Local Boy Fatally Injured On Monday

Lloyd Wylie, 11-year-old son of Mrs. Glen Wylie and the late Mr. Wylie, was fatally injured when he fell off a corn wagon at the farm of Mr. Roy Annable, one mile north of Winchester, about 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

The young lad was visiting at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clive Rennick, who reside on Mr. Annable's farm, when the accident occurred. With other children, he was riding on a corn wagon, driven by Mr. Clarence Scott. As the vehicle approached the silo to be unloaded, the boy fell off unnoticed. After the wagon had proceeded about twenty feet, one of the other youngsters noticed Lloyd lying on the ground and hollered to Mr. Roy Annable, who went over and picked him up. The body was lifeless. Dr. C. J. Locke was summoned and after examining the boy, found that he had suffered a severe fractured skull, broken neck and serious scalp wounds. In his opinion, death was instantaneous. Dr. Locke notified the County Coroner, Dr. T. A. Hamilton, of Brinstons, who, after examining the body and hearing the evidence of those present at the scene of the accident, decided that an inquest was not necessary.

In the opinion of the physicians, the tween the wheel and the wagon rack when he fell off, or the wagon wheel boy's head either became caught bepassed over his head after he landed on the ground.

Besides his mother, who was the former Evelyn Ellis, he leaves two sisters, Norma and Frances. His father was killed in an auto accident a few years ago at the town-line corner, west of Winchester.

The funeral was held at two o'clock yesterday afternoon from the family residence to the United Church, where service was conducted by Rev. Dr. T. A. Halpenny.

Interment was made at Maple Ridge Cemetery. The pall bearers were: Norman Utman, Gordon Fader, Lyle Redmond, Carl Freeland, Bill Crummy and Earl Empey.

Hunting Regulations Announced By Dept.

Hunting regulations for the 1941 season continuing the bag limit at 12 ducks and 5 geese a day in all provinces have been announced by the Department of Mines and Resources. The new regulations make the minimum restriction upon the hunting of migratory birds consistent with the general conditions of these birds throughout the continent, and follow generally the principles adopted in 1936 when regulations were revised to meet the serious depletion of waterfowl caused by drought in the prairie nesting grounds, and by over shooting. This law is based upon a Treaty with the United States, the object of which is to conserve migratory birds and waterfowl, including ducks and geese, which, because of their migratory nature, belong to both countries. The ban against the use of live decoys continues, and season bag limits for both ducks and geeese are set for each of the provinces. In the Maritime Provinces, Ontario and Quebec, the closed season on Brant continues and in Alberta and the Northwest Territories a closed season on the Ross's goose is provided.

Basil Johnston Killed In Toronto Accident

When the bicycle on which he was riding was struck by a truck at Toronto on Friday morning, Basil Johnston, 33, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnston, of Toronto, and formerly of this district, was fatally injured. The young man was on his way to work in a Toronto industrial plant when the accident occurred. He died almost instantly.

Having visited this district on several occasions, he was well-known, and his many friends will regret to learn of his tragic death.

His mother was the former Miss Pearl Hutt, of Inkerman.

Besides his parents, he leaves a wife and three children, also two brothers, Mervyn and Alvin.

The funeral was held at Toronto on Sunday. Relatives from this district, who attended, included Mrs. John Redmond, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rennick, Mrs. D. Hurley, Mr. Stanley Rennick and Mr. Wm. Hutt.

Record Crop of Potatoes Harvested Here

Mr. A. W. Beach has just harvested what he considers a record crop of Irish Cobbler Potatoes. From 15 bags of certified seed, planted on approximately one-half acre of ground, he has produced 375 bags of the finest potatoes to be seen anywhere. That is 25 bags raised from each bag of seed planted—can anyone beat it? Maybe Andy Clark can dig up a better record—but we doubt it.

Talking of Tomatoes!

That giant tomato reported by Andy Clark in a recent Sunday morning broadcast, has nothing on what Metcalfe gardens can produce, as Mrs. Jas. D. Cameron has a specimen still growing which measures 19 1-2 inches in circumference, by 14 1-2 inches, and weighs a fraction over 2 lbs. Of the Oxheart variety, there are several other "heavyweights" in the plot.

Native of Winchester Passes at Morrisburg

Ada Laflamme, wife of John P. Gormely, postmaster, who since her marriage in New York in 1907, has been one of Morrisburg's most estimable and active women, died at her home there on Saturday night, after a long illness. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, with services conducted by her brother, Rev. Dr. A. F. Laflamme, of New York. Burial was made in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

In addition to the brother, there are three sisters, Mrs. C. F. Smith, St. Marys, Ont.; Mrs. A. A. Smith, Cornwall; and Mrs. A. T. McArthur, Rocky Mountain House, Alberta.

Paul Gormely, of the Reportorial staff of the Ottawa Citizen, is a son, being the only child.

Mrs. Gormley was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Laflamme, of Winchester, in which village she was born. She trained as a nurse in Long Island Hospital, New York, and nursed in the Spanish-American War in Florida. During part of her illness she was a patient in one of the Brockville hospitals. Her death has stirred the sympathy of the whole community.

Williamsburg Man Drowned Near Ottawa

Apparently falling from a boat while trolling, B. Roy Casselman, aged 39 years, of Williamsburg, residing at 146 Hopewell, Ottawa, a clerk in the income tax branch of the Department of National Revenue and a former school teacher, was drowned in Lake Deschenes, near The Cedars, on Saturday.

Mr. Casselman and his wife had been spending the summer at the residence of Mrs. Casselman's father, George Tennant of the Post Office Department, near The Cedars, a short distance from Queens Park, and it was about a mile from the cottage, up the lake from Mr. Tennant's home, that the drowning occurred.

Mr. Casselman left Mr. Tennant's home in a rowboat, about nine o'clock Saturday morning to troll in the lake, and it was expected he would return about noon for dinner. When he had not come back by two o'clock, Mrs. Casselman and Mr. Tennant went out in another rowboat to look for the missing fishermen.

After going about a mile upstream, they found the boat which Mr. Casselman had taken, floating close to the shore. Looking toward the shore, they found the man's body in two and a half feet of water. Dr. H. B. Church, of Aylmer, was notified and pronounced him dead. Dr. Joseph Isabelle, coroner, found that death was due to accidental drowning and decided that an inquest would not be necessary.

Whether Mr. Casselman lost his balance and fell while standing in the boat, or suffered a weak turn and tumbled out is not known. When the body was removed from the water, it was noticed that the man's forehead bore a bruise. He had been in apparent good health.

Bernice Roy Casselman was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Casselman, of Williamsburg. He was born on May 31st, 1902, in Williamsburg, and received his education there. He taught school in Williamsburg before going to the Capital to join the Civil Service.

Married Year Ago.

He married Marjorie D. Tennant in Ottawa a year ago last Thursday. Mrs. Casselman is an employe of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Casselman was a member of Lodge 430, A. F. and A. M., at Williamsburg, and attended St. Peter's Lutheran Church there. While in Ottawa, he attended McLeod United Church.

Besides his parents and his wife, he leaves two brothers, Clifford and Aden, both of Williamsburg, and a sister, Miss Mabel B. Casselman, also of Williamsburg.

The body was removed to Williamsburg Sunday evening for a service at the home of his parents on Monday afternoon. Later, the body was returned to Ottawa and Rev. Dr. A. E. M. Thomson, of McLeod United Church, conducted a service at the Radmore Stewart Funeral Home, Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Burial was made in Beechwood cemetery.

Yesterday Was Second Anniversary of War

Yesterday marked the second anniversary of Britain's declaration of War on Germany. After two years of conflict, Germany finds herself with her back to the wall, while Britain and her Allies are stronger and are providing stiffer resistance to the Nazi threat each day. If any person has a reason to worry about the final outcome of this war, it is Hitler, because he never dreamed that any nation could stand up to the German War Machine more than a few months at the longest. The British Lion has taught him different and will continue to give him lessons until he, and all that he stands for, is crushed and wiped from the face of the earth. The job is by no means complete, but the "British Will" to fight will bring the desired results in due course, make no mistake about that.

CHESTERVILLE HELD SUCCESSFUL FAIR

Fine weather prevailed for Chesterville's Annual Fair, held Tuesday and Wednesday, and reports from those who attended from this district, indicate that the Exhbition was a big success. Entries were heavy in the several live stock classes and competition was keen. The horse races, which featured yesterday afternoon's program, provided some thrilling sport for the race fans who were present in large numbers. The different heats saw some close finishes and the several other attractions were equally enjoyed.

Search River For Body of Young Farmer

Boats from both the American and Canadian side are dragging in the St. Lawrence river near Aultsville, for the body of Lloyd Wells, East Williamsburg farmer, who disappeared on Monday while fishing.

Wells is said to have set out alone early in the morning to fish from a rowboat. Monday afternoon the overturned rowboat was found near Speen island, opposite Aultsville.

All the available boats in the Aultsville district set out on the search, and it continued all Monday afternoon until late that night. After dark, the searchers used night lights in the hope of locating the body beneath the water. The Aultsville searchers were joined later by boat-owners from the American side.

The seach was being continued yesterday, but up until noon there was no trace of Wells' body.. It was hoped it would be found on the shelf of rock which runs along the edge of the deeper channel in the river.

Wells, 27 years old, lived on the family farm about 2 1-2 miles west of Aultsville. His father is dead, but his mother lived with him on the homestead. Just about a year ago he married Miss Mary Murdock, of Morrisburg. He also has three brothers and three sisters.

Another Winchester Boy Sentenced To Penitentiary

Sequel to a series of car thefts and robberies in Dundas and Lanark counties, early in the summer, Lloyd Bilow, of this place, was sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary, when he pleaded guilty to the charges before a Cornwall judge last week.

Bilow was arraigned in court at Morrisburg two weeks ago, but at that time pleaded not guilty and was sent up for trial in a higher court. In the meantime, he decided to change his plea and was given a special hearing before the judge, who imposed a sentence similar to the one received by his accomplice, Lloyd Rennick.

At the Morrisburg hearing, evidence against Bilow was given by Provincial from June 15th last. Other charges laid Constable Wannell.

The sentences of both young men date by police in Western Ontario, will either be dropped or dealt with when the accused complete the sentences meted out to them in the Counties' Court, according to information received by local police.

Mountain Fair Opens Today

The 49th annual fair, sponsored by Mountain Agricultural Society, opens for a two-day run at South Mountain today, and, with fair weather, promises to be one of the finest exhibitions ever staged by the Society.

Tomorrow (Friday) will be the big day and a fine program of entertainment is in store for those who attend. The officials and their committees have gone to much trouble to improve the event and offer exhibits in garden produce, W. I. work, cattle and horses, and harness races that will be sure to please.

For amusement there will be a midway on the electrically lighted grounds and grandstand performance by the Westward Ho Cowboys on Friday, followed by a dance.

Again the loud speaker system will be used to announce race results, winners in the various classes, and provide band music.

The race track has been put into first class shape and some fast heats should be in order.

Mountain Fair is the only surviving event of its kind to be held in Dundas County, and is worthy of all the support local and district citizens can give it. Chesterville also holds an annual fair, but prizes are only offered on live stock. At South Mountain, there is competition in garden, field crops, domestic, ladies' work, and other departments, in addition to the live stock classes.

Admission prices on Friday are 35 cents for adults, with public school pupils being admitted free. Mr. D. Leroy Berry is the president and Mr. R. E. Robinson, secretary, of Mountain Agricultural Society.

District Couple United In Marriage

A wedding of local interest took place at the bride's home, Mountain Township, last Thursday afternoon, when Rev. D. W. Summers united in marriage Mrs. Dorothea Jones to Mr. Andrew Fawcett. The ceremony was witnessed by Mr and Mrs. Rowat Jones, son and daughter-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Fawcett was the widow of the late Gordon Jones, her maiden name being Dorothea Empey. Mr. Fawcett's first wife died several years ago.

WHAT IS FREEDOM?

Because freedom is threatened these days, and it is one of the things we are determined to preserve at any cost, many of us talk about freedom, but comparatively few of us have tried to define freedom. It is a subject that should have far more than superficial consideration.

Writing in Editor and Publisher, a magazine for newspaper executives, published in the United States, Hazel Parker comments on this subject as follows:

Words like freedom, justice and truth—all of them hard to define, none of them is used more frequently than freedom.

You cannot say what freedom is, perhaps, in a single sentence. It is not necessary to define it. It is enough to point to it.

Freedom is a man lifting a gate latch at dusk and sitting for a while on the porch, smoking his pipe, before he goes to bed.

It is the violence of an argument ouside an election poll; it is righteous anger of the pulpits.

It is the warm laughter of a girl on a park bench.

It is the rush of a train over the continent and the unafraid faces of the people looking out the windows.

It is all the howdys in the world, and all the hellos.

It is Westbrook Pegler telling Roosevelt how to raise his children; it is Roosevelt letting them raise themselves.

It is Lindbergh's appeasing voice raised above a thousand hisses.

It is Dorothy Thompson asking for war; it is General Hugh S. Johnson asking her to keep quiet.

It is the sea breaking on wide sands somewhere and the shoulders of a mountain supporting the sky.

It is the air you fill your lungs with and the dirt that is in your garden.

It is a man cursing all cops.

It is the absence of apprehension at the sound of approaching footsteps outside your closed door.

It is all the things you do and want to keep on doing.

It is your hot resentment of intrigue, the tilt of your chin and the tightening of your lips sometimes.

It is all the things you feel and cannot help feeling.

Freedom—it is you.

SUMMER IS FADING AWAY

Spinning serenely on its way with its freight of fretful and warring mankind, Old Earth approaches the moment when the day and the night for all the globe will be of equal hours, except at the Poles, where twilight will last the clock round. Summer is fading away.

In anticipation, each day shaves a minute or two off its allowance of sunlight and forfeits it to the night. The days are shorter and the returning vacationists sadly note the fact. The sun contracting its path in the sky in the Northern Hemisphere as it sinks southward, is above the horizon less than fourteen hours, as against fifteen in June. Twelve hours of day and twelve hours of night will be the allotment when a few weeks hence, the sun traverses the Equator.

Three months later daylight will last approximately nine hours and only those "down under" can be tan addicts.

Even Old Earth can't please all the people all the time. Many persons are sorry o see summer wane in spite of its heat waves, its humidity, its wide-open radios blaring of more war. Yet life on this planet would be an experience strangely different and far less interesting were it not that the axis on its spin tipped toward the North Star, causes the sun to lavish its favours six months on the Northern hemisphere and six months on the Southern, carving the year into four seasons, each possessed of its own charm.

MEN

Men are what women marry. They are divided into three classes: Husbands, Bachelors and Widowers.

A bachelor is a man whose mind is filled with obstinacy and whose soul is filled with suspicion.

Husbands are of three varieties: Prizes, surprises and consolation prizes.

Making a husband out of a man is one of the highest arts known to civilization. It requires science, patience, persistence, faith, hope and charity.

If you flatter a man you frighten him to death; if you don't you bore him to death. If you permit him to make love to you he gets tired of you in the end; if you don't, he gets tired of you in the beginning. If you believe all he tells you, he thinks you are foolish; and if you don't then he thinks you are a cynic.

If you wear gay colors, rouge and startling hats he hesitates to take you out; if you wear a little brown turban and a tailor-made suit he takes you out and stares at you; if you drink and smoke, he says you are driving him to destruction; if you don't approve, he avows you are snobbish. If you are the clinging vine type, he doubts whether you have any brains; and if you are modern, advanced, intelligent, he doubts whether you have any heart. If you are silly, he longs for a bright mate; and if you are intelligent and brilliant he longs for a playmate..

Men are like worms in the grass, they wriggle around a bit and then some chicken grabs them off.

"SMOKERS' CARELESSNESS"

"Smokers' Carelessness" caused by far the largest percentage of the 46,629 fires in Canada which destroyed property worth $22,735,264 in 1940 and this fact again emphasized the need for greater vigilance in the battle against this needless waste by fire, it is asserted in a statement released by the Canadian Underwriters' Association.

Nearly 30 per cent. of the total fires last year were attributable to this cause. The property lost as a result was worth $1,118,605.

Outside of fires originating from unknown causes ((5,876, involving the destruction of property worth $10,560,212), stoves, furnaces, boilers and stovepipes started 4,988 fires and the property loss from this cause totalled $2,057,428.

Third on the list of causes were defective and overheated chimneys and flues. Against this heading were listed 4,321 fires with property loss of $1,220,864, followed by explosions caused by fireworks, friction, hot grease or metal, steam and hot water pipes which were responsible for 3,670 fires causing property damage of $1,645,378.

Electrical wiring and appliances caused 2,826 fires and property loss of $1,760.276.

CHURCH ADVERTISING

That churches do not do enough advertising is the belief of Rev. Stuart Parker, of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, who, when addressing the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church said: "I may be ahead of my time, but I believe large scale advertising for church purposes will come, even with huge posters. Money must be spent in order to get money. Do you expect it will simply come to us? The situation must be remedied, but not with traditional means. Publicity is needed and don't let anyone speak of the vulgarity of giving Christ and His cause proper publicity. A minister of the gospel is not a collector of funds, but he is a teacher of spiritual devotion to Christ which will make his people givers."

A WARTIME PRAYER

Saviour, to Whom none ever called in vain,
To Thee we pray;
Grant to our loved ones Thy protective care
By night and day;
When dangers lurk, midst battle's raging din,
O! be Thou nigh, and give them peace within.

For all at home, who watch in anxious care,
We too would pray:
Be Thou their comfort, their sustaining power,
Through each dark day;
Till right shall triumph, war and hatred cease,
And man with man shall live in righteous peace.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Then again, the initals of the Nazi news agency, DNB, could mean "Do Not Believe."

"School Days, School Days, Dear Old Golden Rule Days," are back again, but Junior says the school bell is just a signal to "return to prison."

Maybe so, but it's a good prison to attend, as Junior will find out a little later on in life.

It is a pity that most of us travel so far along the road of life before we discover that it is a one-way street. If we found that out earlier we should not waste so much time worrying about the past. Don't put your headlamps where your rear light ought to be.

Give yourself a little surprise now and again by doing something on the spur of the moment—something unplanned and unexpected. To obey a happy impulse occasionally is a tonic and stimulus to the mind—and if the impulse is one that brings unexpected pleasure to a friend, its good effect is doubled.

Children rarely begin to feel afraid, even in situations of great danger, unless they first see signs of fear in the adults around them. You can make a child really afraid of a harmless thing, merely by pretending to be afraid of it yourself. Remember these points if you have to look after children in time of danger.

You may have made an awful fool of yourself yesterday—but that is no reason why you should make a bigger fool of yourself today by wasting the day in vain regrets and self-recriminations. Face up to life and get on with the job of living—then you will stand a reasonable chance of not making quite such a fool of yourself tomorrow.

Human character is moulded by a thousand subtle influences; by example and precept. by life and literature; by friends and neighbours; by the world we live in, as well as by the spirit of our forefathers, whose legacy of good words and deeds we inherit. But great, unquestionably, though these influences are acknowledged to be, it is nevertheless equally clear that men must necessarily be the active agents of their own well-being and well-doing, and that, however much the wise and good owe to others, they themselves must in the very nature of things be their own best helpers.

The fact that hay fever is behind schedule should not lead victims of this distressing malady to hug the delusion that they are immune from sneezing attacks this year. Counts by the provincial Department of Health show that the air has been remarkably free from pollen so far this year, but with grim cheerfulness the officials say it is only delayed and the hay fever producer will be along later. Climatic conditions and the prevalence of south west winds has had much to do with the absence of pollen. A contributing factor too has been the vigorous steps taken in the past few years in the elimination of rag weed.

SHORTER JOURNEYS

(Ottawa Journal)

Some observers tell us motor traffic on the highways is distinctly less than before the gasoline regulations became effective. Others say that in urban and suburban areas they see little difference. It may be that most motorists are taking short trips instead of long ones.

WE HOPE SO

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

It is now admitted that Russia is going to make the Hun fight a winter campaign. And if Napoleon were around he could tell Hitler and his gangsters what a winter campaign in Russia is like. History may repeat itself in and around Moscow where Napoleon in the early 1800's met his most serious setback.

HAS TO DIE SOME TIME

(Prescott Journal)

Some person has asked whether it's the law that a motorist must stop when approaching a railroad crossing. Our answer is: "What's the difference?" There is no law against jumping off the deep end when you can't swim, nor of carrying a bottle of nitroglycerine in your back pocket. A person has to die sometime anyway.

PASSING THE BUCK !

(Almonte Gazette)

It looks as though this system is going to play merry h—— with both the motorists and the men they deal with. It would have been far better if the oil controller had worked out some method of rationing the gas to the ultimate consumer. Affter all why should he pass the buck to the service station operator? He has troubles enough now.

IT'S ALWAYS THAT WAY

(Carleton Place Canadian)

What a diversity of opinion there seems to be about Premier King's going to London. The London Sphere wants to know why it was necessary for him to go at all, basing its question on a remark made by Mr. King himself. Then we pick up Monday's Ottawa Journal which says Mr. King is doing a good job in London. What is one to believe?

THEY KNOW BETTER !

(Stirling News-Argus)

If you ask some business men for an ad or a few locals they will tell you they do not believe in advertising—your paper is never read. But let one of them be caught hugging the hired girl or chasing a pair of shorts up street after dark or struggling with a gallon jug of goof wine, if the printing office is in the garret of a twenty-storey building he will climb to the top and ask the editor not to publish it in the paper where everybody will read it.

ILLNESS IS EXPENSIVE

(Hanover Post)

Sickness costs the Board of Education of one Canadian city alone $100,000 a year, while it costs the teachers affected another $50,000. Most of this sickness could have been prevented by more efficient diets, in the opinion of an eminent dietetic authority, who quotes figures obtained from the Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa to show that from 44 to 53 per cent. of the average Canadian's diet is made up of such foods as white flour, sugar, molasses and honey. These foods are practically devoid of minerals.

ITALIANS ASSIST BRITAIN

(Brockville Recorder & Times)

A spectacle recently witnessed in Argentina proves quite clearly that not all Italians by any means are in sympathy with Mussolini or the disastrous war into which he has plunged his country. It consisted of the presentation to the British government of a fleet of 15 mobile kitchens and three mobile canteens fully equipped to serve thousands of hot meals and hot drinks to British people.. And the $35,000 which made this gift possible was raised from 40,000 non-British railway workers in Argentina, most of them Italians or of Italian origin !

BEVERAGE ROOMS NOT REQUESTED

(Orillia Packet & Times)

The Globe and Mail, which has become an apologist for the Government liquor traffic, says that "The law of the Province, based on the expressed wish of the majority, permits the sale of beer in properly conducted beverage rooms." When, pray, was the wish for beverage rooms expressed by the majority? On the other hand, the Government has steadily refused to permit the people to express their opinion on the subject. If they were given the chance we have no doubt that the beverage rooms would be thrown out, neck and crop.

FARM LABOR PROBLEMS

(Sarnia Observer)

It is a busy time on Ontario farms, and one hears repeatedy of young men upon whom farm operation wholly or chiefly depends, being called up for training and home service. One young farmer reports being told at the office of the board for this district that there was no use making application for postponement; that the board was not considering such cases. On the other hand, Registrar W. A. Martin has announced a total of 600 deferments by that board, in the present call-up alone, three-quarters being farm workers and the remainder key men in other industries.

STRETCHING A GALLON

In the days of the model T, runs the story, a chap took the family out one Sunday. An acquaintance came across the fellow miles out in the country and the car was stalled. The friend got out and asked what might be the trouble and the answer was: "Funny the engine is all right, but I guess some wire has come out."

They both looked around for some time then the friend asked "Have you tried the gas?"

They looked and sure enough there wasn't a speck left.

"You have no gas," said the friend.

"Well, that's funny," replied the bewildered fellow, "I just put five gallons in last week."

OBITUARY

LATE ROLAND M. SHAVER

Mr. Roland M. Shaver, one of the district's oldest and best known residents, died at his home in Chesterville, on Tuesday of last week, in his 90th year. The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at 2.00 o'clock, being conducted by Rev. R. C. Tait, of Trinity United Church, and Rev. John Fleck, of London, Ont. A solo was sung by Hubert Lloyd.

The pall bearers were elders of the church—John Fleming, Wm. Taylor, C. T. McIntosh, Wm. Rae, Frank Hummel and Robt. Rainey.

Interment was made in Morewood Presbyterian cemetery.

Mr. Shaver was born in The Ninth settlement, a son of the late Capt. John A. Shaver and Maria Swerdfeger, of U. E. Loyalist stock. He was married on New Year's Day, 1872, to Elizabeth Smith, at the home of her parents, and continued to live in the district until 1919, when he and Mrs. Shaver retired and moved to Chesterville.

The late Mr. Shaver was a staunch member of the Presbyterian church, being an elder for over 40 years. He was a member of Morewood Presbyterian church until he moved to Chesterville and became associated with St. Andrew's church..

He was a member of the school board at The Ninth for many years and was a member of Cannamore L. O. L.

Mr .and Mrs. Shaver observed their 55th wedding anniversary in 1927 and the following year Mrs. Shaver died. Five sons are also dead: Rev. J. A. Shaver, Joseph C., Morris E., Bernice killed in action at Vimy Ridge, and Willis F. Surviving members of the family are three daughters, Mrs. George Brownell and Mrs. Jay Bailey, Chesterville, and Mrs. Geo. Wilson, Winchester; two sons, Stanley, of Ottawa, and Milton of Chesterville. One sister, Mrs. Wm. Scott, Ottawa, also survives, as well as 14 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchidren.

UNITED CHURCH W. A.

The W. A. held their regular monthly meeting in the S. S. hall Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. The summer holidays being over, the W. A. is now ready for the fall activities. The president opened the meeting with a chorus. The theme of the devotional part was "Our Faith in the Holy Scriptures." If we have faith in the holy scriptures we will have faith in our God, and will do our duty to our fellow-men.

Mrs. J. Nesbitt read the Scripture, taken from 2nd Tim. chapt. 3. Thoughts given were—God reveals himself through the records of the old and new Testament. To Israel He showed Himself a holy and righteous God, and in the New Testament a redeeming love through our Saviour. Herein lies the unity of God. There are various books in the world, but the book of books, the Bible, has stood the test down through the ages. Why? Because it is an inspired book, written by inspired men, who were inspired by God. This book should be read by all, for it is the most important book and, above all, should not be neglected.

The minutes were read and some left-over business was discussed.

The Parsonage Committee reported that four rooms were re-decorated and some other minor details looked after. A new cook stove was installed. A vote of thanks was tendered to the committee. The treasurer's report was read and adopted.

A thank-you letter from Mrs. W. S. Atchison was read by the President.

A very important part of the meeting was the planning for an Anniversary Supper in October. Watch for further announcements.

A dainty lunch was served by the committee in charge, who was given a hearty vote of thanks. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

THE POET'S CORNER

LET ME SO LIVE

Let me so live that I may take
Each blow that Fate may send
And out of it fresh sinews make
Strength to my arm to lend;

And if Success should smile on me,
Without one thought of pride,
May I still imperfection see
In all my hand has tried!

Success or Failure counting not,
But Courage in the fight;
To see each wrong, to mark each blot,
And strive to set it right!

To help some stumbling child of earth
Upon its Heavenward way,
And prove, as reason for my birth,
Divinity in clay!

And so to Death this challenge give:—
Think not, my friend, that I,
Who have not feared in aught to live,
Can fear in aught to die!

—Grace Pollard, Montreal.

TO BRITAIN

Arise, ye Nation harassed,
To even greater things,
There's glory in your courage—
There's victory in your wings;
'Tis freedom that you fight for,
This is no war of dreams,
Youre fighting for your ideals
Not any petty schemes;
They'll never break the spirit
That makes you ask for more—
That British folk are famed for
In all the ancient lore!
You're awe and inspiration
To all the good today—
You shall not lose this battle
For your Victory we pray!
There's valor all around you
In each castle and each street,
In every hill and valley,
From King down to the lowly
In Air Force, Army, Fleet—
You have the will to win
And in the end the righteous
Will triumph over sin!

Esther Kearns, Ottawa.

THIS IS FOR YOU

Dare you hope to be free from a merciless foe
At the cost of a neighbor's life?
Do you care not at all as to why he should go
To spare you the terrible strife?

It is nothing to you, as in comfort and ease
The news from the front lines you scan?
If you're not humbly thankful for safety and peace,
Then you're not worth the name of a man!

Do you think what you owe to your dear native land?
Why your life, home and fortune, all told;
And now, when she needs but a loan from your hand,
Do you dare that small favor withhold?

Oh, lend of your treasure, nay, give of your all
If need be, and help all you can,
For remember, the answer you make to the call
Will prove your real worth as a man!

USEFUL HINTS ON STORING VEGETABLES

All vegetables intended for storage during the winter should be grown to full maturity, otherwise they cannot be expected to keep well. For the storage of onions, a cool dry cellar, with the temperature not over 40 degrees at any time, is ideal, and when the onions are not piled to any great depth, shallow slatted crates or shelves will be found satisfactory. Particularly in districts where the growing season is short, onions may require some help to ripen. As soon as the tops of a few plants fall over, all the tops should be bent down. This checks the flow of sap and causes the bulbs to ripen. A few days later the plants should be pulled, and if the weather continues fine, the onions should be turned over occasionally until the tops are fairly well dried. They should then be cut off and the onions spread in the open or in slatted crates. When dry, they may be placed in storage for the winter.

With regard to squash and pumpkins, on no account should they be exposed to the least frost. As soon as the rind is firm enough to prevent piercing by the finger nail, the fruit may be taken from the plant. Pumpkins and squash should be stored in a dry place at a temperature of from 40 to 50 degrees. At all times they should be handled as carefully as eggs. The slightest bruise, even though not noticeable, is likely to cause decay in storage. When large quantities are to be stored, slatted shelves should be used so that the fruit may not be piled on top of one another.

For storing cabbage, all the outer leaves should first be removed and the heads handled carefully to prevent bruising. A dry day when there is no rain lodged in the heads should be chosen for storing in a dry cool place. If there is good circulation in the storeroom, the heads may be piled in several layers. Small quantities may be pulled without cutting off the heads and suspended from a joist in the cellar. The roots may be left on but all outer leaves should be removed.

WHY THE ARMY PREFERS BLONDES

An article in The American Weekly with the September 7 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, discloses that the Navy and Weather Bureau need blondes, too, but only when 46,700 feet in the air and, at that, only six strands of their hair are used to talk back from the weather forecasting instruments. Be sure to get The Detroit Sunday Times this week and every week.

Preston—Anderson..

Tall palms with a banking of late summer flowers and ferns provided a beautiful setting in St. Paul's United Church, Kenmore, on Saturday at 2.30 E.S.T. when Miss Jean Anderson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Anderson, was married to Borden Preston son of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. Preston, of Ramsayville. Lieut. (Rev.) A. M. Wootton, of Plainfield, Ont., officiated and Miss Evelyn Simpson, of Morrisburg, presided at the organ. During the signing of the register, Mrs. A. M. Wootton sang, "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Rae Preston, of Ottawa, and Mr. Harold Colbert, of Ottawa, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Gordon Coe, of Ottawa, nephew of the bridegroom, and Mr. Willis Anders, brother of the bride.

The bride was wearing a model gown in coral rose chiffon over taffeta. The fitted bodice was designed with lace yoke and bracelet length sleeves and was held at the waistline by a wide shirred belt. The skirt fell in soft folds to the floor, forming a slight train, and she wore a wide picture hat of mohair in coral rose. She carried a shower bouquet of daytime roses and snapdragons. The only ornament worn was a platinum wrist watch, gift of the bridegroom, who was wearing a pearl tie-pin which his father had worn as the gift of his bride, on their wedding day many years ago.

The bridesmaid was attractive in an Olivia de Havilland model of Romance blue net over whispering taffeta. The fitted bodice had sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves and the full floor-length skirt had lover's knot draping of velvet ribbon. She wore a picture hat of blue mohair with touches of velvet ribbon, and carried a Colonial nosegay of roses and snapdragons in yellow and white tints.

The bride's mother was wearing a hand-blocked silk dress with navy sheer redingote, navy hat and accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses was worn.

Following the ceremony, a reception for immediate friends was held at the home of the bride's parents, and later Mr. and Mrs. Preston left by motor for Toronto, Niagara and other Western points. For travelling, the bride was wearing a smart grey-tailored suit with wine hat and accessorie s and silver fox scarf. On their return they will take up residence in Ottawa. Guests from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. W. Simpson, Miss Evelyn Simpson, Morrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. C. Sheldon, Miss Harriet Anderson, Miss G. Coe, of Ottawa.

Bombing and Gunnery Are Specialized Occupations

This is the tenth and last of the series of stories about the training of Pilots and Observers in the R. C. A. F., under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, written for the weekly newspapers of Ontario and distributed through the C. W. N. A.

BY HUGH TEMPLIN

Until I visited the Jarvis Bombing and Gunnery school, I had supposed that the Initial Training school at Eglinton was the most interesting place the Royal Canadian Air Force had to show its visitors. At Eglinton, the doctors, now disguised as Flying Officers, carry on scientific eperiments in low pressure chambers, attach electric wires to the skull to test the brain waves and send men and materials into chambers where cold winds blow at 40 below zero.

Theres nothing like that at Jarvis Science and mathematics and invention have combined to produce the wonders that are kept locked up in special buildings at the Bombing and Gunnery School, but they have to do with the arts of war and destruction, rather than medicine and healing.

After a convention in Hamilton in May, a group of editors and their ladies spent an afternoon at a wings parade at Jarvis school, and then saw the buildings and learned something of the training methods. They marvelled at the beautifully furnished recreation rooms. They had fleeting glances of bomb sights in the noses of Fairey Battle bombing planes or noticed the loads of small practice bombs attached to the wings They saw the drogue planes come in and drop the drogues or targets, riddled with machine gun bullets and they felt grateful for an insight into the training of the student observers in the R. C. A. F. and findred Air Forces of the Empire.

Really, what they saw was only a fraction of what the student sees.

I was at Jarvis School with the other editors in May I returned in August and was admitted to the various buildings, where the doors are kept locked and few are priveleged to enter. I was allowed to use the power driven machine gun turrets of actual fighting planes; I was initiated into the mysteries of the bomb sight, as far as was possible in an hour or so; I was offered a flight with one of the machine gunners out over the waters of nearby Lake Erie and I saw the inside workings of the "Bombing Teacher," a machine that literally amazed me.

Difficult Cours of Studies

Group Captain G. E. Wait is the Commanding Officer of the Jarvis Bombing and Gunnery School. After a cordial welcome, he turned me over to Flying Officer G. T. Johnson, with instructions that I was to be shown everything and allowed to try out the various machines used in training. And Flying Officer Johnson literally carried out those instructions. If I didn't learn everything about bombing and the use of machine guns, it was because one can't do that in an afternoon.

First, we wentover the details of the course of study together. It was like the curiculum of a university course in engineering, with its various formulae and its applied mathematics. I wondered that students could pick it up unless they had been particularly good in mathematics in their high school days, but the Flying Officer said that few failed. Those who did not understand the theories, could memorize the formuae.

Studies included the theory of bombing; trajectory angles, use of the Vector attachment for bombsights when aiming at moving targets; setting bombsights; low and high level bombing; wind drift and problems arising from it; fuses and carriers; use of flares; theory o sighting machine guns; tracer bullets; cannon guns; gunnery tactics; types of turrets, and aircraft recognition.

That doesn't mean much to most of fus, but it sounds like a heavy course of fstudy to be mastered in six weeks.

Camera Guns Save Ammunition

First practice with actual machine guns is on the 25 yard range. Vickers guns are used there, though they are now outdated and Brownings are used or more advanced work. The machine gunners stand inside a long building, open at the front, and shoot at targets with bursts of fire, eight to fifteen bullets at a time.

Inside another building, in separate rooms, are power-operated machine gun turrets which gave the British gunners an advantage early in the war. They were completely equipped but the actual guns had been removed and replaced by dummy guns which shot a ray of light at a tiny German plane which moved against a painted sky. A student was banging away at it, and every time he scored a hit, a bell rang. Amusement parks have similar devices, without the turret, which is the important part. Theyoung man at the camera gun was doing fairly well, scoring hits with about half his shot Dials on a nearby desk indicated exactly what he was doing.

He finished and I climbed up into the turret. A table lowered over my knees and a lever at my side brought up a seat and wedged me in like a sardine in a can. Apparently I was a bi' oversize to make a good gunner. Five or six switches set the machinery in motion and I looked through a small reflecting sight, already described in an earlier story. With my left hand, I worked a stick similar to those that control small planes. A touch of my thumb on a button on top of the lever started the machine gun. But the mechanism was too fast for me. I got in a few shots, but I scored not a hit.

Another turret was of somewhat different pattern. handle bars, like those on a bicycle controlled the motion—a turn to right or left made the turret turn, and by lifting up or pressing down, the machine gun was moved.

Actual practice with machine guns is carried out over Lake Erie. The planes used are Fairey Battles, used earlier in the war as medium bombers. Some are 'drogue' planes, painted with yellow and black stripes as a warning to other planes that they are trailing behind them a long steel wire. At the end of the wire dangles a drogue or cloth target, cylindrical in shape and about eight feet long.

The machine gunners go up two at a time in another plane of similar make. An experienced pilot sits up in front, the two gunners side by side, back near the tail, where it is rather bumpy. The planes follow a definite schedule, meeting the drogue out over the lake and firing in a certain area. Bullets in the machine guns are dipped in paint. Those fired by one gunner leave red holes the other blue. That cuts the flights in half and requires less targets. The drogue plane circles back over the field and drops its drogue, releasing another at the end of the wire to take its place. Flights of the planes with the gunners take only about ten minutes.

Bombs and Bombsights

Bombs and bombing have become important in this war. Much might be written about them. The bombs are of several types, depending on the purpose for which they are intended. They tend to increase in size, weight and destructiveness. Some explode on contact; others go through the roof and explode inside a building or a ship. There are bombs that pierce armour befoer exploding. The bombs can be adjusted for various purposes, having different types of detonators in nose and tail. Bombs ae carried on racks, underneath the wings, inside the fuselage, or in other places, depending on the type of the bombing plane. They are released electrically by pulling a little lever.

Much has been heard about bomb sights in recent months. The bombsight is an elaborate instrument used to ensure that the bomb will land on or near the target. In the early days of the Great War, bombs were simply dropped over the edge by the pilot. Planes moved slowly and fairly low. Even at that, many of these first bombs probably landed a mile from the place where they were intended to strike.

A modern bombsight is a most complicated instrument. There are some ten adjustments. Not only the height of the plane above the ground the speed at which it is travelling, the direction and velocity of the wind, affects the fall of the bomb, but even the temperature.

The bombsight is covered with knobs and dials and scales. When all these have been adjusted, the Observer watches the landscape through an eye piece. He sees it apparently moving down between two pairs of wires with colored beads at intervals along them. At last, the railway station, factory, or whatever the target may be, appears between two tiny pointers. The observer pulls a lever, and the bomb starts on its way. It may be 20 seconds before it hits and another ten before it explodes.

The "Bombing Teacher".

Students learn to operate the bombsight with the aid of a "teacher". This is one of the most interesting and ingenious machines I ever saw. It is contained in a specially-built three-storey building and kept locked. I watched Flying Officer Johnson adjust the bombsight, after drawing lines across the face of its compass and making calculations. Then I lay on my stomach and looked through the sights. We were in the gallery of the building. Upstairs, intricate projectors, designed by a British inventor, adjusted for altitude, wind speed and so on, ground away. Down below me, the landscape of enemy country moved past. I could see its farms, the towns and cities, the line of the coast. I chose a factory in the distance, and watched it come down between the wires and as it reached the pointer, pulled the trigger. For some twenty seconds, the time that it took for the bomb to drop, the scenery moved past. Then it stopped and a white light showed where the bomb had landed.

Actual bombing is done over Lake Erie. Small practice bombs, attached under the wings of a Fairey Battle, are aimed at a red raft from heights well over a mile. A puff of smoke goes up as the bomb hits the water. Observers on shore watch the puffs of smoke, use some simple trigonometry, and plot the places where the bombs drop. The student marks where he thought they went. The best target hangs in the conference room. Over it is a sign: "Beat this and yours will hang here instead."

Also, no doubt, the owner of the target will head his class at the next wings parade.

THE END

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Marked Wall Paper.

To remove lead-pencil, crayon, and other such marks from wall paper, use an art eraser.

Packing China.

If the excelsior is moistened a little when packing china or glass, it will swell as it dries and cause the articles to be wedged firmly..

Ink Stains.

Ink stains can be removed from linen, silks, and cottons by soaking the stained part in canned tomato juice for about ten minutes, and then washing as usual.

Brushes and Combs.

To remove grease and dirt from hair brushes and combs, wash them in a quart of water to which a teaspoon of ammonia has been added. Rinse nd dry in the sun.

Prevent Corrosion.

The metal tops of salt shakers can be prevented from corroding by treating the inside of the cover with melted paraffin. Open the holes before the paraffin has set.

Peach Stains.

To remove stubborn peach stains from linens, spinkle with lemon juice and salt and place for two days in the hot sun. Then rinse out in cold water and wash with warm water and soap suds.

Paint Spots.

Paint spots can be removed from clothing by using equal parts of ammonia and turpentine. Saturate the spots three or four times, and then wash in soap suds. Rinse in clear water, dry, and press.

Prevent Cracking

It is well never to put glass into hot water bottom-first, as it is liable to crack due to sudden expansion. Slip the glassware into the water edgewise, and even the most delicate type will be safe from cracking.

Space and Comfort.

Some people feel that every available space in a room must have a piece of furniture placed in it. A room is much more comfortable if one has space to move around without having to be on the lookout for obstacles.

Mildew In Clothes.

Mildew can be removed from clothes by applying lemon juice and salt to the spots and placing the garment in the sun to bleach. If this fails, try a solution of oxalic acid, being sure to rinse the material well after the treatment.

Old Handkerchiefs.

If your handkerchiefs have become very flimsy and consequently looked soiled before they really are, dip them into starch after washing and then put them through the rinse water again. This will add body to them and make them look like new.

Sticking Windows.

To remedy sticking windows, melt some paraffin and apply to the window frames with a small brush, doing this at a time when the weather is dry. The paraffin acts as a lubricant and also prevents moisture from entering the fibres, of the wood in the future, causing the window to swell and stick.

Chafed Skin.

Chafed skin, caused by perspiration during the warm weather, can be relieved by the use of fuller's earth. Wash the chafed portions and dry just a little. Dust the fuller's earth on the dampened surface and rub in carefully. Follow this procedure before retiring and there will be no trace of irritation the next morning.

A Palatable Poemeal

By Frances Lee Barton

THERE is joy in the family when grandmother bakes
Delectable morsels — pies, pudding or cakes.
Her plump crusty biscuits — with sugar between
Are fit for a President's wife or a Queen.

Crusty Sugar Biscuits

2 cups sifted cake flour; 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder; ½ teaspoon salt; 2 teaspoons sugar; 6 tablespoons butter or other shortening; ½ cup milk; 5 tablespoons butter; ⅔ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Cut in shortening. Add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out on slightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll ¼ inch thick and cut with floured, 1½ inch biscuit cutter. Place ½ inch apart on ungreased baking sheet and bake in hot oven (425° F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Cream butter and brown sugar together. Split hot biscuits and spread sugar mixture between halves, using 1 teaspoon to a biscuit, or spread ½ teaspoon between halves and ½ teaspoon on top. Return to oven and heat 2 minutes. Serve hot. Makes about 3 dozen biscuits.

SOME RULES FOR WINNING THE WAR

(Financial Post)

You mustn't pay a bakery to slice bread for you.

You mustn't walk to a service station to buy gasoline.

You can't give more than 10 per cent. the Government money. (If you do, you're taxed.)
of your income to war services that save

You can be made to pay "back-pay" to a man who was never on your payroll.

You can go to the states and live at the swankiest hotel, but you mustn't take your wife even to live in a tourist cabin on less money.

You can sell life insurance without paying excess profits tax, but not fire insurance.

You can sell orange juice in a tin but not in a bottle. (If you do you are taxed 25 per cent.)

You can't deliver a bottle of milk, excep on the regular delivery, but you can use a ten-ton truck to deliver a nail-file.

All these rules, apparently, have something to do with winning the war.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES

After the wedding day itself wedding anniversaries are the most interesting events to the bride, and many anniversary days have a special significance and a special name and demand special gifts. Following are the customary observances set to rhyme:

Roses white and roses red
For the bride just one year wed;
Five years wed—'tis understood—
Pretty presents all of wood.
Ten, with jollity and din,
Come the treasures made of tin.
Twelve means linen soft and sheer,
Fifteen crystal, bright and clear.
Twenty, dishes patterned gay,
For the China wedding day.
Twenty-five comes clear and shining
All its clouds have silver lining.
Thirty is the year of pearls,
For the loveliest of girls.
Forty is of amber, mellow,
Fifty is of gold so yellow,
Sixty years togethter spent—
Tenderness and sweet content.
Sixtieth anniversary,
Comes the diamond jubilee.
