Winchester Club Resumes Meetings

REV. JOHN MacKAY, OF OTTAWA, WAS GUEST SPEAKER AT 100 CLUB LUNCHEON LAST FRIDAY

Following a suspension of meetings for the summer months, the local 100 Club met at Hotel Winchester on Friday evening under the presidency of Centurian W. J. Stewart, with Centurian Eldon Fennell in the secretary's chair. There was a good turnout of members and an enjoyable evening was spent.

Centurian Reeve T. O. Keyes brought in a report on the progress made during the summer in looking after several underprivileged children. This revealed that the club had taken up many cases that were in need of urgent attention.

The treasurer, Centurian Walter Moffatt, gave a report on the financial standing of the club and notified the members that the proceeds derived from the annual sports day, held a couple of months ago, amounted to over $150, after all expenses had been paid.

It was decided to entertain the ladies at a luncheon to be held in November, plans for which were left in the hands of the executive. It was also decided to sponsor another theatre party in the near future.

During the evening several old-time songs were sung, under the direction of Centurian Chester Timmins, with Miss Helen Timmins presiding at the piano. A prize boost was conducted by Centurian Albert Johnston and each member was the recipient of a handy ash tray.

The guest speaker for the occasion was Rev. John MacKay, pastor of MacKay United Church, Ottawa, and a former pastor of the local United church. He was introduced to the Centurians by the president of the club. His address, which was of a very humorous nature, was entitled, "Mr. Chips, a Great and Humorous School Master."

At the conclusion of his address, a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker by Centurians Thomas A. Scott and Hart Melvin.

HIGHWAY NEARS COMPLETION

The work of paving Highway No. 31 between Williamsburg and Winchester Springs is rapidly nearing completion and it is expected that all the concrete will have been laid by the end of this week. Culverts have been widened along the route and the approaches are now being laid.

Traffic has not been seriously inconvenienced by the work, and vehicles are now travelling on the finished pavement over three-quarters the route, with new stretches being opened up daily. The Harvey Construction Company have done a very creditable job on the Highway and the pavement from Morrisburg to Winchester can readily be classed as among the best stretches in Ontario.

GRANT OF $200 MADE TO THE ST. LAWRENCE SANATORIUM BOARD.

The September meeting was made interesting by the showing of the exhibits which won such good prizes in Ottawa and at Metcalfe. This meeting was held Tuesday evening in the Town Hall being presided over by Mrs. Lorne Kinkaid, the president, with Mrs. J. E. Singleton the secretary, calling the roll and reading the minutes. Many winter flowers, such as cyclamen, geranium, begonia, mums, etc.. were named in answer to roll call.

A letter. requesting moral support and financial aid for the new St. Lawrence Sanatorium, was read and discussed, and a motion carried to donate $200 to be paid in 5 yearly payments.

In response to a request from Mr. Hy. Bessin, the Institute agreed to co-operate with him in an entertainment on the evening of October 15th.

A communincation from Miss Pearl Newton, elocutionist. re giving a concert here, met with favor and the secretary was instructed to arrange a suitable date.

Mrs. R. L. Suffell was appointed a delegate to the Eastern Ontario Convention to be held in Ottawa on Oct. 13, 14 and 15th.

Mrs. J. H. Faith reported a letter of condolence written and a reply received.

Mrs. Wesley Barclay presided for an interesting programme during which Mrs. Jack Bruce contributed a delightful piano solo, entitled: "Butterfly," and Miss Luella Allison gave a paper answering the question "Is fall planting practicable?" She showed that it was.

The special exhibit was artistically arranged on the stage. Mrs. Barclay clearly explained some of the judging points and presented the prizes to those who had won them at the both fairs. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Barclay and those who contributed to the exhibit. In replying Mrs. Barclay said that she had enjoyed the work. At the close of the program refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Dundas Municipalities Against Sanatorium

OPPOSITION VOICED AT MEETING HELD HERE ON MONDAY NIGHT. STATEMENT ISSUED BY CHAIRMAN OF BOARD.

Heated discussion over the building of the proposed tuberculosis sanatorium near Cornwall, by the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, was heard at a meeting of the reeves and deputy reeves of Dundas and West Stormont Counties held in the Town Hall here on Monday evening last. About sixty municipal officials were present.

Reeve T. O. Keyes of Winchester called the meeting to order, after which Mr. P. S. Boyd, of Chesterville, was elected chairman, and Mr. Lawrence Hutt of Finch, was appointed as secretary for the meeting.

Mr. Boyd pointed out that the meeting of the reeves and deputy reeves of Dundas and West Stormont had been called for the purpose of discussing the proposed tubercular sanatorium. He asked that someone explain in further detail, the steps already taken by Counties' Council regarding the scheme.

Object of Meeting

Mr. George H. Challies, M.L.A. for Dundas, stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of allowing a free and open discussion of the project among municipal officials of Dundas and West Stormont Counties. He pointed out that a petition had been circulated among the reeves and other officials of Dundas asking that Dundas be not included in the proposed scheme. A vast majority of county officials had signed this petition, he continued, and had expressed a desire to be free from the financial obligations which would result from the building of the sanatorium. Sentiment throughout the County of Dundas, continued Mr. Challies, was strongly in favour of this County withdrawing from the project.

Would Retire from Meeting

Reeve Flynn, of Morrisburg, Warden of the United Counties, stated that he had been of the opinion that the meeting was for the purpose of allowing a free discussion of the question. If such was the case, he was quite willing to give all the information at his disposal concerning the proposed sanatoriium. If, however, the meeting had been called merely for those who opposed the building of the sanatorium, he would retire.

Reeve Robert Bryan of Mountain Township also expressed the belief that the meeting was called for general discussion. He added that all had voted in favour of the scheme on several occasions, and inquired as to when all had become opposed to it. He continued by saying that Mr. Challies had been out of order in circulating the petition.

In reply, Mr. Challies emphasized that he would accept full responsibility for what he had done, because he had the support of a vast majority of the county officials. He added that it was from a viewpoint of taxation that he opposed the project, and not from any political angle. He stated that no political discussion had entered into the matter, as it was purely a question of the financial burden to the county.

W. H. Casselman Speaks

Reeve W. H. Casselman stated that he had not voted for the sanatorium, but merely for the site should the sanatorium be built. He traced briefly the introduction of the sanatorium scheme at Counties' Council, and outlined the developments up to the present time. He continued by quoting figures illustrating costs of maintenance and hospital grants and added that the United Counties could not stand an increase in County rates and still meet local financial obligations. He stated that he had been informed there was grounds for injunction proceedings and he would fight the proposed scheme as long as he was able. He concluded by asking what member of the Board of Governors of the proposed hospital was capable of acting in such a capacity?

Warden Flynn Gives Report

Warden Flynn said that he did not think Mr. Challies was interested in the scheme in any other way except as it affected the county financially. He outlined in detail why the Counties' Council had undertaken the work of providing sanatorium accommodation for patients suffering from tuberculosis. There are, he said, numerous cases of tuberculosis in the county which require attention. The question of future care was a big one, and immediate action was necessary. He inquired if it was to be a case of counting dollars and cents where the health of a large number of individuals was concerned or was the situation going to be faced like men?

He continued by saying that any individual residing in a municipality for three months out of the last five could be admitted to any hospital in Ontario as an indigent and the county in which that municipality was situated, would have to pay $1.50 per day for the patient's care. He cited numerous incidents where Dundas County had benefitted by being associated with the other counties in a project. He continued by pointing out that the increase in county rates chargeable to the capital investment would amount to one-fifth of one mill per year or 20 cents per $1,000 investment.

He discussed at length the increasing costs of caring for tubercular patients during the past few years. No accommodation is available at the present time for such patients, and there are long waiting lists at all existing institutions. He remarked that it was preposterous that opposition should exist to the payment of $1800 per year by the counties on the capital investment of the sanatorium.

The Department of Health was giving every encouragement to the scheme, he said, and every doctor in the counties with the exception of one had signed the petition favouring the erection of such an institution. Why, he asked, would the Counties not take action in the face of such facts?

Mr. Flynn pointed out that the people of Dundas should be thankful that most of the tuberculosis' patients were from other districts. He added that huge sums of money could be spent for roads, schools and other purposes, but objections were raised to the building of an institution for the purpose of maintaining public health. He concluded by remarking that a man can fight his battles when his health is good, but when his health is gone, he is done.

Wants Voluntary Board

Mr .Challies expressed the opinion that a voluntary Board would be more in order than a Board appointed by the County or Counties. Such a board, he said, would tend to hinder contributions, which would aid in maintaining the institution.

Referring to the capital cost, Mr. Challies stated that the government had been more than generous in their grant, but that the counties must consider the cost of maintenance. Why not let the municipalities that have the bulk of tuberculosis' cases get together, he suggested, and build a sanatorium and pay for it. Otherwise let the people of the Counties vote as to whether they desire a hospital or not.

He expressed himself in favour of Dundas County paying its full share of the capital costs, but would suggest that the County be exempted from paying general maintenance costs except for those patients entering the institution who were residents of this county. He pointed out that only 3 deaths had occurred in Dundas county in 1935 from tuberculosis out of 44 in the Counties.

Warden Flynn expressed himself in favour of Mr. Challies' suggestion and said that some plan should be put in force whereby a municipality from which a patient came would pay 75 per cent. of the costs and the other municipalities the remaining 25 per cent.

In Favour of Building Sanatorium

Mr. George Pollock of Finch township, stated that majorities should rule while minorities should, at the same time, be respected. He stated that he was heartily in favour of the sanatorium but that he would have preferred Morrisburg as a site. He felt that the municipalities should each pay their share according to the number of patients in the institution from the municipality. He continued by remarking that he was in favour of letting the matter of building the sanatorium stand as it was for the present, and expressed confidence that the question of the maintenance of the indigent patients would be adjusted by the Ontario Government and the Department of Health.

He suggested that a memorial be sent to the Government regarding the question of indigent patients and their maintenance, asking for some definite assurance that the Government would take action on the matter.

Mr. Challies stated that he was in favour of Dundas paying its share of the capital costs if each municipality would pay 100 per cent. of the cost of maintaining the patients confined in the institution from the particular municipality, but definite assurance would

Williamsburg Man Fatally Injured

STRUCK BY FALLING TREE IN PIT NEAR WILLIAMSBURG YESTERDAY MORNING

Struck by a falling tree, while at work in a gravel pit, one and one-half miles north of Williamsburg yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, Hugh McHaffie, 44, of Glen Becker, Williamsburg township, sustained such serious injuries that he died a short time later.

At the time of the accident, McHaffie. who was an employer of the firm of Johnston-Clarke of Brockville, was engaged in undermining a large elm tree that stood near the edge of the pit, in company with Ernest E. Johnston, of Prescott; Donald Shaver, Morrisburg; Gordon Lowrey, Brockville, and George Allen. Mr. B. E. Clarke, of Brockville, foreman of the pit, was standing near the scene, watching the progress of the work.

In an interview with the Press, Mr. Clarke stated that he had been watching the men at work for a short time, when he noticed the tree suddenly begin to tip over. He shouted to those in the pit to clear out of its path, and all proceeded to get to safety with the exception of McHaffie. He was struck by one of the large branches of the tree and pinned to the ground.

Two fellow employees, Johnston and Shaver, succeeded in releasing the unfortunate victim. Medical aid was immediately summoned but the man died while being taken to the office of Dr. M. W. Locke, of Williamsburg.

An examination revealed that he had suffered a fractured skull, broken neck, fractured right forearm and numerous lacerations about the back of the head.

Dr. T. A. Hamilton of Brinstons, coroner for the district, and Provincial Constable Frank Rose of Morrisburg, were summoned and they, in turn, notified Chief Coroner Dr. P. McLaughlin of Winchester, who visited the scene and decided that an inquest would be necessary.

A coroner's jury was empanelled and after viewing the body and visiting the scene of the accident adjourned until October 8th. when the inquest will be held in Beckstead's Hall, Williamsburg. Members of the jury are: Messrs. Alex McGruer, foreman; George Strader, J. D. Beckstead, C. H. Dewland, G. L. Barkley, J. Johnston, R. McMillan, I. Empey, R. Loucks, A. Froats, Ed. Casselman and C. Phifer.

Dundas County S. S. Convention

RESOLUTION ASKS THAT SLOT MACHINES BE BANNED IN DUNDAS COUNTY

There was a large attendance of delegates at the annual convention of Dundas County Sunday Schools, held in the South Mountain United Church Tuesday. Afternoon and evening sessions were held with the president, R. J. Ellis, of Iroquois, presiding.

The main address during the afternoon meeting was given by Rev. Robert S. Smith, of Elma. His topic was, "Sunday School Objectives." This was followed by a general discussion, led by Rev. Donald Morrison, of Halville. During the meeting, a vocal solo was rendered by Mr. W. J. Leonard.

Dr. A. O Thomson, of Morewood, and Rev. R. Douglas Smith ,of Morrisburg, were the speakers in the evening.

Among other resolutions passed at the Convention, was one that condemned the operating of slot machines, and viewed with alarm the increasing number being operated throughout Dundas County. The resolution asked that all Municipal Councils pass a by-law, banning the use of such machines within their municipalities. The secretary was instructed to send a copy of the resolution to every municipal clerk in the County of Dundas.

Officers elected for the coming year are: President. Fred C. Marshall, Chesterville; vice president, Fred Hutt, Inkerman; secretary-treasurer, Walter Moffatt, Winchester.

Departmental Superintendents: Temperance, Mrs. Irwin Hilliard, Morrisburg; Boys' Work, Rev. Donald Morrison. Hallville; Girls' Work, Miss Jean Wyatt, Winchester; Adult Work, Rev. R. D. Smith, Morrisburg.

Mrs. Hart Melvin suffered a painful accident early Monday afternoon last. while engaged in taking clothes from a line. Mrs. Melvin was standing on a small platform when, in some manner, she lost her balance and fell to the ground.

Dr. Neil Mallock was called immediately and it was found that Mrs. Melvin had suffered a fracture of the left leg above the ankle. Dr. Mallock reduced the fracture, and at the present time she is resting comfortably at her home.

REFORMATORY TERM FOR WM. H. GUEST

Pleading guilty in county court at Brockville, last Friday, William H. Guest, former clerk-treasurer of Kemptville, was sentenced by Judge M. B. Tudhope to one year in the Ontario Reformatory on a charge of theft of $1,248.89 from the village.

Guest's counsel, H. J. F. Stewart, of Brockville, said restitution had been made in full.

Before sentencing Guest, Judge Tudhope drew attention to the fact that the prisoner had previously been a good citizen and had rendered satisfactory public service. He remarked he had known Guest quite well when the prisoner was a clerk in one of his division courts.

Shortages dating back to Jan. 1, 1932, were revealed when a special audit of the municipal books was made by an Ottawa firm of accountants.

Car Accidents Sunday

TWO ARE SLIGHTLY HURT AS CAR IS OVERTURNED

Two persons were slightly injured the driver and his passenger in the front seat, when an automobile took the ditch and overturned in turning from the Morrisburg highway towards Chesterville, one and one-half miles south of Winchester, on Sunday evening.

The automobile was driven by James Brownell, of Newington, who sprained his left arm. Also injured was Mrs. Christie Anne Brownell, his housekeeper, who had scratches of the face and injuries to the neck and spine. The other passegers, both of whom escaped injury, were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Griffin, of Syracuse, N. Y.

The injured were attended by Dr. P. McLaughlin, of this place, where they were brought by passing motorists. Later they were called for by relatives and taken to the home of Wallace Gallagher, of Gallingertown, near Grantley.

MOTORISTS ARE HURT AND HORSE IS KILLED

When his car struck a horse on the highway, Lloyd Casselman, 21-year-old resident of Cass Bridge, suffered a badly cut face and a gash in his shoulder, while Fred Coons, of Winchester Springs had minor cuts on face and hands. The accident occurred on Sunday night at 11.30 o'clock on the Dunbar-Chesterville road, near Dunbar, and the horse, owned by Willis Barkley, Williamsburg Township farmer, died shortly after the crash. The men were given first aid at the office of Dr. A. B. Clayton, of Chesterville, and Chief Garnet McLean of the Chesterville police, investigated. The owner of the horse stated someone had opened the gate of the field, allowing the horse to run at large. The animal was valued at $150 and the damage to the car was in the neighborhood of $40. Chief McLean stated a report of the mishap was in the hands of Provincial Constable Rose for further action.

THE COST OF WAR

According to information given out by the Department of National Defence and the General Statistics Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the Canadian War Memorial at Vimy Ridge bears the names of 11,285 Canadians who were killed in action in France, but whose final resting places are unknown.

More than five times that number of Canadians were killed during the Great War. The actual number was 59,544. There were 138,166 wounded and 34,786 non-fatally injured, making a total of 232,494 casualties.

That was a heavy price to pay in man-power for a country of so small a population as Canada. Nor does it tell the whole story. There was the aftermath of sickness and death, agony and wretchedness. During the period of hostilities, however, every second man who crossed the English Channel to France was killed, wounded or injured. The chances that he would come back to Canada physically fit was not fifty-fifty. The financial cost is another side. In 1930 it was estimated that the total increase in the national debt of two billions between 1914 and 1930 was attributed entirely to the war. Under the heading "war and demobilization" Canada spent $1,696,000,000 and in the fiscal year 1936 alone, the amount of money required for war pensions amounted to eleven per cent. of the Dominion revenues, while the care of the returned soldiers took another three per cent. The two items together required one-seventh of the total moneys received in the year by the Dominion.

With such facts as these before us, the average Canadian fails to understand why European powers are apparently unable to find some more civilized method for the settlement of international disputes. Yet such would seem to be the case, and the nations of Europe are at present engaged in a terrific race for armaments, while European dictators stand up in the market place and shout defiance at the world.

Canadians should never cease to be thankful that three thousand miles of ocean separate this Dominion from Europe, and that we enjoy the friendship and esteem of our powerful neighbour to the south—the United States of America.

FAVOUR STRICT REGULATIONS

While agreeing with the suggestion of a uniform motor vehicle law for all Canada and the enforcement of the law respecting violations of safety measures, the Peel Banner would go further. Listen! He says, "this is sound advice. Something more than this is, however, necessary. As things now are, a youth in his teens can obtain a license to drive a car capable of a speed of 60 miles or more in all sorts of traffic. Lads in their teens, and many even of more mature years, are wholly unfit to be trusted with such power. Regulations governing the operation of locomotives, on strictly governed rights of way on railways, are much more stringent and the age of railway engineers does not begin in the teens. Until something like the regulations now imposed on railway traffic are applied to motor transport, the appalling list of killings and maimings on our public highways will continue."

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

Daylight Saving, for this year, comes to an end on Sunday next, in most of the cities and towns throughout the province—and residents of rural communities will be truly thankful.

The idea of saving an hour's daylight for those who are confined to stuffy and hot office buildings during the summer months, is a good one, but a satisfactory arrangement will never be achieved until a uniform regulation is passed by the provincial government setting the dates each year during which Daylight Saving will be in force and making every municipality within the province comply with that regulation.

HUBBUB FOR POSTERITY

(Popular Science Monthly)

Because many experts believe that modern street noises will be unknown in the cities of the future, records of typical street and sidewalk sounds were recently sealed into the cornerstone of a New York building. Recordings of honking horns, squeaking brakes, police whistles and other familiar urban noises were made on chromium-plated copper disks, coated with an imperishable tarry compound, and locked in a copper box. Included also were a phonograph and instructions for removing the tarry compound and playing the record.

EDITORIAL NOTES

With the Provincial Government spending vast sums of money on highway construction throughout Ontario, we often wonder why more attention is not given to the extension of Highway No. 7 from Perth to the Quebec boundary.

At the present time there is only one highway to accommodate the heavy traffic between the two major cities of Canada—Toronto and Montreal, and each year the volume of traffic along that route increases.

The completion of Highway No. 7 would tend to relieve the pressure on Highway No. 2 as much of the transport and passenger traffic would undoubtedly use the inland route.

It is to be hoped that the Ontario Department of Highways will see fit to continue the extension of Highway No. 7 to the Quebec boundary at an early date.

COMES INTO FORCE NOVEMBER 1

Minimum wages for retail store employes as set out by the Ontario Minimum Wage Board, come into effect on November 1, according to a notice in the latest issue of the Ontario Gazette.

Population groups are divided into six classifications with Toronto as group 1, and Ottawa, Hamilton, London and Windsor as group two. The remaining four groups are split up on the basis of population with wage rates scaled accordingly.

The act provides at the outset that "no female employe, or male when replacing a female in a retail store, shall be paid wages less than those set forth in the following schedule." In the City of Toronto, experienced employes must receive no less than $12.50 per week, while inexperienced workers must receive a minimum of $10 per week for six months, $11 per week for six months, and after that the regular $12.50. Inexperienced employes must receive no less than $8 per week for six months (16 years and under), $9 per week for six months (17 years), and then the rates for inexperienced adults.

In Ottawa, Hamilton, London and Windsor, the minimum wage for experienced employes is set at $12.00, 50 cents less than the correspondiing employe receives in Toronto. In the case of inexperienced help the rate is the same as in the Toronto schedule. In cities, towns, villages and the unincorporated urban communities of from 10,000 to 50,000, the minimum wage for experienced employes is $11, and for inexperienced help, $9 for the first six months, $10 for the second six months and then the full $11.

The schedule provides that in centres where there is from 4,000 to 10,000, the minimum weekly wage for experienced help shall be $10 weekly. In centres of from 1,000 to 4,000, the weekly wage for experienced workers is set at $9 per week and in all places below 1,000 population, $8 per week.

A delightful tea and shower was tendered Miss Katie Briggs when about fifty ladies gathered at the hall, here, to honor her, in view of her approaching marriage. For the occasion the hall was tastefully decorated with a profusion of flowers in shades of pink and white.

During the afternoon an address was read by Mrs. Howard Porteous and Miss Anna Crerar made the presentation of several pieces of ivory and green enamelware. Miss Briggs replied graciously thanking her friends for the kindness they had shown her.

The tea table was centred with a silver basket of pink and white blooms with tall pink tapers to the sides. Mrs. M. Briggs and Mrs. J. Reoch poured tea and the assistants at the tea hour included the Misses Marion Bowen, Ellen Campbell and Anna Crerar, and Mrs. E. J. Howell, Mrs. Wilfred Porteous and Mrs. Howard Porteous.

SPENCERVILLE MAN ORIGINATED SALE NEW CHEESE IN ONTARIO AGAINST WISHES OF MAKER

Just as the average oldster who drinks beer prefers that aged-in-the-vat to the fresh or "greener" brew, so does the average adult buy old or nippy cheese to the new or fresher make.

And possibly the same reasons govern the choice in each case for, according to the makers there is no basic difference between old and new cheese. It is merely a case of acquired taste, precedent and education.

"New cheese is every bit as good as old cheese," declares W. M. Snyder, manager of the Grenville Patrons Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Spencerville, who does not speak out of turn on this subject although not having a great deal to do with cheese today, other than from a consumer's standpoint.

But Mr. Snyder was born and raised on a farm and a good portion of that farm's production went into the making of cheese. Later he became a successful retail merchant and it was while in this business he, by accident, originated the sale, at least in Eastern Ontario, of new cheese.

As the trunk line of the C. N. R. was being put through that section of Grenville, Mr. Snyder acquired an unexpected source of new business in the gang of sectionmen who made their temporary home in the vicinity of his place of business. An important item of their menu was cheese.

Mr. Snyder had been selling between 200 and 300 pounds of old cheese per year up to this point of which we write. This old cheese dried out quickly and there was a loss in handling it because of the waste in "crumbs." Which explains why he did not stock any large quantity and why he was not prepared to meet a surprisingly large order of "20 pounds" from the railway section camp cook. Not to miss a good sale and possibly lose a large-scale buyer, Mr. Snyder hitched up the old gray mare and hied himself to the nearest cheese factory.

They were sold right out.

"But what's that over there on the racks," protested Mr. Snyder.

"Oh, that's no good," responded the cheese maker. "It's some sections we made only two or three weeks ago and its not aged enough to sell."

"Well, it's going to be sold now, whatever it's like, replied our enterprising business man, and picked up a cheese forthwith, hurried back to his place of business and filled the 20-pound order of cheese. That was one afternoon. Next morning the camp cook was back with a 50-pound order, declaring it to be the best cheese ever served in C. N. R. bunk houses.

Mr. Snyder introduced new cheese to all his regular customers and soon the idea spread to other counties and provinces and a demand sprang up for new cheese. The year after the above experience, Mr. Snyder sold close to one ton of new cheese as compared with 250 pounds of old cheese the year before And of such incidents is history made.

DEFINED

A boy in school had become confused with his studies, so he sought his father one night after dinner and asked him, "Dad, what is bankruptcy?"

The father had had a long business career, hence the question was an easy one. He replied to his son's question, "Bankruptcy is when a man puts his money into his trousers pocket—and lets his creditors take his coat."

SYNOPSIS . . . Silas Spelle, high-handed, low-principled cattle baron, is out to smash the local bank and force foreclosure on the small ranchers of the Kanab desert country so that he can seize their range lands. He is opposed by Ed. Starbuck, president of the Cattlemen's Bank and by San Juan Delevan, prominent rancher who has been crippled by a fall from his horse. Tex Whipple and his partner, Johnny Clehoe, are cowpunchers employed by San Juan Delevan to fight the rustlers and protect his interests.

"Mama," chirruped Johnny, blowing on his knuckles. "That was shore a satisfaction. I been itchin' to do that all mornin'."

"Heh—heh!" chuckled Tex coldly. "Yuh shore rung up a bulls-eye that time, kid. Go on Pink, yuh stick to Miss Ronny."

Spelle was gulping with fury and dismay. While Lange had been unable to finish his statement he had let out enough to advise Spelle that something was radically wrong concerning the Delevan mortgage. In his thwarted greed a modicum of courage returned to him and he advanced threateningly into the room.

"What's this?" he rasped. "What's this about the Delevan mortgage?"

"Nothin' much drawled Tex. "'Ceptin' it's paid in full."

"What?" roared Spelle, his gaze working evilly. "I don't want it paid. I refuse to accept payment for it."

"Yuh're plumb out o' luck, hombre," said Tex imperturbably. "There's the money on the table—an' we got the mortgage. Jest let the fact sink in. We're gonna keep it. C'mon Johnny, the story's told. Let's rattle our hocks."

The two partners made their way to the street, Tex watching Spelle warily over his shoulder Down the street Ronny and Pink Crosby were waiting at the buckboard. Further on, tied in a line at the hitching rail before the Starlight Saloon, was a group of horses, all wearing the Double S iron. Tex's face was furrowed and serious as he reached the buckboard.

"Pink, you an' Miss Ronny hop in that rig an' light out for home Them broncos have been wantin' t' ramble all mornin'. Let 'em ou. Pour the whip into 'em. Burn the hubs off'n them wheels gettin' there. That mortgage won't be safe until Jim Delevan gets his hands on it."

"Tex," said Ronny fearfully. "You don't think there will be trouble do you?"

"Don't think a thing, Miss Ronny," answered Tex. "I know there will. Soon as Spelle gets through snappin' at himself he's gonna turn that gang o' his loose on yore trail to try an' haid yuh off 'fore yuh get home."

"B—but, you and Johnny," objected the girl, her eyes on Johnny's grim young face. "You can't fight them all off. You'll get hurt."

Johnny's face broke into a wide, beautific grin. "Nemmine us, Miss Ronny. Me an' this ole sand rat been shot at before. We're jest too cussed onery to stop lead. Pink, shake them reins. See yuh while ago."

Pink spun the buckboard around on one wheel and turned the broncos loose in a wild run up the street. As the buckboard passed the bank Spelle leaped out into the street with a bawl of anger, shaking his fists above his head. Then he headed down towards the saloon at a clumsy run.

"Fork yore hull, kid," snapped Tex crisply. "Lead's due to fly in a minute."

In a moment Tex and Johnny were spurring after the rapidly disappearing buckboard. As they cleared the edge of the town the dim roar of voice reached their ears.

"Shows on," yelled Johnny. "Whoopee! Look at that boy Pink drive will yuh. If that buckboard had wings it'd fly."

A half mile from town Tex looked back. He could easily see the black blot of hard riding horsemen.

"Slow up," he snapped. "We're pullin' up on Pink. We're out here to hold this gang back instead of haul 'em up. Git yore Winchester loose, kid."

Johnny pulled the rifle from the boot beneath his left thigh and levered in a cartridge. Then he and Tex hauled their nervous mounts down to a leisurely lope. The horsemen in the rear came up fast and Tex watching them closely measured the distance.

"Four hundred yards," he announced finally. "Fan 'em a couple, Johnny."

Obediently Johnny turned and slammed five shots to the rear. It was hard shooting, twisted thus on a running horse, but the following band made a big mark and at the fifth shot a horse went headlong, throwing its rider spread eagling into the dust

"Bueno" cried Tex. "That slowed 'em up."

"Yeah, fer a minute," answered Johnny, feverishly plugging more shells through the loading gate. "But they're gonna spread out. Somebody's usin' his haid back there."

"Nemmine. Pink's almost out o' sight—an' that's the main thing."

As Johnny had said the pursuers had spread out and no longer presented a solid mass to shoot at. From now on any fire Johnny might give through his rifle would perforce be merely haphazard with chances for a hit very small, at least while his own horse was in motion.

The dull thudding of gun-shots sounded in the rear but only one one bullet sang past. Tex, quick o read this sign smiled grimly.

"Lucky fer us they ain't any o' them got Winchesters. They can slug away all day at this distance with their six-guns without doin' any harm. Kin yuh see Pink?"

"Nope. Plumb outa sight. Reckon we done put a crimp in Mister Spelle today, Tex."

Then Johnny gave a yell of alarm. 'Look et comin' in ahead an' on the right, Tex. Two riders comin' in to haid us off. Now how'n hell did they git up there?"

Tex turned and followed Johnny's pointing arm. Sure enough two riders were spurring in at an angle to the southwest, from the rim of the desert. They were coming fast on big, gaunt horses and each of the riders carried a rifle loose in their right hands.

"Hell" snapped Tex. "We're in fer it, kid. Pull up. You go after those two hombres with the rifles. I'll keep this other gang back. My ole hawk-laig will throw lead just as far as theirs. Now le's see yuh do some o' that high-toned shootin' yuh've been braggin' about."

"If yuh'd only pack a Winchester," wailed Johnny as they drew their plunging broncos to a halt. "But yuh're so danged bull-haided yuh never will. Jest think what yuh could do with a .30-30 now."

"Nemmine me," snapped Tex. "Get busy—those two jaspers are within range."

Johnny slipped from his horse and threw up his rifle. It wavered, steadied, but when it crashed flatly the bullet went far and wide. Just as Johnny pulled the trigger Tex had leaned over and swept the barrel up.

"Fer gosh sakes," blazed Johnny. "What in hell did yuh do that fer? I was holdin' daid center."

Tex paid no attention. His keen old eyes were fixed on the two newcomers with a mingled expression of doubt and joy.

"Kid, yore eyes are better'n mine Look close. Ain't that lead'n' hoss a star faced black?"

"Yeah it is," snapped Johnny raising his rifle again. "An' I'm gonna put me a slug right in the star."

But Tex shoved his rifle aside again. "Kid," he burst out delightedly. "That's ole Utah Lynch an' Al Burrows from the Bar B outfit I telegraphed 'em to come arunnin' an' shore they're doin' it. You far hell outa Spelle's crowd. I'm goin' out to meet Utah an' Al."

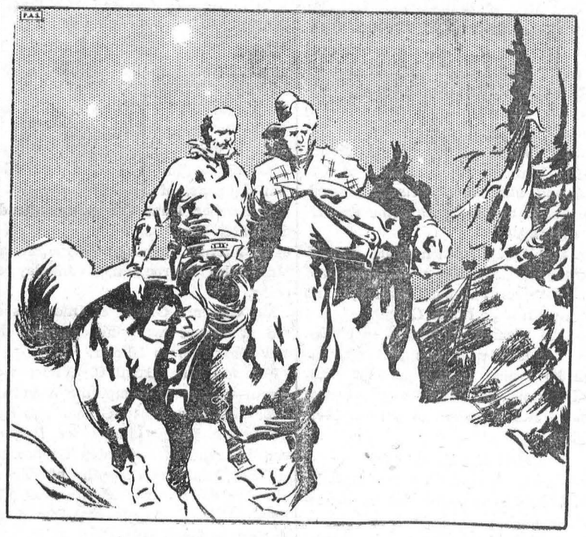
The somewhat bewildered Johnny whirled on the rapidly nearing Double S crowd and with his first shot downed one of the leading riders. His second shot brought a horse screaming to earth and the rest broke and rode back out of range, where they gathered in a council of war. It did not take them long to realize that this time at least they were outmaneuvered, for they saw Tex spur out to meet the newcomers and pump their hands delightedly. Two more rifles added to Johnny's deadly one were too much to face so they turned and rode back toward Carillion with their dead.

Utah Lynch, lank, dark-faced, saturnine, chuckled grimly as a shamefaced Johnny pumped his hand.

"Kid," he drawled. "Yuh ain't fergot how to throw a lot o' mean lead, have yuh? I kinda thought you was goin' to open up on me an' Al."

Al Burrows, chunky of body and craggy of face grinned and spat emphatically. "By gollies yes," he chimed in. "Tex, this dang cub o' yores is shore developin' his claws."

"Yeah," nodded Tex, his eyes twinkling. "He's gettin' to be mean



Tex and Johnny spurred after the buckboard medicine with a Winchester. Trouble is his brain ain't developin' like it should. If he could think as straight an' fast as he can shoot he'd be all right."

"Aw—g'wan," snorted Johnny. "Wouldn't o' been no loss if I had loaded you two ole highbinders. Jest the same I'll admit I was glad to know it was friends droppin' in. How's Bud an' Barbara an' Nevada an' all the rest o' the gan back at the ole Bar B?"

"Finer 'n frawg's hair," grinned Utah. "They's a new boss at the ole spread now. But, the second."

"Naw?" exclaimed Johnny delightedly.

"I'm tellin' yuh." Utah nodded. "Fattest, happiest lil' geezer yuh ever saw."

"That's shore fine. Tex, me'n you gotta take a trip someday an' look in on that young gent."

"Mebbe so, someday," drawled Tex. "But right now we got our own dish o' hash to cook. Boys, yuh shore dropped in at the right time."

Utah nodded. "Looks thataway. What's it all about, Tex? When Al an' me got them telegrams we took 'em to Bud an' told him we was driftin' down thisaway, pronto. Bud shooed us off on the run an' told us to let him know if you needed any more help. If yuh do, jest wire him an' he'll come afoggin' it with the whole outfit."

"Reckon that won't be necessary," said Tex. "But shore I'm thankin' Bud for feelin' so. Now let's amble along. I'll tell you fellers the story while we ride."

By the time they rode up to the corrals of the Box D ranch Utah and Al had the whole story and had jointly expressed their satisfaction at the opportunity of sitting in on things. When Tex attempted to thank them for their prompt response to his messages they waved him off.

"Why thank us?" scoffed Al Burrows. "Shucks, Tex, we're the ones to render thanks. After you an' Johnny left our neck o' the woods things got so danged quiet Utah an' me began to ossify. This looks like one swell chance to take the kinks outa our trigger fingers an' keen up our eyes a leetle."

"You danged ole war-dogs," chuckled Tex.

Pink Crosby and Pod Fortune were unhooking a pair of meek, sweating broncos from the buckboard when the four riders drew up. After introductions were over Tex turned to Pink with twinkling eyes.

ONTARIO'S CAR ACCIDENTS

The person most often behind the wheel of a death car on Ontario streets and highways is a man. Highways Department figures revealed recently that in the first six months of the year 94.8 per cent. of the drivers involved in all accidents and 96.8 per cent. of the drivers involved in fatal accidents were males. Moreover, the number of women drivers in accidents decreased and the number of men drivers in accidents increased. No explanation was given for the figures.

LIKE HER MOTHER

The owner of a big department store liked to walk through the place and not infrequently gave a present to some small child that took his fancy. One afternoon he presented a handsome doll to to a little girl with whom he had struck up a conversation and waited, beaming, to see what she would say.

The child's mother waited, too.

"What are you going to say to the gentleman," she urged.

The little dear looked at the man firmly. "Charge it!" she said.

"OCTOBER"

The ideas associated with Autumn, and especially October, are often not happy ones:

"The melancholy days are come,
The saddest of the year,
Of wailing winds, and naked woods,
And meadows brown and sere."

If a person is at all inclined to be pessimistic, like the author of the above, the thought suggests itself that the gloriously long and sunny days of summer are over; that the inevitable period of decay has come; that nothing now remains to him but to pass through a season of dank discomfort until he emerges to find himself in the icy grasp of winter!

That there is another and a brighter side was undoubtedly in the mind of the Reverend Thomas Constable when he sang:

"Hail, old October, bright and chill,
First freedom from the summer sun-
Lift high the bowl and drink your fill!
Thank heaven, at last the summer's done!"

Autumn is no less the season of glorious fruition, when bud and blossoms have at last fulfilled their mission and changed to ripened fruit, when the long labours of the farmer have culminated in the harvest field, and all alike—the harvest mouse and squirrel, sparrow, plougman and millionaire — share the common bounty, and find yet again the great promise fulfilled that to the end of time the days of harvest shall never fail.

Ruskin said that "the purest and most thoughtful minds are those which love colour most." There must be, therefore, many such minds in October. For surely very few do not appreciate the countryside when it is alight with the fire-red, scarlet, crimson, yellow and golden leave of the maple, dogwood, sumach and the grape tree.

But the function of the leaves with their dazzling and variegated colours are not limited to mere ornament and shade. Nature assigns to them infinitely more important offices, both to surrounding Nature and to the tree of which they form a part. They purify the atmosphere and restore to its normal condition, rendering it healthy and salugrious when vitiated by the breath of animals. Nature has in this, as in all her works, united decorative elegance and beauty of form with direct and immediate utility.

However, leaves are not responsible for October's riot of colour. There are also the wild fruits, many of which are edible, such as the crowberry, creeping snowberry, hackberry, silver-berry, blue fly, juneberry, honeysuckle, high-bush cranberry, mannyberry, and so on.

Several kinds of wild flowers may still be found in bloom; michaelmas, daisies, goldenrods, lobelias, chicory, toadflax, sneezewort and the water persicaria with its carmine flower-spikes.

Indeed October seems determined to display all the colouours of the rainbow in her quarrel with him who said that "the melancholy days are come," for the bluest of the blue fringed gentian is still blooming.

"Thou waitest late, and com'st alone
When woods are bare and birds have flown,
And frosts and shortening days portend
The aged year is near its end.
"Then doth thy sweet and quiet eye
Look through its fringes to the sky,
Blue-blue-as if that sky let fall
A flower from its cerulean wall."

Cosmetic Prohibition

Evidently alarmed by the growing usage of artificial beauty aids in the late 18th century, the staid English Parliament of the period actually enacted the following law:

"All women, whatever age, rank, profession or degree.....that shall from and after such an act....betray into matrimony, any of His Majesty's subjects, by the scents, paints, cosmetics, washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, hoops, high-heeled shoes, bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty against witchcraft and like misdemeanors and that the marriage upon conviction shall stand null and void."

The law, so far as is known, was not rigidly enforced and some time after its enactment was shelved—possibly to avoid the risk of a feminine revolution.

Compass Needle

Strange as it seems, the North and South Magnetic Poles are continually shifting. As a consequence, the needle of a stationary compass is always moving in conjunction with the changing positions of the poles.

Even in a 24 hour period the needle makes a slight movement from east to west and then returns. So great is the shift in position of the poles that the North Magnetic Pole is almost one full degree away from its location of 100 years ago.

Somersaulting Traveler

Hydras are a low form of fresh-water protozoan, closely related to the sponges and corals. As a means of catching its prey, minute forms of animal life, the hydra has numerous small lassos growing from its tentacles with which it captures and paralyzes its victim.

The hydra utilizes these same tentacles for its strange somersaulting method of travel.

DELANSON, N. Y., MAN HAS RED AND WHITE HOLSTEINS WHICH

"I'm the only man in the United States who was darn fool enough to do it."

That's how Nelson W. Gage, of Delanson, explains his eminence as the only owner of a herd of purebred red-and-white Holstein cattle in the nation.

But Mr. Gage belittles his accomplishment. "Except for color, they're just ordinary cows,—not more milk and no less, no better grade milk and no worse than the average Holstein," he explained.

However, he goes right on spending hundreds of dollars a year on the maintenance of his hobby. Thirty head, including two bulls, of red and white Holsteins graze on his farm near Delanson. There are other cattle on the Gage farm, 60 had in all, but upon the oddly colored Holsteins their owner lavishes the bulk of his attention.

Asked why red-and-white Holsteins, when the orthodox coloring of such animals is strictly black and white, Mr. Gage said, "The original Holstein-Freisian breed was a lowland breed. For lack of muscle-building exercise and hardy highland feer. it was a scrawny breed.

"Breeders anxious about the condition, appointed a commission to go into the Swiss highlands and purchase highland bulls with which to strengthen the strain. In the Valley of the Somme, such bulls were found.

"These Simental bulls were red-and-white and their strain persists in the better of the Holstein-Freisian breed of to-day. Occasionally a red-and-white calf emerges. When a purebred Holstein cow produces a red-and-white calf, bad cross breeding is suspected, and the calf usually goes to veal because farmers don't know the history of the strain."

Mr. Gage, a retired New York publisher, has spent thousands of dollars on his hobby.

But the Gage herd are not "registered" Holsteins, for rules of the Holstein-Friesian Association forbid the registry of animals which are not of creamy white color, splotched with inky black.

ONTARIO IS BANNING PARTRIDGE SHOOTING

Ontario will place a ban on partridge shooting this autumn, Hon. Harry C. Nixon, Minister of Game and Fisheries, announced last Thursday. The action follows reports partridge show signs of becoming extinct. The department is considering the question as to whether there will be a general open season on pheasants.

MECCA OF CHAMPION CANADIAN PLOUGHMEN

Whatever changes may be wrought by modern progress in the mechanization of the farm, the keen eye and the steady hand of the ploughman is as necessary at the present time as it was in the primitive days when asses were acclaimed as a great improvement on goats as a means of farm motive power. The straight furrow still excites the thrill of high achievement and forever is hailed as the work of a master-craftsman.

In modern days, be the traction what it may, neither the hand nor the eye of the Canadian ploughman has lost its cunning, a fact that will be amply demonstrated at the forthcoming annual ploughing match conducted by the Ontario Ploughmen's Association—the secretary of which is J. A. Carroll, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. This four-day meeting, which will be held from October 6th to 9th near Cornwall, promises to be one of the most important annual agricultural events in the annals of Eastern Canada. It will not only afford a demonstration of skill in the produest phase of the art of field husbandry but will also combine a particularly interesting axhibition of home and farm machinery.

This year's ploughing match will be more truly international than in any recent years. Many competitors and visitors are expected from the United States, but the most extensive support outside Ontario is expected from the Province of Quebec. The rendezvous of the match is only 25 miles distant from the Quebec border, but, apart from that, notification has already been received that a strong contingent of skilled Quebec ploughmen—many of them prize-winners in contests in that province—will attend the meeting. So Ontario ploughmen will have to look to their laurels.

BRITAIN ON THE SCREEN

Projection of the British Isles on the world's screen was declared to be the object of the Travel and Industrial Development Association of Great Britain and Ireland by King Edward VIII when, as the Prince of Wales, he attended its last general meeting in London.

This is the best kind of advertisement that Britain could have, for Britain has a lot of things to sell, the Prince declared, and added,

"He who whispers down a well
About the goods he has to sell
Will never reap the golden dollars
As he who shows them round and hollers.

"This propaganda, if I may call it so," the Prince continued, "does not prevent us from taking a proper pride in our historic glories and in the many picturesque ceremonies and customs that link the citizen of today with his forbears and attract the foreign visitor.

"All these things—our countryside, our great inidustrial areas, and our sport—are facets of the national life," the Prince said.

Overseas visitors to Britain, it was stressed at the meeting, spent in 1934 no less than 25,000,000 pounds—a sum not farm behind the 28,000,000 pounds obtained from the sale of wool products and the 31,000,000 from the sale of coal, thereby benefitting directly or indirectly almost every one of Britain's industries.

The more people come to Britain and see Britons as they are, the better it will be for the peace of the world, declared Lord Derby, president of the association.

"Ministers," he said, "can do a great deal in the way of keeping in touch with other countries, but nothing can do as much good in stimulating a really healthy relationship between countries as intercourse with the individuals of those countries."

THE UNITED CHURCH

A rally of the Sunday Schools of the circuit was held on Sunday morning with the pastor, Rev. W. S. Atchison, presiding. "We, too, may bring our Treasures," was the theme of the programme. Bible readings bearing on this were given by Edwin Boyd, Raymond Annable and Hartley Allison. Mabel O'Neil told an interesting story of "The Jar of Rosemary."

With Mrs. E. Steele at the piano, twelve little children sang: "God Is Love."

Mrs. Crowder impressively conducted a Promotion service for seven members of the Cradle Roll to the Beginners' Department.

The pastor expressed his appreciation of the services of Mr. J. L. Mill, the Superintendent of the town Sunday School, and those of his workers, as well as those of the country Superintendents and workers.

A challenging message for the parents to co-operate with their children, teachers and Superintendents in the Sunday School was given by Rev. W. S. Atchison who based his remarks on the parable of the Rich Fool. "What are you worth?" was the question he discussed from a physical and intellectual standpoint. What are you worth to yourself, to the family, to the community, to Canada, to the Church and Sunday School and to God?

He named three classes of people—shirkers, jerkers and workers, and said: "To which class do you belong?" Herein lies your value to the Church."

Rev. W. A. Morrison, of Aultsville, spoke at the evening service from Eccles 12:1, taking the word "Remember," as a text. In remembrance there are two things necessary, interest and attention. He spoke of the tremendous changes made in a community and said that here we have no continuing city, but death does not end all. The conclusion of the whole matter is to fear God and keep his commandments. The choir sang an anthem with a solo part taken by Norma Hitsman.

On calls to points over 130 miles

Once again we have cut the cost of Long Distance. On September 1st, a new schedule of rates became effective on calls (both person-to-person and station-to-station) to points over 130 miles distant. This reduction will mean an annual saving of over $200,000 to telephone users in Ontario and Quebec alone.

This is the second time this year that Long Distance costs have been reduced. In the past seven years, we have made six substantial rate revisions. At the same time we have constantly improved service, as evidenced by the fact that, while in 1929 it took an average of 3.4 minutes to complete a Long Distance call, today the average is only 78 seconds.

Today, your telephone is within easy reach of any one of 33,000,000 telephones scattered throughout the world.

Low night rates from 7 every evening and all day Sunday!

PEACHES GROW AT MORRISBURG

Many people are of the opinion that peach trees will not produce fruit in this part of the province. We changed our mind, however, on Tuesday of this week, when Mr. Andrew McLatorie brought into the office of the local paper a large peach taken from a tree in his garden. Judging from the appearance, the quality seemed to be equal, if not better than those shipped from the Niagara district. The tree, which is four years old, had several blossoms this year, all of which, with the exception of one, were destroyed by frost.—Morrisburg Leader.

MORRISBURG FACES UNUSUAL SITUATION

The Municial council in Morrisburg has been legally notified by the I. F. Farlinger estate, owners of the property on which the Morrisburg town hall stands, that the town must have all its property removed from the Farlinger land before February 25th, 1937. This means that Morrisburg will have to move its town hall. The notice was read at the regular monthly meeting of the council last Friday night. In the absence of the reeve, the council refrained from transacting important business and adjourned after a brief session. They will meet within a week at a special meeting which Reeve Flynn will be able to attend.

FRANCIS—ROSE

Arran Hall, Smiths Falls, was the scene of a pretty September wedding Saturday afternoon last, with Rev. A. D. Cornett, O.B.E., pastor of the Smiths Falls United church officiating, when Mildred Alma, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rose, Smiths Falls, became the bride of Earl Samuel Francis youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Francis, of South Mountain. The spacious rooms were decorated with autumn bloom, and the ceremony was performed in the presence of immediate relatives of the two families. Mrs. Jack Cooper of Almonte played the wedding march. During the signing of the register, Miss Dorothy Lodge sang sweetly, "Because."

A quaint picture was the bride in her wedding gown of heaven blue taffeta, fashioned on Medieval lines. The tightly fitted basque bodice was moulded to the hips, the back being centred with tiny covered taffeta buttons. Fan shaped rhinestone pins trimmed the bodice front at the waist and at the throat held in place the quaint standing Medieval collar. The short puffed sleeves were very full and were held above the elbows by a narrow band. The long full skirt, gathered full at the hips, fell in deep rich folds touching the floor in front, the back extending to a short train. Her headress was a rhinestone tiara, and she wore blue satin slippers with silver trimmings, and blue lace mittens. She carried a shower bouquet of Rapture roses, in shower effect of pale pink, satin ribbon silver edged tied with Sweetheart roses. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bridesmaids were Miss Evelyn Rose, sister of the bride, and Miss Wilma McCreary and they were attractive in dresses both alike, in shell pink suede lace over taffeta slips and wore pink satin slippers trimmed with silver. Both wore headdresses alike of lace and tulle with flowers. They carried bouquets of Briarcliffe roses. Orville Francis of Prescott, nephew of the groom, was groomsman. Arnold Rose, brother of the bride, acted as usher.

Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served at Arran Hall.

Mr .and Mrs .Francis afterwards left on a motor trip to New York on their honeymoon. On their return, they will take up residence at South Mountain.

Going away the bride wore a brown crepe tunic dress with satin stripes and matching brown hat, shoes, gloves and accessories. The bride, who is one of that town's most popular girls, and a teacher on the public school staff there for a number of years, has been the guest of honor at many showers and teas given her by a number of friends who have been extending sincere good wishes. The groom is one of this district's most progressive and best known business men and from a wide circle of friends Mr .and Mrs. Francis are receiving heartiest felicitations.

Following her resignation, she was presented with a lovely white and gold lamp from the teachers. The groom's gift to the bride was an Old English silver tea service.

LOCAL ATHLETES DO WELL

Athletes from the Winchester High School were prominent at the E. O. S. S. A. track and field meet held on Saturday last at the Richardson Stadium, Kingston.

The local boys succeeded in winning the Cornwall Collegiate Institute trophy for the best record for schools in the Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. They also won the Strathcona Trust trophy for schools of this district.

Nairn Boyd and Ronald Cass were the star performers of the local contingent. Boyd won the Senior 100 yards dash, the 220 yards dash, the broad jump, and placed second in the senior low hurdles and high jump. He climaxed the day by taking fourth in an outside event, the shot put.

Ronald Cass captured seconds in the junior broad and high jumps and placed fourth in the 100 yards dash for juniors.

With the Meikle Cup competition only a few days off, the boys give promise of bringing back the coveted silverware again this year.

have to be given by the Government to that effect.

Mr. Gallagher of Osnabruck expressed himself in favour of the proposal.

Mr. George Pollock stated that, in his opinion, the government would change the Act.

Reeve W. H. Casselman of Chesterville, suggested that the Warden take steps to halt all proceedings in connection with the proposed sanatorium until such time as the Act was changed.

Warden Flynn stated in reply, that he was not in favour of delaying the work in view of the steady increase in the number of tubercular cases in the Counties. He added that this work was a matter for the present Counties' Council and he felt it should be attended to. He remarked that he was in favour of a change in the percentages each municipality was required to pay towards maintenance of patients, but that all municipalities should pull together for the common good. In his opinion, he continued, caring for the sick was the primary factor to be considered.

Motion Made

After some further discussion on the part of various officials present, it was moved by Reeve W. H. Casselman and seconded by Reeve Wallace Gallagher of Osnabruck that "this meeting of representatives of the six western townships and villages therein, go on record as requesting the Board of Governors of the proposed tuberculosis sanatorium to delay building committments until such time as the Ontario Government amends the Tuberculosis Sanatorium Act to provide that each municipality pay full cost of hospitalization of their indigents."

Amendment to Motion

Warden Flynn immediately declared that he was opposed to such a motion and moved an amendment, which was seconded by Reeve Robert Bryan, as follows: "That all words after the first word be struck out and the following substituted therefore:

1. That this meeting promise their loyal support to the Directors of the St. Lawrence Sanatorium.

2. That this meeting urge on the Ontario Government, the administration of making the municipalities from which an indigent patient comes, pay a larger proportion of his or her maintenance in hospital.

Reeve Casselman stated that this work was not the ordinary work of Counties Council and the question should be decided by a vote of the people.

When the vote was taken, the Casselman-Gallagher motion was carried.

It was then moved by Mr. Eamer and seconded by Mr. Casselman that "the Reeves and Deputy Reeves be a committee to keep in touch with the Sanatorium project and that the chairman and secretary of this meeting be made permanent officers." The motion carried.

Mr. H. H. Nesbitt, ex-warden of the United Counties and chairman of the Board of Governors of the St. Lawrence Sanatorium, was present at the meeting but took no active part in the proceedings.

Statement to Press

In a statement issued to the Press on Tuesday, Mr. Nesbitt said that an Order-In-Council had been received from the Ontario Government approving of the establishment of the Board of Governors as appointed by the Counties' Council; also the architect's plans and the by-law passed by the Counties' Council to raise the necessary funds to erect the Sanatorium.

He also stated that a meeting of the Board of Governors would be called at an early date to complete the plans for the erection of the Sanatorium.
