A Ton Of Moose!

"Big, aren't they?" Five of the big bruisers walked right across in front of us and we just started shooting. Got them one at a time and we didn't think either one was dead until we had emptied our rifles" It was an exciting moose hunt for Abraham and Albert St. Pierre and they will be tasting their bag for many months to come.

Two huge moose, one bull and one cow hanging from a large tree in the backyard of the St. Pierre farm were the centre of attraction the week-end before Christmas. 79-year-old Abraham, spry and happy as his 39? year old son Albert, had gone on their second moose hunt the week before. In 1963 they had gone on their first trip and returned empty-handed. 1964 was their year. The two moose which probably each weighed over 1,000 pounds and were larger than any cows in the St. Pierre barn, were ample reward for the more than 700-mile trip to Hurst in Northern Ontario.

An exciting and bumpy trip home was the order also as the two huge animals were loaded in the back of the pick-up and the long journey home began. It wasn't always fast because the truck, under the staggering weight, seemed to bend and hit bottom at every bump. But it was great fun and great eating. Was it worth it? — "you darn right!"

Council Inaugural

Reeve Wants Action On Three Projects

Heavy Agenda At First Session

A quick pace was set at Monday evening's initial session of Council. A prayer of Invocation by Rev. W. Schamehorn of Winchester Wesleyan Methodist Church was followed by swearing in ceremonies performed by Clerk C. R. Robinson. Sworn into office were Reeve G. H. Reynolds, incumbent Councillors George Elliott and Don Christie and new Councillors Arnold Dukelow and Roy Fawcett.

Necessary by-laws for the installation of Councillors were passed and the minutes of the December meetings, two nomination meetings and election were read by Clerk C. R. Robinson and Assistant Wanda Alexander. The council then adjourned into committee for a brief but informative in-camera session.

Returning to their regular meeting Reeve Reynolds submitted a list of committees for the year and all were approved unanimously. Finance will be headed by Councillor Elliott with Councillor Fawcett assisting. Roads and Bridges, Councillors Christie and Dukelow; Property, Fawcett and Christie; Relief, full Council; Utilities, Dukelow and Elliott; Police, Reeve Reynolds.

Appointed to the Park Board were Don Christie and Roy Fawcett. This important committee will be closely associated with the Centennial park development. Several other appointees have been named and upon notification will be officially named to the Board at Council's next meeting.

The Community Centre Board was appointed. Council representatives will be G. E. Elliott and A. E. Dukelow. Other members are Keith Carkner, Sam Ault, Lloyd LaPorte, Edwin Duncan and George Hanes. George Elliott was named as council representative on the Hospital Board.

A pay raise was voted to the top municipal employees with Clerk C. R. Robinson, Town Engineer Reg. Freeland and Constable Les. Whitteker each receiving a $200 increase. To be investigated will be a pension plan

Rev. M. Allen Dies In Guelph

Rev. J. Maxwell Allen, former minister of Morrisburg United Church, died in Guelph on January 3rd. He suffered a heart seizure.

Rev. Allen was well known throughout the entire district and was very active in the work of the Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scouts and Cubs. He ministered in Morrisburg from 1952-1962 when he retired. Funeral service was held in Guelph on Wednesday.

A year of quick, decisive action faces Winchester's new five-man Council. Reeve G. H. Reynolds, in his inaugural address to the municipal governing body, requested immediate action on and an early completion date for three projects and continued work on three other projects. On the table for quick solution will be finalized plans for a Centennial project, acquisition of a new well and pumping station in the western section of the village, and purchase of the old curling rink as a combination office-warehouse for the town's work crews and equipment.

Judging by the crisp, business-like manner in which the first meeting of council was conducted, 1965 should be a year of effective planning and definite action. Reeve Reynolds, suggesting a program of activity for the year, said it was Council's intention to continue on the program of revitalizing the village's streets and ever improve street lighting. Another item to receive careful consideration will be the Municipal Works Assistance Program which will be investigated as a means of obtaining a new fire hall.

Three articles on the books will be reconsidered. All involve the water and sewerage systems. The village is now confronted with large yearly payments with respect to the water system and there is a distinct possibility that water rates may rise to offset additional expenses and costs. Also to be revised will be the hook-up charge of both sewerage and water. To be set, then, will be a frontage rate for sewers.

CENTENNIAL

It is Council's resolve to have a Centennial plan on the books before April 1. First step to this end was the appointing of two Councillor representatives to the re-organized Park Board. All indications point to a full scale planned development of the park as Winchester's' project. This would entail the master planning of an area to encompass a complete field of community activities within the park borders. The ultimate goal would be a community complex with community centre, including an artificial ice arena and auditorium; lighted baseball diamond, swimming pool, wading pool, tennis court, bowling green, play areas, camping region and garden area. These future developments would be included in a master plan for the park and could be completed in phases to join the privately owned curling club.

Under the Centennial grant first step in the project would probably be the lighting of a new baseball diamond inside the present oval track which may or may not be retained. This would allow usage of the iron grandstand and for a revision of the front portion of the park. Immediate possibilities for this area are a bowling green and tennis court, increased play area, toilet facilities and landscaping. The entire park would be landscaped in this primary stage of the project.

To further the project Council will in the immediate weeks call a meeting of representatives of all community organizations and Park Board to discuss possible allotments of the monies available. With opinions expressed and ideas tabled a final decision on Winchester's Centennial project will be made.

Lucky Winners

Christmas was made a little happier for many Winchester and district residents by the merchants of the village. Several business establishments and other organizations sponsored draws and all the winners were left just a little bit happier.

At Vice and Craig a series of draws culminated on Christmas eve with a big draw for a $100 credit voucher. Winner and new V. and C. champion was W. J. L. Boyd.

Over at the Winchester IGA Foodliner six lucky people emerged with gift packages. Mrs. George Raistrick won a boy's bicycle; Archie Rice, a car light; Ethel Fraser, a Heinz truck; and Miss Martha Knowland, a child's scat car. All these winners were from Winchester. Arnold Gilroy of South Mountain won a beautiful plush Santa, and Mrs. Marjorie McDiarmid of R. R. 2, Osgoode, won a plastic Santa.

Winchester Curling Club had two fund raising draws slated for completion over the holiday season and winners were residents of Ottawa and Toronto. Draw for a $100 bond sponsored by the Ladies' Curling Club was Graeme Hedley of Toronto. An employee of the Department of Agriculture Live Stock Branch, Toronto, as a fieldman, he purchased his ticket while supervising the herd test at Lanwin Farms. Hearing of his good fortune, the winner graciously donated $25.00 towards the new curling rink.

Bob Stimpson of Ottawa, an envelope salesman, had an enjoyable Christmas dinner as he won the curlers' turkey draw. The draws were made at the pre-Christmas party in the new curling club by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Cass.

Legion Officers

Deputy Zone Commander Basil Dawley, assisted by past Zone Commander E. R. Summers installed the following officers of Branch 108 of the Royal Canadian Legion, Winchester, for a two year period.

Past president Harry Mussell, president Ray Guy, first vice president Frank Gannon, second vice president Ormond McConnell, secretary Ross McConnell, treasurer Archie Rice.

The executive consists of Ken Summers, Charles Ault, Leslie Whitteker and Neil Porteous. Auditor Erle Helmer was also appointed a trustee for a six-year period. Comrade E. R. Summers was presented with a life membership certificate and badge. He is one of the charter members of the branch and still active after 37 years.

Harry Mussell was presented with the past president's badge and pin.

Mark 101st Birthdays

Mrs. D. Nesbitt

Happy Birthday and Happy New Year were wished in happy profusion upon Mrs. Desdimona Nesbitt as she prepared to bring in 1965 by celebrating her 101st birthday on December 27. Winchester's senior citizen accepts every day in stride and prepared for family guests and many well wishers who would call by doing her housework.

With their mother on the 101st anniversary of her birth were her daughter, Mrs. Theressa Everts, of Ottawa, and her sons, William of Brockville and Stanley, of Winchester. On hand to wish their grandmother fondest greetings were several of her grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Highlight of the birthday gathering was the playing of "Happy Birthday" on the piano by the guest of honour herself. Born at Inkerman December 27, 1863—four years before Confederation, Mrs. Nesbitt has watched Canada and Eastern Ontario pass through many stages and grow with avid interest. She is the second member of her family to pass 101, an aunt, Rachel Timmins, reached the age of 102.

A plague commemorating the respected lady's 100th birthday was unveiled last year at a birthday party in the Winchester United Church. She has been a member of the church for 89 years. Her husband, Jay, died in 1918.

Happy Birthday and a rewarding New Year to Mrs. Desdimona Nesbitt.

Mrs. Agnes Gove, a native of Osnabruck Centre, celebrated her 101st birthday on January 3rd at the Private Hartington Hospital, Ottawa. Many members of her family and friends visited her on the happy occasion. She is well known in Williamsburg and Russell districts where her daughters, Mrs. O. L. Hollister and Mrs. Gladstone Warner live.

The Press and its many readers wish Mrs. Gove a happy birthday and a Happy New Year.

Soil And Crop Annual Draws Record Crowd

A record crowd attended the annual meeting of the Dundas Soil and Crop Improvement Association in the Winchester Town Hall in December.

A jammed schedule proceeded at 11 a.m. with a review of demonstration projects carried out by Association members. Outlined were projects concerning seeding forage crops without companion crops, roughland pasture improvement, Sudan Sorghum hybrid trials, fertilizer and weed control projects.

E. K. Pearson, Association secretary, expressed concern over next year's hay and pasture prospects. Two items likely to reduce the 1965 yield are reduced Alfalfa, Clover percentages in old meadows, and the badly overgrazed condition of fields this fall. The application of Nitrogen fertilizer to grassy fields in early Spring was recommended and it was suggested that farmers consider extra fertility and extra acres of corn for silage next year.

ARDA

George Suffel, President of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association, led a lively discussion on depressed conditions among Eastern Ontario farmers. Reviewing a brief presented on November 9, at Kemptville, to Hon. W. A. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Suffel outlined the need for developments under ARDA.

Better drainage of flat clay lands was slated as necessary to improve farm economy by allowing the growth of more productive and valuable crops. In combination with improved drainage, a water conservation programme must be developed to hold water in creeks and rivers for dry mid-summer and fall periods. The South Nation watershed alone contains 1,500 square miles of land, subject to well known water control problems.

The afternoon session was devoted to corn production with the following topics and speakers:

Corn Fertility—Ross Dulmage, fieldman, Soils and Crops Branch, Ontario Department of Agricuture; Corn Weed Control—Alex Skepasts, Field Crops Division, K.A.S.; Corn Varieties—Dr. L. S. Donovan, Research Branch, Canada Department of Agricuture; and Corn Machinery—Ian Balsillie, Agricultural Mechanical Division, K.A.S.

During the programme the awards were made for the 1964 One Hundred Bushel Corn Club. Ramon Casselman, Williamsburg, reached the objective with a yield calculated at 103 bushels per acre. A wrist watch, awarded by the Plant Food Council of Ontario, was presented to Mr. Casselman. Runners-up were George Suffel, 85 bus. per acre, and Donald Guy, 84 bus. per acre.

Wm. Parkinson, Assistant Agricultural Representative for Dundas and Stormont, spoke briefly on the use of the Ontario Farm Account Book.

Rae Grinnell, Timber Supervisor with the Department of Lands and Forests, called on farmers to maintain their woodlots by systematic cropping and the advisory services in woodlot management offered by his Department.

The entire slate of officers was reinstated for 1965. These are Douglas Irvine, President; Malcolm Graham, 1st vice president; Harold Lannin, 2nd vice president, and E. K. Pearson, secretary.

Senior Citizen "Fin" Coons Dies

A respected Winchester businessman and popular sportsman Finlay Coons died in Winchester District Memorial Hospital on December 23, after a lengthy illness.

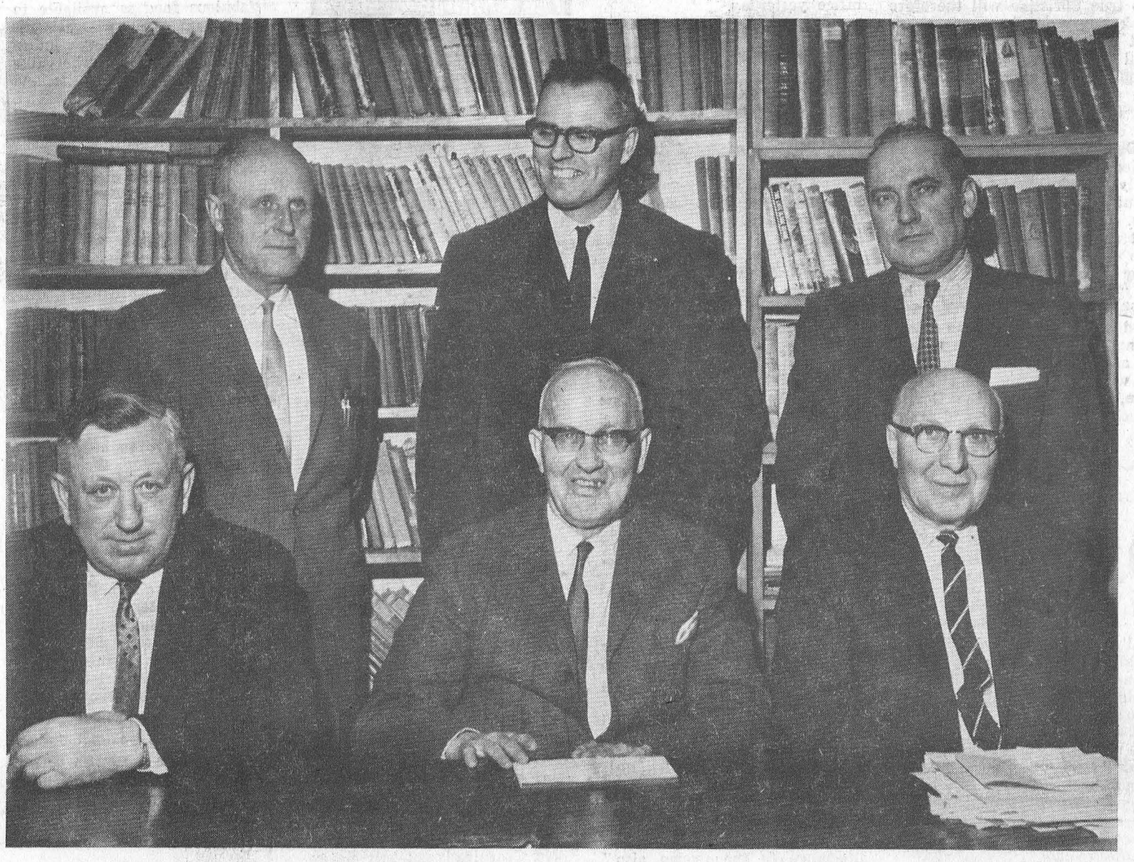
Born in 1880 he attended school in Winchester Springs. At the age of 16 in 1896 he began to work in Aaron Sweet's Winchester Store. Extremely proficient in the merchandising of hardware, he remained in the same business until 1956. During his 60-year tenure in hardware he was employed by, in addition to the Sweet firm, Hy. Bessin, Joe Lang and Norman Blackler. With his retirement from hardware he remained active in business by working in the employ of the Hylo Egg Grading Station. He thence retired in 1962 to live at home with his daughter, Madge.

A keenly interested sportsman, he was to be seen at almost every sporting event in the village with hockey softball and baseball being prime favourites. Equally interested in the work of local lodges, Mr. Coons progressed through the Henderson Masonic Lodge to become Master and retire with the title of Past Master. He also was a Past Noble Grand of the former Oddfellows' Lodge in Winchester.

He is survived by three children Gordon, Madge and Mrs. Jim Lennox (Marion), all of Winchester; a brother, Jack, and sister, Mrs. Thos. Cunningham. He was earlier predeceased by his wife, the former Gertie Watson, and later by his second wife, Mabel Barclay.

The funeral service conducted by Rev. A. J. MacDonald, his minister at the Winchester United Church, was from the Vice and Craig Funeral Home.

Pall-bearers for interment in Maple Ridge Cemetery were Ed. Boyd, Clifford Scott, Eric Steele, Howard Summers, Archie Rice and Don Casselman.



Winchester Municipal Council

Wilfred Brown Dies In Ottawa

A well known Winchster man, Wilfred Lindsay Brown, died in St. Vincent Hospital, Ottawa, January 2nd, after a lengthy illness. He was in his 53rd year.

Son of Thomas Brown and Alma Palmer, he was born in Moose Jaw, Sask. Coming east in 1928 he lived at Spencerville and later moved to Winchester. In 1943 he married the former Illah Christie. He was a member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows Lodge 349, Williamsburg.

He is survived by his wife and son, Wayne; his mother; a sister, Helen, Mrs. Charles Hunter, of Spencerville, and a brother, Ernie, of Ottawa.

An I.O.O.F. service was held on Sunday. Funeral service was conducted by Rev. Wm. Sutherland from the Vice and Craig Funeral Home. Pall-bearers for interment in Maple Ridge Cemetery were Ralph McIntosh, Lee McIntosh, Dalton Robinson, Otha Thorpe, Mahlon McIntosh and Elburn McIntosh.

Resolutions Are Important!

Like the hour that has seven days, this year has seven days — already!

It is 1965, a brand new year which has entered, we hope, on millions and millions of resolutions. For resolutions are important. Not much hope is there for the person who boasts that his only New Year resolution is that he shall make no resolutions.

The Ottawa Journal editorial page, one of the best in the land, comments, we think, wisely on this very thing called "resolutions."

"If we reduce ourselves to our lowest common characteristics, if we decide to settle for the least we can do, we may avoid particular disappointment but we will be in so unending a state of un-inspiration and dull routine that life will empty itself out of the corners of our mouths, nothing remaining but the ticking of a clock.

'The fellow who won't resolve to have more fun or be more active or be kinder to his friends or more zealous in his religion or resourceful in his work — he doesn't know the meaning of the sunrise.

"The point to life must be ahead, not behind. Our fellow who won't resolve to happier days and ways is basing his course not on what he might do but on what he hasn't done.

"Mark Twain said of smoking that he didn't at all mind giving it up—"I've done it a thousand times." We feel somewhat the same about resolutions. We've made 'em a thousand times and hope to go on making them.

"Show us a man whose life is strewn with broken resolutions and we'll wager he's a happier man than the chap who has given up trying."

Ah! School Days

Nature lovers the world over will ever argue the relative merits of a breaking dawn and a blazing sunset, but all would agree that it helps to be able to distinguish between the two.

The observation is prompted by the revelation of a provincial department of education that this is precisely what a significant number of Grade 13 students taking part in last summer's examinations could not do. To at least fifty of them, dawn and sunset were one and the same thing.

If wanting in this respect, however, there were some who were not altogether lacking in descriptive powers, among them the author of the following immortal passage: "The dainty violets were peeping through the leaves as a glistening white seagull drifted in on the soft breeze and pounced on a dead fish with its intestines hanging out."

With purple prose of this order flying around, it's not surprising that the examining teachers should have been somewhat shaken. Nor was there any relief in a study of replies to a question asking for examples of humour in Shaw's Caesar and Cleopatra.

As one examiner sorrowfully put it: "Many candidates seemed to have a warped or deficient sense of humour, with several quoting Pothinus' death scream as the most hilarious incident in the play . . ."

Ah well, they may not be learning much but at least they are, as they would say, having themselves a ball.

Outlook Bright

With economic expansion well into its fourth year it's not surpising that some people should be wondering about the outlook for the Canadian economy in the year ahead. The words of the experts who have so far committed themselves is reassuring.

A survey of members of the Industrial Economists' Forum of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association shows a big majority predicting that the gross national product in 1965 will again increase by at least five per cent.

Of 14 economists covered by the survey, all but four expect that the level of industrial production will be higher at the end of next year than it is today.

However, while employment levels are expected to be well maintained, no further substantial improvement is foreseen—a reflection of the fact that the rate of growth of Canada's labour force, and the accompanying need for new jobs, is one of the fastest in the world.

BETTER LUCK THIS TIME?

Winter Leaves Him Cold

by Bill Smiley

This is the time of year when the average honest citizen, however bravely he tries to conceal it, is about as warm, lively and full of vitality as the discarded Christmas tree leaning drunkenly against the back steps, a few morsels of tinsel fluttering from its prematurely aged frame.

Prematurely aged. That's the way I feel in January. Like a woman of 35 who has had twelve children in fifteen years. As though I can't face it again.

By the middle of February, of course, I'll be all cheered up, and will be going around like all the other idiots, blithely agreeing that "the days sure are stretching out, aren't they?" But right now I look upon life with the wild enthusiasm of a man-eating tiger confronting a bowl of cornflakes.

First, and worst, part of the January miseries is that hideous struggle to get out of the sack. Crawling out of the warm drowsiness into the grey horror of the day is as desperate a business as any I know. There are days when I'm sure I'll never make it, were it not for the voices demanding help with clothing and breakfast, and the total silence from the other side of the bed.

Finally, having survived the first hour of the day, there's the dash for the car, a feat that ranks, in my mind, with Hillary's dash for the South Pole. Big difference is that Sir Edmund didn't leave his galoshes at the office yesterday.

There's nothing I enjoy more, in the summer, than reading about the simple pleasures of old-time winters. Sleighbells, the crunching of snow underfoot, the snapping of trees in the frost, the smiling midwinter sun on the snow, jolly gatherings of congenial souls about an open fireplace.

Fellow who writes those stories never lived where I have found mystelf stuck these past few winters.

The sleighbells are more likely to be fire sirens as some poor devil sets the pipes on fire, trying to stay alive. The crunching underfoot is more likely to be your toes breaking off by the numbers, from the right. The snapping is more likely to be the roof of the back porch caving in under the snow. No self-respecting fairy would be caught dead under the January sun, which smiles at you with all the geniality of a cold fried egg. The gatherings are more likely to be melancholy huddles of taxpayers exchanging cold remedies and talking about their furnaces.

Winter is fine, up until New Year's. After that, you can give it to the Russians. In fact, if they ever invade us, they should do it in January. Half the population is in Florida. The other half is down with the 'flu.

* * * *

I wouldn't even give this country back to the Indians, in midwinter. In the first place, they wouldn't take it. In the second, we've handed them enough bum deals in the past.

It's enough to curdle your blood when you hear people duck into the coffee shop, faces grey with cold, noses running and wheezing: "Isn't that a grand winter's day" as they blow on their claw-like fingers, before wiping the steam from their specs.

Seems to me that we all suffer from an advanced case of self-deception. Just because our ancestors couldn't imagine anything worse than their Irish shanties, Italian slums or Polish villages and came to Canada, we think we're automatically rugged and physically fitted to endure the climate which fastens on us everywhere but in the South.

* * * *

This country, in January, is fit for jackrabbits, alcoholics, and people under the age of twelve. The sooner we realize it, and demand from the government return tickets to Florida, good for three months, the better.

Of Many Things

TURKEY DELIGHT

Farmer friends of ours grow us a turkey every year—and what a turkey! They grow a big, white bird, using all the scientific new feeds and chemicals, but lots of free range as well. Our bird is killed and dressed just before Christmas so that it does not have to be frozen. My mouth katers talking about it. I have visions of white, succulent breast and rich brown gravy, flanked by bright-red cranberry sauce and all the other trimmings. If I were a poet, every other stanza of mine would salute the fabulous turkey.

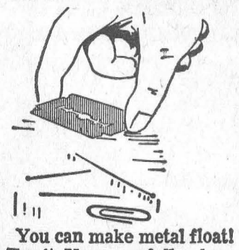
Fabulous food is available to most Canadians every day, thanks to good farmers and the industries that serve them. The value of this food depends on the land and how that land is managed. It has always seemed a shame to me that farm organizations so often spend their energies on poloticking, rather than on the more important problems of soil management, proper cultviation, conservation and improvement of the soil on which we all ultimately depend. They seem to leave most of these worries to Departments of Agriculture, Universities, or the farm magazine writers. Those groups do fine work, but unless there is close co-ordination between them and the farmer himself, it takes years for such research to get into actual use.

Farmers all through Manitoba blow badly during the winter. We see heaps of topsoil drifting into ditches. In Spring, signs of soil erosion are apparent even to the greenhorn. Our Highway Department, which ought to be working with the Department of Agriculture, is sometimes responsible for terrible damage. It cuts great clay gulleys over deep grades, so top land and silt go pouring down to ruin bottom land or fill small rivers with silt. How a government agency can be so ruthlessly careless of soil management I cannot understand. I believe the Farm Union and the Federation of Agriculture should be after them hot and heavy to stop this sort of thing.

But all this aside, Canadian farmers are among the best in the world. Our meats and vegetables are tasty and packed with nourishment. We're lucky to live in a land like this, with abundance all around us.

The Children's Corner

Floating Steel



You can make metal float! Try it. Very carefully, drop a pin, needle or razor blade on the surface of water . . . but don't make any waves!

The Seventh Column

By now, most of the blood-shot eyes should be back to normal vision, the morning after cobwebs up in the grey matter should have been replaced with thoughts and ideas of a brand new year. But, before we go another day, let each of us resolve to be a better person, a better citizen, a better neighbour, a better friend. There are many ways we may accomplish this, and accomplish it we must. If we do our town and your town, our country and the whole world for that matter will be a much better place.

For the first time in our lifetime we became a temporary "shut in" for a goodly part of the Yuletide season. Laid up with an uncomfortable back ailment, we had time to catch up on some reading and to watch more than a few TV shows. Things we enjoyed included: beautiful music over CFRA and other radio stations; "Carol For Another Christmas," a thought-provoking TV play with a modern day theme based on Charles Dickens' famous Scrooge; Christmas morning and children; The Bowl games and especially the Rose Bowl parade; among others Ken Grant's Christmas card.

Things we did not enjoy: our so called green Christmas, more like brown really; the headlines telling of tragedy and particularly the murder of the Kingston man on his way home from work Christmas eve; the singer at the place where we spent New Year's Eve.

With the Booze counters doing their usually rush, rush business over the holiday period it is interesting to note the calorie count per drink. Most of us, it should be admitted, are generally calorie conscious to some degree except at times like New Year's Eve. For instance, one and a half ounces of rye accounts for 115 of those blessed little nuisances, while the same amount of scotch totals 106. Other drinks vary accordingly but all are high on the calorie calendar. So, back to lean meat and water for the next month.

And for those who may still believe that prohibition is the answer, a quick look at Quebec, where hard liquor could not be purchased because of the strike, should clear up the matter somewhat. Over the holidays no particular decrease in accidents in Quebec, the government's financial loss is running into the millions, and small time bootlegging and smuggling are running wild. As a result, Ontario liquor stores never had it so good.

As for prophecies in the new year — who really knows? Anyway, we'll hazard a guess or ten of our own and as the year unwinds a bit so will the answers to what we think will happen over the next few months: First off the great Bobby Hull, currently the best player in the National Hockey League, will eclipse the all time scoring record of 50 goals in one season which he presently shares with Bernie Geoffrion and Maurice Richard. A federal election in 1965, possibly before June. Retirement or replacement of PC leader John Diefenbaker (this could depend on when election is called). More scandal in the present mess being spaded up among political leaders in the country. Announcement within two months of where Winchester's Centennial money will be spent — probably at the Community Park. An increase in taxes for Winchester. Continued growth for the entire area, and more announcements of industrial expansion in this area. Start of work on new Highway 31 entrance to Ottawa.

More prophecies: Continued popularity of The Beatles. At least two major business developments and/or changes in Winchester. Abolition of capital punishment in Canada by Act of Parliament. A review of current divorce laws making them more realistic in these changing times. Recognition by more people that the words "please" and "thanks" are still used. A crucial year for the United Nations with fear of "the bomb" still our great hope for world peace. A bumper year for Upper Canada Golf Course. A poor year for Winchester Community Centre. At least one Sunday afternoon football game in Ottawa. Ice at the new Winchester Curling Club within one week. A record membership for the same club next November. Expansion at the District Memorial Hospital.

Meditations . . .

BY REV. CECIL W. TUININGA

Ephesians 2:1—"And you hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins."

All men are sinners. This is readily admitted by all. However, few are ready to admit that all men are lost sinners. The import of the that word "lost" is too dreadful, for it means that all men are dead spiritually. This seems to contradict facts.

There is a vast difference between the admittance that men are sinners or the admittance that they are lost sinners. The first admits that men do evil, the second that men do evil because their whole being is evil. This Scripture teaches us when it says, "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for all have sinned." — Romans 4:12. This agrees with facts.

Why should anyone hesitate to acknowledge that men are lost sinners? The answer lies in the very nature of sin itself. Sin is a blinding power and an innate love for evil of every kind. All are caught in its power and grip and love falsehood and hate the truth. It makes men blind to their true condition. It causes men to imagine themselves to be gods each with a right of his own, still adhering to the devil's lie, "Ye shall be as God, knowing good and evil."—Gen. 3:5.

How shall any man then escape from this bondage, from this blinding power, of sin? The answer lies in the great work of redemption accomplished by Christ on Calvary's Cross. It is only through the life-bringing power of the Holy Spirit that men can come to an experiential knowledge of sin, and it is by that same divine power that men come to a saving knowledge of the gospel. Only when men know they are lost will they repent of their sins and flee to the crucified Lord for pardon and life.

The call of the gospel is always earnest and urgent, calling men to life in Christ Jesus. A true Christian is one who has answered that call in the deep conviction that in himself he is lost, dead in trespasses and sins. No true Christian will therefore look down on those who have not believed unto salvation, he will never have a holier-than-thou attitude toward the world. He will always be conscious of the fact that he is a sinner saved by divine grace alone.

On the other hand, those who reject the Gospel and think it folly have no right to expect absolute holiness from true believers. Rather, and this is important and urgent, they must seek the God of grace while He still may be found. The day of grace is "Today, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." And to us in this Christian nation Canada the question can rightly be asked, "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation," for we have the Gospel proclaimed to us again and again.

Ottawa Report

By Mrs. Jean Wadds

It becomes increasingly evident that the Conservative Opposition has been representing a large number of Canadians in arguing stoutly in favour of the Red Ensign. Voices in favour of a new flag were loud but now that the red maple leaf with red bars has been chosen a surprising number of new voices express dislike of it. The most interesting and perceptive comment I've heard was to the effect that it is so colourless.

This goes to the root of the Conservative argument, that it had no historical or traditional significance, nothing to satisfy the emotions, the pride of the nation. It is as if many people thought they wanted a change and having achieved that, suddenly discovered they had not looked beyond change for change's sake.

In an effort to salvage some recognition of the Red Ensign, beloved by so many, the Conservatives brought in an Amendment to the Seventh and Final Report of the Special Committee on a Canadian Flag. This Amendment was proposed by the Hon. Hugh John Flemming, former Minister of Forestry and Premier of New Brunswick, and a member of the Flag Committee. He said:

"I think we might consider that the very fact we are being asked to have two flags in this country must suggest the general idea that something is now lacking in the design recommended by the committee in their report and apparently approved by this House yesterday. If I am correct in my opinion in this regard I would like someone to tell me what has brought about the necessity of having a second flag. It should not be the case, and I for one do not appreciate it and certainly do not desire it.

I suggest that membership in the Commonwealth is not conveyed by any particular flag. The Commonwealth countries, however, generally speaking — this does not apply sweepingly across the board but it does apply in many instances — have inserted the Union Jack as part of their flags. However, generally speaking we find there is no such thing as a Commonwealth flag. This flag is going to symbolize our membership in the Commonwealth, according to this paragraph, and it will also symbolize our allegiance to the Crown. I would like to think that the flag which flies over the tower of this building symbolizes our allegiance to the Crown also."

Later, Gilles Gregoire, peppery Member from the Province of Quebec and Deputy Leader of the Crediste Party, made a very reasonable suggestion. This talkative Member is often irritating, seemingly exhibitionist but undeniably clever. After days and weeks of repetition a new idea struck sharply on the ears of the House of Commons and sounded sensible and attractive.

Mr. Gregoire suggested that other Commonwealth countries should be consulted on an agreement worked out for a uniform flag to be used by all Members of the Commonwealth on ceremonial occasions.

Mr. Gregoire is not only clever and articulate, but also optimistic. Of such stuff are good politicians made. However, out of sympathy we may be with Mr. Gregoire, his tirades and his techniques, such characteristics made him formidable Opposition, not to be underrated.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Metcalfe, Ontario.

Dear Sirs:

As a reader of your paper, I would like to submit a little rhyme on the flag issue. There seems to have been some lively controversy in Valley papers. I would like to see the flag issue discussed in your paper.

One Of Canada's Dark Days

Our fathers' flag was kicked around
In a cheap, vote-getting game,
While loyal subjects just stood by
And hung their heads in shame.

While politicians came as those
With power from above,
Saying, stupid peasants raise your eyes,
We'll tell you what to love.

So now our Ensign must come down,
A noble, honoured flag,
It must come down to make a place
For a shabby, coloured rag.

OLD TIMER

Ed. Note: The Winchester Press, like many other newspapers, has, indeed, commented on the flag situation. In addition to editorials and feature columns, The Press also ran a special survey several months ago which indicated that this district favoured the Red Ensign about eight to one. And just before Christmas this newspaper published another story, with picture, telling of distaste for the new flag design and of a special telegram being sent from this area to opposition leader Diefenbaker. The telegram was not necessarily against a new flag, but against the design accepted.

Quick Canadian Facts

There are about 1,000,000 Canadians eligible for the old age security pension in the current year, compared to 745,000 ten years ago; cost of the pension in the period has increased from $290 million to $900 million.

Metcalfe Lions Enviable Record

(By Joe Rowan)

Just five years ago now, a little Irish High School Principal saw the need for a Service Club in the Metcalfe District. Philip Kelly, then Principal of Osgoode Township High School, and now teaching in Aylmer, decided to do something about it.

The nearest Chartered Service Club was the lively little Lions Club at Russell with Bob Rowan as President. Phil and Bob, a former Metcalfe resident, formed a team with but one thought in mind—a Lions Club for Metcalfe.

Many weeks of tireless effort won more and still more residents to their cause, and by Christmas the nucleus of a new club was formed. In January, Charles Grace of Arnprior, the then District Governor of District A4, presented the Charter to the Metcalfe and District Club with President Phil Kelly accepting on behalf of the 35 charter members.

Now, five years later, with Jack Morrison as president, the club with a membership of 42 looks back, with pride, on its accomplishments. 20 of the original charter members are still very active, and eight have perfect attendance since chartering.

The club points with pride, too, to the fact that although only a very young club, they had the distinction of having one of its members, Past President Bill Porteous elected to a term as Zone Chairman for District A4.

The prime purpose of any Service Club is to be of assistance when a need arises. Service Clubs do not make a habit of advertising their good deeds, and derive their satisfaction in knowing that they were "there when needed."

There are, unfortunately, always a few who question, sometimes too loudly, what is done with all the money raised by the Club.

The Metcalfe and District Lions Club feels it owes to its faithful supporters a word of clarification.

(1) Hockey for boys in the area—equipment and ice rental, $547.00.

(2) Help for widow in district, $500.00.

(3) Softball equipment for boys and girls, $169.00.

(4) Eye glasses and examinations for children, $55.00.

(13) Help to indigent persons, $50.00.

(14) Equipping School Patrols, $119.00.

(15) Winchester and District Memorial Hospital (donation) $1,200.00, decorated trees at Christmas, $6.00; total $1,206.00.

(16) Christmas gifts to elderly people, and Christmas hampers for needy, $285.00.

(17) Donations for School Year Books, $60.00.

(18) Christmas concerts for children, $120.00.

(19) Help given to victims of fire disasters — partially direct gifts from club, and partly as a result of drive spearheaded by club, $5,112.00.

(20) In co-operation with the Metcalfe, Agricultural Society the Lions Club renovated the Dining Hall located in the Fair Grounds. As a result it served as a "home" for the Lions Club —a meeting place for the Fair Board, the Women's Institute, 4-H Clubs, Junior Farmers, etc. The club feels this has been a real asset to the community and the share of the cost borne by the Lions Club was $1,441.00.

Total amount, $11,457.00.

The Press correspondent obtained these figures thanks to the kind help of Lions Club Treasurer Roy Porteous, Secretary Mitch Owens, Finance Chairman Mac Cooper and President Jack Morrison.

The Metcalfe and District Lions Club may well feel proud of the work it is doing, and it is hoped it will continue on to even greater things.

DOES IT MAKE YOU MAD

when someone wearing a big hat sits down in front of you at a show and you can't see the whole picture?

The driver behind you on the road needs to see the whole traffic picture too and he can't if your car windows are all fogged and frosty.

You can prevent FOGGING on the inside of your car windows by keeping one window open while driving . . . and the windows won't FROST up when you're parked if you leave one open a little.

Careful, considerate drivers help themselves and other drivers too by keeping their windows clear.

If you're a considerate driver why not find out about CIA's AUTOMOBILE and ACCIDENT insurance for careful drivers.

Council Sworn In At Williamsburg

Wiliamsburg Township Council was sworn into office by Clerk Keith Schell at its initial meeting January 2nd in the I. O. O. F. Hall, Williamsburg. Following an invocation by Rev. W. Adam of the Williamsburg United Church, Reeve D. H. Kyle, Deputy Reeve Johnny Whitteker and Councillors Graham Hess, Hugh McMillan and Edward Hanson took the oath of office. The Reeve then greeted all members old and new.

Floyd Fisher William Reddick and Hugh McMillan were appointed to the Morrisburg-Williamsburg Planning Board for a period of 3, 2 and 1 years respectively.

Clerk Schell was instructed to arrange a meeting with the Minister of Highways to discuss the takeover of old Highway No. 2. The council also authorized membership in the Association of Rural Municipalities and the Ontario Good Roads Association. Finally, he was instructed to send a letter of appreciation to Rev. Mr. Adam.

By-laws for the appointment of Township officials and borrowing authorization were passed prior to a review of the municipal wage scale. Labour wages were increased from $1.00 per hour to $1.25.

The engineer's report on the Gogo Drain was accepted and the necessary by-laws are to be prepared.

Curlers Take Special Notice

"The time has come," the curler says, "to think of only one thing."

This is it, curlers. The schedule starts Monday evening on three shiny, new, smooth and wonderful sheets of ice. Curling Monday evening with the Mixed League leading off. On Tuesday evening the Men will do the honours.

A tip from the inside, however, has been revealed to The Press and, barring a major machinery breakdown, there should be open curling on at least two sheets of ice on Saturday evening. Our tipster also informs us that Saturday evening's warm-up will be on a first come, first served basis, with a special invitation to new curlers.

Defeated candidates for the two council seats that remained vacant after initial nomination meeting were John Morris, Charles Cross and Reg. Workman.

CURLING CAPSULES By Ernie Richardson

The etiquette of curling revolves around every type of consideration for opponents and teamates alike in all phases of the game. And, observing the basic rules of curling is all a part of the general etiquette regardless of the standard of competition.

The players themselves are the key to maintaining the high quality of sportsmanship and entertainment necessary to the continued success of any sport. The curlers themselves should always strive to be respected salesmen for this fine game that has so rapidly grown in popularity.

There are many points of etiquette that will come naturally to most players, but some of the major items that should be observed by all curlers are offered for your study.

When not delivering a stone, players other than the skips of each team should stand well to the sides of the sheet of ice on which they are playing. This allows full vision to the skip and the player who is delivering the rock to see the broom. This is a must when wide ice is being played.

It is actually against the rules in major competitions, and in other cases considered in bad taste, for players other than the skip or vice skip to congregate in, or behind the house, especially when one of the opposing players is shooting.

And when the skip is giving the broom for one of his players, no other broom should be on the ice, near or behind the skip. Any such distractions are considered unsportsmanlike, and can be unnerving to both opponents and teammates alike.

There is another point that can create distractions and it happens at the other end of the ice. While an opponent is delivering a stone, the next player should take a position where there will be no interference with the shot.

He should not be moving behind the hack in any way that might distract his opponent. He should, however be ready to deliver his stone as soon as it is his turn to play.

Skips — or vice-skips when the skips are shooting —are the only players allowed to sweep behind the tee line (centre line of the rings), unless the skip has specially designated another player to do the sweeping. This means that one person only on each team can sweep behind the tee line.

Then there is a new rule in force this season pertaining to the slide and delivery of the stone. No part of the players body, or his playing equipment, broom etc., may cross near the hog line in completing the delivery.

This rule brings up still another point of etiquette. If a player should break this rule, it is his duty to immediately announce it to his opponent whether accidental or otherwise. Then the opposing skip has the right to either let the shot stand, or remove the stone and replace others that might have been moved by the shot.

Because the onus is on the non-offending side to call the rule infringement, this places the non-offending skip in a most uncomfortable and at times an unfortunate situation.

This is where etiquette and sportsmanship comes in. The player who commits the foul knowingly and does not declare it, thus forcing his opponent to call him on the foul, is cheating both his opponent and himself as well as doing the game of curling an injustice.

Skips and thirds — vice-skips to easterners — may hold strategy consultations at any time during a game, but long delays are not generally condoned. Together with consulting with the skip, the vice-skips also take care of the scoring of ends and also decides in co-operation with opponents when a measure is required to determine shot stone.

And, finally, although curling, like hockey is played on ice, blocking or body-checking are definitely not a part of curling etiquette.

CATTLE MINERALS

Every ration must have minerals and more attention is given to mineral balance in feeds than ever before.

We carry four kinds of cattle minerals:
- Shur - Gain Essential Minerals
- Shur - Gain Special Minerals
- Swift's Minerals For Cattle
- Copperized Mineral For Cattle

"Shur - Gain" and "Swift's" regular minerals are the mineral supplements recommended for general use.

"Shur - Gain" Special Mineral has more Calcium and Phosphorus. It is used in areas deficient in Calcium and Phosphorus. This Special Mineral has been recommended for certain herds in this area and there is a steadily increasing demand for it.

Copperized Mineral is a special mineral with added copper for copper deficient areas. There is quite a stretch of copper deficient land in this area and copper mineral has been the answer to a lot of problems with cattle on these farms.

Formula feeds like Dairy Ration and Dairy Concentrate have adequate mineral content for the average herd if fed as recommended. However, certain individuals in the herd may need more mineral than others. In that case, extra feeding of "regular" or "special" minerals may be advisable.

For custom mixed rations, be sure to have enough mineral included, and the kind of mineral needed for any special requirement.

We'll be glad to help check on the kind and quantity of mineral recommended.
