Area Psychomatrist is Home & School Speaker

Denis Boissoneault, psychomatrist with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Board of Education was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Morrisburg and District Home and School Association held in the library of the Morrisburg Public School.

Speaking on the two forms of services offered by his department, individual testing and group testing of a whole class at once, he showed the various tests and explained how they were administered and then how these results were used.

The department is unable, due to lack of time and money, to test individually unless there is a definite problem present in the child and there is a referral by a principal of a school. Mr. Boissoneault said that in individual testing, tests are done in the areas of intelligence, perceptual and language development and personality. He said that verbal tests are very valuable.

In group tests errors are more evident than in individual tests. They are used to help in grouping children in levels of achievement and to help the teachers see where mphasis should be placed. Mr. Boissoneault recommended that parents should get in touch with the teacher and principal if they are concerned and feel that there may be a problem with the child's learning ability.

Mrs. Grace Klugman, president presided at the meeting held in the school library. The next meeting which will be the annual meeting with the election of officers will be in late April. The topic, of interest to many parents of young children, will be "Kindergarten Entry" when a kindergarten specialist, psychologists and parent will present a panel discussion. A display of work from the Wednesday afternoon option classes will also be shown by several students of the school.

YOURS SINCERELY

BY MRS. WELLWOOD ADAM

Have you ever been homesick? That is, if you have left your original "hometown" in faraway places, to settle in Canada, or left it, still in Canada, to sojourn many miles, thousands of them, in another part of this mighty land.

I know I have been homesick, from time to time, and I admit it, quite freely. The ned to see one's loved ones, and familiar scenes and friends, becomes very real indeed, and only when that feeling has passed does serenity of living resume its quiet course.

I have been told that once people have returned to their native surroundings, they come b a c k feeling more settled in spirit, and the longing is not quite so difficult to bear, as before. I have found this very true for myself but it is a surprising realism that we do not find life and living quite the same back home, as it was before we left it.

Of course, it never can be, really, for people change in looks or outlook down the years as we have done, and world values change, too, moral and otherwise. Only the physical countryside, mountains, hills, rivers and streams, lakes remain the same, as unchanging as the Almighty.

A lovely story I read a long time ago is worth telling so I near-quote it to the best of my memory: It is about a Scottish girl, name of Kathleen MacLean, married now and living in Canada. She may have been a war-bride, I don't know, but she was brought up in a place called Kingussie, in Scotland, U.K. where her parents are still living.

One Sunday evening, her father decided to record a "letter" to her on his tape-machine. The TV was on and the Scottish program was the well-loved "Songs of Praise." Now, he didn't realise the tape-recorder was picking up the sound of the TV as he spoke. Then suddenly he heard the fine voice of the Scottish singer, Kenneth McKellar and the choir of Paisley Abbey singing "All in the April Evening", (a great favorite of mine, by the way). Without really realising it, Kathleen's father stopped talking his letter to her, and listened, leaving the tape-recorder on.

When it was over, he carried on with his own message. And, you know, that unintended extra on her parent's tape to her, w a s something that Kathleen will never forget. As she listened to it in far-a-way Canada, she pictured Kingussie just as it might have been on that beautiful April evening, with the sun on the River Spey, the lambs frisking and gambolling about in the fields, her home set among the pines above the town. No wander she could not hold back the tears, for it all made her so home-sick . . . with all its memories.

Of course, a tape can be used many times, as we know but I, am sure this one with its glorious greeting from that great singer and the choir, would be kept and treasured by this Highland lassie for the remainder of her days.

Yes, being homestick for everything and everybody we have left behind, whether overseas or just outside our present boundaries, can be a moving thing, indeed. However, I feel that those of us who have treasured the lovely memories of our first home of our youth, are indeed fortunate. There are some who have only sorrow, perhaps of broken homes and unhappiness to remember, others who have lost their homes and loved ones through the terrors of wars and man's inhumanity to man . . . and would wish to forget.

Life can be a great mixture, can't it?

District Ambulance Service Ready for Emergencies . . .

In An Emergency . . .

An injury in a factory, a fall at home, the collapse of a heart victim in an office . . . suddenly someone needs immediate medical attention.

Anyone at the scene needs only to call the local Ambulance Dispatch centre for prompt, efficient assistance. The dispatcher takes the information about the casualty and the address to which the ambulance must go. The Ambulance is called into action and arrives on the scene within minutes.

A modern ambulance is not just a fast vehicle with a siren and flashing lights, racing a victim to the hospital or clinic. It's a vehicle specially designed and staffed to give the right kind of emergency care at the scene and on the way to the hospital. With a full range of modern medical equipment — oxygen tanks, splinting devices, ventilation and suction apparatus — and men trained to use it, the ambulance acts as a kind of small emergency ward on wheels.

Ambulance drivers and attendants are skilled professionals. — They have the experience and know-how to make important decisions about the best way of rescuing, treating, and handling a victim. If a victim is badly injured, they will try to stabilize his bodily condition right at the scene using all the life support equipment available to them. They position him properly, carry him to the ambulance, and drive him to the hospital or clinic as carefuliy as possible. This is important for they must make sure that no further damage is done to him through bumps and jolts from the road. In most situations, a fast am bulance ride may be the worst thing for a patient.

How to Call an Ambulance

In the Morrisburg, Iroquois, Williamsburg, Ingleside area the phone number can be found in the white pages of your phonebook under "Ambulance". The local phone number is 543-2244, or you may dial "O" and ask the operator for "zenith ninety-thousand, she will connect you with an ambulance dispatcher.

Give the dispatcher exact information about the address where you want the ambulance, so that there will be no delays in finding you. Also tell the dispatcher what seems to be wrong with the victim so the attendant will know what equipment to take from the ambulance to the victim when he arrives.

Further information about Ambulance Services in this area can be obtained by contacting: Morrisburg District Ambulance Service, P.O. Box 1030, Morrisburg.

Ministry of Natural Resources

Weekly Report

Six or seven years ago in Madoc, Ontario Bob Kirkwood was leafing through the evening paper when his eye caught a freak accident story on the sports page.

During a high school football game in Trenton, south of Madoc, a young player fell face first onto one of the white field stripes which mark off yardage, sidelines and end zones. The markings were laid down with lime. The player suffered painful burns to his eyes and face.

For Bob who had just become the new manager of the Canada Talc Industries in Madoc, a light clicked on. He had just found another use for the soft, white, slightly slippery substance his men were mining several hundred feet below the surface of Hastings County.

The small mine in Madoc now produces, under the trade name Bright Stripe most of the powdered talc used to mark off playing fields in the province. It's as gentle on the eyes and skin as baby powder. As a matter of fact, that's exactly what baby powder is—finely ground talc. Some of the whitest and purest comes from the Madoc area.

Talc, formed from heat and pressure on dolomite rock over millions of years, is 31.7 per cent magnesium oxide, 63.5 per cent silica and 4.8 per cent water and was first discovered in Hastings County in 1896. Since 1915 it has been mined continuously on the Canada Talc Industries site southeast of the town.

Six hundred feet below the plant 17 men working in several shifts blast and load chunks of raw talc into 30 cubic foot cars that run along a 24-inch gauge track to the main shaft. The ore is loaded by small air driven shovelling machines called "muckers". At the main shaft the ore is dumped onto a huge screen which separates out the larger chunks which are broken down with sledge hammers air air chippers. All the ore is then hauled to the top.

The ore is separated from the surrounding dolomite rock by drilling and blasting so that small falls of rock are created in small offshoots of the main tunnels.—This blasting and induced caving is a common mining technique in areas where the surrounding rock is stable and solid.

On the surface the ore is ground from a two inch size down to a fine powder, bagged in 50-pound paper bags and shipped from the loading dock.

There are three grades of talc—the super-fine which is like flour only slippery, the next finest which has a slightly gritty feel and the coarse which is really like very fine, soft sand.

The small mine and plant employing a total of 38 people produces 30,000 tons of talc each year which is shipped all over the world and used in amazingly common ways.

We are constantly in touch with talc.

If you are sitting in your living room now, glance around the room. The rubber heels, of your shoes, the rubber backing on your rug or underpadding, the paint on the walls, the cultured marble table top on the coffee or end table or the mantle around your fireplace all contain talc.

The toothpaste you used this morning, the aerosol can deodorant, the electric light fixtures, the terrazo tile on the floor or on the wall of the shower and bath probably contain large quantities of talc. The ink in the fountain pen on the writing desk has talc as a filler and anything made of rubber or steel may have come in contact with talc which is used as a dusting agent to prevent moulded articles from sticking to their forms.

Many of your wife's cosmetics have a talc base. Even the asphalt shingles on the roof over your head contain large quantities of talc. The mineral is also used in insecticides, paper manufacturing and as a base for pills, powders and other pharmaceutical products.

Finally, mines manager Bob Kirkwood is also partly responsible for the latest new use of the talc mined at Madoc — material for eskimo carvings. Soapstone, the traditional medium used by natives for their folk carvings, is actually a relative of talc. Recently, Bob shipped five thousand lbs. of the harder talc ore, a grey-green rock, to the people at Pond Inlet after one of their representatives visited the mine and exulted over the quality of the ore. The shipment to the north was a gift from the mine.

Gerry Thomas, natural resources regional mines engineer responsible for checking the operation regularly, was pleased with the new uses.

"Sometimes it's not necessary to have a huge research staff," he said. "Just someone who can think imaginatively."

"It's also pleasing to see these new ideas coming from the oldest mining area in Ontario," said Mr. Thomas. "Miners from around here were the ones who opened up Timmins, Kirkland Lake and Cobalt. They mined gold, iron and fluorspar here decades before the north was opened. This Madoc area is dotted with the remains of dozens of old mines."

The talcum powder used by grandmother and even the marking chalk used by tailors, called French talc, may have almost disappeared from the modern scene, but the substance continues to be used in new and more imaginative ways.

The chief talc producing countries in the world are the United States, Japan, France, Italy, Austria, Norway and Germany. Besides Madoc, Canada produces talc in only three to four other locations, mainly in Quebec.

COMING EVENT

The Glenora Fisheries Station, one of the major fish research centres in Ontario, will hold an Open House Wednesday, March 27. The research centre, located in a century old stone foundry building overlooking the Picton ferry operation in Prince Edward County, will be open from 1 to 10 p.m.

A broad range of native fish species will be on display in the aquarium gallery and conservation films will be shown. The activities and program of the station will be discussed and the show will emphasize the ways in which research contributes to the Ministry of natural resources to improve fishing.

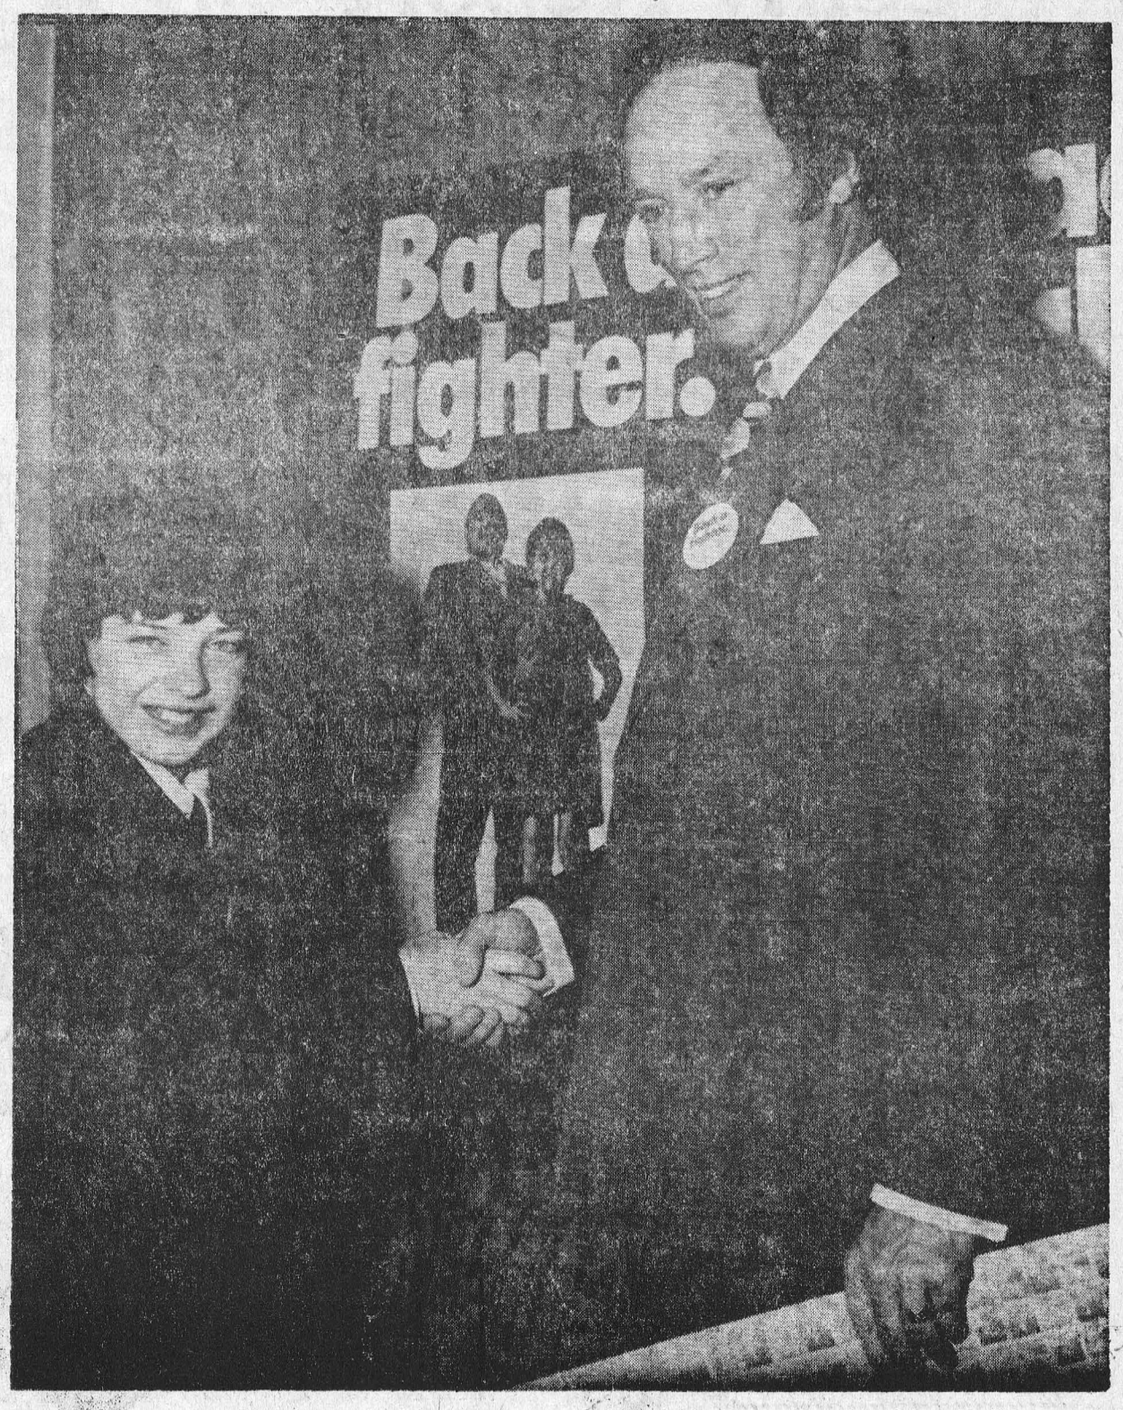
Prime Minister Trudeau Buys Easter Seals



With a big smile and a warm handshake, 11-year-old Billy Lynch thanks Prime Minister Trudeau for his purchase of the first sheet of Easter Seals in Ottawa last Monday.

The young Belleville lad, who is Ontario's "Timmy" for 1974, flew to the capital where he and the Prime Minister visited a "stuffing bee" organized by the local Rotary club and spoke to hundreds of volunteers busily engaged in stuffing campaign envelopes with Easter Seals and appeal letters in preparation for the huge mailing to prospective donors in the area.

During an informal stroll through the busy work room in the Chateau Laurier, the Prime Minister chatted with a number of the volunteers and took time out to sit down and stuff some envelopes himself.

At a brief luncheon during the volunteers mid-day break, the Prime Minister paid tribute to the efforts of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and stressed the continued need for all Canadians to become more involved in community endeavours in an attempt to change or improve existing conditions where such change is needed.

To meet the changing needs of more than 13,000 handicapped youngsters throughout this province, the Ontario Society for Crippled Children must raise $1,800,000 during the campaign period which runs from March 14 until Easter Sunday, April 14.

FINAL TRIBUTE FOR ROBERT GUY STRADER

Final tribute was paid to the memory of Robert Guy Strader, a well known Williamsburg resident, at his funeral held in Williamsburg United Church, on Thursday, March 14th. His minister, Rev. D. L. Gordon, assisted by Rev. G. W. Bruce of Morrisburg United Church, conducted the service.

As briefly reported in the last issue, Mr. Strader passed away suddenly at his home on Monday last following a coronary attack.

A quiet, kindly man, his last employment was at Upper Canada Village, where he delighted thousands of young visitors from all over the world with rides in the ox cart.

Mr. Strader was born in Matilda Township on August 10th 1904, a son of the late Robert Bruce Strader and his wife, the former Minnie Loucks. He received his education in the area schools and on April 30th, 1924, was married at Dundela to the former Alma Lois Jaycox, who survives. They farmed in the area for many years before Mr. Strader took up the less deamnding tasks at The Village.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Ward Kennedy (Mary) at Downsview, Ont.; two grandchildren, Barry and Mary Strader. He was predeceased by his son, Donald, in 1966, and by a brother, Philip in 1967.

Interment will be in the spring at Dundela United Church cemetery.

WATTS FROM WAST-

Toronto garbage collected in some routine pickups will be going back into homes and businesses in a new form — electrical energy — in late '76 or early '77.

During a two-year pilot study, Ontario Hydro will be burning 500 tons of processed garbage a day in one unit at Lakeview generating station in Mississauga. Separation of combustible material from reusable glass and metal and other non-burning content will be handled at an $11.5 million Metropolitan Toronto owned plant being built near Toronto International Airport. The pulverized result will be trucked 10 miles to Lakeview, where Hydro will keep detailed financial and operating records to determine the net value of processed waste as fuel. Modifications to Lakeview costing $3.5 million are expected to be covered by the provincial government, which will also contribute $1.5 million to the separation plant.

A Watts from Waste study team has predicted that the station could ultimately burn about 10% of Toronto's garbage, which now amounts to 1.6 million tons a year.

Up With the Jones Family Through ARDA's Program

John Jones is a thirty-five-year-old farmer with a young family. His farm is typical in eastern Ontario — a one-hundred-and-fifty-acre dairy unit. Seventy-five acres of the farm are cultivated and the remainder is rough pasture. It is a good farm, well kept and well managed. It carries a moderate mortagage for fifty percent of its value.

The problem confronting this farmer is his inability to expand and thus increase his income. Additional land is available. A neighbor has suggested that he would like to retire and continue to live in his farm home. But to buy this land would mean a cash outlay far in excess of available funds. Aside from the original purchase price of the farm there are other costs that would have to be considered. The barn on this farm needs a new roof. Line fences on all sides are poor and must be replaced. Several ditches need to be cleaned and, in some instances, tile drains laid. This is a good farm, with good land, but to get it back into shape will require a lot of hard work and considerable cash outlay.

Mr. Janes must expand to improve his income, so that he can provide adequately for a growing family and to accumulate moderate reserves for eventual retirement. In addition, he looks forward to the day when he will have more laborsaving machinery on the farm and a minimum of modernization for his home. This all costs money.

Since 1965 a jointly-sponsored Federal - Provincial program known as ARDA has been buying neighboring farms and leasing them to full-time farmers. It is a simple, straightforward business arrangement. The farmer who wants to stay in farming and sees the need for expansion, contacts the local ARDA office. A counsellor visits the farms involved. If the need is justified and the property is purchased at market price, the transaction is completed. If, for example, Mr. Jones applied to ARDA, he could rent his neighbor's farm on a five-year lease arrangement with a renewal clause at a very modest interest rate. Further, Mr. Jones could buy the farm from ARDA anytime during the first ten years of the contract at the original purchase price. In addition, fifty dollars per acre is available for land improvements.

Twenty-five hundred Ontario farmers have taken advantage of this ARDA program since its inception. Like Mr. Jones, they needed to enlarge their operations. Also, like Mr. Jones, they needed all their spare cash and unused credit to purchase machinery to effectively utilize their additional acreage.

ARDA's leasing facilities have provided a hand up the ladder for many hundreds of Ontario's food producers. Public involvement in the leasing of good agricultural land to farmers may be an important factor in the well-being of future generations.

REPORT FROM QUEEN'S PARK

BY DON IRVINE
M.P.P. for Grenville - Dundas

Address: Frost Building South, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario. M7A 1Y7. Telephone: 416-965-6901.

The federal and provincial government of Ontario combined forces last week to initiate a program that will increase and improve the quality of job opportunities within the slower growth areas of the province.

The General Development Agreement (GDA) represents a welcomed improvement in the scope and style of federal assistance in Ontario. Until now federal economic aid in this province could be described largely as reactive —that is, responsive to requests from private sector initiatives.— Such help was welcomed, of course, but it was never a subject of consultation between our two governments. Consequently, it was impossible for us to integrate this assistance into our long-range regional planning strategy.

The General Development Agreement is intended to serve as an umbrella for future "subsidiary agreements" or "action pacts" which will basically be carried out in Northern and Eastern Ontario.

Cornwall will the first to benefit. The two governments will contribute $14 million in grants (on a 50/50 basis) towards programs that will stimulate industrial growth and develop the tourist potential of the city and area.

For example. funds have been allocated for thhe completion of the industrial park at the eastern end of the city and a single-industry site, including barge, dock and rail facilities at the western end. In addition plans are being made for a civic centre complex, development of the canal lands and a new tourism and recreation area.

To compliment these projects, Transport Canada will build a new training institute in Cornwall which will accommodate some 800 students.

Cornwall is a major urban centre in Eastern Ontario. It is a city of great potential with an economic and cultural base that will benefit all communities in the St. Lawrence Valley.

This is the first of a series of "action pacts" which will stimulate economic growth in communities of Eastern Ontario. Other agreements involving regions within Northern Ontario are under discussion.

There are many single-industry communities in Northern Ontario. For these communities grants would be welcomed to allow for advance planning where a non-renewable resource on the verge of exhaustion.

Transportation is a major problem of the north. Particularly air transport. In these areas airstrips can be built more rapidly than highway and an agreement to cooperate in a program to construct or extend an airstrip may be concluded.

In the North and here in the East, top priority will be given to programs tailored to suit each region's socio-economic situation. A first in federal-provincial relations

THIS WEEK FROM OTTAWA

Economy in good shape

Finance Minister John Turner told the House of Commons that Canada's economic record in '73 outranks most countries in the world. The Gross National Product grew at a rate of 7.1 percent 430,000 new jobs were created — 130,000 more than predicted in the last budget; unemployment declined to 5.6 percent as compared with 6.3 percent in 1972.

Exports, housing starts, business capital investment and consumer spending all showed substantial gains over 1972.

The minister said that "the Canadian economy today is the envy of the world".

Competition Policy

The federal government's competition legislation was reintroduced in the House of Commons by Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Herb Gray.

The bill would forbid misleading advertising and give consumers protection on guarantees and warranties.

Bread Prices

Following a request by Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Herb Gray, five bakery companies across the country have agreed to hold back on price increases on bread.

Steinberg's Weston, Corporate Foods, A & P and Safeway will reduce their anticipated price increases on bread by 1-2 cents. This action is a direct result of a recommendation by the Food Prices Review Board.

More People Employed

Statistics Canada reported that 25,000 more Canadians had jobs in February than a month ago.

The unemployment rate, seasonally adjusted, in February remained unchanged at 5.5 percent from January.

Pensions Go Up

Old-age pensions will increase from $108.14 to $110.99 for single persons and from $216.28 to $220.18 for marrieds. This will be their second quarterly increase since the federal government tied old-age pensions to changes in the cost of living.

APRIL AID

The income tax help system and how to make it work for you.

As you know by now, we changed a lot of things last year. We gave you a new return, a new Guide, several new deductions and a few new rules. And quite honestly, we were more than a little concerned about your reaction to it all. (And very, very interested in your opinions.)

Well, now that we've had time to really look back at it and assess it honestly, it appears that most taxpayers did not seem to find it too difficult. The error rate did not accelerate greatly or change drastically from former years. Generally, most taxpayers seemed to handle their new returns fairly well.

However, Income Tax will never be the easiest or most enjoyable thing in anyone's life. And it will always present problems in some areas, for some people. That's expected and understandable.

So. What we want to do now is really work on those problem areas. And the best way to do that is to work with you, individually, on whatever part of Income Tax that causes you difficulty.

And that's what April Aid is all about. It's a help system and its primary objective is to ensure that whenever or whatever you need help with, you can get it. And know how to get it.

INCOME TAX GUIDE

And this is how it works:

First. Your Guide is always the best answer when you have a problem. Read it. Follow it. It not only gives explanations, but in many cases, examples of just how to figure something out.

Second. If you're still confused or something just doesn't seem to work, phone. The number of your own District Taxation Office is below and at the end of that number there are people whose only job is to help taxpayers with problems, by telephone. And on Mondays and Tuesdays phone lines are open 'til 6 p.m. So don't hesitate.

If you live outside the office area, call the Operator and ask for Zenith 0-4000. She will automatically connect you to your own District Taxation Office. Remember, all calls are free, all questions are answered, and if you have queries, we want you to call.

DROP IN

Third. Some people prefer to talk things over in person. If you're one of them and have problems, drop by for free help. Anytime. The address of your District Taxation Office is below.

Fourth. Write. To the address below. Explain your problem as clearly as possible and include all information. (And your return address, please.) In return, we'll answer all letters as quickly and clearly as possible. Remember—if you need help, it's there. (And free). And all you have to do is ask.

April Aid.
The Income Tax help system.
Let's make it work for you.

Together, we can get it done.

TODAY'S HEALTH

Medicine is Good for Us

Advances in medicine are helping people to live longer. Ontario has more than 600,000 people in the over-65 age group — and the number is increasing rapidly. — Some estimates suggest that by the year 2000, the over-60 group will represent the majority of our population. (So if you're over 34 now, start thinking!)

Our youth-worshipping society tends to dismiss or ignore the aged perhaps as living reminders of our own mortality; and because of life's accelerating pace and modern learning's rapid obsolescence, age is no longer associated with wisodm.

Not only that, but our ever-greater mobility often results in the older generation getting left behind — it's exeptional today to see two or more adult generations of a family living under the same roof.

Some, of course, are able to stay at home and to look after their own needs. Others require assistance — a lot or a little. For those who are healthy, there are Homes for the Aged, or the Ontario Ministry of Health's Home care program, which offers visits from nurses or help with minor difficulties.

For those who require reglar daily nursing care, Ontario's 417 nursing homes represent an alternative to being hospitalized. And today's nursing homes are much more than simply repositories for the elderly.

There seems to be a growing awareness that older people have emotional and recreational needs as well as physical ones . . . and that they have a claim to a retirement enriched with interests rather than stifled with solitude. Married couples are able to go on living together.

In Ontario, the term 'nursing home' can only be applied to those institutions licensed under the Nursing Homes Act (April 1972). To qualify for admission you have to need at least 1½ hours of nursing and personal care daily (though not so much that hospitalization is necessary)., and your doctor must complete an application for the extended care benefits covered by OHIP. Incidentally, these benefits only apply if you have been living in Ontario for at least the past year.

A minimum of 75 per cent of Ontario's 23,000 nursing home beds come under the program. An up-to-date list of nursing home addresses can be obtained from the Ministry of Health, Nursing Home Inspection, 880 Bay Street, Toronto M5S 1Z8.

There are waiting lists for admission at many nursing homes, and once you're in, eligibility to stay is reassessed at six-month intervals. Health insurance (OHIP) pays $10.50 a day for each resident. The individual contributes from $4.50 a day (for standard ward accommodation) up to $11.50 a day (for a private or semi-private room), depending on the type of accommodation chosen.

In seeking a nursing home, consider its location and surroundings its medical, nursing and recreational facilities — and make sure it's licensed by the Ontario Ministry of Health.

It's not easy to adjust to the new lifestyle of a nursing home—but the homes themselves are trying to make it less difficult. At one Toronto nursing home I visited, the 200 residents have TV lounges, regular bingo games, parties, exercise programs, a library and learning opportunities in a variety of arts and crafts.

The one-storey building is bright and colorfully decorated, and the service includes accommodation, food, laundry and recreational facilities — as well as 24-hour registered nursing care in three shifts. Nursing Home standards are subject to regular assessment for continuing licensure.

The ideal situation exists when our older people can be cared for by relatives in a family environment. The alternative, especially where there are inadequate facilities at home and no need for hospital care, is the nursing home. And the nursing home today is emphasizing the home aspect of caring for the aged as much as the nursing part.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

The wistful look typifies Michael's attitude towards life. He hopes for a stable future after an unsettled past, but because of that past he finds it difficult to trust people

At 12 Michael is healthy and extremely handsome with light brown hair and blue eyes. His background is Anglo-Saxon.

Pleasant and outgoing in manner, Michael meets people easily though he does not take the initiative with new acquaintances. He gets on well with children and with one adult at a time but is not happy in groups supervised by adults. However, he does join in group activities and he belongs to Scouts.

Michael is in a treatment centre which has helped a great deal with his emotional problems and the staff now feel he is ready to become part of a family.

In school Michael is in Grade 5. He is average in intelligence but needs remedial help in some subjects.

When Michael feels at ease with people, he is alert and interested and enthusiastic. He loves camping. Hockey is his favorite sport and his hobby is model cars. He is fond of all animals.

Recently Michael visited a television studio and was fascinated by how the cameras work. In turn, the cameramen were impressed by how quickly he absorbed the intricacies of the complicated equipment.

Michael needs parents who will want to give him much time and attention and who can be understanding and patient while he learns to trust them.

To inquire about adopting Michael, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2.

A point by point primer on how to lose your driver's licence.

It's actually quite simple.
All you do is accumulate fifteen demerit points and lose your licence for thirty days. Do it again and lose your licence for six months.

In this province, it definitely pays a driver to score a big fat zero. Ontario's demerit point system is designed to convince the poor driver to drive properly. Drivers who do not improve are then taken from the road because they're a menace to pedestrians and to other drivers.

But the system is not at all unjust.

It's aimed at telling the driver where he's gone wrong and giving him plenty of time to correct his faults.

For instance. When you've accumulated six points, you'll be notified and urged to improve your driving.

When you've got nine, you'll probably be asked to attend a private interview and re-do your driving test.

At fifteen points, you'll lose your licence for thirty days and drop back to seven points. Get fifteen again and you won't drive for six months.

However, your record won't be indelibly marked. If you drive for two years without a traffic conviction your points are erased and your slate is clean.

How Demerit Points Accumulate:

7 points	Failing to remain at scene of an accident (Highway Traffic Act).
6 points	Careless driving. Racing.	Exceeding speed limit by 30 m.p.h. or more.
5 points	Driver of bus failing to stop at unprotected railway crossings.
4 points	Exceeding the speed limit by 20 to 29 m.p.h. Failing to stop for school bus. Following too closely.
3 points	Exceeding speed limit by 11 to 19 m.p.h. Driving through, around or under railway crossing barrier. Failing to yield right of way. Failing to obey a stop sign, signal light or railway crossing signal.	Failing to obey directions of police officer. Failing to report an accident to a police officer. Improper passing. Crowding driver's seat. Wrong way on one-way street or highway.
2 points	Failing to lower headlamp beam. Improper opening of vehicle door. Prohibited turns. Towing of persons on toboggans, bicycles, skis, etc. prohibited.	Failing to obey signs other than those mentioned above. Pedestrian cross-over. Failing to share road. Improper right turn. Improper left turn. Failing to signal. Unnecessary slow driving.

The whole point is to score nothing, keep your record clean and drive happily ever after.
