Lions Trade Fair Shaping Up

This year's Iroquois Lions Club Trade Fair is a sellout, as far as the amount of space that was available, and all that remains is for the residents of the village and district to attend to make it a complete success.

The once a year event will be held in the auditorium of Seaway District High School, having outgrown the facilities of the Civic Centre as it expanded year by year, and from all reports, the 26 booths will be well worth looking at.

Organizers say that the people entering their wares have plans all but completed and will be setting up their displays in time for the Friday night opening. The Trade Fair will be open both Friday and Saturday evenings until 10 p.m.

In addition to the Trade Fair, the Lions will be sponsoring a Pub Night in the Iroquois Civic Centre on Friday evening after 10 p.m.

Not only will visitors to the Trade Fair get their money's worth by seeing all the exhibits for the 50¢ admission, but in addition there will be many free door prizes awarded for those in attendance at the time of the draws. Drawings will be held at various times during both evening's showing.

Doors open at Seaway after 7 p.m. See you there.

Store Changes Ownership

Alice and Ernie Bron are shown flanked by Stella and John Seely as the new owners took over operation of Ernie's Hardware on Monday morning. Formerly Seely's Hardware the business dates back in the Seely family for 100 years. Mr. and Mrs. Bron are extended a warm welcome to Iroquois along with best wishes for a long and happy association in the business and social life of the community.

United Church Women Hold Thankoffering Service

On Oct. 9, the U.C.W. of Iroquois United Church met for their special service of Thanksgiving. Hostesses and programme leaders for the evening were Mrs. Ivan Seeley, Miss Margaret Kaine and Mrs. Clarence Carter. Guests who assisted them in the presentation of a fine service were Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Kempling of Cardinal.

The meeting opened with the repeating of the General Prayer of Thanksgiving followed by the singing of hymn "Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven". The scripture read was Psalm 95. Meditation was on the theme "The God Who Goes Before". Some of that message being that the Christian life is a provided life. God prepared for us long before we were born. We are the heirs of all the ages past. God is before us at every stage of this life and men are helpless without God who goes before. A poem was read reminding us to be thankful for "Little Things". During this devotional presentation Rev. and Mrs. Kempling offered their message in song by very beautifully singing the duets, "He is Mine" and "Lovingly The Shepherd". Prayer closed the devotions.

Mrs. Brian Gee introduced Mrs. Margaret Kempling, guest speaker for the occasion. She spoke on "Praise", reminding her listeners of our tendency to give thanks for the good things which are ours. Using two scriptures, one from Paul's letter to the Ephesians, the other from his first letter to the Thessalonians, we are reminded to give thanks in all circumstances, for this is the will of God." She gave a brief life history of Lt. Col. Merlin Carruthers of the United States Army, once a godless young man, who experienced conversion and became a padre. Using many illustrations from his writings, she reminded again and again the need to learn how to praise God for the afflictions of our lives - tragedy, illness, shame and sorrow. When we learn to be truly thankful to God for experiencing great burden then will we truly feel the Joy of knowing Him". Blessed is he who submits to the will of God". The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Batchelor.

Mrs. Haldane, assisted by Mrs. Pyette, secretary, chaired the business meeting. Coming events include the Fall Rally at Chesterville Oct. 11; the Knox Presbyterian Thankoffering Oct. 28; the dinner to be served to Presbytery in our church Nov. 29; the annual bazaar and tea to be held Nov. 24. Having heard an encouraging financial report, the group voted such expenditures as a donation to the

Golden Wedding Anniversary Marked At Pleasant Valley

On Saturday evening, Oct. 6, 1973, Mr. & Mrs. James Cowan were pleasantly surprised when their family held a party in honour of their Golden Wedding Anniversary in the Orange Hall at Pleasant Valley. The hall was decorated with gold and white streamers and bells and the table centred with an anniversary cake, yellow potted mums and gold & white candles.

The guests of honour were seated in two decorated chairs and their eldest son, Sam acted as Master of Ceremonies for a short program consisting of a sing song by everyone, music by the Cowan grandchildren with their mother, Mrs. Sam Cowan accompanying them on the accordian, and selections by the Rupert and Beckstead grandchildren with Mrs. Cowan accompanying them on the organ. Herbert Wallace showed some pictures and the guest of honour, James Cowan, delighted all with some selections on the mouth organ. After the program, the family presented them with a pole lamp, mirror, smoker stand and bedlamps and the grandchildren presented them with a toaster and an anniversary book.

Herbert Wallace spoke briefly and congratulated them and Roy Keck and Mansel Wallace presented them with a rocking chair from the community after which all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows". Both Mr. & Mrs. Cowan thanked all for the lovely evening and the gifts. A buffet lunch brought the evening to a close and all present signed the guest book.

Mrs. Cowan was the former Elsie Wallace from Ventnor, daughter of the late John C. Wallace and Mary Ann Murdock. James Cowan is the son of the late James Cowan and Martha Jane Wright. They were married Oct. 3, 1923 and have lived all their married lives on the Cowan home stead in Pleasant Valley.

They have eight children: Sam, Prescott; Golda, (Mrs. Johnnie Beckstead) Strader's Hill; Muriel, (Mrs. Arnott Conley) Brockville; Doris, (Mrs. Allan Rupert), Roebuck; Keith, Brockville; Yvonne of Strader's Hill; Eileen, (Mrs. Ted Hunter) Domville, and Orval at home. They also have eighteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

They received a number of congratulatory cards and messages including letters from Governor General of Canada, the Hon. Roland Mitchener; Robert Stanfield, P.C. leader and Tom Cossitt, Leeds M.P.

All join in wishing them many more years of married life and best wishes for the future.

Gas and the Car ...

North American people have become pretty free wheeling in the past 30 years or so. The automobile has become a way of life to many, a necessity to most, and certainly an expense to all. But then, it costs money to buy hay if we preferred to travel by horse!

The automobile has taken over ... of all the machines that man has invented, this one has hog tied and strangled.

Cars have progressed from cold, uncertain transportation to today's marvels such as the $70,000 car purchased for our Prime Minister. (With our money, of course).

For years we heard the cry "See Canada by Car" or some such slogan, but all of a sudden this has all changed. Like Cinderella, we have found that the clock has struck Midnight and gasoline is going to soar off into the high-priced altitudes.

Auto manufacturers are starting to push the smaller versions of their cars like never before. Mileage comparisons will soon be the way to measure which car you should buy. Modern advances in the field of fighting pollution had their day in the past couple of years and now the vehicle will be producing clean dirt into the atmosphere. The car will soon be the cleanest machine produced.

If they could only get them to run better and last longer, man would have realized one of his highest ambitions.

So here we are with a fine new clean machine in every driveway, but where are we going to get the money to buy the gas to run it? Gasoline is bound to go up say the experts (the oil companies) and they will soon be suggesting we all drive a bit slower to get better mileage, so we won't have to stop at one of their gas pumps so often.

The auto manufacturers and the oil companies and the gas station operators sound just a bit confused. Maybe now they can imagine how the rest of us feel!

Rake Those Leaves

This is the time of year for the men to get busy raking leaves, cleaning the eavestrough and doing the cleanup around the garden and yard... if you can't get the little woman to do the job for you.

The heavy winds of Fall have stripped a lot of the trees but from our viewpoint it isn't yet worthwhile to clean up the leaves. There are a lot more of them hanging around and we can't see wasting all that effort. This advice should give a good excuse to many a man who wants to get in one last day of golfing or watching his favorite team on the football field.

And if that excuse doesn't work, pick up an odd item that appears heavier than it is...anyone can feign a pulled muscle or strained ligament!

The others of you must have a few ideas of your own!

SOVIET FISHING BAN

The federal government has told the Soviet Union to cease illegal herring fishing on Geroges Bank near Nova Scotia.

IT'S TOUGH TO BE MIDDLE CLASS

By BILL SMILEY

My daughter Kim and her husband are having a tough time these days. He's starting a post-graduate course at university, and she's well into an undergraduate course in advanced pregnancy.

But that's not what's tough. Those things are normal, exciting, and even joyful.

It's the eternal problem for students, and for most of the rest of us, of money, scarcity of.

At first, I was inclined to scoff. "Ah! You kids! . You don't know what it's like to be hard up. You get all those grants and loans. Why, when your mother and I . . . blah blah blah."

Not that they're going to starve. They do get just enough to get by. But when you're young and impatient and have been spoiled in a middle-class home with most of the amenities, you get a little sick of "getting by."

You'd like to buy an occasional roast, instead of trying to think of another method of making a delicious hamburg dish. In fact, at today's prices, you can't even afford hamburg too often.

You'd like to go to a show once in a while, or have a party, or have the clothes to go to someone else's party. But there just isn't anything in the budget for these fairly simple pleasures.

You'd like to have a car, like most normal people, and be able to drive into the country or visit friends, or go home for a weekend and have some decent food from the old folks' groaning board. Can't afford it.

You'd like to have colour TV, or even black and white, but there are no funds. You'd like some new, warm winter clothes, but you have to make do with last year's five-year-old shabby duffle-coat, and last year's leaking boots.

If you're pregnant, you'd like to start making a nest, fixing up a home. But on the rent you can afford, you wind up in a crumby flat where you share the bathroom and the stove doesn't work and the decorating is in puke colour and the thermometer never goes higher than 65.

It can all be pretty depressing unless you have plenty of physical and mental fortitude.

There's love, of course, to fall back on. But from what I've seen in my day, love flourishes a lot better when there's some bread on the table and some bread in your wallet.

My wife and I went through the whole bit, but I can't help feeling more pity for today's young couples than I ever felt for us.

First of all, we were products of the depression, and didn't expect much. When we did get a little windfall, we counted our blessings and promptly went out and spent them.

I remember the time one of my uncles dies intestate. By the time the estate had been cut up among the numerous nieces and nephews, we got something like $102.50 It was manna from heaven.

We went straight out and bought a radio, a case of beer, a bunch of stuff at the delicatessen, and had a party. To heck with tomorrow or next week.

But I must admit that life was a lot simpler then, and a great deal cheaper. We had a child, and we got more pleasure out of him than we would have from colour TV, a penthouse apartment, and a Cadillac.

We had a furnished flat in one of the grimmer sections of the city. Shared the bathroom. Furniture was Salvation Army specials. But my wife redecorated the place, and it had two entrances and a backyard with real trees and grass. It cost $15 a week. Furnished.

Today you can scarcely rent one room for that. We had a total income of about $130 a month. That covered rent, food, clothes, transportation. About once a month we'd have a real blowout. Baby-sitter (75¢); movies (75¢ each); half a dozen cokes (36¢) and a bag of peanuts (15¢). Wow! That's living.

We weren't bored, or desperate. We talked, read, studied, listened to the radio, gloated over our child.

Holidays, I worked in the post office or in a factory, to pick up a few extra bucks. Smokes were roll-your-owns.

It wasn't bad, but I used to get mighty sick of never having a dollar that didn't have a slot waiting to gulp it.

I've never been sorry that my plans for post-graduate work and three or four more years of poverty went up in flames and I was tossed by accident into the hurly-burly of the newspaper business.

Today's students work hard at dull summer jobs, save every nickel, get grants, but have to scrape on the edge of poverty and shabbiness. I pity them.

The Valedictorian's Address To Seaway District High School

Following is the text of the valedictory address given by Michael Saver at the commencement exercises at Seaway District High School on October 5th. Mike is now enrolled at the University of Ottawa.

Those of you who know me personally know that I attend the University of Ottawa, where I am a student of the theatre. The gentlemen I reside with are fond of telling people that I am taking a course in feeling people. At this time I would like to confirm their statements. I am learning to "feel" people. However, this "feeling" of each other is not physical, otherwise the course would be swamped with would-be "feelers". This "feeling" is on a much higher level. It is emotional and intellectual. We probe each others' emotions and sensitivities, convictions and beliefs. My professor claims that the library of a theatre student is not a room full of books, but the street, the crowds, and the people.

I could stop right here, for this one sentence contains a philosophy of life which many of us have either forgotten or lost completely.

To illustrate this, I use a situation which most of my former classmates may be familiar with. Picture this. Two roommates live together in a University residence. One is called Herman Peabody; the other. . . Rudolf Schwarts. Herman lives his life in a classroom. Rudolf, or Rudi, as he is affectionately called by his friends, rarely attends classes. What he does, I leave to your imagination! One evening, they find themselves alone in their room, Herman with his textbooks, Rudi with his perpetual bottle of wine. They try to converse. Herman comments on the artistic aspect of early Minoan Crete. Rudi ellaborates on the sensual aspects of the sweethearts he has seen on the mall that afternoon. Herman tries to show Rudi pictures of Crude Dorian pottery dug up on the Greek Peleponese. Rudi tries to show Herman artistic photographs from Playboy and Penthouse. The end result is nothing!

Now that you are totally confused, I will explain what this seemingly senseless discourse is all about. Herman and Rudi really do exist! I've met them at the University of Ottawa. In fact, you'll meet them everyday, everywhere you go. They are a product of our so-called "advanced" culture. And here's the rub. These two human beings do not communicate. They have no hope of ever communicating. Both of them have lost the purpose of education, and in essence, the purpose of life. And Rudi and Herman have a lot of friends. Too many of us have the idea that education is either a mass of textbooks and written papers or something to be laughed at while life becomes a roller coaster we can ride up and down on, without contributing anything. If any of us find ourselves tonight with either of these attitudes and do not try to change ourselves, then we're finished. We might as well call it quits right now. We'll never achieve anything. We'll never be anybody.

Communication is the essence of life. To me, it is the purpose of education. Look at the people sitting around you. We must learn to talk to them, We must learn to respond to their emotions and their convictions. That is why education, or communication, the two words are synonymous, is a never ending process. There are always new faces, new personalities, who have something to give to you, in the same way that you have something to contribute to them. We can find our own individual contribution in our personal experiences, by living life to the fullest, and in the experiences of those before us who have written them down so that we might also share them. Books have their honoured place, in the same way that a "good time" has its place. We must not forget either of them. Rather, we must take an equal proportion of both to achieve God's purpose for us in life. That, is to be better human beings too.

At Seaway, I think we had an excellent opportunity to do just that. We were never overpowered by academics, and we always had the chance for a good time. But most important, we had the chance to meet people from many backgrounds, who held varied opinions. Our education here has given us the basis which we need to achieve the all-important purpose I have outlined. The five years we had at this school were necessary and instrumental in our development. Even if we don't remember what novels we studied in Grade Nine English, it doesn't matter. That class, like all classes, contributed to our experiences, our obstacles and our friendships. Without them, it would be very hard to form a life of our own!

In conclusion, I would like to thank the school for bestowing me with this great honour. To the administration and staff. . . our sincerest thank you. In my opinion you all know intimately the purpose of education and life. To my fellow graduates. . . I wish you all good luck and success. Remember. . . the library of humanity is the people you meet every day.

Letters to the Editor

On behalf of the Iroquois Royals Midget Boys Softball team, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the people and organizations of this community who gave freely of their time and money to help this fine team be the success they were.

This team came from ninth place in the league to be the first team from Iroquois to go to the Carleton Dundas Grenville finals as the Southern champions to meet the Northern champions by defeating South Mountain best ? out of 3, Williamsburg ? straight, Brinston, ? straight, only to be defeated in the best 3 out of five with Winchester in the fifth game.

Many thanks to Mac Anderson who took over with these boys when they were without a coach and made them the fine team they turned out to be, Jim Mustard who stood by them all year as manager, Ken MacLean who added his help in the final games.

And last but not least, to our faithful scorekeeper Cheryl Anderson, who never missed a game in all kinds of weather.

Special thanks to Ken Strader who volunteered a bus two nights to take players and fans to Winchester.

Without all of you, we would have been lost.

Leona McIntosh

100 Years In Seely Family

Village Hardware Store Changes Ownership

Ernie's Hardware (formerly Seely's Hardware) is under the ownership of Alice and Ernie Bron, the couple having taken over the store operation on Monday.

The passing of Seely's Hardware into new ownership is really a story of a century, because it is a century since the Seely family first came to Iroquois. In that period, they established a record of continuous time length in the history of Iroquois business houses and brought to themselves an honourable place in the affection and respect of all district citizenry.

News of their retirement has met with general regret. This is not only because of business relations enjoyed with them, but because of their enterprise and companionship which gave uplift of good spirit and happiness to village and countryside.

Zimri Seely, the patriarchal leader of this branch of the Seelys, came to Iroquois in the 1870's from Antwerp in northern New York. They were well established in that neighbourhood and left there a network of relatives with whom they frequently visited. Zimri was a shoemaker by trade. This he resumed when he came to Iroquois with his wife and family.

As the years passed, Zimri Seely became the grand old man of Iroquois. He started a shoe shop which grew into an active business with sales and repairs. His son Harry became his number-one helper. Harry's enterprise soon told in expanding the business.

Throughout its life, the store had the character of family effort. When the customer entered, he was met by one of several Seelys. The brothers were Aleck, Harry, Herb and Cassius (known as Cash). Besides, there were third-generation Seelys who associated themselves with the place. Harry was the round-the year man and the final responsibilities came to his shoulders.

When Harry took full time in the front part of the store, his father stayed on the repair bench at the rear. People came and talked with him and travelling salesmen did not fail to pass their respects to him there. Even school boys came to talk with him and stay awhile.

When the senior Seely passed away, Aleck took his semi-retired place at the repair bench. About that time, the Seelys bought the Ross Hardware Store in the main part of the village business section. In that period, Cassius Seely converted additional space available for a prosperous heating and metalware department in an attached building.

It was remarkable that early Seelys made common hobby of domestic poultry and dogs

In the days of numerous fall fairs, Zimri Seely had travelled a big circle of them through northern New York with a wagon-load of beautiful domestic poultry suitably caged and presented to win prizes. Win they did. From Iroquois, the Seelys stocked the countryside with beautiful fowl and shipped many out of town. Harry kept a kennel of cocker spaniels which became widely known by sales and shipments by rail to distant places.

Harry Seely married a daughter of the community, Annie Merkley, belonging in a family of original settlers. As time moved on, the leather commodities faded out of the business operation. The hardware business expanded and various specialties were added. The auxiliary personnel of the store came to consist of Mrs. Harry, son John and daughter Eleanor. Population clung to the long hold on Harry, but increased their dependance on John. School boys, matured through the years, still loitered about the place, and, with the rising generation, carried their camaraderie to both. In the course of these years, Harry lived his good life and moved into his own destiny in the beyond.

John Seely by this time had grown to early manhood under the Seely aegis of friendship and efficiency. Now he donned the managerial mantle. The Seelys opened a grand and excellent store in the newly transplanted Iroquois and realism of the Seely tradition grew in transit.

John had married Estella Kennedy, daughter of a Ventnor farmer. Mr. and Mrs. John and their sons Don and Ron carried forward together. The senior John carried the laurels of chieftainship. Young Ron eventually pursued his destiny in Bowmanville not far away. Don stayed on until the final sale.

The store prospered. Business grew rapidly with the increasing population and adjusted itself to the nuances of a changed commercial world. The spirit and patronage of seasoned and continuously built-up clientele blended with the new in maintaining the Seely character of the store. Patrons clung faithfully to their preference, intensified as it was by the conscientious service ever at their command there. John himself gave graciously of himself to every progressive or humane purpose launched in the village or neighbourhood.

The stress and strain of active business pursuit were well fitted to John's erstwhile energy. When ill health descended on him, however, the tempo was found to be opposed to his complete recovery. Disposal of the store was the only course left open.

It is now hoped and expected that with the lessening of his burden, he will be returned to complete and zestful good health in the happy realm which he and those he stands for did so much to bring about.

This Is The First Ship Iroquois

This picture of a ship called "Iroquois", a Royal Canadian Naval vessel in the first World War came through Iroquois lock in 1919. It is an old picture and we're only sorry that we couldn't get a better reproduction but there is a great deal of contrast between the vessel of the same name commissioned last year by the Armed Forces.

Annual Meeting Of Hospital Aux.

The Annual Meeting of Winchester District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary was opened by Pres. Mrs. Cass, with the Auxiliary Prayer and nine groups answered the roll call. The executive will meet on Oct. 25 at 2 p.m., followed by a meeting of all volunteers volunteer convenors and members of staff at 7:30 p.m.

Teen-aged volunteers and then mothers were entertained lately at a banquet in the Conference Room, catered to by the dietary staff of the hospital. In November, the Williamsburg group will be in charge of the tuck cart and a plea was made for magazines, up-to-date, please.

Minutes were read from the first annual meeting, Sept. 1948, showing membership fee of 50¢ same as 1973. Donations Day, at that time, brought gifts of all kinds for the new hospital, including a good many cabbages, which were made into sauer kraut by the auxiliary members.

The wool and knitting convenor reported 46 active knitters, who had used over 50 pounds of wool in the past year. 42 volunteers are working at the hospital each week, with some spares, who can be called on when needed.

Mrs. Chester Robinson presided for the election and installation of officers.

Pres. - Mrs. Fred Cass, Chesterville.
Vice-Pres - Mrs. Linton MacCartney, Ramsayville.
Sec. - Mrs. Fred Hill, Morrisburg.
Treas. -Mrs. Raymond Summers, Winchester.

Mrs. Cass and Mrs. MacCartney will attend the Annual Convention at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, Oct. 28-31.

Mr. Stel drew the winning ticket for the hand-knit afghan, with Miss Marion Casselman, Chesterville the winner.

Mrs. Cass thanked everyone for help and co-operation during the past year, with special thanks to the Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Legris and Mr. Stel.

Two Fire Calls Last Sunday

During one of the worst wind storms this area has had in many months, Iroquois Fire Department received two fire calls on Sunday. The first was a shed on fire on the Hubbard farm just east of the village and the building was saved. The second was a call to Dixon's where a car was on fire, but before the firemen left, a call came through that the fire was out.

As the minister began his Sunday sermon, there was a loud clap of thunder signalling the start of a downpour.

"Isn't that just like the Lord?" he said. "Here we are sitting and relaxing and He's out there washing our cars."

Hopeful secretary to personnel supervisor: "My typing isn't so bad - if you compare it with my shorthand."

Advertise in the Iroquois Post for quick results.

Our Sincere Thanks ...

With 42 years behind us in the business life of the village and district, we leave the business world with many fond memories of the kind associations we have had these many years. The loyal, dependable support given us has been deeply appreciated and will remain in our memories with fondness and gratitude.

To the new owners of the store, now going under the name "Ernie's Hardware", Alice and Ernie Bron, we wish every success in the years ahead and ask that the customers and friends of the past, continue their associations with the new owners in future years.

Thank you again for 42 wonderful years.

STELLA and JOHN SEELY

Good Companions Corner

On Wednesday, Oct. 10, upwards of fifty Good Companions met at the Civic Centre at 12:30 p.m. for business, sandwiches and programme. It was an excellent meeting, and if this type of programme is sustained, there are good things ahead for Good Companions, Iroquois and Matilda.

Mrs. Jane Graham led off with a good, but brief sing song. The Programme Convenor, Charlie McInnis, initiated what could well become a feature of each programme, a couple of interviews. Mr. Dalton and Mr. Whyte proved more than good sports, and they also offered us some interesting information. We then played games, under the enthusiastic leadership of Mrs. Batchelor. Our two hours together went very quickly.

On Wednesday, Oct. 17 at 1:30 p.m., the Board of Directors will meet at the Drop-In Centre to plan a Party Night that is scheduled for Wednesday, October 24th 8:30 - 11 p.m. Mrs. Ab Merkley at the organ will be our principle guest, and members of Morrisburg and Carninal Senior Citizen Clubs have received invitations. Admission is $1.00 a person, and there will be cards, games, dancing and music for listening. If you are post-fifty, you won't want to miss Good Companions first Party Night.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for Wed. Nov. 14th at the Civic Centre. Let's see how many of our 111 members will be present. Even the singing of the Good Companion Song is becoming an event that we thoroughly enjoy.

Greetings were sent to two members, Mrs. Gordon Robertson and to Reeve Lloyd Davis, both of whom are recuperating nicely in hospital. We want to keep in touch with our members, so don't fail to contact Betty Whyte our able Secretary in the event of illness. Also, the Executive of Good Companions has an open ear for each idea that will help us better serve the Senior generations of Iroquois and Matilda.

Canadian Club

The second meeting of the Morrisburg & District Canadian Club for this year will be held on Wed. Oct. 17th at the Morrisburg Civic Centre at 7 p.m.

Our Guest Speaker for the evening will be Dr. Max Putnam, former Moderator of the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

A native of Easton Corners near Smiths Falls, Dr. Putnam began his career by ministering to members of the Canadian Army during the Second World War both in England and Europe. In 1958 he accepted a call to St. Andrew's Church in Kingston where he currently is. He has served in all courts of the church including the office of Moderator of Synod. He has travelled throughout Canada and we will look forward to an address by him on the role and influence of the Church

Cardinal Pats is the best senior 'B' team in all of Ontario. On the beautiful Thanksgiving weekend, they defeated North Bay in 2 games to take the Senior 'B' championship, a big trophy, a pennant and crests, before a large hometown crowd.

Pats mowed down Belleville, Oshawa, Toronto and Waterloo before meeting the only team to go as far - North Bay. In 1970, Pats won the Intermediate A and last year North Bay won the Senior 'B'.

Sat. night, Pats scored 7 runs in one inning to boost them to an 8-2 win. Ted Hoy was the winning pitcher with 6 hits, 2 walks, 12 strike outs. Murray Moore took the loss with 9 hits, 1 error, 2 walks and 6 strike outs.

In the 3rd, Pats 7 runs crossed the plate on 5 hits, 1 error and 2 walks. Larry Patterson homered in the 8th inning. North Bay scored once in the 4th and once in the 5th.

Sunday afternoon, Big Doug Casselman hurled a 2 hitter, 1 error, struck out 10 to shutout North Bay 3-0 for the final game. Murray Moore took the loss with a 9 hitter, 3 walks and 3 strike outs. In the third inning, Owen Shortt doubled up centre and gained third on a wild pitch. Ed St. Louis singled to right to drive Shortt in with the first run. In the 8th, with 1 out, Gerry Morrell bunted safely, Tom Hare hit a texas league double to right field, with Mike Skakum doubling to left centre to drive Morrell & Hare in for 2 more runs. North Bay had only 4 base runners this game, on 2 singles, 1 error and a fielder's choice.
