Morrisburg Reeve Installed as Warden

Reeve Carlton F. McInnis of Morrisburg on Monday, January 17 was named Warden of the United Counties of Stormont and Glengarry for 1972, and became the third Morrisburg reeve to hold this important office in the present century. Others were the late Arthur Flynn, and Fred H. Broder.

The election, presided over by the Counties Clerk, L. Cameron Kennedy, was sponsored by Bruno Massie, Reeve of Alexandria, and Edwin Walldroff, reeve of Osnabruck Township, and the installation was carried out by the oldest member of Council, and a neighbour of Mr. McInnis' home farm, Mahlon Zeron, veteran reeve of Matilda Township.

Rev. Garfield Bruce, Mr. McInnis' minister, of Lakeshore Drive United Church, Morrisburg, offered a brief prayer for Council's guidance and success.

It was a happy occasion for the youthful Warden and many of his friends, young and old, were on hand for the ceremony. Among them were the pupils of Grade 6 at Morrisburg Public School The new warden introduced his wife, Isabel, two of his five children, his parents, Charlie and Ethel McInnis, his brother and sister, his law partner, Peter MacEwen, members o ftheir staff and members of the Council and staff of the village.

He was welcomed to office by Hon. Lucien Lamoureux, MP for Stormont-Dundas and Speaker of the House of Commons; Gordon Blair, MP for Grenville-Carleton; Don Irvine, MLA for Grenville-Dundas, and Ed. Lumley, Mayor of the City of Cornwall. Others adding their good wishes were Fred H. Broder, at 92 the oldest living former warden of the counties, and former wardens Donald Kyle, Mahlon Zeron, Alex McNaughton, Cecil McNabb and last year's warden Lynden Hough.

Mr. Hough was presented with a large colour photograph of his investiture as a tribute to his outstanding service during the past year.

In his remarks, Mr. McInnis expressed thanks to his mover and seconder, as well as to all members of council who had chosen him as their Warden; he welcomed everyone present, and had a special word of thanks for the people of Morrisburg, without whose continued support, he said, he could not have attained the high office.

He pointed out, that, as a unit of Government, the County Council of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry can claim seniority, in terms of age, to both te government of Canada and the government of the Province of Ontario - for there has been a County Council in the United Counties headed by a warden in each year since 1850; that is 122 years; whereas, both the Province of Ontario and the Government of Canada can claim existence in their present form only since 1867 and are, by comparison, relative newcomers.

He envisaged a very busy year for council in 1972. He referred briefly to the county road program, the welfare department and the participation in the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge and the St. Lawrence Sanatorium, as well as the continuation of the program of reforestation, supervision of county property and council's support generally for charitable and simillar organizations interested in the advancement of cultural and social life in these counties. He also mentioned participation in special purpose bodies, such as the Regional Health Unit and the Children's Aid Society, the County Library Board. Another important matter, to which attention must be turned this year was consideration of a County Land Division Committee, to deal with severances of property. A new history of the Counties is being prepared and the advisability is to be considered of reprinting the former official history of the Counties as written by the late John G. Harkness.

It is also important, said the new Warden to review Council's own position as a unit of government in conjunction with member municipalites, and to give some thought to possible realignment of municipal boundaries.. It is necessary to be aware of the need for change --not to stagnate. We should take a positive attitude, he said, suggesting changes and improvements that will avoid the need of having changes and alterations thrust on us from other levels of government. "We should remember", he said, that as a County Council, we are a Regional Government, and that we should, from time to time, re-examine our function". Mr. McInnis also called for increased cooperation with the City of Cornwall, in matters of mutual interest. He extended an invitation to the City to meet from time to time with the Counties Council to further this co-operation.

Mr. McInnis also paid tribute to Mr. Cameron Kennedy, who will retire on August 31st, 1972, after 23 years of service to the Counties as Clerk-Treasurer. He foresaw a continuance of the same co-operation and service from Mr. Kennedy's successor, Mr .Raymond Lapointe.

Lions Win and Lose in Weekend Games

Morrisburg Junior B Lions won one game over Prescott and lost to Alexandria in St. Lawrence Junior League play over last weekend.

On Friday, January 14th, Lions were at home to the Saints from Prescott and emerged with a 6-3 victory. The game was a hard-fought and fast skating contest showing that the Saints are better than their present third-place standing might indicate.

Scoring for the Lions were David Hess with a pair and singles by Danny Cassell, Dale Swerdfeger, Hugh Gillard and Tom Whelan. Saints' scorers were Allan Beckstead (2), and Nip Beattie.

Prescott's Randy Skinkle was banished from the game at 6:03 of the third period for abuse of an official, during a fight with Gary Hess. The latter is also reported to have lost a few locks of hair during the brawl.

On Sunday the Lions made the long trip to Alexandria to face the Glens and were defeated by a 5-3 count. The Lions outshot the Glens by a wide margin, but could not put the puck in the net when it counted. David Hess missed an open net on two occasions as did Brian McNairn on another.

The Glens were ahead 3-1 going ito the tird stanza on goals by M. Larocque, Rod Sheperd and Roch Labrie. Tom Whelan had scored for the Lions to that point, and then notched another at the 35 second mark of the third. Louis Rooney tied the game at 11:03. Then at 18:30 Allen Macdonald notched the winner for the Glens. Coach Jon Rice pulled goalie Allan Delaige in the final minute and B.J. Macdonald scored into the empty net at 19:50.

This weekend the Lions will travel to Kemptville on Friday night to meet the Winchester Hawks in an 8:30 p.m. contest.

In other news around the leagut, Maxville has dropped out of the loop after encountering difficulties both on and off the ice. A change had recently been made in coaching and management offices, and it appeared that the team might survive. oweverH, coach Don Benton has had difficulties recently in keeping players interested and as aresult, the team has had to drop out. A decision on the points earned by other teams against Maxville was to be made at a league meeting on Thursday, January 20th.

Lions next home game is on Friday, January 28th at 8:30 p.m. when the Cardinal Broncos will be in town. Then on Sunday, January 30, the Spencerville Bruins will be the visitors for a 2:30 p.m. contest.

It should be noted in this column that the loss of the Maxville team is a good example of what can hap pen to a team that loses fan support. The teams in the St. Lawrence Jr. League are run strictly on a budget derived from gate receipts Therefore, if the fans don't come, the team cannot survive. This season in Morrisburg, a group of local men took over the running of the team, and in so doing risked their own money to keep junior hockey functioning in this village. While fan support has not been poor, it could certainly stand some improvement. It is quite obvious that when the crowd is in the stands, cheering our boys on, the brand of hockey improves considerably. So, let's get out and support the Lions by attending their remaing home games.

See you at the arena . . .

Joint Service for Christian Unity

The Joint Service for Christian Unity was held this year in Morrisburg at St. Mary's Church on Sunday evening last. Theme of the service was "Love . . . as I have loved you".

Despite the bitter cold weather on Sunday, a large congregation from Morrisburg's several churches was in attendance, and was welcomed to St. Mary's by the pastor, Rev. D.W. MacDonald.

The opening hymn "Praise to the Lord" was led by a composite choir of The Seaway Singers, directed by Mrs. John DeGray, as were other hymns during the service. Mrs. D. Hugh Thompson of Williamsburg, was organist.

The first reading (Isaiah 58: 6-12) was by G. Patrick Beavers, and was followed by Psalm 132 (responsive) led by Rev. C.W. Earle of St. James Anglican Church.

Second reading 1 Corinthians 12:31 - 13:13 was by Mrs. Bernard Brunt. Then came a brief period of reflection and the beautiful hymn "It is God that is Always Driving Man", by the Seaway Singers.

The third reading (John 15: 2-17 was by Rev. F.L. Howald of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

The homily of the evening was delivered by Rev. Garfield Bruce, of Lakeshore Drive United Church, who urged all Christians to dwell on the things that unite them, rather than on those issues on which we have been divided.

The Profession of Faith, repeated by all present was led by Rev. T.H. Boyd of Knox Presbyterian Church.

The Commitment, to work towards Christian Unity in common action, prayer and worship was led by Father MacDonald, and was followed by the hymn "They'll Know we are Christians by our Love".

Following the benediction and the recessional hymn, "Thank You Lord", the congregation was invited to partake of refreshments at the rectory.

WINTER CARNIVAL

With things looking a little more like winter these days the carnival spirit is upon us once again. It is hoped that with everyone's co-operation all activities will be a success. This year's events will begin on Saturday, January 22, 1972 with Seaway's 1st invitational hockey tournament.

Due to the fact that we are in the middle of our January exams at this time, most events have yet to be scheduled. One main event which promises to add a great deal to this year's carnival is the teacher-teacher hockey game scheduled for Wed., Jan. 26, 1972 in the Morrisburg Arena.

Apparently a well known resident of the Morrisburg area and drafting teacher, Mr. Jordan, at North Dundas High School was unfortunate enough to challenge the magnificent men of Seaway to a hockey match. We have great confidence in our teachers! "We" know they will try very hard!

Winter Carnival is Planned Feb. 13-20

This year a committee has been formed to bring a Winter Carnival to the Village of Morrisburg. A lot of time has been spent by the Committee and the various local organizations in setting up Morrisburg's first ever Winter Carnival.

Various events have beer planned with something different featured every day. The Carnival will be opened on February 13 with three benefit broomball games and the choosing of the Winter Carnival Queen.

The week will be filled with suppers, breakfasts and variety nights sponsored by the various organizations.

February 19 will be packed with events including snowmobile rallies, games for children and a moccasin dance.

It is hoped that the Carnival will culminate with a breakfast in the morning, an ecumenical church service and snowmobile torch-light parade in the evening.

With these events in store for the Village of Morrisburg, this week should prove to be plenty of fun and excitement for everyone. Watch your local paper for further details.

On Honour for Morrisburg

The honour bestowed on Morrisburg's reeve, Carlton F. (Mike) McInnis, in his selection on Monday as the Warden of the historic counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, is an honour not only for the local reeve, but also for the entire village. One of the oldest government systems in Canada, the United Counties ante-dates both the government of Canada and the government of Ontario.

Since his first entry into municipal politics several years ago, Mike has ably demonstrated his devotion to civic duty, to the welfare of his adopted village, and its citizens, as well as to the whole area. He has been readily accesible to all citizens and always ready to lend an ear to complaints or suggestions. The monetary rewards for municipal politicians have always been mighty slim in our system of government, and the only reward for those men dedicated enough to take on the job, has been the occasional (but not always) recognition of a job well done. Such recognition by his fellow members of the Council of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry is, in this case well deserved. His many friends, in and out of council, in Morrisburg and throughout the area, join in extending congratulations and best wishes to the new Warden.

Give us Back our Studded Tires

Early last spring, the Government of Ontario began to enforce its ban on the use of studded tires on the highways of this province. They refused to consider in any way the fact that all surrounding jurisdictions permitted the use of the studs for better traction in winter driving.

It has since been revealed that our governors in Toronto in telling us of safety tests on the steel clad tires, conveniently forgot to mention the fact that there was a very significant relationship between the use of studded tires and the low incidence of traffic deaths of drivers using them. Tests and studies in other jurisdictions have led to the belief that road damage is not significant when compared to the saving of lives through the use of these tires.

In those parts of the province outside of the extreme southwest (Toronto) portion the cry has come loud and clear for a return to the use of the life-saving studs. So far there has been stony silence from the moguls in the Department of Transportation and Communications. How many of the highway deaths in Ontario this winter could have been avoided if the drivers had been using studded tires? — We will never know. Past experience, however, indicates that at least some lives might have been saved. We recommend this to the consideration of the minister concerned, and of the prmier of the province.

Let us save lives — not highways.

Even if large commercial fast-breeder nuclear reactors are now feasible, and the Russians say they have one — Canada rmains in the nuclear power race, Basil Jackson reports in The Financial Post. A breeder reactor produces its own fuel as it operates, like filling your car with gas, driving 100 miles, and finding at your destination that the tank has refilled with another substance that can be used to drive another 100 miles. If fast-breeder reactors become fashionable, says the article, Canada has ore reserves to supply plants using thorium, instead of uranium — which is the fuel for conventional types of commercial nuclear reactors. And Canada's uranium mining industry may remain safe for the remaindr of the century.

ALL-NEW METHOD TO BE UTILIZED FOR BUILDING OF CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

The appointment of Fullercon Limited as the construction management firm for its building was announced last week by the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario.

With the appointment of the firm, hospital officials said the next stage of construction of the hospital would begin almost immediately. The building of the hospital will be done by a relatively new method with tenders being let for specific parts of the building in a sequential order, rather than tendering the complete building at one time.

A spokesman for the Children's Hospital said this method of construction would have several advantages including being more flexible; allowing construction to begin soon and be completed sooner; allowing changes to be made and the latest equipment to be added; and better budget control.

It is expected that the building will be completed in the spring of 1974.

The ospital spokesman also said approval of structural drawings had been received from the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

Phase 1 of construction has already been completed. This phase included sub-surface work on relocating water mains, some road construction, surveys, soil tests and site planning.

Tenders will be called within a few days for the next phase — excavating and the foundation. Towards the end of January tenders will be called for the superstructure and later on tenders will be called for mechanical and electrical work, exterior cladding, elevators, interior partitioning and finish, and equipment.

The hospital will be enclosed by early next winter.

The Children's Hospital, located on Smyth Road, will be a six-storey building containing 301 patient beds, 18 out-patient clinics, a large emergency department, surgical suites, laboratories, radiology department and other services. The exterior will be precast concrete panels with a design motif and aluminum windows.

Stay Safe on Ladders

Even if you are successful in climbing the ladder of success, you may still take a tumble when it comes to using a step or extension ladder.

During their 1972 safety drive, the Industrial Accident Prevention Association is urging householders to watch for hazards at home as well as on the job. So when you use a ladder at home or work, the I.A.P.A. warns of these hazards to watch for.

Before using any ladder, check it carefully for cracked or damaged rungs or sides. Never use a metal ladder near exposed electrical apparatus. When you prop a ladder up against a wall, remember theres a four-to-one rule on how it should be done. Set the bottom of the ladder one foot out from the wall for every four feet of height to its top resting point For example, a ladder 20 feet high should be set about five feet from the wall. You can judge the height by counting rungs, which are usually one foot apart. Set the tope of an extension ladder against a flat, f i r m surface. Check the strength of any eave you intend to set a ladder against. If you're going to step from a ladder onto a roof, the ladder should extend at least three feet above the eaves.

Always face the ladder w h e n going up or down, and go one rung at a time, holding the side rails. If you place a ladder in front of a door, be sure the door is locked or blocked so that it cannot be opened striking the ladder.

The ladder must have good footing. Don't place it on ice or snowy, muddy or wet surfaces unless it is especially equipped with safety feet and/or blocked with a bag of sand.

Erect a ladder only in good weather. If there's a heavy wind, wait for it to calm down. Never go away and leave a ladder up against a building; a wind could blow it over, or worse, a child might climb it and fall off. Don't leave tools or buckets on ladders; someone below might be injured by falling materials or tools.

Resist the temptation to overreach. A good rule is to keep your belt buckle between the side-rails. If you should become dizzy or panicky while on a ladder, stay where you are. Just drape your arms over a convenient rung and rest your head against the ladder until the feeling passes.

A stepladder should not be used as a straight ladder by leaning it folded against a wall. Use it only as a stepladder, fully opened, with its spreader completely extended and locked down securely. S t o p climbing when you reach the second step from the top. Don't stand on the top or the pail shelf; you could easily lose your balance and fall down.

Ladders, like all tools around the home must be used with care.

Yours Sincerely . . .

Do you like treacle?—that cheapest of all sticky delights of my childhood days, thick, black, heavy pouring sweet substance, so loved on homemade bread, in candy, even in cough mixture.

A three pound tin of it was given to me by African friends during a recent visit to Guyana, and it reminded me of the words of a medieval shop sign in Cornwall, England . . .

"Bibles, Buckets and Boots,
Goddlee Bukes and Grindingstones.
Trousers, Testaments and Teakittles,
Everything to buy and sell here,
Except Tryacle.
Best prices paid for Whole-bone Staze."

The saving power of Tryacle in those days was physical. Later, the word became 'Treacle' and a spiritual meaning was added. It became possible to speak about the "Sovran Treacle of sound doctrine" from the travelling preachers and from the pulpits.

I heard, also, there was a Bible in 1568, known as the Treacle Bible, because of Jerimiah 8:22 was translated at that time as "Is there no tryacle in Gileal?" Later, modern versions substituetued the word 'balm', for no sweetness, dripping generously was ever suggested, far from it. In those old days in England, the name of Jesus was called the "holsomest tryacle" by travelling preachers so it would appear that, as one writer put it, "treacle left the apothecary's and so it flowed eventually from the pulpits and on to the counters of the grocers' shops."

How words change, in their meanings, over the years!

Mrs. Wellwood Adam,
48 Loyalist Street.

Fix-It Tip

Are you planning to varnish a floor? Varnishes are available in a variety of glosses—high, medium and low. The selection depends largely on your personal preference. Although the newer urethane varnishes may cost a little more, they are usually longer wearing, so consider the kind of wear the floor receives and choose the varnish accordingly.

DECREASE NOTED IN ONTARIO DROWNINGS

"A 13.8 per cent decrease in drowning deaths in Ontario during 1971" was reported today by Mr. Brian Paterson, Director, Water Safety Service, The Canadian Red Cross Society, Ontario Division.

Mr. Paterson noted, "A total of 300 drownings occurred during the year, a decrease of 48 over the previous year. Statistics reveal that the decrease is particularly evident in drowning deaths associated with boating accidents, swimming accidents and all types of mishaps involving unsupervised children under the age of 12."

This marks the fifth year in which a reduction in drowning deaths has been recorded. Mr. Paterson expressed the hope that, "this trend indicates the public is becoming more water safety conscious."

HOW HEAR THIS

Hear what's happening tomorrow —today — on CBC Radio during the coverage of the XI Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The Olympics open on Feb. 3 in Japan, but because of the International Date Line, listeners will actually receive the first report in Canada, Feb. 2. There will be four broadcasts a day, direct by satellite. Close to 60 of our top amature athletics will be competing for gold, silver and bronze medals in all sports except hockey.

Scientists say that duplicating people — making doubles through a complicated cell process — is not far away. Some day it may even be possible to make armies of 'drones' who would do all the hard labour leaving the thinking to more important people. It might be possible to do a twin of a Leonardo da Vinci, for instance who could turn his genius to the eternal benefit of mankind.

The answer lies in the nature of the cell and the chromosomes which carry hereditary information through generations. The Russians have succeeded in producing a double-headed dog. Some years ago a duplicate frog was grown from a single cell of its 'parent's' stomach lining: a process called cloning. Next month marks the 30th anniversary of the evacuation of the Japanese from the west coast of B.C. Some went to Kootenay ghost towns, others to the prairie sugar beet fields or roadbuilding gangs, under powers contained in the War Measures Act.

The injustices of that situation have been well documented (except in Canadian school texts which ignore the event) but less well known is what happened to these 23,000 people. On identities, Jan. 29, a look at these Japanese Canadians, their children, their politics and their sense of community.

This Country In The Morning, CBC Radio's major morning information show, will originate from Regina the week of February 14. OTTAWA HOSPITAL AGAIN ACCREDITED

The Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation has advised Allan A. Lamb, Executive Director of the Royal Ottawa Hospital, that the Council has again awarded accreditation status to the hospital.

The award — the third since the hospital was first accredited in 1962 — came as a result of a survey submitted by a field staff representative to the Board of Directors of the Council.

Accreditation is only awarded to those hospitals meeting the Council's standards for patient care and hospital operation, and is subject to review every 3 years.

The survey, which was conducted on Friday, November 5th, 1971, found the hospital in the midst of its major renovation program, costing over $560,000. However, the hospital was commended for the quality of service offered to patients, despite the disruption of the building program.

In the list of comments and recommendations appended to the letter notifying Mr. Lamb of the Council's decision, the Council noted that "Council commends the board of Trustees and staff for the excellence apparent at all levels".

FULL MILITARY HONORS TO JAMES GRANT SALMON

The death occurred at Metropolitan Hospital, Windsor, Ontario, on January 13th, of a former well-known resident of this district in the person of James Grant Salmon.

He was born at New Liskeard on June 4th, 1909, a son of the late Austin Salmon and his wife, Agnes Grant. He received his education at the Riverside Public School and Morrisburg High School, and later went to Noranda, where he was employed in the mines for a number of years. In 1931 at Hamilton, he was united in marriage to Ida Rodgers of Toronto, who survives. He moved to Kingsville and there joined the Royal Canadian Navy, serving on the minesweeper "Wood stock". He also took part in the Dieppe Raid in August, 1942. On his return from World War II he was employed by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, until July of 1971, when he retired because of failing health.

He was a member of St. George's Masonic Lodge No. 41 and of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 188. A memorial serivec of both these orders was held prior to the funeral, which was held with full military honours at the Kingsville Funeral Home on January 15th in charge of Rev. Robert W. Coupland. Interment followed at Greenhill Cemetery, Kingsville.

Surviving besides his widow, are two brothers: Bruce Salmon of Fenella, Ont., and Grant Salmon of Edmonton, Alta.; and five sisters: Mrs. Robert Burns (Evangeline) of Morrisburg; Mrs. Daphne Casselman of Maxville; Mrs. Fred Casselman (Lillian) of Morrisburg; Mrs. Arthur Torsdahl (Dorothy) of Beaver Creek, Oregon, and Mrs. Carl Thorning (Helen) of Tilbury, Ontario.

JANUARY MEETING OF U.C.W. EVENING UNIT

The U.C.W. Evening Unit met in the Lounge of Lakeshore Drive United Church at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, January 11th, 1972. There were 18 members present with one visitor, and Mrs. Wellwood Adam was in the chair.

After welcoming everyone to the first meeting of the New Year, a Devotional was offered by Mrs. Adam, the theme being God's sure presence with all who are Christians, for to them He is the same yesterday, today and tomorrow, so that we can meet 1972 without fear and with courage.

Minutes were read and approved, then an encouraging report of finances, and then ideas were discussed as to how finances could be further improved, because it is well known about the certainly increasing need which shows daily in this disturbed world around us and further afield.

One result was in the nature of a mild warning . . . the ladies, whether present at or absent from the meeting . . . may expect a phone call invitation t oattend sundry coffee groups here and there. But at a price suited best to each guest as she departs! Easy! Pleasant! and most of all . . . Useful! So Ladies, see what you can do!

Mrs. Adam gave an introductory talk on Africa, which is the study for the whole United Church in Canada. As Africa consists of fifty countries, and more to follow no doubt, she thought it could be quite a complex study, but interesting. She hopes to start a brief summary of Nigeria in the February meeting, and she had called in to see the High Commissioner in Ottawa (for Nigeria) the previous week to procure more details of Nigeria than the African Pack had issued. Several Nigerian newspapers were taken home by the members, and cuttings of interest will be brought in for February, and no doubt, there will be much for discussion.

Next meeting is Tuesday, 8 p.m., Ladies' lounge, and Mrs. Adam looks for a good turn-out of members. Visitors also are warmly welcomed.

High School Drama . .

Producing the High School Play should be considered the thirteenthe labour of Hercules. It is a gimany high schoometaoshrdluuuu gantic task which, nevertheless, many high school teachers set out to perform usually with a number of motives and a greater variety of aims. Generally, play production —at least as far as the Principal is concerned — is part of a Drama program and as a result there is a certain amount of pressure — however gently applied to provide a spectacle of glittering entertainment which will impress parents, members of the School Board and son on. Far more pressure, though I prefer to call it enthusiasm, comes from the students in the drama club. But more potent than either of these is the desire of both students and teachers to create something.

Whatever the general aims of putting on a play, what is achieved, is a profound learning experience. The director is often frustrated by two aims which may, but should not, conflict; namely to present good theatre and secondly to let the students enjoy and learn about theatre and themselves. Untimately however, for both students and teachers what is of lasting value is the group experience. However thunderous the applause; however profuse the murmurs of congratulations or savage the criticism, what remains is the sense of togetherness that comes from having laughed and cried together.

On a recent Cable 11 program, a group of senior students from CCVS raised some interesting points about the Theatre Arts program and about pla production. On the subject of what kind of students take Theatre Arts and what they should gain from such a course Rosemary Parisien pointed out that all kinds of student, the loafers, the trouble-makers, or the academics can benefit. Brent McLaren and Doug Hickey stressed the development of creativity and responsibility. All three students felt that the adult world demanded of them a sense of responsibility and the abil ity to succeed or to achieve goals. Drama, they felt, gave them the opportunity to develop these qualities.

My purpose in writing here is not to claim that Theatre Arts provides a unique educational experience, but to insist that it provides more than artsy-craftsy play. The students points are valid. If, for example, the task in hand is putting on a play, those involved are compelled to be responsible. They and they alone must stand before the audience on opening night. If they are abuilding acts or making costumes their work must be complete and well finished on the dead line. Otherwise, the audience will leave, and they will suffer public humiliation. The teachers who help cannot enforce the discipline needed, nor can they take over for an irresponsible actor. Obviously then, co-operation is needed. Every student is vital. The walk-on actor who forgets to walk on leaves several confused and foolishlooking actors standing on stages; as do the sound man who forgets to ring the doorbell or the prop-girl who fails to empty last night's coloured water out of the brandy bottle.

Consequently, working on or off stage in the school play or taking Theatre Arts course — however much he may learn about theatre —teaches the student a great deal about himself and how to live with people. He must do what he says he will do whether he feels it or not because his friends are relying on him as he relies on them. So, in the last resort the rewards of being involved in drama are very rich. The students have a wonderful sense of accomplishment and pride in having achieved something together.

Date. February 3, 1972: Place: Board Room, Department of Agriculture and Food, Alexandria; Time 1:00 p.m.

Maple Syrup Information Days

In the first week of February three Maple Syrup Information Days will be held in the Kemptville District. Details are listed above.

The 1966 Agricultural census indicates that 334,794 taps were set out in the nine eastern counties of Ontario. The potential for tapping in eastern Ontario far surpasses this figure since many sugar maple woodlots are not tapped.

Maple syrup is in short supply. A good opportunity exists for farmers with maple woodlots to earn extra income from maple syrup production. Capital grants are available to assist in sugar production. Capital grants are available to assist in sugar house construction and the purchase of fixed equipment used in the production of maple syrup.

The production of maple syrup fits in well with many types of farming. Several dairy farmers, beef farmers, hog farmers and sheep farmers, have found that maple syrup is a profitable sideline.

Agendas and additional information on the meetings may be obtained from the District Forester, Kemptville.

Long Arm of the Foremost

Ontario Hydro's first "Foremost" makes life easier for linemen The 29-ton, double-track vehicle lifts crews 75 feet in the air in insulated buckets, so they can work on live 230,000-volt lines without climbing towers. With this equipment much muscle work and fatigue is avoided, and senior linemen can work aloft with the younger members of the crew.

Motorists aren't likely to meet the Foremost on the highway — it's not a practical move for the 41-foot giant. While its plentiful track area rests lightly on a roadway's pavement (four pounds per square inch), at its maximum 12 miles an hour it indents the surface. So it rides from job to job on a companion 21-ton float.

Built in Calgary, the Foremost was originally designed to work in muskeg on the Alberta oil fields. Hydro added the insulated boom and buckets for line retensioning and other transmission applications.

Fresh Orange Jelly Parfait Cheers The Winter Table

Your market basket will look as if Midas touched it when you fill it with bright gold oranges in such good supply at your store now. Gladden your table with a dessert all a-sparkle with fresh orange flavor. Try Fresh Orange Jelly Parfait. The gelatine is made with orange juice you squeeze yourself, together with a zippy touch of fresh lemon juice and rind. Layer squares of the orange gelatine with whipped cream. Delectable and simple to do. The word "orange" goes back to the old Arabian word "narani". Oranges are great to eat out of hand for juicy refreshment and for their rich supply of vitamin "C".

Fresh Orange Jelly Parfait

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ½ cup cold water
- ⅓ cup sugar
- 1/16 teaspoon salt
- 1¼ cups fresh orange juice
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon grated fresh lemon rind
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- ½ teaspoon vanilla

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatine dissolves. Remove from heat; stir in sugar and salt. Add orange juice, lemon juice and rind. Pour into a 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Chill until firm. Cut into squares. Fill parfait glasses with alternating layers of orange jelly and whipped cream mixed with vanilla.
Makes: 6 servings.

The 2nd FORTY

Caring For Mother

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

My mother, who's 62, recently suffered a stroke and the doctor says there's also been some brain damage. Since there's just myself and my husband, I've asked her to come and stay with us until she's feeling better. The trouble is my mother needs constant attention and cannot be left alone because she sometimes gets mixed up about things. She becomes very forgetful and does curious things like putting the silverware away with my husband's handkerchiefs. She also loses her ballance and is often in danger of falling. So you can see she's not too easy to manage. I've asked my older sister and brother, who live nearby, to give me a hand with her so I can have a little bit of time for myself, but they've flatly refused. They say I had no business trying to take it all on myself in the first place. And they also say she'd be much better off in a convalescent home. I think they're being absolutely heartless. I'm so angry at the way they're treating our mother, I've refused to speak to them altogether. Don't you think I'm right and they're wrong? M.S.

Dear M.S.:

You're right, but they might be right, too. You probably feel that your mother always took care of you and you want to reciprocate by caring for her when she seems to need it most. But they could have a point in recognizing that her problems might require more than home care, that they might require round-the-clock supervision by specially trained people. Of course, no one likes to turn over someone close to the care of strangers, but perhaps you'll find it helpful to reconsider what might be best for your mother and yourself in the long run.

Planning for Retirement

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

My husband will be retiring in two years and doesn't even want to talk about it. All he says is that he's looking forward to fishing, golfing and just loafing. However, I feel we should start planning now, so we'll have some idea of what to do with ourselves when the time for his retirement comes. I wish I knew how to go about making such plans. I'd appreciate any advice you might have. C.T.

Dear C.T.:

If a man has had meaningful work all his life, recreational activities in retirement such as golf or fishing won't easily take its place And you're right about planning ahead; it's still the best approach. People should investigate before they retire whether they might continue their occupations on a part-time basis or prepare for an entirely new career. Or they might learn a new skill or develop a new interest they could cultivate more fully in retirement. Then there's the sample-it-in-advance method you could try during regular vacation periods. Figure out your retirement budget and experiment living on it then. Or try moving in briefly with your children to see how this might work out. Or scout possible retirement locations by looking them over firsthand during a vacation trip.

Secrecy, The Press and Freedom

By RALPH NOVAK

WASHINGTON (CEF)

Don't tell anybody but things are getting so that a government can't even keep a few secrets any more. What with people leaking classified papers and reporters identifying government officials who don't want to be quoted, about the only real secret in Washington these days concerns what is new between Henry Kissinger and Jill St. John.

Governments have historically maintained a zealous defense of their right to withhold information from the public, arguing that, for one thing, the subtle rules of diplomacy require that some elements of a nation's policy remain secret. The Nixon administration resorted to this kind of circular argument in its unsuccessful attempt to suppress the New York Times' publication of the Pentagon Papers on the Vietnam war: i. e., secrecy is necessary because the other countries we do business with believe secrecy is necessary so we must, too.

The administration did not, for obvious reasons, point out that secret diplomacy has existed right alongside all the wars in history, has not done anything to prevent them and may have helped promote a few. If disclosing the nature of the bargaining that goes on in international negotiations would be so embarrassing, you have to wonder what is being negotiated.

The secrecy violations have also focused new attention on government control of information, and some of that attention is in the nature of an evil eye.

In a recent task force report the Twentieth Century Fund, a research organization whose board of trustees include Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and John Kenneth Galbraith, summed up the feelings of those civil libertarians who feel that press freedom, the crux of the access to information problem, is in jeopardy.

"We share a feeling that press freedom might be more fragile than is widely assumed—and that its role in American democracy is so crucial that the nation cannot afford to risk its erosion," the report said. "The fundamental truth about the constitutionally protected status of the press is that it exists for the public, not the press."

As the report acknowledges, however, a large segment of the public and perhaps even a majority believes that if the government says something should be a secret it should be a secret. Period.

But if the current controversy leads to greater government restrictions on information and an extension of the already often ludicrous classification system, the likely losers will be the citizenry in general.

Tension Affects Denture Fitting

Often the nervousness of a patient can affect the fit of dentures.

The dentist will help the patient to relax while impressions are being taken, but the more faith a patient has in his dentist, the easier to relax. Many potential denture wearers have great expectancies when acquiring a full set of dentures and are upset over the loss of their teeth. They should be aware that no set of dentures — no matter haw well made and comfortable — is as efficient as a healthy set of natural teeth.

Physical factors in fitting include the shape and size of the ridges, tongue and palate. Then there are the patient's biological factors to consider such as age, general health, muscle and soft tissue condition, tongue position, neuro-muscular skill or co-ordination and the character and amount of saliva.

Once the dentures have been made, regular checkups are needed, because mouth contours change over the years and the plates can become loose. The dentist cleans and makes changes in the dentures when necessary on these routine visits, but he also looks for any inflammation or wearing away of mouth tissues.

Patients must realize that dentures themselves are only tools. To enjoy continuing comfort and efficient chewing of food, denture wearers and potential denture wearers should seek the before and after care their dentists will provide.

George Washington was not really born on Feb. 22, because his birth in 1732 occurred before the revision of the calendar. The date according to the old calendar, was Feb. 11.
