressed an ability to maintain conflict of interest guidelines when discussions relating to this position arise. In her interview and application, Ewing noted her dependability and ability to keep confidence. She says she will wait until she is familiar with situations on council before reaching any decisions.

Jane successfully completed a two-year Municipal Administration and AMCT course at Kingston Community College.

She has worked for Iroquois Printing Limited as a clerk-typist, and six years working for the Iroquois Chieftain as clerk-typist, writer, photographer.

Municipal experience includes four years service as secretary to the clerk of the Village of Iroquois. For the past two and a half years, she has successfully operated and managed her own business, Pokey's Place in the East End Promenade, Morrisburg.

The other applicants were Garnet Summers, a retired transportation supervisor for National Grocer, and a resident of Iroquois for one year.

Long-time Iroquois resident Kim Cassell also applied. Kim has served for five years on the Iroquois Recreation Committee and is currently chair of the committee. Cassell was a village appointee on the South Dundas Recreation Council, and a supporter of the Iroquois Fire Department through the Ladies Auxiliary.

Pauline Sicard, vice-principal of Nationview Public School, has years of experience as a teacher and has served on various education and School Board committees. A resident of Iroquois, she is also the owner of a business in crafts, with outlets in Lancaster, Cornwall and Ottawa.

BRINSTON—Tracy Lewis achieved her lifelong dream Saturday night when she was chosen Matilda Winter Carnival Queen.

"I've seen many of the pageants and its been my childhood dream to win someday," Lewis said.

The 17-year-old Grade 12 Seaway High School student from Brinston was chosen among seven candidates. Last year, Lewis was runner-up.

"I'm very honored to be representing my community," Lewis added. "I really wasn't expecting it."

Angie Thompson was chosen runner-up, Stacey Lewis was selected Miss Congeniality and a special first-time Judges' Award was given to Joanne Fawcett.

In a beautiful ceremony witnessed by about 300 people, the young contestants (aged 15 to 18) appeared on stage in both casual and semi-casual clothing of their choice.

Each contestant introduced herself to the three judges and audience, then answered a question later in the evening which she randomly pulled from a hat.

Lewis was asked what career she was interested in and what characteristics she felt were necessary to excel in the field.

She told the judges she planned to pursue a career in the communications/technology field, then discussed the relevant characteristics.

Lewis was escorted on stage during the pageant by her boyfriend Jason Armstrong. She was crowned Carnival Queen by last year's winner, Jo-Anne Larocque.

Dave Holmes, evening radio personality from 96.3 Country FM in Kingston, was the master of ceremonies. The three judges included Prescott resident Pat Harper — a veteran contest judge, local MPP Noble Villeneuve and Jim Lefebvre, a former radio personality with CFJR in Brockville.

Each contestant in the pageant represented a local business. Tracy Lewis was sponsored by Plante Farm Equipment Ltd., Angie Thompson by Gibson Electric, Stacey Lewis by Cooper Sport Trophy, Joanne Fawcett by C & L Feeds, Amy Casselman by Frank Ault Excavating, Sherry Shaver by Sears/The Nook and Leslie McDonnell by Harbers Flame Centre.

Tracy Lewis sends a special thank-you to her sponsor.

Council approves amalgamating office work between SDRC, SDEC

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Council has approved in principle a working relation between the South Dundas Economic Commission and the South Dundas Recreation Council for administrative purposes.

Chair of the South Dundas Recreation Council Lyle Van Allen and chair of the South Dundas Economic Commission Cam Martel brought the proposal to amalgamate the administrative work to Morrisburg Council Monday evening for discussion.

"With government restraints and downsizing, we approached recreation to see if we could work together and share some administrative costs, like telephone and typing etc. similar to years gone by," Martel said.

"At the last joint council meeting it was proposed we present a small budget to keep the office going regards to recreation. In the past, as you are aware recreation and economic development were in the same office," Van Allen said.

Van Allen said that in the view of Joint Recreation it was a waste of time to keep the work for each group separate. If an office is to be maintained, it would be better to amalgamate the administrative work for both departments rather than keep both administrations and records separate at the cost of duplication.

Along with the proposal for amalgamating office functions, is a proposal to offer a new secretarial position for 20 hours a week to do work done previously. But there should be a reduction in hours of joint recreation administration, with some groups preparing their own budgets.

Van Allen believed that the Matilda Hall Committee was to prepare their own budget, Upper Canada Little League, and figure skating and minor hockey each prepare budgets for South Dundas Recreation to review and advise municipal councils whether to accept or reject.

Reeve Gord McGregor agreed with the proposal in principle, but questioned the suggested salary of $10,000 for the proposed job, if the town staff were to prepare a budget for the Morrisburg arena, with volunteer groups each also preparing their own budget.

Another point questioned was the suggested 20 hours, whether this was correct for the amount of work which may be divided equally or unequally among the two departments depending on workload.

"I believe there is some cost-saving to be had if we want to keep both organizations going, and the amount of discussion going on about amalgamation, it's better for municipalities to get together," Van Allen said.

Van Allen and Martel were to approach Williamsburg Council with the same proposal last night, Matilda Council on Thursday and Iroquois. If all municipal councils agree in principle, representatives will meet to decide on a job description, hours and salary figure. If a position is advertised, it will be a contract position.

In the past, the administrative work for both departments was done by project manager Linda Bowers, with the help of two office staff members on Section 25 grants. But with the decision last summer to restructure South Dundas Joint Recreation, the financial responsibility for SDRC to manage joint facilities was eliminated, and operating expenses for joint facilities reverted to the municipalities as of January 1.

Bowers and her office staff operated on the joint budget from South Dundas Recreation, Section 25 grant, and South Dundas Economic Commission municipal grants. Bowers received notice in October from the Recreation Council, and contracts for staff ended in December. Thus the previous office manager's position of 40 hours a week which combined approximately 20 hours work for the Economic Commission and 20 hours work for Recreation ended.

Community Alert Nertwork underway

CORNWALL—The City of Cornwall, with assistance of the Joint Emergency Preparedness Program (JEPP) and the United Counties of S.D.&G., Ontario Hydro, Cornwall Electric, Domtar Fine Papers, ICI, Meridian Richmond Die Casting and the Guardsman Products, are in the process of implementing the Community Alert Network.

The neighborhoods are relatively safe p laces to live, but a serious incident affecting health and safety could happen anywhere at anytime. It could be a large fire, a chemical spill, an earthquake, a tornado, or almost any danger natural or man made.

The Community Alert Network, is a system to warn as many people as possible, as quickly as possible, and it's as close as your telephone.

The system works by automatically telephoning all homes and businesses in an affected area with a specific warning. The message is delivered as simply and clearly as possible by voice.

All calls are generated and tracked by a sophisticated computer system to make sure every number is called—more than once if necessary.

The community will be made aware through the development of a pamphlet, public speaking engagements and an official kick-off day early this year.

Further information can be obtained from Diane Dumoulin, safety and emergency planning officer at 932-6252, ext. 384.

Let's butt out

Smoking is the number one preventable cause of serious illness and death in Canada.

In Ontario, about 13,000 die every year from tobacco-related disease — more than from AIDS, murder, suicide and traffic accidents combined!! This death toll represents a community the size of Niagara-on-the-Lake.

During National Non-Smoking Week, which begins January 15 and ends January 20, volunteers from the Canadian Cancer Society are available to organize events, coordinate displays, do public presentations and to provide information and support to people who have recently quit smoking, to high-risk pregnant smokers and to those who wish to quit.

It is time to get help and butt out!

The Canadian Cancer Society predicts that, of every 1,000 Ontarians aged 20 who smoke, about half will die as a result of smoking if they continue. On average, smokers lose 15 years of statistically-expected life. Tobacco use is responsible for 30 per cent of cancers and 17 per cent of heart disease victims.

Why take the risk?

Tobacco smoke contains more than 4,000 chemicals, many of them known to be harmful, such as nicotine, carbon monoxide, benzene, tolulene, formaldehyde, acetone, ammonia, cadmium and nickel. More than 40 of these are carcinogens in humans.

If you cannot butt out, think about those whom you may be affecting. More than 300 Canadians die every year from lung cancer caused by second-hand smoke. However, if you do quit for one year, your risk of dying from heart disease decreases by 50 per cent; 15 years later, your risk is close to that of someone who has never smoked. After 10 years of abstinence, former smokers have about half the risk of dying from lung cancer as do those who insist on continuing to smoke.

Don't be fatalistic. Use the advent of a new year to butt out now. With the support of the Canadian Cancer Society, try to break this deadly habit now.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles by Laurie Day

1986

Williamsburg Township council agreed in principal to sell Prehistoric Historic World owner, Paul Dupuis, a 50-acre parcel of land north of his property so he could build a volcano on it. At a meeting in Williamsburg members agreed to give Dupuis the option on the commercially zoned land near the CNR tracks for $25,000.

Persons ordered to pay fines in provincial court here were advised that they needed only to slip across the hall to pay up. For the following six weeks, the provincial court office was to set up temporary headquarters in the police room at the civic centre, directly across from the courtroom.

A questionnaire to find out merchants' views of the proposed BIA and what improvements to the mall, if any, they'd like to see done was drafted. The two-pronged survey, to be answered anonymously, was drafted by Peter Remillard, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, and Gord Lane and John Morrin of the Morrisburg Merchants' Association.

Decked out in a banner proclaiming her New Year's baby for 1986 at Winchester Hospital, Gabrielle Fawcett looked nonplussed about the whole affair. Born January 3rd at 4:13 p.m. Baby Gabrielle was the first child for Megan and Jim Fawcett.

1976

Approval was granted to Mr. John A.D. Alguire of Ingleside to establish a 60-bed nursing home in Dundas County. While the story came as "no news" to the people of the area, who seemed to be privately informed beforehand that the government announcement would not be made until well after the October election, it was nevertheless greeted with resentment by some of the 2,000 people who signed the petition circulated by the "We Care" group.

The Morrisburg Lions claimed a nine-point lead over the second placed Broncos after swamping the Winchester Hawks and the Prescott Saints Sunday. The Hawks then edged the Broncos to give the Cardinal team seven losses in 24 starts. Friday night, the Lions upset the Hawks 11-2 led by Chuck Lawlor with four goals and two helpers. Singles came from Paul Doney, Doug and Bob McNairn, Ernie Duval, Kevin Duval, Hugh Gillard and Kevin Wells.

In honor of Mrs. Sylvia Jones, who had supervised the public library in Morrisburg for many years, the board of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry had arranged a special film evening in the library. The Morrisburg library had been designated as the holding library for a large collection of Canadian books and the film program was fit in with this Canadiana theme. Presentations were to be made to Mrs. Jones on behalf of the Morrisburg Council and the library board.

The January 7th issue of The Leader reported Mrs. George Rutherford, a Morrisburg flower lover, had been astonished to find several pansies in bloom in her flower garden, a sign which definitely pointed to a mild winter.

Tragedy struck a Morrisburg family on New Year's Eve, when 19-year-old Richard Coligan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coligan, was killed instantly in a car crash on Highway 31, just north of Winchester. Thomas Grant

Let's get Personal

Stephanie Wolfe

When I wrote about January being Alzheimer's month in last week's editorial, I did not comment upon the personal effect this devastating disease has had upon me and my family.

My first Dad's mother, Bubby Bella, suffered from the disease for many years before she died; mercifully for her, she progressed rapidly to the last vegetative state and remained in bed, unaware to the end. My positive memories of her while I was a young child have been dissipated by the years of seeing her comatose.

However, the process with my mother's two parents has been dramatically different. My grandmother, Bubby Anne, was diagnosed about 10 years ago. For her, the disease progressed slowly, day by agonizing day. Even today, she retains elements of her core personality — she was always a gracious, happy, kindly person, and she is still quick to smile and enjoys simple pleasures. There is some compensation that, at age 84, she is otherwise very healthy and able to enjoy life at a simple level.

With her husband, my Zaidy Ralph, the progression has been much more difficult. Although he has lost some of his concentration skills, at age 87, he remains lucid most of the time. Tragically, he is all to aware of what has been happening to his wife and what lies in store for him. Watching his wife deteriorate before his eyes would be an awesome burden for a normal person; for someone in the early stages of Alzheimer's, it is beyond cruelty. He is aware, but the disease affects his ability to cope for Alzheimer's Disease not only affects the mind, but also the personality.

Thus, my poor Zaidy must exist in a living hell in which his wife of 57 years fades away before his very eyes, changing in ways that he finds impossible to accept, let alone to understand. Although they live together at Hillel Lodge, the Jewish Home for the Aged in Ottawa, the only couple left that share a room, he does not have the comfort of 'growing old' with a wife he has loved, and who has loved him, for so long. She looks like his 'Annie' but she no longer acts like his 'Annie'. She cannot respond to him as his wife, but usually responds as a small child. Sometimes, she is cheery; sometimes, she is cranky. Sometimes, this woman, who was so gracious and dignified most of her life, responds with vituperative anger, which devastates him.

My most vivid memories of this woman, my grandmother, are of her smiling at me, always smiling, always so happy to see me. She regularly took me on shopping expeditions; she always kept her special cupboard stocked with treats for me and my brother and her five other grandchildren. She made beautiful dinners at Passover, Chanukah and other family occasions. She dressed impeccably.

I can easily believe that she and her three sisters were affectionately known as the "Four Graces" by the Jewish community when they were young women living in Ottawa's Lowertown.

So, I understand a little of my grandfather's pain. My Zaidy Ralph has known this lovely, sweet woman for six decades. He has always counted himself blessed that she chose him. He worked hard to succeed in business, to provide a good living for her and their children. His beloved 'Annie' always believed in him. He has dedicated his life for the past 10 years to caring for her.

But now, only a shadow of her remains for him and for us. No wonder, as the poet wrote, he "rages, rages, against the dying of the light..." No wonder that he examines his life and what he has accomplished and sees only ashes. His beloved 'Annie' has gone. Yet, her lovely shadow remains to torture him every day. It is not her fault. Nor is it his fault. It is a disease that respects no one.

With my Zaidy Ralph, I also rage, rage against this insidious disease.

Morrisburg's History

McLean of R.R. 1 Winchester, the driver of the other vehicle, died enroute to an Ottawa hospital. The crash occurred in a low foggy area north of Docksteader's Restaurant.

The St. Lawrence Intermediate Hockey League opened its schedule with teams from Spencerville, Cornwall, Williamsburg, Glen Walter and Cardinal competing. The Williamsburg team had among its ranks several names familiar to Morrisburg residents and Combines fans. "Snookie" Ray Baker was to handle net duties, and Bill Jarvis, Russ Casselman, Teddy Holmes and Bill Dillabough, former members of the Combines, were in the lineup. They were joined by Brian VanAllen, Doug Thompson, Mitch Cassell and John Degray. There was no intermediate team in Morrisburg.

John Davis Dain, 90-year-old native of Morrisburg, died January 3rd at the home of his daughter Mrs. Leslie McCormick. During his lifetime, he had become almost a legend in Morrisburg. Born September 1875, he was a successful farmer and feed merchant, and in his earlier days, was a well-known foundryman.

1956

It was reported in The Leader that the inaugural meeting of Williamsburg Township Council was held January 7th. The following took the oath of office: Donald Kyle, reeve; Graham Wells, deputy reeve; Ross Hess, councillor; W.O. Robinson, councillor, and Johnny Whitteker, councillor.

Elva Baker was elected president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion Branch 48, and Shirley Rice became secretary.

At the Dominion tangerines were two dozen for 29 cents and Devon bacon was 45 cents for a one-ounce package.

1946

The Leader reported that the Morrisburg Intermediates had retained their hold on first place in the St. Lawrence Hockey loop with a 5-4 win over Cardinal. Fred "Bun" Devaul had a two-goal performance for Morrisburg and singles came from Howie Eamon, Tindal and Osler.

George and Paul Robert announced there were three trophies for the champions in the district for billiards, snooker and Boston pool. Interested players were asked to sign for the upcoming tournaments.

Williamsburg boys Cfn. R. Gerald Norval, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Algire, son of Mrs. Belle Algire had arrived home aboard the troopship Maurentaina at Halifax.

Norman Clark of Morrisburg was displaying two caterpillars which evidently had mistaken the January thaw for an early spring warm spell.

The Village of Morrisburg's clerk, H.R. Schell, was accepting applications for permanent employees for general laboring work for the village at 40 cents per hour.

1936

Hockey sticks were priced from 15 cents and up at R.H. Bradfield and Co. and regulation hockey pucks were 21 cents each.

The Canadian National Railway was offering round trips from Morrisburg to Montreal for $1.90 per person. One could travel to Toronto and return for $4.85.

1926

The January 8th issue of The Leader printed the municipal election results. Arthur Flynn defeated Chas. S. Colquhoun for the position of reeve, and leading the polls for councillors were Chas. W. Marsh, William C. Coir, and Irwin Hillard.

Charles F. Marcellus was elected reeve at Williamsburg and Roy Schell, deputy reeve. The councillors were Howard Beckstead, Frank M. Casselman and Ross Swerdtfeger.

J.B. Barkley at Boucks Hill was having a clearance sale. Some specials included raisins at 15 cents a pound, $1 for 14 pounds of sugar, $1.35 for men's flannel work shirts, and $2.40 for women's cushion sole Oxfords.

Dr. Will C. Davy was elected president of the Morrisburg Curling Club.

At the West End Meat Market fresh beef hearts were 12 cents a pound and pig liver was 10 cents a pound.

Village says no to strip clubs

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Unlike the Village of Vernon in Osgoode Township, the Village of Morrisburg has taken action in advance to prevent the development of strip clubs or adult entertainment parlours.

Council passed By-Law 5-96 under the Municipal Act, defining the Village as an area in which adult entertainment parlours or similar establishments may not operate. According to the by-law "Adult entertainment parlour" means any premises or part of which is provided in pursuit of a trade, calling, business or occupation, goods or services appealing to or designed to appeal to erotic or sexual appetites or inclinations.

Not only does the by-law forbid the operation of adult entertainment parlours in any area in the Village, it describes any contravention as on offence. Individuals who contravene or officers of the corporation who concur in the contravention are guilty of an offense. A maximum fine of $25,000 or maximum one-year term of imprisonment is outlined for an individual. If a Corporation is convicted, it would be subject to a maximum penalty of $50,000.

After passing the by-law, reeve Gord McGregor commented on the rationale. "It's better to close the door to the barn before the horse gets out."

Coun. Larry Schnurr added: "This is a concern. It's basic that what people want to do is their business. But how to have any way to control in the absence of police force ourselves, the problems that could and not infrequently do arise?"

Deputy reeve Dirk Testerink commented on the steep ness of the proposed fines, but McGregor added the punishment is up to the Justice of the Peace and depends on the seriousness of the offence.

Amid laughter, Schnurr asked if Council would be obliged to inspect suspected violations. Coun. Jack Notman added jokingly that inspections might be carried out by "SPIRIT VOLUNTEERS," a group who does voluntary work for the Village.

McGregor wondered aloud why the previous by-law governing short term borrowing didn't receive the same amount of discussion.

Testerink pointed out that the strip club issue is really a matter for big cities, and Schnurr added: "Or Vernon." It was decided to put the issue on the January agenda, at the December meeting.

According to Osgoode Township by-law officer, an entrepreneur had already set up a strip club in the Village of Vernon. The establishment is now being challenged by Osgoode Council, who have referred the matter to a lawyer.

Median removal concerns BIA

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG–Business Improvement Area president George Davies had good words and criticism for Council at Monday's meeting.

The kind words were for the support Council gave the Santa Claus parade, and the criticism was for the complete removal of the center median in the plaza.

The Village had the median removed after a water main break over the seasonal holiday."Some are happy but the opinion is about four to one who are disenchanted with the removal of the complete median," Davies said.

Some criticism came from BIA members who didn't believe it took a complete removal to repair the main. Others approached to object that BIA money had been used to create the median.

The interlocking brick, along with parking lot, islands, and trees was originally paid for with BIA money, provincial grant money and Village funds.

Chair of Public Works Councilor Cam Martel explained the decision to remove the center section to get at the break under the median was due to safety factors. The section was jagged and broken, and it was as easy to replace as to move.

"For safety conditions it was an on the spot decision to remove it completely, and the cost factor would be similar," he said.

There could be no decision to pave, as this is impossible during the winter months.

Martel pointed out that some interlocking bricks were irreparably damaged and had to be discarded, while others were taken to the Industrial park and can be retrieved.

Davies argued in favor of the median, since its presence had reduced the number of accidents in the general area. "It kept heavy transports and RV's from trying to make turns by the clock tower."

Martel agreed that the median eliminated an accident factor, while reeve Gord McGregor noted accidents were eliminated largely when the traffic went west, and at the north side of the plaza. However, over the past eight years, there has been a problem of vehicles damaging tires as they bump against the curbs.

Davies pointed to an additional problem caused by a basin at the clock tower. With a median, if drivers apply the brakes in freezing rain, they have a choice of sliding either to the median or hitting a car. Although this is not a very good choice, now there is no choice.

Some BIA members are concerned that the median was gone permanently, but Davies was told there is a possibility of replacement and the issue can be raised again in Council's long-term planning sessions.

During previous discussions. it was recommended that if the median were ever removed and replaced, the interlocking brick could be laid several inches lower, and still mark two lanes of traffic effectively.

During the spring, the area can be cleaned up and Council will review the situation for a decision.

TransCanada PipeLines Limited
Public Notice of Facilities Application
Relocation of Compressor Unit from TransCanada PipeLines Iroquois Station

To keep pace with growing customer demand for natural gas, TransCanada periodically increases its mainline natural gas transmission capacity. This can be accomplished by constructing new pipeline facilities and/or compression facilities on our mainline transmission system. We are currently considering relocating a compressor unit from TransCanada's Iroquois Station (Station 1401), as shown on the map above, to another TransCanada compressor station. We are anticipating this relocation to occur in the fourth quarter of 1996.

TransCanada will be applying to the National Energy Board (NEB) to obtain approval for the transfer of the compressor unit from Station 1401. As part of our application to the NEB, we will be conducting an environmental and socio-economic assessment for this relocation. To ensure community concerns are identified and addressed by both TransCanada and the NEB, we are seeking comments from members of the public on the potential environmental and socio-economic impacts of the relocation project.

The NEB Information Bulletins 1,2,3, and 4, which describe the pipeline route approval process and how landowners and members of the public can participate in this process and TransCanada's Environmental Management Handbook (1995) have been distributed to local municipal offices in the vicinity of TransCanada's Iroquois Station. We will also be forwarding a copy of the environmental and socio-economic assessment report to these local municipal offices when it is completed. If you are interested in reviewing any of this information, please contact one of the clerks of a municipality near the station.

TransCanada is committed to consulting with members of the community and views your comments as a valuable component of the planning phase. If you have any comments or questions regarding the proposed relocation, the approval process, or any environmental and socio-economic issues, please contact:

American Sign Language now offered at T.R. Leger

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Courses in American Sign Language Vista, Signing Naturally will be offered here at the T.R. Leger Alternative School on Second Street starting Tuesday, January 16.

The use of American Sign Language enables one to communicate with the deaf, deafened and those who are hard of hearing.

Last year, course instructor Mariette Frigon-Thew taught 13 students in Level 1 and had 11 graduates, with almost all who completed the first course wishing to advance to the second level. "If there are enough students for Level 1 and Level 2, next time it could be Levels 1, 2 and 3," Mariette said.

It is her aim to eventually have all six levels offered in Morrisburg, and she is therefore furthering her qualifications as a sign language interpreter.

"There's a great demand for sign language interpreters. There's a lot of job possibilities in that field," Mariette said. "If interested in going through to the end of level 6, a person can further their education at community college or by apprenticeship with the Canadian Hearing Society."

Level One focusses on introducing oneself, exchanging personal information, talking about one's residence and surroundings, describing one's family and activities.

Level Two focusses on giving directions, describing others and making requests. "This is getting more in-depth, getting into conversational signing," Mariette said.

"I was surprised because I didn't expect the feedback I got. This is the first time I've been in teaching and I was overwhelmed with the success," she said of the first classes offered last spring.

The Level One Course will be offered Tuesday evenings from 6.30 p.m. to 9.00 p.m. and the Level Two course will be offered Wednesdays starting January 17. Both courses will be offered for a total of 15 weeks.

Those interested or desiring more information may contact the T.R. Leger School at 543-2375 or Mariette Frigon-Thew at 543-3447.

John Fudge returns from former Yugoslavia

Witnessing the horrors of war

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG — The horrors of living in a war zone became a frightening reality for Morrisburg's John Fudge, who recently spent three and a half months in the former Yugoslavia.

Master Seaman Fudge served with the Canadian Armed Forces' National Rear Link as a custodian clerk where he was responsible for providing communications equipment to the United Nations troops.

Although he spent most of his time at Camp Primosten on the Croatian coast, Fudge had some opportunity to travel and witness the devastating aftermaths of the war.

Fudge explained that although there was no official ceasefire during the time he was there, most of fighting at that time was in Bosnia, not Croatia.

"Although the hostilities were over at that time, when I was driving, I saw villages deserted, houses completely gutted...there's so much destruction, it's unreal," Fudge explained.

"It was definitely an eye opener."

Fudge left for the former Yugoslavia last September with 300 peacekeepers, most of whom were truck drivers and mechanics from the One Service Battalion in Calgary.

He explained that after 15 years working as a communications /researcher for the Canadian Forces, he volunteered to go to overseas for a new challenge.

During Canada's peacekeeping tour with the United Nations, 11 Canadians were killed and 100 injured. The UN served in the former Yugoslavia from March 1992 until last December, when NATO took over.

Fudge agrees nothing could have prepared him to deal with the shocking images of war.

"Once, I lost my way in this town that was totally desert," he recalled. "I saw a couple of dozen guys with bandanas on their heads and their AK 47's. It was like something out of a Rambo movie. It kind of wakes you up to reality."

One of the major horrors that the Canadian contingents and others under NATO now face are the tens of thousands of mines strewn across the country indiscriminately by various factions and bandits.

Fudge worked about 10 hours a day and jogged in his free time in the constant rain, cold and dampness.

He is not optimistic the conflict between the Bosnians and Serbs will soon be resolved.

Conflict has been going on for hundreds of years and only after Marshall Tito united the various factions during the Second World War and afterwards, was Yugoslavia a united country.

"I feel sorry for the kids because they are caught in the middle," he said. "It's hard to believe the hatred is so deep. Armed conflict seems to be engraved in their personality. I don't know if they really realize what they are fighting for anymore."

Junior "B" blue line potency

Shawn Hummel's back in lineup

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—He wants to get meaner on defense..

That's the sentiment of coach John Morrow as he has signed two able-bodied defensemen to Junior cards this week.

The Morrisburg Lions now have former junior player, Shawn Hummell, and Ingleside's Steve Iwachniuk on the blue line.

"We needed to get some bigger guys back there on the blue line," said Morrow of his most recent signings.

"Shawn decided he would like to come back to the team," Morrow added. "And we're very happy to have him back. He will definitely add leadership as well as depth."

Unfortunately, because they are only allowed two overaged players, Shawn being number two, (Geoff Hare is the other) they had to let Travis Froats go.

"We're real sorry to see Travis go but we needed to make a quick decision.

Froats had been plagued with injuries throughout the season, which enabled the coach to make the tough decision to let him go.

Iwachniuk will be skating with the team in practice Wednesday. He's scheduled to make his first appearance as a Lion on Friday night in Morrisburg when they host Gananoque.

Iwachniuk, who is also on a Junior A card in the Cornwall Colts' camp, will be trying to get as much ice time with the Lions as possible. The Ingleside resident is a threat on the blue line standing 6'2" and weighing about 220 pounds.

With five of the Lions now side-lined with injuries, including Tim Waldroff (ankle), Alain Quenville (removal of wisdom teeth), Chad White (cracked knuckle), Jeff Hyndman, James Cooper and Jason Rice, coach Morrow was looking to fill a few holes.

"We only had 14 guys dressed Sunday (seven forwards, five defensemen and two goal tenders)," he said.

The young players held their own Sunday said Morrow, despite their 7-5 loss to Kemptville in Morrisburg.

The situation was a little different Friday, as the Lions collected a 10-4 win in Alexandria.

Hummel was hot in Alexandria scoring the team's first marker of the game on the powerplay. He also had one assist in his first outing with the Lions this season.

"Shawn's looking good," said Morrow. "He's just getting his timing back, but he's in better shape than he was last season."

Hare, who collected three goals and two helpers in Sunday's 7-5 loss, had three goals and two assists in Alexandria.

"Geoff's really playing great hockey," boasted the coach. 'He had a lot of points over the weekend."

The Lions held period leads of 3-1 and 6-2 in Alexandria before coming up with their final four in the third period.

Chad Duguay collected four assists in the win, and has surpassed Char-Lan's Marc Bellmare in the scoring race.

"I'm happy to see Chad in the scoring race," said Morrow. "He has great offensive skills, and he's very strong on his skates. His puck handling skills are just amazing."

Duguay has a one point advantage over Bellmare at this point of the schedule, and he is on Morrisburg's top line of firepower which includes Hare and Chad White. All three guys are in the top five of the St. Lawrence Division scoring race.

Other goals in Friday's match came from Ryan Warner with a hat trick, and Eric Quenville, Chris Proulx, and Jeremy Gowsell with singles.

Alexandria replied with goals scored by Daniel Methot, Stephane Boixvenue, Yves Ruest and Olivier DeMeester.

This week, the Lions host the Gananoque Islanders at 8:30 Friday night, and Saturday, they are in Prescott to take on the South Grenville Rangers.

Lions lose to Kemptville

Sunday's afternoon Junior B effort in Morrisburg resulted in a 7-5 loss to Kemptville. Despite missing five bodies from the line-up Friday, though, the Lions managed to route Alexandria 10-2. The addition of former captain, Shawn Hummel, last week was a definite plus for the team.

Atom B II Lions lose out in A final

BROCKVILLE—The Morrisburg Atom B II Lions were involved in a tournament here January 5-7, and they played four games before advancing to the "A" Championship game where they lost a 3-2 decision to Alexandria.

Despite the loss, coach Phillip Dillabough and trainer Calvin Elliott said the team played like true A champs.

Scott Carswell scored both goals for Morrisburg in the championship game, with assists coming from Travis Baldwin and Chris Ladouceur.

In the team's first game, they upset South Grenville 6-2.

After a scoreless first period, Morrisburg started their streak in the second as Scott Carswell fired four goals and had one assist to lead the win.

Lindsay Johnston had one goal and was credited with three assists, and Liam Maguire had four helpers. Michael O'Brien also had one goal, while other helpers were credited to Ian Tait, Travis Baldwin, Chris Ladoucer and Josh McElheran.

The next win for the Lions came against the Gananoque Islanders with a score of 4-0.

Carswell notched two goals in this one. Other points went to Liam Maguire, Justin Elliott, Chris Marshall, Joshua McElheran and Baldwin. Matt Dillabough and Nick Cryder man took the credit between the pipes for the shutout.

Their next game was played against the Cornwall Aces, but Morrisburg could not capitalize on their many opportunities as they lost a 3-1 rally.

Cornwall's points came from Mathieu Bergeron (2), Steven Newman and Jason Jeeves (3).

Morrisburg counted on Carswell and Maguire for their single point.

The Lions were then ranked second in their division and were able to advance to a semi-final game against the Brockville Braves.

Morrisburg's game winner was scored by Justin Elliot, as they recorded a 1-0 shutout. Assists came from Richard Banford and Ian Tait, and once again, the excellent goal tending from Dillabough and Cryderman saved the day.

The Lions then advanced to the final against the Glens where they lost the 3-2 match.

Other action

The Atoms also ventured to Char-Lan to play in a B level I tournament over the holidays where they played two great games.

The first was against Massena where it took an overtime period and a nine-player shoot-out to give Morrisburg the 2-1 win.

Massena's goal came unassisted from Ryan Raymo.

Morrisburg's goals were also unassisted, as Carswell and McElheran took the credit.

The second game of the tournament was another nail-biter with Morrisburg losing to the host team, Char-Lan by a 2-1 score.

Carswell notched the Lions only goal in the game.

Char-Lan got their points from Michael Fraser, Robb Schaefer, Steven Jarid, and Dominic Dube.

Peewee B I Lions have busy holiday

MORRISBURG—The Morrisburg Peewee B I Lions were kept busy over the Christmas holidays, as they played 10 hockey games.

Their most recent encounter was in Alexandria where they lost a 4-2 battle in Upper Canada Minor Hockey League action.

Stefan Barkley scored both goals for the Lions and Brad Casselman had two assists. Robert Annable picked up one helper credit as well.

The team received top notch goaltending from Mike McCann and Bryan Verhoeven throughout the two-week period.

In exhibition action, the team played three games; winning two and losing one.

Against Russell they won 6-2 led by Brad Casselman and Jason Denio with two goals each. Barkley and Nick Hall had one each.

Against Cornwall they got their revenge over the same team they lost to in their own tournament.

This time, the Lions pulled out a 6-1 victory with two goals coming from Brad Casselman. Singles were scored by Scott Barkley, Denio, Stefan Barkley and Mike Shaver.

Finally, they lost a 4-3 decision to Massena with the opposition scoring the winner with just four seconds left in the game. Denio scored two goals for the Lions and the single came from Scott Barkley.

In tournament action December 28th, the Lions were the B champs in their home tournament, but on January 5th, they lost the "A" final, 4-3, to North Dundas in a very hard fought game. Annable scored two unassisted goals and Scott Barkley scored from Denio and Hall.

In their first two games of the tournament, they defeated Long Sault 3-0, and Vankleek Hill, 5-1.

In the two games, Denio had four goals and two helpers, Scott Barkley, three assists, Brad Casselman and Eric Irvine had one goals and one assist each, and Stefan Barkley and Mike Shaver scored one goal each. Annable, Bruce Lewis, Bobby Paradis and Hall all recorded assists.

Just Another Day...

or two

Laurie Day

I don't think it's a big secret that I'm looking for another dog.

For the past six months or so, I've been in the hunt to replace the Rock Bottom, but I have yet to see one that even remotely resembles my beloved canine.

I was at the Morrisburg Animal Hospital last week when I spotted a notice on their bulletin board: FREE, part husky and shepherd puppies. Ready to go Jan. 13th.

I scribbled the number down in my notebook, did my interview with the doctor, and left in a rush to call about the dogs.

Three times in half an hour I tried to get through, but the line was busy every time.

I had a momentary brain freeze when Steph here at work reminded me.

"Did you get a hold of the person about those dogs?" she asked me.

"Huh? Oh, no, actually, I didn't yet. How would you like to go with me on another husky quest?" I asked her.

Of course, she was all gung ho—being the husky lover that she is—so I phoned the number again.

Finally, this time I got through. I set up an appointment to see the dogs within the hour, and Friday afternoon, Steph and I headed out on our second dog venture in as many months.

There were seven of them. All huddled up together in their dog house, and their mother met us in the driveway.

Once I had one in my arms, I knew I was hooked. Oh Lord, what am I going to do? I thought. I have to break this to Larry. I know he's going to have a fit, but if I pout long enough, I should be able to pull it off.

After what seemed like an hour (in reality it was more like five minutes, because my fingers were numb from the cold and I even had gloves on) I tucked the furry foreigner inside my coat and pretended to take off with him.

"They are just starting to eat solid food," said the owner. "Next Saturday, they'll be ready to go."

Nuts, so I couldn't make my get-away with him inside my jacket.

On our way back to the office, Steph and I chatted about the puppies.

Although this little one I had all picked out didn't look that much like our long-gone Rock Bottom, he did have a neat little mask of white around his eyes, and a red tinge to his coat (his mother's a red husky) and he had funny white-blue eyes.

I told Larry about the puppy when I got home, and he asked if I had a name picked out.

Funny as it sounded, I did.

"T-Bone," I said.

"That's a good name," says Larry. "Lacey will take one look at that dog and she'll think he's a T-bone."

Well, either that or "Kibble."

Cholette's passion on ice is to ref

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Perhaps if she had 30 more pounds of muscle and was another foot taller, Dad would let her play hockey with the boys.

But for Morrisburg's Laura-Lee Cholette, learning to ref has become her passion on ice.

"Dad's afraid I'll get hurt if I play hockey, so I decided to referee instead," says the blonde, blue-eyed, 15-year-old who passed her level one referee course in October and has been an active linesman in the Morrisburg and District Minor Hockey Association since that time.

Laura-Lee has been a figure skater with the Morrisburg club since she was six years old. Last season she was a CanSkate coach, and kept her figure skating status with selected guest appearances.

"It just got too expensive," she said of her figure skating hobby. "And I became interested in hockey a year and a half ago. That's when I decided I'd like to become a ref."

It didn't hurt any that her boyfriend is an avid hockey player with Char-Lan's travelling Bantam team.

Had Laura-Lee opted to play hockey, she would be playing at the Bantam level—a level which introduces body checking.

"As long as I'm around to to watch what's going on with her, she won't be playing hockey with the boys," said her father Eli. "I don't want to see her get hurt."

Becoming a referee was the next best thing for Laura-Lee.

"At first I was very nervous," she said. "I didn't know what to do on the ice, so I just followed the other referees around," she said of her first appearance as a linesman in a Novice B game.

But since she passed her day-long referee course at North Dundas District High School in October, and has added 15 more games to her repertoire, Laura-Lee's confidence level has grown a great deal.

"Now I don't let the crowd (parents, coaches, players) get to me. I've learned to block it out."

Because of her age and referee level (she's a level one), she is not eligible to actually referee a game yet.

"I can't ref until I'm 16 and I have a level two certificate," she explained.

Since she first stepped onto the ice in her traditional black and whites, she has gained a great deal of respect from out-of- town coaches and players.

"Some people are shocked after the game when she takes off her helmet and they see she's a girl," chuckled her mom, Brenda.

"But they shake her hand and tell her she's done a good job."

Most of her officiating experience has been alongside guys she's grown up with, and attends school with. She has done a lot of games with Brad Boivin, Robbie Stitt, Lance Lepage and Jamie Robertson.

She says it's a big help to know who she'll be officiating with, as it takes a bit of the pressure off.

And working for Dale Lewis, MDMHA referee in chief, has been very positive.

"She has great potential as a referee," says Dale. "I'd like to see more girls come out and get their referee certificates."

Even Sean Boulerice, a level six referee, has some words of advice for Laura-Lee and any other female or rookie officials.

"My advice to new officials is to know the rules, and to stay sharp," says Sean.

"They have to realize that there are going to be a lot of bad times—like people always yelling at them, but try and stay focused."

He says there are numerous opportunities for female referees, as ladies' hockey and roller blading competitions become more and more popular.

"There aren't too many female officials, but there is a need for them at the college and university levels and doors are now opening," he added.

"My best advice would be to not feel inferior, as girls can referee just as well as guys can."

Laura-Lee is a grade 10 student at Seaway District High School and has been a member of the volleyball, and golf teams.

She's also an in-line skater, plays softball, and does some weight-training through the school's physical education program.

Laura-Lee has also been saving her hard-earned dollars from her baby-sitting jobs from the past few years. Hopefully, she says, she would like to get back into figure skating.

But right now, she's concentrating on knowing when not to blow the whistle.

Rookie linesman

Laura-Lee Cholette of Morrisburg is the first female linesman in the MDMHA. She attained her level one status in October and has helped to referee 16 minor hockey games to date.
