South Dundas 2006 Budget held at 2 percent

BY JOSEPH MORIN
CHIEFTAIN STAFF REPORTER

More rain than snow and some frugal belt tightening have kept the South Dundas budget down to a modest 2 percent increase.

The Council passed their budget at their last council meeting on Tuesday, May 16.

Prior to coming up with a final 2006 budget the council had asked municipal staff to try to stay with a 2 percent increase, which they were able to do by cutting some smaller in-house budgets.

"I feel that the council did the best that it could," said South Dundas Mayor, Lyle Van Allen. The Mayor added that the council cut some items out of its budget that they may have to put back in a year or two from now. "On the whole, it is a good budget," he stated.

The Township was faced with a bigger bill to operate the Township this yea than in previous years. Last year the Township had to make do with an operating budget of $3,084,755. This year the bill comes in at $3.920,423. The reason according to municipal staff for the increases is because of expected increases in utility costs, such as gas, heating and electricity and extra costs in 2006 that include election expenses and money set aside for physician recruitment.

The Township's operating budget is one thing and their budget for capital projects is another. The combined total of the two budgets is $6,687,532. Thanks to Provincial grants and subsidies the final combined total drops to $4,363,755. That total is what South Dundas ratepayers will have to make up for from their municipal taxes in 2006.

Some of the capital projects that the Township wants to work on this year are: a new storage shed for their road salt, the annual Fleet Replacement Program, new road construction and a new innovative dollar for dollar program. The matching dollar program is aimed at recreational committees, giving then an opportunity to fundraise for specific projects. If a recreation committee needs, for example $5,000 for a particular project and is able to fundraise $2,500 then the Township will kick in the rest. The council set aside $70,000 for the program and councilors have pointed out that this is the first year for the program and that there will have to be some fine tuning as it goes along.

The capital budget for this year shoed a marked decrease in taxes need. Last year it was $861,249. IN 2006 the expected bill for getting things built in the Township is $443,332.

Trade Show shines in Morrisburg

Was it the weather that made the Annual South Dundas Trade Show such a great success this past weekend? Organizers felt it was the variety of interesting and useful products and services displayed by local exhibitors that sparked the public's interest. Perhaps it was a combination of both that made this year's event one of the best ever.

The South Dundas Chamber of Commerce with the Township of South Dundas once again offered the community hands-on marketing opportunities for local businesses and service organizations. It also gave area residents the opportunity to check out what's new and available in a wide range of products and services.

BUDGET

FROM THE FRONT

The 2005 Township surplus was used to bring down the cost of capital projects.

The council was also able to use the Federal Gas Tax Rebate to cover some capital costs regarding road construction and maintenance. Each years the Township receives $!05,000 from the Federal government from taxes collected at the gas pump each year. The council was able to pass on $210,000 to their roads department to help bring down their road costs.

The tax breakdown for South Dundas resident looks good.

This year the Township was able to calculate the tax rate that they would be using and tell residents what their total bill would be because the United Counties and Education portion of the tax bill has already been calculated.

Based on a $100,000 tax assessment for a residential property in South Dundas, taxpayers will be paying $68.22 less in their annual taxes. The total property tax bill for a South Dundas ratepayer was $1,597.86 in 2005. This year, residents will have to pay $1,529.64.

A breakdown of the money the Township believes it will have to come up with in 2006 is: $428,572 for the environment.

This does not include water and sewer costs that are paid for by the users. $1,226,311 for general government, planning and development $138,241, health $80,000, protection to persons and properties $601, 860, recreation and facilities $927, 095, roads and street lighting $3,285,453.

TRADE SHOW

FROM THE FRONT

Building on its past successes, this year's Trade Show welcomed a record number of visitors to its Morrisburg Arena venue.

The tremendous turnout of visitors and exhibitors, together with the many comments from people expressing pleasure with the venue all seems to point to the fact that the Morrisburg Arena is the location of choice for this event in the future. The show featured such highlights as fashion shows from The Hartford Retirement Centre, Giant Tiger, Punkinheadkids and even the Doggie Fashion Show. Visitors enjoyed displays featuring the latest in fire places, theatre, septic systems, electronics, personal care, home décor, and much, much more. Not only is the Trade Show committee thrilled with the success of the event, many exhibitors are already booking a spot for next year.

Lucky winners of the great door prizes were: Wilma Smith, Marie Montgomery, Mike Van Allen, Anne Marie Waddell, Joyce Dingwall & Jan Wood won the great door prizes from the Chamber.

Seaway Scribbles & Bits

BY DAVID JONES

Student Council Scoop – The latest initiative from this year's Student Council is International Month. It offers students the opportunity to experience different cultures from across the globe. This week at Seaway, International Month is continuing with a Tea Party in celebration of the cultures of England and France.

So far, meals and activities have been held in honour of the cultures of North America and Italy, and, following this week's "England and France Tea Party", China will be featured, bringing this new Seaway event to a close. It is the vision of this year's student council that "International Month" will continue to present unique cultures to the students of Seaway for years to come.

Sports Centre – The Senior Girl's Soccer season has officially come to an end at Seaway this year.

While the team wasn't able to defeat St. Joe's and La Citadelle in their last opportunity to make the playoffs, the team should be proud of their effort.

Throughout the season the girls played great soccer and will surely take their promising play into next year's season.

Prom 2006 – The big event has finally arrived. Prom 2006 will be held this Friday at Stanley's Olde Farm, located just south of Ottawa.

This is a first time location for Seaway's Prom and is sure to provide lasting memories for all of the senior students attending this year.

In other Seaway news, plans are in the works for a big floor hockey tournament to be held on May 30th at Seaway. All proceeds are to be donated to housing development in Mexico.

Next week I'll be back with more "Scribbles & Bits" from Seaway.

Seaway Computing Team places 17th in province

BY ANDREA CARTIER
CHIEFTAIN STAFF REPORTER

The Seaway District High School Computing team proudly returned from Toronto after participating in the Ontario finals of the Educational Computing Organization of Ontario competition. "It was really awesome being able to compete against the best of the best," stated team member Adam Bilodeau. Adam is one of four members of the team which finished second in all of Eastern Ontario before going on to compete on May 13 in Toronto. The team, composed of Adam Bilodeau, Robert Kirkwood, Carolyne Brodeur, and mentor teacher Tanya Crosbie, had their best year ever. "I am glad we got to go to Toronto, as three of us are finished at Seaway this year," explained Carolyne Brodeur.

21 teams took part in the competition held in Toronto, which involves solving some very difficult cipher and math problems through the creation of computer programs.

The challenge for computing teams is to be able to understand the questions, formulate an answer that not only works in real life but that can be programmed using computer codes and tested. Speed is of the essence, as the competition is only 3 hours long, and points are awarded for reaching a solution the fastest. There are also points available for flexibility and accuracy. Each problem has to have 5 sets of data that has to verify the answer so that competition judges will be able to determine that the team's answer is not just a random computer equation that happened to work.

Seaway District High School offers only one computer programming class, and the class has only three members. In light of this fact, the Seaway team's performance even more amazing. "Lots of the teams participating in the Toronto competition were from private schools that offer computer programming courses at every level," stated Bilodeau. "I think we did very well to even get to the provincials."

Mentor teacher Tanya Crosbie added, "I am quite proud and happy that the team got so far. I am sad that we will be losing 3 team members as they are graduating, but we will start rebuilding next year."

The Seaway team finished 17 out of 21 in the Toronto competition. "Just getting there was great," said Brodeur. "We were very happy to come in 17 because we were competing against the best teams in the province, and against some of the best schools in the country."

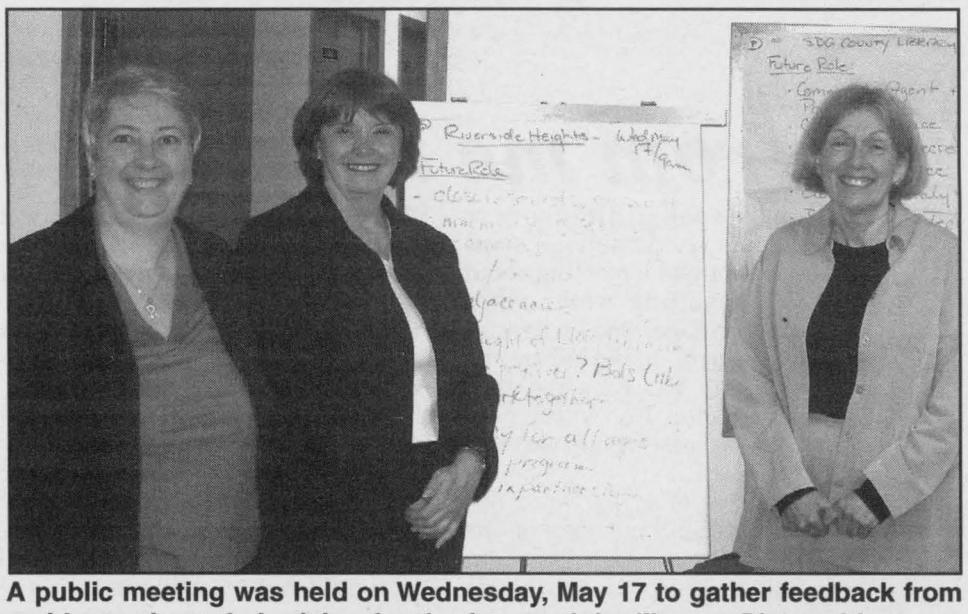
SDG Library surveys public for new strategic direction

BY ANDREA CARTIER
CHIEFTAIN STAFF REPORTER

Libraries in Transition, a company engaged by the County Library Board to help create a new strategic direction for the library, held a public meeting at the Riverside Recreation Centre on Wednesday, May 17.

A number of residents attended the meeting led by consultant Peggy Walshe, and participated in one phase of information gathering that will contribute to the final report.

In order to gather the information necessary to understand public wants and needs, Libraries in Transition held a series of public consultation town hall events between Tuesday, May 16 and Thursday, May 18. The consultant also met with library staff members, and the township was asked to contribute by filling out a survey of their own.



A public meeting was held on Wednesday, May 17 to gather feedback from residents about their vision for the future of the library. Pictured here are CEO of the library Rudi Denham, consultant Peggy Walshe, and Dundas supervisor Elizabeth Porter.

The consultation process is seeking to define the role of the library in the future as perceived by library patrons and other community members. Some potential roles of the library have been identified by consultant Peggy Walshe, and these include; community agent and partner, community space, cultural and recreational resource, economic catalyst, educator, information technology centre, and literary centre.

The process is also seeking to identify what collections the library should focus on in the future. Some of the collections which were identified included adult fiction and non-fiction, children's fiction and non-fiction, recreational materials, educational resources, electronic collections, and special collections such as reference, business and local history.

The library is no longer just a reservoir of books, and it has been providing the community access to the internet and therefore government services for the past several years. The Community Access Program has meant that internet service is available in all branches of the SD&G public library. Libraries in Transition is also seeking to determine which key services the public wishes to access in their libraries in the future. Some of the services that the public can choose from include accessing electronic databases and other internet services, attending events, programs, and meetings, borrowing items, and making use of reference services. The process will also determine which collections, services and facilities are currently most valued by members of the public, and where perceived gaps exist.

Potential changes in existing library collections, services, programs and facilities will be identified through this process, as well as identification of future library users.

The study will look ten to fifteen years into the future and will conclude with the creation of an action plan in order to implement goals and direction identified by the process.

A Canadian soldier

There's more to the recent news of the first Canadian woman in a combat role killed in battle. When I first met Captain Nichola Goddard in 2000, she had the innocence of any young woman looking to make her way in a man's Army. With talent and dreams, I saw Nichola take to the Royal Military College with passion. She would not be outdone by any man and she grew to be a leader of men, rising to command one hundred of her fellow officers, molding the cadets of RMC, influencing us to go just a little bit further. A real Canadian, driven to contribute, her care was to make her environment better. Excelling above so many, many sought out her passion. Now is the time to get behind our military, get to know our soldiers, take an interest in their jobs, never forget the sacrifice our bright and beautiful young women and men are facing in the protection of this our great and sovereign country. Some don't understand why military personnel do what they do with their lives. Nichola s example of dedication to the Canadian Forces and of offering free time to her community will stay in my heart. We can all reflect on her supreme sacrifice; a daughter; a wife; a friend and loyal Canadian. Nichola will be remembered as having made a difference.She wouldn't have it any other way.

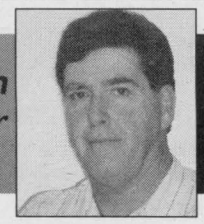
A thought...

from me to you

by Joseph Morin
Editor



Last week, thirty or so Iroquois residents took some time to attend a meeting about the impending water rates for the village. The end result of a year of planning by the Township has resulted in a modest monthly water consumption rate as opposed to a flat fee rate..

The idea of tying water use to a water bill is a sign of the times.

While most of us have been distracted by world and national events that sometimes take your breath away, the world in a global sense has been taking a close look at the planets fresh water supplies. There should be more than enough water for everyone if they can get at it but will water become such a commodity that it is removed from the list of items we have always taken for granted.

In the case of the actions to link water consumption to a money value, people have to remember that they are not paying for the water they use. They are paying for the delivery system that gets their water to their home. The water was always free.

Around the world there are at least a billion human beings who are threatened by a serious lack of water in their lives.

There is the issue of quenching the thirst of all of these people and as important, using water to provide adequate sanitation.

It is sure starting to look like whoever controls all of the water, controls everything else.

Oil once reigned supreme as the commodity that fueled North America and the rest of the industrialized world. You could not even begin to think about going to war without first making sure you had enough oil to lubricate your war machine.

Water may be the next and final, next to air, monopoly to go for.

To appreciate what is new on the water scene, take a look at the Internet sites dedicated to water. The Canadian Water Resources Association is getting ready for their annual conference on water. The place to be to take it all in is Toronto, in early June. A look at some of the topics of he conference, says it all.

The people who belong to the association as well as government representatives from all across North America and probably overseas will be discussing water like never before.

The issue of having to share water resources between countries is touched on in a presentation called "From Local to Global". The presenters were not at the Iroquois meeting on water meters but I am sure their spirit was hanging around out side the Iroquois Civic Centre. The conference is not at all about what price to tag water at but rather what the heck are we going to do as more and more demands are placed on our natural water resources. It is a serious enough topic that government and non-government water related organizations are taking the time to brainstorm about the future of water.

It is difficult to track how many wars have been fought over the last thousand years over something as simple and universal as water. Since the late 1980's the Untied Nations has been trying to do just that. It seems that humans as passengers on the planet as it rumbles through the galaxy have finally accepted the fact that their continued survival is not to be taken for granted. The fact that most countries around the world are starting to pay attention to global water issues as well as their own local ones is an indication that the world as we know it has indeed changed.

Although the weather wasn't the best, I hope everyone had an enjoyable holiday week-end. The cribbage week has taken a break for the summer and a good majority of the cribbage players still get a few hands of cribbage.

There is a possibly that the euchre games could be starting up again soon. As soon as I know for sure then I will mention it to you. The Mixed Dart League, had their wind-up banquet on Saturday night past. There will be more on this event next week in the Chieftain. Again the Ladies Auxiliary came through with a lovely turkey and dressing meal that they all enjoyed.

The Pot of Gold winner was Bob Esford who unfortunately was not signed in.

The Friday meal is to be baked chicken legs, mashed potatoes and gravy, cranberry sauce and cabbage salad. Dessert will be black forest cake. The winner of the free meal was Walter Reid.

Gigantic garage sale on Saturday, May 27 starting at 8 am at the Iroquois Legion on the front lawn. If it should happen to rain, the yard sale will be moved inside the Legion in the main hall.

Until next week, take care.

Local MPP welcomes increased smoke-free funding

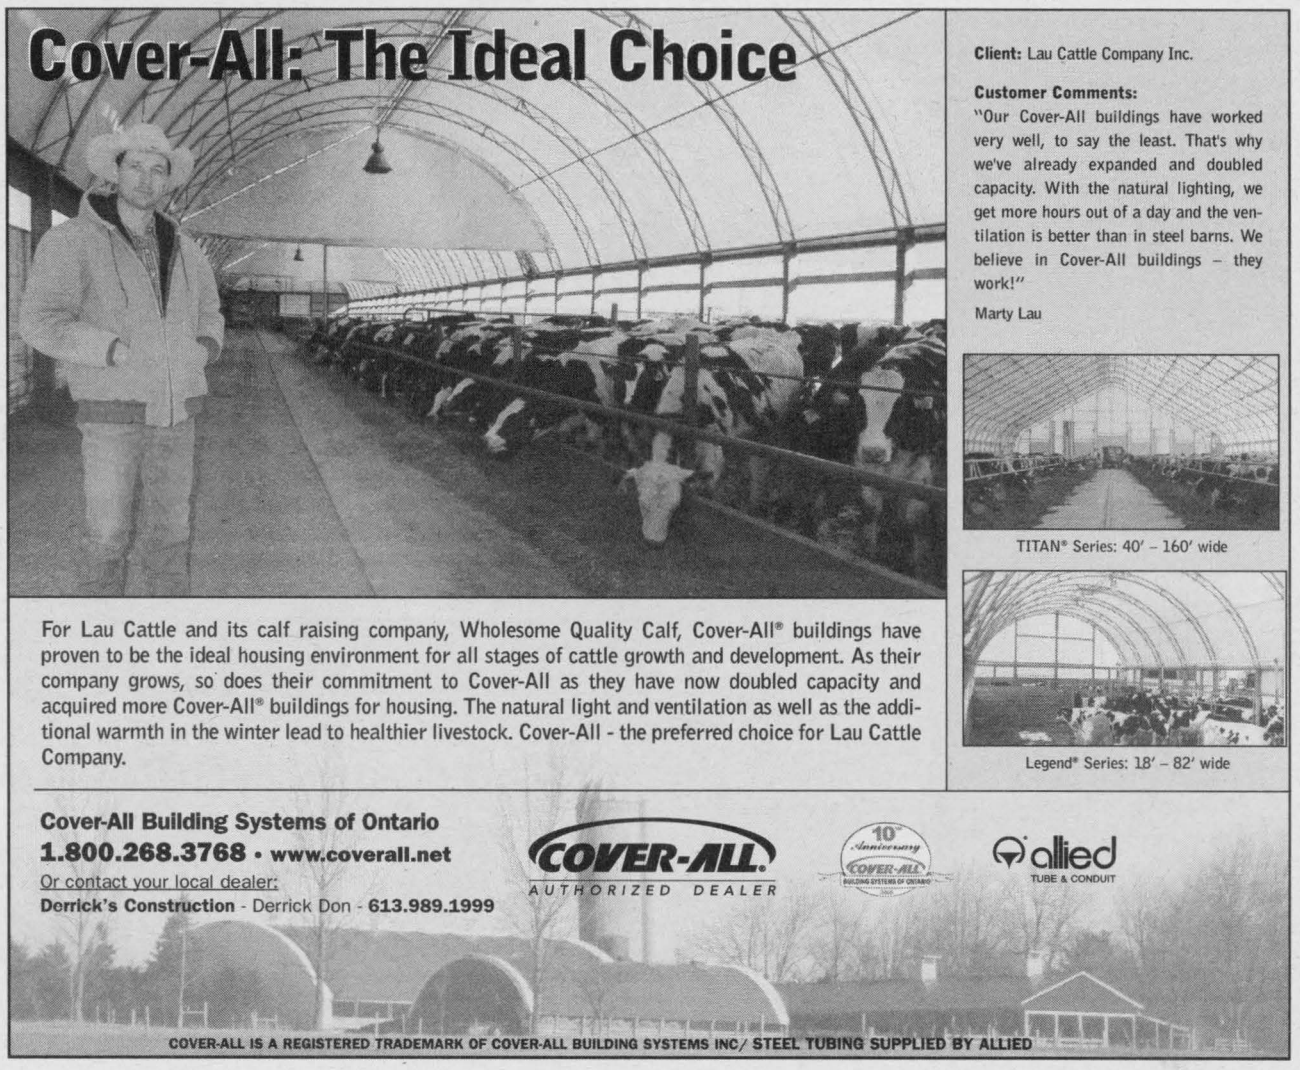
Today local MPP Jim Brownell welcomed the $484,642 in provincial funding for Eastern Ontario under the new Smoke-Free Ontario Strategy, saying "This is great news for our community. The funding will help enforce tough new regulations which will eliminate smoking in the work place, prevent young people from smoking, and help smokers quit."

The funding for 2006, announced locally by Medical Officer of Health Dr. Robert Bourdeau, will enable the Eastern Ontario Public Health Unit to protect the health of Ontarians by enforcing the Act's smoking ban in all public spaces and workplaces, including restaurants, bars, schools, private clubs, sports arenas and work vehicles. The comprehensive new tobacco control strategy will also toughen laws against selling tobacco to minors and restrict the display of tobacco products.

"The $484,642 investment for a smoke-free Eastern Ontario will help Ontario reduce tobacco consumption by 20 % from 2003 levels. That's 3.2 billion fewer cigarettes being smoked by 2007," said Brownell. "And that means many thousands of lives."

The Eastern Ontario Public Health Unit will receive funding for a Youth Action Alliance, to work with teenagers who have left high school. Cornwall has strong smoke-free bylaws but many other area municipalities do not have such protection.

The Public Health Unit will play a key role in implementing the Smoke-Free Ontario Strategy. And to make sure enforcement is consistent in all communities, including Eastern Ontario, the provincial Government will pay 100 per cent of the costs of inspection and enforcement.. "With community support, we'll protect people in Eastern Ontario from second hand smoke, prevent more young people from smoking and help smokers quit," said Brownell. "That will save many, many lives."



Landowners delivered "back-off" message, says reader

Having had the pleasure of attending the rally at Nav Canada in Cornwall on May 16th, I felt very gratified in knowing that the Ontario Landowners were successful in delivering our "Back Off" message to all the environmental bureaucrats at their 13th Annual International Conference.

I spoke with Randy Hillier only two days ago and he informed me that there was a negotiated deal made with the police to be able to have the opportunity to present the opinions of the landowners on the "clean water act" to the representatives at this conference. Randy Hillier made it quite clear that the police for some reason reneged on their agreement.

This is just another example of the power our government has over us.

We citizens had better wake up to the fact that all these rules and regulations being imposed on us, will be to the detriment of our freedom of rights. For rural Ontario to survive, property rights and judicial reform must be enshrined into law at all three levels of government. Governments at the provincial and federal level already have an abundance of rules and regulations to protect the land and water. Tax payers have to realize that every time a draconian law gets implemented, you're guaranteed a tax hike, someone has to pay for the policing of these laws, and that someone is you!

There is so much hypocrisy in the government. The city of Kingston for example, is allowed 21 controlled raw sewage dumps a year, into our lakes. In 2004, there were 224 municipal, private and commercial groups in eastern Ontario who by passed waste treatment plants and dumped sewage right into our streams and rivers. And yet, the government in all its great wisdom decides to impose their laws on rural Ontario, the farmers, the stewards of the land.

What we need to address, is the fact that there are far too many bureaucrats. It is obvious that their agenda isn't to protect the public from "bad water" but to protect their jobs, by building larger and more impervious bureaucracies. The "do gooders" get paid too much money and have too much time on their hands.

Let's work on the fundamental problems in the environment and leave the hard working, rural people alone.

National Blood Donor Week

Today, Senator Terry Mercer (Nova Scotia-Northend Halifax) reintroduced a public bill in the Senate to declare National Blood Donor Week each year in the week that coincides with World Blood Donor Day on June 14th. The original bill was put forward in May of 2005 but it died on the Order Paper when the January 2006 election was called.

"We need to make more Canadians aware of the need for blood and blood products and to encourage them to become regular, lifelong donors," said Senator Mercer. "Over 50 % of Canadians have required blood or blood products for themselves or a family member, but less than 4% of eligible Canadians donate every year. It's time for that to change."

The week will provide Canadians an opportunity to celebrate and thank the donors and volunteers of the blood systems in Canada who contribute to ensuring the health of their fellow Canadians. It will also build awareness of the importance of blood, plasma, platelet, and bone marrow donation and encourage Canadians to donate or volunteer.

Conservative Senator Ethel Cochrane (Newfoundland and Labrador) has been a partner in efforts to bring this issue back to the table. "I continue to believe that this yearly celebration and recognition of donors will help to reinforce the direct impact that blood donation can make in our communities across Canada," said Senator Cochrane. "Each blood donation has the power to save the lives of three or four people-that could be a child undergoing cancer treatment, a parent or sibling having surgery, or a friend who was in a car accident."

"We have continued to work with Canadian Blood Services, Héma-Québec and Members of the Senate and House of Commons from all sides of the political spectrum to ensure that this issue is not forgotten." said Senator Mercer. "This is something we can all agree on-giving blood saves lives and we encourage more Canadians to donate."

The World Health Organization (WHO) celebrates "World Blood Donor Day" on June 14 every year, at which time 192 WHO Member States and over 200 voluntary blood donor organizations lend their support to the cause. This bill will allow Canadians to join in this worldwide effort with a full week of celebration each year.

"Donors are the heart of the blood systems and we are pleased to support a week of celebration to honour their acts of kindness and generosity, and inspire others to follow their example," said Dr. Graham Sher, Chief Executive Officer of Canadian Blood Services and Dr. Francine Décary, President and Chief Executive Officer of Héma-Québec.

Festival plans come together

BY ANDREA CARTIER
CHIEFTAIN STAFF REPORTER

The Iroquois Summer Festival Committee is expanding plans and confirming dates for a fun filled 3 days in July. Some new events in the line up of activities include two dances. "There will be a teen dance and a dance for the adults," stated committee Chair Jennifer Graham. The teen dance will be held at the Iroquois Civic Centre on Saturday, July 15 and will feature a local DJ. Tickets will be available for this dance at the High School and at Mustard's Variety store. "We are looking for parents and other adult volunteers to help supervise the dance," said Graham, who is would also be grateful with any volunteer help as the committee adds to the list of entertainment for the festival. The adult dance will be held at the Iroquois Legion and will feature the band Third Wave.

The committee, consisting of Chair Jennifer Graham, Clayton Mockler, Crystal Hazlett, Heather Ritchie and Julie Ethier, has also begun organizing an Iroquois Idol competition. This will be held at the Iroquois Civic Centre on July 14, and will feature all types of talent from the area. "We are encouraging people from all across SD&G to participate in this event," said Graham.

Other events planned for the weekend include Studio C Dancers from Cardinal putting on a demonstration of different types of dancing, as well as a fly-in breakfast to be held at the air field. An adult and child golf tournament will be played at the Iroquois Golf Course starting at 2 pm on Sunday July 16 with many prizes to be awarded to participants.

The committee is working in conjunction with the Iroquois Volunteer Fire Department, and the Iroquois/Matilda Lions. "It's been six years since we last had a summer festival," explained Graham. "We thought it was time to revive an event that everyone can enjoy."

Plans for the festival include a parade, a baseball tournament, and a special presentation by Ray's Reptiles. The Early Years Centre will also be participating, and they will set up a rest and play area for young children, and will be offering the children an opportunity to take part in creating crafts and participating in games. The Seaway District High School is trying to get a marching band together for the parade and is inviting members of the public with musical skill to participate. Collection jars will be placed in community locations so individuals can make donations to this great cause. Anyone interested in participating in the parade or volunteering in any fashion is encouraged to call Jennifer Graham at 652-1066.

Seaway students attend Camp Iawah

On Thursday, May 11, fifteen of Seaway District High School's Peer Advisory and Leadership Support (PALS) team members attended Camp Iawah with 29 grade 8 students from Iroquois and Nationview Public Schools to kick off the team's Grade 8 Transition Program. The program is intended to help develop leadership skills in grade 8 students who will then assist other grade 8 students with the transition to high school.

The students left Seaway at 6 a.m. for Camp Iawah in Westport, Ontario for a day filled with challenges. The focus for the day was "Choose your challenge", so students were encouraged to think about the challenges they face in life and will face upon entering high school and how they respond to those challenges. Students were reminded to use their own strengths and the strengths of those around them to help them through these challenges.

Some of the challenges faced at Camp Iawah included climbing trees to high ropes suspended between the trees and walking across them while holding a partner, or climbing a series of dangling boards suspended between the trees with a partner. Other challenges included canoeing in grueling weather conditions, and wall climbing. Students were also given a series of team challenges that required them to think through a task and to use each other's support in order to succeed. The leaders at Camp Iawah commented on the high level of energy and enthusiasm of our students.

The day ended around the campfire with improvisation games. PALS students from Seaway acted out scenarios that grade 8 students could face in high school, and then the grade 8 students had to act out how they would respond to the situation.

The day at Camp Iawah was a huge success. The grade 8 students will now work with the PALS team to prepare an afternoon of transition activities for other grade 8 students attending Seaway in the fall.

The Seaway District High School's Peer Advisory and Leadership team members had a great time on their weekend retreat at Camp Iawah in Westport Ontario. The theme of the one-day event was for students to spend some time focusing on the challenges that they face in life.

South Dundas Economic Matters

Anne Marie Waddell, a local resident for over forty years, is the economic development officer for the Township of South Dundas. edo@southdundas.com

The other day, having to make a trip to Iroquois, I decided as I often do, to take Lakeshore Drive from Morrisburg. For me, driving along the St. Lawrence helps put the hectic pace of the day on hold and let's one put things in perspective. It had been raining but just at this point of the day the sun decided to make a brief appearance. I had my camera in the car, so I took a few pictures to use for the website. In Mariatown I took some shots from Duncan Park, then further up the road some more at Loyalist Park, then Iroquois Beach and lastly near Iroquois Point. All a bit different – but all a bit the same.

Different points of view, yes, but of the same thing, a bit like the way, we who live here, perceive the River. Many people say the River is one of our greatest assets but we are not promoting it to its potential. I read a quote recently that might apply here. "Doing business without advertising is like winking at a girl in the dark. You know what you are doing but no one else does."

We know the River is here; but do we take it for granted that we think everyone else is aware of our gem. I also hear people say that as residents we might want it only for ourselves, after all we pay the taxes, right?

But most of us realize we need to invite visitors here to help boost business. Tourism dollars spent in our community is new money and vital to our economic health. This is not a new concept but still we have to strive to get those tourism dollars just as we will continue to strive to seek other industry as well. In the book, The Dundas Story, published in Iroquois by the St. Lawrence News Publishing House in 1905, I have found a couple of interesting paragraphs. As economic development officer, well, let just say the words sound quite familiar.

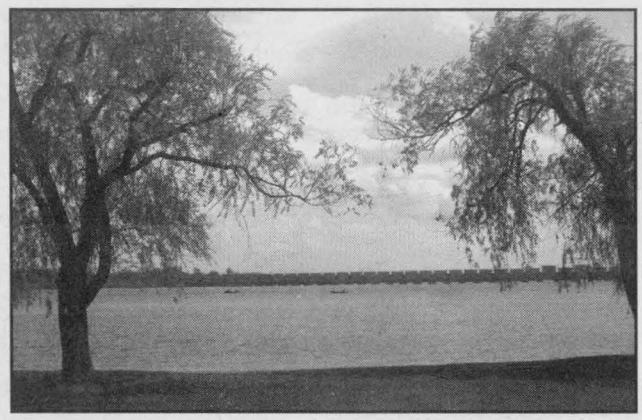
A view of the St. Lawrence River from Duncan point.

CHIEFTAIN PHOTOS - A.M. WADDELL

Morrisburg- "The older residents recognize the changed conditions of the country of late years, since grain growing is not as profitable as formerly; the introduction of dairying, and the opening of the C.P.R. through the rear townships of the county, diverting trade to the new villages along the line, have had as reactionary influence upon Morrisburg and its market in common with other St. Lawrence towns, yet the village has continued to hold its own notwithstanding, while the near future holds out promise of industrial activity on a much larger scale than heretofore realized." " No community is in a position to thrive without industries. In this particular Morrisburg merits notice, with excellent situation, superior transportation facilities by G.T.R. and the river St. Lawrence, valuable waterpower and other advantages. At the time of writing an effort is being made to secure the establishment of a tin plate works, an industry which would undoubtedly restore Morrisburg her former industrial prestige. Ex-residents the world over cherish the memories of the historic village, and it is verily true that the hum of industry would induce many of them to return to their first love.

Iroquois-" In 1884 T.S. Edwards, then reeve of the village, introduced a by-law to provide for the construction of waterworks. Unfortunately this was defeated when submitted to the people. 1885 a bylaw was passed and in 1886 installation was completed by R.H. Bachanan & Co. In 1897 an effort was made to purchase the waterworks and also install an electric light plant, but unfortunately the people voted down the by-law. In 1900 the waterworks system was purchased by the municipality for $20,000. In 1901 a by-law was carried to install and operate a municipal electric light and power plant. Since the installation of the electric plant extensions have been made annually. It speaks well for the municipal ownership that the system has shown a surplus over expenses and furnishing meanwhile adequate fire protection and excellent light at a very low figure."

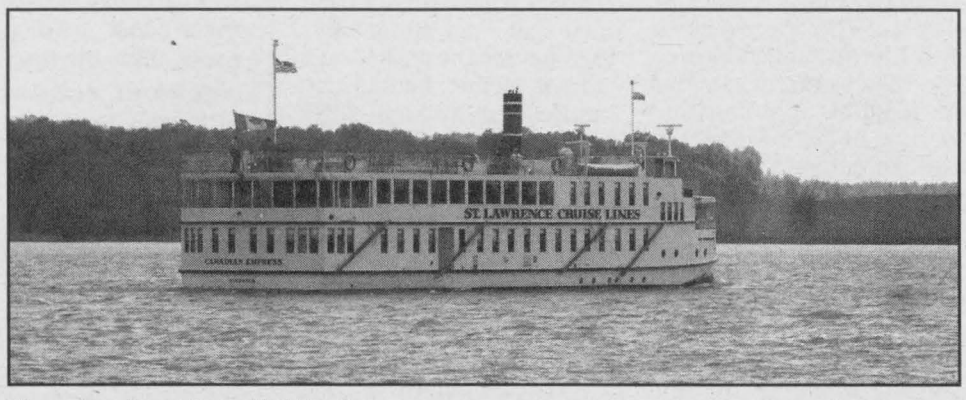
"There are many beautiful homes in Iroquois, possessing all the conveniences of the city, which also applies to the Point.



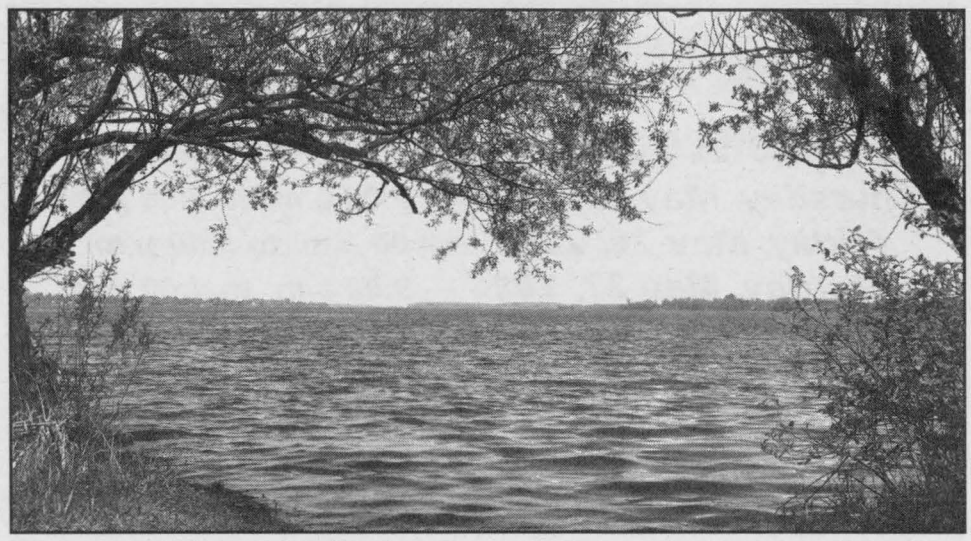
Looking towards the Iroquois Dam from the Iroquois Beach.

At one time a portion of the Point was owned by Gordon Brouse, who endeavored to convert it into a park surrounded by beautiful driveway. Had this project succeeded, doubtless swarms of pleasure seekers from far and near would have visited it annually, and made it an ideal resort, which nature is so admirably adapted." " To manufacturing concerns Iroquois offers unexcelled privileges by reason of its great waterpower and shipping facilities by rail and water. The Council is disposed to deal liberally by industries looking for a favoured location"

One hundred years later we find ourselves in changing times and are challenged to reinvent ourselves. Let us take time to remind ourselves of great assets such as the river St. Lawrence. Then let's not get caught 'winking in the dark' and tell the world.



The view from Loyalist Park.



A wonderful view of the river from Iroquois Point.

IPS holds book and plant sale

BY ANDREA CARTIER
CHIEFTAIN STAFF REPORTER

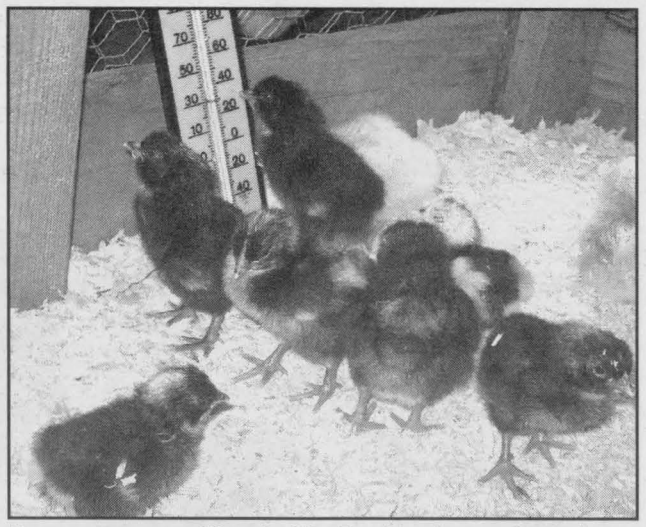
In a new fund raising endeavour, Iroquois Public School held its first ever book and plant sale on Saturday, May 20. The bedding plants were supplied by Morrisburg Value Mart, and a large variety was on offer such as marigolds, petunias, alyssum and pansies. The sale started at 8 am, and coincided with the start of the soccer season. Rain, however, dampened the spirits of even the most avid gardeners. Co-chair of the parent council, Helen Tupper, stated, "We did as well as could be expected given the weather conditions. It was our first year for the sale, and when it becomes more established I'm sure it will become very popular."

The book sale, organized by Lori Martineau, offered a wide selection of books for a dollar a piece.

All the books were donated by students, staff, parents, and community members. Hundreds of books were displayed on several tables, and they sold well. The public school is an important venue for the South Dundas Soccer Association, and it is possible the parent council will take advantage of the large number of people gathered in the area on Saturday mornings to hold another book sale with the remaining books.

The money raised by the book and plant sale will be put toward classroom resources and making improvements in the school grounds.

At present, a board approved landscape designer is preparing plans for the grounds, and work will begin when the school board has looked at the plans and approved them. Some of the improvements will include the planting of trees and purchasing of benches.



It was very exciting in Mr. Barkley's grade 5 classroom when these chicks pecked their way out of their shells. The class had been diligently turning the eggs in the incubator for the past 21 days.

Books donated by school staff, students, parents, and community members were on sale at IPS on Saturday morning. Pictured here is parent council member Nancy Swank.

Soccer season underway

BY ANDREA CARTIER
CHIEFTAIN STAFF REPORTER

Despite the rain, the approximately 640 young soccer players involved in the South Dundas Soccer Association took to the field on Saturday morning for their opening games of the season. 15 teams are participating in the sport this summer, all of which have been named after a different country of the world. Some of the teams this year are called South Korea, Costa Rica, Aruba, Sweden, Australia, and Taiwan. For the first time this year, Tim Hortons is sponsoring the Little Squirts and Junior Divisions. The Little Squirts are players aged 5 to 6, and the Junior players are 7 to 8. As a sponsor, Tim Hortons will supply t-shirts and awards, as well as sponsoring a Tim Bit Little Cup tournament, scheduled for August 19. Other events planned for the summer include the Fourth Annual Lions Canada Day Tournament which will be held on July 1, as well as team photo days on June 3 and June 10. The SDSA World Cup will be held on the weekend of July 28 and July 29. Candace Menges, president of the soccer association, is also hoping to arrange for outside tournaments for all age divisions. Iroquois Public School has opened its doors to the soccer players, allowing players to use the washrooms, and a canteen is set up in the school to supply drinks and snacks for hungry and thirsty players and fans. According to canteen volunteer Christine Hartle, Skittles is the best selling candy offered at the canteen, but soft drinks and chips are also big sellers. Money raised by the canteen goes back to the association. The South Dundas Soccer Association is financially self-sufficient, and relies on registration fees and fundraising to pay for equipment and t-shirts. This year the organization will be raising money by selling tickets donated by the Upper Canada Playhouse, as well as weekly 50/50 draws and a raffle of an Ocean FX Scooter compliments of S&F Foodland.

The Soccer Association began as the Iroquois Soccer club 10 years ago with just 33 participants. The name was changed to South Dundas Soccer Association to reflect amalgamation and the changing community and every Saturday morning during the summer, parents and children enjoy a great family atmosphere, fresh air, and soccer. This year a new adult league has been initiated, and play will take place on Sunday evenings. Any one interested can get in touch with Candace Menges at candece.menges@sympatico.ca. Please note that the email address is spelled correctly with "ece" rather than "ace". The league will start on June 4.

Despite the rain, over 640 young people showed up in Iroquois their first soccer game of the season. Pictured here are some young players anxious to get the season underway.

Five million people living in Ontario expect to visit a Naturopathic Doctor, according to new survey

/CNW/ - Fully 40% of Ontarians - or 5,000,000 potential patients - say they are likely to see a Naturopathic Doctor (ND) in the next few years, according to recent public opinion research done for the Coalition for Naturopathic Medicine.

The likelihood of using a Naturopathic Doctor in the future jumps significantly to almost 7-out-of-10 as people learn more about NDs' education and training and about the proposed new regulation. For example, 69% of Ontarians are more likely to use a Naturopathic Doctor after knowing that, to register, an ND must pass rigorous regulatory board exams that are standardized across North America.

Nearly one-fifth (18%) of Ontarians say they have visited a Naturopathic Doctor (ND) for treatment of an illness or for illness prevention counselling.

"With that many Ontarians wanting to use the services of a Naturopathic Doctor, it is absolutely essential that the province bring in effective regulation of the profession," Ruth Ann Baron, ND, President of the Ontario Association of Naturopathic Doctors (OAND) and spokesperson for the Coalition, said in response to the release on May 19 of the recommendation by the Health Professions Regulatory Advisory Council (HPRAC) that regulation of Naturopathic Doctors be moved under the Regulated Health Practitioners' Act (RHPA). "We have been functioning under legislation that was written in 1925, so the current regulation is simply too antiquated and toothless for the 21st century. If the province adopts it, the HPRAC recommendation will provide real protection to both the public and our profession. It can't happen fast enough, as far as NDs are concerned.

"As we told both HPRAC and the Minister of Health, we have some reservations about the practicality of the recommended joint college with homeopaths but NDs are pragmatic people. Right now, a joint college seems to be the quickest, most efficient means of achieving the regulation that NDs have been requesting for years so we will make every effort to make the proposed college a success."

A copy of the OAND submission to HPRAC and collateral materials can be found at www.oand.org.

A province-wide public opinion poll conducted by Innovative Research Group between March 17th and 23rd suggests that Ontarians are ready and willing to use healthcare services offered by Naturopathic Doctors: 72% of respondents say they are likely to use an ND's physical medicine services; 59% are likely to use clinical nutrition services; 53% are likely to use prevention and lifestyle counseling; and 50% are likely to use herbal medicines.

In addition, 6-in-10 respondents (62%) say that licensed NDs should have the right to call themselves "Doctor."

Eight-in-10 Ontarians say it is very important to public safety to allow only licensed and regulated Naturopathic Doctors (those who have graduated from an accredited institution, who have passed licensing exams and who remain in good standing with the regulatory board) to call themselves a Naturopathic Doctor.

"We are anxious to see the actual legislation that evolves from the HPRAC recommendation," Ms. Baron said. "We are optimistic that it will address all the public's and our members' concerns."

The full polling questionnaire and response data can be found at www.oand.org. The Ontario Association of Naturopathic Doctors represents the interests of approximately 80% of Ontario's 699 registered Naturopathic Doctors. It is a founding member of the Coalition for Naturopathic Medicine.

Ontario government expends community mental health services

/CNW/ - The McGuinty government is providing access to community-based mental health services for 22,910 more Ontarians this year, Health and Long-Term Care Minister George Smitherman announced today.

"We're on the side of Ontario families who want and deserve the very best health care, including access to quality mental health and addiction treatment services," Smitherman said. "With this investment, thousands more people will receive care from professionals and other care providers they know and trust, closer to home."

The $68.5 million funding announced today includes: $23 million for community-based services, including crisis response, early intervention in psychosis and Assertive Community Treatment Teams. This will benefit 14,460 more people. $16 million for rent subsidies and case management support to allow 1,250 more people to live in supportive housing units. $7 million to increase the base budget for every community mental health agency by 1.5 per cent. $22.5 million for community-based services to help 7,200 more people with mental illness stay out of the criminal justice and correctional systems.

"Our government is committed to the fair and compassionate treatment of mentally ill persons," said Attorney General Michael Bryant. "We expect that these community-based enhancements will reduce the number of people with mental illness in the criminal justice system and allow them to access the treatment and services they need." This new investment is part of the government's unprecedented four-year, $185-million plan to stabilize and expand services for people with mental illness.

"The government continues to take a strong, comprehensive approach to improving the availability of community-based services for people with a mental illness and addictions," said David Kelly, Executive Director, Ontario Federation of Community Mental Health and Addictions Programs.
